

Fetzer, William H.

FROM THE WAR OF THE REBELLION (1864-66) TO WORLD WAR II (1942)—Doing their bit toward aiding in the collection of scrap iron and steel so that the iron and steel furnaces may be kept busy turning out tanks and shells and battleships with which to slap the Japs and the Nazis, Jacob Fetzer, 59 East Goepp Street, (right) and his grandson, Pvt. William H. Fetzer, (left) in the uniform of the Ordnance-Department, Army Air Corps, decide to turn over to the campaign a cannonball from the Civil War days. The elder Fetzer picked up the ball, weighing nearly ten pounds, on the battlefield at Gettysburg during an excursion there in 1902. Maybe it will become a shell which his grandson may eventually drop at a decisive moment in the current world scrap! He is now home on furlough from his station at Miami, Fla. SEP 19 1942 He-Times photo
