Martin Tower demo makes many wary

BY DOUGLAS GRAVES
Special to the Bethlehem Press

The Martin Tower demolition was on people's minds if not on the agenda at city council's May 7 meeting. Resident Martin Romeril addressed the planned razing of the highest building in the Lehigh Valley. "There is still no map showing the exclusion zone," said Romeril, referring to the city's website on the Martin Tower plans. "What wind speed will delay [the planned implosion]."

"How big are the dust particles? It matters," said Romeril. "Will air quality be monitored? What is it now? After?"

Romeril also asked about dust contaminants remaining on windowsills, sidewalks and playgrounds after the demolition.

"Maybe before you outlaw plastic bags, you should outlaw blowing up large buildings in urban areas," said Romeril as he closed his comments. "Maybe it's too close to homes to be blowing up large clouds of dust."

Resident and council gadfly Ed Gallagher suggested there is "a bad public relations problem here. I'd like to see a scientific study on health [related to] implosions." He said he would like to see the City Health Department be involved.

Bethlehem's Directory of Emergency Management, Robert Novatnack, briefed the City Council on the status of planning for the planned demolition for Martin Tower. He invited the public to attend a meeting planned for May 9.

In other business, at the opening of the meeting, several council members commemorated the life of Constantine P. "Gus" Loupos, 83, of Bethlehem who died May 4.

"Gus was a good role model," said Council President Adam Waldron. "He touched me personally."

"Gus was a teacher at Liberty," said Councilman Bryan Callahan. "He was a great, great man."

In other business, council approved the appointment of Brian Nicas to the Environmental Advisory Council.

'Project Wildflower'

Southside wall mural meant to brighten the neighborhood and provide comfort

BY LESLIE REGAN
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Pau Quintanajornet, an extremely talented international artist, has come to the Lehigh Valley to bring some art and color to Bethlehem's southside. She travels all over the world looking for communities in need of her art and loves getting to know the community where she paints.

Quintanajornet has been working with ArtsQuest to create a mural on the side wall of Café The Lodge at 427 E. Fourth St., selected as the 2019 Southside Arts & Music Festival Mural site. She began "Project Wallflowers" April 26. Quintanajornet is hoping to finish the mural within a week, and joked that she would be "doing a rain dance" to keep away bad weather that could slow down her process.

Café The Lodge creates a safe and welcoming space for community members struggling with mental illness. When the restaurant opened in 2010, it immediately became a place for local residents who struggle with mental health to feel at home and seek assistance in finding a place to live or work. Individuals also just stop by to enjoy a delicious meal. Café The Lodge helps those with mental illness integrate into the community and show others that they can live productive lives just like anyone else.

Quintanajornet is passionate about creating this 43-foot wide by 35-foot work of art in order to create a beautiful and happy environment for community members who could use a little extra color in their lives.

"I'm really happy to be here because this is one of the topics I'm really interested in," she said. "I think people forget that this is an issue that involves all of us."

Quintanajornet's goal is to bring South Bethlehem together through her artwork and spread the message that mental health is important and those with mental illness need the support of their neighbors.

"How communities deal with mental health and mindfulness shows a lot about the society we live in," she said. With this in mind, Quintanajornet wants her mural to unite the community and reveal how much its members care about one another.

The production of the mural is being funded by Café The Lodge, ArtsQuest, Resources for Human Development, and Just Born, Inc.

Pau Quintanajornet begins work on "Project Wallflowers" April 26 at Café The Lodge. She planned to work every day and finish by early this month.

POLICE

Compiled by Nate Jastrzemski

Motor vehicle deaths

One man died in a motor vehicle collision at Hellertown and Silvev roads around 2 p.m. May 6.

Police responded to the site, where they say a collision between a passenger-less school bus and a regular vehicle resulted in a 53-year-old man sustaining fatal injuries.

A second collision at Linden Street and Westbury Drive took place Monday around 9:30 a.m., wherein a 69-year-old man was fatally injured.

Police request anyone with information relating to the collision contact Officer Fehr with the Major Accident Reconstruction Team at 610-865-7180.

Send us your event photos

We invite you to send us photos from your event.

Here's what we need:

1. High resolution jpeg image files
2. Well-lit and in focus photos
3. A general caption answering the who, what, when, where, why and/or results of your event.
4. A specific caption for each photo identifying those in the photo and what they are doing if it isn't obvious (3 and 4 may be combined if you send one image).

Send copy and images as email attachments to: gtaylor@tnonline.com.

The mural is an excellent addition to Café The Lodge, as well as to the South Bethlehem community. The beauty of the mural will hopefully bring people together and spread the message that mental illness should not be stigmatized, but rather embraced.

CITY COUNCIL

- At Large 4-Year Term
- (Vote for not more than 3)
- Democratic - Michael G. Colon
- Democratic - J. William Reynolds

"Can we create a sustainable Bethlehem? This is the most important issue facing our city. We are in the process of answering this question by developing initiatives that improve the long-term sustainability of our city including our Climate Action Plan and our NorthSide 2027 neighborhood revitalization plans. These plans are building citizen led structures that will maintain the high quality of life in our city in an environmentally responsible way. We must continue to focus on creating a more sustainable city for our community to continue to thrive in the 21st century."

- Democratic - Carol Ritter
- Democratic - Paige Van Wirt

"One of the biggest is affordability. How does the local government budget tax dollars for impactful city services. How do we ensure that taxes don't increase? How do our citizens afford to live in our city? Three ways: Build the tax base - encourage development in our downtowns; don't build new city-owned infrastructure that isn't absolutely necessary due to legacy costs; encourage development of affordable housing by emphasizing inclusive zoning, and change our zoning code in targeted areas to make it easier for developers to build affordable units."

- Democratic - David A. Saltzer

"The biggest issue in the City of Bethlehem right now is the redevelopment of the Martin Tower site. This landmark has been a staple to the community for 40 plus years. What we do with it next is going to be here for generations and we have the ability to create something phenomenal that will impact the city in a positive way for years to come. We must be strategic and think about long term viability and feasibility of the future site plan, as well as what the site has to offer our community's residents and employees."

At-Large 2-Year Term

- (Vote for One)
- Democratic - Grace Crampsie Smith

As I meet with fellow citizens of Bethlehem, the main issue that they address is economic development. While I believe economic development is certainly beneficial and necessary, it must be congruent with the best interests of the community. It is important to maintain a balance between preserving the city's past, honoring the people and businesses that built this city, and achieving progress in our diverse community. We also need to address the disparity between the development of luxury residential units versus housing that is affordable. Assuring our community members have affordable and suitable housing promotes stronger, safer neighborhoods, which benefits the community at large.

- Democratic - Will Carpenter

For the City of Bethlehem, our biggest issue is to protect what we love about Bethlehem as we set a course for sustainable economic vitality. Cities often select projects in the best interest of developers and investors, not necessarily its citizens. I want to ensure Bethlehem is negotiating to find the best deals for our skilled workforce, our taxpayers and our quality of life. To earn my support, a project must protect our water and air quality and be consistent with the Climate Action Plan. I want to put my experience to use to keep Bethlehem wonderful.

"Saved By Grace"

The famed blind hymn writer Fanny Crosby had a cousin, Howard, a Presbyterian pastor, who died of pneumonia at age sixty-five. A friend read Fanny his last message. It said no Christian need fear death: "If each of us is faithful to the grace which is given us by Christ, that same grace which teaches us how to live will also teach us how to die." Fanny was moved by that message and wrote a poem called "Some Day":

Some day my earthly house will fall,
I cannot tell how soon 'twill be,
But this I know, my All in All
Has now a place in heaven for me.
Some day, when sets the golden sun
Beneath the rosy-tinted west,
My blessed Lord shall say, "Well done!"
And I shall enter into rest.
Some day--till then I'll watch and wait,
My lamp well-trimmed and burning bright,
That when my Savior opens the gate
My soul to Him may speed its flight.

Fanny wrote "Some Day" in a matter of minutes and under "divine inspiration," as she had "Safe in the Arms of Jesus" and others of her best /mns. For three years the poem seemed to be forgotten. One day while sitting a Bible conference, Fanny was asked to say something after the ain speaker. She made a few remarks; then quoted the poem. When she ished there was not a dry eye in the auditorium. She was later asked provide a chorus and it was set to music: "And I shall see Him face to e, And tell the story--Saved by Grace." It became a favorite among istians the world over.

"I would strongly oppose completely eliminating the property as a primary vehicle for local school funding. That source currently covers roughly three-quarters of BASD's budget, which means three-quarters of our schools' funding comes from a stable, predictable source under our community's local control. Alternative funding sources so far proposed to replace real estate taxes are far more volatile and would take too much of the decision-making power over the size of the district's budget away from local taxpayers."

Democrat - Dean Donaher

"Until the Pennsylvania legislature decides to change the way public schools are funded we continue to rely on property taxes as the major local support for public schools. As a school director I support a fair, stable, secure funding stream for our public schools. If the Pennsylvania state legislature can develop a fair, stable, secure funding stream for public schools I am ready, willing and able to support it."

"I believe the legislators should focus on implementing the fair funding formula and charter school funding reform before tackling property tax reform. If the fair funding formula is fully implemented as designed and charter school funding inequalities are addressed many of the pressures that lead to property tax increases will have been mitigated. I also believe the current property tax reform plan that removes commercial properties places an unmanageable burden on individual taxpayers."

Democrat - Homer G. Lorrach

"What we've been doing is cleanup - enforcing blighted properties and abandoned cars, fixing roads, building a new walking bridge over the canal. We're upgrading the borough building to make things easier for residents and just passed a 10-ton limit on trucks on Main Street [extension]. This is the stuff people want."

Democrat - Jim Smith

Democrat - Colleen Gallagher

"I feel like some of the major concerns for my neighborhood are similar for all Americans. There are too many houses that have been foreclosed on and sit empty and neglected. This hurts property values for neighbors. These houses get sold wholesale with no inspections or conditions. That leaves out FHA buyers and regular people who don't have a lot set aside for big surprises. Available good paying jobs are a must for all Americans. As well as having healthcare, and healthy food options accessible to everyone. We could start a weekly farmer's market at the Borough park."

Republican - Margaret Reichard

"My concern is getting people to council meetings so they can tell us what their biggest concern is. I've attended a lot of meetings and there's nobody there. We need people to tell us what they want. Council needs the support of the community."

Representing Knobs 'N Knockers, Matthew Mantz was accompanied by Brian Rodenbach from Valley Wide Signs. They were granted a certificate of appropriateness for an 18-inch by 24-inch oval two-sided sign with the serif font company logo in brown on an off-white background to hang from an existing decorative bracket. Also approved was a 19-inch by 144.25-inch storefront sign spelling out "Knobs 'N Knockers" in black. Representing 72 East Market St., interior designer David Hausman seeks a COA for two door replacement proposals for a Colonial Revival house owned by Rod and Lori Young.

Representing 72 East Market St., interior designer David Hausman scored a COA for two door replacement proposals for the Colonial Revival house, owned by Rod and Lori Young. The first proposal involved swapping locations for an existing door and transom with an existing window and dairy access panel located underneath it. Both are positioned along a side porch, with access to a newly-renovated kitchen. The door would be replaced with a custom wood door with a single glass panel and a wood screen door. The door and transom with stalled above the new entry door. The window is to be removed and the dairy access panel would be reinstalled in the former doorway.

Hausman was also granted approval to replace a door at the rear façade with a wood door and screen door matching the set for the side porch. New paint is to match existing colors.

Christine Ussler from Artefact, Inc. received permission to supplant a deteriorated 6-foot high wood fence with a 6-foot brick wall and brick expressed piers at the rear of 131 E. Church St., around an in-ground pool. The brick and mortar of the fencing are to replicate the masonry on the house and topped with precast stone caps. Aluminum fencing and gates that mimic wrought iron are also to be installed.

The owner of the property is listed as River Properties, LLC.

Andrew Grason easily won approval to paint his townhouse façade and wood trim at 8 W. Church St. a beige-like custom color labeled

Arbor Day marks start of Rose Garden project

BY DOUGLAS GRAVES
Special to the Bethlehem Press

On one of the prettiest days of the year so far at Bethlehem's Rose Garden, local dignitaries, friends of the park and members of UNICA District IV, Bethlehem Chapter, met to recognize Arbor Day and to plant the silverbell (Halesia tetraptera) sapling near the Christopher Columbus Memorial located on the Union Boulevard side of the park.

UNICA, which translates to "unique" or "one of a kind" in Italian, is the largest Italian-American service organization in the United States. The organization was represented by its local chapter president, Michelle Pelizoto.

After carefully orienting the root ball in the waiting hole, Bethlehem City Forester Cindy Smith turned the official planting duties over to local women, including Christine Roysdon, who has been instrumental in getting grants and design work to rehabilitate the park, to do the ceremonial spade work. Roysdon is a member of the Mt. Airy Neighborhood Association.

Planting of the silverbell tree marked the start of the landscaping planned as part of the Rose Garden Re-Imagined Project. The silverbell blooms in the spring; its white flower hangs down as its petals form a bell shape. The bloom's pistils resemble bell clappers inside the bell.

A few minutes before the ceremony, the attendees had assembled in the log replica of the first house in Bethlehem at the park, where Alexander Karras, the mayor's chief of staff, and city Forester Cindy Smith accepted Bethlehem's Tree City USA Award and the Growth Award from Department of Conservation and Natural Resources' Assistant District Forester Richard Hartlieb.

"I do hereby proclaim April 26, 2019 as Arbor Day in the City of Bethlehem," said Karras. "I urge all citizens to celebrate Arbor Day and to support efforts to protect our trees and woodlands."

This was the 26th year that the city has been awarded a Tree City USA award and the 11th year for the Growth Award.

City Forester Smith addressed the small assembly, saying, "We become so entrenched in the routine of everyday life that we neglect to take time to enjoy and appreciate our surroundings."

"A large, important part of the natural element is our urban forests. Environmentally, trees improve our air quality. They intercept particulate matter and absorb gaseous contaminants like sulfur dioxide and nitrogen oxides."

She added that trees help prevent erosion and help with storm water management.

Trees add to society too, said Smith. "Green spaces in parks provide more pleasing recreational areas for people to gather and kids to play."

Smith touched on the economic benefits of trees, saying, "They help us conserve energy. Property values are higher in neighborhoods with tree-lined streets."

Eugene Corsi, of the charter member of the Bethlehem Chapter of UNICO and a retired PA State Policeman, spoke about the charitable organization's scholarship program. "We are lucky that we are still able to raise money. We give and give to people that really need it."

"Cashmere," which was chosen from a palette of historically-appropriate colors.

Walk-in Selina Hill, assisted by Barbara Warden, was allowed to proceed with badly-needed roof repairs for her home at 35 E. Market St. When she informed the board that GAF Slateline "Slate Gray" was discontinued, they agreed to approve "Antique Slate" from the GAF Slateline options for the main roof. The porch roof is to have modified asphalt roofing installed instead of a previously-planned EPDM rubber membrane. Hill cited the potential for punctures from limbs falling from a nearby tree for the change.

The voting for all the projects was unanimous.

If the referendum question passes a new referendum on the continued imposition of the tax may not be held sooner than five (5) years after the approval of this question. If the referendum question fails a referendum to again consider the imposition of such a tax may not be held sooner than five (5) years from the disapproval of the referendum question.

The act requires the Board of Supervisors to follow special procedures to acquire real property or open space property interests, but the Township may not acquire such interests by eminent domain and the Township may only sell open space property interests under certain circumstances and may only do so after receiving the approval of the electorate by a ballot question.

Effects:

If the referendum question passes, the North Whitehall Township Supervisors will have the funds to acquire agricultural conservation easements, to finance the acquisition of open space, to finance the protection of recreational or historical lands and to pay the costs associated with such actions. This will allow the Township Board of Supervisors to increase the amount of land in the Township which may not be developed for commercial and residential purposes.

Pregunta de la boleta primaria municipal del municipio de North Whitehall

De acuerdo con los Estatutos de Pensilvania 25 P.S. § 2621.1, se da aviso al electorado en el norte del municipio de Whitehall, Condado de Lehigh de Pensilvania, que la siguiente pregunta será votada durante la Elección Municipal que se llevará a cabo el martes, 21 de Mayo de 2019, entre las horas de 7:00 am y 8:00 P.M., tiempo, en el cual los votantes registrados y los electores inscritos en el norte del municipio de Whitehall, Condado de Lehigh se reunirán y votarán, según la ley: Referéndum para imponer un impuesto inmobiliario adicional en el norte del municipio de Whitehall.

DECLARACIÓN SENSILLA EN INGLES

¿Favorece un impuesto por el norte del municipio de Whitehall de un décimo (0.1) de mil sobre bienes raíces para la protección de terrenos abiertos y de agricultura?
SI NO

Proposito:

el propósito del referéndum es imponer un décimo adicional (0.1) de una milla de impuesto a las propiedades inmobiliarias anualmente a partir del 1 de enero de 2020. Los ingresos recaudados por el impuesto inmobiliario adicional se utilizarán para lo siguiente: para adquirir espacio abierto y participar en la conservación de tierras de cultivo según lo autorizado por la ley de espacio abierto de Pensilvania, 32 P.S. §5001, et seq.

Limitaciones:

Los fondos del impuesto inmobiliario adicional solo se pueden usar por las razones indicadas en el "propósito" anterior, según lo dispuesto en la ley. Si la pregunta del referéndum es apruebea un nuevo referéndum sobre la continuación de la imposición del impuesto, no podrá realizarse antes de (5) años después de la aprobación de esta pregunta. Si la pregunta del referéndum no pasa, un referéndum para volver a considerar la imposición de tal impuesto no podrá realizarse antes de (5) años desde la desaprobación de la pregunta del referéndum.

la ley requiere que la junta de supervisores siga procedimientos especiales para adquirir bienes inmuebles o intereses de espacios abiertos, pero el municipio no puede adquirir dichos intereses por dominio eminente y el municipio solo puede vender intereses de espacios abiertos en ciertas circunstancias y solo puede hacerlo, después de recibir la aprobación del electorado por una cuestión de boleta.

Si la pregunta del referéndum pasa, los supervisores del municipio de North Whitehall tendrán los fondos para adquirir servidumbres de conservación agrícola, para financiar la adquisición de espacios abiertos, para financiar la protección de tierras recreativas o históricas y para pagar los costos asociados con tales acciones. Esto permitirá que la junta de supervisores del municipio aumente la cantidad de tierra en el municipio que no se puede desarrollar para fines comerciales y residenciales.

He's biking to raise awareness

BY DANA GRUBB
Special to the Bethlehem Press

After his friend Gina Kosmas died of breast cancer in 2004, Brent Bundy decided that he needed to raise awareness about the disease through cross country cycling treks. He was 36 years old and today at 51 is currently on his sixth awareness journey. The Keizer, Ore., resident stopped at the city's Earl E. Schaffer Ice Rink May 3 as preparations for the 45th Annual Boutique at the Rink cancer support fundraiser had moved into full gear.

Bundy explained that he relies on the kindness of many strangers along the way and often volunteers at churches, fire houses and hospitals, where he often receives meals and other assistance in return. He swept the rink surface May 3 as volunteers moved about readying the many donations for Boutique sales, that will begin with a May 28 premiere night.

Bundy said the cross country trip normally takes three months, but that this sixth breast cancer awareness road trip is taking a year and two days to complete.

Liberty's boys' track and field team is the 2019 Dual Meet and League Meet Champions, scoring a meet record 148 points at the East Penn Conference Championships last week at Whitehall High School.

Gold medal winners from Liberty were Darlyn Fermin in the 3200 with a time of 9:42.94 and Christian Tackett in the 110 hurdles with a time of 14.82.

Silver medalists from Liberty were Trevor Harris in the shot put with a 48-06.75 and in the discus with a 146-04.00.

"The discus was a P.R. That was my second throw," said Harris. "Honestly I didn't know [how I would do] because I got my wisdom teeth out a week ago so I really wasn't practicing. I got to practice the Monday before leagues so that was the only one I had, but I didn't skip a beat in practice."

"The shot put was a P.R. by four inches. It feels good. Last year I got third and fourth so it's definitely better to take two seconds."

Liberty's Javonte Haynes was second in the 100 in 11.20, and Tackett placed second in the 400 in 50.39.

Fermin captured a silver in the 1600 in 4:26.93, as did teammate Ryan Wycherley in the 800 in 1:59.11.

Liberty's 4x4 relay took silver medals with a time of 3:29.43.

Bronze medalists were Liberty's Messiah Johnson in the discus with a 131-08.00 and teammate Daniel Damon in the long jump with a 21-08.75.

The Hurricanes' 4x8 relay team of Graham Phillips, Fermin, Cole Frank, and Wycherley placed third with a time of 8:09.28, and their 4x1 relay placed third in 43.95.

Bronze medalists were also awarded to Bethlehem Catholic's Josiah Kelly in the 300 hurdles with a time of

The loss by Liberty (14-4) was bittersweet since it kept them out of the EPC tourney. Emmaus (12-4) edged them out in the race for the fourth spot, but there is still a silver lining to last week's defeat.

"Despite having a better overall record and beating them in the criteria typically used to settle head-to-head ties in volleyball, Emmaus was awarded the fourth spot in the EPC playoffs based on an algorithm that hasn't been made public," said head coach Neiad Ammary. Bethlehem Catholic, Freedom, and Liberty's girls' track and field teams competed in the East Penn Conference Championships last Tuesday and Wednesday at Whitehall High School where medals were awarded to the top four finishers in each event.

Camryn Bortz, Rachel Byrne, Emily Jobes, and Greta Stuckey won gold medals in the 4x8 relay for Liberty with a time of 9:39.46.

"We were in fifth place when I got the hand off and fourth when Emily got the hand off," said Byrne. "I closed the gap but the heat was kind of tough. We were not expecting to P.R. but it was pretty nice, and we all can run faster. The state qualifying time is 9:35 so we're looking to at least run that at districts."

Stuckey went on to win a personal gold medal in the 800 with a time of 2:21.02. Stroudsburg's Emily Banashefski finished right behind in 2:21.47.

"She's always right there. The past four years we were always running together, so I knew she would be good competition," Stuckey said. "I kind of got caught in the back in the beginning and I just started edging up. By the second lap I had to give it everything I had, so the last 200, I pushed. It's exciting and I think I can drop time."

Liberty's 4x4 relay team also won conference gold with a time of 4:03.13.

Silver medalists came from Bethlehem Catholic with Liz Lieb taking second place in the long jump with a 17-06.50 and

Hurricanes advance

BY STEVE ANDRES AND SCOTT PAGEL
Special to the Press

A great catch by Whitehall's Ben Hudak in the third inning would have been a perfect way for the eighth-seeded Zephyrs to talk about an upset victory in the EPC playoffs over top-seed Liberty on Saturday.

When first baseman Hudak drifted into foul ground to go after a pop up, the bases were loaded in the bottom of the third of a scoreless game. Hudak kept tracking the ball as it started to reach the fence where spectators had gathered to watch the game. Hudak stuck his glove over the fence, and then toppled over it, the ball secure in his mitt.

Inning over. No damage. Hudak unscathed. Zephyrs up to bat.

It was perhaps the best catch of the year. And it kept the No. 1 seeded Hurricanes off the scoreboard as the two teams were locked in a pitcher's duel.

But, this story ends in the bottom of the sixth as Liberty eked out the victory, sending them into the semifinals with a 1-0 win. The Hurricanes got on the board with a drag bunt from Brayden D'Amico, a soft roller down the third base line that allowed Wyatt Marshall to score.

The hit was put in a good spot and Marshall slid under the tag for the go-ahead run.

"It was a perfect bunt, what are you going to do," said Whitehall head coach Shaun O'Boyle. "He put it down in a clutch situation."

The 'Canes manufactured the winning run beginning with a sharply hit ball for an infield hit. Marshall got to second on a sacrifice bunt, and then reached third on a deep fly, the ball hit well enough where Matt Snyder's throw and the subsequent relay was just a bit late to nab him on the tag play.

Liberty's Jake Kraihanzel and Whitehall's Joe Lisicky were impressive on the mound. Kraihanzel went six innings fanning four and walking two to pick up the win. Lisicky went seven innings taking the hard-luck loss while fanning two and also walking two and allowing five hits. Todd Erney notched the save pitching a scoreless seventh and striking out a batter.

Liberty's tennis team captured the District 11 team title with a victory over Nazareth in the finals.

LHS wins D-11 title

BY KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tnonline.com

For Liberty tennis coach Chris Conrad, Thursday's District XI team championship was his first solo head coaching crown, but for some of his players, it was their third consecutive when the Hurricanes defeated the Nazareth Blue Eagles, 3-2, last Thursday at Northwood Racquet Club.

"It's something we strove for the entire season. We didn't want to play the favorite role, but one of the hardest things was trying to get this team to make sure that we were in check and weren't complacent. That's one of the things I loved about this team," said Conrad.

Liberty beat Nazareth, 5-0, in its first match of the regular season, but a full season can bring changes in teams.

"The last time we played them, everyone won, so they got better," said one doubles player Anthony Ronca, who won his match along with Wyatt Marshall, 6-0, 6-4, over Hamed Selmani and Soham Patel.

Ronca and Marshall fell behind a couple of times in the second set.

"They started pushing the net a lot more and lobbing over our heads so we didn't have a chance to hit a drive off the serve," said Marshall. "We had to find a way to change our game."

The Liberty pair decided if they couldn't beat them, they would join them.

"We started hitting more drives and playing with them so if they would rush the net, we would lob it over their heads, exactly what they did," said Ronca.

Liberty's Shayaan Farhad and Raj Kundu won their match at two doubles over Brendan Alvino and David Araujo, 6-1, 6-1.

The singles matches were not as certain as time went on.

Liberty's Louis Gruber ended up losing to Gabe Knowles at one singles, 1-6, 2-6, and Jacob Wong lost to Nate Tauber, 3-6, 3-6, at three singles.

"Jacob's a player and Nate's a player too, and they're the top number three players in our district. It was hard for me to see that loss," said Coach Conrad. "Jacob is our senior leader. At the end of the day, he played a heck of a match against another senior who's just as willing to grind out matches."

With the score tied 2-2, the match came down to Liberty's David Lynn and Nazareth's Andrew Nicolae, but the two players did not know it at the time because they were still playing after everyone else had finished.

Lynn won the first set, 6-0, but was down in the second set, 2-4.

"I think there was obviously a bit of nerves, but for me to maintain cool on the outside was key," said Conrad, who was checking his heart rate on his watch. "He made a big break at 4-2 which put him into a great situation, allowed him to come back into the match, and gain some momentum."

Lynn said that one of the things that tripped him up in the second set was his serve.

"I think that affected all the games," said Lynn. "After I won the first set, I had some relief and then all of a sudden I was down 4-2. It really matters that you take your time and be very calculated. Physically I was feeling pretty good."

Conrad advised Lynn to attack Tauber's backhands.

"He did a tremendous job. I knew he could come back and dominate that match. It was just a matter of him being patient. The last four or five games were different from the first two or three in the second set," Conrad said.

In the end, Lynn was relieved to have won his match for the team.

"I did not [know the other match scores] and didn't realize it came down to me. It would have definitely added some pressure," said Lynn. "It was great but I'm definitely more happy I could win it for the whole team and not just me."

Liberty players Dane Sinks and Aidan Evans Gartley, who played four doubles during the regular season, were also in attendance and received gold medals along with the rest of the Hurricanes.

Liberty will advance to the PIAA State Team Tennis Tournament, which will have begun this Tuesday, past Press deadlines.

Editor's note: In last week's edition, the Liberty district champion tennis story didn't continue to the page as indicated. The Press apologizes for the error and has decided to reprint the story.

After Freedom won the Steel Division in EPC softball at the end of the regular season, Patriot pitcher Jen Slanovec tossed a 12-0 shutout against Stroudsburg in the conference quarterfinal last Thursday at Freedom.

"We're coming into this really confident because I think with us finishing at the top of our division, it really gives us a big push for leagues and districts so it's a really good win," said Patriot outfielder Taylor Resetar, who had her first ever walk-off grand slam on Thursday.

"My hit, I mean, having a walk off grand slam, it's really big. We had no outs so I was not expecting it," she said.

Corrin Gill, Makenzie Smith, and Brenna Ortwein scored.

Juliana Presto also hit a home run in the same inning, scoring Madison Piripavel.

The Patriots got their offense going early when Smith and Ortwein singled in the first inning. Smith advanced to third base on an error, Ortwein stole second base, and Smith stole home to put Freedom up 1-0.

"We're a different team than we were in the beginning of the season. We are at our strongest now with players in the right positions," said Freedom coach Michele Laubach. "Our offense with our hitting tonight, I think this is the third time we've had walk-off hits this year, so our offense is one of our strongest, and we have a strong top to bottom order."

Slanovec allowed only two hits and had eight strike outs.

"Jen's doing a nice job on the mound and working hard, and just trying to work out her things keeping the ball low. Overall, she did well today," Laubach said.

Slanovec, along with Smith, had two hits, and Resetar had five RBIs. The Patriots had 11 hits in total.

Freedom will have taken on Parkland in the EPC softball semifinal this Tuesday past Press deadlines, and weather-permitting. The EPC softball final is scheduled for Thursday.

cords, not head-to-head set records, unfortunately. On Saturday, the EPC coaches voted to amend the bylaws for the future.

"Regardless, we didn't accomplish our goal of beating Freedom Friday night, so there's no one to blame but ourselves. Freedom served well and controlled the ball better than we did. We missed too many serves and failed to terminate enough rallies at the net. On the positive side, our kids fought back after being down two sets and 20-24 in the third set to win 28-26 and force a fourth set. We were up 22-20 in the fourth but couldn't put it away. Another real positive takeaway from that loss is that we have a favorable bracket for Districts. We have a quarterfinal matchup with Parkland on Thursday night. If we can get past them, we feel good about our chances of making it to the finals. Whitehall, Freedom, and Emmaus are all in the opposite side of the bracket. We lost to Parkland 17-15 in the fifth set a few weeks ago in a great match that we feel like we squandered. So, this gives us a chance at redemption. Our dreams of making it to the district championship and states are still very much alive."

Freedom and Whitehall will square off at 6 p.m. Wednesday night at Allen High School.

Whitehall swept Freedom earlier this season. The District 11 tournament gets going for both teams on Thursday night with seeds yet to be determined.

Patriots prep for District 11 playoffs

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tntonline.com

Freedom couldn't take down Parkland in the girls East Penn Conference lacrosse tournament, but the Patriots may get another crack at them in the district tournament.

The Pates lost to the Trojans 17-10 last week in the conference semifinals, as Parkland went on to beat Easton 12-6 for the league crown Monday night.

Now, Freedom head coach Charis Innarella shifts her focus to the District 11 postseason, where they'll likely enter as the third or fourth seed.

With only the exact four teams that qualified for the EPC tournament in the district race (Parkland, Easton, Freedom and Pleasant Valley), it'll be the same script for all four teams this time around as well.

The Pates will (13-4) need to figure out a way to stump Parkland or Easton, which have been the only teams to knock off Freedom this year. Figuring out ways to adjust will be vital for Freedom's hopes of advancing.

"We need to bring a lot of pressure," said Innarella, "and continue to play really aggressive defense and make smart decisions. Possessions will be key and we need to be winning the draws and pushing the ball."

With Easton looking like the team the Pates will face, since the district tournament format wasn't set before Press deadlines, Innarella is prepping for another showdown with the Rovers and figuring out ways to knock them off.

"We believe in our players and we will absolutely be ready to battle Easton," she said. "Our goal is to get into the district finals and I am proud of how our kids are responding after the loss to Parkland in the EPC tournament."

EYE ON THE IRONPIGS

It's been a strange trip for Pigs McGarry

BY CHUCK HIXSON
Special to the Press

Seth McGarry took somewhat of a circuitous route to Triple-A. He pitched in 45 games at Double-A Reading last season, so it figured that he would either start the year back with Reading or get a promotion to Lehigh Valley. Neither of those things happened. Instead, he was sent down a level to High-A Clearwater even though his 3.99 ERA with Reading in 2018 wasn't bad, and he had an impressive performance as part of the Phillies contingent playing in the Arizona Fall League following last season.

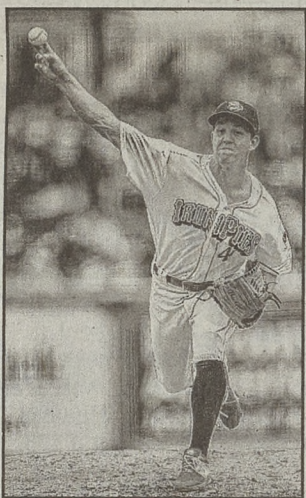

The demotion caught McGarry unprepared, but he realized that there wasn't anything he could do to change the minds of the Phillies player development staff other than pitch for Clearwater and put up numbers that would force them to bump him back up to Reading.

That didn't happen either.

McGarry had made four relief appearances with the Threshers this season, three of which resulted in four innings of work and just one hit and one walk with no runs allowed. The other was a disastrous inning of work where he allowed five hits and three earned runs. The result was a 5.40 ERA.

"I definitely had different expectations," said McGarry about opening the season with Clearwater. "But they talked to me about it and I saw where they were coming from. I guess I didn't leave enough of an impression for them to put me some place else and I didn't want to feel sorry for myself, I just wanted to try to get better so I could get back to where I was."

One of the reasons he was sent down to Reading was because the

CHERYL PURSELL/LEHIGH VALLEY IRONPIGS

Seth McGarry has had a strange trip to the Pigs this season.

Phillies wanted him to develop a slider, which he had never thrown before. They felt it was a better compliment to the sinker he was throwing than his curveball was. He took input from anybody who was willing to give him tips on throwing the slider and was beginning to feel a little more comfortable with it.

On May 1, the Threshers were rained out in Ft. Myers. McGarry and his roommate were just hanging out in their hotel room when there was a late-night knock on the door that started a whirlwind 12-hour span for McGarry.

"It was pretty unexpected," said McGarry. "The manager came and knocked on the door around 11:30 and said 'Hey, I don't know the exact details yet, but you're going to be going to Lehigh tomorrow.' He came back around midnight and said the airport shuttle is at 4:30 in the morning, they're playing a 10:30 a.m. game and you're definitely pitching."

"My flight was around 6:50 a.m. and I got here in the fourth or fifth inning and then pitched the seventh and eighth. I only had about three hours of sleep before I got ready to catch the shuttle. I had about five alarms set because I didn't want to miss the shuttle."

As it turned out, McGarry did pitch in that Education Day game, making his Triple-A debut. He wound up throwing two shutout innings against Syracuse, picking up two strikeouts and not allowing a baserunner. Needless to say, he's stuck around and has added five more shutout innings for the IronPigs, giving up just three hits and one walk with five strikeouts since his debut. Odds are that he may stick around a little longer.

TOE JAM... Dylan Cozens would likely choose to take a do-over on the 2019 season even though it's not very old. Cozens has struggled at the plate this season and is batting just .167 with Lehigh Valley. It's basically been either a home run - he has six - or a strikeout when he's at the plate. Cozens has struck out in 42-percent of his plate appearances this year. Cozens hasn't played since May 4 because of a sore toe and last week, he was placed on the IL with no immediate timetable for his return.

SWERVIN' TO PHILLY... Cole Irvin made his Major League debut with the Phillies on Sunday and it was a rousing success. The lefty threw seven innings and allowed just one run as he pitched his way to a win in his MLB debut. Manager Gabe Kapler was impressed and told reporters that Irvin would stick around for at least one more start with the big league club. A rotation spot opened up when Vince Velasquez was placed on the IL Saturday with a forearm strain.

Outdoors: Consider buying a kayak

BY NICK HROMIAK
Special to the Press

In this day and age, you don't need a big, expensive boat to get to good fishing spots. Float tubes, pontoons and kayaks are less expensive to buy and maintain, plus they're fun to fish out of, especially the newer ones that are outfitted with rod holders, bait wells, depth finders, even cup holders. There are ones that have pedal power allowing you to cast and move, use a trolling or small outboard motor, and there are inflatable kayaks that are the least expensive to buy.

But before going helter-skelter in buying one, there are some considerations. Is it going to be used on flat water, moving water, white water or in the ocean? Would you prefer a sit-on-top or sit-in model? And what length would be suitable for your needs?

The best initial bet if you're a first timer is to talk to an experienced kayaker for their feedback before buying. If you don't know of one, stop up at Leaser Lake most any weekend and you're certain to find a kayak angler in the parking lots or wait until one comes ashore.

One of the first things to consider once you decide the type you prefer, is its cost. Starter or entry-level kayaks start at around $250. Ones equipped for fishing fetch $500 and more.

Then there's the decision of a sit-on-top or sit-inside kayak. Experts say a sit-on-top is easy to get in and out of, which is especially helpful if you plan to kayak and wade. This model increases visibility and casting distance but leaves the angler vulnerable to splashing and waves.

A sit-in-side model protects the angler from waves and water and is more stable. It also offers inside storage (although some sit-ons have sealed compartments) and is good for river, ocean or quieter ponds and lakes.

Now if you want a pure fishing kayak that has rod holders, you'll find they're around 30 inches wide for more stability. Because of that, they're less tippy and will allow you to be able to cast, set the hook and land tough fighting fish without feeling like you're about to take a swim. They also have more storage features, molded tackle trays and casting handles. Their drawback is they won't cut through the water as quickly.

If the water is choppy because of the wind, you'll need a lightweight folding anchor or stake-pole. The anchor works best in deep water whereas the stake-pole is better in shallow water. The poles can be bought or made from PVC pipe and stuck into the lakes' bottom, often through the kayakers' scupper holes.

Length and weight are considerations. A longer kayak will move faster and have more storage space. The drawback, they weigh more. The popular size is 10-12 feet in length that puts them around 50 pounds. Unless you have a pickup truck or trailer, hoisting one atop the car and onto special and expensive kayak roof racks, could be trying at the end of a fishing day. And if not using a kayak cart with wheels, carrying one over your head could be problematic and tiring if the waters' edge requires a hike (like Promised Land's two lakes).

A kayak's portability allows you to launch anywhere you can stand, even 60-degree river banks, common on the Lehigh and Delaware rivers. Leaser Lake, however, now has a kayak launch dock that's at the dam end of the lake and it makes entering the water considerably easier.

Suburban League wins LV dart title

In the 64th Lehigh Valley Dart Championship Series we find both league champions coming from the same church as Salem Lutheran (Suburban League) and Holy Trinity (City League) merged into one church called Star of Bethlehem.

In the Battle of Stars it was the Suburban League coming out on top over the City League 3 games to 2.

For Star of Bethlehem (Salem Lutheran) it's their 18th Lehigh Valley Championship.

Game 1 - The City League scored first with 2 runs in the 2nd for a 2-0 lead. Suburban came back with a run in the 4th to make the score 2-1. In the 5th, Suburban scored a pair of runs, the 2nd & go ahead run on a balk by Bryan Frankenfield as they held on to win 3-2.

Game 2 - After City scored a run in the top of the 2nd inning, the Suburban League scored 2 in the bottom of the 2nd, added a run in the 3rd, and one more in the 4th, and one in the 6th to cruise to a 6-1 win.

Game 3 - The City League jumped out to a 1-0 lead in the 1st. In the 4th, Suburban tied it in the top of the inning, but City scored 3 runs in the bottom of the inning to take a 4-1 lead. Suburban added a run in the 7th to make the score 4-2 and took the lead scoring 3 runs in the top of the 8th inning for a 5-4 lead. In the bottom of the 8th inning, City tied the score with a run & scored another run in the 9th inning with 1 out to win 6-5.

Game 4 - This game saw the lead change almost every inning. Again it was City scoring first in the 1st inning. In the top of the 4th, City scored a pair of runs, while Suburban scored 4 runs (including a 2 run HR from Kyle Taylor) to take a 4-3 lead. In the 5th, City scored a run to tie the score at 4-4. City scored 3 runs in the 8th inning to take a 7-4 lead. Suburban closed out the scoring with a run in the bottom of 8th to make the final score 7-5.

Game 5 - This game saw the Suburban League score a run in the 1st on Tyler Frankenfield's HR, before adding 4 runs in the 3rd, and two in the 7th to take a 6-0 lead. The City scored a run in the 8th and added 2 more runs on Dave Repnyek's 2 run HR to make the score 6-3 Suburban League, winning their first Lehigh Valley Championship as Star of Bethlehem, their 18th overall.

Steel FC battle to 1-1 draw

Bethlehem Steel FC fought to a tough 1-1 draw at home to kick off the club's three-match home stand, getting standout performances from Tomás Romero, Matt Real and Jamoi Topey in the second half.

Despite giving up the early 11th-minute goal to Atlanta's Laurence Wyke, Philadelphia Union Academy goalkeeper Tomás Romero made great saves in the remainder of the first half to keep the Steel in the match. Midfielder Chavany Willis and Philadelphia Union forward Michee Ngalina both made dangerous attacks, but were unable to level in the first half.

LHS

Jamoi Topey had a massive moment in the 64th minute when he got on the end of Matt Real's free kick and found the back of the net for his first Steel FC goal, giving the hosts the opportunity to fight for all three points for the remainder of the match. Goalkeeper Tomás Romero had work to do as Atlanta pushed to regain the lead. He raised his total to five saves in this match, including a save on the visitor's 57th-minute penalty kick, and really coming through for his team at Talen Energy Stadium.

Topey's first goal came in just his fourth start for the Steel, making after a delayed steal, the Zephyrs had runners on first and third with nobody out. After Kraihanzel got a punch out, Shane Fillman walked to load the bases. But a strikeout and fielder's choice ended the threat. Whitehall finished the game stranding over ing him one of four players to record both a goal and an assist for the club this season (Michee Ngalina, Zach Zandi, Ben Ofeimu). Philadelphia Union defender Matt Real recorded his second assist of the season, becoming one of three players to have more than one assist for the club this season (Zach Zandi, James Chambers). Real also finished with a 93.1% passing accuracy tonight, the highest of any starting player on the pitch.

Steel FC next hosts Ottawa Fury FC at Talen Energy Stadium on Sunday, May 19 (6: p.m.)

ten runners. LHS will play Easton in the semifinals at 7:15 p.m. on Tuesday at DeSales, after Press deadlines, and, of course, weather-permitting. The finals are scheduled for Thursday at 7:15 p.m. at DeSales. The other semifinal is Emmaus vs. Northampton.

NASCAR THIS WEEK

SPEED FREAKS

A few questions we had to ask ourselves

Should Clint Bowyer have plowed through Erik Jones?
GODSPEAK: The guys who put Clint's car together are glad he lifted. Clint definitely had second thoughts about his decision, which tells me yes, he should have done it.
KEN'S CALL: Others probably would have, but I think Clint made it clear that he might not be so rational next time.

How about Tyler Reddick finishing ninth at Kansas?
GODSPEAK: Reddick is the real deal. Keep an eye on that kid.
KEN'S CALL: In just his second-ever Cup race! Christopher Bell gets all the Xfinity Series attention, but Reddick is another future star.

FEUD OF THE WEEK

CLINT BOWYER VS. ERIK JONES: Jones used his No. 20 Toyota to throw a last-lap block on Bowyer's No. 14 Ford. Bowyer had to brake hard to avoid a wreck and lost three finishing positions. Not happy.
GODWIN KELLY'S TAKE: Bowyer indicated this won't happen again. "I would have just turned him in front of the whole field, and he would be back there wishing he wouldn't have done that," Bowyer said.

GODWIN'S PICKS FOR ALL-STAR RACE

WINNER: Chase Elliott
REST OF TOP 5: Kevin Harvick, Clint Bowyer, Kyle Busch, Martin Truex Jr.
FIRST ONE OUT: Ryan Blaney
DARK HORSE: Jimmie Johnson
DON'T BE SURPRISED IF: Elliott hard-charges his way to victory at Charlotte.

ALL-STAR RACE

THREE THINGS TO WATCH

1. A million bucks

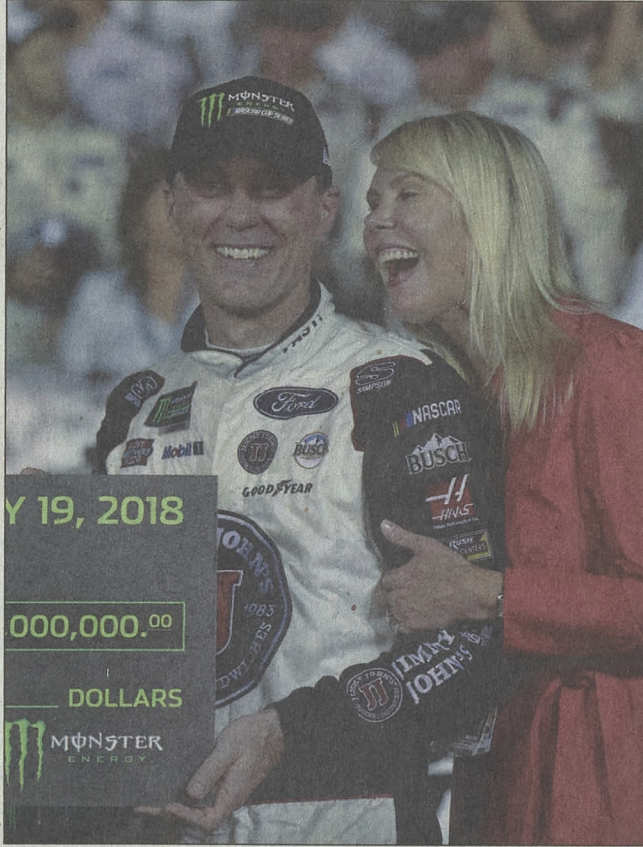

Drivers eligible for Saturday's Monster Energy NASCAR All-Star Race will be gunning for the $1 million top prize. Going into the race, there are 15 drivers eligible to compete. The field will grow because those not qualified may race their way in through the All-Star Open, and one lucky driver will gain access based on fan voting. The link to cast a vote is on nascar.com. Kevin Harvick pocketed that mad money last season.

2. Package tweaks

NASCAR used the 2018 All-Star Race to test what amounted to this season's aero/motor package. The non-points race will provide a guinea pig venue to test two pieces of the 2021 Gen-7 stock car. The cars will be outfitted with a single-piece carbon fiber splitter/pan, designed to stabilize the front end in traffic. The other tweak is a radiator duct that exits through the hood, which should help keep engines cooler.

3. Wait a second

As weird as it sounds, Alex Bowman became the first

Kevin Harvick and his wife, DeLana, had a million reasons to smile after winning the 2018 All-Star Race. [AP/CHUCK BURTON] non-winning Cup Series driver to string three consecutive second-place finishes. Bowman, who replaced Dale Earnhardt Jr. in the No. 88 Hendrick Motorsports Chevy, can use All-Star weekend to show everybody this recent performance boost is no fluke. He can race his way into the All-Star Race, where he can go head-to-head with NASCAR's best.

QUESTIONS & ATTITUDE

Compelling questions ... and maybe a few actual answers

Whose side do we take?

It's easy to flip-flop from one minute to the next. On one hand, you understand why Erik Jones threw the big block on Clint Bowyer to protect his position. He has big-money interests to look in the eyes after the race is over; and if he isn't doing all he can to finish as high as he can, he could get asked some tough questions back in the hauler. He's still trying to cement his long-term future, after all.

And on the other hand?

A lot of folks aren't fans of blocking, especially when the blocker isn't protecting first place. However, it's become part of the game, it seems. Bowyer is one of a handful of current racers who could get away with delivering some vigilante justice, and maybe he should have. He'll almost certainly get other chances.

KANSAS

THREE THINGS WE LEARNED

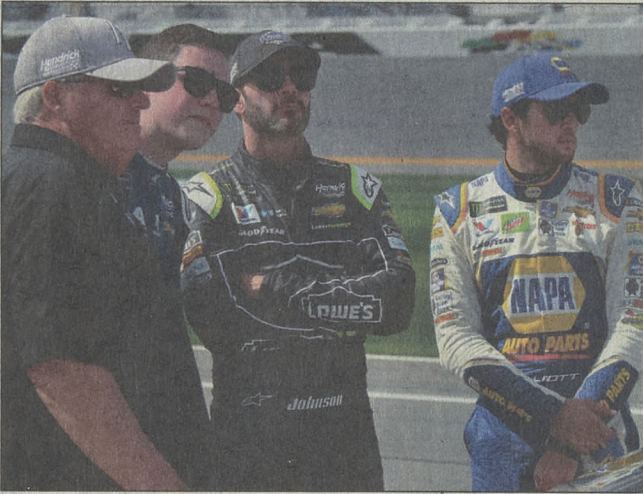

1. Hendrick's return

This may be the gas fumes talking, but Hendrick Motorsports looks like it has its act together. Rick Hendrick drivers Alex Bowman and Chase Elliott were side by side for the lead late in the race. Ford's Brad Keselowski won, but Hendrick had three drivers finish in the top six.

2. Tied forever

Kyle Busch had a chance to break a little-known Cup Series record for most consecutive (11) top-10 finishes starting a season. Instead, he finished 30th, thanks in large part to a pit-road penalty of his own making. Morgan Shepherd and Busch now share that 11-race streak honor.

3. More competition

It appears the Cup Series aero/motor package is bringing more names into the lead pack. With 24 laps left in regulation, there were three drivers who have yet to score a Cup win among the top six gunning for the checkered flag, which indicates more parity. That's a good thing.

Gov. Wolf increases liquid fuels distribution

The Pennsylvania Department of Transportation has committed $500.7 million in liquid fuels payments to help certified municipalities maintain their roads and bridges.

"Pennsylvania has the fifth-largest state-maintained road system in the country, and the locally owned network is even larger," PennDOT Secretary Leslie S.

Richards said. "Mobility and safety on all our state's roadways is critical, which is why Governor Wolf has proposed Restore Pennsylvania to improve roadways in all our communities."

The March 1 distribution marked a $11.7 million, or 2.4 percent, increase over the $489 million distributed in 2018.

Act 89 of 2013 made more funding available for locally owned roadways.

Before the law, municipalities received $320.8 million in liquid fuels payments.

PennDOT's annual distributions assist with municipalities' highway and bridge-related expenses, such as snow removal and road repaving.

There are 120,039 miles of public roads in Pennsylvania.

There are 72,992 miles owned by municipalities and eligible for liquid fuels.

The formula for payments is based on a municipality's population and miles of locally-owned roads.

To be eligible for liquid fuels, a roadway must be formally adopted as a public street by the municipality, meet certain dimension requirements, and be able to safely accommodate vehicles driving at least 15 mph.

For the complete list of local payments, visit the "Municipal Liquid Fuels Program" page at penndot.gov under the "Doing Business" Local Government page.

Food Co-Op holds 6th annual Earth Day craft fair

BY CRISTINE BYRNE

Special to the Bethlehem Press

The Bethlehem Food Co-Op held its sixth public craft fair and Earth Day festival, its biggest annual fundraiser, at St. Francis Center for Renewal on a sunny and verdant April 27.

Local artisans, food vendors, crafters and organizers welcomed community members for an earth blessing, kids' yoga, beekeeping, container gardening and gardening for wildlife. A raffle featured items donated by vendors and local businesses.

Lindsey Ronco said she thought it would be a nice way to spend the day with some of her favorite vendors, whom she follows on Facebook.

Board of Directors Chair Jennifer Dize said Co-Op membership is a "one-time member-equity payment (per household)" which also allows access to the Membership Benefits Program, where about 20-25 local businesses offer discounts to members.

"It also gets you a vote. Right now that's primarily in regard to the board of directors, but will also include decisions about the business as we get closer to opening," said Dize.

The Co-Op currently has 619 members and is always looking to grow.

AMERICA'S OLDEST TOYOTA DEALERSHIP

STUDENT PROFILE

Ryan Gibki

Notre Dame HS

Grade: 12

Family members: I am the child of Ed and Laura Gibki and I have an older sister, Nicole, who is a junior at Muhlenberg College

Favorite subject: My favorite subjects are biology and sports management because I enjoy sports and I am interested in how the body works. Both subjects can be taken as an undergraduate for physical therapy which is what I plan to study in college. Personally, I have an active lifestyle which has led me to grow familiar to how the body functions.

Activities: I am a member of the baseball, basketball and soccer team at Notre Dame. Also, I am the treasurer of Key Club and a member of the National Honor Society and Foreign Language Honor Society. I participated in Notre Dame's annual 24-hour Mini Thon three out of my four years and plan to participate this year.

Next steps: After high school, I plan on attending college in pursuit of a doctorate in physical therapy. I am also going to continue my baseball career at the collegiate level.

Career goals: My goal is to work with a major league team as a physical therapist who is able to help athletes return to the playing field after suffering an injury.

Heroes: My heroes are my Aunt Donna and my dad. My aunt recently died from breast cancer and I want to someday be as strong of a person as she was. My dad is my biggest mentor and supporter. He supports me at every single game and I wish to be like him.

Hobbies: Other than school activities, I also play travel baseball and ski. I play baseball for the Lehigh Valley Rising Starts. I ski at Blue Mountain noncompetitively.

Current job(s): I am a lifeguard at Penns Farms during the summer.

Volunteer/community work: I volunteer for Miracle League, Special Olympics, and monthly activities that Key Club performs. I also help work Notre Dame sports camps throughout the year and participate in Mini Thon.

Likes: I like sports, hiking, skiing, dogs, drawing, sleeping and eating.

Dislikes: I do not like homework, waking up early, and spiders.

Greatest accomplishment (so far): I have a variety of accomplishments that I am proud of but I am most proud of my athletic accomplishments. I am a district 11 AA champion in basketball two times and soccer. Also, I am a Colonial League champion in baseball. I value team accomplishments higher than any individual awards and I plan to win more championships my senior year.

Advice for peers: I recommend to try to get as involved in as much as possible. It is better to try an activity and not like it than to look back and regret not doing it.

Student profile subjects are selected by faculty and administration at the individual schools.

Director emeritus Ron Sherry runs the Alumni Band through "Yorktown." "It's a good band, said Sherry, "I'm very fond of them."

Alumni Band marks 25 years

BY DANA GRUBB

In 1991 former Liberty HS Grenadier Band director Ron Sherry formed a band comprised of former Liberty musicians to perform in the City of Bethlehem's 250th anniversary parade. Over 300 alumni responded coming from 35 plus states. From that one event, many in the alumni band continued playing and in 1995 they performed their first free public concert together.

On March 8, the Liberty HS Alumni Band celebrated its 25th anniversary by performing a free concert in the Liberty HS auditorium. These days the band is comprised of just over 70 musicians, over half whom actually played at Liberty HS as students.

And, as they did directing the Liberty HS Grenadier Band, Greg MacGill has followed Sherry as director of the Alumni Band. Sherry says he is now "retired," yet he made a guest appearance directing the Alumni Band on two numbers, including the John Philip Sousa finale, "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

The Alumni Band features a number of charter members including Patti Hale (bassoon), Sandra Cassella (first clarinet), Patty Coxé (second clarinet), George Van Doren (solo trumpet), Joe Bartera (first trumpet), Jessica Lee (euphonium), Edward Connors Jr. (trombone), Anthony Louie (percussion), Mike Flaska (sousaphone) and committee members Gini Grube, Darlene Miller, Pat Palhofski and Dick Roberts.

The concert also featured guest conductor, Major David Marshall, retired music director for Her Majesty's Royal Coldstream Guards, the Liberty HS Alumni Pipers under the direction of James Ruhf, and guest trombone soloist Rob Stoneback.

The Liberty HS Alumni Band also performed a free John Philip Sousa Concert with the Easton Municipal Band April 28.

Karen Wisser and Lori Schofer Newman play their clarinets during rehearsal. Both attended Liberty HS and were members of the Grenadier Band.

Current Liberty HS Alumni Band director Greg MacGill and Alumni Band director emeritus Ron Sherry look at some photos from the band's history prior to a recent rehearsal. Sherry directed the Liberty HS Grenadier Band from 1961 to 1991 and MacGill followed in his footsteps, directing the Grenadiers from 1991 to 2010.

Alumni Band director Greg MacGill gives band members some direction at the start of rehearsal.

The Alumni Band trumpets are featured on the number "Yorktown."

Christa Daukshus of Easton unpacks her alto sax and prepares to insert the reed before rehearsal begins.

Jessica Lee and her alumni bandmates rehearse for the 25th anniversary band concert March 8 in the Liberty HS auditorium.

CHARTER ARTS HS NOTES

by Molly Zimlich

Literary Arts students shine

Since opening in 2003, the Lehigh Valley Charter HS for the Arts has offered a comprehensive curriculum for high school students, grades 9-12, who have a passion for the arts. In 2015, the school added a literary arts major to its list of offerings, which has since expanded in terms of both students and curriculum. In its inaugural year, the major enrolled roughly 20 students. Now, four years later, the major has grown to nearly 80 students. The curriculum has also expanded with the department's growth, including such classes as Character Development, Exploration of the Romantic Style, Children's Literature, Screenwriting, Advanced Film Theory and Practice, and Publications, to name a few. The growth of the Charter Arts literary arts community has led to many great things, including poetry readings, a student-produced literary magazine, submission of student films to the Greater Lehigh Valley Filmmaker Festival and participation in ArtsQuest's Musikfest Marketing program.

Charter Arts' Executive Director Diane LaBelle said, "As a high school for the arts, including a literary arts major to the other six artistic majors rounded out the offerings at Charter Arts. The literary arts major elevates the language and reading skills of students to a new level by incorporating film, poetry, and journalism into the already rich exploration of fiction and nonfiction. This is just one more way to help students learn to think critically in preparation for today's competitive work environment, where we know that employers are looking for young professionals who are not only competent but curious and creative."

Literary Arts Director and teacher Paul Walsh remarks that the major offers multiple perspectives on many topics, including prevalent ones and past ones. "We don't shy away from topics that relate to the core of the human experience," he says. These discussions give students the ability to interact with a diverse community of artists with differing backgrounds and opinions, offering the understanding of multiple perspectives and being able to argue respectfully while also listening to their peers.

Literary Arts is also a community in which the teachers encourage students to use their voices and their stories. The diverse classes and opportunities open up multiple avenues for a variety of students to express themselves. The major not only focuses on the expression through writing, but also through speaking and other forms of art. "My goal is to teach everyone that they have a story to tell," Walsh says, remarking on his goal when teaching within the major.

Walsh is a passionate teacher and director, putting a lot of effort and time into the major. Most of his enthusiasm toward the major comes from the students, he remarks. "I'm offered a vision of hope for the future," he says, when asked about why he teaches in and directs the major. He sees the major as “[an] opportunity to say or do something that influences a student to positively impact their future and future decisions.” This year is the first year that students will be graduating from the program after a full four years, and Walsh remarks that he saw the students progress significantly in their work, their minds, and themselves overall. “Something in this program taught these students to follow their passion,” he says. “[The students] are one step closer each day towards finding out who they are.” With hard work and passion, students are expected to prove themselves to themselves by the end of each discussion and assignment. Literary arts constantly offers opportunities for students to learn and grow by themselves and with classmates. The major is an exceptional place, allowing students to grow each and every day.

Lehigh Valley Hospital-Cedar Crest pharmacy supervisor John Dinh displays barcode information that Rosie, the hospital's drug robot, uses to dispense nearly 1.5 million medication doses a year.

Rosie the deliverer

After completing the dispensing, Rosie, Lehigh Valley Hospital-Cedar Crest's mammoth drug robot, delivers sealed, barcoded medication envelopes for delivery by technicians to patients.

Visitors on a recent behind-the-scenes tour to see the Lehigh Valley Health Network (LVHN) drug robot may have expected a "Star Wars" R2-D2-sized mechanical helper scurrying between patient rooms handing out doses of medication.

Instead, they were presented with a room-sized marvel covering some 420-square-feet and containing 60,000 doses of medication at Lehigh Valley Hospital-Cedar Crest, Salisbury Township.

The tour was presented for hospital donors and community leaders by the network's philanthropy department.

The pharmacy robot is named Rosie, after the robot featured in the television cartoon series "The Jetsons" (1962-'63).

While the Jetsons' robot mopped floors, dusted shelves and cooked dinner (all at the same time), the LVHN robot stores thousands of doses of medication, filling hundreds of prescriptions a day for delivery to patients on the hospital's medical floors with virtually no human error.

After a physician inputs a patient's medication order into the hospital's computerized system, it is sent to the hospital pharmacy where the robot locates the proper medication, dispenses the proper dosage, labels and barcodes pertinent information, seals the envelope and delivers the package for distribution by pharmacy technicians to the proper patient, in the right place, at the proper time.

Rosie is said to be the world's largest pharmacy robot. While a number of similar robots are in use in the United States, none are

'Mulch volcano' problems explode

Overmulching landscape trees is common.

This is most obvious when mulch extends up the trunk, smothering the root flare and root zone.

This practice, known as "volcano mulching," results in a "mulch volcano," and is never recommended and should not be utilized.

As beneficial as mulch is, too much mulch is harmful.

Deep mulch may suppress weeds, but it wastes time and money and can cause major health problems that lead to tree decline and possibly death.

There are many problems associated with overmulching.

Tree roots need oxygen to grow and function properly. When too much mulch covers the soil surface, air may not penetrate the mulch layer and the underlying soil becomes depleted of oxygen.

In addition, excessively deep mulch can inhibit water loss through evaporation. Once soil pore spaces become filled with water, diffusion of oxygen into the soil is essentially blocked.

When soil oxygen levels drop too low, root growth declines, making it impossible for the plant to take up water and nutrients.

Plant death may result if too many roots decline.

The inner bark, also called the phloem, carries photosynthates produced by the leaves to the rest of the tree. When mulch covers the root flare and trunk tissues, they stay constantly wet. This tissue is much different from root tissue and cannot survive under these conditions.

Continuous moisture also interferes with respiration by limited gas (oxygen and carbon dioxide) exchange between living cells in the trunk and the atmosphere. If wet conditions continue long enough, phloem tissue dies and roots are starved of essential carbohydrates.

Most fungal and bacterial diseases require moisture to grow and reproduce. Overmulching creates conditions where trunk diseases can gain entry through constantly wet, decaying bark, especially if there are larger than Rosie. Richard, a similar robot, is in use at Lehigh Valley Hospital-Muhlenberg, Bethlehem.

The robot's two mechanical arms are what gives it the ability to multitask.

While one arm is packaging medication, placing barcodes on each package and hanging packages on storage pins, the other arm is reading doctors' orders, retrieving medication from the proper pins and dispensing for delivery to the appropriate medical unit.

Rosie operates 24 hours a day every day of the year. The robot dispenses thousands of doses daily, a task that could not be performed by a human without the risk of error.

Rosie has the ability to prioritize its work. If an urgent medication order is received, Rosie can interrupt the routine, processing and providing the medication for immediate delivery to the patient's unit.

This ensures patients receive medications only minutes after a doctor places an urgent order.

Rosie is also smart. She stores and picks medication based on the expiration date to ensure a medication does not become outdated. Rosie reports when one medication is being used more frequently so pharmacy technicians can ensure there is always an adequate supply on hand.

"If one of Rosie's hands malfunctions, she'll sound an alarm and the other arm can handle the workload," says John Dinh, LVH-Cedar Crest pharmacy supervisor.

LVHN capital funds were used to purchase the pharmacy robot at a cost of $1.8 million. It was manufactured by Italy-based Swisslog, a global supplier of integrated logistics solutions.

The robot took four weeks of assembly inside the hospital. When completed, the LVHN pharmacy robot surpassed a Toronto, Canada, machine as the world's largest.

trunk wounds under the mulch.

Once established, these plant pathogens can cause fungal cankers and root rots. Cankers caused by these diseases can encircle the tree, killing the inner bark, ultimately starving the roots, and possibly killing the tree.

Mulch piled against the trunk favors moisture-loving insects, such as carpenter ants and termites, which could colonize and expand decayed areas of the trunk.

Voles and mice may tunnel under deep layers of mulch for shelter. These pests may gnaw on the inner bark of young trees, girdling them. If girdling is extensive, tree death may result. This often goes unnoticed until the following spring when the tree doesn't leaf out.

Similar to composting, thick layers of wet mulch may heat up once decomposition begins. Temperatures within mulch piles may reach as high as 140 degree. This high heat may directly kill the inner bark-phloem of young trees or delay the natural hardening-off period that plants must go through in preparation for winter.

If you believe you have a problem with overmulched trees, carefully dig with a hand trowel to assess mulch depth. Remember two to four inches of mulch is sufficient on well-drained soils, less on poorly-drained soils. A light raking of existing mulch may be all that is necessary to freshen old mulch and break through the crusted or compacted layers that can develop.

If mulch is piled against the trunk, visually look for the presence of the root flare where the tree meets the soil line. If the flare is buried, it is essential to uncover it. Begin by carefully pulling mulch back from the tree's trunk until the root flare is exposed, taking care not to damage the bark.

A good rule of thumb is to pull mulch three to five inches away from young trees and eight to 10 inches away from mature trees. Spread excess mulch evenly out to the tree's drip line, checking to ensure the depth does not exceed four inches.

Research has shown that most trees respond rapidly with improved color and vigor once the root flare is exposed and excess mulch is redistributed.

Hands off others' plates at restaurants

Dear Jacquelyn,
I enjoy dining out with a group of my friends. But there is one person who is always picking food off my plate. I don't mind when a group of us shares dishes around the table, but I can't stand it when someone starts casually eating off of my plate without asking. What should I do without embarrassing myself or the person?

Dear Reader,
When did "Mine is mine. Yours is mine" become the rule at the table? It's one thing when family members or significant others take food from each other's plates. But when you are out

RESPECTFULLY YOURS
By Jacquelyn Youst

socializing with a group of friends, randomly reaching over to someone's plate without asking them is rude.

There are some people who love to share food and others like yourself who are not big fans of sharing at all.

Most people will not take kindly to having their food taken away from them. To be clear, there is a big difference between sharing and taking.

The best option is to nip it in the bud before you order. A preemptive suggestion might solve the whole snitching problem.

Using a kind tone, you could say, "I know you like to taste everything, but I'd rather you ask me first." This would suffice.

Or you can try saying, "I'm ordering this, and you're getting that. Maybe we can try a bite of each other's before we start eating?"

You might also suggest, "If you want some of my appetizers, let's order a second one for the table."

If your gentle suggestions are still ignored, remember that it is never correct to embarrass someone regarding their manners.

Drawing attention to bad manners is bad manners.

What you cannot do, tempting as it might be, is point out to the person that grabbing food off your plate without asking is impolite.

Even though it is impolite, it's not OK to shame someone publicly about manners.

Respectfully Yours,
Jacquelyn

Appreciating a mother's sacrifices

Whenever Mother's Day approaches, I get a bit sad.

With each Mother's Day observance, it hits me anew: I can no longer honor my mother.

It's been 10 years since she passed away, yet every now and then I still get an urge to call my mom.

I forget that's impossible.

If your mother also passed away, perhaps you know what I mean.

We can't call Mom. Can't tell her how much we love her. Can't visit or send her a gift.

Often, the longing and the regret get worse when Mother's Day nears.

I never just sent my mother a gift because I've always been a great believer that presence is the best present.

No matter what it took, I made sure I traveled to see my mom on Mother's Day.

That doesn't mean I was a good daughter. In my mind, I could have been better.

I was always grateful for how she always put her children first.

But I didn't realize how she did without so she could buy her kids what they needed.

She was a single mother supporting two children by working two jobs.

She got up early in the morning to get a ride to her day job in a dress factory. After rushing home and making a home-cooked meal, she left for her waitressing job.

When I was an adolescent and a teenager, I never appreciated her sacrifice. I never thought about how tired she must have been having to work two jobs.

Instead, all I thought about was me. I pitied myself because I always had to baby-sit instead of going with friends.

Do all kids see the world only through their own narrow vision? In many cases, that's true.

Oh, I knew some kids who were smart enough to elevate their mothers to sainthood while they were still living. I wasn't one of them.

I did realize my mother was a saint — but that was after she passed away.

I guess that makes me a cliché. There was an old saying going around that told mothers not to fret if their kids didn't appreciate them. The punch line for mothers is, "When you die, you'll turn into a saint."

That's often true. The reason for it has to do with reflection and a better understanding that comes with age.

With each passing year I appreciate my mother more because I think of all she did for her family and how she sacrificed all her life.

Oh how I wish could have told her more often of my deep love and appreciation while she was still here.

Instead, my mother had to put up with a self-proclaimed "daddy's girl." From the time I was a kid I worshipped my dad.

That continued even after their divorce. I knew Mom was right to leave him. He was the world's best father but he was a failure as a husband.

His sudden violence for no reason must have been difficult for her. She was so young and had no one to turn to for support.

Even though it ripped me apart when they divorced, I knew she should have left him years before she did. She didn't deserve that violence.

When Dad remarried and moved away, he stayed in touch with me. But his new family was his priority.

I knew my mom hurt for me. What I didn't know was I made her hurt more whenever my dad sent me $2 in the mail.

I danced around saying, "Look what my dad sent me."

She would retort by saying, "I'm the one who supports you. He only sends you a few dollars a year."

I had no idea what she meant by that, just as I had no idea how she had to scrimp to single-handedly pay the rent, the bills and put food on the table.

I am sorry to say I didn't realize all that until I was much older and became an adult who knew what it meant to have all those bills to pay.

I just read an article in Consumer Reports that said parents should teach their kids how to handle credit cards before they go off on their own.

My mother had one word of advice on all that: Don't!

She taught us that paying interest on a past purchase was like money down the drain.

"If you have to pay interest it's the same as opening your wallet and letting your money run into the sewer," she said.

She taught us never to buy anything until we had the money. Waiting for those purchases did more than save us money. It also made us more grateful when we did buy something.

When my husband and I got married, we bought our dining room chairs one at a time as we had the money. It took a few years but we felt so good when we finally had the whole set.

To this day my brother and sister are the same way.

The more time that passes, the more of a saint my mother becomes in our minds.

If only I would have told her how I looked up to her.

If your kids are young and don't seem to appreciate what you do, don't fret.

Some day they'll realize all you've done for them. Then, you might become a saint.

Discuss dog's illness, demise with children

Q. My wife and I adopted a lovable mutt before we started our family. Our children have not known life without Sheba. However, the dog has developed multiple health issues in her old age, and we are holding off making decisions about putting her to rest because we don't know how the children, ages 5 and 3, will handle it. We don't want the dog to suffer, but we don't want our children to be sad, either. What is the best way to handle this?

"Dying, whether people or animals, is a way of life," panelist Pam Wallace said.

"If handled appropriately, this can be a good teaching opportunity for the children on how to handle other bad things that may come along. As much as the parents don't want their children to be sad," Wallace continued, "the children need to understand that putting Sheba to rest is in her best interest because she is suffering."

How much to tell the

THE FAMILY PROJECT
By Carole Gorney

children, and how much to involve them in the decision depends on how mature they are, said panelist Denise Continenza, adding that even small children grieve, but the three-year-old may not understand the permanency of what will happen.

The parents may have to touch base with the children over some period of time to see how they are coping with the reality of the loss of their dog, said Continenza.

The panelists cautioned the parents not to give the children more information than they need. "They [the veterinarian] will tell the parents what they want to know," Wallace said. "If they [the children] ask, tell them. Be as truthful as the kids can handle."

Panelist Erin Stalsitz suggested talking with the youngsters together and then separately because the older child may have more questions.

As for what to tell the children, Stalsitz said, "Be sure that they understand that the dog won't be coming home again, so avoid terms like 'putting the dog to sleep.'"

Wallace said veterinarians have lots of resources and could recommend age-appropriate books on the subject.

Another idea from Continenza would be to talk together about what everyone remembers about Sheba: "What are the children's best memories of her?" Continenza recommended involving the children in deciding what to do with the dog's ashes.

As for the parents not wanting their children to be sad, Wallace said, "It is OK for them to be sad. Tell them [the children], it is OK to miss their puppy."

The panel discouraged the idea of getting another dog right away because it would send a message to the children that relationships are easily replaceable.

This week's team of parenting experts are: Pam Wallace, Program Coordinator, Project Child, a program of Valley Youth House; Erin Stalsitz, Lehigh County Children and Youth Case-work Supervisor, and Denise Continenza, extension educator.

Topics: Blood pressure, dog bites, bursitis

Q. I get low blood pressure after I eat a meal. It makes me a little woozy. What can I do about it?

This is a senior malady called "postprandial hypotension." When you eat, blood pours into your digestive system. To maintain your blood pressure, your heart pumps more often and your blood vessels constrict. These compensatory mechanisms don't work for some people.

To help prevent postprandial hypotension, eat small portions several times a day and limit high-carbohydrate foods such as potatoes, rice, pasta and bread.

In many instances, low blood pressure isn't serious. However, it is important to see your doctor if you have hypotension symptoms because they sometimes can point to serious problems. Chronic low blood pressure may increase the risk of Alzheimer's-type dementia in some older adults.

Q. I am a senior who is afraid that my infirmities make me a target for dogs. Am I being paranoid? What should I do when confronted by a dog?

Seniors are bitten by dogs more than any other group except children. Older people are more prone to being bitten by an aggressive dog because they tend to be slower and weaker than younger adults.

Here are some tips from the experts on how to avoid being attacked by a dog:

HEALTHY GEEZER
By Fred Cicetti
fred@healthygeezers.com

Don't look a dog straight in the eye. This is provocative.

Do not run away from or past a dog. This can make them aggressive and want to chase you.

Never go up to a dog you don't know and try to get friendly, especially if the dog is behind a fence, tethered or in a parked car.

If an unfamiliar dog comes up to you, stand still. Most of the time, the dog will sniff you and then walk away.

Never bother a dog that is eating or sleeping. And stay away from a mother tending to her litter.

If you're threatened by a dog, don't yell. Respond calmly. In a commanding voice, tell the dog to go away. Try to stay still until the dog leaves, or back away slowly.

If you are attacked, give the dog an object, such as a jacket or tote to bite. If you are knocked down, roll yourself into a ball and lie still. Cover your head and face with your hands.

Q. Does bursitis get worse with age?

Yes. Bursitis is inflammation of a bursa, which is a small sac filled with fluid. We each have about 160 of these bursae, which act as shock absorbers and grease for our joints. They are buffers between bones and overlapping muscles or between bones and tendons-skin. When bursae become inflamed, they can ache.

While repetitive motions are the usual culprits in bursitis, simple pressure can cause inflammation, too. A couple of examples: Pushing a vacuum cleaner can give you bursitis in your elbow, and sitting on a hard surface for a long time can inflame the bursa over a bone in your buttocks.

You can usually take care of bursitis yourself. Rest the affected joint. An ice pack will reduce swelling. To reduce pain and inflammation, take a nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory such as ibuprofen or aspirin. It usually takes a week or so for bursitis to go away.

You should go to your doctor if the symptoms don't subside after 10 days; you have a fever; there's excessive swelling, redness, bruising or a rash in the affected area; pain is sharp, shooting or disabling, or you have a medical condition or you take drugs that may increase your risk of an infection.

Gečytė, Perla return for sixth 'Jazz Upstairs'

BY GEORGE VANDOREN
Special to The Press

Viktorija Gečytė and the Gene Perla Trio are making their sixth appearance in the "Jazz Upstairs" series in the Rodale Community Room, Miller Symphony Hall, Allentown. The 7:30 p.m. May 17 concert is part of the group's 11th annual tour. After Lehigh Valley and New York area concerts, the group heads to the Bay Area. Then it's off to Europe where the ensemble plans to make a recording.

Gečytė, a native of Lithuania, has been performing since age five. She was a scholarship student at Lafayette College. After graduating, she played jazz clubs in New York and around the United States. She found a home in Paris and has performed there and around Europe ever since.

Critics have raved about her great phrasing, impeccable timing and elegant, swinging performances.

Bassist and trio leader Gene Perla agrees: "Her sound is so desirable. It's smooth with a very melodious lower range. Her rhythmic placement just fits like a hand in a glove. Her pitch is dead-on."

Perla says they met around 2007 and he became intrigued, adding, "By the way, she can deliver a song and really tell a story."

The next year, they formed a group and have been performing together ever since.

Perla also began his musical experience at age five, studying classical piano. He played trombone in high school. He went to college with an engineering degree in mind, but wound up attending the Berklee School of Music and Boston Conservatory.

After relocating to New York, Perla switched to bass as his main instrument and became in-demand. He has played with Nina Simone, Miles Davis, Woody Herman, Elvin Jones, the Thad Jones-Mel Lewis Band, Sonny Rollins, Frank Sinatra and Sarah Vaughan. He is in his 18th year teaching music business at Lehigh University and his 10th year at the New School in New York.

Rounding out the group are Edsel Gomez, piano, and Adam Nussbaum, drums.

Nussbaum started with drums and piano, getting his first drum kit around age 12. He studied at the City College of New York.

He has played with John Abercrombie, Carla Bley, Michael Brecker, Gary Burton, the Eliane Elias-Randy Brecker Quartet, the Gil Evans Orchestra, Stan Getz, Dave Liebman, John Scofield and Toots Thielemans.

Says Perla, "He's a monster. Playing with him is like sitting on a very comfortable couch."

Gomez hails from Puerto Rico. He was nominated for a Grammy for Cubism Music in 2007. He has worked with Dee Dee Bridgewater, Don Byron, Jack DeJohnette, Brian Lynch and Eddie Palmieri.

He undertook a research study promoted by the Philippine Heritage Library and Ayala Museum in Manila, Philippines.

Following that, he formed the Edsel Gomez World Fusion Band, which combines traditional Philippine and tribal music with Afro-Caribbean music and jazz.

Says Perla, "I met Edsel when he was playing on a record I was producing and I've been performing with him the last few years with Adam Nussbaum."

"Because of Edsel's Latin bent, we're going in that direction. We're revising some of the songs we've done in the past with a Latin flavor."

Perla says that for the "Jazz Upstairs" concert, "We'll also play some new songs that Viktorija and I have written." Tickets: Miller Symphony Hall box office, 23 N. Sixth St., Allentown; millersymphonyhall.org; 610-432-6715

Campbell, all of whom have released and waived any interest in the said property and further waived any Notices for the HUD Commissioner Sale. The Sale will be held on the outside steps of the Lehigh County Courthouse, 455 W. Hamilton St., Allentown, PA. The Secretary of Housing and Urban Development will bid $191,813.81. There will be no proration of taxes, rents or other income or liabilities, except that the purchaser will pay, at or before closing, her prorata share of any real estate taxes that have been paid by the Secretary to the date of the foreclosure sale. When making their bids, all bidders except the Secretary must submit a deposit totaling $19,181.38 (10% of the Secretary's bid) in the form of a certified check or cashier's check made out to the Secretary of HUD. Each oral bid need not be accompanied by a deposit. If the successful bid is oral, a deposit of $19,181.38 must be presented before the bidding is closed. The deposit is non-refundable. The remainder of the purchase price must be delivered within thirty (30) days of the sale or at such other time as the Secretary may determine for good cause shown, time being of the essence. This amount, like the bid deposits, must be delivered in the form of a certified or cashier's check. If the Secretary is the high bidder, he need not pay the bid amount in cash. The successful bidder will pay all conveyancing fees, all real estate and other taxes that are due on or after the delivery of the remainder of the payment and all other costs associated with the transfer of title. At the conclusion of the sale, the deposits of the unsuccessful bidders will be returned to them. The Secretary may grant an extension of time within which to deliver the remainder of the payment. All extensions will be for 15-day increments for a fee of $500.00 to be paid in advance. The extension fee shall be in the form of a certified or cashier's check made payable to the Secretary of HUD. If the high bidder closes the sale prior to the expiration of any extension period, the unused portion of the extension fee shall be applied toward the amount due. If the high bidder is unable to close the Sale within the required period, or within any extensions of time granted by the Secretary, the high bidder may be required to forfeit the cash deposit or, at the election of the foreclosure commissioner after consultation with the HUD Field Office representative, will be liable to HUD for any costs incurred as a result of such failure. The Commissioner may, at the direction of the HUD Field Office Representative, offer the Property to the second highest bidder for an amount equal to the highest price offered by that bidder. There is no right of redemption, or right of possession based upon a right of redemption, in the mortgagor or others subsequent to a foreclosure completed pursuant to the Act. Therefore, the Foreclosure Commissioner will issue a Deed to the purchaser(s) upon receipt of the entire purchase price in accordance with the terms of the sale as provided herein. HUD does not guarantee that the property will be vacant. The scheduled foreclosure sale shall be cancelled or adjourned if it is established by documented written application of the Mortgagor to the Foreclosure Commissioner not less than three (3) days before the date of the Sale or otherwise that the default or defaults upon which the foreclosure is based did not exist at the time of service of this Notice of Default and Foreclosure Sale, or all amounts due under the Mortgage Agreement are tendered to the Foreclosure Commissioner, in the form of a certified or cashier's check payable to The Secretary of HUD, before public auction of the property is completed. The amount that must be paid to pay off the Mortgage prior to the scheduled sale is $191,813.81 as of 2/22/19, plus all other amounts that would be due under the mortgage agreement if payments under the mortgage had not been accelerated, advertising costs and postage expenses incurred in giving notice, mileage by the most reasonable road distance for posting notices and for the Foreclosure Commissioner's attendance at the sale, reasonable and customary costs incurred for title and lien record searches, the necessary out-of-pocket costs incurred by the Foreclosure Commissioner for recording documents, a commission for the Foreclosure Commissioner, and all other costs incurred in connection with the foreclosure prior to reinstatement. Tender of payment by certified or cashier's check or application for cancellation of the foreclosure sale shall be submitted to the address of the Foreclosure Commissioner provided below. /s/ Leon P.
