Beat of the Drum

Junior Marcus Perez, a pipe drummer in the Grenadier Band, is happy to contribute to the beat of Liberty whether practicing in the morning at school or playing at games among his fellow Grenadiers. He said, "It's really fun doing pep rallies and games. I enjoy bringing the teams out and getting them pumped up."

The Beat within.... can you hear it?

Can you hear it? It is getting louder. The beat of students surging through a gutted school is a force with which to be reckoned. Amidst the bulldozing, hammering, and drilling, constant incognizant jargon of students can be heard in the hallways. The sound of our diversity is unmistakable. As months and years go by, the beat of our voice is strengthened, creating the unforgettable high school experience. The first time the freshmen are prompted with "Gimme an L!" at their first pep rally, their initiation into the fiercely loyal Liberty community begins. Pep rallies and cheering sections emit distinctive sounds of spirit, pride, and love for our school. Who doesn't get goose bumps every time the infamous bagpipes play? The sounds of Liberty are what we wait for, what move us, what make us beat. The first sound of the coach's whistle freshmen year may bring anxiety and trepidation; however, by senior year that same whistle for the last time will evoke a somber, reflective feeling: a feeling of having proved yourself as you found the beat within. Our heartbeat can always be heard through each student, whose individual beat empower the whole. Whether competing for the bell or waiting impatiently for the dismissal bell, whether craning your ear to hear the morning announcements or covering your ears to keep out the construction crane, each student contributes to the beat. Over four years, we make discoveries about the beat within ourselves. Whether through sports, newfound academic passions, involvement in clubs, friends, or mentors, we keep the beat going, and we give it a voice. The sound of our beat is one that will not soon fade. Can you hear it? It is getting louder.

Get Psyched

"We went to every single game, but this was a really big one," explained senior, Christopher "Goose" Grullon, "we were psyched, and we all came out to support our team." Christopher is just one of hundreds of students, alumni, and family members who came out to every football game to support the team, and show their loyalty to our school.

The eat within.... can you See it?

Can you see it? Each morning when the bell rings at 7:45 an array of students gather in the classrooms. With over 15 different nationalities living within the student body, the diversity is easy to see. As the day progresses, students are forced to trudge through the muddy and dust-filled halls, yet smiling faces are bountiful. Each day, students put aside their cultural differences, endure a somewhat unseemly enviornment, and work together, creating strong bonds, and lasting friendships; truly defining what makes a Liberty High School student. Can you see it? At the weekly gatherings for Friday night football games, seniors assemble in the faculty parking lot and splatter blue and red paint on their shivering bodies. Entering the stadium, the stands are filled to capacity. Past, present, and future students attend, sporting their red and blue gear. At the state championship football game, the multitude of fans jump in unison, and vibrant red shakers rapidly quake above their heads forming a red blanket, representing the unity that beats within the heart of our school. Look closer. Can you see the excitement on the faces of students, and the pride in the eyes of the loyal alumni? Can you see it?

At the annual Bethlehem Halloween Parade, the tall bearskin hats worn by the Grenadier band, act as a emblem of this great school, and can be spotted from a mile in the distance. When they get closer, and the bagpipers begin to play, you can see tears stream down the onlookers faces. Anyone can assume that they are former students, but it takes a Liberty student to truly know that Liberty is their alma mater. For we too will someday be watching those bagpipers play with tears in our eyes. We understand that once you're a Liberty student, you're always a Liberty student. It is that undying bond and sense of belonging that keeps the beat within each of us alive.

Pumped Up

Before the football team rushes onto the field in a wave of excitement, Junior, Wide Receiver Joseph Orlando huddles together with fellow teammates to get pumped up. "I get chills before every game because the stadium is always packed with people who have come out just to see us play," Orlando commented.

The beat within.... can you Feel it?

Whether you are a first time student frantically searching the campus for your classes separated by fences and mud, or a senior who has become so accustomed to the noise and distractions of construction that you do not even notice the bulldozer driving by your math class, it is apparent that our school is undergoing major renovations. As you enter the battered and unsightly halls on the first day of school, you cannot see the excitement and school spirit, but you can feel it. The feeling inside you only grows stronger as the week progresses and the first pep rally commences. The enthusiasm seems to surface from the gym walls as Dr. Donaher leads the entire student body and faculty in the Liberty chant. Can you feel it? It is getting stronger with each letter that is yelled by every mouth in the gym. At 2:21 on that first Friday of school, a bond has already been formed within the walls. However, that feeling of being united does not end there because the first football game of the season is about to kick off. The cheering section is a hurricane that is thundering with cheers and spirit for their team. Can you feel it? It is intensifying with each touch down that leads the team closer to victory. This blaze of spirit and unity will last forever because our school is a place where students and faculty come together. The walls that contain us all day are not what define our relationships, but instead it is us—the athlete, the club member, or maybe just a faithful student. Can you feel the beat within yourself that helps define Liberty? The feeling of being connected only intensifies each year you are here. By the time you are graduating you will find yourself longing to be that eager freshmen who has yet to feel and be a part of the beat within.

The Rhythm
Student Life

At some point amidst dating and track meets, after-school jobs and DECA manuals, we discover who we are. When the time passes by and you look upon your high school years, what will you remember? Meeting your best friend in German Club or passing that notorious History test? Learning to Salsa on Teen Summit's Diversity Day or y=mx+b?

Although academics encompass a very important part of our four years, the almost seven hours spent in school are only a small fraction of the thousands of memories made. The obstacles and triumphs beyond classroom walls are what we will reminisce upon in years to come.

Making your mark upon a school with nearly 3000 students can seem daunting when entering as a freshmen. Our diverse and dynamic student body has risen to the challenge in myriads of unique ways. For it is our day-to-day activities, choices, and experiences that help us discover ourselves and the paths in life we choose to follow.

*Not only is the Commons building being redone, but so is the Klein Classroom Center. The Library is going to get a face-lift architectually while the rest of the rooms are having electrical wiring done. ## We're almost done! Deadline December '08!

Copy & Layout: Marco Allen and Logan Carrigan

It has been two years since construction has begun and already great progress has been made. To add to junior's high hopes for their senior year next year, all construction is said to be done by December of 2008.

Hallways in the commons building have transformed from dusty messes of wires and sheetrock to nearly ready student gateways to learning. Along with new walls and lockers in the commons building, new windows which don't decieve the eye and truly open have replaced the old windows that only let light in.

Other updates around the school include an asphalt parking lot for teachers and a boiler building both of which are located near the lab center.

Excavation has started for the Natatorium or the student activity center. The Natatorium will hold a pool, cafeteria, and an auxiliary gym among the many other rooms. It will be a stunning building with hopes for a large, open feeling. Most areas of the Natatorium will look into the others through large windows, like the cafeteria which looks into the pool. Mr. Hanna the Project Manager says, "everything is running on schedule and students have been fantastic about the construction." Everyone in the Liberty community has high hopes for the new buildings and the new learning which will take place inside, including the beloved assitant principals, secratries, teachers, students and even construction workers. "The project has been underway for almost three years now and we are finally starting to see the light at the end of the tunnel. Hopefully this will be my last move since I already moved six times in the 11 years that I have been here," commented Lisa Gilliard, faculty member and yearbook adviser.

Freshman Campus

Copy & Layout: Natasha Morales and Jenna Groenewold

Freshman Campus starts off its second year with an excited new class ready to become part of the Liberty community, but many freshman do not feel accepted. "I feel like we are not part of the Liberty community, it would be so much better if we were actually at main campus with the rest of the school" said freshman Danielle Narlesky. Not only is freshman campus a different experience for the incoming freshman but also for the sophomore class who started their first year at the "big school" and have been dealing with being called freshmen again.

Sophomore Freedom Negron said, " I still feel like I am a freshman because we started out at a completely new school all over again."

Another big change in the Liberty community is that a new whole administrative team, as well as many counselors, teachers, and secretaries stayed at freshman campus. "I love all Freshmen and being here at freshman campus makes me excited for all the graduations that are coming up in a couple of years," said freshman administrator Mr. Zulli.

With only about two years left of construction, soon all freshmen will be reunited with the rest of the school, but some people believe that Freshman Campus is a great idea "I love Freshman Campus I thinks it's really good that all us freshman get to know each other before having to go to the big people school" said freshman Katie Laughery.

Class Clash

What High School is all about

Like many other schools, the first few months of the school year at Liberty High School are always the most eventful. Between the football games, spirit week, homecoming, and the pep rallies, there is never a dull moment. The amount of school spirit just can't be beat.

Pep rallies are intended to introduce the members of the sport teams to the school, to have students participate in games, and to give the school a chance to share their school spirit with one another. There is also an underlying idea to pep rallies that all of the students are aware of: to prove your class is the best. Making signs and t-shirts are two techniques that students use to try to improve their classes' status.

This year things were done differently. Due to the construction around the school, the homecoming pep rally had to be held outside in the stadium, rather than inside the memorial gym. When asked which location they preferred, the majority of the students responded by saying they liked indoor pep rallies better, when the whole school is together in one place. Senior Whitney Derrico explains, "I prefer pep rallies to be inside, everyone is closer together and it makes it more intimate. It also makes it harder for class bashing when your outside in the stadium." Mark Moyer, a junior, disagrees with Whitney's opinion. He believes, "the stadium is a much better place to have pep rallies, you have a lot more room to spread out, and it's more comfortable."

Students also have been requesting to see more games in the pep rallies. "The games are the best part of the pep rallies," said junior Divya Chalikonda. Sophomore Jake Mies agreed and also said, "I would like to see more variety of students participate in the games. I always see the same students, and it gets boring after a while. Maybe the winners of the games would be different if the people who participated were also different."

Homecoming '07

A Changing Perspective

Copy & Layout: Maria Genitis and Gabrielle Narlesky

For the first time in about 15 years, the homecoming dance was not held in the school's Old Gym. Due to renovations in the school, this years homecoming was held at the Freshman Campus Gym. Many had their doubts that it would not be successful, but in the end it turned out to be a good alternative. "It wasn't that bad having homecoming at Freshman Campus, but I still think the old gym dances are the best," junior Jade Eggleston stated. Many seniors were disappointed, at the site of their dance , "I just wish that my last homecoming could have been held at my actual school," said frustrated senior, Andrew McFadden.

The crowd roared as the big red Grenadier Band finished off its' last notes of the star spangled banner all the way to the crowning of this year's king and queen, Andrew Barr and Trisha Ortiz. "I was so surprised and honored being chosen as queen!" Trisha exclaimed. The crowd didn't quiet there because the football team went on to a 62-8 victory over Dieruff High School.

For the next few years, the homecoming dances will be held at the Freshman campus. Everyone anticipates the completion of renovations at the end of 2008 so that homecoming can be once again held at Liberty High School.

Spirit Week Brings Something for Everyone

Copy & Layout: Krystin Arrabito

We saw countless hippies, supermen, and cowboys roaming the halls, but there were also people who decided to take a different route during spirit week who stepped up their game and thought outside of the box. During spirit week, that was what we lived for. We thrived on the laughter created from the extremes of ensembles that emerged amidst the five days. Someone might ask, "well what's the point?" The purpose is this—to gain memories that will last a lifetime, and with our action packed spirit week, you can't go wrong.

It is impossible not to come up with some mental image when thinking of spirit week. Maybe you remember going to Walmart numerous times to buy your costumes, or maybe you remember just wanting a little more sleep on Friday because you attended the senior sleep out. Senior Kristy Conti will never forget the juniors' spelling error in their "Drama 'Mofia'" pep rally sign. Junior Dawn Bond will always remeber she and her friends making their matching costumes for super-hero day. Whatever the memory, it is a reflection of the impact due to the intensity of one crazy week.

The Beat of Our Town

The Spirit of Liberty Theatre Keeps on Beating!

Layout & Copy: Earl Kunsman

With hearts rendering and nerves racing at miles per minute, the cast of Liberty Theatre's fall play couldn't wait another minute for opening night. It wasn't until after months of stressful, yet fulfilling practices, cast bondings, and buckets of sweat and tears that the cast of Our Town delivered yet another astonishing production.

Although still at the Freshman Campus' auditorium, the cast pulled everything together and kept the audience wanting more and more. "After working on Main Campus' stage, it was challenging to perform at the Freshmen Campus because of space constraints, but the cast members were able to work together to overcome the obstacles and pull off a spectacular show," said junior Gabrielle Tallarico.

The most challenging obstacle for the Our Town cast was learning to use pantomime, in which the cast had no props and had to use their bodies to create the illusion of physical props to the audience. With direction from director Judy Danilovicz and support from theatre leaders Andrew Barr and Hannah Stenger, the cast was able to use pantomime to their upmost advantage, in which bringing yet another outstanding fall play by Liberty Theatre.

West Side Tells Their Story

Liberty Students Never Fail to Please the Crowd

Layout & Copy: Angela Urbano

"Spirit of life! Spirit of family! West Side Story!" These words echoed off the walls backstage as cast and crew alike gathered for a ritual huddle before each show. Though controversial, West Side Story portrays an authentic representation of what students see on a daily basis.

Senior, Katherine Roehrenbeck, who has performed in six Liberty Theatre productions, was cast as a shark girl from the Latino population. "We were all able to adapt to our roles as either a shark or a jet because of our surroundings and experiences at Liberty," said Katherine, "it was easy for me to pick up mannerisms because I see them everyday at school."

Junior Earl Kunsman got into character by talking with family and friends."I talked to my godmother, who is Latina, to get a handle on the ethnic background which helped me develop my character, Nibbles."

The cast became a "family of one" and proved they had what it took to overcome doubts from the community. The production was a huge success with five Freddy nominations and copious praise from the student body.

Freddy Nominations

Best Choreography
Best Pit Orchestra
Best Lighting
Best Lead Actress - Ariel Justice
Best Supporting Actress - Kathy LaTorre

"I've never done theater before, but when I heard Liberty was doing West Side Story I wanted to give it a try. The movie has been a family favorite, so I thought I had nothing to lose. I am so grateful Mrs. Danilovicz gave me a chance in the spotlight!" - Kathy LaTorre, '07

Split Second

Junior Veronica DeAngelo has been dancing for twelve years and was a dancer in the spring musical. "It was a lot of fun; a lot of dancing which I like because I love to dance," said Veronica.

Q: "What was your favorite song to sing from West Side Story?"

A: "'Krupke' because the choreography for it was really fun and we were given a lot of freedom to just have fun in general with the song." – Colin Campbell '08

Theatre Leader:

Andrew Barr

"During my sophomore year I nervously decided to audition for 'Sound of Music.' Now, three years later, I stand here a transformed person and that is all because of the love, laughs, and memories we all share through this truely magical organization.

I was honored to be the Theatre Leader. We had such an awesome time with amazing people and we managed to put on two phenomenal shows! Liberty Theatre has changed my life forever, and my goal this year was to try to change others' lives for the better. I wanted to give back to the people who have given me so much, and have a blast in the process. Peace and love to every living thing and West Side for life!"

When You're a Jet, You're a Jet all the Way

*Senior George Haddad, who played Riff, sings "The Jet Song" at the opening of the musical. "Playing a big part in the play was not that important to me. # Giving Back to Bethlehem

Illick's Mill Project Saves a Piece of Bethlehem's Past

Copy & Layout: Kelly Ann Martin

When second period ends some students are headed to history or to english class but the students of the Illick's Mill are learning more than just facts and writing techniques. The Illick's Mill students learn how to give back to the community and how to manage a major project.

These students are working to restore the Illick's Mill and turn it into the first youth run envirmental center in the Lehigh Valley. The class is broken up into four different teams: Community Relations, Design and Technology, Corporate Development, and Membership. There is also an Environmental team that continually checks the quality of Monocacy's water and preserves the natural life around the Mill. All the teams work together to advertise and raise money for the mill.

To gain support from the community and raise funds for the mill, the Illick's Mill project holds two major events a gala and Riverfusion. Riverfusion is the main event when local and big-name bands come to perform. The headliner band this year was New Found Glory. Other bands that performed were Settle, Sandlot Heroes, Falling over Failure, Aderbat, G-Child, and Moneen. "There was a good turnout especially for New Found Glory and everybody enjoyed all the local bands inside the mill. Riverfusion was a good way to end the year for the Seniors," commented Senior Jocelyn Matyus. The students of Illick's Mill accomplished so much this year and they hope to be just as successful next year.

The Before & After

What goes into looking your best, and enjoying your prom!

Confusion arises when students are to decide what to do before and after prom. The jampacked hours before the big night usually consist of girls prepping themselves to outshine each other, photographs being taken, and trips to breath taking restuarants with dates. Many students although arrange their night around a group.

"All my friends and I decided to take pictures at my one friend's house. It made the night a little more exciting to be around everyone rather than just you and your date," stated junior Mary Lawrence. Some students believe that the more the people, the better the experience.

When the memorable night is over, students may either go their seperate ways or attend Liberty's Post Prom. Post Prom is an alternative for students to go, where they are guarenteed a safe and fun enviroment. For the second year in a row students have come for only ten dollars to enjoy a night of karoke, lazer tag, casino card games, inflatables, and the most popular, the hypnotist.

"The hypnotist was my favorite part of the night. It was really funny to see people doing stuff out of the ordinary. I was glad that I chose to go to Post Prom I figured I could hang out with my friends all night instead of going to someone's house, and having to drive home," commented junior Emily Priestas.

From spending the night with your friends getting ready, taking pictures, eating dinner, all the way through the dance, until 5 in the morning at post prom, prom is a night each student will always remember with their friends surrounding them the entire night.

Fairy Tale Ending

Once Upon A Prom Night

Copy & Layout: Laura Brunner

Once upon a time...

There was a young couple who had a desire, to get all dressed up in a formal attire. He in a tux and she in a gown, they wanted a special night out on the town. There had to be time for fittings and to shop, all in an effort to make eyes pop. The details had to be just right, this couple wanted to be a magnificant sight. So flowers were ordered and the dinner was planned, and the couple came forward hand in hand. Cameras were snapping and smiles were seen, as they headed off in a stretch limousine. And finally the arrival at the "Red Carpet Affair", for a night full of dancing done with flair. As the clock struck ten the final song played, they hugged goodbye to all the friends they had made. Together they walked out of the place, where memories were made and dreams were embraced. They will always reme,ber their special night, they glidded out into the starlight. Seniors will be missed and tears will fall, it was their last time at the LHS ball.

The End.

Defining Our Legacy

Fantastic Farm Animals and Silver Cords

Copy & Layout: Megan Halkins and Shannon White

"For four years, we the class of 2007 have written our own story; a collective history of 620 students who have shared in 720 days of experiences at Liberty High School," senior class secretary Angela Urbano read as graduation began. This line also describes how each year the graduating class comes together to define their graduation. From speeches to blow up toys each class wants their graduation to stand out amongst the rest.

This year we the Class of 2007 did just that, with blow up toys not only including beachballs but also with fantastic farm animals. While we continued our legacy of having essentially innocent fun, we also continued to shine brightly with 30 lamps of knowledge, the largest number of silver coards so far at Liberty, and one of the largest classes to graduate. With a class as big and as great as this, only the best speeches were read.

With lines suchs as "I have learned phrases like boriqua," stated London Yuki Nagai and "Believe it or not, I was once an idiot," commented Ethan Stevnson, our speeches were joined with laughter. However laughter was not the only thing which brought us together, these speeches were also accompanied by tears which for many students was the realization that these closing words were signifying that our time in high school has come to an end.

Graduation is not only a celebration of the class but also a commencement. For this was the last time our class will be as a whole body. The unmistakable beat that makes us a united whole will never fade, it will only grow stronger and louder, as we prepare to face the world with one of our greatest accomplishments, a Liberty High School Diploma.

Most students spend their summers at the beach, out in the sun, or hanging out with friends. This summer a handful of Liberty students expanded their horizons to new experiences that they will never forget. They spent most of their summer in various foreign countries helping the people there in numerous ways. Junior Katie Podlasinski was in Zambia for five and a half weeks helping AIDS orphans with a church group.

"I plan to go back to Africa in a few years." Senior John Schaffer stated who went to Ethiopia with his church youth group and raised money so they could build a well.

Ms. Moore, the Junior class assistant principal, spent five days in Beluxi, Mississippi helping rebuild homes that had been destroyed by Hurricane Katrina. "I went down with the Lutheren Disaster Response Team and helped with roofing, trim work, and painting."

Senior Gillian Weiner spent a year in Spain. "School was really different. The Junior class was only 30 students. It made me appreciate Liberty."

Each of these students agreed that if they had another chance to do so, they would go back to relive the experience.

Rules of the Road

Becoming a master of the motor vehicle

Copy & Layout: Katie Barkouskie and Kelly ann Martin

Upon the arrival of his or her sixteenth birthday, students are full of nervous jitters and excitement because they are applicable for a driving permit and are one step closer to adulthood. Driving is a privilege that every student anxiously awaits to receive. Having a license, and a car, allows students to have his or her own space and they are able to do things without depending on family and friends.

"I started studying three months before my sixteenth birthday. I go through the driver's manual, highlighting and taking notes on the information I need to remember." Sophomore Raylee Robison explained. "I am very excited to get my license because I will be able to go just about every where I want and when I want".

Students that are fortunate to pass the driving exam and have their own car especially enjoy the extra space. Students may add personalized license plates, steering wheel covers, body kits, or rims to their car to make this domain their own.

"I drive a white Honda Prelude, and have invested about five thousand dollars on improvements. I have added a body kit, stereo system, and white racing rims to it. I only drive it in the summer because I don't want to mess it up in our harsh winter." told Senior Matthew Rice.

Whether or not one is driving a pimped out Prelude, or a crashed Corsica it is undeniable that driving is one of the best freedoms to receive in high school. Having a license and a car allows students to drive where they need to go, and it allows them to have a little extra space to make into their own.

"The morning I went for my drivers license was a little stressful. I lost my new insurance card and had to find the old one. Then my car broke down at a stop sign right before the testing site. Luckily my grandmother came with her car so that I could drive that. After all of that commotion; I made it to the test on time, used a working car, and got my license" told Junior Kyle Fistner.

" I was in the middle of a turn when my foot slipped off of the brake and I kept going into someone's front porch. I didn't make it completely through the house the impact stopped my car. My second accident happened after an ice storm. I was driving and my car skidded on ice and drifted into the other lane and a truck hit my car", explained Junior Jason Ricles.

"I've had such bad luck with cars. My first car got a huge scratch on the side, just from sitting in a parking lot. Then it broke down on 22 east in the middle of the morning rush hour. Then when I was driving my second car, a truck pulled out and I couldn't stop in time and it hit my front bumper and put a hole in it. I'm a good driver for most of the time though", chuckled Senior Chelsea Williamson.

Diet or Eating Disorder?

Pressure leads to misperceptions about body images

Copy & Layout: Lindsay Gray & Patrice Kane

It is one thing when a person is feeling unhealthy and a little overweight and chooses to go on a diet. However, it is an entirely different ball game when that person takes dieting to an extreme for all the wrong reasons and finds him or herself suffering from an eating disorder. An eating disorder usually triggers when a person feels he or she needs to be in control. Maybe things are chaotic in life and restraining from eating may be the one thing that the person can control. Eating disorders are not always based on restricting diets; binging and purging is also another form of the problem. Pressures from the media, parents, and sports teams can lead students to feelings of paranoia about their weight. Wrestlers feel the brunt of the pressure. The wrestling team has to weigh in before every match, if they do not meet their weight, they are not able to wrestle in the match that day. "The day of a match, I usually have to starve myself to be sure I make weight," explains junior Zachary Kisslinger." Before my match I eat a bagel, PowerAde, and fruit." Zac's eating habits before a match is an example of unhealthy binging. Zac and other wrestlers starve themselves all day before the match, which leaves them with no energy. Before the match, the wrestlers obtain energy by eating a meal after the weigh in.

Television commercials, magazine articles, and billboard signs advertise easy weight loss ideas to Americans. These advertisements show dangerous diet pills as an easy way out to lose weight. "I've considered taking diet pills, it'd be an easy way to lose weight," explains junior Christie Jones, "at restaurants they serve you large portions of food, but the media portrays the prefect body image as a skinny girl with no fat on her bones. America is hypocritical in that way." Due to all the pressures in the world, it is hard for students and other people to have a healthy diet. To end eating disorders entirely, people in the world are going to need to change.

Liberty is for Lovers

Students display affection for their better halves

Just as couples go hand in hand, so does dating and high school. High school couples can be seen throughout the day hugging, kissing, and sometimes causing congestion in the hallways.

Although the dating scene is a popular one, many students understand not to set hopes or expectations too high, while still enjoying their time together.

Sophomore Gabrielle Pirozzi explains her outlook on high school dating, "A new romance is almost always fun, it adds excitement to your life."

Many students share a positive perspective on high school dating. "I think it's really cute when people go out all through high school, but I also think people should meet new people, too," said sophomore Krista Shafer, who has been with her boyfriend for over five months.

Junior Kyle Maurer, who has a girlfriend, says that, "you have to have your s[illegible]e. You shouldn't be all over your boyfriend or girlfriend all the time."

While cuddling twosomes flood the halls, some students find they are v[illegible]onte[illegible] being single. "I feel better than ever," says senior Richard Cabrera, "I don't have to deal with [illegible]e d[illegible]a that comes with having a significant other. I'm not missing out on anything by being sin[illegible]"

Any way you put it, your high school sweetheart is someone that yo[illegible]mem[illegible]r for your entire life. Whether the romance lasts for years or days, you learn things from them, t[illegible] make [illegible]u who you are for the rest for your life.

You are on the bus on the way to your first day of boot camp and more nervous than ever. The only thing that you can think of is, how hard the next stage of your life is going to be. As you go through the gates you see everyone running and sweating and think to your self, is this really for me? Once the bus stops you get a chance to examine the faces of your peers and realize they are probably thinking the same exact thing. The doors open and before you can blink a man jumps on the bus and begins to yell, Get off my bus!

As you jump off the bus all you can hear is get down and give me twenty. You start going down and he is in your face yelling and the only thing you can feel is a tear streaming down your cheek. Once you're on your last push-up you feel strong, you feel happy and you think it is all over. However the relief does not last long because you are next instructed to run two miles.

It's all a blur; all anyone can hear is the beat of their own heart, and their heavy breathing. All anyone can think is that there is just one more mile, just one more mile. You see the end, you're getting closer, only a few steps left, right, left, and when you think it's all done you have to drop and do twenty pushups again.

For many Liberty students this is the reality of what they will be facing after graduation. While the pain they must endure may seem harsh, they stick through it for a reason. Some for tradition of family, others for college money, and some just do it for our country. However you look at it though theses are the men and women that help keep the tranquility and freedom of our lives intact.

Myspace and Facebook keep students connected

Copy & Layout: Alma Rodriguez and Marisol Mayorga

Teenagers now live in a new age, instead of meeting new friends at the mall or movies, many have turned to social networking sites. The most frequently used sites are myspace and facebook.

Facebook was originally developed for college and university students, but has since been made available for everyone to join with an e-mail address. This site connects members to a participating network, such as their high school, place of employment, or geographic region. "I really like facebook because I'm able to keep my own album of pictures," junior Christie Jones said.

Myspace was originally developed for any person 14 years or older. This site is often used for networking relationships, friends, or sometimes just self expression , "I love myspace because I can talk to all my friends whenever I want to," sophomore Shane Kunsman said. Students love spending time on myspace, " I go to myspace every time I'm bored; I like meeting new people everyday," freshman Jonathan Esquilin commented. With more than 30 million members worldwide, myspace and facebook have become two of the most popular sites to visit on the Internet.

Meet me at Myspace

Intellectual Surge

Academics

It is not very often that you hear students talking about how much they love school. The usual sound from high school students echos a myriad of complaints. We are all familiar with the feeling of sitting in fourth period with twenty minutes remaining on a Friday; an aura of anxiety fills each classroom as students are itching for the weekend. Getting up early every day, excessive projects and papers, and juggling each classes' homework are definitely not the perks of school, but we actually gain so much more than we think. All students, individually, bring their own academic rhythm.

Each student has marched to a different drum based upon personal academic passions. The beat of the entire student body thrived upon this individuality. Our academic environment bursted with energy and uniqueness. How many students from other schools do you know that had cat dissections with Mr. Jago in Human Anatomy, had the pleasure of listening to Mr. Ambrose's ninth grade history class singing Christmas carols , or had the experience of being taught by one of the many teachers with a genuine passion like Mrs. Chickey's for Shakespeare? Here, we have received an education like no other school. Whether or not we realize it now, the things we have learned and experienced here will help shape our future as well as our character, creating the surge we need for the rest of our lives.

Not Your Normal School Day

Students take classes that are a little out of the ordinary

Soaring above and beyond the traditional teaching styles allow teachers to more effectively impact their students and to create memorable lessons. Plays are beginning to jump off the pages and into reality during in-class performances. Teachers are able to capture the attentions of students in different ways, allowing more students to truly benefit from an in-school education.

This "above and beyond" attitude is spreading like wild fire and certain classes are quickly climbing to the top of the favorites list. Mr. Garin's Skepticism and Logic course has become a must-have before graduation. With an average class size of thirty-two students, the class has been extended to eighteen weeks long because of its immense popularity. The class allows students to share with one another seemingly supernatural or odd things, while Mr. Garin provides them with logical explanations; subjects include ghosts, psychics, and magic.

Mr. Ammary's Honors English class has also become the talk of the hallways. The Denial of Death, a book written by Dr. Ernest Becker, was introduced into the curriculum this year. It encourages the reader to contemplate his or her own death and to become aware of one's own morality. "As much as I love American Literature," Mr. Ammary explains, "it's not engaging enough. This particular piece serves as a springboard of ideas [for students]".

Whether studying ghosts or magic, making concoctions in chemistry or even disecting animals, these new ways of teaching are making it much easier for high school students to roll out of bed for class in the morning.

Testing Stress

How Students Deal With Daily School Stress

Copy & Layout: Liza Genova and Kelsey Dilendick

The most dreaded part of class for just about every high school student is test taking. The excess stress doesn't aid any teenager's busy schedule. Constantly looking for ways to take in all of the material needed in the most efficient way, students are really just trying to defeat the feeling of worry that is brought on by exams.

Daniel Bossert's favorite way of preparing for tests is to study for about an hour, each night, for several nights prior to the test. This is an efficient method because by spreading out the study time, you are given a chance to relax after studying the material. Also, repeatedly reviewing the same thing for a few days will help you to remember it for a long time. This will help when it comes time to study for the final exam, and you need to recover stored knowledge.

The school year of 2007 was treated differently as far as PSSA testing goes. Normally, students would test during the school day, then return to class afterward. This year, however, juniors were given time alone in the school to take the state test with 100% concentration. The class of '08 also had shirts to excite tehm and get your in the right mindset to achieve the best score possible. This increased effort to encourage students to do well on the test is becuase of a recent decrease in test scores, due to a lack of participation and effort. Hopefully, the extras were just enough to bring Liberty back to the ranking it deserves.

Perfect Proctor

"What helped me the most on the PSSA's was getting to choose our testing proctor. I had Mrs. Chickey, and she made the testing days more exciting and fun so the time went faster," Darren Ankrom '08 explains what the PSSA experience was like for him.

Liberty Math Students Prepare for the SATs

Layout & Copy: Liza Genova and Kelsey Dilendik

Everyone has their own opinion on the well-known subject of mathematics. Some students look forward to it, some despise it, and others just deal with it to get through the class. However, everyone knows that sooner or later, they will be forced to learn it in order to do well on the math section of the SATs. Without many of the math skills that are taught at Liberty, it would be difficult to receive an acknowledged score on the SATs. It is crucial for college-bound students to take math seriously.

Knowing how much of a big deal math is to their future, students are using all types of study methods to improve their math skills in hopes of receiving impressive test results. Many books and classes are available for students looking to sharpen their math skills.

Kaitlyn D'Arcy, a junior, is using both of those methods and more to study. She explains, "I took a math prep class and I bought a book with practice tests in it. Every week my mom gives me a few practice problems to do in order to keep the material fresh in my head. I am also hiring a tutor for a little more help."

While most students were filling their schedules with prep classes, junior Mike McGivern chose not to. "I used no preparation for math at all before taking the SATs. I find the math to be more reasoning than stored information and you are provided with the formulas you need, so there is not reason to cram. I feel confident about how I did on the SATs." McGivern explains.

History in the Making

Bringing the Past to the Present

Copy & Layout: Kellyann Martin

George Santayana once said, "those who do not understand history are doomed to repeat it." The importance of history is unknown to many students. Most students just memorize the facts and forget them after the test. What most students do not understand is, history will help later in life. Mr. Richard Lund explained, "if you do not understand the past you will become a victim of it, which will lead you to keep making the same mistakes over and over."

To bring history to life, students can use what they have learned in class and take this information a step further. Junior Andrew Frantz, pictured right, has taken his interest in history to exciting levels. Andrew brings the battles of World War Two to life as a battle scene re-enactor. "It is a great way to come to realize what actually happened in the war and what the soldiers went through," Andrew describ[ed]. Students may know the facts, but by placing themselves back in the time period [that] they are studying it becomes easier to understand and appreciate history.

History is not just facts of past events, it also includes governmental and economic studies which will always be important to the present society. Know[ing] past failures and successes of history and its branch studies can help better the w[orld] today.

Recreating History

Teachers, like Mrs. Widdersheim, often assign creative projects to recreate a time, event or person in history. These projects get students to interpret history in their own way.

Conjugation Motivation

With all of the technicalities that come with learning a language, sometimes it gets hard to remember and apply all of the concepts. Juniors Christie Jones and Cassandra George discuss verb conjugation with Mrs. Pomon. "I learned how to speak in both past and present tense in Spanish 4. Being able to speak about more then just the present makes for more interesting conversations," stated Christie.

"Some of my family lives in Germany. When they come and visit or if I travel there, it is important for me to be able to communicate effectively. So, German was a clear choice for me to study when making my decision in middle school," exclaimed senior Raquel Robbins.

Q: "Why is learning a language other then English important?"

A: "To become more culturally aware by communicating with diverse people." – Matthew Fare '08

Lingual Literacy

Languages enhance students global skills

Copy & Layout: Alexandria Lafci

Breadth and diversity displayed in Liberty's student body encompasses people from all corners of the globe. With them, they bring customs, fashion, music, and among all, languages. Ranging from fluid French to historical Turkish, our students' expansive tongues can be compared to a miniature United Nations. For those of us who are not lucky enough to intuitively speak a second language, our school offers three unique choices for all students to absorb.

Different cultures are seen in our town with ethnic that international ties are becoming part of our everyday lives. By gaining literacy in another language, students are gaining a valuable skill. Effective communication is an eminent tool for a united and harmonious future, and Liberty students are taking the first steps towards that goal.

Students choose the various languages for a multitude of different reasons. Some choose the language for its significance in different careers, others to learn their native tongue, and some just out of pure interest in a certain language, country, or culture. "I want to be a teacher," junior Laura Brunner said. "That is why I chose to take Spanish. I would be a very useful educator in schools like Liberty and many others where knowing the language helps you relate to the large Hispanic population." Whatever the reasons may be, students are gaining essential skills that will prove vital in our globally entwined world.

Verb Battle

Junior Carl Kolepp battles it out with a classmate to see who can remember and write verbs the fastest in their German 3 class. "This game is a review for quizzes. The class gets really into it because it's fun and you also get bonus points," explained Carl.

Appreciating the Classics

Students learn to connect with classic literature

Copy & Layout: Jessie Horning & Angela Urbano

With last year's departure of the English Department head, Mr. Perrett, English students and teachers wondered if any other teacher would be able to do Shakespeare's classic play Hamlet justice, make sense of Waiting for Godot, or teach them the power of Anglo-Saxon poetry. [Enter Mrs. Chickey]

This year she had the opportunity to teach students she had in ninth grade. She says that the unique experience "has been my joy, to see the personal and academic growth," adding "my babies have grown up!" Mrs. Chickey's unending enthusiasm for British literature, a subject she has been waiting twenty years to teach, has been more than appreciated by her students. Joseph Reynolds, one of her seniors, sums it up best remarking, "She's takin' care of business."

Mrs. Chickey has not been the only English teacher to influence students. Junior Matt Searfoss says that Mr. Ammary, the new American Literature teacher, taught him all about philosophy.

Be it discovering philosophy or T.S.Eliot's "the Fire and the Rose," English students like Jackie Gorzelic leave the class with a "greater appreciation for the classics" that will have them making connections to literature for the rest of their lives.

Q: " To which character in literature do you most relate?"

Struggling Sciences

Math, logic, and science all combined...

Copy & Layout: Patrice Cane and Lindsay Gray

Chemistry, Anatomy, Physics, and Biology are the challenging courses high school students are faced with in order graduate. "I find science to be the hardest classes in my entire schedule," sighs junior Jaimie Boyd, "not only is science involved but these rigorous classes also involve math and logic." Jaimie continued.

"I have A's and high B's in my math classes. I've always been good in math, but once you involve math and science together, I have problems with it," explains sophomore Billy Kane, "I can memorize defintions and vocabulary, but science is just very difficult."

Many students express the same feelings, however, science can be fun. Many students do not like learning how to balace chemical equations, but enjoy being able to actually mix them in the lab. Students also dred having to learn the biology of plants, but like the chance to get hands on and really see what's going on through the microscope. So whether, you think science is difficult, or simple, there's always something exciting to experiment with here in the [illegible] at [illegible]rty.

What's Cookin'

Learning on a full stomach

Copy & Layout: Howard Crockett and Shannon Moritz

Imagine 300 pounds of flour and 250 pounds of sugar sitting in front of you. It is hard to imagine, which makes this next fact even harder to believe. The school's culinary department uses this much flour and sugar each year. On average 288 students per year take one of the six offered cooking classes.

The classes offered in this field are; Basic Foods, Creative Cooking, American Cooking East and West, and International Foods I and II. In these, students learn to make anything from funnel cake and cookies to Corn Chowder and Fried Chicken.

"Good eats" was a way for Junior Zachary Kondravy to sum up what he got out of his cooking class. Like Zachary, many other students love the idea of having a class with free food, but others, like junior Dwayne Williams, "learn more and eat more."

In taking these courses, students also gain knowledge of the world. When the students receive a recipe, they are also taught about the dish's origin. Junior Vilmarie Velazquez is "looking forward to taking another cooking class next year," so that she can gain knowledge while maintaining a full stomach.

Workin' Together

Vegetable Oil

Directions:

1. Boil water, butter, sugar, and salt together in a saucepan.
2. Add flour and work it until a ball forms.
3. Let cool for 3 to 4 minutes.
4. With mixer lowest speed, add eggs, 1 at a time, making sure the first egg is completely incorporated before continuing.
5. Once all eggs have been added and mixture is smooth, put dough in a piping bag fitted with a number 12 tip.
6. Heat about 1 1/2 inches of oil in a heavy pan.
7. Pipe dough into oil, making a free-form lattice pattern; cook until browned, flip once.
8. Remove cake from oil, drain on paper towels, and top with powdered sugar.

Back To Business

Helping To Shape Our Future

Copy and Layout: Adrianna Norton and Ellyn Wertman

Liberty helps students transition into the real world in many different ways. One of the most important is by offering a variety of business classes. These classes are becoming quite popular now. Students can choose between M.O.U.S, Multimedia Tech, Accounting 1, 2, & 3, Marketing 1, 2, & 3, Digital Imaging, and many more.

Students don't have to just take a business class during school. There are also clubs after school to cure their business fix. Clubs such as DECA (Distributed Education Clubs of America), run by Mr. Spang, and FBLA (Future Business Leaders of America), run by Mr. Bachman, are the two major clubs students would like to join.

Liberty has one of the largest business programs in the state of Pennsylvania, and is the only department to grant certificates. The business classes offered at Liberty will help students advance into the future. This program will benefit students weather or not they pursue a business career in the future.

The Aim of Art

The hidden talents it takes to create a masterpiece

There are a variety of art electives available to students. Some include photography, graphic arts, ceremics, and studio art. Winter and spring artshows are held to showcase students' artwork. Over 500 student pieces are put in each show. "The art show is the culmination of the students' work over a semester," explained art teacher Mrs. Swift.

When an art class was asked about their favorite type of art to do, most agreed that drawing and painting were at the top of the list. "My favorite type of art is painting. It's fun and relaxing," explained junior Kayleigh Rider. Other students express themselves by taking pictures. "I have always been intrested in photography. I've taken many pictures for special occasions, and I hope to pursue it as a minor in college," said junior Alex Hoffman.

"I like art because it is an outlet for expression. I started drawing something and wasn't passionate about it, so I started something else and it created a masterpeice," stated junior Taran Salabsky.

As an introduction to her class, Mrs. Swift explains her perspective of art and teaching. "It is our goal, and my joy, to help students cultivate an understanding of art as means of communication and self-exploration. I want to help the students develop skills in producing visual art in a variety of media and techniques and I want the students tobe able to appreciate the beauty and diversity in the world around us."

Marching to Their Own Beat

Band Honors Verterans with Music

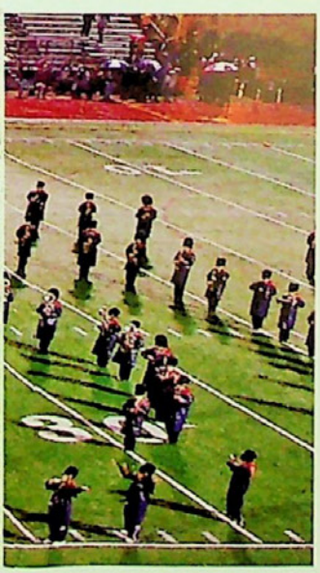
Every year from blocks away, the Grenadier Band can be heard practicing early in the summer heat. Practices last from roughly eight o'clock in the morning until two o'clock in the afternoon. Summer practices get the band in tip-top shape for rallying the fans during the fall football season. Once the first notes of "Liberty Forever" sound from the instruments of the two hundred and sixty band members during the football pre-game shows, players and fans know to get their game faces on and their cheering voices ready. "The music from the band gives you a certain type of energy. It gets you pumped up and ready to cheer on your team," states junior Earl Kunsman. After football season, the band's focus shifts into their own game mode. They have a short time to learn numerous songs, which will be played at their annual spring concert. Before the band buckles down, however, they leave some room for some fun.

This year, the band chose to commemorate their efforts by celebrating the 65th anniversary of the bombing of Pearl Harbor in Honolulu, Hawaii. The Grenadier Band was invited as the Honor Band of the parade and was asked to march down Main Street near the breath-taking Waikiki Beach. Every piece of music played was dedicated to the men and women who bravely sacrificed their lives on December 7, 1941 and to the veterans who thankfully survived. On top of the whole experience, Liberty's band invited Dan Deysher, a veteran of the United States Navy who served his country during Pearl Harbor and World War Two, to play "Taps" along with them. The Hawaii trip created long-lasting memories for each and every one of the Grenadier band members. Junior Emily Priestas smiles as she remembers the experience. "We were fortunate to witness a vital part of American history that, in turn, became of part of our own histories".



Q: "What did you enjoy most about band?"

Finding the Rhythm

Harmony Within The Halls of High School

Copy & Layout: Erin Albertson and Brenna Foust

Year after year, Liberty High School has prided itself on its accomplished music department. With a staff of four main advisors and a group of over 200 students, the music department has brought in many successes. The program is composed of the Orchestra, Women's Ensemble, Choraliers, and Acapella Group. As a whole, the music department performed in four different concerts this year.

The directors were extremely pleased with the accomplishments of their students. "They [the Orchestra] accomplished many things rare for a high school level," said band and orchestra head director, Gregory MacGill. Mrs. Shumaker also felt her students did very well. "They even were able to tackle college-level material," says Mrs. Shumaker, commonly referred to as "Shu" by her students.

The Orchestra and Chorus housed an extraordinary amount of talented individuals. They had a total of three regional qualifiers and over twice as many district qualifiers. The Chorus also sent members to a countywide competition. Together, the Chorus and Orchestra put in approximately fifteen hours a week of hard work and concentrated practice for upcoming perfromances. However on certain occasions, they practice much more. The chorus and orchestra departments greatly exceeded the expectations placed upon them with breathtaking shows.

Time to Workout

Are you ready to take that challenge?

Copy & Layout: Earl Kunsman

During an average school year students come accustomed to strategies to get them through gym class such as the Liberty Shuffle. "Doing the Liberty Shuffe leaves me energy and therefore I can put more energy into more useful things like tourchering Mrs. Ruth. I suggest everyone in gym to try it," suggested junior Darren Akromm on his love and appreciation for the Liberty Shuffle.

However, with programs such as Early Risers and F.O.T.S students have the chance to become more fit and keeping the beat alive throughout Liberty. "I wasn't thrilled about waking up at 5:30 in the morning to come to class at six, but I definitely have seen a boost in my stamina after running and doing cardio workouts to start off the day. Its also a great way for me to keep myself fit and looking good for the summer," commented senior Kathy LaTorre on how helpful Early Risers is to her.

Along with the many physical programs, like Early Risers, many upper classmen have the advantage or disadvantage, which ever way the students look at it, to keep themselves in shape with Mr. and Mrs. Ruth's morning workouts. "Having the Ruth's as gym teachers is so painful and harsh on the body. I'm so glad i'm not doing this next year!" said junior Meghan Fluck.

New Opportunities

What goes on at Vo-Tech?

Copy & Layout: Aimee Johnson, Brook Groenwald and Abiagel Rooney

Every year many students travel the few miles across town to attend the Bethlehem Area Vocational Technical School. There are a myriad of benefits that come along with attending Vo-Tech. Students prefer the hands-on experience which helps them take a better look at careers they have chosen to specialize in.

Classes at Liberty teach students the basic knowledge they will need to understand to further their education when attending a college or university. Liberty also provide elective classes such as cooking, marketing classes, and astronomy classes so that students can dip their toes and try to explore different career opportunities. But Vo-Tech is a pace for students who believe they already know what they want to do.

"Vo-Tech gives you a head start on specialized careers that many students find interesting," stated senior Kylie Brauchle who attended Vo-Tech for cosmotology. Vo-Tech helps students like Kylie get a real experience at the jobs they want to do after graduation.

Vo-Tech offers many different kinds of career oppurtuinites, from cosmotology to private services training, auto repair and wood working. Many consider it more beneficial to attend Vo-Tech than to attend regular classes at Liberty which is why it is such a popular place to learn.

Q: "Do you enjoy attending Vo-Tech more than Liberty?"

The STEPS program is a unique program that caters to and develops certain skills that students are interested in. Jobs range from mail delivery to photo copying to working in the cafeteria. The job a student is assigned to is based on their level of skill and their interest. Senior Cia Wright said she will use a lot of what she's learned here in the future. Many of the STEPS students feel that they are completely prepared to enter the workforce after high school. The goal of the program is to have each student competitively employed.

Mrs. Parker, the woman behind the program, believes that this program will absolutely prepare students for the real world because the students get to work on many real life jobs while working in this program.

Recreational Tempo

Athletics

Watching our athletes as they step onto the court, field, or track, it is easy to see their sweaty palms, nervous jitters, and racing hearts. Fans can feel their own heartbeat speed up in 20 degree weather, in sardine packed stands waiting for the game winning, tie breaking touchdown. Our athletics are making headlines, and striving for excellence is one of the most important mottos to our athletes. To excel, each team has to do many things they do not enjoy, but these athletes push themselves through painstaking practices consisting of countless hours of conditioning, scrimmages and sweat all in an attempt to be better than day before.

Even with such in depth preparation, athletes still can feel nervous before games, but each individual finds courage to overcome that fear of ruining their team's dream and losing the game. This courage comes from a place deep within themselves—a place that wants to play the game, not because it's fun, nor the teamwork nor friends made, but because these athletes could not picture themselves without the game. The game becomes a part of our world here; school walls become decked out with red and blue streamers, while students buy body paint, hair dye, class shirts and ridiculous scuba gear and Halloween costumes.

This love for the game runs through athletes' and fans' veins alike, pumping each heartbeat with blasts of adrenaline. This is why each basket made, each split second taken off a race, and why each win are so magnified while each fumble, false start, foul and loss are so heart wrenching. Both athletes and fans are pumped by a beat within themselves; a beat that just loves the game.

Back To Back

Two Teams Twice To Playoffs

Copy & Layout: Katie Barkouskie and Gaby Pirozzi

When it comes to Liberty athletics, the athletes don't meet their expectiations; they exceed them. High standards for sports have always been accustomed at Liberty. Both the basketball and football team made it to state playoffs for two years in a row. "Since we made it to states last year, I assumed we would make it again this year because the team is dedicated, and we work well together", explained senior Christopher Hill. The team played Penn Manor and lost at the very end by only two points.

Not only did the boys basketball team expect to make it to states, the football team did as well. Finishing the regular season with a record of 9-1, qualified to go onto districts and once again states. Fans cheered them on in what would be the boys last game against Upper Saint Clare. "We accomplished so much as a team, and broke so many school records, we went to Hershey two years in a row, and I was really glad to be apart of that," said senior Raymond Olivo.

Along with the basketball and football team, a few certain individuals made an appearance at a state competition. Senior Rebekah Finn attended states for two years in a row [illegible]. Exceeding everyone's standards, she ended up placing first in pole vaulting. Patrick Nolan, Catherine Cowen, Patricia Leeson, Taryn Lushinsky, Kendall Butler, Lindsey Hunsicker, and Lauren Leon were some of the select swimmers that had their shot at a state title.

Liberty Athletes did a fine job this year giving us many district titles, and few state ones. So, all of these amazing, dedicated athletes were an important piece of the reason our expectations were fufilled.

Sky High!

"I had placed second a few times before, so when I finally won firsr, it showed me that all my hard work has finally paid off, I proved to a lot of people that I could do it," senior Rebekah Finn said.

The Long Haul

The road to Hershey

From napping in between double sessions under intense summer heat in the gym, to pep rallies, bitter cold games all the way through spring mandatory lifting sessions, the football season is a never ending cycle. This cycle emerged from a necessity to be the best.

The team endured the exhausting workouts because they knew the harder they worked the better they would be. This arduous cycle became a part of their lives, and helped make each boy what he is today as a player and a person. The work ethic was instilled into the boys by the intense scrunity of each coach, "the coaches were really intimidating, but they made you better so that you'd always play to your full potential," said sophomore Travis Schuch. To be able to substand such physical and emotional fatigue, the team boys pumped their teammates up in the locker room before practices, and with quick speeches before games by their vocal leaders Timothy Sawruk and Daniel Persa.

The long practices and distinguished coaching lead the team all the way down Linden street which was lined with fans, jerseys, and signs wishing the team good luck all the way to the Hershey Stadium. "It was amazing to see all the people lined up on the streets and in the stands all the time because it let us know that we had a lot of support, and that what we were trying so hard to accomplish was recognized," stated senior John Schaffer.

As the crowd rages and the boys get pumped and ready to charge into the stadium, at the center of attention is the funnel of girls lined up to the opening of the field. Screaming and flipping, being as loud as possible, they excite the stadium. "It is the most intense feeling ever. You get goose bumps seeing everyone cheering and yelling and knowing you're apart of it," commented senior Kristy Conti.

Prior to every game the varsity squad spent countless hours making signs and posters to show off for the upcoming nights. " We learned so much about each other while making signs, we laughed and talked for countless hours, it was great!" sophomore Gabrielle Pirozzi remarked. The girls not only made signs but also went and toilet-papered each player's house before the games. Showing off their spirit, they went late at night and made the house stand out amongst the rest of the neighborhood houses.

After many football games, basket ball games, and wrestling matches, the girls went on to compete at the Competition of Champions in Orlando, Florida. " The best part about the trip was being on stage with a huge audience. It was thrilling and of course, riding all the rides at the park," commented senior Megan Becker. The girls placed third out of fourteen schools. Practicing to the very last minute, the girls got together everyday in Florida before the competition and practiced outside of the hotel in a grassy area. All the hard work, long practices, and countless hours of preparation helped them be the successful and talented squad they are.

Cross country is a sport that digs deep into a player. It brings out the determination and gives them a will to succeed. It has been proven this year with boys and girls teams combined 18 wins and 4 losses. Coach Ruth was impressed, but always wanted his athletes to strive to be better, "the kids ran great but they could push themselves to do better." Even during the off season the runners are encouraged to eat healthy and stay fit making their training and practice virtually endless. For cross country members, eating healthy foods isn't just training; it becomes a lifestyle. Sophomore ThomasHoffman says, "we should eat healthy all the time and stay away from junk food."

Nearly every athlete has a role model or inspiration to strive to be in the sport. Freshman Taylor VanAckeren has one of her own, "I started running because of my older brother Trevor; he's the one who really inspired me to start." Other times it's even because of a group of people, Sophomore Lauren Leon says "I look up to the older girls on the team who have been running for a while because I can learn from them and how much they know." Now it's time to bring in new runners who have great role models to look up to and learn from for

Goals Are Set

'Canes blow farther through districts

Lady Hurricanes this year did not just set high goals. They accomplished them through strong determination. The girls went above and beyond the goals they had in mind. "It took alot of leadership and hard work. We got further than we thought we would in the district eleven playoffs. This year was great because we all got along very well. The team's mentality towards working out really paid off," senior captain Leigh Schlener told us.

The feeling of winning the game that your team has been practicing for all year is unexplainable. "We lost to Freedom in the first game, tied in the second, and finally won in overtime, when it really counted in the third game. We went on to the second round of districts," explained junior Christie Jones. The field hockey team went further this year than they have in 17 years!

The girls went through many ups, downs, and memories throughout the season. One of the best overall memories from the team was the feeling before each of the Freedom games. "We anticipated each game so much. We used the feeling from each loss to come back in the next faceoff. We were all really goofy and had a lot of fun, but we knew when to draw the line. It was a great year," junior Caitlin Donnelly remarked.

Hole in One! Birdie! Four...

With the boys piling onto the white BASD school van, there is nothing but jokes filling the air, spit balls being shot around the seats, and horsing around among the guys. Laughing, talking, and relaxing on the way to their up coming match, the boys start to talk about the greens, the special things to look out for, and what each individual has to do in order to take the team to victory. "Golf is a chill sport, you get to have fun and relax at the same time," captain Harry Pietruchie stated.

Although the boys like to relax and have fun, they pulled through with a great season. With a 12-4 record and sending two boys to districts this year, coach Steven Bradley commented, "these guys really try hard; they all put the time in to get to the places they are today."

Practicing every day after school, shooting hundreds of balls, and taking an infinite amount of swings, the golf team is not always all about laughs. At times they do get serious while practicing. "The only way to be a great golfer is by practicing, and improving your skills," commented Coach Bradley. Spending hours at the golfing range, each individual upped his skills this season and became a bigger contribution to the team.

Girls support one another as a team

Copy & Layout: Bethany Hertzog

In mid-August, when most high school students are enjoying late nights, sleeping in, and taking advantage of the last few weeks of summer, the girls' tennis team shows up bright and early for their yearly summer practices.

"We got together every weekday for a few hours in the summer to get ready for the season," said senior Carrie Zimmerman, "the extra practices really helped us get to know one another better as a team and as friends."

Tennis is often perceived as a single's sport and a spectators sport, but the Liberty girl's tennis team made tennis a team sport this year.

Zimmerman also stated, "I enjoy playing tennis because I like to rely on myself, if I mess up, I know that it was my mistake, but if I do good, I can feel a sense of accomplishment. Even though we don't all play on the court at the same time, we all work towards a common goal."

Although the girls don't rely on one another physically, they know they can count on one another for emotionall support, which helped to make this year's season a success.

New Coach, New Goals, New Victories

Copy & Layout: Laura Brunner

Imagine yourself in a high school; a few years ago on the first day of school, you would hear all the high school boys talking about the upcoming football season. Now not only are they talking about football, but they speak of soccer which is also becoming a new obsession.

The boys are practicing harder and taking Liberty to new levels. They have beaten teams they have never before, qualified in districts, and worked together to make a difference in the teams history. The team had a rough start, but once they believed in each other, they had great victories and accomplished many of their goals.

Beating Easton and Pleasant Valley were games the team only dreamed about beating in districts. "We went into overtime with Pleasant Valley, which then went into a shoot out. The game was intense and it took a lot out of us to beat them, but once we did, it was definitely worth it," said senior captain Brian Benbenek.

Having a new coach had only a positive affect on how the team performed Coach Horvath was the assistant coach for three years before he was rewarded head coach. "Coach Horvath had a huge affect on the team, which helped us improve so much. He treats us all equally and it's easier to play to our best when we get that respect," explained junior Matthew Piazza.

Keep the Level High

Lowering your standards is never an option when it comes to playing soccer. "You constantly have to stay focused, there is never a dull moment in this game," remarked junior Trevor VanAckeren. "We play our game, that is how we achieve victories."

Cooperative Effort

A combined force can lead you and your team to achieve victories you once never could. The boys soccer team proved that together they can conquer the unexpected. "We train as a team, we lose as a team, we fight as a team," explained junior Jeff Long.

Intensity Driven

Girls successful season ends in a heartbreaker

Copy & Layout: Megan Halkins

As the ball fell to the floor in the last game against Parkland, it was as if the girls hearts dropped along with it. The score had gone back and forth the entire match and finally ended with the fifth and final game.

"The game was a struggle for us because our teams were evenly matched," senior captain Alica Diehl stated.

However, while the last game was a heart breaker it seemed to be an appropriate end to their season. The girls had many ups and downs, "I think all of our struggles and triumphs made us much stronger both on and off the court," Diehl commented.

These new found strengths made the girls not only a volleyball team but also a family. "For me nothing will ever be Liberty Volleyball again and I think that is the hardest part of leaving all the girls this year," senior captain Marie Bauer said.

Their family-like relationship was evident both on and off the court. Whether they were playing an opponent or doing their Gigilo Dancing Warmup, their pregame ritual, you could feel and see the connection. With this year's seniors leaving the team, it will never be the same, but the connection and spirit they have built will stay forever.

Q: "What drives you to play volleyball?"

Continuous Victories Lead to Districts

With pounding hearts and aching bodies, the girls basketball team fought tirelessly to win game after game. Ending with a record of 17-9, the grueling hours of hard work paid off. Even though it was not a perfect season, the expectations of the team were more than fulfilled. Junior captain Briana West was happy with the conclusion of the season, "we had a winning season and we made it to districts, which we haven't done in a few years."

The secret of the girls' successful season?: extreme conditioning and intense practices that left the girls physically drained. "The practices this year were the toughest out of the four years I've been on the team," explained senior captain MaryKate Serratelli. Most athletes know how bothersome an excessive amount of running at practices can be, but for the Lady Canes, the running improved their game tremendously. Sophomore Dana Wieller clarifies, "during practices, coach liked to get things done. They were serious and intense, but they were always beneficial." The hard practices did more than make the girls better players; it lead them straight into districts.

The girls' season ended in a tragic loss to the Red Rovers of Easton High School, the score 65-53. "It was sad because we finally realized that our season was over," remembers junior Alaina Loguidice, "hopefully, we'll do even better next year."

Picture a stadium full of fans screaming and cheering for their friends and family playing in the game. If you can imagine this, then you know how it feels to attend a boys basketball game. When you walk into the gym, a sense of genuine Liberty pride is overwhelming.

This year, the boys team was able to finish off the season with a record of 17-11. "We had a lot of injuries, so I don't think our season went as good as it could have, but we were able to get back together at the right time," said Senior Chris Hill. The team was able to skillfully work together to achieve ultimate success through long practices, and difficult scrimmages, and hours of extra work put in by dedicated and determined players.

The most memorable moment for Coach Chad Landis was "making it to the state playoffs for the second year in a row," he said. For many of the team's members, making it to the state championship was the most treasured moment of the year. Despite hardships and excuses to simply give up, the team maintained their fervor off the court, while becoming a stronghold in every game.

Successful Season...Bright Future

With 13 of the 20 ice hockey players being in their junior year, the players are close personally and in some of the same classes. Some standout Juniors such as Ryan Seifert, David Orwan, Andrew DiPrinzio, Josh Steventon, and Shane Smith led the Hurricanes to the championship series against cross-town rival Freedom, whom they lost to all 5 times this year, the only team in their division they couldn't pull a win off of.

The varsity team outscored their opponents 103-82 in 21 games this year, posting a 12-7-2 record.

All-Star Senior, Scott Rega had to forgo his senior season due playing junior hockey in Reading and traveling the country for tournaments. Rega started on the varsity squad since being a freshman, and started on junior varsity in 7th and 8th grade.

Many of the players on the team play on different club teams such as the Valley Forge Minutemen, Reading Rails, Lehigh Valley Warriors, Lehigh Valley Comets, and the Bethlehem Blast. With the players practicing so often with Liberty and their other club teams it comes as no suprise that the team went all the way to the championship series.

Steady Beat

A calm steady heartbeat is key to good shooting

The rifle team is a school sport unlike any other. It's a sport that doesn't demand harsh physical fitness but rather mental fitness. It requires a concentration that not everyone has and is hard to develop. The key to shooting perfect is controlling your heartbeat and your breathing keeping both steady, calm and under control. If you can do that you can keep the rifle steady and hit the target right in the center. Junior Pete Labiak uses these techniques everytime he shoots. "The hardest part is staying calm and trying to get relaxed before a match." Pete says.

The rifle team had a lot of close calls this year with losses only by half points when a shot was only missed by less than an inch which can be heartbreaking. Rifle team practices are everyday after school during the winter season. At practices students line up and shoot like at matches except it's a more relaxed environment. Practicing is necessary for rifle because you need to sight in the rifle which is making sure the guns sights are fixed to enable the shooter with the best shot. "Practices are short and usually only last for twenty minutes," Travis says. Short practices are a plus when you have many members on the team and only a few can shoot at one time.

Driven by Succss

Making the time count both in and out of the pool

In a sport where you wake up at five o'clock in the morning for practices and also have them over Christmas break, dedication and love of the sport is key. "The first thing I think of when I wake up is I hate swimming but with my teammates driving me to never quit, it gets better as the season goes on," junior Erin Albertson said. However, others are driven by the thought of the food waiting for them after.

"We always look forward to the breakfast after practice that our parents take turns providing for us," senior Kendall Buttler said.

While many think that swimming is a solo sport, any true swimmer knows that the team is what really matters.

"Teamwork is still important even though we swim by ourselves because everybody cheers for everybody else," sophomore Devin Matyus said. Some traditions that help create team bonding are the pasta parties, Christmas parties, passing down awards, and of course the girls not shaving their legs. "When we do this it keeps it fun and really bonds us as a whole," Buttler said, "but also being with the team for at least four hours everyday for five months helps too," she laughed.

All the team bonding really paid off this year because the team made great improvements from the last and also broke many records both in swimming and diving. "The underclassman really stepped up this year and have all been strong swimmers," senior Emily Hooper said. With high standards set by this years team, the swimmers are already striving for next year's goals.

In The Zone

Forming bonds that will last a lifetime

Sitting in the stands of the Memorial Gym, peering out to the floor where the wrestling mats lie, awaiting the first match of the night is always an exhilarating feeling for a fan. The emotions that each wrestler has before a match is much more powerful than those on the outside. As the wrestlers warm up, stretch their muscles, and listen to music to get in the zone, only one thing stands out in their minds: winning the match against their rival. To be a wrestler is a huge commitment because unlike most sports, the wrestling season never ends; the training continues year round. This is a reason why the boys became so close. "This team is more like a family to me; we are all friends and hang out outside of school whether it's seeing a movie, playing a card game, or grabbing something to eat, we always have a good time," Senior Richard Cabrera explains.

Most of the Liberty wrestlers have been involved in the sport starting as early as kindergarten. Wrestling is a good way to keep in shape and gain physical strength, however, it can be one of the hardest sports when it comes to maintaining weight. Meeting the weight limit means only eating healthy food, and exercising daily. This comes naturally to Sophomore Matthew Royer, however, who has adapted to staying at 140 pounds during the season. "I wasn't that much overweight naturally, so working out every day helped me reach my weight limit with ease," Royer stated.

Coming into the season, expectations were skeptical because the team was so young. However, they improved so much that by districts the team knew they could wrestle the top schools and be successful. Whether it was an underclassmen or a senior, every wrestler proved that they could prevail as an individual and as well as a team.

A Building Year

A sisterhood that will never end

Starting out slow, the liberty girl's soccer team may not have had the best season, but they formed a team bond that is better than any victory.

"We spend a lot of time together outside of soccer, so we got along really well on the field," said Junior Captain Alex Schlener, pictured at the right.

With a new coach the team was in need of major bonding. "We had a new head coach and it definitely made our team more competitive" said Assistant Coach Chad Landis.

Girl's soccer had one of their hardest seasons, however, they lost five games by only one goal and Head Coach Horvath believed in taking the positives out of each loss and building on the team. "One of my main goals was to make the girls realize how good they really are," stated Horvath.

No matter what the season's record the girl's soccer team did their best. They dealt with many obstacles, even the unexpected. Overall, they did an amazing job as a team and they look forward to the upcoming seasons. "I think from now on our team will do a really good job, we have a steady coach and the friendships on our team are better than ever. I am really looking forward to the seasons coming up," said Sophomore Alex Bastonelli.

The boy's volleyball team is one of the best in history

Copy & Layout: Marco Allen and Bethany Hertzog

This year's boy's volleyball team has been one of the greatest in Liberty's history. Hard work, dedication, and strong team bonds as well as a close relationship with their coach, all contributed to the team's great success this year.

It is not uncommon to see Coach Amary, the boy's volleyball team, as well as some of their loyal supporters at Victory Pizza for a bite to eat before a big game. "It's kind of a ritual, before the games we go to Victory, and listen to Phil Collins," senior volleyball star Ali Nabavian stated. After a victory, they have another ritual, "when we win we sing Journey together," Nabavian smirked.

Unfortunately, as in any other sport, this is not all fun and games. Senior London-Yuki Nagai explains, "we have really tough practices, and we practice all year round. I think I can speak for the team when I say volleyball has become more than a sport, it's a huge part of our lives."

This year the team has overcome many feats, and experienced many firsts; past volleyball teams pale in comparison. For the first time in over seventeen years, Liberty's boy's volleyball beat Parkland's team. Also, the boy's are celebrating their triumph, and success in making it to the state finals for the first time.

Tennis Team Stays Positive Despite Winter Conditions

Snow is always something that high school students look forward to. It brings hope for possible school closings and snowball fights. However, winter weather came later than normal this year. Temperatures didn't start to drop below freezing until late december, and they stuck around until well into the spring season. To some people, this was just crazy weather, but to the Liberty boy's tennis team, it meant less playing time.

It's impossible to get any playing time in when the courts are covered in snow and ice. The cold air on their exposed skin didn't help the unfavorable conditions. The obstacle of not being able to play on their court forced them to practice in other locations. The lack of practice time on their home court put the team at a slight disadvantage when it came time to perform in games. They weren't fully ready to take on opponents, and they spent early game time getting on track for the season ahead of them. "If I could change something about the 2007 season, I would change the weather," senior Bram Sakdiponephong explains, looking back on his last season on Liberty's team. "Practices were dreadful in the beginning but once it got warmer out, the season started to pick up, and we improved a lot."

Despite the rough start, the team made up for it in the end. They made their way to districts with strong dedication and effort. The boy's managed to get all of their doubles, which are teams of two players, into districts. Although they didn't advance too far into district playoffs just making it there was a huge accomplishment in itself.

Team work and dedication are two of the most important values to have when you are part of any team, but most importantly, the Hurricanes baseball team. The twenty three players and three coaches worked extremly hard to get to the districts playoffs.

"The districts were the highlight of the season," explains junior Alexander Specht. "Seeing our name in the paper after every game gets us more pumped for the next game." Specht, whose name has appeared in the paper numerous times this year is ecstatic to see the team become district champions. Jason Huber is also excited, "our team has become really close and has worked on their team work skills. Without the dedication of the entire team, we would not have made it this far."

The boys had a rough start with their main pitcher, Rocky Sawyer sitting because of an injury, but the team pulled through with back up Sergio Camacho working hard to keep the team winning. The team showed to be a power packed team full of talent from their power hitters to the quick outfielders. The boys exceeded expectations and raised the bar for next year's team by winning the district championship.

Catch the Rhythm

Strong team and friendships make for a successfull season.

Throughout the season, the team faced many games that were vital to their placement in districts. Players focused on certain skills such as their batting, in order to beat their toughest opponents in the league, Freedom and Easton. "I think we have a lot of heart and determination, so all we had to do is pull through in those close games," said Junior Kali Brong.

Before each game the team would gather in the dugout and the seniors would give a quick pep speech. "They would tell us how much effort we needed to give and by the end of the season it got up to three million percent!" said Brong. The pep talks proved to work and the team gave a lot of effort to push through some setbacks and disappointing losses. " We started out strong in the beginning, lost a few games in the end, but always had a optimistic view," said junior Alaina Loguidice. The players also know what skills they need to work on to make the next season even better. " We plan to get into the [batting] cages more to improve on batting, and have a strong foundation in it," said junior Becca Yaple.

The softball team had many team sleepovers and dinners in order to get to know the new players as well as the returning players. The journey through the season had a few ups and downs but the girls had a consistent support system from each other.

Ready.. Set.. Go!

Race to the Line and Beat the Time!

When spring rolled around many students looked forward to spring break, warmer weather and the thought of summer vacation being right around the corner. But for others they knew springtime meant time for track and field! Over the course of the second semester, the athletes of Liberty's Track and field team put themselves through hard yet beneficial work to succeed and come out on top in their track meets.

Sophomore Lily Morgan reflected on this year's track team and her opinion on her personal performance this year, "This year was my first year on the track team. We had the greatest number of qualified runners attend leagues out of all the teams in the league so I say it was a very successful year. At the end of my season, I ran at Districts in the mile and the 4 x 8 relay. I ran my best times in both, but our 4 x 8 relay team missed states by .8 of a second. I am very proud with the outcome of the team this year," stated Morgan.

Without a doubt many of the athletes this year felt this was their year to shine and show the world what Liberty's Track and Field was made of. With winning records and scores of boys' track 6-3 and girls' 8-1, the team was better than ever. Even after multiple injuries in both the boys and girls team, the track and field still managed to come out on top bringing in a successful season to Mr. and Mrs. Ruth one last time. # Lightning Fast

Boys lacrosse team is growing in popularity.

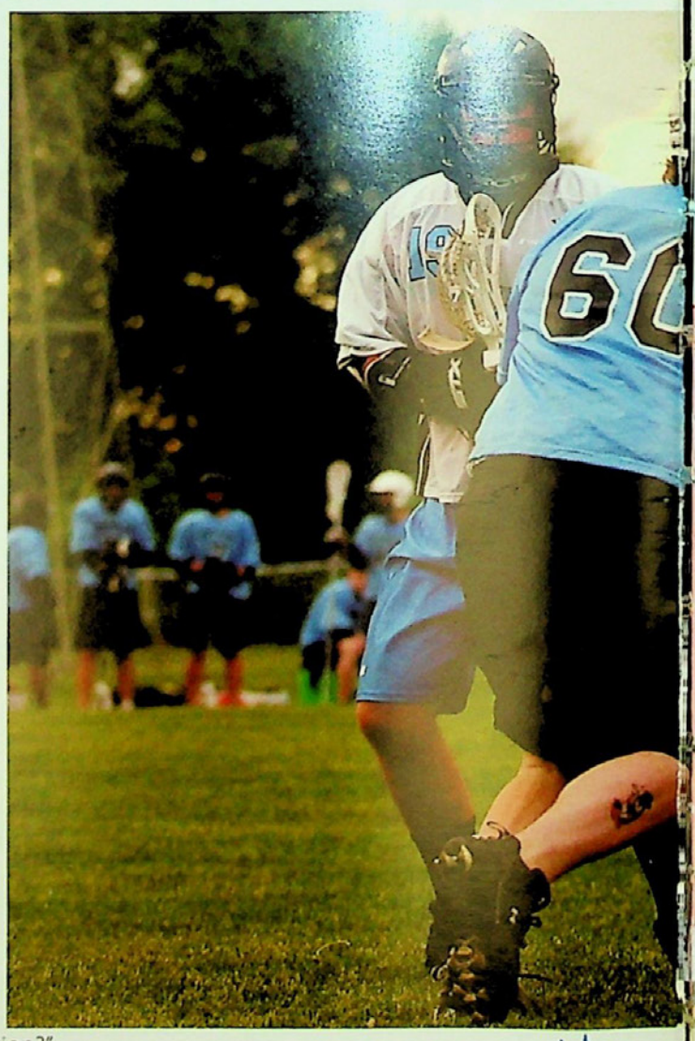
The storm watch is out and teams have begun to brace themselves. With four years under its belt, Bethlehem Lightning Lacrosse is growing in popularity and skill as the years pass by. Many of the team's seniors have been with the team since it first began in 2003, and sadly see another season come to an end. Senior co-captain Tyler Long has been playing lacrosse for seven years and reminisces about the impact it has had on his life: "I've made some of my best friends by playing lacrosse. We had a great time doing something we all love."

For the guys, however, lacrosse is not always fun and games. Week after week long practices consist of plenty of conditioning and ball handling skills. Senior Colin Bauer explains that one of the hardest things about lacrosse is "definitely cradling and handling the ball." Although there will a number of seniors leaving the team, junior Mark Moyer clarifies that most of the underclassmen hold a positive view for next season. "Losing all the seniors is what's going to hurt us the most, but I think we have a lot of promising upcoming players who are ready to show their stuff." Even though another season has come to a close and players have entered the off season, be careful, it's only the calm before the storm.



Q: "What is the most difficult thing about your position?"

Taking Possession

One of the fastest growing team sports in the U.S

After an intense warm up, the girls huddled around Coach Sexton as they got pumped up for the start of another game of the season. The girls practiced everyday for two hours. "As the captain of the team I usually round up all the girls and start a huge circle stretch. We follow with a mile run and begin practice with various drills", varsity captain Whitney Derrico stated. Working their hardest on every game, they focus on one main thing taking possession of the ball and scoring.

Even though they had rough times throughout the season, the varsity team had the opportunity to beat Parkland on Parkland's senior night. "It was funny because they were so confident they were going to win, and we were thrilled because we actually beat them and ruined their senior night," said senior Nicole Geist.

With four years of fun and experience and 27 new girls, the girls lacrosse club has been fastly growing with a total of 50 varsity and junior varsity players. The players enjoy every single minute of it, "I just love going to practice and being able to talk to everybody, since we are all really close, we just have fun", junior Rachel Bochner said. With 14 seniors leaving the lacrosse team, the new girls have the opportunity to build a new foundation and form a bond for the future girls' lacrosse. No matter what their overall score was, the girls put in all their effort and energy into their season to make it a memorable one.

Synchronization
Organizations

As young children we believed that after school was a time for snacks, play dates, and cartoons. However, once you enter young adulthood, you find yourself wanting to have a sense of belonging and contribution to your school. With over 50 different active clubs including, wica/ pagan, SADD, and Chess club, the feeling of belonging is a very easy task because their is a niche for everyone.

These different organizations give students a chance to come together and synchronize with fellow classmates who share the same interest. This synchronization helps to create the Liberty community, where teachers are not just club advisors but also take an interest in what we are doing. Or where students do not mind coming in on the weekend to do something to better our school.

The beat within yourself is what creates your high school experience and is what will affect future classes. It does not matter if you are in anime club member or a member of NHS; once you are involved here, your imprint is left and will stay forever.

The Pulse
People

It is said that a picture is worth a thousand words. A picture shows more than if you were having a bad hair day, if you could not decide weather to smile with your mouth open or closed, or if you were in a bad mood. A picture brings back the memories that you share with all of your friends, including those of whom you will have for a lifetime and others that may just be acquaintances.

Class picture day rolls around each and every year, and when that day finally comes, some take it very seriously. Many primp themselves to obtain that certain glow, so when you turn the page, they are the first thing to catch your eye. Others wear bright colors or certain logos, so they can make that extra effort to look a little different, to be diverse. Some just shrug it off; it is just a class picture after all. Looking back on those pictures, though, you may find yourself sitting around with your friends laughing, "Wow, were those butterfly clips really in style?" or, "look at him with braces." Nonetheless, your class picture is a keepsake of what you will be remembered by.

Every time someone glances back at your face it will trigger a memory, a shared past time, and what made you, you. People will remember your winning goal at the big Liberty vs. Freedom soccer game, your lead in the spring musical, or maybe, your seat next to them in your sophomore math class. Each picture holds that story—the story that made you beat. At the end of the year, that picture is one of the many things that you will be remembered by forever.

Beat This...

David Anthony - Senior

Trustworthy, Loyal, Helpful, Friendly, Courteous, Kind, Obedient, Cheerful, Thrifty, Brave, Clean, and Reverent. For years, the Boy Scouts of America have incorporated these values into producing men of solid character and morals. From Cub Scout to Eagle Scout, Senior David Anthony culminated his eleven year run with a service project to aid Liberty High School. "Most people just do any project that sounds good and will get the job done. I wanted to do something I had a passion for." David was disturbed to witness the condition of American flags within the school which were deteriorating and torn. "The state of the flags undermined everything they stood for. Soldiers die under our flag, and they should be treated with respect." He presented his project to United Way's TeenWorks board and was granted the $2085 needed to fulfill his goal. Then, David arranged a flag retirement ceremony, where the flags were spoken over by the likes of Dr. Donaher and Representative Steve Samuelson and then properly burned.

The student body can now show their patriotism and appreciate the significance of our Pledge of Allegiance with pride. So as future classes recite "...with liberty and justice for all" each morning, they have David Anthony to thank for the brand new American Flags which are icons to everything our country fights for and believes in.

Body Art

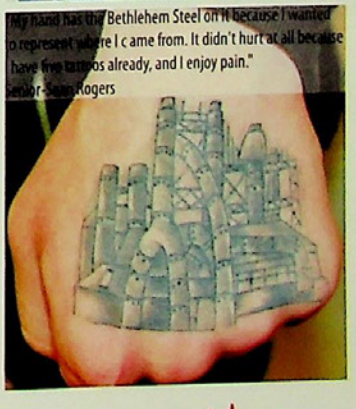
Many Americans who have tattoos on their body receive them during their adolescent years. Liberty High School students are no exception. As you walk down the hallways you can view your fellow classmates sporting Chinese letter inscribed necks, name-clad lower backs, star-splattered feet, and everything in between. Why has this inking trend grabbed hold of such a numerous amount of students? "Tattoos are a form of self expression that's permanent and always with you," senior Ryan Kennedy remarked. This form of art is controversial but will most likely be a lasting trademark of our generation. You can't take a canvas around with you to express yourself, but you can if you turn your body into a canvas of self expression.

"I got the tattoo because I thought it looked cool and I like skulls."
Senior-Raymond Mamuzich

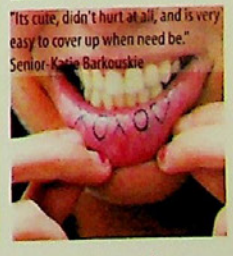
"The Chinese symbol means 'spoiled', which is very appropriate, since I am very spoiled."
Senior-Mystique Mendoza

"I liked how intricate the wings are, though that part hurt. Also, the tattoo is large, so it looks good on my lower back."
Senior-Julitsa Gonzalez



"My hand has the Bethlehem Steel on it because I wanted to represent where I came from. It didn't hurt at all because I have five tattoos already, and I enjoy pain."
Senior-Sean Rogers

"The tattoo is Vengeance in Latin, this tattoo describes me to a T."
Senior-Jovan Hernandez



"Its cute, didn't hurt at all, and is very easy to cover up when need be."
Senior-Katie Barkouskie

Gift of Life

With the commitment of the Chairpersons, guidence of Advisor Mr. Richard Lund, recruitment efforts of NHS members,and sacrifice of donors the Miller Keystone Blood Center was able to hold three blood drives at Liberty High School. Construction restricted the blood drives from being held in the gymnasium this year, so two out of the three drives were held in donor vans. "The donor vans made the planning process more difficult, but the Blood Drive Committee pulled through and they ran just as smoothly as they did in the past," Mr. Richard Lund stated. Pulling through is an understatement being that over 200 pints were donated, which has the potential of saving many people. This spectacle of community action shows that the Liberty community is helping to save lives, one pint at a time.

When she was seven years old, senior Lindsay Gray started tennis lessons. She now has a full tennis scholarship to George Mason University in Fairfield, Virginia.

Aside from using and exercising her great talent, Lindsay strived to be even better. She attended a tennis academy in Tampa, Florida during parts of her middle and high school careers, where she went to school half of the day and spent the rest of the day practicing with her coaches.

During her tennis career, Lindsay has traveled all over the country with her private coach playing in and winning nation wide tournaments. She came in second at states and won player of the year at Liberty. "Tennis is such a big part of my life, it has taken me so far and to such great places," said Lindsay who can't wait to start her tennis career at George Mason.

Crash

Seven students were chosen for the "every fifteen minutes" program organized by SADD. The program is designed to send a message to students to help them make good decisions. It starts out with a simulated crash with Timothy Sawruk as the intoxicated driver transporting Richard Cabrera, Katherine Roehrenbeck and Brittany Vasquez. Timothy's car crashed into the second vehicle which held Shannon White, Lindsay Gray, and Christopher Hill. Everyone was overwhelmed with shock and sadness as eyes welled up while Timothy was taken away handcuffed while the others were taken away in speeding ambulances and in earsplitting helicopters. The next day the students put on a mock funeral for Richard and Lindsay, while Timothy read the deciest parents' letters in a jumpsuit while handcuffed. The 11th and 12th grade students watched film of Timothy's arrest in the county jail and Katherine and Richard's experience being rushed to the trauma bay. Each student was able to experience one of the most terrible situations that could happen with drinking and driving but were able to walk out of it with not so much as a bruise. "All we can hope is that one person will think twice before drinking and driving," senior Shannon White expressed.

Fatal Collision

Senior Lindsay Gray is shot from the windsheild of the car, and is dead upon arrival. "It was so realistic, besides almost literally dying from the heat, it was an experience I will always remember when making decisions," Gray said.

Grief-Stricken

Senior Shannon White is in disbelief that her good friend Lindsay Gray, who was in her car died in the accident. "Alot of people in high school dont take drinking and driving seriously, but I doubt my classmates would want to lose a friend. It was a wake-up call for everyone," White exclaimed.

Russell Snow - Senior

Eight years ago, Russell Snow began taking saxophone lessons. Now, Russ can proudly say that he has five more instruments tucked under his belt. In addition to the saxophone, Russ plays the drums, vibraphone, guitar, piano, and the harmonica. Although he has played the saxophone the longest, Russ devotes most of his time to his 17 piece drum set, the biggest set in Bethlehem.

Russ has been in many bands over the years, including Liberty's Grenadier Band, The Real Eyes Society, a Red Hot Chili Pepper's Tribute Band, and a Dream Theater Tribute Band. He's performed at the Ice House for three years as well as at graduation parties and basement concerts.

Russ was awarded Lehigh Valley's Fastest Drummer this year and won a $1,000 scholarship for Berklee's Summer Performance Program. "I love music because I enjoy doing things that other people enjoy," stated Russ.

Russ will be attending Moravian College and majoring in Music Performance in the fall. After college, Russ wants to join a Progressive Metal Band and hopefully pursue music for the rest of his life. "Music is what I live for. I don't care about fame, as long as I'm still loving what I'm doing and making people happy," Russ exclaimed.

Murals for Learning

Senior Angel Diaz paints a mural of the surrounding area's natural trees in the Illicks Mill. "We wanted the kids who come to the Mill in the future to see and learn about the trees and other natural beauty that surrounds the Mill," Diaz said. The mural was worked on by Frances Sanchez, Emily Burtner, Chelsey Spadt, and Angel Diaz.

Beat This...

Though the subject is taboo, the reality is that many girls become pregnant during their teen years. The stigma associated with teen pregnancies include dropping out of high school, living off of the government, and generally not doing much with their lives.

At the age of thirteen, when Senior, Keiry Olavarria suffered the loss of her father, she felt alone in the world. She sought companionship and soon also became a statistic in everyone's eyes when she became pregnant. "All of my family said that I would become nothing, having a child at my young age would make me forever unsuccessful," Keiry stated.

After experiencing negativity that would discourage the best of us, Keiry worked hard to prove everyone wrong. She became a nurse's assistant to become a stable provider for her new family, maintained excellent grades, and still found the time to be a loving mother. "When you have no help, you have to use your resources. The day care at Liberty was a godsend, and my teachers and the staff in SSC 102 were so accommodating," Keiry explained.

She is now not only a high school graduate, but a soon to be freshman at Moravian College who aspires to become a Nurse Practitioner. "Though they should be prevented, teen pregnancies are still going to happen. I feel that people should know that it is not the end of the road for them. Most teen mothers are unsuccessful because society expects them to be, and they should have the strength to overcome that," Keiry expressed. This young woman is a true testament to the fact that no matter what obstacles are thrown your way, and she had many, you can achieve anything when you have desire and work ethic.

West Point Military Academy. Easily one of the most prestigious institutions of higher learning, physical prowess, and servitude to the United States of America. With an acceptance rate of less than 25%, only the best and the brightest are chosen to join the ranks of distinguished students. Nicole Veltri is one of those few chosen hopefuls. She decided at a young age to follow her sisters foot steps and join the military.

Over her high school years, she cultivated that desire along with her love of math and science into a plan to work with disarming explosives. What better place to hone success then at West Point? She showed her academic capabilities by maintaining her grades in honors courses, and being an active member of the National Honor Society as well as the President of the National Vocational Honor Society. Her physical capabilities where displayed through her participation in the Protective Services program at Vo-Tech and her twirling career. In addition, she displayed moral character and leadership skills through volunteering and leadership roles, respectively. She also had to go above and beyond what most college applicants have to do and got a principal-nomination from Representative Charles W. Dent., a prestegious honor.

"I would have done whatever it took to get to West Point, there wasn't even a back-up or safety school to consider," Nicole exclaimed. Her dreams came true, and she will endure intense training and boot camp as well as rigourous academics, but she is up for the challenge and excited to take on all the military has to offer her.

Out With A Bang!

"As we walk out, lets start a riot," was painted on Senior shirts on the last Senior school day. The Class of 2007 stayed true to their word and at 6:45 am, the pandamonium began. Students planned to bombarde the teachers parking lot before the faculty arrived and met on Grenedier Blvd to begin the parking fiasco. They then danced in the parking lot until the teachers arrived, ignored the beeping of the angry faculty, and walked away.

The parking was not to be the only prank pulled that day, as seniors saught to outdo not only each other, but previous LHS graduating classes. "The things pulled off by the Class of 2007 was by far the most extreme of any class I have seen in my nine years as an employee here," remarked guidance counsler Ms. Natalie Ortiz. The onslaught of pranks included rodents released in the cafateria, water balloon fights throughout the day, slip and slides with water and with bleach in the overpasses, eggs on the staircases, pudding wrestling at Monocacy Park, and much more.

Tickets where issued, cars where booted, slips and falls where had, and some suspensions where given for the lasting impressions the class made upon Liberty High School. But the ideas enacted, memories made, and laughs shared where well worth it.

Bust a Move

A group of Seniors gather around the teachers parking lot after taking up all faculty spots. "All the Seniors wanted to pull the prank of all pranks and park the teachers out to make them park in two hour to get tickets like we did all year," Matthew Glose joked.

Bust a Move

Seniors Raquel Robbins, Julitsa Gonzalez, and Alexandria Lafci hold up water balloons they were ready to launch at all underclassman. "At the end of every year there are water fights, but this year as seniors we were basically against everyone who wasnt a senior. It was so much fun, we got drenched but we definetly won," laughed Gonzalez

168,303,616 heart beats = four years of memories

Class of 2007

My Dearest Class of 2007,

It has been four very short years since you touched my heart with your kindness and your everlasting love of your Alma Mater, 'Dear old Liberty High'. I wish that you could stay longer, but you have many paths to take. I have so many fine memories of all the good times we had and I will cherish them long after graduation. I, along with Mrs. "Paula" Hrichak, your counselors, Mrs. Clewell and Miss Vazquez, Mr. Kehler and Mrs. Frisch are proud of your many accomplishments. You truly have left your mark in every endeavor from academics, athletics, artistically, and musically. You have carried on the Liberty traditon of excellence.

I will always be proud of you as you are my "last official class". You have weathered the storm of contruction and learned that it takes a long time to complete a perfect product. I, like you, am at a crossroad in my career. In so many ways, we are both looking into new horizons and planning to achieve our visions of the future.

Always work hard to achieve your goals. Remember to be compassionate about the things that you do. Be caring and look out for mankind. You will be successful! Wherever the trail of life takes you, remember that Liberty is your home and you are always welcome!

Your friend and Principal for Life,

Mrs. JoAnn Durante

Are you STRESSED?

Stress is your body's way of responding to any kind of demand. Contrary to what many people think, stress is not always a bad thing; stress can be caused by good and bad experiences. When people feel stressed by something going on around them, their bodies realease chemicals into the blood. These chemicals give people more energy and strength. Below are some stresses that students experience and the ways they relieve them.

What causes stress?

What relieves stress?

Q: Do you like block scheduling?

A: "I think we get a lot accomplished, but it's hard when you have a class in the begining of the year because you don't have it again til the next year." –Emily Priestas '08

Emily Gasda - Junior

Most girls planning to go to homecoming or prom spend hours shopping online or in stores looking for the perfect dress. In ninth grade, Emily Gasda decided she wanted to stand out from the rest of the girls and make a dress of her own. "I wanted to make something interesting and original," Emily remembers, "I was hoping to turn some heads." After weeks of toying with her sewing machine, her classy strawberry-colored strapless dress was finished. Emily has now had years of experience experimenting with different fabrics and patterns. The flashy gold dress she created for this year's homecoming took her only seven hours to complete. Although Emily is continuing to make dresses and has moved on to shirts, she doesn't wish to pursue a career in design. "Making clothes for me and my friends is just a hobby. I'm actually interested in joining the Peace Corps."

Parking Problems Prove A Point!

This year due to major construction at Liberty High School, students have fallen victim to numerous parking tickets given in two hour parking. Since the sidewalk from "Grenny" to the courtyard has been closed off, there are no other available lots forwhich to park so students choose to park in two hour to aviod longs walks in the cold weather. Unfortunately, because of class schedules conflicting with time limits in two hour- students have had to face the consequences and pay fines.

"There is absolutely nowhere to park, I end up parking in two hour, and then I get a ticket. Throughout the week I have my glove compartment loaded with tickets!" Exclaimed junior Mary Lawrence.

...pt getting tickets so I started parking on ...adier in the morning and then moving my ... to two hour after lunch. There's not enough ...king." Senior Joseph Buffi told us.

"I would totally pay for a parking permit if there was such a thing for Liberty students. I can not stand driving up and down roads and never finding anywhere to park," stated junior Sophia Abud.

Anthony Pepe and Mike Erseg

Anyone who has ever tried to solve a Rubik's Cube knows that it takes a lot of time and effort. Most people either give up or try to cheat. Anthony Pepe , Mike Erseg, and a group of their friends not only know how to solve it but they can solve it in under a minute. Anthony was first introduced to the Rubik's Cube when one of his friends received a cube for his birthday, and Anthony witnessed this friend solve it with lightning speed and accuracy. Anthony became interested and started practicing right away. "It took me awhile before I could get it down, but there is just a certain method you have to know to get it right," Anthony explained. When Anthony finally got it down, he taught Mike. Mike can now beat Anthony with a time of 50 seconds. Anthony, Mike, and his friends often have cube-offs. Both Mike and Anthony even know how to create a checkered pattern.

Q: "Where do you hang out with your friends after school?"

A: "I usually go to the weight room, all the guys are already there so it's a good place to hang out before we lift." – Travis Schuch '09

Flipping off the wall on her second flip turn, sophomore, Jessica Guro, glanced up at the clock. In astonishment she thought, "wow, my split is pretty good, I better keep on pushing." What a great idea that was. Fifteen year old Jessica finally finished the race. Immeditely looking up to her dad in the audience she was all smiles, she hit her record time, and made it into the olympic trials. Next June, Jessica, along with many other talanted swimmers will travel to the olympic trials to try to be on the next olympic team. Jessica recollects about the special day, "when I was walking out onto the deck the music was blasting, I was in line with some of the top swimmers in the nation, thinking that this is just crazy."

Community Service:

A positive attribute to our curriculum or a burden?

Composed and Created by: Kelsey Dilendik and Liza Genova

60 hours of community service is too much. If I could, I would lower the requirement to only 25 hours.
Sophomore, Lindsey Hunsicker

During a recent survey of 150 randomly selected students, 63% of students here at Liberty High School have not yet completed their community service.

50% of those students are juniors.

For every three juniors that have not completed their community service, there is one freshmen who has already achieved the 60 hour requirement.

I don't think community service is needed. I am in many other activities throughout school and I think that all of the hours spent on those clubs should count.
Junior, Zach Borghi

Students who are doing well in class should be rewarded community service hours depending on how well they do.
Junior, Austin Emmons

We shouldn't have to do community service becuse sometimes it can get in the way of school work.
Sophomore, Noah Glickman

How does your religon stand out amongst the average Beat?

"After reading history books I've come to the conclusion that organized religon has done more harm than help. That's why I have branched out from my family and become Agnostic."

Sen[illegible]ndon-Yuki Nagai

"Episcopalian's have one mother and one father at every service. We are somewhat like Catholics, but we don't follow as many of their customs."

Sophomore–Heather Lawrence

"We discuss the gospel, sing hymns, and have fun. Moravians meet every Sunday for about an hour and a half, just like many religons. We just follow in a different way."

MOM?!

We have all heard the famous moans and groans of the eleventh grade Honors Chemistry class, taught by Mrs. Guarriello. It is one of the hardest classes offered at Liberty. "I feel as if I'm a junior in high school stuck in a college chemistry class. This class takes a lot of work to keep up with Mrs. G," remarked junior Emily Priestas. We have also heard about the fun cultural experiences that Mrs. Roman brings to Honors Spanish IV and V. "Mrs. Roman has a unique style of teaching. She encourages her students to get involved in their community and incorporate spanish in everyday life," explained senior Brian Zakeski How would you like one of these teachers to be your mother? Here's what their kids have to say:

Corrine & Bethany Hertzog

Kathleen & Megan Halkins

Tammy & Lauren Adelsberger

Jordan Roman
Freshman
"I don't think having my mom as a teacher at Liberty is an advantage or disadvantage. I never really ask her for help, but if I ever had a problem I know my mom would be there for me."

Carolyn Roman
"If I had Jordan in my class it wouldn't really be that awkward. I like to think of every student as a child of my own. I grow a connection with every student I have."

Rachel Guarriello
Freshman
"I don't mind having my mom as a teacher at Liberty. The only thing is that she knows everything I do. I almost feel that I have to follow every rule because my mom would find out."

Beth Guarriello
"I changed Rachel's diapers, of course I want her to call me mom in class!"

Q: "What is your favorite class to teach and why?"
A: "Sports Marketing 2 becuase we talk about all the different levels of sports, how to make money and we do a lot of fun fun projects." – Kristin Spang

Mixing at the Mill

Senior Peter Korpics is mixing concrete to help put on the walls at the mill. "Illicks Mill is a different atmosphere than regular school days because you know that every day you have something to do that will better the community," Pete commented.

The Root
Community

After the last bell rung, and the school day was finally over, students wondered what to do with their evening. Some went to sports practices, others to music lessons, and some studied for their math tests, but there were many that stood out above the rest. These students worked hard to make our community a better place to live and work while still having fun.

The student body is composed of various individuals who help in different ways. Some volunteer their time restoring important parts of our city, such as Illicks Mill. Others put in hours working at local restaurants and stores to make our civilians happy.

With everyone working together for the good of the town, Bethlehem is a place of happiness. Whether taking a peacful walk on Main Street, capturing the old look of our town, or sitting at a corner cafe sipping hot cocoa, there is a little part of Liberty everywhere you turn. There is a memory that sticks out and makes this town more then just buildings; it makes Bethlehem the work of the students who put forth their time and effort to make our town stand out.

"I hope you still feel small when you stand beside the ocean.
Whenever one door closes, I hope one more opens.
Promise me that youll give faith a fighting chance
And when you get the chance to sit it out or dance,
I hope you dance..."

Ryan,
We are so very proud of the man you have become. Always do your best and you will succeed at whatever you pursue.

With all our love, Mom & Dad

Ryan Lally

"Friends may come and go,
And relationships may drift apart,
But brothers are forever."

Congratulations and best wishes!

Love, Brandon

P.S. Can I have your computer when you leave for college?

Mary Kate Serratelli

Mary Kathleen, (Mary Kate, Mare, M-K),
I cannot believe you are leaving me already! It is hard to imagine that in a few months I will be all by myself. I am going to miss you so much. I am going to miss movie nights, snuggling, Rita's after school, and most of all, going to the "Y"!! Best of luck in college, I can't wait to see you—wearing a purple and gold uniform—Go Rams! My life is going to be so different without you and you better call me everyday!!

Love you,
Maggie (Magpies, Peggy, Marge)
P.S. — 10 and 40 forever!

"There is no better friend than a sister. And there is no better sister than you." –Author Unknown

Mary Kate Serratelli & Justin Rivera

Thanks for all of the amazing memories. You're my best friend and I love you!
. . . forever and ever . . .

Love,
Mary Kate

Q: "What is the silliest reason you and a friend or family member got into a fight?"

A: "My sister and I were fighting about agreeing!" – Erin Garvey '07

Kristina Koufalis

You have grown to be such a beautiful and kind young woman. I am so proud of you. Congratulations and good luck in the future.

Ashley Benson & Elizabeth Briggs

Crazy days, messed up nights
Tons of crushes and stupid fights
Secrets we're taking to our graves
Memories forever to be saved
Throughout thick and thin, always true
Don't know where I'd be without you.

The Gilliard Family

Rick, Tyler & Kylie,
To the three most important people in my life, I thank you for the love and happiness you bring me. Not a moment goes by that I don't think about each of you. Without you, I could not be who I am today. It is your love and support that allows me to be successful.

Ben Foltz

Congratulations Ben!

It has been exciting watching you grow and achieve. Your football career came a long way from the Steelers' field to back-to-back championship games in Hershey because you and your teammates pushed your limits and refused to give less than your best. Meanwhile, you used the same principles to continuously deliver academically, and you chose friends wisely and made strong decisions in your personal life. As you move on to college, we know that you will continue to excel in all you do. Your whole family is proud of you.

Watching you mature
Into this wonderful man,
Has been an adventure and a blessing
That only a parent can understand.

We love you and support you
And there's no way we can hide,
All the happiness you have given us
Has filled our hearts with pride.

Your vibrant personality
Will guide you through the years,
It'll give you strength and passion
To conquer all your fears.

Your younger brother, Justin
Is so proud of you.
You have given him the inspiration
To make HIS dreams come true.

And if one day, you need some help
You know who to throw the towel to.
We'll lend a hand anyway we can
Because we are here for you.

Son, discover all this imaginable
Learn all that you can.
And never forget the past
Of your journey to becoming a man.

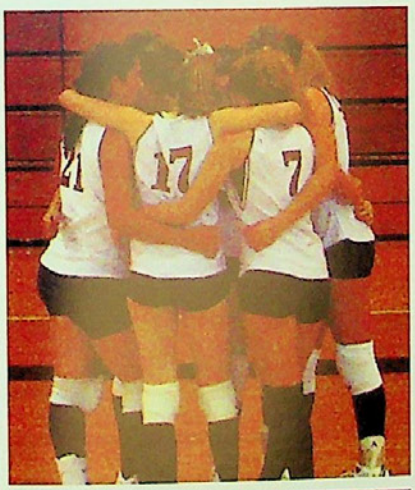
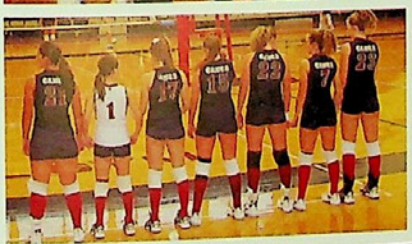
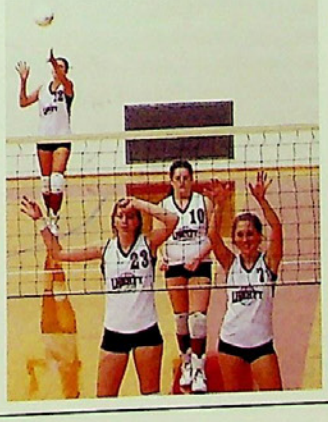
Four years ago our first season began
Now the games we've played and the miles we ran
Have only helped to make us stronger
And to keep us friends for even longer







Q: "Have you ever had a really bad argument with a relative or friend?"

A: "I had a terrible argument with my sister; she broke my cell phone so we were fighting really bad." – Jordan Laubach '08

Megan Phyllis Burk

Our Dearest Megan,
As we waived goodbye to you on your first day of kindergarten with tears in our eyes, we now smile with pride as you graduate from high school. You are a beautiful, intelligent young woman and have made us very proud to call you our daughter. Daddy and I pray for your happiness wherever life journeys take you.

All our love,
Mom & Dad

Dear Meggie, Chegan, Mooger, Sissy,
Has the day really come where you are graduating from Liberty? Geez, I can still remember watching the Rugrats ("Buh-Buh's!), and going miniature golfing in the summer with Grandma and Grandpa. Wow, it is unbelievable how fast time flew. We have been through some incredible times and some gloomy times; but there is no one else in the world I would have rather shared those times with other than you. I promise I will be here for you no matter what happens throughout your lifetime.

Love always and forever, Sissy

P.S. Yes, I will be raiding your closet before I leave for Australia!

Dear Megan,
You are our last grandchild to graduate. (WOW) We enjoyed seeing you in all your extra curricular activities and we're very proud of all your accomplishments and working with the Bethlehem Police Dept. for your community service (you were the best MCGRUFF ever). May all your life long dreams come true. God Bless Megan. We love you

Grandma & Grandpa

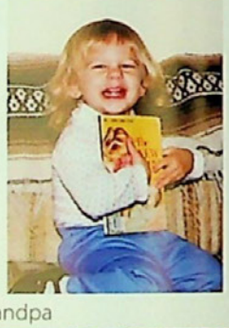
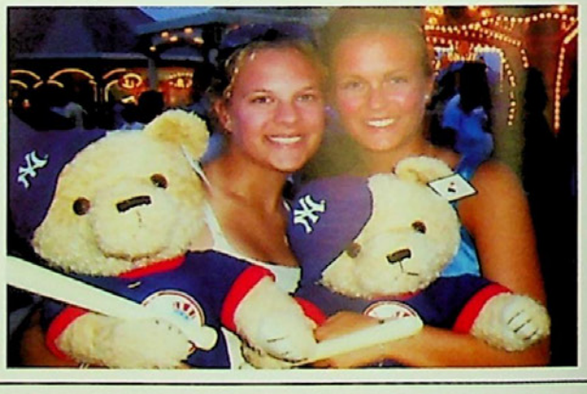
P.S. Go get them mooger, Love Grandpa





Q: "What is one piece of advice your family has given you for high school?"

A: "Enjoy your high school years because once they are gone, they don't come back." – Heather Kinney '09

MaryKate Serratelli

Our Darling MaryKate, Where have the years gone?? We have enjoyed with pride watching you gorw and develop into a beautiful young lady. We admire the vigor and determination you have put into attaining every goal you have set for yourself. We know ou will continue to follow your dreams. Always count your blessings: faith, family, and friends. God bless you; May He always hold you in the palm of His hand.

Love you more than the stars in the heavens, the trees in the forrest, the fishies in the ocean . . .

Your very proud,
Mom & Dad
XOXOXO

Brittany Vazquez

May you plié, pas de bourrée and jeté through life. Thank you for being such a wonderful daughter and sissy.

With Love,
Mom, Dad, & Ben

Michelle VanWhy

Congratulations Michelle

It seems like just yesterday you started kindergarten, now you're graduating! We are so proud of who you've become.

Q: "What is one piece of advice your family has given you for high school?"

A: "Always watch out before you make a choice." – Darleen Justance '09

Angela Urbano & Emily Rodriguez

To Our Precious Daughters Angela & Emily:

"Make new friends, but keep the old . . ."

It has been an amazing experience for us, watching you both grow and flourish, finding your own paths and interests, but remaining close in heart, since the age of 2. You have both come a long way since our daily trips to feed the ducks on the shore of the Monacacy. May you continue to discover what make your heart happy, but never overlook life's simple pleasures along the way. We love you, we are proud of you, and we wish you God's blessings in all you do.

All our love,

Your Moms xoxo

Natalie Scott

Congratulations Natalie! Everyone is so very proud of you! You have been an achiever all of your life, may you continue to achieve and be blessed in many ways for your determination, dedication, persistance, and hard work. Always keep sight of your goals and never waiver. Wishing you the best of everything from the bottom of our hearts and may all of your dreams come true!

Love Always and Forever,

Mom, Dad, Matt, Nicole & Julie XO

Congratulations Jessica

From our sweet little girl to a mature lady, you have a great future ahead of you.

Q: "What kind of relationship do you have with your family?"

A: "I have a pretty tight relationship with my family; we are always there for eachother" – Steve Heaney '07

Katie Roehrenbeck

Dear Katie,
It has been so much fun watching you grow over the years. You have formed so many lasting relationships along the way. Now, as you prepare to go, keep these past memories close to your heart and embrace the future with the same determination as you have today. Continue to make each day an adventure as you work toward your goals. We are very proud of all of your accomplishments and look forward to watching you make your dreams a reality.

Love,
Dad, Mom, Megan, Francesca, & Bailey

Sondra Anderson

Congratulations Sondra!

We are so proud of you. May God bless you with happiness and success. May God lead you with confidence in your journey of life. Remember to enjoy life and laugh often.

Dan Persa & Mike Hitchings

Dan,
During the past four years, you have been defined by achievement:
ACADEMIC
ATHLETIC
COMMUNITY

However, none of these come close to defining you. You are a son, a brother, a grandson, a friend, an idol, a teammate, a student, a nephew . . .

Most of all you have been someone beyond definition. Thanks for allowing us to be part of this incredible journey.

The next chapter of your life awaits you. Cover your eyes the future is bright!

Always remember to be yourself, speak your mind and most importantly, "it's no big deal."

Love,
Mom, Dad, Emily, & Drew

Through The Years

Neighbors . . .

School Days . . .

Teammates . . .

Always Friends

Mike,

Always Smiling . . .

May life bring you the joy you have brought to others.

We love you,
Mom, Daddy, Jarret, & Jim

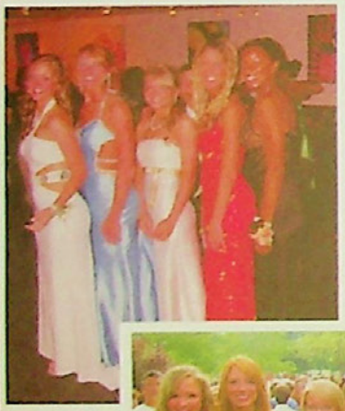
Bethany Hertzog, Ashley Keramas, MaryAnn McConnell, Allison Keramas, Shannon White



"BAMAS"

In 9th grade, together, we began what has now morphed into the unbreakable "BAMAS" bond. You girls are my honestly my very best friends. We've had so many late nights (usually not so late for me), and made so many memories that I will cherish forever. Each one of us contributes a different part that completes our whole, and no matter what happens, I know in my heart that we will always be friends. I love you guys so much! LOVE!!

Love, Bethany (aka "B")

Bethany Hertzog

"I'm all that you've accomplished, you have filled my heart with pride. But most important of all is who you are inside." You have grown into a beautiful young woman both inside and out. God has truely blessed our family with you.

We love you, Bethany!

Jennifer Green

Since the first day you have entered our lives, you have given us happiness, made us proud and honored to have you as our daughter. You're all we've ever dreamed of! May all your dreams come true and enjoy each day of life's journey.

Love, Your Family

Q: "Do your friends and family get along?"

A: "Yes! It's just like having more brothers and sisters." – Ashley Modere '10

Congratulations!

Super job on another successful year. It always brings me joy to visit the staff and see the wonderful job you do on the yearbook. You never cease to amaze me with the things you come up with. I wish all of you seniors the best of luck always and the very best that life has to offer you.

Colophon

The 2007 Cauldron, Volume 82 , was printed in Gettysburg, Pennsylania by the Herff Jones Yearbook Company. Under the guidance of our company representative, Nancy Tunis, and adviser, Lisa Gilliard, the 2007 Cauldron staff was able to produce an original concept book in full color.

Over 900 copies of the Cauldron were sold this year. All seniors received their copy free of charge with the payment of their class dues. Underclassmen were charged a base payment of $70, which was raised to $80 at the end of February 2007. Nameplates were available for an additional charge of $5-$10, depending on the amount of text engraved and the prescence of the graphic. World Yearbook inserts printed by the Herff Jones Yearbook Company were available for an additional charge of $5 and offered 16 pages of full color.

Senior and underclassmen portraits were taken by Christmas City Studio of Bethlehem Pennsylvania. Christmas City Studio photographers also supplied group pictures of Liberty's athletic teams. They were also responsible for processing any film used during the course of the year. Club and organization pictures were taken by Lisa Gilliard and Angel Maury.

The 2007 Cauldron was created using Adobe InDesign CS2 and Adobe Photoshop CS2. Coronet, Abadi MT Condensed Exra Bold, Myriad Pro, and Sanswere the four fonts used throughout the book. All original headlines, copy designs, folios, and captions were designed by Shannon White and Krystin Arrabito All dividers were originally desgined by *Lisa Gilliard*and Megan Halkins Opening layouts were designed by Megan Halkins, Angela Urbano, and Bethany Hertzog All original layouts were proofed by Megan Halkins, Shannon White, Savannah Shively, Angel Urbano, Laura Brunner, Krystin Arrabito and Alexandria Lafci S*hannon White, Krystin Arrabito, Megan Halkins*and *Lisa Gilliard*proofed all final layouts and designed the closing layout.

This year's book consisting of 328 pages, was printed on Bordeaux 100# paper. The cover of the book is a four color Silk Screen. The 2007 Cauldron would like to thank Herff Jones in their assistance with designing our cover

In lieu of sponsors, business advertisments were featured in the yearbook for the second time ever. The Cauldron thanks all of the businesses that appear in this book and thanks the parents and students who purchased ads in the Friends & Family section of the book. A huge thank you goes out to *Jennifer Green*who took over all the managing and business aspects of the book. The Cauldron reserves the right to edit all incoming material from the Liberty High School community for content, grammar, and clarity.

A special thank you goes out to both *Nancy Tunis*and Lisa Gilliard Especially to *Mrs. Gilliard*for giving the Cauldron all of her time and energy. Without her our staff and book would never survive.

GOT MY

The beat within.... is in Ourselves

Now the time has come for us, the Class of 2007 to leave behind the once battered hallways to the underclassmen who will reek the benefits of the renovations but will never have to deal with the brunt of the construction as we did. We may have lost a hallway or two but never our spirits. For we have come to realize that these once gloomy, but now renewed hallways do not reflect what we have accomplished here. They will not tell the stories of the friends we have made or the lessons we have learned that helped make us become the beat within. It is the underclass man, the math teacher, or principal who will carry on the Liberty tradition that we have so rightfully become a part of. Whether you are the kid who hated just about every minute of high school or you had so much school spirit you bared the cold weather to paint your body at football games, you have helped define our legacy here. Now it is only fitting that all good things must come to an end, and the happiness leading up to graduation will only be comesurated with the sorrow that we will no longer physically be a part of the beat within the school walls . This beat however is undying and will run through us where ever life may lead us next.
