Special parking spot is contested

By LEO ATKINSON
 Special to the Bethlehem Press

The issue of awarding two new handicapped parking spots in the 1100 blocks of Stanley Avenue and Broadway, which had been tabled in August so the borough ordinance could be consulted, resulted in more contentious debate at the Sept. 3 Fountain Hill Borough Council meeting.

Council unanimously approved the Stanley Avenue parking space, but Council President Larry Rapp said the Broadway applicant did not qualify because she had a handicapped placard and not a handicapped license plate, as required by the ordinance.

Councilperson Carolee Gifford said, "We should not be second-guessing physicians" about the necessity for a handicapped spot.

Rapp responded that if the applicant could get a plate, then the council could reconsider the application.

Councilperson Helen Halleman added that parking is at a premium in the borough.

In other business, Fountain Hill resident Anna Zawierucha, of the 1000 block of Delaware Avenue, brought a petition asking the council

Clydesdales capture city

Hundreds of Lehigh Valley residents, and some from beyond, funneled their way to the ice rink on Illicks Mill Road to get up close and personal with the famous Budweiser Clydesdale team. Traffic came to a halt on Illicks Mill Road as the temporary stable was open for the public to view and photograph the horses and their handlers. The team arrived 45 minutes late for the 3 p.m.

opening and was greeted by an overwhelming crowd excited to get a look at the famous team of horses. One by one the horses were led out of the Budweiser rigs, as young and old alike clamored to get as close as possible. Despite the wait and enormity of the crowd, it was an organized event with visitors showing patience and kindness toward each other. Eric Soto of Florida is one of the handlers. He has been with the team four years. When asked what the prerequisites are for getting a job with the team, he said you had to be free to travel at any time and you must have a Class A CDL license. Of his experience here in the valley, he said the people are amazing; all the people, but especially those in Bethlehem. To check out employment opportunities with the team, go to Bushjobs.com.

DISTRICT MAGISTRATE REALIGNMENT

Not everyone happy with plan

By BERNIE O'HARE
 Special to the Bethlehem Press

Magisterial district judges are the frontline of Pennsylvania's judicial system. Though sometimes called the minor judiciary, they handle the majority of cases considered by judges, from neighbor squabbles to a disputed parking ticket. Former Pa. Chief Justice Ralph Cappy called them "the bulwark between the police and rights of citizens." But in an effort to stretch the tax dollar, the Pa. Supreme Court has embarked on an ambitious plan to reduce judicial costs. Part of that is reducing the number of magisterial districts statewide by 10 percent.

But will this reduction serve the public or elected officials? That's the question presented by two realignment plans in Northampton County, under which one of 15 magisterial districts is being eliminated.

In June, the state Supreme Court adopted a plan endorsed by then President Judge F.P. Kimberly McFadden that consolidated two seats in the lonely northwestern corner of Northampton County. The seats held by District Judges Diane Marakovits (Northampton, North Catty and Allen) and Robert Hawke (Lehigh, Moore, Chapman, Walnutport) were combined. This would also force Judges Marakovits and Hawke, whose terms expire in 2015, to run against each other.

Out of what really can only be described as a sense of self-preservation, the district judges have submitted a new realignment plan, which has been forwarded to the State Supreme Court by President Judge Stephen Baratta. This one eliminates District Judge Joseph Barner's seat in Bethlehem Township; He is retiring at the end of his term in 2017.

But eliminating an election is not favored by officials and police in Bethlehem Township, where his seat is located.

Under this amended plan, Bethlehem Township's 23,730 people would be split up between two different magisterial districts. Some would have

THE DISTRICT COURT at the Trolley Station, which serves all of Bethlehem Township, would be eliminated under a proposed district magistrate realignment plan.

"In the political world, this would be labeled gerrymandering. The proposed alignment attempts to establish an advantage for a group (two DJs) by manipulating the boundaries in order to avoid the elimination of one District Magistrate in Northampton County in 2016. The proposal is a disservice to the residents and businesses of Hanover Town-

"The Bethlehem Township Police Department is strongly opposed to any alteration of magisterial districts which results in the reduction of officer presence in our township and an increased expenditure of taxpayer dollars if the only benefit to be derived is that one magisterial office remains open."

Chief Daniel G. Pancoast
Bethlehem Township Police Dept.

Police, will be switched to Northampton - 11 miles away.

Residents of Bath, currently served in nearby Nazareth by District Judge Capobianco, would now travel to District Judge Robert Hawke's courtroom in Lehigh Township, which is 14 miles away.

A member of the committee behind the original proposal, who asked to remain anonymous, is upset by this latest proposal.

"Our job is to serve the public, not elected officials," he said. "You can't push people and police out to the hinterlands of Northampton County."

"We can't afford that," Bethlehem Township Planning Chairman Lee Snover said of the elimination of a magisterial district in Bethlehem Township. She should know. Her board, along with the Board of Commissioners, recently approved a 827-unit neighborhood village in the middle of the township. "We're a huge district and still growing," she said.

Attempts to contact District Judge Robert Hawke, the driving force behind this proposed realignment, have been unsuccessful. Acting Court Administrator Jill Cicero confirms that the matter is currently being considered by the Pa. Supreme Court.

OFFICIALS' REACTIONS

ship, the code enforcement officials of the township and the Colonial Regional Police. Requiring the Colonial Regional Police to process paperwork and prosecute offenses for Hanover in the Borough of Northampton increases expenses (fuel and wear and tear on vehicles), delays the processing of warrants and increases the amount of time an officer is out of service while attending a hearing. Combining all these factors, police protection decreases in the township and puts public health, safety and welfare at a greater risk."

Jay Finnigan
Hanover Twp. manager

"As a senator and resident of Bethlehem Township, it is my belief that the elimination of [District Judge Barner's District] would have a negative impact on law enforcement and the public safety for the residents of Bethlehem Township. It would require Bethlehem Township police officers to travel seven or 11 miles if the township is split under the new proposal."

Lisa Boscola
State senator

POLICE REACTIONS

"I contacted Judge Hawke who would not provide me with the particulars of the plan and was less than amicable in his response. I advised him regarding my department's position on this matter and he advised me that the decision was that of the Magistrates' Association and we had no say. ... Certainly a change of this magnitude should be subject to input from the municipalities, citizens and police departments that it affects."

Chief Roy D. Seiple
Colonial Regional Police Dept.
(Colonial is housed in the same building as District Judge Narlesky)

"This type of change will greatly affect the citizens in our western district that may need to file landlord/tenant actions or [trespass and contract breach] complaints. It will be difficult to explain why a citizen needs to travel 15 miles to file such actions. I believe this will deter citizens from pursuing legal actions based on the geographical location of the issuing authority."

MARKING 9/11

PRESS PHOTOS BY BERNIE O'HARE

FOR SEVENTH STRAIGHT year, firefighters top police in 9/11 softball game.

Firefighters douse police, 18-6

By BERNIE O'HARE
 Special to the Bethlehem Press

Bethlehem's police and firefighters remember the 9/11 tragedy in the best way possible, with an annual softball game under the lights at Saucon Park Fields. It's a message that life goes on. Before this year's game, they joined in prayer for the nearly 3,000 lives lost to terrorists on 9/11/01. After that, it was Play Ball!

For the seventh year in a row, it was the firefighters who walked away with the trophy after an 18-6 drubbing.

"That's cuz we're always working and they have all the time in the world," explained Officer Bill Asde-lo. But firefighter and union president Dave Saltzer had another answer.

"They eat too many doughnuts," he said of Bethlehem police. "You have to leave WaWa," he told Asdelo.

Although the game was tied one each at the end of the first, firefighters added eight runs in the second. Police had some brilliant fielding, especially with Officer Kevin Spano in center field, but they lacked the power hitting that came from every firefighter in the lineup. Though nobody sent one over the fence, several came close.

Down in runs, police definitely won in the wisecrack department.

"There's no shame in bunting," players on the bench shouted as police were down 9-2.

After the third, when firefighters extended their lead by nine runs, police could be heard saying, "We're luring them in. We got them just where we want them now."

After the fourth, with firefighters leading 13-3, the police players started groaning.

"I can't believe that out of 150 guys, we have no ball players."

Some of them tried changing shoes, but it was no use. "Every one of them a college graduate, and not one of them a ball player," the police bench complained as firefighters extended their lead even more.

Finally, in desperation, there were cries of "Let the ball hit you" as the game neared its end.

"I'm not a baseball player, I'm a rugby player," announced one cop as the game ended.

After the game was over, firefighters challenged young Christian Jacob Hackett to take them on. He homered, to his father's delight.

The game was officiated by former Liberty HS softball standout Danielle Jones, who threw at least one firefighter out of the game for arguing a call.

"Yes, ma'm," a bulky firefighter said as he towered over her.

CHRISTIAN JACOB HACKETT, son of Officer Ben Hackett, hit a home run for his Dad.

IN ADDITION TO providing colorful excuses, Officer Bill Asdelo is a Big Brother to Omar Cabassa.

The petition, signed by 26 people, calls for a crosswalk across Delaware Avenue at Clewell Street; more aggressive enforcement of speed limits; and a sound dampening surface on Delaware. The road improvements would be added to the current Delaware Avenue Reconstruction Project.

Zawierucha said there is no crosswalk on Delaware between St. Luke's Place and its meeting with Broadway. According to Zawierucha, the proposed crosswalk at Clewell Street on Delaware would help students going to the Bethlehem Area School District bus stop located at that corner.

Rapp accepted the petition and promised that council would investigate implementing the proposals.

The next phase of the Delaware Avenue reconstruction, to take place between Bishop Thorpe and Mohican streets, is scheduled to begin by Sept. 13 according to Rapp.

In addition, council unanimously approved resurfacing Hoffer Street between Stanley and Delaware avenues as part of the current project, at a cost of $34,160.

Council members Fred Capuano and Ed Stetch were absent from the meeting.

Colonial Regional Police conducted a sting recently resulting in the arrest of a man and woman on drug charges.

The incident took place around 11:40 a.m. Sept. 6 at the Northampton Crossings Mall.

According to police, officers working with an informant purchased 10 packets of heroin from Tyrif J. Cherry, 29, of Brooklyn, NY, and Lararose M. Bariso, 29, of Easton.

Cherry and Bariso are charged with possession of heroin, possession with intent to deliver and criminal conspiracy. Both were committed to Northampton County Prison in lieu of $7,500 bail.

CITY POLICE

Drug possession

Police arrested a man in the 500 block of East Fifth Street after emergency service personnel cleared him following an alleged heroin overdose Sept. 12.

Officers responded to the home of Scott Kauffman, 44, after a report from unspecified persons. Police said multiple needles, spoons and wax packets were in plain view around Kauffman when they arrived.

Kauffman is charged with possession of paraphernalia.

NOTRE DAME students, faculty, staff, parents, as well as community members and members of both the Nancy Run and Bethlehem Township fire departments, gathered Sept. 11 for a prayer service in the Crusaders football stadium, in remembrance of the tragic events of September 2001.

NOTRE DAME student Maddie Talijan reads the 23rd Psalm.

THE NOTRE DAME music ministry led the service with patriotic songs, as well as the song, "With Hope" by Steven Curtis Chapman. The service was offered in memory of Colleen Supinski, a ND alumna whose life was lost in the collapse of the Twin Towers, John McDonald, the uncle of two ND students, and all whose lives were affected by the tragic events. The point of the service was a reminder that although we cannot control the events of life, we can turn to God and stand on His promise that all will be well in the end. ABOVE: Notre Dame student Maggie Rose Macar leads a prayer during the remembrance.

DUI

Police stopped 34-year-old Brandon Snyder for a traffic violation and found him to be intoxicated Sept. 6.

According to police, Snyder, of the 600 block of Fifth Avenue, was observed committing an unspecified violation while driving around 2:45 a.m. and was pulled over in the 400 block of Carlton Avenue.

Snyder is charged with DUI.

Theft

Two residents in the 2900 and 3000 blocks of Avon Road reported items were stolen from their cars sometime before 4 p.m. Sept. 11.

Police said one victim reported the loss of coins from the vehicle's center console. The car was parked in the driveway.

The other victim reported the theft of a .40 caliber Springfield XDM40 pistol, also in the center console.

Both vehicles were allegedly left unlocked.

Similar thefts involving loose change were reported around the same time on Brandon Road and Covington Avenue, and a few hours later on Callone Avenue.

DUI

Police arrested a young woman for driving drunk around 2 a.m. Sept. 7.

According to police, Kelly Abbot, 21, of Essex Fells, NJ, was observed driving the wrong way in a one-way section of Center Street.

Officers determined Abbot was intoxicated, and she is charged with DUI and one-way roads.

Council seeks clearer Atiyeh plan

By ANDREW FOX
 Special to the Bethlehem Press

Bethlehem Council members say they favor further intervention in a land development plan for a medical center at 1838 Center St. by developer Abe Atiyeh.

Council members voted Aug. 6 to both adopt a resolution and amend a city ordinance. As a result of the unanimous vote, language has been adjusted such that council will now no longer "oppose" the development plan, but now seeks to "insure" that Atiyeh's plan would be made clearer.

Blake Marles, Atiyeh's attorney, expressed his confusion with the original ordinance, which opposed hospital land development at the site. As Marles spoke, he expressed that he was generally "perplexed" by reaction of local residents to his client's plan, stating that a prior zoning ordinance does not even allow residential housing to be built on the proposed land development site.

Residents who spoke in opposition to the development plan noted the impact that the construction of a local hospital would have on the community, citing logistical issues that have not yet been outlined in the plan. These issues include noise pollution from a proposed emergency room to the surrounding residential area and how exactly parking for those visiting the hospital would be mapped out.

Council President Eric Evans noted the land development plan had been "pending due to application" and that this is a "property we need to protect," adding that council's goal has been to "make sure this is a complete plan."

With a proposed amendment, council moved to both adjust the language of its initial resolution and send in City Solicitor Chris Spadoni to investigate further development plans for the site.

Evans discussed the potential for Atiyeh's plan to be misleading, pointing out that one billboard in the area describes the facility not as a "Hospital" but rather as a "Treatment Center." If in fact the facility were to be used for a treatment center, such use is not permitted by law, according to a prior zoning ordinance passed by council.

Additionally, council member Karen Dolan spoke in support of adopting the resolution noting that, "Just because you call something a hospital doesn't make it a hospital."

Both the resolution and amendment were approved, 7-0, in favor of further intervention by council. As a result of council's vote, language in the initial ordinance has been adjusted so that council will now no longer "oppose" the development plan but seeks to "insure" that Atiyeh's plan would be made clearer.

In other business, council discussed whether or not a property owner at 443 High St. will be allowed to repair the rear of his building, repainting

Faith's Battleship
 By Grace Lundmark, wife of pastor's brother, Tim

Recently my husband and I had the opportunity to visit the Battleship TEXAS, now a state historic site. It was amazing to walk on the top deck and descend into the lower deck to view the living quarters and mechanics of the last of the world's big-gun battleships. She was in use in World War I and World War II, where she was instrumental in the invasions of North Africa, Normandy, and Southern France. She provided support for the landing at Iwo Jima and took part in the invasion of Okinawa. Through the wars, her crew suffered very few casualties.

When she was commissioned in 1914, TEXAS was "the most powerful weapon in the world." Yet, one of the most touching parts of our visit was viewing a video where one of the former crewmembers said, "We were mostly a bunch of eighteen-year-olds. I was scared. We were all afraid." They were afraid because they knew the enemy was seeking to destroy them. They were living on "the most powerful weapon in the world," yet they were afraid of the enemy. My thoughts turned to the reality of fear in times of battle. We are aware of the "fear nots" and "be not afraid" verses in the Bible. I've come to think of those verses not as rebukes for being sissies, but as invitations to look beyond our natural fears and view the end of our battles. Each battle holds a victory, in some regard, when we are on the right ship and being captured by the Lord Jesus Christ.

the rear section of his house black.
Bethlehem resident John Guarani raised an objection to such a course of action, noting that painting the rear of the building black would be "inappropriate" in that part of Historic Bethlehem. Guarani cited page 25 of the Bethlehem Historic District Design Guidelines, where he noted that painting the rear of 443 High St. black would create a stark contrast against 441 High St. (his place of residence), thereby in opposition to the principles outlined on page 25.

Council member David

DiGiacinto motioned to postpone the issue until Oct. 15. With a unanimous vote, council approved the motion, tabling the decision until a future date.

Two towers will rise

Permits allowing wind sensors complete

By NATE JASTRZEMSKI
njastrzemi@tnonline.com

Executive Director Steve Repasch said Sept. 12 the unforeseen hoops erected by Penn Forest Township temporarily blocking construction of air survey towers have been successfully jumped.

Repasch said the unusual back-and-forth regarding permits allowing Atlantic Winds to build two sensor towers to monitor and analyze wind currents for the authority's wind energy project is resolved. This, just prior to fall, is the busy season for such work, but he said construction should begin within two weeks.

Repasch and Water and Sewer Resources Director Dave Brong also asked for and were given board approval for a $1,000 project in Salisbury Township to install a new pump on a hillside property. Both explained a number of homes in the township's higher elevations have long suffered from a lack of water pressure and the new pump would serve those, as well as future customers.

As an aside, Brong estimated the Fountain Hill Delaware Avenue pipe replacement project at about 80 percent complete.

Board President Vaughn Gower, when giving an update on the operational authority study, said new information may alter their choices.

Gower said estimates for the next three to five years indicate a $1 million deficit in the water fund. City Council has been made aware and now, with the approaching budget, all concerned will consider options for alleviating the problem - including a transition to an independent authority.

The next meeting is scheduled for 3:30 p.m. Oct. 10 at City Hall.

Animals are available for adoption at the Center for Animal Health & Welfare no-kill shelter, 1165 Island Park Road, Easton. The shelter is working to end pet overpopulation by running a clinic so animals can be spayed or neutered before they go home. Hawks look to take control of LVC

By JEFF MOELLER
Special to the Press

Bethlehem Catholic's future as a possible Lehigh Valley Conference champion all hinges on Wednesday afternoon.

That's when the Golden Hawks will meet both Parkland and Emmaus in a tri-match. Emmaus will enter the match undefeated, while Parkland will likely begin with one loss. Becahi will begin the week with a 7-1 overall record and has three matches this week beginning on Monday.

If two teams would finish with one loss, there would be a playoff. Whatever the final outcome, Becahi head coach Tim McGorry has been pleased with the big picture.

"We're having a good season," said

McGorry. "This is a big week for us. It will be a difficult match with both Parkland and Emmaus, and we'll have to play a good game. But we're looking forward to it."

However, a championship apparently wasn't the lone thought in McGorry's mind before the season.

"I thought we would be able to be competitive," he said. "Everyone thought Northampton would be the favorite, but they beaten by Emmaus and Parkland. I was concerned about our three, four and five spots, but the kids have really played well."

"In fact, the kids have really stepped it up. We shot a 369 against Central Catholic and that was exceptional."

McGorry noted the consistent play of three, four and five-golfers Zack Surovi, See Golf on Page A12

Kiran Singh has been one of Becahi's most improved golfers this season and is expected to be one of the top girls as well.

Hurricanes top Nazareth

Team excited for this week's matchup with the Trojans

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

If there's one reason that John Truby decided he wanted to be a head coach in the Lehigh Valley Conference, this week's football contest against Parkland would be why.

After Liberty took care of business last week with an emphatic 35-18 victory over Nazareth, the focus, hype and excitement shifts to Friday night's home game against Parkland.

Both teams enter the contest with 2-1 overall marks and 1-1 in the league standings, but both schools also enter as big programs taking part in a big game.

"I hope it's going to be a packed house," said Truby. "The kids are looking forward to the challenge and I think everyone is really looking forward to this game. This is the type of game that you want to coach in."

After the Hurricanes ran for 228 yards against Nazareth last week, Truby hopes that will be an ongoing theme for his team as the season progresses.

Ryan Lawrence led the rushing brigade with 114 yards on the ground and Darius Jones provided the big play sparks, as he ran for 82 yards on three carries and a TD, as well as catching three balls for 61 yards and a touchdown.

KJ Williams also showed off his big play prowess by hauling in two touchdowns on only three receptions for 26 yards on the night.

"I think we only ran for about 60 yards against Whitehall and we told the kids last week in practice, that if they want to be a playoff team, we need to do better in the running game," Truby said. "We were just missing too many assignments and we needed to correct that."

"We obviously did a much better job against Nazareth and know we need to do that against Parkland."

Hawks gain confidence

Reason to feel good despite loss

By PETER CAR

Signs of improvement are unquestioned with Bethlehem Catholic's football program, but that doesn't mean the Golden Hawks are content with their current state.

Becahi lost their first contest of the season last week, falling to Easton 49-35 to sit at 2-1 on the season.

It was a game that stayed closer than outsiders may have thought, but one that proved Becahi's early success is no fluke.

After falling behind 21-7 in the first quarter and 35-14 in the second half, Becahi refused to quit and kept fighting last week to prove that the mentality of this team and program has shifted dramatically this season under head coach Joe Henrich.

"I don't think our kids are satisfied with anything at this point," he said. "They have a no quit attitude and believed they could go out and beat Easton."

"I do think we have ability on this team and a different temperament from a year ago and this is potentially an exciting time for us, but we're not in any position to over-

Liberty tries to gain momentum

Liberty's Caitlin Kennedy and the rest of the Hurricanes are looking for consistency.

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Finding consistency is the one of the most important factors for any sports team and that may be the one alluding factor for Liberty's field hockey team this season.

The Hurricanes have jumped out to a mixed bag of results so far, starting the season 4-3 and 3-1 in LVC play following last week's 2-0 defeat to Parkland.

Head coach Mary Kathryn Omdahl knew that last Monday's 1-0 win over Freedom was important for the team heading into another pivotal week of LVC play, as the Hurricanes entertain Allen, Central Catholic and Dieruff this week to build some momentum and close in on clinching a district playoff berth.

"We have had a long week with five games in seven days," said Omdahl. "We look at it as a fresh start to a new week and hopefully a new winning streak.

"I know the girls are keyed in on a division title as a steppingstone to return to the league finals."

Liberty knocked off Easton 2-0 and Bethlehem Catholic 7-0 en route to their undefeated start in the division, but a 3-1 loss to Moravian proved that the team still has work to do, as two of their three losses have come out of conference, with the first being a 4-2 defeat to Stroudsburg.

"Moravian is a very fit and well coached team," Omdahl said. "They definitely outplayed us and beat us to the ball. We played very reactive and not proactive hockey.

"Unfortunately, we are still struggling with consistency whether it be from game to game or half to half in a particular game.

"I know my players are capable of more. They are still struggling a bit with their flow of the game. We have the potential to do great things this year, but we need to come together in a more cohesive and consistent manner on every game day."

Freedom (1-4, 1-3) has started off slow, getting their only victory over Bethlehem Catholic 1-0 on September 6, as Carly Deichman's first half goal stood up to be the winner.

Freedom lost to Allen last week 4-0 and face Nazareth, Northampton and Parkland this week.

Bethlehem Catholic (1-5, 1-3) got their first win of the season last week, following a 3-1 victory over Central Catholic.

The Hawks trailed at halftime 1-0, but put together three goals in the second half, led by Maggie Melhem's two goals. Maddie Reightler also added a score to help Becahi secure their first win.

The Hawks face off against Northampton, Nazareth and Whitehall this week.

Shumock will attend Boston University

By KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tnonline.com

Ever since the eighth grade, Liberty senior, Kali Shumock, dreamed of attending Boston University, and in August 2012, that dream came true when the standout athlete was offered and accepted a full scholarship and committed to BU to play field hockey.

"Literally, all my dreams came true that day," Shumock said.

Shumock was offered a scholarship on her first of many visits there, and while she credits Mystic Hockey Club Coach Phil Danaher with getting her foot in the door, Shumock had been successfully working toward this goal for years.

"I owe everything to him. He has a lot of connections, and he got my foot in the door, and that's how it all started," said Shumock.

For Shumock's part, the Hurricane senior is in the top 6% of her class, and is a member of the National Honor Society.

Last year, Shumock was First Team All-League as a midfielder, seventh in the league for total points, and became the Liberty High School record holder for goals scored in a single season with 12. Shumock was also the team MVP.

In addition, Shumock plays for the Mystic Firebolts 19 U team, and continues to train at Full Circle Training in Bethlehem.

"All the people supporting me and motivating me to do extra stuff ... it's so rewarding when it works out in the end," Shumock said.

Along with Danaher, Shumock named Liberty field hockey coach, Mary Kathryn Omdahl, and trainer, Obe Roundtree, as the people who helped her achieve her dream.

During that first visit to Boston University, Shumock had a tour of the school and spent the entire day with the team.

"The coach said she puts school first, and I liked how she organized everything. [The team] said there is a good balance between hockey and schoolwork and personal time, and they do a lot of team bonding, and they went canoeing. It's important for me to have a close team. We all had the same kinds of goals and personalities," Shumock said.

Coached by Sally Starr, the Terriers recently joined the Patriot League, where they are the preseason favorite to capture the 2013 conference title.

Shumock's partiality to the sport of field hockey comes from the intensity of the game.

"It takes a lot of endurance, and I love to run. I love the fitness involved, and I like that you have to do it with a team, and you can't do it yourself," said Shumock.

Shumock plans to major in kinesiology in the fall of 2014.

By KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tnonline.com

The scores were the same, but only Freedom prevailed in girls tennis last week, 6-1 over Northampton, as Bethlehem Catholic lost to Nazareth, and Liberty lost to Central Catholic, both 6-1.

For the Patriots, Flannery Johnston defeated

Leah Hodge 6-4, 6-4 at number one singles, Kayleigh DiNoto defeated Sabrina Searock 6-2, 6-3 at number two singles, and Federica Maranzana defeated Emma Angle 6-1, 6-1 at number three singles.

DiNoto and Maranzana paired up at number one doubles to defeat Hodge and Searock 10-9.

At number two doubles, however, Elizabeth McCarthy and Marissa Mele lost to Mary Angle and Georgia Weaver 6-3, 1-6, 3-6.

Freedom's Corrine Marchese and Kaitlyn Swint won at number three doubles over Delaney Haggerty and Jolene Stearns 7-6, 6-7, 6-4, and Jasmeet Kaur and Janessa Scherrman won at number four doubles for the Patriots over Grace Lewis and Jenna Meixsell 6-3, 3-6, 7-6.

Bethlehem Catholic's Taylor Treadwell won for the Hawks at number one singles, defeating Nazareth's Victoria Steinberger 7-6, 6-2, and Liberty's Emily Moss won for the Hurricanes at number three singles, defeating Central Catholic's Beth DiGiacomo 4-6, 6-2, 7-5.

Moss said, "In the first set, I wasn't that far behind, but she was hitting better shots. My coach [Leo Schnalzer] helped with his advice. Basically, he just told me to stay in the point. After the second set, he told me to cool down, and that helped in the third set."

Both players challenged each other with their serves.

"After I would win a game, she would get mad and her serve would be really fast," said Moss.

The match itself lasted almost three hours.

"It was just so nice for it to be over, actually. Everyone was cheering for the points and that it was over. It was such a relief," Moss said.

Freedom High School's boys cross country team remained undefeated last week with a 25-30 victory over Easton and a 16-47 victory over Bethlehem Catholic.

Ben Ziegler took first place for the Patriots with a time of 16:44, second overall to Easton's Colin Abert. Dan Quigley was third, Jason Lopez was sixth, and Chris Kelly placed seventh.

Will Alpaugh took 12th place, and Tommy Salerno and Shane Smith followed, placing 14th and 15th, respectively.

Liberty's runners split their meet, defeating Bethlehem Catholic 20-43, but losing to Easton 20-36.

Finishing first for the Hurricanes was Alex Fitch, who placed fourth overall. Robert Marrero placed 11th, Will Masmore was 16th, and Josh Ledyard placed 17th. Brendan Reilly came in 19th place, and Jonah George was 20th.

John Donchez from Bethlehem Catholic placed eighth overall and first for the Hawks.

GIRLS SOCCER

LHS girls win first

Hawks and Patriots suffer losses

By KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tntonline.com

Liberty's girls soccer team captured its first win of the season, defeating Allen 9-0 last Friday at home.

Hurricane midfielder, Cailley Sanchez, scored two goals in the first period to give Liberty the early lead. The first was on a corner from teammate, Erika Peters, who also scored two goals. The second was on a ball on the 18.

As the scoring continued, the Hurricanes still knew they could not take the Canaries lightly.

"I think we communicated well, and we played as a team. We wanted to get control of the ball, and we worked on keeping the possession. This was a big win, like a starter win," said Sanchez.

Liberty opened its season with a 1-1 tie against Bethlehem Catholic, only to be defeated by Freedom in overtime 2-1. Losses to Easton and Parkland only added to the frustration.

Sanchez said, "When we tied Beca, honestly, it lifted us up a lot, but losing to Freedom in 30 seconds of overtime, and then Parkland and Easton got us down, so today lifted us up again. Hopefully, we'll keep winning."

Also scoring goals for the Hurricanes last Friday were Amelia Sapirman, Sarah Rivera, Jocelyn Snyder, Precious Torres, and Carolina Paul-Lastres.

Bethlehem Catholic has also had its share of frustration so far this season, recently losing to Central Catholic 4-1 last week.

Bridget Parise scored the only goal for the Hawks, late in the second period.

"I was just aiming for the corner and quickly, because they weren't ready," said Parise.

Behind 2-0 at halftime, the Hawks were also plagued by injuries.

Parise said, "We talked about position and how our touches weren't the best in the first half. They kept their defense long in the back, so we tried playing in front of them."

Also last week, Freedom lost to Nazareth 9-0.

Ugly Stick still one of the best selling fishing rods

By NICK HROMIAK
Special to the Press

If you're a veteran angler, you may remember the Jerry McGinnis Fishing Hole TV show televised back in the 70s before there was an Outdoor Channel. During those shows Shakespeare ran ads showing the durability of their new Ugly Stik fishing rods. The two I most vividly remember was an angler getting the tip of his Ugly Stik caught between the slats of a wooden dock as the angler shoved off. The rod didn't break.

The other ad showed a heavy weight being lifted by the rod with the tip bent at more than a 90-degree angle. No breakage.

That was back in 1976 when Shakespeare demonstrated the toughness of their rods with a clear tip and triple built Howard Process construction that reportedly made it light and virtually indestructible.

From that time forward the Ugly Stik has been one of the best selling rods on the market. It was particularly suited for kids who have a tendency to be rough on rods.

For 2013, Shakespeare has introduced their new generation of GX2 Ugly Stiks. According to Kevin Jarnagin, Shakespeare media relations spokesman, the new Ugly Stik GX2 is infused with enhancements that include a new blank through reel seat design in conjunction with Shakespeare's proven graphite and fiberglass construction that makes it a strong yet sensitive rod with better balance.

In addition, all GX2 rods now use newly designed one-piece, stamped stainless steel guides for maximum durability and no insert pop-outs.

As for cosmetics, the rods feature a sleek matte black finish highlighted by red and silver accents and the Ugly Stik logo etched into the EVA grip. Retained from the original rods is the classic diamond wind above the grip.

The new GX2 rods are available in 15 casting models, 20 spinning rods and three pack rods, each with an MSRP of only $39.95.

CONTRIBUTED PHOTO

The new Ugly Stik GX2 rods have been upgraded to include one piece line guides and improved construction.

For the ladies, there are six rod models (2 casting, 4 spinning) that use subtle pink accents throughout.

And for the kids, the GX2 combos were designed for ages eight and up and in spincast and spinning combos with bright green accents and split handle Ugly Grips. They too have an MSRP of $39.95.

For anglers who prefer buying a matched set of rod and reel, the Ugly Stik GX2 Combos offer reels of spinning, under-spin and spincast models matched to seven different rod lengths and actions.

The spinning reels feature glass filled nylon bodies and double anodized aluminum spools with oversized bail wires, two pinion bearings to reduce overall wear on the reels, and soft touch handle knobs.

Spincast combo models feature Shakespeare's Steel 6 and 10 models plus a Synergy TI Micro option for anglers looking to find smaller fish in the pond. The Micro combos are pre-spooled with 4 lb., Stren line while the 6 and 10 size combos are spooled with 6 and 10 lb. Stren line.

Inline with their rods, Shakespeare has some interesting history. It was started in 1897 as the William Shakespeare Jr. Company in Kalamazoo, Michigan. Then in 1915 the name was changed to the Shakespeare Company.

In 1939 Shakespeare invented the "Backlash" brake and its Wondereel was one of the most popular reels to hit the market for its backlash control.

Then in 1976, the Ugly Stik debuted and was the first rod to feature a clear indestructible tip.

In 1996, Shakespeare got a new corporate identity as K2 Inc. and in 2007 Pure Fishing (the tackle conglomerate) merged to form the largest fishing tackle company.

As for the new Ugly Stik, it continues the tradition of durable rods for the entire family, only the new rods appear even better.

Freedom looks to shake off loss to WHS

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

You don't have to tell Jason Roeder that his football team has work to do.

Following last week's 42-3 home loss against Whitehall, Roeder knows there's plenty of room for improvement as they head into a matchup with Emmaus this week.

Both teams enter the contest 1-2 and both teams lone win at this point of the season has come against Central Catholic.

The Hornets used a touchdown with seconds left in the fourth quarter to pull out a 21-14 win over the Vikings last week.

Now both teams look to work off their only wins against a common opponent to take a positive step heading into the midpoint of the season.

"We have a lot of work to do," said Roeder. "Defensively, I don't think the scoreboard showed everything from last week's game. We did a good job holding Saquon Barkley to [55 yards rushing], but we are struggling to keep the chains moving and we're committing too many turnovers."

Barkley, a Rutgers recruit, had his most modest game of the season, but the Freedom offense has been non-existent.

The Pates rushed for 94 yards last week and quarterback Jonah Gundrum went 4-for-15 for 25 yards and four interceptions.

Freedom has now committed 12 turnovers in their first three games, which is clearly not ideal for any football team.

"I think what we need to realize is that it takes all 11 guys to execute on offense," said Roeder. "We have to move the chains better and execute on offense. The turnovers are killing us."

And if the turnovers continue, the Pates will continue to struggle.

Working through the early growing pains of the season continues against an Emmaus team that has proved to be undisciplined, as they forfeited leads in the fourth quarter of their first two games against Penridge and Bethlehem Catholic, before squeaking out last week's victory.

But with the focus on Emmaus, Freedom is simply looking to rebound.

"Coming off a loss like that is embarrassing," said Roeder of the Whitehall loss. "Things aren't going to get better on it's own, so we need to work."

championships."

A senior-laden team, McGorry also cited the play of seniors Jamie McCloskey, CJ Horn, Sean Fritz, and Matt Szilagyi, who have all provided some necessary depth all season.

Nick Maff and JT Barker, the team's two top players, are expected to continue to shoot in the 70s down the stretch.

McGorry also has been proud of his grit and determination over the past month.

"We usually don't have the kids who have been brought up with country club golf like some of the other teams," he said. "Our kids have worked very hard to get to the level where they are. We'll see how we can compete this week and then we can concentrate on districts and beyond. Whatever happens, it has been a solid season for us."

So what did we learn from week three? Whitehall can run with more than Saquon Barkley. Liberty can run the ball and Bethlehem Catholic can run with teams like Easton?

ed to them a week before. Truby knows that Parkland is a perennial powerhouse and that Friday's matchup is as big as games get during the regular season.

"We know that Parkland is one of the top teams in the district every year," said Truby. "They are as explosive as they come when it comes to an offensive team. They have great running backs and they are quick up front with their line."

Parkland got their running game going against Northampton last week, piling up 331 yards, as Eli Redmond scored three TD's in limited action.

Truby said that he's watched film of the Easton contest, which saw the Rovers blank Parkland two weeks ago.

Liberty's defensive personnel is different from that of Easton's, so replicating those results isn't ideal, but taking elements away from that film is something that Truby hopes his team can execute.

"It really was just a tackling clinic by Easton in that game," he said. "Parkland has some great skill players and you need to tackle them. We need to get hats around the ball and tackle well. It's something we preach all the time, but it's what we really need to focus on this week."

look anyone."

Easton ran for 237 yards on the night, led by Shane Simpson's 143-yard effort and two touchdowns. Simpson, perhaps the most dangerous player in the Lehigh Valley Conference, also returned a first quarter punt 68-yards for a touchdown to help build a 21-7 lead for the Rovers in the first quarter.

But Becahi has their own playmaker on the offensive side of the ball in wide receiver Freddie Simmons, who caught all three of Julian Spigner's TD passes on the night.

Simmons finished with five catches for 212 yards and three scores. Spigner completed 9-of-21 passes for 204 yards and three TD's, as well as a rushing score from 24 yards out, but three interceptions in the contest are one stat that needs to be cleaned up as the Hawks move forward to this Friday's road contest at Nazareth to play Northampton.

"Three turnovers in the second half certainly didn't help us," said Henrich. "Easton got out to a fast start and it took us a while to get caught up to the speed of the game. We also just made too many mistakes and we have to start cutting out the little mistakes that keep costing us."

With a matchup against a struggling 0-3 Northampton side this week, Henrich knows there isn't anyone his team can take lightly.

With Becahi in position to start 3-1 before heading into a city battle with Liberty the following week, thinking ahead is something Becahi can't afford to do.

"We know that Northampton has a good quarterback and that he can do some damage," said Henrich. "They're [Northampton] hungry for a win and we've got to be able to match that this week."

"We've been in situations in the past where we could have won certain games and we didn't. We now have to go out and execute to get a win this week. We can't think we're better than anybody."

STUDENTPROFILE
Evan Anthony

Freedom HS

Grade: 12
Family members: I have two older stepbrothers as well as one younger brother; my mother, my father, my stepfather, as well as two cats.

Favorite subject: I have always been a science kind of guy. I loved anatomy and earth science and many of the practical applications both have in school and in the world around us.

Activities: I am Freedom HS student body president for the 2014 school year. I am also a chairperson for the 2014 BASD mini-THON.

Next steps: After high school I wish to attend college for business and hopefully go off to get my MBA and get a career in corporate business administration.

Career goals: I want to be successful in the field I go into. Preferably take a leadership role in the company or organization so that I stay busy and focused but also enjoy my job at the same time.

Hobbies: I am a tennis player in my free time, as well as sail in the summertime up in the Finger Lakes.

Current job(s): I work as a sailing instructor at Keuka Yacht Club in the summertime; one of the best jobs in the world.

Likes: I like working hard, going out with friends and I like spending time with my family.

Dislikes: I strongly dislike slackers and prunes.

Greatest accomplishment (so far): I am president of the 2014 student council; also, more than 300 community service hours.

Advice for peers: Getting involved really does make a difference. One day you may feel like you can't find anything that piques your interest and then the next you won't be able to make all the meetings for all the different clubs you want to join. Stick with it and work hard. High school is a blast if you make it what you want it to be.

The first brewery in the Lehigh Valley

Karen M. Samuels
Columnist

The first brewery established in the Lehigh Valley was located behind where the Hotel Bethlehem stands today. Johann Sebastian Goundie, a master brewer from Offterseim, Germany, built the brewery down the hill, north of the Colonial Industrial Quarter, in 1804. He arrived in Bethlehem to brew traditional Bohemian-style lagers and ales.

Goundie was so well respected in the Moravian community that he was elected as the first mayor in 1827. His home, built in 1810, located at 501-505 Main St., was the first brick house in town. Goundie died in 1852 and the brewery was then used as a distillery for several years.

In the early 1880s, Francis E. Fenner purchased the brewery building and leased it to William Benz and Charles Eckert. Known then as the Old Monocacy Brewery, it produced about 4,000 barrels of beer annually.

On the night of March 19, 1885, five students discovered the brewery's roof on fire. They kicked in the door and began rolling barrels of beer out of the building. Unfortunately, it was determined later that the open door created a draft that fed the fire. Also lost in the fire, besides the brewery, was a stable and two ice houses.

The fire departments that responded were the Reliance, the Perseverance, the Nisky Hook and Ladder and the Fairview departments. The builder J.S. Allam, received the contract to rebuild the brewery, which he completed within the year, with a larger, more modern plant.

The next owner of the brewery was Jacob Widman, who had immigrated to the United States from Heidenheim, Wurtemberg, Germany, in 1868. The 20-year-old was a trained brewer. Within a year of his arrival in the United States, he was employed as a brewmeister for Eagle Brewery in Allentown. He continued to work for 15 years at Eagle, which was owned by Joseph A. Lieberman.

One day, Widman would repay the the Lieberman family for this opportunity by employing their youngest son, Charles Lieberman. Lieberman would go on to become a world famous brewer. In addition to his work at Eagle, he managed a hotel, located on North Seventh Street in Allentown. He married Anna Kreitzburg in 1872. Anna had recently arrived in Allentown from Saxon, Germany. The couple had seven children.

In 1889, Widman became the proprietor of the Old Monocacy Brewery. He replaced the 1885 brewery building with a new, larger brewery in 1902 and changed the name to Jacob Widman and Company. His two sons, Harry and Charles, assisted in the family business. Their most popular product was the Extra Bohemian Lager Beer.

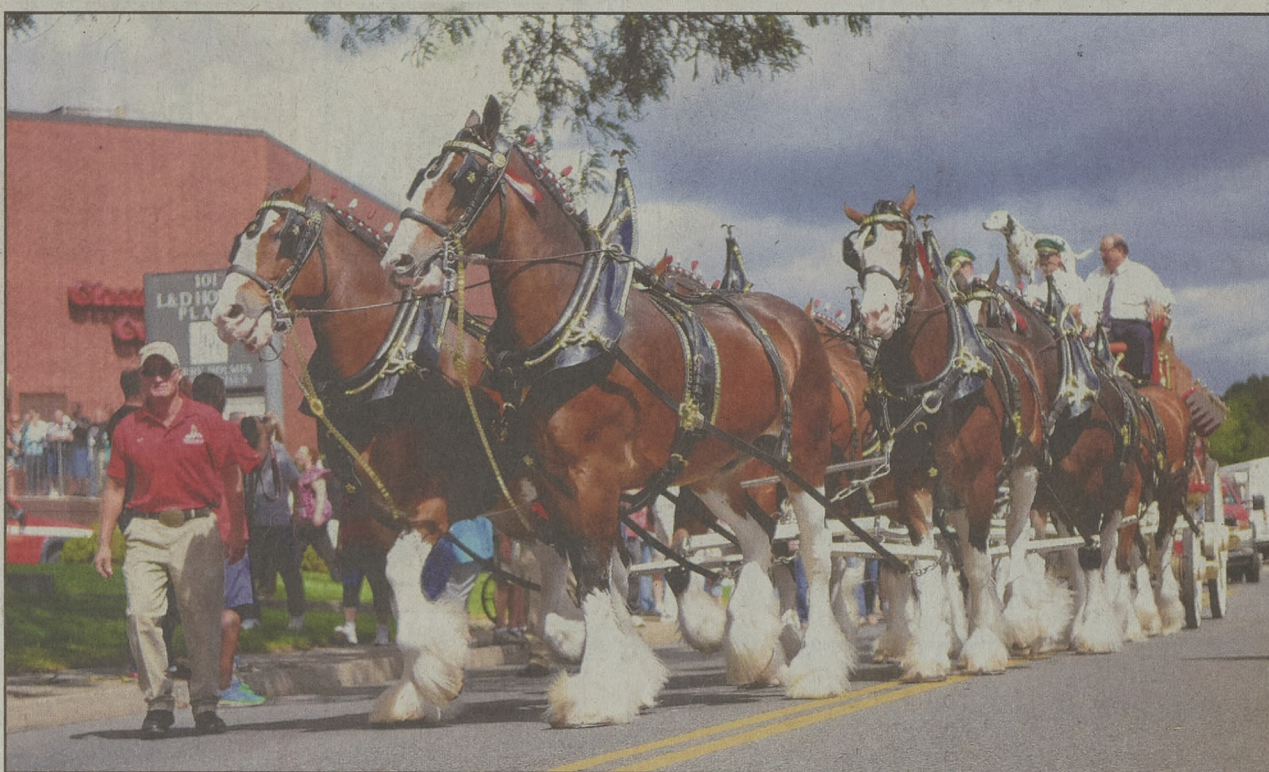

Jacob Widman died in 1919 and was buried in Nisky Hill Cemetery. His sons carried on the business. They produced around 25,000 barrels of Extra Bohemian in 1920. The brewery continued to produce beer during Prohibition and was closed up a few times by Prohibition enforcement officers. The brewery closed in 1938, a casualty of the Great Depression and outdated equipment.

Hazard mitigation plan update

By CAROL SMITH
Special to the Bethlehem Press

The Lehigh Valley 2013 Hazard Mitigation Plan is in place and ready for action. While no one ever wishes for an emergency in their backyard, it's always a good idea to have a plan in place. Acting on and maintaining a disaster recovery plan not only makes the county more resilient, but more importantly, makes it eligible for federal funds when disasters occur.

Angel Gillette, the county's hazard mitigation plan manager, presented updates to Northampton County Council for approval at its Sept. 5 meeting.

Northampton County Emergency Management Services and the Lehigh County Emergency Management Agency worked together to finalize the update to the Bi-County Multijurisdictional Hazard Mitigation Plan.

The Hazard Mitigation Plan is a living document that communities use to reduce their vulnerability to hazards. The plan offers a strategy to reduce disaster losses and provides a framework for risk-based decision making to reduce damages to lives, property and the economy from future disasters.

The Disaster Mitigation Act of 2000 (DMA 2000) requires state and local gov-

Mehler, the former director of the county's Area Agency on Aging, replaces Ross Marcus, who resigned as director to become deputy executive director for Community Action Committee of the Lehigh Valley (CACLV), a subcontractor to the county.

Council confirmed Mehler's appointment at a Sept. 5 council meeting and thanked Marcus for his seven years of service to the county.

Councilman Tom Dietrich told Marcus that he would be sorely missed and commended him for his knowledge and expertise with the human services department.

Councilman Lamont McClure also thanked Marcus for his dedication to the county, despite the fact that Marcus and McClure were on opposite sides of the Stoffa administration's efforts to privatize Gracedale, the county's nursing home. McClure also expressed his concern that Marcus would be employed by an organization holding contracts with the county for many needed services to county residents. McClure said Marcus's employ-elaborate displays of hershey kisses, balloon and floral arrangements of different varieties, or even a simple hand-written invitation.

To begin the school year, incoming freshmen got the taste of high school prior to a full house. Student council representatives, club members and teachers took the first part of their day to give tours and give options to new students looking for something to do with the next four years of their lives. This is to be sure that the freshmen feel welcome and comfortable.

One of the most important aspects of these orientations is to provide a sense of urgency. "These four years will be the fastest of your life," was the most common phrase used. Although most new students ignore that, seniors look back at all that time they had and wonder where it went. Most of them said that it almost seemed like yesterday that they were walking into the halls for the first time.

The sense of urgency is to encourage all to get involved in something during their high school career whether it be athletics or a club. It truly makes a difference in the eyes of the student as well as the college looking for the "well-rounded" individual. Many students find interests that they would not have guessed.

Last year, two students came together and formed an organization between Freedom and Liberty high schools, and hosted the first BASD Mini-THON – a 10-hour dance marathon to benefit the Four Diamonds fund and pediatric cancer research – raising more than $23,000. By getting involved, these two students made a difference in the lives of others.

This year Freedom is the hosting school for the BASD Mini-THON and also will be hosting the first ever "Colored for the Kids" 5k to benefit of the Four Diamonds Fund Sept. 21 at 9 a.m. The event will include three color stations along the course that will be tossed at the runners leaving them pleasantly colorful.

ment with the CACLV should not serve as for many needed services to county residents. McClure said Marcus's employment with the CACLV should not serve as precedent for other county employees.

Stoffa, whose term ends in December, said in a statement: "Ross has had one of the most difficult jobs, if not the most difficult job, in the county. He has worked hard, has been extremely loyal to me and to Northampton County and has served Northampton County residents with disabilities well."

Stoffa said of Mehler: "There are so few people who, in my opinion, could do this job well and John Mehler is one of them."

With the 2014 budget process in motion, Marcus said he will voluntarily attend the human services department budget meetings and county council budget meetings.

HEALTH & FITNESS

Skip stretching before a workout

Many athletes have been told to stretch before starting a workout, as such a routine prepares the body for physical exertion. But new evidence suggests that stretching before a workout may do more harm than good.

Several studies now indicate that static stretching, or slowly moving muscles until they start to hurt and then holding the position, may impair strength and speed. One study published in the April 2013 Journal of Strength and Conditioning Research concluded that those who stretch before lifting weights could find themselves feeling wobblier and weaker than expected. Another study at the University of Zagreb in Croatia reviewed 104 studies of people who practiced static stretching as a warm-up. Muscle strength was reduced by more than 5 percent in those who stretched. Another study examined men who did basic squats while lifting barbells. Men who stretched and those who didn't were examined. Those who stretched lifted 8.3 percent less weight than those who skipped stretching.

Many personal trainers now discourage extensive stretching before a workout, feeling that stretching post-workout provides the most benefit. A number of people have long confused stretching with warming up muscles, but static stretching is a different activity from actual muscle warmup, which generally involves low-impact movement of the body. There is no evidence that stretching before a workout makes muscles more limber or reduces the risk of injury during a workout.

Amy C Frey, Curator of Collections and Exhibits, Historic Bethlehem Partnership, Inc., gives the white-glove treatment to one of the miniature buildings in the Elizabeth Johnston Prime Dollhouse and Toy Collection. The collection, which includes more than 40 buildings, 5,500 dollhouse pieces and dollhouses from each decade, 1830 - 1930, moves home for the Sept. 20 reopening of the Kemerer Museum of Decorative Arts, Bethlehem.

Bethlehem museum expansion gives visitors more decorative arts to view

By BATHSHEBA MONK
Special to The Press

The Kemerer Museum of Decorative Arts in Bethlehem is the only museum devoted exclusively to the decorative arts in Pennsylvania.

In fact, says LoriAnn Wukitsch, Vice President and Managing Director, Historic Bethlehem Museums & Sites, the Kemerer is one of only 15 such museums in the United States.

So, it is particularly thrilling that the newly-renovated Kemerer reopens 11 a.m. - 4 p.m. Sept. 20 - 22 with a two-story environmentally-controlled collections resource center that provides open storage for nearly 40 percent of Historic Bethlehem's artifacts including paintings, textiles, toys, furniture and one of the country's largest antique dollhouse collections.

There's an Historic Bethlehem members' preview, 6 - 9 p.m. Sept. 19 at the Kemerer, 427 N. New St., Bethlehem, which is part of Historic Bethlehem Partnership, Inc. There will be sparkling wine selections by Eileen Budd of Wine Know, hors d'oeuvres by 14 Acre Farm and music by classical, jazz and Latin guitar soloist Frank DiBussolo.

The partnership's other museums and sites include the Moravian Museum of Bethlehem, 1810 Goundie House, Colonial Industrial Quarter, and Burnside Plantation.

Wukitsch says that the 5,000-square-foot addition to the Kemerer will provide visitors with a vastly new experience as more of the collection that has been packed away in storage for decades is now either on display or available for exhibit for the first time. The Kemerer has been closed for construction since June 2012.

I took a mini preview tour of the Kemerer with Charlene Donchez Mowers. President, Historic Bethlehem Partnership, Inc.; Amy C Frey, Curator of Collections and Exhibits, Historic Bethlehem Partnership, Inc., and Wukitsch. I was especially enamored of the William Morris-themed room, which was a bedroom done in the style of the famous textile designer who lived in the 19th century.

The bedroom includes some gems from the collection, including a bed made by Allentown furniture manufacturer Gottlieb Buehler, William Morris-inspired wallpaper and an armoire beautifully stocked with linens and clothing of the period (including socks). A very small woman's dress with easily a million buttons closing the front was on a manikin in the middle of the room.

"You don't want to fasten those buttons more than once," Frey says, laughing.

When I mentioned that I didn't think any human being could have a waist small enough to fit in that dress, Donchez-Mowers remarks wryly, "That's why women were always fainting."

The Kemerer reopens with new exhibits, including "Stitched Together: Samplers from Past Present," featuring works from long-gone Moravian girls learning their letters as well as contemporary work inspired by them; "Mirror Mirror on the Wall," with pieces demonstrating how mirrors literally reflect changes tastes and styles; "Welcome Home: The Elizabeth Johnston Prime Dollhouse and Toy Collections," which will feature just a portion of the largest antique dollhouse collection in the United States; and "Once Upon A Treehouse," for children to use their imagination, play dress up, and enjoy creative play with handmade dollhouses.

The opening features local artist, Sandra Corpora, who paints all subjects, including figures, still life and landscape, and is committed to continuing the decorative art tradition.

A time to plant daffodils

Although botanically the name "Daffodil" refers to only a small portion of the genus narcissus, it has become a well-accepted common name for all types of narcissus.

Daffodils are easy to grow and reliable, and their early flowering make them one of the more popular spring bulbs. And, because they contain poisonous alkaloids, they are not damaged by deer or other wildlife.

The life cycles of spring-flowering bulbs begin in the fall when roots are formed. The flowers and foliage appear the following spring. The foliage will survive after the flowers have faded, and trap and convert sunlight into energy to replenish the bulb.

Bulbs, such as daffodils, begin forming new flower buds soon after blooming. Daffodils should be planted as soon as they are purchased in the fall. Poor storage can damage the flower bud or actually kill the bulb.

Most daffodils can be planted in any type soil, as long as it is well-drained. They require adequate moisture, which they receive during normal spring rains.

Daffodils are best planted in irregular configurations (rather than in straight rows) and spaced randomly. All bulbs like sun, but keep in mind that many spring bulbs bloom before the trees leaf out, so you may be able to plant them in areas that become shady later in the season. For the most natural look, plant bulbs in clumps or swaths, not straight lines.

The bulbs should be planted to a depth determined by the size of the bulb. The rule of thumb is to plant the neck of larger bulbs four to five inches below the surface of the soil and the neck of smaller bulbs two to three inches below. It is always best to plant daffodils slightly deeper than too shallow.

When you plant, incorporate bone meal, superphosphate or a bulb fertilizer into the soil. If you own a dog, it might be best to use superphosphate rather than have your dog dig for "bones" he thinks you buried in the yard.

In established plantings, bulbs benefit from a complete slow-release fertilizer applied in the fall. After flowering, the foliage of the daffodil should not be cut back until it has browned naturally nor should it be allowed to die back early from lack of water.

The next year's flower production will suffer if the foliage can't produce enough food to replace the strength lost from flowering.

Checkup to detect cancer

HEALTHY GEEZER

By Fred Cicetti
fred@healthygeezer.com

Q. When seniors gather, it doesn't seem to take long before we get to our aches and pains. You must get more than your share of that.

My friend, Pete, has instituted a “colonoscopy rule.” He insists that, if a bunch of us geezers are talking about aches, maladies and visits to the doctors, everyone has to change the subject as soon as someone uses the word colonoscopy. Usually, we switch to grandchildren, which is a lot more fun.

But, while we are on the subject of colons ...

Colorectal cancer, which is cancer of the colon or rectum, is the second leading cause of death from cancer in the United States. Early detection of colon cancer is especially important because, if it is found in its early stages, it can be cured nine out of 10 times.

Who's at risk? The chances of getting it increase with age. But other risk factors include polyps, your history, diet and whether you've had ulcerative colitis.

Polyps are benign growths on the inner wall of the colon and rectum. Not all polyps become cancerous, but nearly all colon cancers start as polyps.

Colorectal cancer seems to run in families. And, someone who has already had colorectal cancer may develop this disease a second time. Vigilance is a good idea if you or your relatives have had it.

This form of cancer is more likely among people on a diet high in fat, protein, calories, alcohol, and red and white meat. Low-fat, high-fiber diets seem better for the colon.

Ulcerative colitis is a condition in which there is a chronic break in the lining of the colon. Having this condition increases a person's chance of developing colorectal cancer.

Two recent studies showed that a colonoscopy can find many pre-cancerous polyps that sigmoidoscopy misses. Another advantage of the colonoscopy is that it enables the doctor to remove any polyps found during the procedure.

The following are some symptoms of colorectal cancer: blood in the stool, diarrhea, constipation, stools that are narrower than usual, frequent gas pains or cramps, unexplained weight loss, unrelieved fatigue, vomiting.

There is a virtual colonoscopy, a minimally invasive procedure. Doctors are able to see the entire colon using 3-D computer graphics from a computerized tomography scan, or CT scan. A CT colonography exam is an alternative for patients at risk of complications from colonoscopy, including those who are frail. If a virtual colonoscopy finds significant polyps, they have to be removed by conventional colonoscopy.

Remember multigenerational households?

As we observed national grandparent's day, I used the occasion to interview three older women who are raising their young grandchildren.

In all three cases, the children's father is not in the picture and the mother is unable to raise the child.

The three grandmothers have assumed the role of custodial parent. They are driven by their love for their grandchildren and a desire to give them a loving, stable home.

They made it clear it's often difficult.

Plagued with health problems and racked with pain much of the time, Nancy says she has to push herself to keep going. “Sometimes my body is screaming to lay down but I don't do it until my grandson is in bed,” she says.

At 73, Barbara says she sometimes worries about being in her 80s when her two granddaughters are still in their teens.

For Janet, her biggest worries are financial. Unable to work because of a disability and living on Social Security, she finds she “runs out of money before she runs out of month.”

But all three say their grandchildren give them so much joy and they don't regret for one second their decision to raise them.

“They give us a grand purpose,” says Nancy, making a play on words.

The three women met at the school bus stop and formed a fast friendship. Calling themselves “the Bus Stop Grannies,” they give their phone numbers to the young mothers at the bus stop, offering to help when needed. And, they often are.

Sometimes that means giving another child a ride home.

Sometimes it means keeping a child for the day or overnight.

And sometimes it means pitching in to help a family during a crisis.

The Bus Stop Grannies know that changing family structure and job mobility often means a young mother has no family nearby to help her.

“When I was a kid it was common for three generations to live together. That meant a grandmother was always on hand to help. That has changed,” Barbara says, “except when circumstances make living together a necessity.”

As I sat having breakfast with these women, we reminisced about our own childhoods when generations lived together and helped each other.

Sociologists called it “multigenerational households.”

We called it caring about family.

Unless you're a senior citizen, and an older one at that, you might not remember a time when many households in the neighborhood included a grandparent, parents and children.

Back then, fewer elderly folks were put into nursing homes. And there was no such thing as Assisted Living facilities.

Each generation assisted the other. A grandmother helped with child care while parents helped their own elderly parents.

I grew up in one of those

WARMEST REGARDS

By Pattie Mihalik
newsgrl@comcast.net

multigenerational homes. When my grandfather died, my mother moved her mother into our house.

We had a lot of love between us and laughter was inevitable when we sat down to eat together.

But there were many problems, too.

My mother sometimes felt tied down, unable to do something like take a senior citizen bus trip with her friends. But there was no way she was going to see her mother go to a nursing home.

Although she had four sisters, my grandmother's care mostly fell on my mother— unless there was an emergency. My aunts could always be counted on to rally round when a family crisis came.

I remember several times growing up when my aunts provided a needed haven for my family.

When we moved “back home” to the coal regions from the Philadelphia area, my Aunt Mary took us in until my parents could buy a house. That meant adding four extra people to her small three-bedroom-home where the only bathroom was in the basement.

When I watch HGTV and see a young couple saying they “need” four bedrooms and three baths, I sometimes think back to that small house with one bathroom where we all thrived together.

Here's my theory: Through the years, our homes have gotten bigger but our hearts have gotten smaller. Our bathrooms have expanded and so have our “needs.”

We say we need more space.

We need more closets.

We need a bigger home.

We need more privacy.

I wonder how many people today would be willing to share their home with extended family like my aunts did.

Years later, when my mother left my father, she had two young children and no place to go.

Again, another aunt stepped in, adding us to her small home. Aunt Rose had her teenage son sleep on a sofa so that my mom, my brother and I could squeeze into his bedroom.

I remember those days as being filled with so much love and laughter. My cousin never complained when he had to give up his bedroom.

For the year that we stayed there, we were wrapped in a blanket of family caring.

I knew then and continued to know with every passing year that “family” is a sacred word.

It brings its own comfort and its own joys. It also brings its own obligations.

Family means being there for each other, regardless of circumstances.

It means supporting each other through tough times.

It means making personal sacrifices when circumstances demand it of us.

And yes, sometimes it means raising grandkids when we are well beyond our parenting years.

The Whitehall Township Board of Commissioners, at a regular Public Meeting on Monday, September 9th, 2013, held in the Public Meeting Room of the Whitehall Township Municipal Building, 3219 MacArthur Road, Whitehall, PA, approved the following legislation:

ORDINANCE NO. 2946

TITLE: AN ORDINANCE WAIVING THE REQUIRED INSTALLATION OF CURB AND SIDEWALKS LONG 4102 BRIDGE STREET & 3205 W. COLUMBIA STREET, WHITEHALL TOWNSHIP, FOR A DISTANCE OF APPROXIMATELY 3,560 FEET, AS REQUIRED IN CHAPTER 21, SECTION 407 OF THE CODIFIED ORDINANCES OF WHITEHALL TOWNSHIP. (DEVELOP)

The above Ordinance is available for review by the public in the Administration offices at Whitehall Township Municipal Building, 3219 MacArthur Road, Whitehall, PA, between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. Sept. 18

PUBLIC NOTICE ZONING HEARING BOARD OF BETHLEHEM TOWNSHIP, NORTHAMPTON COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA SEPTEMBER 25, 2013

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE FOLLOWING APPELLANTS HAVE FILED AN APPEAL FOR A PUBLIC HEARING BEFORE THE ZONING HEARING BOARD OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BETHLEHEM, A HEARING TO BE HELD AT 6:30 PM ON WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, 2013 AT THE TOWNSHIP MUNICIPAL BUILDING, 4225 EASTON AVENUE, BETHLEHEM, PA 18020. THE MEETING, AMONG OTHER ISSUES, CONCERNS THE FOLLOWING ZONING APPEALS:

Appeal # 12-2013: Embassy Bank for the Lehigh Valley, Bethlehem, PA 18017 and Judith A. Hunsicker, Chief Operating Officer, request a dimensional variance from Section 275-162B(1) of the Bethlehem Township Codified Zoning Ordinance, as amended, for permission to place signage for a branch office of the Embassy Bank to be built upon a pad site located within the William Penn Commons Shopping Center which Center maintains an address of 7065 William Penn Highway (Bethlehem Township), Easton, Pennsylvania 18045. The pad site is to be leased from 7065-A William Penn Highway LLC. Zoning Code allows one wall sign not to exceed 10% of the total area of the building face on which it is visible or 32 square feet, whichever is less, to be located on the front wall of the structure. The applicant proposes two 20 square foot wall signs. The applicant proposes to place the signs to identify the building to assist the traveling public on William Penn Highway and to assist other patrons seeking to identify the branch. Therefore, a variance of one additional sign is being sought, as well as an additional 8 square feet of signage area. The property is located within the Medium High Density Residential Zoning District with a Commercial Enhancement Overlay District (MHDR/CEOD). The property maintains Northampton County Tax Parcel Identification number M8 2 9A 0205.

All interested parties are invited to attend and be heard. Deborah Roseberry Zoning Officer Telephone: (610) 814-6464 Sept. 11, 18
