

Southside sights

The Bethlehem Gadfly Fun Stuff, Local Color, Southside August 14, 2019

(The latest in a series of posts on the Southside)

Gadfly is just catching up with this notice of a new eating establishment in the new 3rd and New building (is it still called Gateway at Greenway Park?).

Eat like an Egyptian

<https://eategyptian.com/locations/>

Looks like it may fill the third retail space from the corner heading up (south) New toward 4th Street.

Wonder what's happening with the other spaces — especially the corner one, which you would assume is the flagship location.

Seem like a long time with no action here?

One also can not help but notice the trash storage area at the entrance to the Greenway. Uck. Would assume that something is in the works for dealing with this unsightliness better in the streetscape plans for this stretch of New St.

