SOUTHSIDE Charter Arts HS dedication tomorrow

$26 million, structure to house 650 students and 350-seat theater

BY NATE JASTRZEMSKI
 njastrzowski@ttonline.com

Lehigh Valley Charter HS for the Arts' new building on East Third Street is open for school this week, with the official ribbon-cutting ceremony scheduled for tomorrow afternoon.

School administrators, staff, local officials and community members who have long supported the school's expansion from the old East Broad Street factory building it once inhabited will attend.

The ceremony is expected to begin at 3 p.m. at 321 E. Third Street.

The $26 million, 87,000-square-foot structure was designed by Southside group Artefact, Inc. and built by Bethlehem-based Bucks Development. It will provide educational space for 650 students, and includes a 350-seat theater, a 200-seat performance hall, a rooftop venue, art galleries, laboratories, a library and recording studio.

When he played the innkeeper during the Christmas City's annual pageant, he would say there was no room in the inn. But there was always room in John Cornish's heart for anything that would help others in his beloved city of Bethlehem.

Moravian College's Boyd plan crumbles

BY NATE JASTRZEMSKI
 njastrzowski@ttonline.com

The road for a refurbished Boyd Theatre in center city just got a lot longer. After months of discussion between owner Joyce Heydt and partners J.G. Petrucci Co. of New Jersey and Moravian College, a damaging heavy rain in May sunk the most recent plan.

A release from Moravian last week explained the condition of the building is simply becoming too great a burden for the school to commit to repairing. Moravian was considering renovating and using the building for its original purpose - live theater - but costs have swelled beyond reach.

"We estimated the acquisition and restoration of the Boyd Theatre would range between $22 million to $30 million depending on the extent of deferred maintenance and water damage," said President Bryon L. Grigsby.

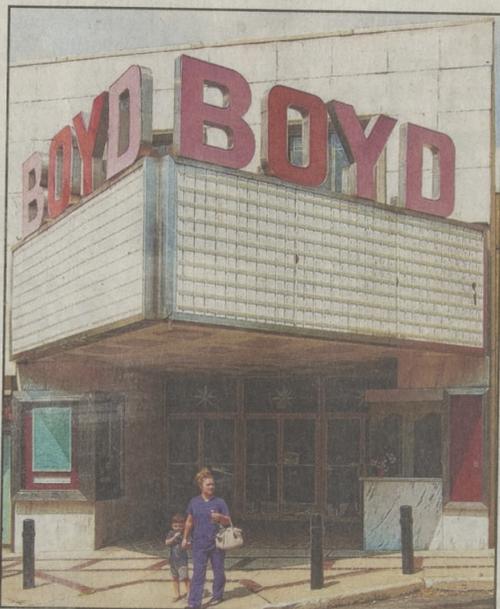

"Moravian College was willing to contribute to this project, but because of already committed projects such as the new health science building and the rehabilitation of the Bethlehem Racquetball Club, Moravian College is not able to fund it alone without securing a lead donor in the $12 million to $15 million range as well as additional funding from private donors and government entities. In addition, Moravian College would also have had to fund the ongoing expenses of operating a theater after the restoration," Grigsby said.

Moravian College is not able to fund it alone without securing a lead donor in the $12 million to $15 million range as well as additional funding from private donors and government entities.

City Director of Community and Economic Development Alicia Karner said in an interview, "It's unfortunate the Moravian deal fell apart. The city was excited, but it was a heavy price tag for [Moravian]."

Karner said a lot of money has been spent on downtown improvements but that section of Broad Street is lagging from having a large, code-noncompliant mixed-use property sitting idle.

Weather damage first closed the historic 600-seat theater in 2011, and it has sat unused ever since, a great empty reminder of decades of local entertainment and family excursions.

Lehigh Valley Chamber's Lynn Collins Cunningham, senior vice president for Bethlehem's downtown, said the Boyd is a difficult emotional issue for many residents.

"There is a lot of history that they don't want to see get lost. And I understand why. I spent many a childhood Saturday afternoon at the Boyd; sitting in the balcony, throwing green Juju Fruits over the edge because we didn't like them, or getting popcorn and then a soda out of the antiquated soda machine. My first date was at the Boyd and I had many other dates after that in that movie theater," Collins Cunningham recalled.

This writer remembers watching "E.T." with his mother and then in high school taking a date to see "Men in Black."

But the building - really two buildings; front and rear - contains additional businesses, second-floor office space and a large basement business space as well. But the offices have been unused for many years and businesses Hello Burrito and Lulu Lemon have suffered severe damage and been forced to close. The hard reality is that the building may have to go, said Collins Cunningham, and it may be best to replace it with new mixed-use buildings with first-floor businesses catering to upstairs residents.

As it is, said Collins Cunningham, "It is hurting the downtown every day that it sits dark. We need something to bring some vibrancy back to that area of Broad Street."

Karner is not without hope, however, concluding, "We just want to see a willing property owner maintain the building and put it into productive use. That's what we're hoping will change."

the depression. "He taught us to eat everything on our plates. We are still willing to try every single food once," Seth said.

After starting his working life at age 12 selling newspapers, John was able to afford his first car at age 16, a 1934 Ford with a rumble seat that would hold 14 people.

"He never lost his love of taking people in his car and always had big car," Seth recalled.

John worked for the Easton YMCA as aquatic director, a job which paid for him to attend Lafayette College. He worked multiple jobs during college, as night clerk, lifeguard, swimming instructor, resident advisor and steward, graduating from Lafayette in 1951 with a degree in mechanical engineering.

While at Lafayette, Cornish met his future wife, Nancy Ritter. His two sons knew that. What they didn't know until much later was that, while working at the Lehigh riverfront swimming area as a life guard, John saved a person from drowning and received a Red Cross award. True to his humble nature, he didn't mention the award and Seth said he only found the award a couple of years ago.

John served as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army during the Korean Conflict, later attaining the rank of captain. During his 13 months in Korea, he spent time at a local orphanage, teaching the orphans singing and telling them about Jesus.

John worked at Bethlehem Steel, as railroad director of safety and training, and research engineer, when the research lab was still under construction, Seth recalled. During that time he earned his master's degree at Lehigh University. He passed some of those lessons on to his sons, as Seth recalled his father teaching them techniques he learned in a speed reading course that helped in their own schoolwork.

John was involved in many local organizations as more than just a member.

"He was not just a name on a list," Seth noted. "He was so involved. He never met a local cause he didn't want to be involved in," Seth said.

With all his activities, John found time to be involved with his sons, as evidenced by the YMCA Father-Son Award. He also served as president of the PTA.

"He really worked hard at being a good parent," Set said. "We weren't easy to handle."

"He left a big hole in our lives. He was a big man," Seth added. "He was not a hypocrite. He lived and breathed his ideals."

"I've spent my life trying to emulate my father," Seth continued, noting that when he went into real estate, "I couldn't think of anyone else I wanted to be my partner. It was the best decision I ever made." John worked with his son at Plaza Real Estate for 27 years.

Friends also spoke of John's dedication during the memorial service. David Landis, president of the Live Bethlehem Christmas Pageant, said he began as lead shepherd, later third wiseman and then Joseph over the years. He said John showed him "the show must go on" and encouraged

'America's volunteer'

BY NATE JASTRZEMSKI

"No job was too small," said Richard "Bucky" Szulborski of his friend John Cornish Friday afternoon. "Anybody who needed help, he was there to volunteer. He believed in community service."

Szulborski knew Cornish first in the 80s, when the Christmas City Fair was strapped for cash and support. They became co-chairs of the event, and Szulborski was impressed with Cornish's ability to work with people, to pull them together and make things happen.

"The Christmas City Fair had a budget of nothing," Szulborski recalls. "Once we were concerned because the security guys' walkie-talkies weren't working. John knew the owner of Radio Shack and arranged the donation of cases of batteries [in time for the event]."

"He was great to work with and had an ability to make people smile. His involvement is truly missed in the community."

John Cornish's son Seth, who twice excused himself for choking up while discussing his father on the phone, said improving the community was intrinsic to the man's identity. "It shaped everything he was. He always said, 'You always get out of the community what you put into the community.'"

Cornish said he spent his childhood Saturday mornings folding envelopes for mass mailings and repairing a fire-damaged Pa. Playhouse. "He brought his family into everything. He was a pretty cool man."

Cornish said his father never looked to build his resume or find recognition from his work, simply insisting volunteerism was his preferred hobby. "Up until he went to the hospital he drove to work every day. He was involved until the very end. He never quit. He was America's volunteer."

"To me, Bethlehem is going to have a hole in it for a while."

him when he became president 12 years ago. Landis recalled John was the innkeeper for 72 performances.

"John was my mentor," he said.

Ken Clifford, president of the Resident Association at Lutheran Manor, said John was treasurer there.

"John had great ideas" which made the Manor a nice place for residents, Clifford recalled.

The memorial service continued with reading from Romans given by The Very Rev. Fr. Daniel Rzesetar, pastor emeritus of Christ the Savior Orthodox Church, Harrisburg, who knew John from Lafayette.

Rev. Jack Steltzer, pastor of Rosemont Lutheran Church, recalled his last conversation with John, who had undergone surgery but was more concerned with getting out of the hospital and apologized for not being able to read the lesson at church that week.

"This city would certainly never be the same," Steltzer said. He said John's tenacious personality showed in his favorite words: yes, no and never give up.

"He said yes to life in so many memorable ways. I am very grateful for him," Steltzer said.

But John also said no when it needed to be said.

"John took a stand on many things in his quiet humble way," Steltzer said. "Without no, we would not know who we are."

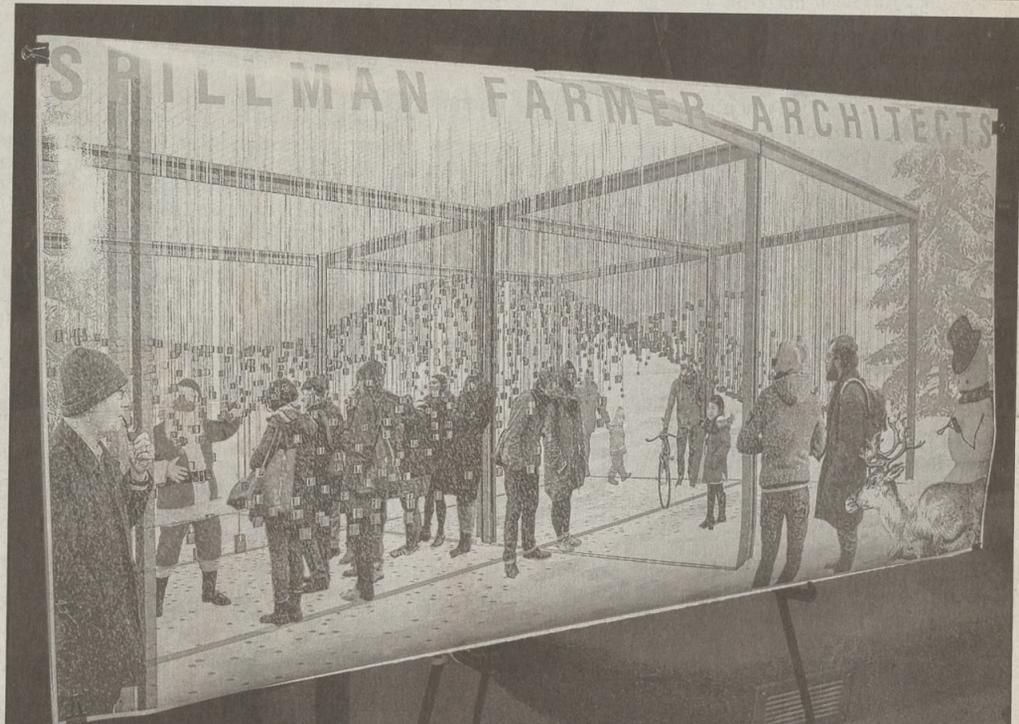

He recalled seeing John in church, "setting his watch to time my sermons" If John had a different viewpoint from the sermon, he would offer the comment, "interesting but different" and present his own views.

"When he liked a sermon I knew it. My inbox was empty," Steltzer said.

He described John's love for his wife and sons and how proud John looked when his granddaughter served as an acolyte for the first time.

While it may be difficult to picture heaven, Steltzer said, "We don't know what is there but we know who is there."

The memorial service concluded with the Great Scoutmaster's Benediction, led by members of Boy Scout Troop 318, where John had been a scoutmaster, troop committee member and merit badge counselor. After "may the Great Master of all Scouts keep our hearts and minds until we meet again," a military honor guard from Fort Indiantown Gap in Anneville sounded taps and presented the ceremonial flag to the Cornish family.

A new Christmas venture

Two lovely keepsakes and a fundraiser to replace trees

BY NATE JASTRZEMSKI
njastrzemi@ttonline.com

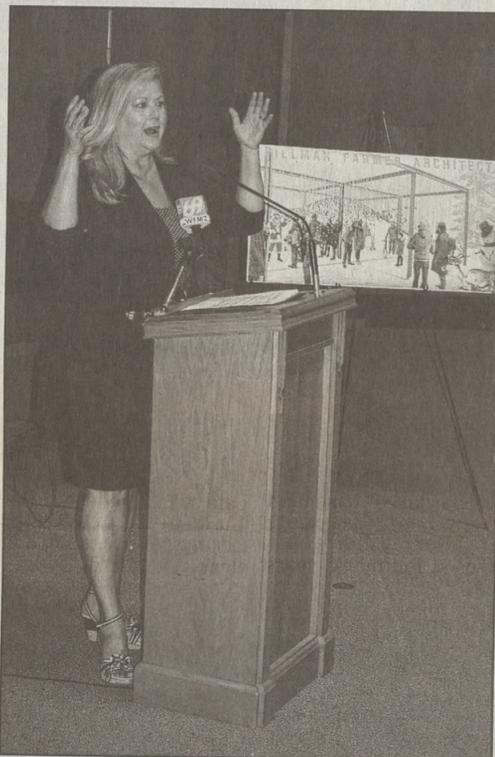

After years of debate, the city's beloved tradition of cutting, mounting and leaving to decay hundreds of small trees each year is ending. Mayor Bob Donchez announced Aug. 21 a long-term fundraising plan that has already begun stockpiling artificial trees with low-cost LED lights to glitter up our downtowns during the Christmas season. Donchez said the city has brainstormed and planned with the Chamber of Commerce, Air Products and Spillman Farmer Architects since March, and the result is a Christmas Trellis.

The trellis itself will consist of simple 10-foot-square rigging erected in Payrow Plaza each year. But upon it will hang hundreds of personalized decorations, each emblazoned with a name and message from its owner, and the proceeds from which will go directly toward purchasing artificial trees.

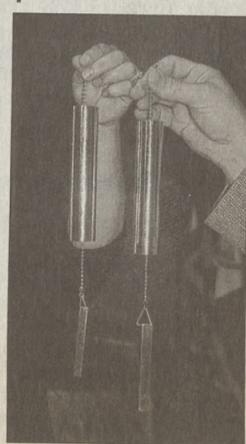

The ornamental keepsakes will change in design each year. This year they're chimes, and the smaller model costs $50 and allows an engraved name and one line of text. The larger costs $100 and allows two lines. But there's only enough space for 250 ornaments on the trellis, and nearly half have already been sold. Ornaments purchased by Oct. 1 will likely be included when the trellis goes up Oct. 27. When it comes down Jan. 10, ornaments can be retrieved from the Chamber by their owners.

Bethlehem Chamber Senior Vice President Lynn Collins Cunningham said it costs the Chamber alone $20,000 each year to purchase the live trees, and Donchez agreed the change will save the city a lot of time and money in the long run, up to an estimated 60 percent in labor alone.

Collins Cunningham said major donations to the Chamber's Citizen's Christmas Committee currently account for about $35,000 of the $80,000 needed for all the trees, each of which costs about $100 and has a lifespan of about 10 years. Funds from successive annual Christmas Trellises will be used to maintain and replace damaged or failing artificial trees in years to come.

Local writer authors book on climate change for common reader

BY KATYA HRICHAK
Bethlehem Press intern

One local author is asking everyone to start recognizing climate change for what it is: a serious threat. Len Frenkel, author of "Will We Survive Climate Change? One Last Chance," chose the subject of climate change for his first book because the issue is one of his greatest concerns.

A friend of his began writing a book on the topic within the last six months, intended for students and environmentalists as well as the general public, and asked Frenkel to edit it. Through reading the book, he became aware that it would not be accessible to those with less than a graduate degree. Feeling strongly that everyone should become educated on the subject of the changing earth, Frenkel decided to write what he calls "a Reader's Digest" version of his friend's book.

Len Frenkel of Bethlehem, wrote "Will We Survive Climate Change? One Last Chance" with hopes of providing the general public with information on climate change and helping to save the world.

According to Frenkel, his book is an introduction to the severity of climate change and addresses the questions of what climate change is, what causes it, what the consequences are and what the future looks like if no measures are taken to counteract it.

He concludes with what he believes is humanity's last chance to prevent the loss of all life on earth.

"It's very serious book," says the Bethlehem resident originally from Queens, N.Y. "I think it covers all aspects of climate change that I'm aware of but not in depth, just enough to give you enough information to be very scared about the future."

"It's much worse than what you read in the newspaper or what you see on television," Frenkel said. For those interested in learning more about climate change and the proposed one last chance, "Will We Survive Climate Change? One Last Chance" is available either as a paperback or an eBook on lulu.com, amazon.com and barnesandnoble.com.

Frenkel hopes that the information contained within the pages will reach millions of people in order to promote change.

"I wrote it to try and save the world," he said.

SOUTH BETHLEHEM*Bringing everyone together

Event promotes university-community understanding

BY LISA KOCAY
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Southside Bethlehem and Lehigh University have a history of strained relations, but two organizations are working together to improve that situation.

The Superiors art collective clothing line and Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity are hosting "Extravaganza: Celebrating Brother Kevin Stripling's 21st Birthday" to bring the Northampton Area and Lehigh University together.

"I think it's going to really let people know that there are creative people at Lehigh University," said Miles Davis, a member of The Superiors and also the former MJ the Sensei. "[There are] creative students that are willing to open themselves up and not limit themselves to just Lehigh University and the campus, but who are willing to go out and meet and interact with the people in Southside and the people in Lehigh Valley, as well."

The event is a birthday celebration for Lehigh University student

Kevin Stripling and will have live performances by Thouzand, SliM, Steel City Sunrise, Minnit and MJ the Sensei. Stripling will also be a featured performer at the event under his stage name Samuraimayne. He said the night will be "everyone's birthday," and will take place Sept. 3 from 10 p.m. until 1 a.m. at the Comfort Suits on Third Street. Tickets will be $2 with college ID and $5 without college ID. Attendees must be 18 years old to enter, and 21 years old to drink.

In Loving Memory of Robert L. Meckes

It feels like it was yesterday when you, Bobby, were taken away from me; but it is going to be 7 years on September 6.

It is very lonely without you. When Jesus calls me, I will be ready for Him, then we will be together again forever.

Your love for me is always in my heart and I know you took my love with you to heaven.

You are missed by all your friends!

Love always & forever,

CITY POLICE Pipeline: Steer clear of watershed

DUI

Police arrested a man for DUI on West Third Street around 12:45 a.m. Aug. 3. Officers stopped the suspect's vehicle for a moving violation and found the driver was operating his vehicle without his mandatory breath alcohol ignition interlock, and was driving while under the influence.

Billie Williams, 42, of Seneca Street, is charged with highest rate of alcohol, general impairment, illegally operating a vehicle without ignition interlock and driving roadways laned for traffic.

DUI

Officers responded to single motor vehicle accident with entrapment on Leithsville Road July 16 around 10 a.m.

EMS and fire personnel were able to free the driver after extensive effort. EMS reported the smell of alcohol and a legal blood draw produced a .18 percent BAC; more than twice the legal limit.

Stacey Coffin, 34, of Furnace Street in Hellertown, is charged with DUI, driving vehicle at a safe speed, careless driving and driving right side of roadway.

The latest changes made in the 114-mile route of the PennEast pipeline, which extends between Wilkes-Barre and Trenton, has Hanover Township supervisors concerned. At their Aug. 25 meeting, they directed Township Manager Jay Finnigan to send a letter to the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC), expressing concerns about route changes that might have a negative impact on the water supply for 115,000 Lehigh Valley residents, including those in Hanover Township.

While expressing no opposition to the pipeline, supervisors were disturbed to learn that the latest changes not only go through the watershed, but place it too close to Bethlehem Authority's

"It is the issue of the water supply that we're concerned about," observed Supervisor Glenn Walbert.

Lower Saucon supervisors have also sent a letter to FERC complaining about the pipeline's impact on the water supply.

Charity bike ride creates memories

Five years ago a family member of a hospice patient approached St. Luke's Hospice to organize a Bike Ride because he wanted to give back to the hospice who cared for his mother. Now, celebrating its fifth year, St. Luke's Hospice Bike Ride has become a way for many others to give back to hospice.

This summer more than 200 riders took to the trail to celebrate life, riding in memory of family and friends. Memorial signs for loved ones dotted the trail under the shining sun.

"The turnout for the hospice bike ride was amazing," said Linda Moller, RN, MSN, Director, St. Luke's Hospice. "Everyone was very enthusiastic and ready to ride."

William Rauenzahn was diagnosed with glioblastoma, a form of brain cancer, in the fall of 2012. After fighting a long battle that included chemo and radiation he transitioned to hospice care in the spring of 2014.

"St. Luke's Hospice gave my dad and my family the support we needed at that time," said rider and Bethlehem resident Aimee Kipila "Because of them, I believe my dad had the most peaceful end of life possible, and we were able to cherish the time we had left with him."

"The last 'normal' cancer-free father's day I had with my dad was spent riding bikes together on the D&L trail, so I rode for him." Aimee, the Patient Care Manager of the Intensive Care Unit at St. Luke's Anderson Campus, rode with a group of friends from her work unit who rode to support her and in memory of St. Luke's Hospice patients.

CONTRIBUTED PHOTO

More than 200 riders started at the D&L trailhead in Lehigh to ride in St. Luke's Fifth Annual Charity Bike Ride.

EVENT

The collection of musical talents is being brought together from Lehigh University and the local area. Steel City Sunrise, Minnit, MJ the Sensei and Samuraimayne are all from Lehigh University, while Thousand and Slim and local rap groups. The Superiors clothing line will have a pop-up shop to sell apparel at during the Extravaganza, too.

Christian Naunay, member of Alpha Phi Alpha, said the event has a lot of potential to bring the talents of Southside and Lehigh University together. He said it is important to expand the networks of the creative talents because the event will be an appreciation of different music genres. Stripling said he hopes people put down their judgments. He feels that the Northampton community and Lehigh community are one whole community, but segregated.

Through the use of flyers, social media and word of mouth, about 150 people are expected to attend, although more are welcome. Stripling said the location was chosen because it is walking distance for the local community and the university students. There will be a bar in the hotel that is walking distance from the ballroom the Extravaganza is held in.

"It's a cool thing to just bring everyone together and show everyone what each other is about, and have a good time with good people and network," Stripling said. "We are a community as a whole, too."

Although part of Hanover Township was once known as Chicken-town, animal husbandry has been banned in residential areas since the 60s. Northampton County Children and Youth caseworker Amy Zanelli would like that policy to change, and appealed to supervisors at their Aug. 25 meeting.

Flashing her badge, she complained that Township Manager Jay Finnigan had engaged in fowl play when he told her that the board is unlikely to change its mind.

"I don't think it's fair that one board member should speak for the rest," she argued.

She asked supervisors to allow her to make a presentation at their next meeting, and they agreed.

Finnigan, who is township manager and not a board member, was relaying their policy as of November 2011, which was the last time this issue was discussed.

that road before, and rather recently," observed Chairman John N. Diacogiannis. But he told Zanelli that she is welcome to make a presentation at a meeting in September.

Zanelli told supervisors that she began circulating a petition that afternoon, and in two hours, had 50 signatures in support of backyard chickens. The only person who refused to sign was the neighbor who had complained. She has been ordered to shut down her operation, or face a fine of $500 a day. She explained that she has a tiny coup of four hens, with no rooster, and uses it to teach her own and other neighborhood children about the benefits of urban agriculture.

"I am sure this was not the type of activity that the community was seeking to prevent when it enacted the ban," she said.

She made clear that she wants more than a special exception. She wants the animal husbandry ban changed.

The increasing popularity of urban chickens has extended into some major metropolitan areas like New York City, Portland and Seattle. But to some, backyard chickens are for the birds. Among the concerns raised are odors, unwanted predators, declining property values, noise and disease.

The Keystone Junior Division baseball team needed extra innings but ended up winning in the finals 16-8 to take gold at the Keystone State games held last month.

LV wins Jr. Division

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

The Lehigh Valley baseball contingent at the Keystone State games proved to have another successful tournament this summer, as the Junior Division team took home the gold medal in this year's tournament.

Lehigh Valley earned the championship with a 16-8, extra-inning victory over Delaware Valley last month to claim this year's title.

AJ Palumbo and Adam Smith, a pair of Parkland pitchers, led the LVL squad through 12-innings on the mound. After Delaware Valley tied the game at 8-8 in the seventh inning, the teams went to the 12th inning all tied up before the Lehigh Valley erupted with eight runs in the frame to seal the victory.

Lehigh Valley defeated West 5-4 in the semifinal round, jumping out with five runs in the first three innings to advance to the final. Freedom's Tim Healy drove in all five runs and pitched 6 1/3 innings for the win. The win to advance proved to be a dose of battling back after the team lost to Blue Mountain 6-5 earlier in the day.

Lehigh Valley also defeated Nittany 10-4 and Metro 7-0 early in the tournament to set the tone for their championship run.

Notable players for the team included: Emmett McCauley (Stroudsburg), Brittain Shander (Northampton), Joshua Lee (Parkland), Royce Frazier (Notre Dame/ES.), Adam Mellinger (Parkland), Benny Pembleton (Stroudsburg), Evan Marushak (Emmaus), Ryan Diehl (Liberty), Joey Galantini (Salisbury), Seth Laky (Northampton) and George Jenkins (Parkland).

The Lehigh Valley team won the Scholastic Division title at the Keystone State Games. It was one of several teams to earn medals for top three finishes in this year's KSG field hockey tournaments.

The Lehigh Valley had six teams play in the Keystone State Games Field Hockey Tournament recently. The local teams came away with five medals, including three bronze, two silver and a gold medal. Teams were divided into two divisions, based on how advanced the players on those teams were. The Keystone Division had the more advanced teams, leaving the others to compete in the Commonwealth Division.

The Keystone Division scholastic team, coached by Emmaus head coach Sue Butz-Stavin, came home with a gold medal. The team roster had eight players from the Emmaus High School team - Delaney Ahn, Alicia Cooperman, Madalyn Dorn, Paige Garloff, Kira Koehler, Hannah Maron, Meredith Sholder and Morgan Tietz - on the roster. The team also consisted of players from Easton, Liberty, Parkland, Pleasant Valley, Stroudsburg and Whitehall.

The scholastic team finished 4-0-1 and beat a team from the Pocono Region 2-1 to capture the gold medal. Sholder was named the Most Valuable Player in the Scholastic Division.

The Keystone junior team, made up of players in ninth and tenth grades, came home with a silver medal.

Players in eighth grade or younger comprised the youth team, and the Lehigh Valley youth team in the Keystone Division finished with a bronze medal.

In the Commonwealth Division, the junior team brought home silver medals, while the scholastic team and the youth team won bronze medals in the competition.

Teams from six regions in Pennsylvania competed in each division, with games being played from July 31 through August 2.

Trojans rally to top Freedom

BY KATIE MCDONALD
Special to the Press

What began as a promising tennis match for Freedom last week ended in the Patriots' loss to Parkland 4-3.

Freedom's number one doubles team of O. (first name unavailable) Chhugani and Jessika Klo were the first to finish their match, winning 8-3.

Patriot singles players, Kaitlyn Swint and Becky Packo finished their matches next, also winning. The next four matches, however, went to the Trojans, as did the team victory.

At number one singles, Parkland's Patricia Yao defeated Natalie Sinaï 6-2, 7-6 (11-9).

Swint defeated Madison Staiman 6-2, 6-1.

"I was a little worried because she's left-handed. It switches everything. Her backhand is opposite, so I had to do the opposite. That's hard to do," Swint said.

Once Swint got into the flow, the second set was less difficult for her.

"She was playing very well, but I hit a couple on the line to her backhand," said Swint.

At number three singles, Packo defeated Anna Li 6-2, 6-4.

"She definitely hit with more power [in the second set]. She moved me back farther than I liked," said Packo. "I was keeping my top spin and keeping the ball close to the baseline."

Packo is new to singles, having played at number two doubles last year. "It's totally different. You basically have to rely on yourself, and it's a more open court," she said.

In doubles, Madison McTier and Anjali Chhugani lost 3-6, 2-6 at number two, Rachel Loh and Alexa Diaz lost 7-5, 4-6, 4-6 at number three, and Meghan Smith and Gabriella Greenhoward lost 1-6, 2-6 at number four.

It's that time, again

Pates look to open strong

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Jason Roeder doesn't like to look down the road when it comes to preparing for football games. With the Patriots primed with seven returning starters on offense and eight on defense, Freedom will be a major player in this year's playoff hunt.

But the only thing on Roeder's mind heading into this week is beating East Stroudsburg South when the Cavs head into Frank Bank Field for a 7 p.m. kickoff Friday night to open the 2015 season.

Freedom handled ESS last year on the road, 35-7, to open their season and the Pates are looking forward to an opportunity to start this season off with a 1-0 start.

"We don't want this to look like week one for us," Roeder said. "We have things we need to clean up from our last scrimmage, where I thought we had too many dumb penalties. East Stroudsburg has some skill players that we have to be aware of, so just because we beat them last year doesn't mean we're going to overlook them this week."

Despite beating the Cavs by 28-points last year, Freedom found themselves being outplayed by ESS in the middle part of the game last season. East Stroudsburg's starting quarterback, Jacob Cirillo, didn't play in last year's opener either. Roeder plans to see the third-year varsity quarterback on Friday night, along with his Villanova-bound senior wide receiver Changa Hodge.

"They have a veteran QB that's big and a D-I commit at the receiver position," Roeder said.

Becahi-LHS showdown

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

When Saturday night rolls around, it's fair to say that Bethlehem Catholic and Liberty players will be more than ready to hit each other for their season opening contest at Frank Banko Field.

With Freedom playing a home game in the stadium Friday night, the Bethlehem super-clash has to wait one more day, which should only add to the anticipation for both teams.

After last year's 56-27 victory by Becahi, Liberty head coach John Truby and the rest of the returning Hurricanes are anxious for an opportunity to make up for last year's defeat when things kickoff at 7 p.m.

"This group of seniors have never beaten Beca in a varsity game," Truby said. "Our guys don't need any extra motivation when you play a game like this. We just want to limit the big plays because that's what really hurt us a year ago."

The Golden Hawks exploded with 28-points in last year's second quarter to take a 35-14 lead into halftime. Two special teams returns for touchdowns by Becahi turned the game on its head last year and Liberty was never able to recover fully.

When analyzing the Hawks this season, Truby thinks they may be even more dangerous than a year ago.

"They've looked very good in both of their scrimmages so far," said Truby. "Antwon Keenan has really been impressive. They're very quick to the ball on defense too. They're a very good team."

Keenan will be the lead horse in Becahi's backfield this year at running back and will look to have a big day after getting injured in last year's contest against Liberty, which derailed his junior year.

Hawks' head coach Joe Henrich knows that he has talent all over the field at his skill positions, but also understands that he features new faces in the trenches.

Becahi will start three juniors, a sophomore and returning senior center Anthony Davis along the offensive line, while the defensive line boasts new players across the board as well.

With the trenches being the most vital aspect in football, Henrich knows there will be some growing pains along the way, which could be an area where Liberty has success on Saturday night.

"All of our guys on the line have great ability," said Henrich. "They just don't have that much experience. When you have young kids, there's going to be some ups and Another year of high school football returns, but unfortunately, week one is littered with so many cross over games in the East Penn Conference, paving way to predictable results.

The bright side is Saturday's Bethlehem Catholic-Liberty showdown, which is the marquee game of the weekend.

After that, there's much to be desired, but with that said, here's how we think teams shape in order heading into their week one encounters.

NEW FHS LACROSSE COACH NAMED

Freedom High School is proud to announce the appointment of Mr. Tony Fabrizio as the new boys lacrosse coach. Fabrizio is a Bethlehem resident who played Lacrosse at DeSales University from 2009-2012, and club lacrosse for the past eight years. He last coached at Easton Area High School as their varsity assistant coach and their JV co-head coach in addition to coaching for several years at different lacrosse clubs in the area. Freedom Athletic Director Diane Jordan added the school looks forward to having Fabrizio and his staff on board and wish them much success in the upcoming season.

"Those are two things we have to worry about right off the bat. They have good skills guys and are good up front. It'll be a good test for us."

The Cavs finished last season 4-7, while Freedom jumped out to a 7-0 mark before ending the year 9-3. The potential to get out to a fast start is there for the Patriots again, but Roeder knows it's important to keep his players minds in one direction. "The goal as a group is to be better than we were last year," he said. "Our key points is the concept of focus and having a great performance. If we can do that Friday, we'll be successful."

Tanner Shane commits

BY C.J. HEMERLY
Special to The Press

Bo Jackson, Deion Sanders, Jameis Winston. Those are some of the high-profile athletes to have played two sports at the Division I level. Moravian Academy's Tanner Shane will now look to add his name to the list of DI athletes two play multi-sports at the highest level.

with the head coach and team, won him over. And the fact that the coach was open to Shane playing the two sports he loves.

"One of the many reasons why I chose William and Mary was because of the immediate support I received from the soccer coach, Chris Norris, on my dream to play baseball as well," added Shane. "He is very supportive of my dream and is willing to make it work for me to be able to play both sports, if I can make the baseball team as well."

Shane committed to William & Mary for soccer, and will also be competing for a spot on the baseball team. But that time will be coming in the fall of 2016, this year Shane will be looking to help his Lions challenge for league and district titles during his senior season.

The success on the soccer field and baseball diamond was not all his doing, Shane credits his family for helping to get him to where he is.

"It was a huge challenge on both me and my family to allow myself to compete at high levels of both soccer and baseball," said Shane. "My parents would sacrifice almost every weekend to take me to games or tournaments, which many times included long distance traveling, and I cannot thank them enough for giving me the opportunity to succeed."

Moravian Academy boys soccer has had a lot of recent success with Shane on the field. Last year, as a junior, the Lions won the Colonial League and District 11 A title, along with the state championship.

"Moravian Academy has been nothing but great to me, even understanding the year I took off to play with the Philadelphia Union u16 Academy, and could not participate in high school sports, I was welcomed back my Junior year with arms wide open, as well as a State Championship," Shane noted when asked about playing at any of the bigger high schools. "I have not once wished to go to a bigger public school. Also, most of the recognition I have received from college coaches have been through my club team, Lehigh Valley United '97 and Mike Gorni. Coach Gorni is the one who told me about William and Mary, and put in a lot of work for me on the road to my commitment, I cannot thank him enough."

Heading into last year when most of the recruiting is at its heaviest, Shane heard from schools such as Navy, Lafayette, and James Madison, along with William & Mary. But the home-like feeling he got while on campus

"I really like to believe that I could make the baseball team as well, but I know it is going to be a lot of work. I need to work a lot in my senior year at Moravian to get better, and I believe I have the support from my school and family to help me do so, so I have a pretty positive feeling that I could."

Moravian Academy will once again be a favorite in the Colonial League and District 11 this fall in soccer, and Shane will look to cement his legacy and win some games for his team in soccer and baseball before heading off to college. He knows it will be difficult, but he has a lot of motivation to keep him up for every game during both seasons.

"Being able to play both sports at a D1 level would be a dream for me," Shane stated. "They are two of the things that I have the most passion for, and I would be very grateful to be able to continue both. My parents have put in so much time to help me get where I am, and it would mean a lot to give back to them by doing so. I believe playing 2 sports in college is a pretty rare thing, it is very hard to do because even just one sport almost consumes your whole year at college, so playing two would take a lot of understanding from both coaches, which I am lucky to have from William and Mary."

downs." Henrich noted that Liberty's offense has changed this season based on the film they've seen, where their offense looks similar to how Becahi likes to operate. With Liberty also having a new defensive coordinator running things, he expects different looks in that department as well. At the end of the day, with Julian Spigner running the offense for Hawks and Doug Erney leading the Hurricanes, both quarterbacks have the ability to provide some fireworks this weekend.

"I don't think much needs to be said to prepare our guys for this game," said Henrich. "We just need to do the things that will help us win. You can't let the emotion of the game get to you."

Truby feels the same way and expects a high scoring game.

"Both teams will put on a show for Bethlehem," he said.

NORTHAMPTON COUNTY

'The Colonel' running for controller

BY BERNIE O'HARE
Special to the Bethlehem Press

As expected, Northampton County Council member Hayden Phillips filed the paperwork Aug. 19 to make official his candidacy as the Republican nominee for county controller. Ron Angle, who won the primary election on the basis of a write-in vote, withdrew from the race Aug. 7 for personal reasons. Phillips was the unanimous choice of the county GOP executive committee. In fact, Angle nominated Phillips as his successor.

Phillips, who refers to himself with pride as a Tea Party conservative, has established a reputation for thoughtfulness and independence in his two years on council. His capital improvements committee has focused on establishing maintenance plans for long-neglected county property.

"Say what you're going to do, do it, and prove that you did it," has been his simple but effective mantra.

He sided with Democrats over contracts proposed by Executive John Brown for both business and press relations consultants.

He also spearheaded the one-mill tax hike narrowly approved by council last year.

Phillips is held in high regard by his fellow council members. In fact, Democrat Ken Kraft is the one who gave Phillips his nickname "The Colonel." Phillips wears no white suits, but served in the U.S. Marine Corps and retired as a colonel in 2003.

Phillips has a bachelor's degree from Mansfield University and a master's in business administration from Lehigh. He recently retired as a project manager in the information technology industry.

Incumbent Steve Barron is the Democratic nominee. He is seeking a third term. He is a graduate of Widener University and its school of law. He is also a certified fraud examiner who occasionally assists the district attorney investigate white collar crime.

Barron has the distinction of drawing the ire of both Republican Executive John Brown as well as his predecessor Democratic Executive John Stoffa. His recent audit of a treatment program at the jail refuted boasts that it was ending recidivism. One of his audit findings showed that two persons who were supposedly free of new offenses were in fact residents at the jail. This led to the termination of a $5 million contract.

After 35 years, current first grade teacher Karen Jamann surprised her 1979 7th grade students at their 1980 eighth grade St. Theresa School Class Reunion July 18. This was the first class reunion that the class of 1980 had and the first known reunion St. Theresa hosted.

Warm hugs and greetings from current faculty, staff and students filled the room as fifteen 1980 graduates arrived at St. Theresa School.

Looking around the room, Jamann said, "I agree with Dr. Seuss when he said that adults are just outdated children. And as I look at you all I wonder, how did it get so late so soon?"

She ended her remarks with a quote by G. Randolph, "Truly great friends are hard to find, difficult to leave, and impossible to forget".

The gathering included a tour of the school where many photos were taken by the alumni. As a special tribute to their 7th grade teacher, all the students sat in Jamann's current first grade classroom desks.

The day ended with a reception followed by dinner and memories at the Braveheart Pub in Hellertown.

A commemorative display of the class of 1980 reunion will be hung in the hallway entrance of St. Theresa School for all students to see. St. Theresa School is celebrating its 75th anniversary of providing a Catholic-centered education for pre-kindergarten through eighth grades.

A new residence hall for up to 330 students is open at Northampton Community College. During a brief ceremony Aug. 27, President Mark Erickson lauded the $20 million project as a "learning laboratory" which will house students from 20 different countries.

He was especially happy that the dorm, which connects with existing facilities, was finished on time and under budget. It nearly doubles the number of students who will be able to live on campus.

centerpiece of which is a dining commons with a 35-foot-high ceiling. It includes free Wi-Fi, computers, 24-hour security, a den for late night snacks, an outdoor courtyard, and most importantly, washers and dryers.

Arif Fazil, president of D'Huy Engineering, was especially impressed by the washers and dryers.

"Do laundry often," he advised students. "Don't bring it home."

Lauren Strong, an NCC student who will be a resident advisor, explained to the audience of about 80 that she and many others are continuing their education after a break from schooling. In her case, it was a five-year break. What she likes about Northampton Community College is that it provides "quality and affordable education without sacrificing the college experience."

The Love of God
These profound lines were penciled on the wall of an asylum:
Could we with ink the ocean fill, And were the skies of parchment made;
Were every stalk on earth a quill, And every man a scribe by trade;
To write the love of God above, Would drain the ocean dry;
Nor could the scroll contain the whole, Tho' stretched from sky to sky.
Yes, the love of God surpasses human comprehension! God created man to fellowship with Him, but man's sin severed that relationship. God declares, "Your iniquities have separated between you and your God" (Isaiah 59:2). We are all in the same predicament! "For all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God" (Romans 3:23).
What breaks the impasse between a holy God and sinful man? Only the love of God! "But God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us" (Romans 5:8). "In this was manifested the love of God toward us, because that God sent his only begotten Son into the world, that we might live through Him" (I John 4:9).
Respond now to God's love—repent of your sins—receive Jesus Christ, God's Son, as your Savior and live! Jesus promised, "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life" (John 3:16). "Behold what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called the sons of God" (I John 3:1).

LEHIGH COUNTY

Cedarbrook plan unveiling Sept. 9

BY MARK RECCEK
Special to The Press

It is likely the Lehigh County Board of Commissioners will soon be making a definitive decision regarding the future of Cedarbrook Nursing Home.

At the board's Aug. 26 meeting, board Chairman Brad Osborne indicated he will be proposing a plan for the county nursing at the Sept. 9 meeting.

Specifically, the plan will delve into constructing a new nursing home or rehabilitating the existing structure.

The board initially considered retaining

Complete Healthcare Resources, Dresher, Pa., to conduct a financial study on the nursing home.

Commissioner Vic Mazziotti said he received a $105,000 proposal from CHR to complete the study.

Osborne strongly urged the commissioners to consider his plan rather than spend another $105,000 on a nursing home study.

A number of commissioners are more than ready to institute a plan, Mazziotti said.

"We're about to make a very important decision and it boils down to two questions," Mazziotti said. "We either refurbish what we have or build a new building."

While a new structure will cost more than rehabilitating the current structure, Mazziotti noted a new structure would provide cost saving measures to the county, such as decreasing operating costs.

Commissioner Geoff Brace agreed, commenting he was exhausted with reviewing studies.

Lower Macungie resident Joe Ludrof also spoke in favor of making a decision.

He said the county has built and maintained the county administration building, courthouse and jail, all of which he lauded.

"You spent some big bucks and came out with three great facilities," Ludrof said. "Let's move on and have a fourth great facility."

Past proposals for the nursing home have included renovation, improving parts of the structure individually and building a new structure.

Protecting your Social Security number

HARRISBURG, PA -- Your Social Security number is one of the keys to your financial castle. There are high-tech schemes to steal your number using phishing emails or spyware, as well as low-tech methods like dumpster diving or theft. No matter which approach a scammer may try, you need to be vigilant.

Here are a few tips to help protect your Social Security number:

Leave Your So-

National Night Out, held on the first Tuesday of August, is a chance for police and other first responders to get together with the residents they serve. One that leaves a smile on everyone's face. Right: Julian Greene is ready for the next fire call.

At Musikfest, you pay $5 for ribbon cut fries. Don't tell anyone, but in Freemansburg, the food is free. At least 500 people were treated to free hot dogs and burgers served up by Mayor Gerald Yob and council member Justin "Peanuts" LaBar. Other council members manned the condiments and drinks. They were literally public servants.

On a lighter note, residents unhappy with their tax bill or other council votes has a chance to get even. Council member Jim Smith threatened Daniel Garcia, "If you put me in, I'm telling your dad." He warned an older resident, "I know where you live. I'm raising your taxes." No matter what threat or bribe he offered, the result was always the same. # South Bethlehem's public school history

Since the 1800s, South Bethlehem has been the place where our most recent immigrants choose to settle. When South Bethlehem became a borough in 1865, the newest immigrants were German, Irish, English and Belgian. It was a bustling town of less than 2,000 people.

The adults found work at the Lehigh Zinc Company, Bethlehem Iron Works, the Lehigh Valley or North Penn railroads and in various trades. The children attended one of three small schoolhouses. One was a brick school, built in 1858, near Packer Avenue, between the present Adams and Webster streets. Another school was built in 1860, east of the first school and nearer the Lehigh River. A third school was conducted in the grain house of A. Wollé and Company at the northwest corner of New and Second streets.

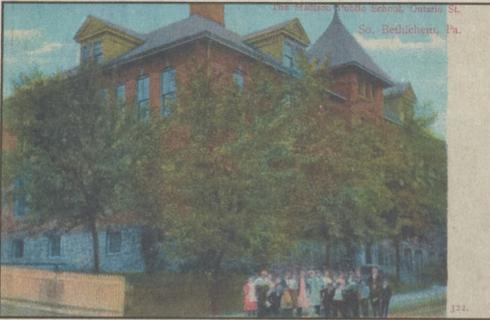

These small schoolhouses would soon be bursting at the seams with the additional children of workers needed for the Bethlehem Iron Works. In 1873, Bethlehem Iron began producing steel railroad rails and in 1886 they built facilities to produce heavy forgings and armor plate.

The population of South Bethlehem would reach 25,000 by 1900. Owen R. Wilt, the first superintendent of the South Bethlehem School District, was uniquely prepared to meet the many challenges of directing the education of the ever-growing and diverse population of students.

Board votes down teachers' contract

BY MARK RECCEK

SAUCON VALLEY

The Saucon Valley School District School Board last week voted down a newly proposed teacher's contract. At the board's Aug. 25 meeting, the board voted 6-2 against the contract presented by arbitrator Timothy J. Brown. Voting in opposition were board President Michael Karabin and board member Jack Dowling. Board member Ralph Puerta said the most recent contract offer would see teacher salaries increase between $48,000 and $97,000. Pursuant to Brown's proposal, salaries would increase between $50,000 and $102,000. "The salary has to be consistent with the abilities of our school district," Puerta said. Puerta added Saucon Valley cannot be compared to Parkland School District, which is a wealthier school district. "It has nothing do with my appreciation and respect for you," Puerta told the teachers. Puerta asked district teachers to reconsider their demands. Expressing support for the teachers was Lower Saucon Township resident Lori Vargo Heffner. She instructed the board to make it a priority to ensure the budget can accommodate the teachers. "The ones who are going to suffer are our children," she said. "I just hope this gets settled soon," added Lower Saucon resident and parent Amy Lookerbill. "It's a disgrace to our district." Board member Susan Baxter was not present for the meeting. In updated news, the Saucon Valley Education Association teacher's union approved the arbitrator's recommendations at a meeting Aug. 27. It's believed issues relating to healthcare benefits and retirement incentives could lead to future disputes.

Jack Fried at Freedom HS's tennis courts: "Moving to a bigger city, five hours away, is a change-up," he said. "You don't realize how used you get to a setting."

Going off to college

If it's a small world, then it's a smaller Bethlehem. Here, we all have our waffles — problems to chew, decisions to ponder — and we just might find that if we take time to learn about others, we will learn about ourselves in the process. After all, we are each other's teachers, young or old, each other's students, confident or questioning, each other's neighbors, regardless. Now, let's dig in to some scrumptious food for thought.

Jack Fried is 19, college-bound, and caught in a whirlwind of emotions. He has lived in Bethlehem for 15 years, but his address was about to change to that of a dorm at the University of Pittsburgh.

"Moving to a bigger city, five hours away, is a change-up," he said. "You don't realize how used you get to a setting. There's a sense of familiarity to even a new experience here."

On the contrary, in Pittsburgh, he will be confronting a "much bigger sense of the unknown than usual."

Nevertheless, Jack said his sense of excitement "overrides all else." He can't wait to become more independent, do something to set up for the rest of his life, and meet new people.

Of course, Jack understands that college will present a challenge. He will play saxophone in the Pitt Varsity Marching Band, and his classes are rigorous, a circumstance dictated by his current desire to become an engineer. He is ready to tackle the workload, though, acknowledging that he will have to depend on himself more than usual.

Luckily, he spent high school being busy. He motivated himself to play sax in various Freedom HS ensembles, run cross-country and play tennis, earn stellar grades, and generally get what he called "the full high school experience."

His one regret is that he "never really stopped to take it all in," which is why he intended to relish his remaining time at home. His last two weeks were fitting for a Bethlehem-style sendoff, what with Musikfest, which he called "one-of-a-kind," then being in full swing. Jack loves music, and EVERYONE loves free music.

"You kind of take Bethlehem for granted," he says.

One paramount priority topped his list for those remaining days: "Seriously, although it sounds corny, I want to cherish literally every instant I have with my friends and family."

Bethlehem is already in Jack's rearview mirror, but this phenomenon doesn't seem to overwhelm him. On the topic of his future, Jack simply laughs and says, "I guess I'll see where it takes me."

What with this new chapter in his life and Pitt's expansive breakfasts, it is safe to say that for Jack, there are more waffles to come, but he is ready to embrace them. And, if he is lucky, his favorite strawberry glaze will be there to go on top.

HISTORY

Wilt was born in 1840 near Emmaus into a family that had farmed the Saucon Valley area for several generations. As a teenager, Wilt worked on local farms and continued his self-study in academics until he received a teaching certificate at age 20. Wilt's first teaching job, in 1860, was in one of the small schoolhouses in South Bethlehem.

Although he soon moved into school administration as principal of the West Bethlehem and Copley schools, Wilt continued to reside in South Bethlehem. He was elected to the South Bethlehem School Board where he served for 12 years. He joined the St. Peter's Lutheran Church, on Vine Street, and became the director of the Sunday school. He was so well known in the community that it was no surprise when, in 1886, Wilt became the principal of the South Bethlehem schools.

Next, in 1888, he was elected the first superintendent of the South Bethlehem Schools. He received a salary of $1,000 a year. At that time, he supervised 43 teachers and 2,000 students. Wilt moved with his wife, Amy Lynn Wilt, into the residence attached to the Central HS when it was built in 1892. The high school was an A. W. Leh design and was built by Josiah R. Wilt, Owen's brother. It was located on the corner of Vine and Morton streets, the previous location of the Penrose School.

Under Owen Wilt's direction Central HS became well known for preparing its students for the best colleges in the country.

The students were accepted and given scholarships by such institutions as Lehigh University, Cornell University, Muhlenberg College and Bryn Mawr College. The school building was demolished in the 1967 as part of the Packer Avenue Urban Renewal Project.

Wilt supervised the building of the Webster School, in 1889, an eight-roomed, brick structure located on the east side of Walnut Street, south of Packer Avenue. The Quinn School was built in 1902, on the site of the Melrose School at East Fourth and Polk streets. The Wyandotte Street School was abandoned when the Madison School, built in 1888, replaced it. It was located at 707 Ontario St, south of Wood Street, near Itaska Street. The Packer School was built in 1890 and was located on the south side of Fourth Street, between Centre and Cemetery streets.

In the early 1900s, Wilt was quite concerned about the hundreds of children who were absent from school. Many were from newly immigrated families who were encountering difficulties with the English language.

Wilt took it upon himself to round up these little truants who were literally running through the streets of South Bethlehem during school hours. He created separate classrooms for the children to learn to speak, read and write in English. As the students became fluent, they were transitioned into their appropriate grade.

The population of South Bethlehem had exploded since its incorporation. By 1900 the area of the borough had doubled in size and the population was estimated at more than 13,000. Historians say it is impossible to know the exact numbers of the population during that time as there was a severe housing shortage and people lived in tight quarters.

Wilt believed that the tidy appearance of a school and grounds sent the message, "This is an important place." Professor Wilt, as he was known then, could often be seen with his shirt sleeves rolled up, pulling weeds in the school gardens.

Wilt was an advocate for improving teacher training. He traveled the state giving talks at the various teacher training colleges, or Normal Schools, as a state-appointed Normal School inspector. He was also known for introducing into the borough schools the activities of spelling bees, rote singing, Arbor Day, commercial instruction and The Blue and White, the high school magazine. Upon the death of Wilt, July 22, 1915, after a continuous service of 27 years as a school administrator, A. H. Buck was chosen his successor.

Wilt was survived by his wife and was buried in the Fountain Hill Cemetery.

'Season Of Celebrations'

From classical to jazz, dance to shows, it's at Miller Symphony Hall

BY PAUL WILLISTEIN
pwillistein@tnonline.com

It's a "Season Of Celebrations" for 2015-16 at Miller Symphony Hall, Allentown.

That's certainly true for the season-opener of the "Classical Series," with the Allentown Symphony Orchestra, accompanied by the acclaimed pianist Emanuel Ax.

Diane Wittry, Allentown Symphony Orchestra Music Director and Conductor, leads the ASO and Ax in Brahms' "Piano Concerto No. 2," for two concerts, 7:30 p.m. Sept. 26 and 3 p.m. Sept. 27. Wittry, celebrating her 20th anniversary season, also conducts the ASO in Berlioz' "Roman Carnival Overture" and Stravinsky's "Firebird Suite" (1919).

"The 'Season Of Celebrations' ties into my 20th anniversary and also celebrates all of the musicians, board members and subscribers who have attended concerts or performed at concerts for 20 years or more," says Wittry.

Opening the season with Emanuel Ax is significant. "We've asked about Emanuel Ax for about five years in a row. He's known as one of the leading pianists of our time," says Wittry.

"For every concert, we wanted to do something over-the-top. Every concert is special," Wittry says in a phone interview, returning by car from the Wyoda Chamber Music Festival, Newbury, Vt., where she was a musicians' coach.

The classical season continues at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 14 and 3 p.m. Nov. 15 with the ASO and Victor Li, violin, the 2015 Schadt String Competition winner, performing Jean Sibelius' "Violin Concerto In D." The concert includes the world premiere of the Allentown Symphony Orchestra commissioned "Rapsodico" by Roberto Sierra; Michael Daugherty's "Strut," and Tchikovsky's "Symphony No. 5."

"This is also the 20th anniversary of the Schadt competition, which is why we commissioned that piece," Wittry says. "Roberto Sierra is a world-renowned composer."

The ASO season includes "Puccini's Greatest Hits," Feb. 13, 14, 2016.

"Because we have a lot of opera fans in the Lehigh Valley, which is evidenced by the success of the 'Live At Met' telecasts, I wanted to do an all-Puccini concert," says Wittry. "It will be a multi-media concert with a big screen behind the orchestra. And the concert falls on Valentine's Day."

The ASO presents Stravinsky's "Petrushka," March 12, 13, 2016.

"I've always wanted to do 'Petrushka' with ballet dancers. We're recreating our own version of the ballet with orchestra," Wittry says. The dancers will be from the Lehigh Valley Ballet Guild.

"Having opera with multi-media and ballet with costumes pushes the boundaries of what people think of in terms of a symphonic concert," says Wittry.

"Carmina Burana," with the ASO and Allentown Symphony Chorus, is April 9 and 10, 2016.

"The chorus is something that I'm very proud of because it's something new. This is our third year. It's going to be growing in time. It involves people from our larger community and helps us to reach more people," Wittry says. The performance also features the Bel Canto Children's Chorus.

The "Pops Series," with the ASO and Assistant Conductor Ron Demkee, opens with "Rogers & Hammerstein Celebration," 7:30 p.m. Oct. 17, featuring grandson Oscar "Andy" Hammerstein III and soloists Sarah Pfisterer and Sean MacLaughlin in music from "The Sound Of Music," "South Pacific," "Carousel" and "Oklahoma!" "It's really fun to bring that connection to the past to Allentown," Wittry says.

There's also "Lynnne Godfrey Embraces the Standards," Jan. 12, 2016. "We're happy to feature her," says Wittry.

"One Singular Sensation: A Tribute to Marvin Hamlisch," May 14, 2016, will include Allen and Dieruff high schools choruses.

The "Family Concert" is "Once Upon An Orchestra: Musical Fairy Tales," Feb. 20, 2016.

The ASO "Cirque" concert was a sell-out in the 2014-15 season, which saw orchestra ticket sales increase 14 percent.

"We were very, very pleased that by having variety in the programming, we were drawing in new audiences," Wittry says of last season. "We're trying to reach out to a larger region. We have an orchestra that plays with a lot of heart and soul."

The "Jazz Upstairs Concert" series in the Rodale Community Room, with each concert at 7:30 p.m., includes Frank DiBussolo Group, Sept. 18; The Music of Zen For Primates, Oct. 9; Peggy King & the All-Star Jazz Trio, Oct. 23; Dave Leonhardt Jazz Group, Nov. 20, and Eric Mintel Quartet, "Celebrating The 50th Anniversary Of 'A Charlie Brown Christmas,'" Dec. 18.

The "Live On Stage" series includes the Houston Ballet II, 8 p.m. Oct. 10, in a program of classical and contemporary works by Houston Ballet Artistic Stanton Welch, Houston Ballet Artistic Director Emeritus Stevenson and other choreographers.

The "Live" series continues with Zoltan Maga: "From Budapest With Love," 7:30 p.m. Oct. 25. Violin virtuoso Maga is in a program of Hungarian folk dance with a cast of singers, ballroom dancers and orchestra.

"Burlesque To Broadway," 8 p.m. Oct. 31, celebrates the 80th anniversary of the burlesque era at the Lyric Theatre (now Miller Symphony Hall), starring Quinn Lemley backed by divas and a big band.

Also in the "Live" series: Mummenschanz, Jan. 16, 2016; Reduced Shakespeare Company, "The Complete History of Comedy," March 19, 2016; Curtis Symphony Orchestra, April 16, 2016, and Les Ballet Jazz de Montréal, May 7, 2016.

The "Family Series" of musicals begins with "Mooseltoe: A New Moosical," 2 p.m. Nov. 28, and continues with "Ladybug Girl & Bumblebee Boy: The Musical," Feb. 27, 2016; "Peter Rabbit Tales," March 26, 2016, and "Clifford The Big Red Dog Live!," April 23, 2016.

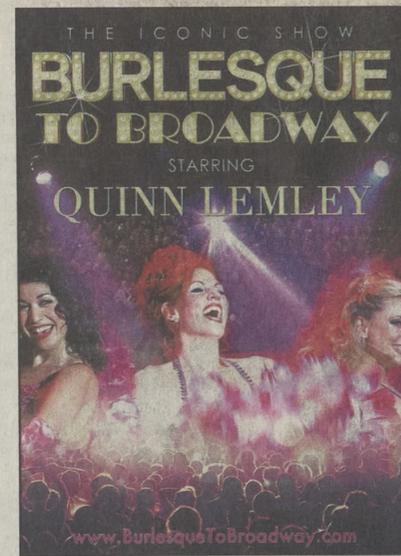

The Met Opera "Live On Screen In Cinemas" includes Verdi's "Il Trovatore," 12:55 p.m. Oct. 3; Verdi's "Otello," 2 p.m. Oct. 18; Wager's "Tannhauser," Nov. 1, and Berg's "Lulu," 12:55 p.m. Nov. 21.

ANNIVERSARY

MILLER

Couple celebrates golden anniversary

Nancy June Miller and Richard Austin Miller, of Macungie, celebrated their 50th anniversary recently with a party at the Superior Restaurant, Emmaus.

The couple was married Aug. 21, 1965, at Trinity United Church of Christ, Allentown, in a ceremony officiated by Rev. Moatz and Rev. Borger.

Nancy is the daughter of the late Harold Raymond Semmel and June K. (Hess) Semmel, of Allentown.

Harold is the son of the late Austin Ralph Miller and Florence C. (Kuhns) Miller, of Wescosville.

The couple has two children, Daniel R. and his wife Debbie, of Macungie, and Thomas S. and his wife Doris, of Stroudsburg.

They have six grandchildren.

Scout actress to read from 'Mockingbird' at LCCC

Mary Badham, the actress best-known as Jean Louise "Scout" Finch in the film, "To Kill A Mockingbird," will speak, 7:30 p.m. Oct. 15, Berrier Hall (gymnasium), Lehigh Carbon Community College, Schnecksville campus, North Whitehall Township.

The talk is part of the LCCC's 50th anniversary celebration and will take place during the American Library Association's "Banned Books Week," an annual celebration of the freedom to read.

Badham will read from "Mockingbird" and Harper Lee's recently-released "Go Set A Watchman." The event is free and open to the public. "To Kill A Mockingbird" tells the story of a young girl growing up in 1936 Mobile, Ala., and her experiences with racism, tolerance and compassion.

Badham had no prior acting experience when she was chosen to play Scout in the movie version of the novel from 4,000 who auditioned. She was nominated for an Academy Award for Best Supporting Actress, at the time the youngest actress (age 10) ever nominated in the category.

After "To Kill A Mockingbird" in 1962, she appeared in two other films, "This Property Is Condemned" (1966), with Robert Redford and Natalie Wood, and "Let's Kill Uncle" (1966). Badham also played Sport Sharewood in "The Bewitchin' Pool," final episode of the original "Twilight Zone" TV series.

In 2005, she came out of retirement to play an offbeat cameo opposite Keith Carradine for his film, "Our Very Own."

Badham, an art restorer, is the married mother of two.

She has traveled extensively promoting "Mockingbird" and giving talks about its impact in literature.

Hear the arts at Lehigh

The Lehigh University Art Galleries (LUAG) have launched 10 audio descriptions for the exhibition "... Of The Americas." Each audio description is designed for visually-impaired visitors.

LUAG's Accessible Art Initiative celebrates the 25th anniversary of the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA). The initiative was inspired by Lehigh Valley Art's Council Arts & Access program, part of a year-long celebration of this year's 25th anniversary of ADA. The Accessible Art Initiative is made possible by The Morning Star Rotary Club and Lehigh Valley Arts Council.

The descriptions include five tactile (touchable representations of works of art). The audio descriptions are accessed through a "Guide by Cell" system on a phone, including cell or land line. The works described are by artists such as Diego Rivera, Jesús Rafael Soto and Belkis Ayón Manso.

Lehigh Valley Art's Council Arts & Access is a yearlong celebration commemorating the 25th Anniversary of ADA Act through the lens of the arts. More than 30 cultural organizations have teamed up with social service agencies to create a schedule of more than 40 performances, exhibitions, film screenings, public meetings and lectures through June 2016, to intentionally reach people with disabilities and their families and friends.

Standing on my soapbox

When I'm out in a group, I usually keep the conversation light.

I believe a party is no place for a soapbox. But I did get on my own personal soapbox this week at my neighbor's party because someone pushed my hot button.

That someone was a nice neighbor I care about. He has done a great job being a single parent to his son and taking care of his mother. In short, he does everything within his power to help his family.

Yet he sat there telling me how badly he feels because he can't afford to send his son to "the kind of college he wants to go to."

He's been paying for his son to go to a local community college that has a great reputation for serving as a springboard to jobs or further education. But that college didn't suit his son, so he dropped out, saying it "wasn't for him."

What is for him, he will tell anyone, is a major college that will help him land a lucrative career.

After he made his father feel guilty for not being able to give him the life he wants, he turned his attention to his grandmother.

"Why didn't you save enough money to send me to school?" he asked her.

His grandmother is a smart cookie and had the perfect reply: "How come you won't get a job to earn your own money for a college you can afford?"

She told me he replied that he "was just a teenager" and wanted to live like one for a while.

With all that for a background, I refused to sit there at the party and listen to his father lament that he doesn't make enough money to help his son go to the expensive college he wants.

I got up on my soapbox and said quite emphatically that the son needed to stop going through life with his hand out. "If he wants to go to college badly enough, he will find a way to do it himself," I said.

I was speaking from experience. When I graduated from high school, I longed for college. My parents didn't have the money to send me, but that didn't stop me from trying everything and anything to finance my own way.

I did it, too. It took 10 years but I did it.

I was a wife and mother and worked for a newspaper, only taking a class when I had saved enough money to pay for it.

It was ironic that before I got to college, Bloomsburg University and Penn State both invited me to speak to their students about a journalism career.

I remember standing outside those classrooms longing to be there as a student, wondering if those kids knew how lucky they

WARMEST REGARDS
By Pattie Mihalik

were.

While it took a long time to earn my degree, I wouldn't change the experience for anything. It reinforced in me that I could do anything I set my mind to doing.

I told my mechanic friend his son could definitely earn a degree - but it might not be in the way or the time frame he wanted.

The woman hosting the party joined in the conversation, telling her own success story. She didn't start college until she was 39, with a few kids and a grandchild in her care. She worked as a waitress to pay for college. Like me, it took her much longer than four years but she did it.

Like me, she doesn't regret the years she spent working hard to earn that degree. She now has her dream job in the legal justice field where she sees a lot of men and women who take the wrong path in life.

She wishes they knew they alone have the power to change their lives.

"Anyone can make something of himself if he stops blaming others and accepts the responsibility for his own life," she stressed.

There was nothing light about our party conversation. But we were all of the same mind: We can make our own success.

All it takes is being willing to do the hard work it requires.

It also takes plenty of sacrifice.

The kid who blames his dad for not sending him to a better college is the same kid who insisted on a bigger TV for his room... the same kid who put his hand out for money to vacation with his buddies. I could go on and on, but I think you get the picture.

His grandmother and I both know this young man is exceptionally bright and has lots of years to reach his goals. We both think he will find his way to a good life.

A lot of growing up takes place over the years.

Many a kid who stumbled and took a wrong path or two went on to earn the kind of life they wanted.

We've all heard the stories from those at the top who told of a time when they had nothing going for them - nothing that went in the right direction, that is.

We tell my neighbor those stories, trying to make him realize it's not all doom and gloom for his son if he doesn't immediately go to college.

In my opinion, when the kid stops saying "I want" and starts saying "I can," he'll do just fine.

Ending confusion about contusions

Q. I've been getting bruises lately and I can't remember hurting myself. Should I see a doctor?

HEALTHY GEEZER
By Fred Cietti

A tendency to bruise easily is common when you age. It's especially common among women.

A bruise, also known as a contusion, occurs when the tiny blood vessels under your skin break after being struck. When you bruise, the blood leaks under the skin and leaves a black-and-blue mark. The harder the impact, the bigger the bruise. As the blood is reabsorbed by your body, the bruise goes away.

You can enhance healing by elevating the injury and applying a cold pack for 30 minutes per a day after you are injured. After there is no swelling, a warm compress can accelerate reabsorption.

Blood-thinning medications can contribute to bruising. You might bruise more easily if you take Plavix or Coumadin. Aspirin will have a similar effect. The thinners allow more blood to pool under your skin. If you're taking one of this drugs, what seems like a harmless bump against a coffee table could lead to a nasty bruise.

Some dietary supplements can thin your blood. Be careful if you are consuming more than normal amounts of fish oil, ginkgo, ginger and garlic.

It's easier to bruise if your skin is thin. With age, your skin becomes thinner and loses some of the fat that protects your blood vessels. Corticosteroids are known to make your skin thinner, so these drugs can make you more bruise-prone.

Aging capillaries contribute to bruising. Over time, the tissues supporting these vessels weaken, and capillary walls become more fragile and prone to rupture.

There is a special type of bruising known as "Bateman's purpura," which usually is seen on the back of the hands and forearms. Unlike everyday bruises, the bruises you get with Bateman's purpura are not tender and last longer. They start out red and become purple. They darken and then, in time, fade. They can last for weeks.

A condition, also known as "actinic purpura," is usually seen in seniors. It is caused by blood-vessel walls that have been weakened by years of exposure to the sun. In addition, the skin is sun-damaged and thin.

Daily application of alpha hydroxyacid lotions to the skin have been shown to increase skin thickness up to 15 percent in patients with sun-damaged thin skin. This occurs through the stimulation of collagen production, the skin's natural support protein. For women, the hormone progesterone in lotion may also help.

Most bruises are not a cause for concern, but you should have bruising checked by a doctor if you are experiencing the following: unusually large or painful bruises, bruises that seem to have no cause, abnormal bleeding elsewhere, sudden bruising after beginning a medication.

These symptoms may mean that you don't have enough platelets in your blood. Platelets help your blood to clot.

You can take steps to prevent bruising from falls and collisions. Here are some:

Always hold the handrails on stairways.

Don't stand on a chair to get to something.

Clear floors where you walk.

Mount grab bars near toilets, tubs and showers.

Place non-skid mats, strips, or carpet on all surfaces that may get wet.

Put night lights and light switches close to your bed.

Tack down all carpets and area rugs.

Close cabinet doors and drawers so you won't run into them.

Be especially careful around pets.

'Straight Outta' Ferguson

Call it the Ferguson factor.

"Straight Outta Compton" conveys the zeitgeist of African-Americans.

"Straight Outta Compton," named after N.W.A.'s 1988 debut Ruthless Records album, is about the group and its members, including Ice Cube (O'Shea Jackson, Jr., Ice Cube's son), Dr. Dre (Corey Hawkins) and the late Eazy-E (Jason Mitchell); its alleged unscrupulous manager Jerry Heller (Paul Giamatti in yet another fine performance); rivalries ("beefs," "battle raps"); physical threats allegedly by Suge Knight (R. Marcos Taylor); "baseball-bat morality," and "sex, drugs and rock 'n' roll," or in this case, hip hop. Snoop Dogg and the late Tupac Shakur got their start with this crew. N.W.A., for its part and in its genre, was as important as The Beatles.

Ice Cube went on to success as an actor in films from "Boyz n The Hood" to "Ride Along." Dr. Dre's Aftermath Entertainment signed Eminem and 50 Cent and sold Beats Electronics to Apple Inc. for $3 billion.

The film begins in 1986 in Compton, Calif. There's drugs. There's police. There's violence. It came to the fore in the Rodney King riots in Los Angeles in 1992.

Some of the lyrics that can be quoted go something like this: "They have the authority to kill minorities." Did the gangster rap songs and lyrics of N.W.A. worsen relations between inner-city residents and police? Dr. Dre claims, "I'm a journalist. Just like you. Our music is a reflection of our reality." This is not your Beach Boys' California.

Millions were made by musicians, producers, record firms and entertainment companies by exploiting the frustration and anger, including the film, "Straight Outta Compton."

"Straight Outta Compton" is well-directed by F. Gary Gray ("Law Abiding Citizen," 2009; "The Italian Job," 2003; "Friday," 1995), well-edited by Billy Fox ("Hustle & Flow," 2005) and Michael Tronick ("Mr. & Mrs. Smith," 2005), well-lensed by Matthew Libatique ("Black Swan," 2010; "Iron Man 1, 2") and well-acted by the featured players.

If you can put up with the expletives not deleted and want to learn more about what has become America's music, then head straight to "Straight Outta Compton," which captures the energy, anger and creativity of a musical era.

See "Straight Outta Compton" on its own terms. It's one of the most uncompromising films ever.

Fair underway; Queen named

Aliza Nyce, a rising junior at Northwestern Lehigh High School, was crowned the 2015 Allentown Fair Queen.

The 16-year-old honors student, who is involved with Friends for Life and 4-H, reigns over activities at the 163rd Allentown Fair through Sept. 7. She was introduced during Opening Ceremonies Sept. 1 at the Fair's RCN Farmorama Theater.

She will welcome fairgoers, assisting at the Lil' Farm Hands activity center for children and participating in the awarding of blue ribbons to Fair exhibitors. Nyce, of Germansville, is a daughter of Sheri Nyce. She plans to be a veterinary technician.

The Fair features big-name concerts, rides, games, novelty attractions, food and a showcase of the best from farm, garden and home.

The Fair is a celebration of the harvest, and for farmers and gardeners, this means raising their crops to peak perfection for judging.

For other competitors, it's taking a striking photo, building a Lego sculpture, dusting off a treasured antique, sewing a garment, creating a culinary masterpiece and so many more categories for entry. Seeing more than 9,000 items judged and on display inside Agri-Plex is alone worth a trip to the Fair. Beyond the showcases in the exhibition building, there are demonstrations and interactive contests.

With all the new restaurants in the Lehigh Valley, the Fair's renowned Farm to Table series of chef demonstrations and culinary tips features more kitchen masters than ever before sharing their secrets and giving audience members sample tastes.

The Iron Chef battle Sept. 6 pits Chef Jason Hook of H2O Kitchen and Chef Ricky Heinrichs of Spinnerstown. On Labor Day Sept. 7, the battle switches from the stove to the shaker. An Iron Shaker Competition features area bartenders creating the ultimate in cocktail concoctions to become finalists in an Allentown Cocktail Week event coming to downtown the week after the Fair.

Fair President Beverly Gruber has challenged fair concessionaires to come up with a new treat at their stands. Location-map ballots are available inside Agri-Plex and at InFAIRmation for fairgoers to pick up and guide them to the new foods and then cast their votes.

The annual Lehigh County 4-H livestock sale is the year's culmination project for local youth in the club, and reminds fairgoers of the mission of the Fair to encourage agricultural excellence.

Children visiting the Fair may experience farm life at the 'Lil Farm Hand Tent, visiting the 4-H petting zoo, decorating pumpkins at the Centennial Stage, participating in the pedal push tractor pull and other fun activities throughout the week.

Powers Great American Midways has eight exciting new rides this year plus Captain Powers, the carnival's fun new mascot who joins the Fair's bovine femme fetal mascot Moodonna. While gleaming lights lure fairgoers to the midway's rides, games and food, free-with-admission attractions entertain fairgoers each day.

New this year, the Hansen Spectacular features a family of five acrobats from a tiny tot up to mom and dad performing thrilling feats of derring-do.

A high-dive act that debuted last year returns with a new twist. The Pirates of the Caribbean Show consists of swashbuckling pirates going to new heights of dare-devilishness and side-splitting comedic antics.

A Children's Petting Zoo is also new for 2015.

Robinson's Pig Paddling Porkers race around a track and do laps in a pool for Oreo cookie rewards.

Music lovers have a lot to choose from with the return of daily shows from Matt's Family Jam and regional bands and acoustic players performing throughout the fairgrounds for free.

A new area, the Harvest Patio inside Agri-Plex Square, the "front yard" of the Fair's major exhibition building, provides an oasis of shade, seating and a selection of craft-style beers.

The Fair's famous Grandstand "Home of the Stars" venue continues its tradition of nightly offering the top names in entertainment. Grandstand tickets include fair admission when purchased in advance of the show date. Tickets are available for Little Big Town with Ashley Monroe, Sept. 2; Carrie Underwood with Josh Dorr, Sept. 3; Eric Church with The Lone Bellow, Sept. 4; Deadmau5 with No Mana, Sept. 5, and comedian Jim Gaffigan, Sept. 6. The annual demolition derby is Labor Day Sept. 7.

Hours for the Fair are noon - 11 p.m. Sept. 2 - 6 and noon - 10 p.m. Sept. 7.

Regular gate admission starting Sept. 2 is $8 with ages 12 and under free. Purchasing $4 advance admission tickets at the Fair box office and online saves 50 percent with no fees added. The advance discount ticket is good whenever admission is charged.

Gate admission benefits the Lehigh County Agricultural Society, the nonprofit operator of the fair founded in 1852.

Admission is free for "early birds under the wire" who attend noon - 2 p.m. Sept. 2, 3 and 4.

Seniors with ID pay $4 at the gate after 2 p.m. Sept. 2, on Jandl Farms American Bank Senior Citizens Day.

Families may obtain all-day ride wristbands at $15 by purchasing them in advance. The wristbands sell for $22 at the Fair. Individual ride tickets are also available.

Ben Franklin approves $542,400 in funding

The Ben Franklin Technology Partners of Northeastern Pennsylvania (BFTP-NEP) Board of Directors has approved the investment of $542,400 in support of regional economic development.

Approved in the circulation area of Lehigh Valley Press by Ben Franklin were the following early-stage company investments provided to clients in the form of loans:

Map Decisions, LLC, Ben Franklin TechVentures, Bethlehem, Northampton County. Ben Franklin Investment: $100,000. Provide sales, marketing and technical development support. Map Decisions produces infrastructure asset and work management software and provides field mapping and data management services. The company's secure, cloud-based mobile platform is designed for state and local governments, utilities, oil and gas, transportation, and construction industries. Map Decisions helps organizations increase operational efficiency, improve customer service, reduce compliance risks, and decrease operational costs.

MindMe, Inc., Ben Franklin TechVentures, Bethlehem, Northampton County. Ben Franklin Investment: $50,000. Complete beta development and testing of MindMe's suite of software solutions designed for small and independent businesses to better enable them to capture, convert, organize and engage their leads and customers. The new mobile app will combine multi-channel voice, text, email and social communication with voice calling, contact management, lead capture, drip and responsive outbound marketing. It will expand to include scheduling, payment processing, service management, and more.

TSG Software, Ben Franklin TechVentures, Bethlehem, Northampton County. Ben Franklin Investment: $50,000. Support a focused sales and marketing effort in commercializing software for the building maintenance industry, property and facility managers and building management contractors. TSG's reliable and affordable Accelerator CC brings traditionally manual processes into cloud software with mobile solutions to automate mission-critical processes, eliminating work-flow disruption.

Approved in the circulation area of Lehigh Valley Press by Ben Franklin were the following established manufacturer company investments. Ben Franklin provides 1:1 matching funding for work with a college or university partner on technology-based manufacturing innovation in established manufactur-

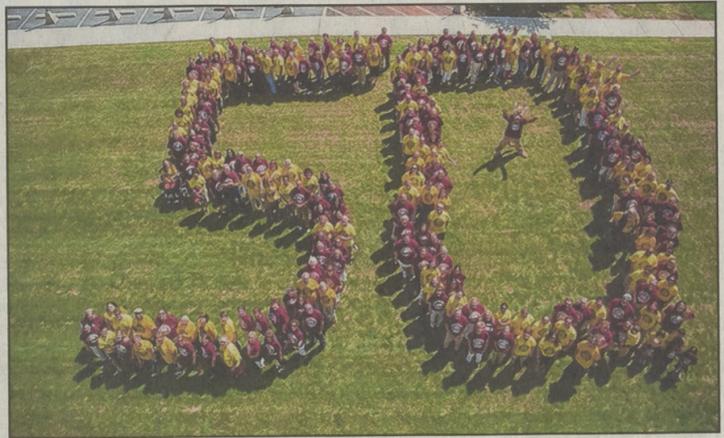

Benton Foundry, Inc., Benton, Columbia County. College Partner: Northampton Community College Emerging Technology Applications Center. Ben Franklin Investment: $22,400. Implement energy-saving processes as the producer of gray and ductile iron castings expands operations. Enhancements will improve energy and operational efficiency, increase throughput and heighten product quality to make the foundry more competitive.

East Penn Manufacturing Company, Lyon Station, Berks County. College Partner: Northampton Community College Emerging Technology Applications Center. Ben Franklin Investment: $25,000. Develop an analysis of recycling considerations at East Penn, especially as it relates to the need for new battery technology because of the growth in the hybrid electric vehicle market and other alternative energy uses. East Penn is a leading manufacturer and recycler of advanced lead-acid battery products, and the largest manufacturing employer in Berks County.

Giorgio Foods, Inc., Blandon, Berks County. University Partner: Lehigh University Enterprise Systems Center. Ben Franklin Investment: $25,000. Develop a facility planning scenario to help Giorgio optimize facility utilization. Giorgio is a manufacturer of retail food products including appetizers and mushrooms, and food service products such as pizza, mini- and full-size crescents, pierogies, quiche, frozen mushrooms and bakery products.

Orbel Corp., Easton, Northampton County. University Partner: Lehigh University's Enterprise Systems Center. Ben Franklin Investment: $25,000. Implement a new Enterprise Resource Planning system at the manufacturer of customized electronic components such as precision metal parts and stampings for the medical, electronics and aerospace markets. The system will improve operations, data governance, and operational effectiveness.

50 years of LCCC

CONTRIBUTED PHOTO

Lehigh Carbon Community College (LCCC) kicked off its 50th anniversary Aug. 21 with an aerial photo of more than 200 faculty, staff and administrators shaped into a giant "50" on the lawn of the Schnecksville, North Whitehall Township, campus. Fall classes started Aug. 22 at LCCC, so the celebration was the start of a year-long recognition of the college's history. In 1966, the Pennsylvania Board of Education approved the application of then Lehigh County Community College. Highlights for the 50th anniversary celebration include community outreach events, national speakers, recognition of 50 notable alumni, and commencement in May 2016 in PPL Center in downtown Allentown.

LVHN Fogelsville facility open

Lehigh Valley Health Network's (LVHN) newest area health center is the Health Center at Fogelsville.

"As Fogelsville has grown in population and industry, so too has that community's need for high-quality health services," said Terry Capuano, RN, LVHN executive vice president and chief operating officer. "The Health Center at Fogelsville will give community members a nearby resource to take charge of their health, get help to manage chronic conditions and avoid potentially costly hospital stays."

The two-story, 40,000-square-foot facility along Route 100 north of I-78, offers a variety of services, including:

Family medicine offered by LVPG Family Medicine - Fogelsville;

Express CARE, LVHN's walk-in service for common illnesses and injuries;

Pediatric care with LVPG Pediatrics - Fogelsville;

Obstetrics and gynecology offered by LVPG Obstetrics and Gynecology - Fogelsville;

Rehabilitation services;

X-ray and ultrasound; Laboratory services from Health Network Laboratories, and Home sleep testing.

The Fogelsville facility marks the 13th health center in the LVHN family. It's the third health center in western Lehigh County, joining facilities in Trexlertown and Macungie. LVHN also has health centers in Bangor, Bath, Bethlehem Township, Emmaus, Hamburg, Hazleton, Kutztown, Moselem Springs, Muhlenberg (Bethlehem) and Quakertown.

Celebrating 275 years at Old Zionsville United Church of Christ

PRESS PHOTOS BY ANDREW RITTER
Guitarist Joel Shimer, of Emmaus, entertains the crowd.

Old Zionsville United Church of Christ holds a pig roast at Lenape Park in commemoration of the 275th anniversary of the church. The event was attended both by local residents and members of the congregation and featured live entertainment and bingo. The official anniversary of the church will be held Sept. 13. The church will celebrate the occasion using the original communion ware of the early church, dating back to 1858. The Penn Northeast Conference Minister, the Rev. Alan Miller, will also be in attendance.

2015 FALL SPORTS & ACTIVITIES

Hawks primed for D-11 3-peat

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Bethlehem Catholic had little trouble winning their second straight District 11 3A title last year and the Hawks may be even better this season. Coming off a 12-2 season, which saw them finish the season with a 30-0 defeat to Somerset in the PIAA state quarterfinals, the Hawks are hungrier for even more this year.

Enveloped with a dynamic offensive cast, head coach Joe Henrich enters his fifth year in the program with a bevy of talent to score points, as well as experience on the defensive side of the ball.

With seven starters returning on both sides of the ball, the Hawks should compete for the East Penn Conference North Division title, as well as be a lock to qualify for the district playoffs.

Back in the fold offensively includes Antwon Keenan (Sr., RB); Julian Spigner (Sr., QB); Anthony Davis (Sr., OL); EJ Fineran (Sr., WR); Niko Camacho (Jr., OL) and Damian Diaz (Jr., RB).

On defense, Keenan is back at linebacker along with Will Schroeder (Sr., LB). The secondary will include Joe Smith (Sr., DB); Darius Aldridge (Sr., S) and Fineran (S).

Brandon Blobe (Sr., DE) returns on the line.

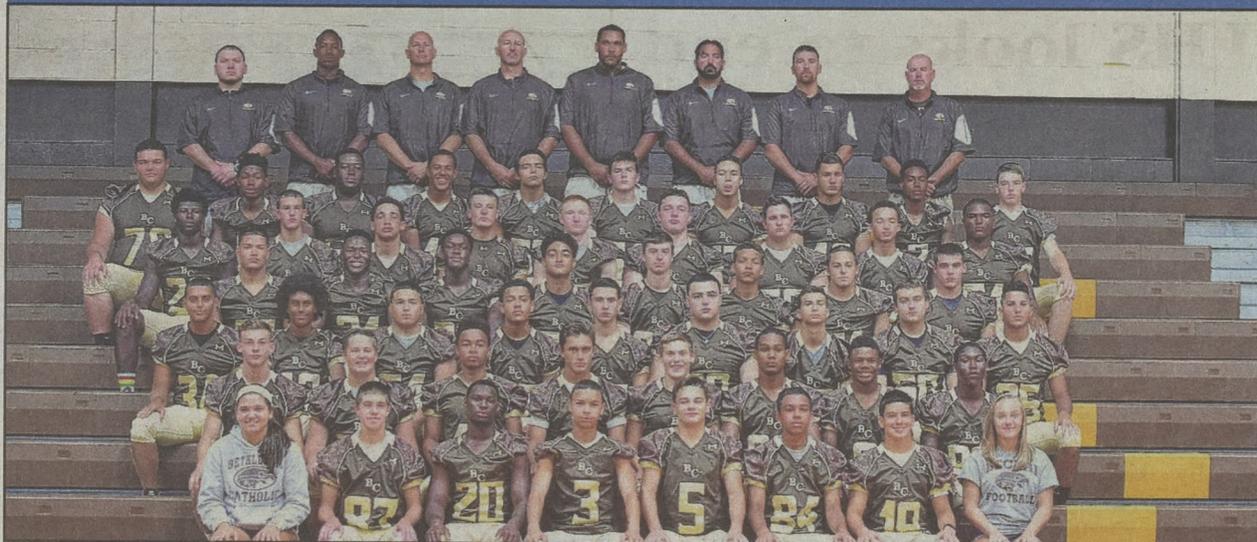

Newcomers include Nate Stewart (Sr., WR/S) a transfer from Pius X, Andrew Nieves (Sr., RB) and Nick Petros (Jr., WR).

"We return all of our skill position players from a year ago with the exception of Freddie Simmons (NC State)," said Henrich. "We bring back three linebackers who saw starting time last year, as well as four of five starting defensive backs. The biggest holes will be replacing three offensive and defensive linemen."

Spigner will be the key cog to the Hawks attack this year under center, as he threw for 1,548 yards, 18 TD's, while rushing for 617 yards and two TD's.

Pates look to build off 2014

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

You can say that Freedom's football team has unfinished business heading into 2015. Coming off one of their most successful seasons in head coach Jason Roeder's 11 seasons, the Pates are primed to build off their 9-3 finish from last season.

Freedom returns plenty of experience from a team that lost to Easton in the District 11/2/4 subregional semifinals last season. With junior quarterback Joe Young back at the helm after missing the final four games of the season a year ago with a hip injury, the Pates have one of the top QB's in the East Penn Conference at their disposal.

Also back for the Pates are Cordell Cotto (Sr., TE/DE), Jonah Gundrum (Sr., WR/FS), Alkiohn Dunkins (Sr., WR/DB), Roberto Diez (Sr., RB), Colin Zarzecki (Sr., OL), Mario McIntyre (Sr., OL), Brady Hornbaker (Jr., MLB), Joeshua Ortiz (Sr., DL), Brennan Reinert (Sr., WR/DB) and Andres Santos (Sr., RB/LB).

Moving up the ranks from last season with the hopes of filling holes and balancing the roster, Roeder will look to the likes of Aaron Bowden (Jr., OL), Jeremy Parker (Sr., RB), Ryan Nickol (Sr., LB), Alec Huertas (So., WR), Hakeem Strickland (Jr., DB) and Tijir Bleam (So., OL).

"We return experience on both sides of the ball," Roeder said, "but we need to replace three offensive linemen. That's going to be something we're going to have figure out."

With Parkland and Easton figuring to play the roles as favorites to land a district crown this season, the Pates aren't far behind either team for that coveted title, but Roeder knows the road always goes through those two schools.

"We made the district semifinals last year and want to get to the next level," he said. "Easton and Parkland have been at the top and they need to be considered the favorites until someone knocks them off."

LHS looks to end playoff drought

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Experience is a theme for all of Bethlehem's football teams this fall and Liberty is no different.

Coming off of last year's 7-5 finish, third-year head coach John Truby thinks this can be the year where the Hurricanes can break into the District 11/2/4 subregional playoffs.

Led by senior quarterback Doug Erney, the Hurricanes bring back the most veteran-laden QB in the league. Erney enters his senior year with 4,634 passing yards and 44 touchdown passes. Liberty's career record for passing yards is 5,875, while the all-time passing touchdown mark is 58. After throwing for 2,423 yards last year and 24 touchdowns, it's fair to say that Erney could be on pace to shatter those records.

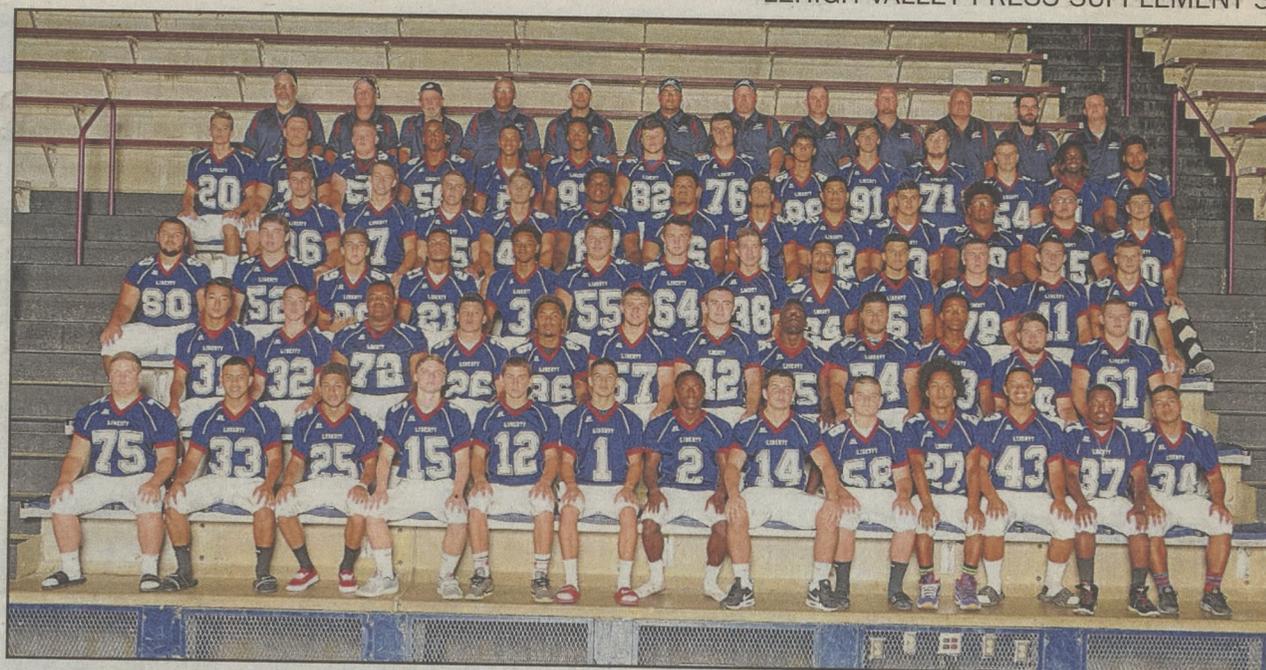

How that plays into the Hurricanes overall record is what's more important this season, as they return plenty of talent to the field with the likes of Devon Lindemann (Sr., OL/DL), Livan Diaz (Sr., OL/DL), Alex Mack (Sr., RB/MLB), John Soimes (Sr., RB/MLB), Justin Haynes (Sr., WR/DB), Victor Santiago (Sr., WR/DB) and Darian Street (Jr., WR/DB).

Newcomers who Truby expects contributions from include Becahi transfer Chance Neilley (Sr., WR/DB), Nasir Legree (Fr., RB/DB), Shane McLaughlin (So., OL/DL), Keaton Wesley (So., OL/DL), Mark Horvath (Jr., TE/LB) and Kasey Myers (Sr., RB/DB).

"Our quarterback play will be strong," Truby said. "The offensive and defensive lines can be really good. We have a lot of speed at the skill positions too, but the defense needs to improve from last year, especially in the secondary. We have been focusing on mental toughness and cleaning up mental errors this off-season."

If Liberty can play as a veteran group and cut down on self-inflicted errors, the 'Canes could make a run at their first district playoff berth since 2009.6. Where do you feel like your team stands with the other teams "If we stay healthy I think we can compete for a district spot," said Truby. "We want to get to meaningful postseason play."

place Simmons production, as he's coming off a year with 31 receptions for 730 yards and eight scores.

Stewart brings his skills from Pius, which saw him register 81 catches, 1,154 yards and 15 TD's. Joe Smith will be the leader in the secondary and on defense, as he had 47 tackles a year ago to go along with six interceptions and two pick sixes. All of those mentioned, along with Keenan are listed as FBS and FCS Division-I prospects. "I think we have an experienced team that is hungry," said Henrich. "They still have a bitter taste in their mouth after that loss to Somerset."

LHS looks to get better with season

BY SCOTT PAGEL
spagel@tnonline.com

The Liberty golf team is looking to improve from last season and head coach Steve Bradley thinks they are on their way.

The team will be led by two returning seniors in Owen Hawk and Jacob Seigfried. Bradley said both players did a nice job last season, but more importantly have played all summer and are ready to go this season.

Junior Morgan Krauss is also back from last season and Bradley thinks she'll be able to make some noise in the postseason events.

Another senior also returns this year in Logan Priestas. Priestas has lowered in scores a great deal, according to Bradley, shooting about 100 last season to 80s and low 90s this season.

"The team should be improved from last season," Bradley said.

Bradley added there are also a host of freshman out for this year's team.

"We have about five or six freshman out this year and they've really impressed me with their play and how they handled themselves. Liberty has a good future ahead."

Hawks aim to improve

BY SCOTT PAGEL
spagel@tnonline.com

The Bethlehem Catholic golf team got off to a great start in their first match a few weeks ago, but even that was a bit of a surprise to head coach Tim McGorry.

The Hawks shot a 404 to knock off Parkland, Northampton and East Stroudsburg South.

"It was a surprise," McGorry said of that victory. "I felt we'd be competitive and I was pleased to pull off the win and happy for the kids."

McGorry sees Nazareth, Emmaus and Stroudsburg as the teams to beat this year in the EPC, but feels his squad can be right there with the rest of the pack. That's thanks in big part to the return of Nick Maff for his senior season.

Maff is a two-time District 11 champ, winning the tournament in his freshman and junior seasons. McGorry calls him a seasoned golfer who competes in a lot of national events. This year, McGorry is hoping Maff can get over the hump and make it to York for the states after reaching the regional tournament all three years of his high school career.

But, perhaps most impressive about Maff, according to McGorry, is his leadership.

"Individually, I'd like to see Nick make states," McGorry said. "I hope he gets to the final stage. Nick has been a great leader so far and has helped show the younger kids the way."

Two other seniors McGorry mentioned were Dave Angelucci and Jackson Pulley, who both scored in that opening match. McGorry said he expects good things from junior Jake Smedley.

Two sophomores have also stood out to McGorry so far this season, they are Sean Costello and Chad Sodl. Costello burst on to the scene with a opening round 70 back on Aug. 20 at Southmoore. Sodl also scored for the Hawks in that match.

Another junior is Colby Treadwell and McGorry liked the way he handled himself during his first match, playing with good etiquette and proper pace.

"I want us to get better week-to-week," McGorry said. "I think our

FHS looking to overcome key losses

BY SCOTT PAGEL
spagel@tnonline.com

For the Freedom golf team, being right in the middle may not be so bad.

Through the middle of last week, the team was 3-3 overall after a couple of EPC quad-matches. Head coach Mike Evans envisions and up and down year for his team that could keep them right around the .500 mark.

"I think we'll be right around .500 looking at what other teams have," said Evans. "I think that's where we will fit in the mix. We still have 10 matches to go (as of Aug. 25). We lost Helen [Hsu] and Zach [Juhasz] so it's going to be tough. Last year we were a little above .500 but dropping those two will be hard. It is nice to see some newcomers to the team."

While there are some newcomers, there are some familiar faces. The team is expected to be led by Sean Abel and John Yocum, both are seniors. Yocum struggled his first match but bounced back with an outing in the 70s. Abel shot 83 his first match and also followed with a round in the 70s his next time out. Yocum, of course, is a contributor for the baseball team in the spring and he plans to double-roster and play soccer this year as well.

"We expect a lot from both players," Evan said. They are really strong from tee to green."

Evans said there may be some conflicts between the golf and soccer schedules but plans to get the most of out Yocum as possible.

"Realistically, I'd like both of them to qualify for districts and regionals," Evans said of Abel and Yocum. Sean just has to find a way to get on the course but we'll do what we can."

Junior Nate Spearco is expected to shoot in the 80s regularly. In fact, Evans said all eight golfers can keep it under 100, maybe not 70s every round but the bulk of the team can be around 90 he said.

Austin Negron is another junior who is in his first year. Two freshman are Justin Kitner and Kyle Petrone. John Carter is another senior on the squad.

young kids can get a lot better. I'll be changing up our bottom end people a lot and plan to start three new kids [in the Aug. 25 match]. I'm excited about some of our younger kids."

McGorry also wanted to add he's happy with his group of kids and blessed to be coaching them. And he wished all of the coaches well in the league saying he's happy to be a part of the group.

McGorry also wanted to thank Eric Cogorno who is an instructor for some of the kids and also a good teacher.

Becahi hopes to grow

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Continued growth is the theme for Bethlehem Catholic's field hockey team this season and third-year head coach Lucas Wilde hope that trend continues this fall.

After losing 11 seniors to graduation during last year's 3-15 campaign, Wilde has the job of improving the level of play for the Hawks, while gaining experience for a young roster.

With a starting roster mostly deprived of seniors, Wilde will look to Chloe Domyan (senior/forward), Madison Cobb (junior/defender), Regan Downey (junior/midfielder), Gabriella Kuhns (junior/forward), Sophia Pulley (sophomore/forward) and Sara Redington (sophomore/midfielder) to lead the team. Madison Ensley (junior/midfielder) transferred in from Liberty as well and figures to play a role with the team.

Despite the lack of senior veterans on the team, Wilde is encouraged about the talent at his disposal.

"We have a young team of sophomores and juniors led by strong upperclassmen leadership," he said. "The entire group is focused, willing to learn, and always looking to improve. Creating chemistry with this group is one area we have to improve upon with the loss

Pates look to compete

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Freedom's field hockey program has been synonymous with Charis Innarella, as the veteran coach enters her 27th year at the helm this year. Coming off a 5-13 season a year ago, the Pates are hoping to improve upon those results to compete in the East Penn Conference's Steel Division this fall.

Led by senior captains Sierra Jefferson, Lauren Patton and Madi Donatelli, Innarella has her core veterans she plans to lean on.

Two incoming freshmen could also become contributors, as Emma Telatovich and Rebecca Fodale both figure to have roles on the team.

"We have a talented and hard-working mix of upper and underclassmen who are competitive," said Innarella of this year's group. "Team unity and cohesiveness are at a high level. We are looking to sustain our focus and intensity every game."

That will be needed in the EPC, as Easton, Liberty and Allen took the top three spots in the division a year ago, with Easton and Allen qualifying for the EPC playoffs.

Being able to challenge the likes of those division rivals will be a key for Freedom heading into this year.

"The EPC is a strong conference and the Patriots are looking forward to the challenges ahead of us," Innarella said.

Canes aim for playoff run

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

It's another year of field hockey for Liberty head coach Mary Kathryn Omdahl. Entering her 17th year at the helm of the program, the Hurricanes are looking to improve upon last season's 8-10 that kept them just short of the East Penn Conference playoffs.

With leadership on defense and some offensive weapons returning to the forefront this year, Omdahl hopes that this year's team can reverse some of those losses from a year ago, and turn them into victories to push for a spot in the postseason.

"We have lots of energy and we are young," Omdahl said. "We're fit and fast, but we need to improve our tactical and mental game to compete at the highest level."

Back for Liberty this season includes Jalen Wilcher (Sr., D), who led the team in defensive saves, Anissa Abboud, (Jr., MF/F); Charlie Colton (Sr., F) and Olivia Sahaydak (So., MF/F).

Abboud returns as the team's highest goal scorer from a year ago with five goals and five assists. Sahaydak tallied four goals last season.

Newcomers include Sadie Abboud (Fr., F) and Taylor Henry (So., MF/D).

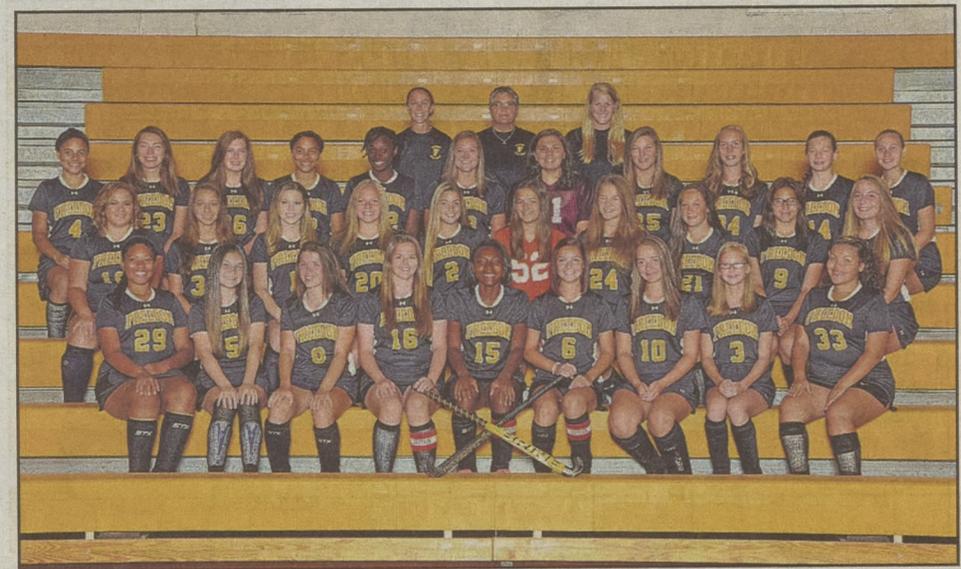

With Emmaus, Parkland and Northampton nestling together in the same division to form three of the toughest teams in the league, Liberty will likely have

Hawks aim to repeat

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

It's never easy to follow up a season after winning a state championship, but that's what Bethlehem Catholic's volleyball team will attempt to do this fall.

The Hawks, who finished last year 23-2 en route to winning their third-straight D-11 2A title and first PIAA title, bring back a talented group with hopes of piggy-backing.

As head coach Paul

Abi-Daher enters his fourth season, he's experienced nothing but success, winning district titles in each year. He'll be in the mix to make it four this year with a talented group back.

Seniors Jordan Young (OH) and Rachel Cray (setter) will anchor the team, as Young was the EPC MVP a year ago, to go along with all-conference, all-district and all-state honors. Cray was also named to the all-state team, giving the Hawks a powerful combo on the offensive side.

A trio of juniors return this season as, Ludson Lafci (MB), Megan Friend (Opposite/DS) and Rachel Tanczos (MB/OH) bring back their experience. Lafci and Friend were both starters last year.

Madison Kizer, a transfer from Nazareth, has been impressive at libero in the preseason.

BY PETER CAR

Coming off a 7-9 campaign in Donna Roman's first season as head coach, Freedom's volleyball team should be in better position to make a run to the postseason.

But in the ever competitive EPC, things are never easy when it comes to picking up wins and that rings true again. Parkland and Becahi both return as PIAA 3A and 2A state champions respectively.

That said, Roman has a core of players back that will be the glue for the Patriots success.

Seniors Caroline Ferrera (setter, 571 assists and 153 digs), Lexi Szaro (defensive specialist), Hannah Evans (middle hitter, 146 kills), Amy Radzelovage (middle, 124 kills), Alexa Reich (defensive specialist) and Emily Petrat (outside hitter, transfer from Notre Dame) form the senior core.

Sophomores Julia Roman (OH) and Hailey Silfies (MH) bring varsity experience from a year ago, while upcomers Courtney Turocy (setter/junior), Cami Spina (defensive specialist/junior) and Lauren Achey (middle hitter/sophomore) balance out the roster that Roman envisions to be better.

"Our strengths include aggressive serving, strong young hitters and increased quickness," said Roman. "Our team conditioned all summer, and we strive to bring quickness,

Hurricanes want more

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Missy Lynn likes what her program has done over the past four years, but she wants more.

After last year's 12-6 record, Liberty returns a solid contingent that Lynn hopes can be in the mix for league and district playoffs.

Back for the Hurricanes include senior setter Maddie Capuano (566 assists and 41 aces last year), junior middle hitter Amanda Rachwal (209 kills, 66.5 blocks and 58 aces last year), junior outside hitter Sydney

Wilson (49 aces, 103 kills and 185 digs last year), and sophomore middle hitter Grace Mittl (180 kills, 33 blocks).

One of the exciting aspects for the team is the resurgence of a 12-member freshman class. With 10 of those players coming from the club ranks, Lynn knows the future looks good. This season Lina Perugini (OH) will be playing varsity right away, while setter Jackie Wagner and middle hitter Julia Burcin, will be double rostered.

"I feel we have a very solid team this year,"

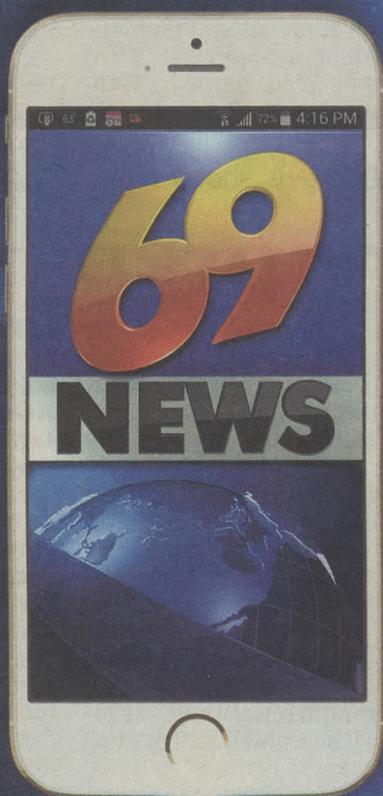

Lynn said. "We have consistent passing and defense, as well as aggressive serving. Our middle attack will be a huge part of our offensive system, because we lack experience and height on the outside. However, our outside hitters are extremely smart players, so they should be able to mix things up a bit."

LHS will likely battle for the second spot in the Steel Division, since returning PIAA 2A champion Becahi, returns a bevy of talent this year. But after finishing the

BETHLEHEM CATHOLIC SOCCER

Boys get new coach

BY KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tnonline.com

Anthony Briody and Sean Pyne had a deal that whoever landed a high school soccer coaching job would bring the other along with him. Briody got the nod at Bethlehem Catholic High School in mid-July, and, as promised, Pyne was brought on board as the assistant.

"I had been looking for a high school position for two years," Briody said.

It was Briody's wife, Jeanette, who saw the job posting at Beca. It was also Jeanette who introduced Briody to Pyne when she taught at Northampton High School, where Pyne still teaches.

Briody and Pyne started at Beca in mid-July, and what they found was senior soccer player, Sean Ryder, holding the team together all summer long in the absence of a coach.

"He's a natural leader. I can't wait to see what he does," said Briody.

Ryder is now captain for the Hawks, a 21-man varsity team, including those players who are double-rostered.

Briody started his program with structure, new rules, respect, and an expectation for the Hawks to follow what he is bringing to them.

"The fundamentals are there. I want to focus on their vision," he said.

One of Briody's biggest expectations is in relation to Beca's win-loss record.

"I wouldn't accept a worse record [than last season]," said Briody.

On the plus side, Briody sees good size, good leadership, and a strong core of upperclassmen. On the minus side, the Hawks' disadvantage is that the players come from various places geographically, so they haven't been playing together throughout the years like most players on a public school team have.

"Our vision will fix that," Briody said.

The Hawks will open the regular season on Friday at home against Allentown Central Catholic.

"I'm thrilled," said Briody. "I can't wait for the season to start."

level of competition is also something we're focusing on."

How the Hawks blossom this year is yet to be seen, but Wilde is interested to see what this group can become.

"It will be interesting to see this new group of varsity starters really come together to form their team identity," he said. "We hope to work hard and compete in the EPC. We just need to continue to stay focused, work hard, and be willing to learn and grow throughout the season."

Girls are prepared

With one year of head coaching experience under her belt, Bethlehem Catholic High School's girls' soccer coach Rebecca Gonzalez is putting the proverbial building year behind her and looking forward to the fruits of experience in both herself and her players.

"I feel like they're a lot more prepared," Gonzalez said.

Twelve seniors make up a lot of the roster, and four of them are captains, Michelle Baldassare, Zoe Tauriello, Rachel Wills, and Kristine Spence.

Junior, Kiera Peterson, will return as goalie.

"So far, motivation is through the roof," said Gonzalez. "We had a really tough season last year. last year was a major building year for us, and since the girls already knew me, I had to get that authority."

The Hawks have been running practical drills, conditioning drills, drills that are applicable to the game.

Gonzalez sees the Hawks' strength as their experience, while they are working on improving communication.

"We have a new formation this year, and with our talent, it's working out really nicely in transitioning up the field," she said.

Gonzalez will be assisted by Lauren Thorley.

FREEDOM SOCCER

Junior girls to take the lead at FHS

BY KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tnonline.com

Freedom High School's girls' soccer team had a taste of success last season when they made district play-offs for the first time in many years, and the 2015 Patriot team will be coming back for more.

Six seniors have graduated, but it will be this year's juniors who will be taking the lead.

Kerry Callaghan at midfield, Jaiden Coyne at forward, and Tara Hathaway at goalie are returning, and they are co-captains. Also returning are Emmy Joseph on defense, and Ava Markle at midfield.

Coach Bob Eaton's expectation for the season is that it will be a challenge.

"It's our relative lack of experience, so we need to work to get better, game in and game out, and to get everyone on the same page. That just comes with time. We have a mix of different classes, so it's a matter of molding the team together," Eaton said.

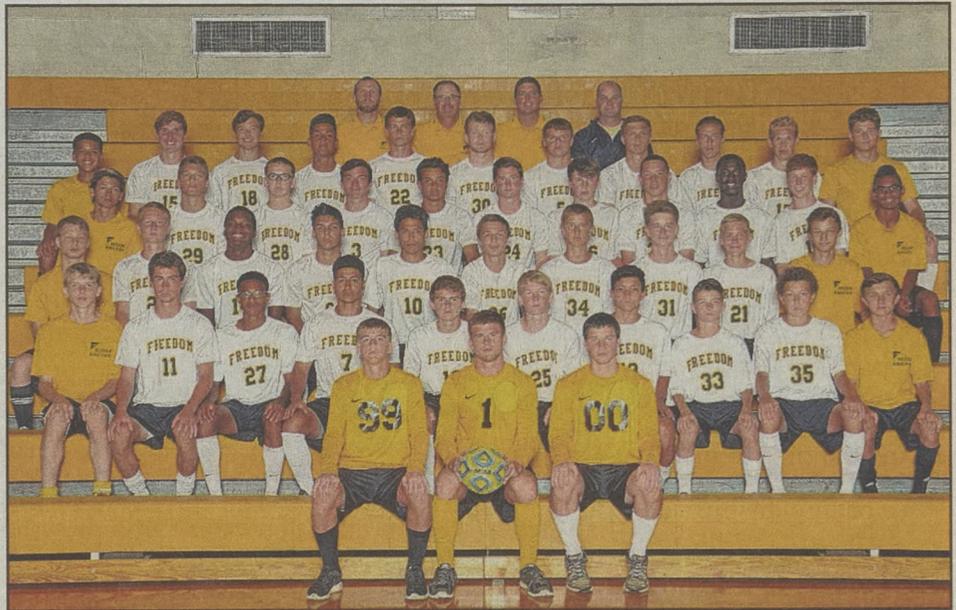

The Patriots won a recent scrimmage against Northern Lehigh.

"We open with the traditional powers, Nazareth, Whitehall, and Emmaus. However we do against Nazareth, we'll do better against the next one and so on. We're just trying to build to the end," said Eaton.

As coaches frequently look to players to take on leadership roles, Eaton cited Coyne as having taken on that particular responsibility.

"Jaiden is the spirit and heart of the team. Even as a sophomore, she was that. She has tremendous drive and puts forth tremendous effort. The other girls feed off that. She's a pure athlete," Eaton said.

Pate boys look to continue momentum

BY KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tnonline.com

Freedom High School boys' soccer coach Michael O'Connell would like the Patriots to continue their momentum from the end of last season into the 2015 season, and with ten seniors and plenty of returners, it seems probable.

Freedom won three of the last four games last year, and as O'Connell put it, started to make a mark on the game.

"[This year] we can't take our time and wait. Every game matters," said O'Connell.

One goal short and one step behind is not an option for the Patriots anymore.

Goalkeeper John Eltringham is back with two years of good experience. DJ Bast, Judson Freidl, and Chris Szymanski will make up the Patriots' defense.

RJ Judge and Xavier Garces saw a lot of playing time last year and will return as midfielders, as will Alex Thomas and Adam Capuano.

O'Connell will look to forward, Mezen Abdalla for a lot of the scoring, for one.

New but experienced players include forward/midfielder, Steven Riad, and midfielder, Michael Silva.

Forwards, Shawn (Allan) Camus and Curtis Brewer, and defender, Will Tichy round out the varsity roster.

"The seniors are being pushed by the juniors for spots [as starters]. Nobody is complacent. The competition is huge," O'Connell said.

As O'Connell has always been a big believer in defense, that is what the Patriots are working on early.

"Defensive organization, right now. Defense on corner kicks. We brought the attack into play," O'Connell said.

The Patriots are also focusing on their ability to control the ball.

"If you can technically play the game, you can move up on our team," said O'Connell.

Freedom participated in a summer league at Lehigh University and lost in the semifinals to Central Catholic 1-0.

"This summer was the best we've done, and the numbers were coming out," O'Connell said.

The Patriots will travel to Nazareth to open the new season.

LIBERTY SOCCER

Could be Canes year

BY KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tnonline.com

In his tenth season as Liberty boys' soccer coach, Jason Horvath thinks this could be the Hurricanes' year.

A very experienced group that includes 11 seniors, Horvath sees the potential in this particular team and is taking the time to instill in them what it takes to win a championship.

"This is a team you wait a lifetime for," Horvath said.

Whether or not his players competed on club teams, they all got bigger, and stronger, and better, not to mention more serious in their attitude and their approach to the game.

Although Horvath preferred to hold off on players' names, he did say he has a group of seniors who are important to gameday success, as well as a nice selection of players, who can be rotated.

"Every day, we're getting them to think faster and play faster. We're working on defending because if we want to go places... And if we're defending with 10 or 11, we'll be harder to beat than if we're defending with five or six," said Horvath.

This Hurricane team is also very smart.

"They move the ball really well. Their ball control at first touch is very nice. They're capable of doing some nice things with the ball," Horvath said.

LHS' game schedule is almost exactly the same as last year with one big exception.

"We won't be on a bus for almost every game," said Horvath. "That will be a plus."

The Hurricanes had more away games than home last season, and many of those away games were in the Pocos. Hour long-plus road trips took their toll, as they would on any team.

The Hurricanes' first opponent will be the defending state class A champions Moravian Academy on Sept. 4.

"The boys are excited. We lost 1-0 in overtime to them last year, so we're really excited. Our kids know a lot of the Moravian kids; they play on club teams with them. It's a pride thing," Horvath said.

Girls eye league berth

BY KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tnonline.com

For the first time in eight years, Liberty's girls' soccer team made district playoffs last season, but missed leagues by one game. So, Coach Scott Rodenbach ultimately wants to extend their postseason play.

First thing's first, however, when Rodenbach tested his players' dedication by holding practice at 6 a.m.

"Everyone showed up," he said.

Returning seniors for the 2015 season will include Mackenzie James, Ally Lynott, Julia Mello, Erika Peters, Cailey Sanchez, and Taysia Snead.

Rodenbach will be looking to Peters for scoring, Sanchez for controlling the midfield, and Lynott for defending. A few goals from Snead is also an expectation of Rodenbach.

Jessica Becker, a junior, will be the goalkeeper. Junior, Olivia Askemose, will be called upon for scoring.

Rodenbach also has some freshmen on the roster, including Jessica DelCorso on defense, Madison Muller at forward, and Merve Okumu at midfield.

"This is the most balance we've had [among the four grade levels] in four years," said Rodenbach.

The fourth-year head coach is feeling optimistic about the season.

"Especially the seniors... They would like to surprise some people who have taken us apart the last few years. A couple of those victories would be nice to have," Rodenbach said. "The bar has been raised. We have some high expectations, and the seniors see it."

Abi-Daher feels his team will be in the mix for the top spot in the EPC again, alongside returning PIAA 3A state champion Parkland. Emmaus, Nazareth and Central Catholic also figure to be top teams this season.

As far as goals for this round defeats in the EPC and district playoffs, Lynn wants more.

"Our goal is to finish top four in the regular season so we can get into year's team, not much will change from what the Hawks have experienced recently.

"We want to win our fourth straight district championship, play for the conference championship and repeat as state champions," said Abi-Daher.

After finishing in the middle of the pack last season, the Pates look primed to make a jump into league and district playoff contention.

"This year's team is much more balanced with talent and expects key contributions from some underclassmen and strong leadership from the senior class," said Roman. "We're looking to win quite a few more matches this year and our team goals include competing in districts."

Peterson, Conrad back

BY KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tnonline.com

Liberty High School tennis coach Leo Schnalzer said he couldn't have asked for two kids who worked harder last season than Samantha Peterson and Madelyn Conrad, and to Schnalzer's delight, the Hurricane seniors are back for the 2015 season at number one singles and number two singles, respectively.

Peterson was the district runner-up in singles, and Peterson and Conrad were district doubles runner-ups last year.

So although Schnalzer wants the Liberty Hurricanes to play well, have fun, enjoy the season, and improve as they go along, the Hurricane head coach is absolutely looking for Peterson and Conrad to duplicate what they did last year.

Regarding the rest of Liberty's lineup, the possibility of it changing on a daily basis for the next couple of weeks is not only possible; it's probable.

Senior, Katie Kametz, is currently playing at number three singles, but there are two or three others still vying for that position.

The doubles teams as of last week are Briana Canady and Jackie Arthur at number two, Maris Deluca and Martina Gale at number three, and Riley Walters and Joyce Kim at number four.

"It's so early, it's difficult to tell. The lineup could change daily," Schnalzer said.

Freshman, Paige Simmons, could also appear in the line-up, but she is splitting her time between tennis and cheerleading.

The Hurricanes won their season opener last week against Stroudsburg 6-1.

"I just was pleased with the fact that the girls were all in good tennis positions, attempting to poach and taking charge of the net, and they were supporting each other," said Schnalzer.

BC wants back in hunt

BY KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tnonline.com

Bethlehem Catholic High School's girls' tennis coach George Harmanos is declaring the Lady Hawks to be back in the hunt this season.

"We should be a contender," Harmanos said. "The kids are excited, and they know we have a good team."

New to Becahi and the number one singles spot is freshman, Brenna Magliochetti.

"She's very, very good. She's a nice kid, and she's bringing the rest of the team up, and she's a good hitting partner at practice," said Harmanos. "She could win a vast majority of her matches."

At number two singles is sophomore, Molly Ehrig, who has moved up from the number three spot last year.

"She only lost two matches last year, and she's improved a lot," Harmanos said.

Junior, Brooke Adams, will play at number three singles.

"Brooke is very athletic," he said.

Tess Shuler and Maureen Mazza will be paired at number two doubles.

"Maureen is left-handed, and Tess is right-handed, and I love See TENNIS on Page 14

CROSS COUNTRY

Patriots don't mind being counted out this year

BY KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tnonline.com

For the past few years, Freedom High School's boys' cross country team has had a target on its back, and although that target is now gone, the Patriots know better than to underestimate themselves, but will anyone else?

"Everybody's looking at Parkland and Easton. I don't think they are looking at us, but I kind of like that," said Freedom coach Bob Thear. "People will assume we're down."

The Patriots are returning seniors, Will Alpaugh and Dan Quigley, along with junior, Isaac Gross.

"All of them put in a good summer. They're primed for a good season. I expect Isaac to make a big jump this year. He did a time trial at Lehigh and ran well," Thear said.

Also included on the 20-boy roster are returners Wil Cacciatore, a junior, and sophomores, Kevin Pollock and Alex Montoya. Freshman, Josh Noel, should also be a contender.

The girls' team has 14 on its roster, the most in recent years.

Seniors, Madison

Young and Bridget Tarnowski, along with juniors, Olivia Salerno and Sarah Beth Dunn are all returning.

"The top girls look good. Olivia put in her best summer so far. Sarah Beth will make a little bit of a leap, I think. Madison is doing well so far," said Thear.

Juniors, Ally Young and Morgan Weaver should be contenders, as well as freshmen, Shannon Connelly and Mary Sweeney.

On the girls' side, Thear expects Easton, Parkland, and Emmaus to be on top.

"It will be a mad dash after that," Thear said. "People will assume we won't be good because we lost Shaina [Palmer], but she's only one person. If I can get everyone up 30 seconds, we can be in the top five at districts."

Thear has picked up a new assistant in Alec Duncan, a recent Moravian College graduate.

Both the boys' and the girls' teams are showing a positive disposition in preparation for the 2015 season.

"The attitude is good so far on the girls' and boys' side," said Thear.

George returns but this could be rebuilding year for Liberty

BY KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tnonline.com

For Liberty High School's boys' cross country team, 2015 will be very much a rebuilding year, having lost seven of the Hurricanes' top ten to graduation.

State contender, Jonah George, however, is back, along with senior, Brendan Reilly, and junior, Pedro Larotta, all captains this year.

Juniors, TJ Medelin, and Ben Stuckey are also returning, and first-year runner, Travis Barnes, a senior, will also be one to watch.

"They are probably my top guys, but at the end of the day, one or two freshmen could work their way in," said Coach Mark Will-Weber, who is assisted by Ali Tannous.

Will-Weber sees the Hurricane boys as a measuring stick team.

"I hope to have a winning record, but we won't beat Easton, or Freedom, or Parkland, or people like that. We'll be competitive with the Pocono schools, and some teams we could be tight with like Whitehall or Nazareth. If we can beat them, we could be 10-5 or 9-6," said Will-Weber.

The outlook for Liberty's girls' cross country team is similar.

"They are really young, so by the end of the year, they may be a pretty good team. They have potential. I just don't know how progressive they will be," Will-Weber said.

Raisa Kochmaruk, the defending East Penn Conference and District XI champion, is expected to lead the way.

"Raisa is in fantastic shape. We're working her a little harder this year," Will-Weber said. "We're telling her to do the best she can, but don't get hung up on winning everything."

Delaney Davis, a senior, is also in very good shape, having completed a triathlon this summer.

Both Kochmaruk and Davis are captains.

Junior, Kyra Allred, and sophomore, Alicia Valladares, should also be near the top of the girls' team along with freshmen, Greta Stuckey, Cara Kuyaens, and Grace Haas.

"We'll be competitive. We should be better than 8-7 [last year's record]. We'll see how it unfolds," said Will-Weber.

TENNIS

to have that as a doubles team," said Harmanos.

Gabby Duffy and Tori Evert will play at number three doubles, and Liah Perez and Jade Devlin will play at number four doubles.

"Our first week of practice was a good week, and everyone played a lot during the summer," Harmanos said. "Overall, we should definitely contend with everybody in the conference. Last year, there wasn't one really outstanding team, and this year, I think it's the same way."

To name a few, Harmanos mentioned Nazareth, Easton, and Liberty as having nice teams, but when it comes to districts, Becahi competes in a different class than those.

"Notre Dame has a good team [in Class AA]," he said. "Probably one of the toughest."

Editor's note: The Becahi tennis team was not on site for the 2015 photo day at the high school.

Bracetty learns about team

BY KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tnonline.com

Beginning her second year as Bethlehem Catholic High School's cross country coach, Kelly Bracetty is feeling fortunate to have had the past year to work with her runners individually, learning their strengths and weaknesses, and helping them to develop as better runners.

Leading the boys' team this season will be seniors, Bryce Orloski and Andy Haldaman, juniors, Ivan Korpics, Austin Tucker, and Scott Tennyson, and sophomore, Nick Zambo.

"They have a great base of mileage coming into the season, so it looks very promising. Their dedication this summer was amazing," said Bracetty.

Leading the girls' team this season will be senior, Kassi Yocco, juniors, Rowan Pepe and Alyssa Regan, and sophomore, Lauren Bunke.

"They're coming off a very strong summer of running. They're also some of the top runners in the district, so we will have a good pack up front if we can find one or two more to step into that," Bracetty said.

Overall, both girls' and boys' teams have shown improvement based on their times from last year.

"Whether cracking the top ten or dropping time, if we can keep it going, we will have a great season," said Bracetty.
