Robert E. Baum In Sub-Chaser School

MIAMI, Fla.—Robert E. Baum, Chief Motor Machinist Mate, United States Navy, is a new enrollee at the Submarine Chaser Training Center here—the nation's first and largest activity devoted exclusively to anti-submarine warfare activities.

Thousands of young men from the fleet and from other training schools have become anti-submarine specialists at this school and are now on the high seas living up to the school motto—"Sink That Sub!"

Baum, 25, enlisted in the Navy in July, 1937, prior to which time he was employed for a year at the Whitesell Steamfitting Company, Bethlehem. He graduated from the Liberty High School, where he was a member of the football and wrestling teams.

Before reporting here, he saw action in the Pearl Harbor, Gilbert and Marshall islands, Marcus and Wake island engagements and others.

He is the husband of Frances Baum, 940 Delaware Avenue. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Baum, Sr, reside at 322 North New Street.
