

An invitation to reflect on civic life and the pandemic

The Bethlehem Gadfly coronavirus, Southside July 1, 2020

 Latest in a series of posts on the coronavirus

Gadfly:

Southsider is excited to share this open call to incorporate more community voices into their “Reflections on Civic Life and the Pandemic” Series. There is a lot happening in the world right now, and all of it is shaped by the pandemic. How should we as a community make sense of it all?

See a model from the series here, “Robin Lee on the Impact of COVID-19 on South Bethlehem.”

[see p2]

A black and white photograph of a sidewalk. A metal pole is visible on the right side. A discarded plastic glove lies on the sidewalk in the foreground. The text is overlaid on the top half of the image.

Open Call for Reflections on Covid-19 and its Impact on Bethlehem:

Photo Credit: Robin Lee.

Share your voice!

We want to publish more community voices on Southsider! We would love to hear what the residents of Bethlehem have to say about how the coronavirus pandemic has impacted our community. Our series, "Reflections on Civic Life and the Pandemic," has considered the intersections of Covid-19 and environmentalism, essential labor, gratitude, small businesses, and parenting. How else has the pandemic impacted Bethlehem?

Email us at editors@thesouthsider.org:

1. Submit 1-2 photographs that you have personally taken that reflect the reality of the pandemic.
2. Include a brief commentary about what these photographs signify to you in the context of the pandemic, Stay-At-Home orders, and reopening. (No more than 500 words.)
3. We will work with you to edit and publish your work on Southsider!

The Southsider Editorial Team

Gadfly invites you to browse the fine Southsider site, especially see the Women of Bethlehem Steel series.

The Bethlehem Gadfly