POLIO
Parents:
Keep up with your kids' shots

The recent reappearance of polio in some communities in the Northeast serves as an important reminder to parents to keep up with their child's vaccinations – especially with school about to start.

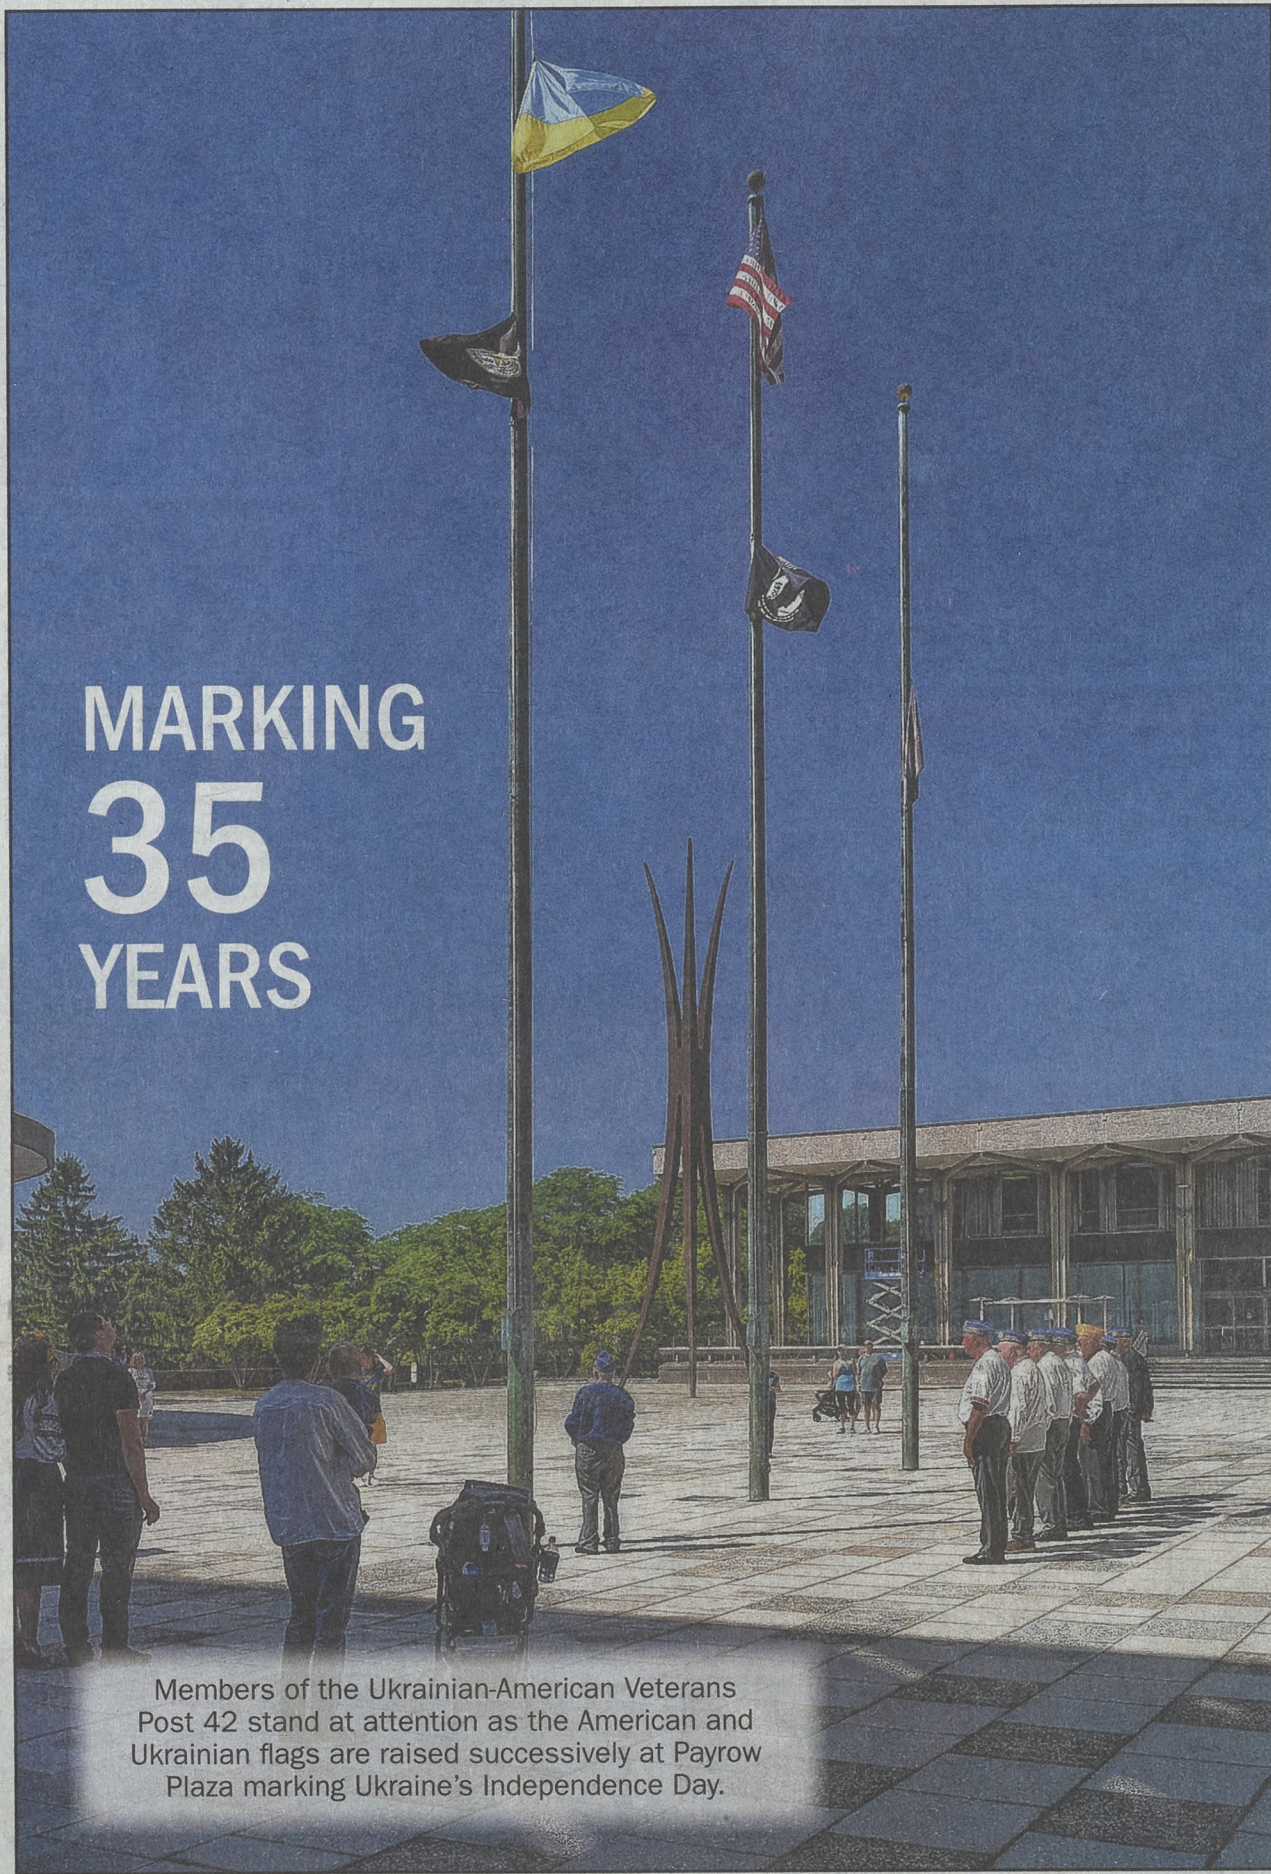

"Vaccines are key to keeping everyone in the family healthy, from infants to school children and from teens to older adults, and to preventing the spread of serious diseases in our communities," said Jennifer A. Janco, M.D., a pediatrician with St. Luke's University Health Network.

To be fully immunized, children need all doses of all vaccines recommended for their age group. If your child does not receive all the recommended doses, your child and your family members are vulnerable to serious diseases, Janco said.

Parents can check their family's online SLUHN portal or call their SLUHN pediatrician's office to find out whether their child is due for any vaccinations or boosters, and to schedule an appointment if necessary. Due to the COVID pandemic, a number of children fell behind on their vaccinations and now is the perfect time to get them caught up, Janco said.

While Pennsylvania is one of only 15 states that allows for philosophical exemption to vaccines for school entry, Janco agrees with the Pennsylvania Department of Health recommendations for parents or guardians of students enrolled in grades K-12 to have their children immunized against various communicable diseases, including polio. The regulations apply to kindergarten, elementary and secondary students enrolled in a public school, private school, or nonpublic school, and home education students.

"You can't assume the person sitting next to your child is vaccinated, but you can vaccinate your child," Janco said.

MAMA'S MUSINGS

Ouch!

After a several month wait, I am finally going to see a dermatologist. For some time now, I have struggled with dry skin. Somehow, that evolved into dry patches that hurt and heal and recur. I suspect it's either eczema or psoriasis. Over the counter treatments are not helping. I have tried Neosporin, cortisone cream, Aveno eczema cream, and others. I tried altering my diet, eliminating milk. Then I tried cutting down on sugar. Nothing changed. So back in May, I finally decided I needed professional help. I went on the MyLVHN app, and located a dermatologist. I called, and was dismayed when I learned I could not get an appointment until the end of August.

By Lani Goins

I have avoided wearing shorts all summer, except at home. Partly it's vanity. Partly it's because when my skin is exposed, I have to fight not to scratch at it. It is painful, tiring and distracting.

The heat seemed to make things worse. When we visited my daughter and her boyfriend at their apartment, the adult kids and James went in the pool. I went inside to the lounge.

What bothers me most is that this may be psoriasis. Psoriasis is an autoimmune disease. I internalize a lot of stress, but I have always thought that I could handle it, and I don't like to think my body is rebelling.

Whatever it is, I need a doctor. I went to the doctor twice this year: once when I had COVID and once when I got the flu. Between my boys' appointments and my own, I feel like I have been in enough doctors' offices for two years at least.

But I am going to the dermatologist, because if the past several years have taught me anything, it is to get help when I need it.

YEARS

Continued from page A1 delivered by Dr. Olena Ogrochina, associate professor of economics at Lafayette College. Olena came to the United States to complete her graduate studies. Close relatives of hers remain in northern Ukraine. She spoke of her worries for them and the commitment of all Ukrainians to victory in the war to defend Ukraine's independence from Russia.

Mayor J. William Reynolds of Bethlehem and Pa. Representative Steve Samuelson emphasized the city's commitment to its Ukrainian citizens. State Senator Lisa Boscola and U.S. Representative Susan Wild, who were unable to attend in person, sent representatives to speak on their behalf.

Two performances by Kaska, a Ukrainian folk dance ensemble, highlighted the event. Wearing brilliant costumes that gleamed in the sunlight, the dancers impressed viewers with moves that were both graceful and athletic, the leading female dancer enticing with a "come hither" look, the leading male bounding and leaping in response.

Perfect timing! Two members of Kaska leave the ground at exactly the same moment while looking in opposite directions, a good example of the exacting demands of Ukrainian folk dancing.

Local water sources remain abundant

BY NATE JASTRZEMSKI njastrzowski@tnonline.com

While your lawn may look brittle and feel a bit crunchy, rest assured it's just summertime in the Lehigh Valley.

City officials say water rationing out west, with dry river beds and a receding Lake Meade, and reports of emergency drought conditions in Europe and Asia, are not cause for alarm locally.

Water Authority Executive Director Stephen Repasch said water levels remain high, even during dry spells, and that an Aug. 1 test showed levels in the city's Pocono-area wa-

Director of Water and Sewer Resources Ed Boscola explained. "Currently there is no official drought watch or conservation measures recommended for eastern Pa. There is no concern at the present time regarding reservoir levels for the Bethlehem system. Precipitation for 2022 so far has exceeded 2021 year to date in the Pocono region, primarily due to the wet spring.

The Aug. 15 special school board meeting recognized and paid tribute to retiring Chief Financial Officer Stacy Gober after 12 years.

During her tenure with the BASD, Gober is credited with organizing and creating structure to a very complex and extensive financial system. Superintendent Dr. Joseph Roy affectionately refers to her as "the Queen of Spreadsheets" and boasted of her steady leadership.

Board President Michael Fascinetto said he has great respect for the job she has done in the business office, and Assistant Superintendent Dr. Jack Silva thanked her on behalf of the principals, teachers and students. "Her behind-the-scenes contributions to the running of the district have been extensive."

State House Representative Steve Samuelson presented Gober with a state proclamation for her achievements.

Gober's career has spanned four school districts, starting in 1987. The special board meeting also addressed the need to amend the general fund budget for the 2022-23 school year following a generous education allotment by Governor Tom Wolf. The district's $5.2 million portion will go toward building sustainable student supports, preserving infrastructure by means of security, technology and facilities, and strengthening the base funds for future years.

La Asamblea General del Estado de Pensilvania, por el presente, resuelve lo siguiente:

LHS gives Central a run

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Liberty proved they could compete with Central Catholic last Saturday night, but the Hurricanes weren't able to close things out in a 34-28 defeat at J. Birney Crum Stadium.

Central amassed 228 yards of rushing on the night, led by a four touchdown performance by Caiden Shaffer, including the game-winner with 7:19 left in the fourth quarter to help lead Central to a come from behind victory.

Liberty led 14-7 and 21-13 throughout the game with their final touchdown coming in the third when Anthony Askerneese hauled in a 33-yard score from Tommy Mason less than a minute into the second half to put them ahead 28-20.

That would end their offensive output however, as Central's defense stifled them the rest of the way, while they pounded their way with the ground attack to come back for the win.

Mason had himself a game, rushing for 98 yards and two scores and passing for 135 yards and a touchdown. He also threw two interceptions.

Jayden Rosado added 85 yards on the ground rushing, while Nico Sciarra led Liberty with four receptions for 55 yards.

The Hurricanes (0-1) now look to get back to .500 this Friday night when they host Whitehall at BASD Stadium.

The Zephyrs lost to Bethlehem Catholic last week 35-7.

It wasn't pretty for Emmaus and Freedom last Friday night, but ultimately the Green Hornets made the night their masterpiece on the opening night of the high school football season.

Emmaus parlayed a momentum changing touchdown before half-time into the second half, eventually wearing down the Patriots in the second half en route to a 19-13 victory at BASD Stadium.

The win was a dose of revenge for Emmaus

(1-0) after losing to Freedom in last year's district championship, but it also proved to be a learning lesson for head coach Jason Roeder and his Freedom players.

"We understand it's only week one, but it's disappointing and tough to not get that gratification after working all summer toward this game," said Roeder. "We got to continue to find the guys and the rotations that are going to work. We're going to keep evaluating things every day, but clearly we still have work to do."

Emmaus jumped out quickly to a 7-0 lead when Jake Fotta threw a 60-yard touchdown to Dylan Darville on their opening series of the contest. However, Freedom settled in and then scored twice in the second quarter, with the first coming with 11:52 in the period when quarterback Ethan Neidig tossed a seven-yard TD to Connor Stofanek to make it 7-6 following a blocked extra point. They followed that with a 61-yard TD run by Jalen Fletcher with 7:33 left in the first half to Moravian Academy freshman Virginia Kraus out ran 113 harriers and high heat and humidity to win the varsity girls race of the Lion Invitational Cross Country Meet on her home course last Friday.

"I was a little nervous before the race because I wasn't sure what to expect, but once I got going, I got into a rhythm and got focused and felt better," Kraus said.

Kraus and second-place finisher Anna Pucilowski of Abington Heights took a fast start and remained ahead of the field of the other 112 girls for the three miles.

"I tried to save a little bit because it's really hot today, and I wasn't sure what the third mile was going to feel like, but I think I still went out a little bit too fast. My first mile was 5:42, and my average is 6:02," said Kraus. "[Anna] ran with me up until about the two-mile mark. At that point, I put in a burst of speed, and she fell back, but I feel like I would not have run anywhere as fast as I did if I had not had somebody there with me."

Moravian's Virginia Kraus took first place at the Lion Invitational.

Freedom's Ava Fihlman and Notre Dame's Katherine Koons pace each other.

Kraus's time was 18:37.45, and Pucilowski crossed the finish line in 19:23.26.

"I didn't look back, so I had no idea how much of a gap there was," Kraus said. "It feels great."

Freedom junior Ava Fihlman took third place after battling it out with Delaware Valley's Ryan O'Connor, who finished fourth, and Notre Dame's Katherine Koons, who was fifth.

"It's been a long time since I've done three miles, so I was kind of getting back into the racing feel," said Fihlman. "I was sticking with the girl in third, and then she started to slow down and I felt like I could pick it up more, but I didn't think I could close the gap between me and second, so I wanted to make sure I was comfortable and not gassing it."

Fihlman was happy with her time of 20:23.68, as was Freedom coach Bob Thear.

"Her time was great. I was just talking to her about that," Thear said. "On a normal day, it would've been 10 degrees cooler with no humidity, and she probably would've been at 20. See GIRLS on Page A10

Hawks feel better about 2022 start

BY KATIE MCDONALD
kmcaldonald@tnonline.com

It's been a long lay-over for two football teams whose last season didn't begin, Bethlehem Catholic's, and end, Whitehall's, the way they had hoped.

The two faced each other in their 2022 season openers when the Golden Hawks recorded an emphatic 35-7 victory over the Zephyrs on Friday night at Whitehall.

"It feels good after nine months, after a 2-7 season, to come out here, Year Two, and to get these kids to buy in and come out and play like that," said Becahi head coach Kyle Haas. "I'm not saying we turned a corner, but it's a step in the right direction. I think we have potential to be good, but it's a one-week-at-a-time process, and the season's really long, and we've got a lot of big games to play."

Matt Senneca's Zephyrs scored their only touchdown midway through the fourth quarter on a 13-yard pass from quarterback Trey Dogmanits to Braden Bashore. Andrew Deutsch kicked the extra point.

"Our defense, they were excellent," said Coach Haas. "They did a really good job getting prepared for Whitehall. They didn't give up many first downs in the first three quarters, and if they were gonna beat us, let the quarterback beat us. Let him throw the ball, but (Nigel) Linton is not gonna beat us, and if they were gonna play option football, we were prepared for it."

Zephyr senior running back Nigel Linton, who was sidelined by injury toward the end of last season, had nine carries and two receptions on Friday night.

Becahi's first strike came late in the first quarter on a three-yard carry by Rahmel Terry, and Jeremy Fyrer kicked the extra point.

Then, Becahi quarterback Luke Thomas's pass, intended for Jaiden Ellis-Lahey in the corner of the end zone, fell incomplete, but moments later, Thomas's second pass to Ellis-Lahey connected for the Hawks' next touchdown.

Dogmanits's pass to Linton in the third quarter was dislodged by Becahi's Antonio Ramos-Dobbins, and fellow Hawk, Troy Miller, recovered the fumble, setting up the Hawks' next touchdown, a one-yard carry by Solomon Sutton. Thomas kept the ball for the two-point conversion.

"That was nine months of pain, just thinking about these games and how we did last year, so we came out and didn't stop," said Thomas. "My O-line is amazing. I love standing behind them. All props go to my O-line. We didn't think this was gonna be a blow-by game at all, and we did what we had to do. The chemistry we built together, I love everybody on this team, and I'll do whatever it takes for them."

Later in the third quarter, Miller's interception set up another Becahi touchdown when Thomas completed two passes to Ellis-Lahey before Terry's six-yard run into the end zone.

On the first play of the fourth quarter, Miller took the ball 45 yards to the end zone on his second interception of the night.

"I love the pick-six," Miller said. "We came out here fighting, and we knew we could do this. We got embarrassed last year, so we wanted to keep going. We're brothers, and we're gonna fight for each other the whole year."

Coach Haas said that Miller, a senior, is a player who worked his way in.

"Good kid. I drive him to school every day because he's on my way, so we're pretty tight. Last year, he wasn't a starter in the beginning, worked real hard in the offseason, had to come back from a shoulder injury, and to have a game like that, I'm really proud of him," Haas said. "It certainly feels a lot better right now than it did for nine months after last year."

Hawks take on PMW

BY JEFF MOELLER
Special to the Press

On the surface, there appeared to be few flaws in Bethlehem Catholic's 35-7 victory at Whitehall last week.

Offensively, the Golden Hawks accumulated 344 yards, while defensively they limited Whitehall to 79 yards (7 yards rushing).

"Defensively, we played as well as you could play in week one," said Becahi head coach Kyle Haas. "If we can duplicate that for every week, we will be in a very good situation."

"Their quarterback threw some great balls, but we were right there to break them up."

Haas was pleased with the play of senior quarterback Luke Thomas, who made his first varsity start. Thomas completed 12 of 20 passes for 145 yards and rushed for 47 yards.

"I think he will get more and more confident," said the second-year head coach. "It was his first start since 10th grade. He has some pressure, and he'll look for things to improve upon."

"Offensively, we played well. We did have good field position all night as we had the ball inside their 50 (yard-line) four of our six possessions. We did leave some points on the field. There also were some things that we could have done better."

It also was a rewarding night for senior running back Rahmel Terry, who missed the entire 2021 season with a knee injury. Terry finished the game with 19 carries for 98 yards.

"He had a good game and came back well from his injury," stated Haas. "He ran extremely well. Terry can have a big year for us."

Haas admittedly didn't know what to expect from his club after a down 2-7 year last season. However, they didn't disappoint, and they will host Pocono Mountain West at Bethlehem Area School District Stadium Friday night.

"I didn't know what to expect," he said. I did have a good feeling, though, because of how we came together during the summer. When we won, I felt there was a huge weight off my shoulders since last November.

"We have to get better every week. We want to get revenge on Whitehall, but they are behind us now. It doesn't matter who we play. It comes down to being about us."

"But these guys bought into what we were telling them. This is a really close group, and more of a team this year. There is good chemistry, and a lot of good things can happen."

PREDICTION: Pocono Mountain West will come into BASD Stadium off a 50-8 loss at Northampton last Friday night ... The Panthers were held to 105 total yards, 22 on the ground ... The two teams met last year and the Golden Hawks delivered a 55-7 pummeling in the Poconos ... Haas expects PM West to play a lot of man-to-man and try to disrupt things ... "They will bring people. Whitehall had some success with that." ... Beca will look to go 2-0 for the first time since 2017 when they won their first six games on their way to a 12-3 season ... This looks like a perfect second game for the Golden Hawks. They can reassure themselves that they can compete in the always competitive East Penn Conference South Division, one Haas sees as a having "parity." ... Last week's win was huge to begin to restore the program, and this week can help to start cement that feeling ... Coach Haas will have to ship me a Whiz Kids' cheesesteak ... BECA, 38-7

Freedom's Dylan Boyle heads to the finish line at Moravian Academy's Lion Invitational on Aug. 26.

Boyle finishes fourth

BY KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tnonline.com

With 15 medals up for grabs and Palisades' Thomas Smigo claiming the first one early, time would tell where the rest of the pack would finish in the boys varsity race of the Lion Invitational last Friday at Moravian Academy.

Smigo crossed the finish line in 16:33.13, Northwestern Lehigh's Matthew Santana came in second, followed by Abington Heights' Tommy Walsh, who was third, and Freedom's Dylan Boyle, who came in fourth.

"My goal was to beat my last year's time, which I did, and then I was trying to get low 17s the whole time. That's all I wanted," said Boyle, a sophomore.

Boyle's time was 17:31.20.

"The sun came out of nowhere, and up that hill was crazy; it was pretty hot. But then the breeze came, and it felt a lot better," he said. "I was trying to stay with that top ten group the whole time, right behind them, on their tail, and then at the end, I just kicked it."

Freedom coach Bob Thear said Boyle ran a smart race.

"He was with that pack, there were three of them, and eventually they broke up, but he sort of piggy-backed off of them for awhile, which was good. Around the tree line was the two-mile mark, and the kids in front, their cadence looked a little slower, whereas Dylan, with that pack, it looked like they were fast," said Thear. "I'm thrilled with that."

Freedom senior Joe Bauer also won a medal, placing 14th.

"This was my first race, I guess, since sophomore year because junior year I was injured then too. It felt good to get back. I was more conservative today, trying to feel how my legs are. They felt really good," Bauer said. "The heat really got to me. That was the only thing. Other than that, I thought it was a good race, and I'm happy with my performance."

Bauer's time was 18:06.98.

"There was a pack in front of me, and I knew that was the pack I needed to get into to be top 15, so I stayed within striking distance. I think I paced it pretty good because a lot of those guys fell off," said Bauer. "I kicked really hard because my coach said I needed one more spot [to medal]. It turned out I didn't but..."

Coach Thear may have told Bauer a little white lie, but it was all for the greater good.

"I was afraid he would get complacent," Thear smiled. "He was attacking and picking people off, so I wanted him to stay in that mindset."

Others in the top 15 who received medals were Nazareth's Sean Gorman, Connor Murphy, and Adam Kollgaard, Abington Heights' Alex Duffy, Nick Booth, and Sean Rooney, Nazareth's Giovanni Mastroton, Jim Thorpe's Jordan Rempel, and Holy Ghost Prep's Papakojo Danquah and Ciaran Chambers.

Also from Bethlehem, Lehigh Valley Academy's Jared Bowen placed 20th with a time of 18:33.49, and Moravian Academy's Krish Gupta came in 24th with a time of 18:54.71.

"It was a nice one-two punch up front," said Thear, "so we'll see how the rest goes."

pull ahead 13-7, as the Freedom looked to be gaining control of the game.

However, with just over two minutes left before halftime, Freedom (0-1) failed to convert on 4th-and-long inside Emmaus territory, giving the Hornets a possession at their 34-yard line.

Emmaus used an up-tempo approach to move the ball 66-yards on six plays, capped off by Fotta diving in for a score with 11 seconds remaining. That extra point was blocked as well to send the game tied at 13 into halftime, but the late score was a punch to the stomach for the Pates.

have punted there," said Roeder of the decision to go for it late in the second quarter. "We had a look that we liked on that fourth down play, but in hindsight I should have punted."

Freedom's offense sputtered in the second half, starting with a pair of three-and-outs to open the third quarter. Emmaus took over from the Freedom 44-yard line late in the third quarter and ultimately used the field position to take the lead.

The Hornets ran off 11 plays and got the go-ahead score when quarterback Josiah Williams cashed in from a yard out to put Emmaus ahead 19-13 with 7:58 left in the fourth quarter.

Freedom would stall on their series in Emmaus territory and the Hornets would then lean on them in the closing minutes with their run game, eating up five minutes off the clock before punting back to the Pates with 50 seconds left and the ball at the Patriot 10-yard line.

It was too little too late and disappointing ending for the team after all the work going into a big season opener.

"We just got to get better at everything," Roeder said. "I know that's a generic answer, but we have a lot of work to do to correct the things that went wrong and only we can do that."

The Pates now look to rebound this Friday when they travel to Easton (0-1) to take on a Rovers squad that was embarrassed by Parkland last week during a 42-0 defeat.

Also from Bethlehem, Freedom senior Aubrey Yeager placed 33rd in 24:23.58, freshman teammate Amelia Holden placed 34th in 24:24.20, and Lehigh Valley Academy's Skyler Szulborski was 47th with a time of 25:36.00.

TACKETT HONORED BY LOCK HAVEN

The Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference (PSAC) released its scholar-athlete list for the 2021-22 academic year.

Chase Tackett, of Bethlehem, a member of the Men's Soccer team, is among the 169 Bald Eagles who joined with 4,144 student-athletes from the league's 18 institutions who were named to the list.

In order to be eligible, the 2021-22 student-athletes must have maintained a cumulative GPA of at least 3.25 upon completion of the academic year.

The 169 total Bald Eagles making the list is the second-highest total for Lock Haven, just marginally short of the 171 set in 2020-21.

'To touch the Ukrainian heart'

Valley resident donates homemade quilt

BY M.J. KORSACK
Special to The Press

Nancy Schaadt, longtime resident of Fellowship Community in Whitehall, has created a quilt in honor of the Ukrainian people that will be put on display at the Ukrainian Embassy in Washington, D.C., until it can safely go to its permanent home in Kiev.

The quilt, which had been on display at Fellowship Community, will be delivered to Washington this month.

Schaadt, 85, who has no ties to Ukraine other than a great sympathy for its people and their struggle, spent four months on the project, searching embroidery designs and fabrics, "auditioning" and choosing fabrics, piecing, stitching and sewing on crystals.

The result is an intricate piece of art full of incredible detail and symbolism – a true gift from the heart.

Schaadt offered a cohesive explanation of some of that symbolism and the thought processes behind her design decisions.

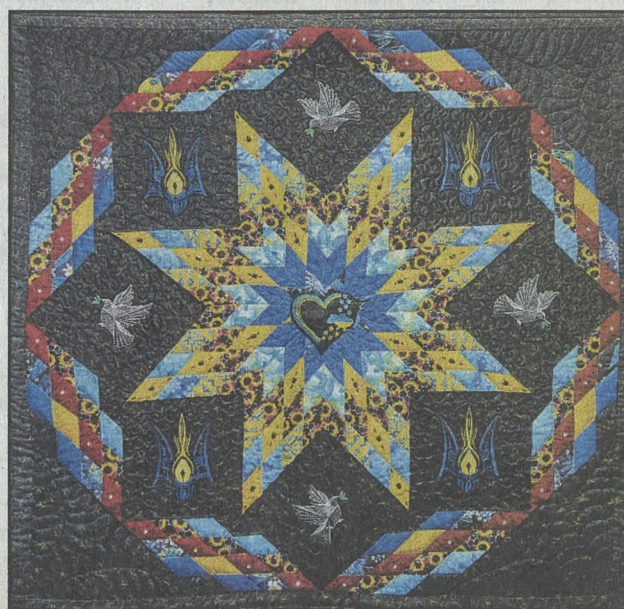

"The intent of the quilt is to honor the Ukrainian people and to pay tribute to their fight for freedom and independence," Schaadt said. "I started with a design which can be looked at from eight different ways, which was deliberate. The center of the design would be the emblem of Ukraine, which is in the middle in a heart. Now the heart is basically where we begin. The love of their country."

She reported including the national colors of the country with blue and yellow. She also added doves to symbolize peace.

"I wanted to do something that would encompass the beauty of the country, and I decided on the sunflowers, which are the national flower of Ukraine, along with some poppies," Schaadt said. "I looked everywhere for the right sunflowers, and these sunflowers have a black background, which is exactly what I was aiming for in this whole design."

She included approximately 142 red crystals to add a little something extra to the design. She also opted for a traditionally Eastern European embroidery design.

"Now we have to have war," she said, "and war comes in from all sides, which was the point of doing the star design, but it starts with the introduction of a weapon. I tried to find a stone that looked like a weapon, which was frankly, hard to find. So this bullet-shaped crystal is your weapon. The red of the stone changes from the lovely circles of the sunflower and moves now into a teardrop, which is to indicate bloodshed."

She noted the black coloring is used to indicate death as a result of the war to honor those who lost their lives. The red diamonds also include a star crystal to represent the souls of those who died.

"Now we have the designs in the black. There's the dove for peace and the trident, which is the national emblem of Ukraine," Schaadt reported. "It goes way back into early Christendom and symbolizes the Holy Trinity."

She noted wanting to use Ukrainian designers in the fabric and embroidery work. She said the design she got from the Ukrainian designer See HEART on Page A15

Gov. Wolf welcomes Passport to History

BY ED COURRIER
Special to the Bethlehem Press

There were five weekends in July where select local historic sites offered free admission during the Lehigh Valley Passport to History's 2022 flagship event, Passport to History Month.

As one of more than 36 participating historic organizations and museums, the Governor Wolf Historical Society welcomed visitors to three historic buildings at 6600 Jacksonville Road, Bath on July 16.

Members of the public toured the one-room Wolf Academy built by George Wolf in 1785 before he became Pennsylvania's seventh governor. Visitors trekked through the circa 1795 Ralston-McKeen Georgian-style limestone house and the three-room Monocacy School that serves as the society's headquarters.

Mike Carchidi, Debra and Mark Gradle and Brian Ferencin go through test and tune practice at R/C Drags @ the Steel June 18, the first race of Racers Edge R/C Drag Racing at ArtsQuest's SteelStacks. Ferencin said racers like that the venue is in the heart of the history of Bethlehem Steel, as races are run in front of what used to be the second machine shop.

R/C racers find a home

'It was a long, drawn out process due to insurance regulations and people not wanting racing in their neighborhood'

BY TAMI QUIGLEY
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Racers Edge R/C Drag Racing recently hit the road for its initial race at ArtsQuest's SteelStacks.

Racers revved up for the June event, billed as R/C Drags @ the Steel, beginning with practice, heat racing and eliminations. Racing ran from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Racers' Edge organizer Brian Ferencin explained there are preheats - when all cars start together - qualifications and finals. A one-hour break between heats allows drivers to change tires with changing conditions, such as when the asphalt warms from the morning to the afternoon.

Cars are "driven" via a hand-held remote. When the car begins the race, the wheelie bar on the back puts the car up on its rear wheels, then the front wheels come down. The winner is determined by the timing system.

Ferencin has been into R/C since 1989 and has two cars of his own: a 1969 Camaro Street Eliminator car (faster class car) and 1968 Chevy Nova Street Stock car (slower class car).

The event drew racers from near and far.

"I'm just a big boy at heart. I love doing this," said Mark Gradle of Montgomeryville. He said he started R/C drag racing during the COVID pandemic.

"It's good social distancing," he explained. Gradle began with one car and now has 14. He said he saw Ferencin's invite online and decided to participate. His wife Debra - who said she is his "pit crew" - assists her husband by making sure the cars' batteries are charged and by cleaning tires and race bodies. She also held the remote for the start light during test and tune practices, during which racers can make adjustments on their drag cars' shocks and tires.

Mike Carchidi of Delaware County saw information on the event on Facebook and decided to participate.

"Saturday is the only day I have to do this, so I thought I'd take a ride," Carchidi said of making the trip to Bethlehem.

Ferencin encouraged racers to bring their wives and kids.

"It's fun for the whole family," he said, noting that wives and kids could enjoy the activities going on at ArtsQuest and sample the eateries on Third Street if they wished during the races.

The club welcomes members ages 12 through adult. A minimal $10 fee per racer goes to support the club and the upkeep of the timing system, which will eventually need to be updated. In time, a purse and plaques will be awarded at the races. Every driver will have his or her own set of points.

Ferencin had planned to run races two Saturdays a month, but after only single day of racing at SteelStacks, ArtsQuest and Wind Creek officials weren't sure if racing should continue, and if it did, where it should continue. Eventually, the race club and property owners came to an agreement and the races are continuing, but it's been a long and winding road for Ferencin to find a venue to hold races for his drag racing club.

"It was a long, drawn out process due to insurance regulations and people not wanting racing in their neighborhood," Ferencin said.

Last year, Ferencin hoped to secure a home for 2022 racing with the parking lot and other facilities at Dodson Street Ballfield in Fountain Hill; however, neighbors complained they didn't want any type of drag racing in the ballpark so that plan fell through in May 2021.

Then in November, Ferencin secured a bigger venue for races, the Chrin Community Center in Palmer Township. The thought was to have two race locations the first year, running smaller races in Fountain Hill and larger ones at Chrin.

"Chrin Community Center just did not work out simply because of the cost of the rental space and the center's staff members, who would have had to work during my event," Ferencin said. "It was not feasible moneywise for me, so even though I had permission, I kindly backed out for those reasons."

Ferencin had pre-approval from Salisbury Township, but its recreation board denied his request June 1.

"Residents in the area simply did not want the out of area racers in their neighborhood, and Salisbury Township was unwilling to open their onsite restrooms for the day of racing, and said I have no liability insurance as well."

"I asked ArtsQuest on a prayer," he said. "I was prepared for a 'no' right away, but the person in charge of property listened to me. I showed him one of the cars and explained how it is powered, and he said yes."

On a trial basis, Ferencin was given space in a back parking lot at SteelStacks, away from everything, so the racing would not hinder other events in any way. Ferencin knew the number of racers coming would be small, and the cars themselves make minimal noise. ArtsQuest asked for a small donation and he was happy to oblige. After bouncing around to various parking lot locations in the SteelStacks/Wind Creek complex, Racers Edge has a home in a lot owned by the Steelworkers Archive and leased to ArtsQuest.

While a racing site has been secured, the fall schedule is far less certain.

"I have to check with the New Jersey drag clubs to make sure they're not racing," Ferencin said. "I have to make sure those dates are open, otherwise I won't get the racer turnout."

"I am planning a few big Halloween races in October," he says. "I have to run my SteelStacks club races on open dates until I am off probation with the National No Prep Drag Race Commission."

"When I get my track venue certification from NPDR, things will way better next year," he said, "but these are the growing pains of a start-up drag club."

Ferencin has been looking for volunteers to help on race day or come out and see what it's all about.

For more information visit Ferencin's Facebook page at facebook.com/brian.ferencin.7.

Mike Carchidi readies his car, an Apollo chassis with Camaro body, for the inaugural race.

Debra Gradle shows Brian Ferencin her La Trax Traxxas, a 1/16th scale model which she named "Pink Thunder." Though she didn't participate in the race, she brought it to take some spins around the track for fun.

Spreading a little kindness

PRESS PHOTO COURTESY CHESTERBROOK ACADEMY

Chesterbrook Academy Preschool on Emrick Boulevard summer campers held a lemonade stand which raised more than $1,200 to benefit Alex's Lemonade Stand Foundation (ASLF), a national childhood cancer foundation dedicated to funding impactful research, raising awareness, supporting families and empowering everyone to help cure childhood cancer. Summer campers at Chesterbrook Academy Preschool on High Point Boulevard created more than 39 wellness bags for Lehigh Valley Children's Hospital, which included activity books, markers, colored pencils, drawing books, puzzles, playdough and much more to help brighten cancer patients' days. Through these initiatives, campers learned the importance of spreading kindness and helping those in need.

had praying hands.

Additionally, she wanted the doves to be ethereal, so they are dimensional with a see-through effect.

"To encompass the whole feeling, we go right back to the middle, which is the heart," Schaadt explained.

This section includes blue and yellow stars with a sparkle to honor the Ukrainian people's fight for liberty and freedom.

Schaadt explained that Lou Schrammel, a veteran who also lives at Fellowship Community, did the embroidery work. He reportedly spent his whole life doing sewing work.

Schrammel got a brand new embroidery machine, and Schaadt thought this was a wonderful way to try out the new machine. She hunted up the embroidery designs online, downloaded them to the machine and feels they turned out "magnificently," she said.

The long-arm quilting was done by Dotty Custer, of Topton. They had previously worked together on another of Schaadt's projects.

"We chose to do three layers of batting to give it this incredible dimension," Schaadt said. "The whole thing is to honor these people who are so brave in their fight, and when they look at it, I hope they understand that America has great respect for what their fight is all about."

Schaadt began quilting after she retired from teaching vocal music at Emmaus Junior High School.

"I wanted to do something completely different, to reinvent myself," she said.

She knew she loved the feel of fabrics. When she saw a church bulletin offering beginner quilting classes, she went.

"I never even threaded a needle until I was 60," she said, but reported she fell in love with the process.

She noted she found many of the designs boring, so she started coming up with her own designs.

"That's when I found my joy. That's the part you can control," she added.

She spoke animatedly about how form, repetition and motif are used in both music composition and art and how the transition from music to art was very easy for her. She said she loves the "thrill of the chase" when using the Internet to track down the right fabrics and spending hours thinking about and trying out new designs.

"You don't have much time to socialize when you're always working on something in your head," Schaadt said. "You've got to find your passion."

She's made more than 100 quilts, some of which adorn her home or have been given to family. Most have been donated.

"One of the original thoughts about donating the Ukrainian quilt was that it should go to a Ukrainian College of Art or something, but it doesn't belong to the students — it belongs to the people," Schaadt said. "You can give people money and all kinds of things, but art is something that stays in your heart. I wanted this to touch the Ukrainian heart."

SOCIAL SECURITY MATTERS

Will claiming early affect wife's survivor benefit?

Editor's Note: After a long career in the data processing industry, Russell Gloor joined the Association of Mature American Citizens in 2013. Gloor received training from the National Social Security Association and was accredited by the NSSA® as a Social Security adviser in 2016. Currently part of the AMAC Foundation's Social Security Advisory team, he annually counsels thousands of American seniors about their Social Security options. In addition to answering Social Security questions daily, he also authors the AMAC Foundation's nationally syndicated weekly "Ask Rusty" advice column and has written three instructional books about Social Security.

Dear Rusty: My wife will be turning 62 and eligible to collect

Social Security this year. We realize it will be a reduced amount. I am 52 and have been the sole income earner for most of the last 20 years. We also have an adopted son who will be turning 14 this year. We realize he will receive a dependent benefit until he turns 18 and this may make the case for filing early. I am confused about widow benefits

- will my wife's early filing affect her widow's benefit amount?
Signed: Confused Husband

Dear Confused Husband: When your wife claims her own Social Security retirement benefit (e.g., at 62) will have no effect on the benefit available to her as your widow. The only thing that would affect her survivor benefit as your widow is her age when she claims it. Claimed before her full retirement age, her survivor benefit would be reduced, but claimed at or after her full retirement age, your wife's survivor benefit as your widow will be 100 percent of the amount you were receiving (or, if you are not yet collecting, the amount you were entitled to receive) at your death. Your wife would get that amount, instead of her smaller personal amount.

However, for your awareness, your wife's spousal benefit while you are both living (which she can claim when you start your own Social Security benefit) will be less than half of your full retirement age benefit amount because she claimed her own Social Security retirement benefit at age 62. The reason is that your wife's benefit as your spouse when you claim will consist of her own reduced Social Security retirement benefit, plus a spousal boost to bring her payment up to her spousal entitlement. Since her spousal boost will be added to her own reduced early benefit, her total payment as your spouse will be less than 50 percent of your full retirement age benefit amount.

If your wife claims her own Social Security retirement benefit at age 62, she can also apply for your adopted minor son's benefits based on her personal lifetime work record. Although your wife's personal early benefit will be cut (by 30 percent) for claiming at age 62, your son's benefit as your wife's minor child will be based on your wife's full retirement age benefit amount. Your son's benefit from your wife will be 50 percent of your wife's full retirement age amount (not her age 62 amount). As you know, your son will get that amount until he is 18 (or 19 if he is still in high school).

Fair is in the air

2022 Great Allentown Fair intended to be good, safe fun

BY PAUL WILLISTEIN
pwillistein@tronline.com

Culinary contests: Page B6
The Fair is in the air.

No one could be happier than Jessica Ciecwisz, Marketing and Entertainment Manager for the Great Allentown Fair.

Fair organizers tout this year's 170th-anniversary event as "The Great Allentown Fair Lights it Up!"

If you drive past the Allentown Fairgrounds at night, you'll see the illuminated cupola atop the Grandstand.

It's a light in the darkness not only for the Allentown Fair, one of the Top 50 fairs in the United States, but for arts and entertainment events across the Lehigh Valley and around the nation.

With the Centers For Disease Control and Prevention streamlining COVID-19 guidelines, Ciecwisz and officials of the Allentown Fair and Lehigh County Agricultural Society, which produces the Fair and owns the Allentown Fairgrounds where it's presented, are eager and ready to welcome back Fair-goers for the 2022 edition, Aug. 31-Sept. 5.

The Allentown Fair was not held in 2020 because of the coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic shutdown. It is believed to be only the seventh time that the Allentown Fair was not held since its founding in 1852.

The Allentown Fair was not held in 1917 and 1918 during World War I when the Allentown Fairgrounds was converted to Camp Crane, a training facility for the United States Army Ambulance Service. The Fair was not held 1942, 1943, 1944 and 1945 during World War II.

While in-person COVID restrictions of the 2021 Fair are gone, a dominoes effect, of sorts, impacted the 2022 Fair Grandstand shows.

"The biggest thing that we've seen with the effect of COVID is booking the talent for the Grandstand," says Ciecwisz.

"Some people had so many rescheduled dates that it still affected this summer.

"There would be offers that we put out and they would just go away based on the artist not wanting to go out or based on the artist going on another tour with different acts.

"They had outstanding commitments for over two years that kept getting rescheduled that affected summer routing this year.

"It affected not having all six days filled," Ciecwisz says. The Fairgrounds Grandstand is booked four of the six days of the 2022 Fair.

Ciecwisz is looking to the next two Fairs for Grandstand shows.

"We're in the process for 2023 and 2024. Before the Fair ends, we're usually in the process of booking for next year."

The Allentown Fair began working with Live Nation in 2019 to book the Grandstand. "They're the ones who come to us with the list and we submit the offer and work together with them," Ciecwisz says.

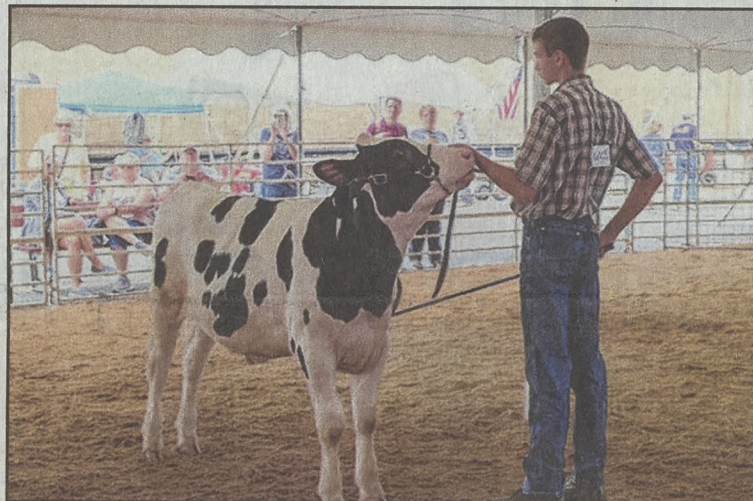

The Allentown Fair typically draws 5,000-plus entries for its contests in the Agri-Plex and 650 farm animals for judging under the big tent on the Fairgrounds' west side.

"Our numbers were different from previous years because of getting a late start because of COVID in 2021," said Ciecwisz.

"This year, it looks like the numbers and entries are on par to what pre-COVID numbers were."

A fun part of the Allentown Fair are the Midway rides and attractions.

"In 2021, Powers Great American Midways debuted a full LED ferris-wheel that pretty much was a full light show in itself. It will be back for this year," says Ciecwisz.

"There was supposed to be a new taxi ride, but it's still being shipped over from abroad. If it arrives, it will be here. It's on a boat right now. It was supposed to come in June," says Ciecwisz, citing supply-chain problems.

The Allentown Fair is being impacted by the 8 percent annual inflation of the past year or so.

"We're being affected by inflation as anyone. Our vendors set food prices," Ciecwisz says.

"We have 11 brand-new food concessionaires who will be here this year.

"There are 12 new Fair foods. Daryl G. Urmy [President, Lehigh County Agricultural Society] challenges each concessionaire to come up with something.

"You can go in and try them and vote and we award a winner at the end of the Fair.

"Bissinger's do their typical apple and peach dumplings. This year, they will be adding a combination peach-raspberry dumpling."

One of the concessionaires will be a surprise of sorts and also an old favorite.

"The Brass Rail will be on-site this year," says Ciecwisz. The Brass Rail closed its Lehigh Street restaurant in June. The Brass Rail has had a stand at the Fair for years.

As with many public gatherings, security is more of a concern that ever, including at the Allentown Fair, which has a new security protocol.

"For this year, what we'll be implementing is metal detectors at all of our pedestrian gates," Ciecwisz says.

There will also be metal detectors for those who park their vehicles in the Fairgrounds infield.

There will be two entrance areas, one in the vicinity of the MainGate, and one in the Agri-Plex area, where individuals who park vehicles, must go through.

"The nice thing is, we're a 46-acre facility that's easy to implement," says Ciecwisz.

The metal detectors will be two columns, of from 34-inches to 37-inches-high.

"The wand and checking of bags will continue at entrances to Grandstand concerts."

The Allentown Fair policy for items not allowed on the Fairgrounds continues.

"Our policy on prohibited items has not changed. And that can be found on our website under FAQ [Frequently Asked Questions]," says Ciecwisz.

The price of admission to the Allentown Fair includes lots of entertainment for which there are no extra charges. The Grandstand concerts have a separate admission price. There are charges for the Midway rides and games of chance.

Entertainment for which there is no extra charge includes:

The Astound Broadband Farmerama Theater - "The Puppy Pals Comedic Stunt Dog Show," "Squawk! The Amazing Bird Show." They competed on NBC-TV's "America's Got Talent." The 2022 Fair Queen Contest and Coronation is Opening Night, Aug. 31.

Machinery Avenue Court - "Robinson's Pig Paddling Porkers," the racing pigs

Agri-Land - Cows, pigs, sheep, goats, rabbits and more. The Judging Tent is where livestock is judged, and Barnyard Olympics, Hay-Bale Throwing and the Lehigh County 4-H livestock sale take place. At the Lil' Farm Hands activity tent, there's the 4-H Barnyard Zoo and Pedal Push Tractor Pull.

Harvest Patio, Agri-Plex Square - The One Wheel Wonder, Magic on the Farm

Agri-Plex - More than 5,000 items are judged and on display. There are demonstrations and interactive contests. The Centennial Stage has contests for children and a Mother-Daughter-Father-Son Look-A-Like Contest. There are Farm to Table chef demonstrations and culinary tips. Local chefs compete in the Iron Chef Competition.

East End - At the MainGate Court, there's the "Flying Wallenda" family circus-themed show. The MainGate will have concerts by Boondock Barons, The Cherrybombs, Scott Marshall

IMPORTANT!
If a piece of litter at your school looks like dangerous trash (broken glass, a needle, bandage, etc.) DON'T pick it up, but DO tell an adult on campus about it.

LET'S STOP LITTERING!

Hi, Kids!

You know me - I'm your friend, Earth. And there's something that really makes me sick. It's called LITTER!

Litter is stuff that should have been thrown into a garbage can or recycle bin, but is just dropped on the ground instead.

Litter causes all kinds of problems. It can clog up storm drains and cause flooding or pollute the waterways that are fed by storm drains. Some litter is dangerous, like broken glass and cans with jagged edges. And litter is ugly. When it's around your school or community, it looks like people just don't care about where they live.

Your friend, Earth

Litter Statistics

Kevin's class picked up litter at the park. He made a chart showing the percentages of the kinds of litter they found. Use the chart to answer these questions:

- What was the most common litter item found?
 fast food waste plastic paper
- Was there more glass or plastic in the litter?
 glass plastic
- What percentage of litter was plastic and paper combined?

The tables can turn when out for dinner

Dear Jacquelyn,
I was out to dinner with my husband and after we were seated, I quickly realized I was seated under the air conditioner and right under a music speaker. I asked our server if we could switch to a different table. She moved us to another table but seemed annoyed. Is it bad manners to ask for a different table when you've already been seated?

Dear Reader,
Sometimes it's OK. Sometimes, it's not. The most common restaurant protocol calls for a server to check with the host or hostess to see if tables are reserved.

RESPECTFULLY YOURS
By Jacquelyn Youst

If you're dining during peak hours, you may not be able to switch tables. Consider this a lesson learned and make the best of the situation.

If the restaurant is fairly empty, your server will likely accommodate your request.

When the problem is with heating-cooling or loud music, begin by asking your server if settings can be adjusted. You may be fortunate and have a server that is able to solve the problem without having you move to a different table.

A server is less likely to become annoyed if you are friendly, not critical. You're less likely to come across as rude if you keep your tone courteous and positive.

You might try asking, "Are there any other tables available? It's a bit chilly over here." Or you could ask, "Would you mind if we had a table further away from the speakers?" You should always ask in a polite way and thank the server.

Dining out is not only about the food, ambiance is equally as important.

For those times when you have a less than ideal table, focus on your dinner companion and do your best to ignore minor inconveniences.

Respectfully Yours,
Jacquelyn

Are we ever too old to change?

This week I had the pleasure of spending some time with one of the women I most admire.

Time with her is a rarity because she's involved in several charities and in so many humanitarian projects. One of the things I most admire about her is how she can turn any spontaneous encounter into a chance to help someone.

That happened again as she was sitting on a church bench when a scruffy-looking guy flopped down on the bench. He looked like the kind of guy some people might ignore, but Bonnie gave him her trademark life-is-good grin.

I don't know how she does it but she soon had the guy opening up about his troubles. When he said he needed a job, Bonnie just could have reminded him dozens of places are in need of employees.

Instead, she listened to his background then drove him to a small diner her friend owned. The guy was hired as a waiter after he agreed to get a haircut.

Most people would have been afraid to get involved. Not Bonnie. If there's a need, she fills it. She even convinced him to go back to his church.

I'm a bit in awe at how she can turn a few minutes sitting on a park bench into a positive experience with a stranger.

But that's Bonnie. She did take me by surprise when she said she "was not the person she used to be."

"I've changed in significant ways," she said.

I didn't see anything "wrong" with how she used to be, but Bonnie insisted she was getting too self-centered.

When a volunteer project she worked on was turned down after she spent weeks on it, Bonnie said she cried.

"I made it all about me, not about what is best for the project," she said.

Coincidentally, my daughter Andrea and I just had a conversation about things we are trying to change.

I commented that at my age I would have thought I had it all down pat. Ha! I keep finding things I need to work on. And, trust me, I do exactly that.

I don't just say oh I have to get better at something in particular. Instead when I realize there is something important I need to change, I make it my project.

For the past few months, I've been working on refraining from telling people what they "should do."

I confess the people that most applies to are my two daughters.

Maybe it's a habit from their childhood when I'm sure I often tried to direct them to what they "should" do.

But once they've grown up into incredibly smart daughters, I don't need to tell them what they should do.

I don't need to, but

WARMEST REGARDS
By Pattie Mihalik
newsgirl@comcast.net

that doesn't stop me.

I think I told you before about our remarkable church pastor who told us he had a guaranteed way to make our lives better. We were on a church retreat so he had our undivided attention as he promised to give us a surefire way to a happier life.

Are you ready to write this down? I'm giving you the guaranteed formula to wipe out stress from your life and make you a happier person, he said.

I waited with pen and notebook for him to share the secret to a better life.

This was it: Stop telling people what they should or should not do.

He said too many of us have the idea that we know best ... if others would just listen to us.

Well, I don't usually try to tell those outside my family what to do, and I certainly don't try that with my husband.

Instead, I might start a conversation by saying, "I know you're a smart person and you certainly don't need me to tell you ... (fill in the blank)"

If I acknowledge he doesn't need me telling him something he doesn't mind if I say it. He doesn't listen to me, but he doesn't mind.

My daughters, on the other hand, do mind. That's probably because I used to do it too often.

After my daughters and I had a serious conversation about how all three of us err in trying to tell others what to do, we made a big effort to change.

I can tell you in all honesty that after trying for months to stop saying they should or shouldn't do something, I just about have beaten that bad habit.

There are other bad habits and behaviors I need to change. Right now, my big effort is trying to stop worrying about what "might" happen.

If it isn't hitting me on the head right now, I'm not going to worry about it.

In fact, my whole emphasis this year has been trying to worry less.

Those who follow my column know it's true that I worry too much.

I'm finding it is possible to do less of that by changing my attitude. But it isn't easy.

Are we ever too old to change? Absolutely not.

I don't want to just get older. I want to get better ... better at making the most of my time on earth.

That includes trying to be a better me by weeding out bad habits when they creep up.

There's a television commercial that says, "You're not getting older ... you're getting better."

Well, that's the plan. Contact Pattie Mihalik at newsgirl@comcast.net.

Low blood pressure may cause dizziness

Q. I usually get a bit light-headed when I stand, but this feeling is much worse when I get up from the dinner table. I don't drink. Any ideas?

There's a possibility you have "postprandial hypotension," or, in layman's language, low blood pressure after a meal. This is a senior malady. Few younger people experience this.

Other possible symptoms include dizziness, blurred vision, nausea and fainting.

I recommend that you go to a doctor to have your symptoms checked.

When you eat, blood pours into your digestive system. To maintain your blood pressure, your heart pumps more often and your blood vessels constrict. But these compensatory mechanisms don't work for some people.

To help prevent postprandial hypotension, eat small portions several times a day and limit high-carbohydrate foods such as potatoes, rice, pasta and bread.

There's another form of low blood pressure called "postural hypotension" that affects some people when they stand up. It's also called "orthostatic hypotension." This is especially common in older adults

HEALTHY GEEZER
By Fred Cicetti
fred@healthygeezers.com

who are more likely to use high blood pressure drugs. When you experience postural hypotension, blood pools in your legs.

Low blood pressure is commonly caused by drugs for high blood pressure, surgical medications, anti-anxiety agents, diuretics, heart medicines, antidepressants, narcotic painkillers and alcohol.

Other causes of low blood pressure include dehydration, heart failure, heart arrhythmias, shock from infection, stroke, severe allergic reaction, major trauma, heart attack and advanced diabetes.

The effects of hypotension can lead to falls, which can be serious for seniors. Here are some pointers for avoiding the dangers of low blood pressure.

When arising, let your feet hang over the side of your bed. Then flex your toes up and down about a dozen times. Stand up slowly. Count to 10 before you start walking. This is a good idea whenever you get up from lying or sitting for more than 20 minutes. Crossing your legs while sitting upright may also help increase blood pressure.

Some experts define low blood pressure as readings lower than 90 systolic (the first number) or 60 diastolic (the second number). However, low blood pressure is relative, so doctors often define blood pressure as too low only if there are symptoms.

In many instances, low blood pressure isn't serious. However, it is important to see your doctor if you have hypotension symptoms, because they sometimes can point to serious problems.

Chronic low blood pressure may increase the risk of Alzheimer's-type dementia in some older adults.

Low blood pressure without symptoms rarely requires treatment. In symptomatic cases, doctors address the primary problems such as heart failure. When hypotension is drug-induced, treatment usually involves altering the drug regimen.

It is possible to raise blood pressure when that is required. Here are some ways:

Eating more salt. However, too much sodium can cause heart failure, especially among seniors.

Don't increase your salt intake without consulting with your doctor.

Drink more water. Fluids increase blood volume and help prevent dehydration.

Compression stockings used to treat varicose veins may help reduce the pooling of blood in your legs.

There are also medications that your doctor may prescribe.

Vacation Bible School goes 'down under'

PRESS PHOTOS BY MARY PATRICIA FLETCHER

Concordia Lutheran Church, 2623 Brookside Road, recently hosted the Vacation Bible School program "Zoomerang." ABOVE: More than 60 children and 30 youth and adult volunteers join the adventure of summer fun down under. Donations supported the mission project Bright Hope Pregnancy Support Center.

Jillian Schultz and Avery Ehrenreich finish their picture frames. Each child received a picture of themselves to put in the frame at the end of the week.

Leonard Cohen, "Hallelujah: Leonard Cohen, a Journey, a Song."

'Hallelujah' for Cohen

"Now I've heard there was a secret chord That David played, and it pleased the Lord" - "Hallelujah," Leonard Cohen

"Hallelujah" is the best Bob Dylan song Bob Dylan never wrote.

"Hallelujah" was written by Leonard Cohen (1934 - 2016), legendary and revered Canadian singer-songwriter-poet-author and subject of the extraordinary documentary film, "Hallelujah: Leonard Cohen, a Journey, a Song."

Cohen is also known for writing and singing the songs, "Suzanne," "Bird on a Wire," "I'm Your Man" and "Everybody Knows," among many others.

The dramatic, humorous and poignant film utilizes Cohen's song, "Hallelujah," as a touchstone to analyze its genesis, evolution and emergence in American pop culture and its place in the zeitgeist.

Look for an Oscar documentary feature nomination.

The film tells a good bit, but by no means all, about the enigmatic Cohen, a troubled yet joyous Talmudic troubadour.

And, yes, Bob Dylan makes an appearance in the film. He was the first to perform "Hallelujah" in concert in 1988.

A whole host, to quote a cliché, of singers, musicians, producers and journalists weigh in on "Hallelujah," starting with Judy Collins, who introduced Cohen in his first public concert.

AT THE MOVIES

By Paul Willistein
pwillistein@tronline.com

Interviewees include Brandi Carlile, Rufus Wainwright, Eric Church, producers Hal Willner and John Lissauer and journalist Larry Sloman.

The good and the bad is discussed, including Cohen's ill-fated album, "Death of a Ladies Man" (1977), produced by Phil Spector.

In ways obscure and obvious, Cohen (Hebrew: כּוֹהֵן, kōhēn, priest), is an Elijah for the Information Age. He was born into an Orthodox Jewish family in Quebec. His Lithuanian mother was a daughter of a Talmudic writer and rabbi.

The mix of the sacred and the secular is one of the through-lines in "A Journey, a Song." Do you prefer the John Cale version of "Hallelujah," which combined the distaff sides? Or do you prefer other, more spiritual versions of the song?

The song initially found itself without a release when Columbia Records refused to release "Various Positions" (1984), which contained Cohen's original recording of "Hallelujah."

Versions of "Hallelujah" by John Cale (1991), Jeff Buckley (1994), its use on the "Shrek" (2001) movie soundtrack, versions by Rufus Wainwright (2003) and k.d. lang (2004), and its popularity on "American Idol" (2008) and "The X Factor" (2008) propelled the song into the pantheon of songs. An estimated 300 versions have been recorded. Cohen's own version didn't reach the Billboard charts until after his death.

In the film, Cohen says it took him five years to write the song, which has anywhere from 80 verses to 150 verses.

According to the Leonard Cohen website, the film was approved by Cohen before his 80th birthday in 2014.

The website states that the film includes "never-before-seen archival materials from the Cohen Trust including Cohen's personal notebooks, journals and photographs, performance footage, and extremely rare audio recordings and interviews."

Interviews with two key individuals serve as two other through-lines for the film: John Lissauer, who produced the original version of "Hallelujah," and Larry Sloman, a journalist who was Cohen's Boswell.

Ultimately, the through-line is Leonard Cohen, including his five years of isolation in a Zen monastery atop Mt. Baldy near Los Angeles, and the song itself, which emerges in full flight to soar the airwaves and concert stages.

The film, directed by Daniel Geller and Dayna Goldfine (co-directors, "The Galapagos Affair; Satan Came to Eden," 2011: "Ballets Russes," 2005; "Frosh: Nine Months in a Freshman Dorm," 1995), is a moving testament to the conflicts of creative genius.

The word, hallelujah, is a call to praise from two Hebrew words, h lal and y h, translated as "Praise ye the Lord" or "Praise Yahweh."

Secular and saintly, "Hallelujah: Leonard Cohen, a Journey, a Song," is a praiseworthy film about a praiseworthy man and a praiseworthy quest.

The film is a must-see for fans of Leonard Cohen, and musicians, singer-songwriters, poets and creative types.

"Hallelujah: Leonard Cohen, a Journey, a Song," MPAA Rated PG-13 (Parents Strongly Cautioned. Some material may be inappropriate for children under 13.) for brief strong language and some sexual material; Genre: Documentary, Biography, Music; Run time: 1 hour, 58 minutes. Distributed by Sony Pictures Classics.

Band, The Joes, DJ Menace and Grup De' Ahora.

The Allentown Fair seems to have something for everyone.

The Fair concludes Labor Day Sept. 5 with the thunderous annual J&J Demolition Derby.

There's a prelude to that on the Fairgrounds racetrack.

"Kids bring their Power Wheels and they put balloons on all four sides and who's left with the most unpoped wins," says Ciecwisz. Those who want to enter can do so on the website <http://www.jandjdemo.com>

At the Agri-Plex, the popular Iron Chef Competition has been expanded.

"This year, there's a three-day Iron Chef Competition. The preliminaries start on Friday and the finals are on Sunday."

There's a new contest in the Agri-Plex.

"A new thing is that on Friday we're having our first bid-calling competition. Licensed auctioneers will compete at 7 p.m. Sept. 2.

"It's a real live auction of items that people can purchase. We're looking for people to be audience members to bid," says Ciecwisz.

"One thing that we brought back is 'The Grape Stomp.' It's at 3:15 p.m. Sept. 3 on the Centennial Stage. And the mayor [Allentown Mayor Matt Tuerk] is competing on the Movers and Shakers Team. I know he's a runner, so I'm expecting him to be pretty good."

LHS trending up in Daignault's year two

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

It's a fresh start for Liberty's football team this season. After taking their lumps in a 1-9 season a year ago, head coach Shawn Daignault enters his second year at the helm and hopes the results will follow his group.

"It's a lot different because everyone knows what to expect," Daignault said. "We had a great offseason. I think we closed the weight room gap we had with the other teams in the league and we're a lot bigger and stronger. I'm confident in that. Now we just need them to prepare better for Friday nights compared to last season and I think you'll see that."

Back in the fold for the Hurricanes are: Karim Brice (WR/DB, Sr.), Nico Sciarra (WR/OLB, Sr.) Jordan Bartholomew (OL/DL, Sr.), Jelani Leslie (OL/DL, Sr.), Tommy Mason (QB, Sr.), Siddiq Small (LB/FB, Sr.) and Kole Zellner (TE, Sr.).

Newcomers who should be contributors include: Isaiah Osorio (Safety/RB), Guillaume Lumbayi (LB/RB), Anthony Askerneese (CB/WR), Quinton Morton (DB/RB), Silas Lisco (LB/TE), Julius Vasquez (OL), Isaiah Huskey (DL/OL), Jai Griffin (DL), Delvin Rodriguez (OL/DL), Nate Abboud (LB/RB), Jake Pukczyn (WR/DB), Chase Barlock (DB/WR), Dylan Benway (DE) and Daunte Morrison (DE).

"We should take steps in a positive direction," said Daignault. "This group of kids has really bought into changing our culture and have done the work."

Patriots are once again the team to beat

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Freedom football is no stranger to expectations and the Patriots will have plenty of them heading into the 2022 season. Coming off a district championship campaign a year ago, the Patriots are set to defend their title, coming into the season ranked fifth in the state.

They'll need to live up to that billing with a cast of new players that can hopefully take every team's best shot this season.

QB), Rashawn Nicholas (Sr., NG), John Roeder (Sr., TE/LB), Alexie Sangster (Sr., WR/DB), Prajeet Santra (Sr., K), Vinnie Slepetz (Sr., DB), Connor Stofanek (Sr., WR/DB), Brayden Curry (Jr., G/LB) and Sam Neuffer (Jr., TE/LB).

Newcomers that head coach Jason Roeder will be relying upon are Angel Alamo (Sr., RB/LB), Ben Isaac Joseph (Sr., WR/DB), Brad Lee (Sr., OL/DL), Brooks Britt (Jr., WR/DB), Jayden Colon (Jr., DB), Xavier Dunbar (Jr., QB/DB), Zach Irvin (Jr., OL), Jordyn Moore (Jr., WR/LB), Noah Pierre (Jr., RB/DB), Gabe Scotto (Jr., C/LB), Tony Sollivan (Jr., WR/DB), Ryan Ellis (So., OL/DL) and Tanner Wheeler (So., OL/DL).

own set of challenges and replacing production on the offensive side of the ball will be key.

"We need to replace the production of a starting quarterback, the league's leading rusher and two all-conference offensive linemen," said Roeder. "Up front three starters return on the offensive line. Four different members in the backfield received meaningful touches during the 2021 season and the receiving production is all back."

Defensively the Pates will have new pieces up front, but return plenty of experience in the secondary.

"The secondary should be a strength with the entire group returning and adding some talented young players," said Roeder. "Five different linebackers return that played valuable minutes in 2021. Need to replace two all-league performers up front."

Hawks primed to improve in 2022 season

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Bethlehem Catholic endured a difficult campaign in Kyle Haas' first-year back in 2021, but the Hawks look to bounce back from that this fall.

After a 2-7 season a year ago, Becahi will be better and more competitive in the East Penn Conference. How much better is something that will be revealed on a weekly basis, but the foundation that the new coaching staff laid out a year ago should pay dividends in 2022.

"Offensively we need to stress consistency running and throwing the football," said Haas. "We have some talented kids returning. Seniors Eric Wert and Jaiden Ellis-Lahey are a dangerous combination at WR. Senior running backs Zyaire Morris and Rahmel Terry will give us depth in the backfield. Terry missed 2021 with an ACL injury. Our Offensive Line has some experience returning. Sam Ayache (Jr., OT), Mekhi George (Sr., G), Nicco Spezza (Sr., C), and Mark Mulhurn (Sr.) all started at least four games last season. Eli Thompson (Sr., G) will be the other starter.

"We have a battle at the quarterback position. I feel confident whoever wins the job will be ready to lead the team. Senior Luke Thomas and junior Augie Warke had impressive spring practices. Both kids wrestle and are extremely tough. Sophomore wide receiver DJ Kelly and Justin Gonzalez were really impressive running routes and catching footballs."

The Hawks return eight starters on each side of the ball and look to improve on the defensive side as well, bringing back plenty of experience from a year ago.

"Our goal defensively is to simplify," Haas said. "We have a good amount of kids who saw considerable time last season due to injuries. We will rotate six kids on the defensive line, as Mulhurn, Ayache, Thompson, and George all have game experience. Junior Jacob Lance and senior Josh Doane are two defensive ends we feel can contribute up front. We are deep at the line-backer position. Izzy Ramos-Dobbins (Sr.), Robert Williams (Jr.), Zyaire Morris (Sr.), and Solomon Sutton (Jr.) all started at some point during last season. Junior Mekhi LaPierre and sophomore Carlos Perez will get opportunities to play meaningful minutes.

"We are two deep in the secondary. At corner we have Terry, Clements, Sutton, and Kelly who can rotate. Safeties Troy Miller (Sr.), Eric Wert (Sr.), Devin Greene (Jr.), and Justin Gonzalez (So.) are all capable of starting or rotating."

Pates aim to get back in

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

There's a new era of Freedom field hockey set for this fall with Chelsea Quinn taking over the helm as a first-year head coach.

The Pates are coming off a 6-12 season a year ago, but Quinn hopes they can have the arrow pointing up this fall with the returning talent on board.

"I'm looking forward to the season ahead and have high expectations for our girls," Quinn said. "I think they have an incredible amount of talent and potential and I can't wait for them to have the chance to showcase that."

Seniors coming back this year are Amanda Simpson, Lauren Humphrey, Ellie Bozikis, Madelin Cooper, Madison Horvath, Ann Sweeney, and Molly Twigg.

Paige Telatovich was also going to be a returning senior, but tore her ACL during the lacrosse season and will be out for the year.

Juniors Mia Faisetty, Brooklyn Kollar and Ellen Kashner also return, along with sophomore Alyssa Laubach.

"I expect Ellie Bozikis and Madison Horvath to stand out for us on the defensive end," Quinn said. "On the offensive front, Alyssa Laubach and Madelin Cooper should make a big impact for us this season. All of our girls have been working hard to prove themselves and get better which has been great to see. We definitely have some upcoming talent and po-

Veteran LHS team is back

Liberty's field hockey team was competitive last season, but they want to take the next step this year.

Coming off a 9-10 season a year ago, Jill Dorn's crew brings back a team full of experience this fall.

Coming back for the Hurricanes include Sarah Fitzpatrick (Sr.), Jazmyne Frack (Sr.), Jillian Mayes (Sr.), Reva Singh (Sr.), Trinity Dunstan (Sr.), Ruby Miller (Sr.), Danielle Walz (Jr.), Ava Sabetti (Jr.), Cai Bardsley and Aubrey Wylie-Neith.

Fitzpatrick is a four-year starter that has already committed to Division-I Rider University. Frack is another four-year player, who will be committing to play in college as well. Mayes is another player likely to commit to a college program, but is coming off meniscus surgery, but should be ready to go by early September.

The other listed players all form a good foundation heading into the season, along with quality depth.

Newcomers are Grace Baldo (Sr., MF), Genesis Duran (Jr., D), Cozette Frack (So., F), Ava George (utility), Tula Sobrinski, Malia Lockhart, Emily Tavares, Karlyn Hottenstein, Nini Nguyen, Bella Mowrer, Hailey Murphy, Sarah Stein, Juliana Zumas, Ellis Corr and Abigail Mayes.

"We are fortunate to not only have experienced seniors who have a lot of varsity experience, but some of the best depth in underclassmen that we have had," said Dorn. "We have players who work hard in their off-season and who do have aspirations of playing into their college careers; we believe their hard work will pay off in their performance together."

Young Hawks aim for improvement

BY PETER CAR
pccar@tnonline.com

Bethlehem Catholic's field hockey team is looking for improvement this fall, as the Hawks are hoping their young squad can turn a corner this season.

Following last year's 5-12 season, Becahi returns four players from last year's team, including Brianna Barnes (Offense, Senior); Joline Bozzi (Defense, Senior); Sarah Scheidel (Goalie, Junior) and Mia Willard (Midfield, Junior).

"Brianna brings a lot of energy to the team and is ready to lead our offense," said head coach Sarah Lumi. "Joline is coming off a strong season as a sophomore and will make a big impact on our defense. Sarah has gained a lot of experience the last two years and she's ready for her first varsity season. Mia will continue to make a big impact on our offense and defense this season as a midfielder."

ren Walters (Defense, Junior).

"We have a young and motivated team this season," Lumi said. "They are working hard and excited for the opportunity to see that hard work pay out during our games. We strive for improvements every day. After preseason, our goal is for all of the improvements to add up and lead to a successful season."

we are very excited about."

With the ultimate goal of reaching the postseason,

Quinn knows it'll take each day to work toward that result.

"Our main goal this season is to work hard and take things one step and one game at a time," she said. "Ultimately, we want that goal to take us all the way to the postseason, which is where we want our program to be consistently again. There's great competition everywhere in the EPC and we are looking forward to the challenge that comes along with playing against the level of talent we'll face here in the league and division."

Freedom looks to build

BY PETER CAR
pca@tnonline.com

It was an epic season for Freedom's volleyball team a year ago, so what can do the Pates do for an encore in 2022?

The Pates went 20-3 and reached the District 11 4A finals before falling to Parkland in the championship. They also lost long time head coach Donna Roman to retirement along with some of the top talent in the area a year ago.

New head coach Chris Schweikert takes over his first season at the helm and hopes to build off what the Pates accomplished last season.

"We aim to build on the success of the last few seasons," said Schweikert. "Despite losing a few of the best players in the Lehigh Valley, we're striving to return to the District 11 playoffs and challenge the perennial powers of the league. Additionally, we plan to once again find success in its rivalries with the other City of Bethlehem schools."

Back for the Pates are Charlise Johnson (Sr., Outside Hitter); Taylor Pavolko (Sr., Libero); Amayzia Frailey (Jr., Middle Hitter); Samantha Mikulski (Jr., Defensive Specialist) and Sophia Tyma (Jr., Middle Hitter).

New comers include Addison Vetter (Jr., Setter); Landry Guman (Fr., Outside Hitter); and Sara Kokolus (Fr., Setter).

Tyma highlights the returning players, as she led the state in blocks last year until an injury cut her season short.

Hawks look for 3-peat

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Bethlehem Catholic will be looking for their third straight District 11 3A championship when they take the court this fall.

Following last year's 17-6 season, which saw them sweep Pottsville in the finals, the Hawks will be contenders again in head coach Kelly Brown's sixth season.

Back for Becahi this season are Kyla Rodriguez (Senior, MB); Jodi Hewitt (Senior, OH); Dhanica Babelonia Senior, MB); Alice Frank (Senior, S); Vanessa Amrick (Senior, OH/DS) and Olivia Harris (Senior, DS/L).

"We cannot wait for this upcoming season to start," said Brown. "Our girls have been working extremely hard during tryouts and the start to our preseason. We have been very successful these past two seasons, and we hope we can keep the success going this season. We have a strong group of girls, who are extremely competitive, and can lead the team to a great season. We are excited and looking forward to the weeks ahead."

Leading the pack this year will be the likes of Rodriguez, Babelonia and Hewitt, who will be charged with leading the Hawks back to the state tournament for a third straight year.

"Our main goal is to continue to grow and improve as a whole team throughout the season," Brown said. "The past two years we have made it to the state tournament, so the girls are definitely going to be working hard to get back to it this year again. With the leadership on this team, I think this group of girls will achieve that goal."

Liberty volleyball team returns talent, looking for big results

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Optimism is bright for Liberty's volleyball team coming into a new campaign.

The Hurricanes are coming off a 13-7 record last season and a district playoff appearance and return a sold core of players that should help them push for more in 2022.

Back in the fold for the 'Canes are Courtney Shire (Sr., Libero); Sydney Houchens (Sr., Outside Hitter); Alyssa Rachwal (Sr., Setter/Opposite Hitter); Patrice Kasten (Sr., Middle Blocker); Ava Janny (Sr., Defensive Specialist); Lily Paranee (Sr., Defensive Specialist); Lora Flynn (Jr., Setter); Gianna Sciarra (Jr., Defensive Specialist); Bella Martens (Jr., Defensive Specialist); Hannah D'Angelo (Jr., Opposite Hitter) and Bailey Corrigan (So., Outside Hitter).

Newcomers are Lauren Zile (Sr., Middle Blocker); Angelica Santana (Jr., Setter/Opposite Hitter); Malena Sabol (So., Middle Hitter) and Ava Kopetskie (Fr., Opposite Hitter/Outside Hitter).

Shire was a first-team all state player a year ago, while Houchens was second-team EPC to give Liberty a good base of top tier talent on the court.

"We return a lot of leadership, and experience from last season," said head coach Connor Swigart. "The girls have worked hard in the off-season to get stronger and better in the ways we need to be. There will be lots of competition across all position groups this year, which will bring the best out of our team. Our goal as a team is to be contending with the top teams in the district this year and strive to get better each day.

Swigart figures to see some of the usual's atop the conference again with Parkland, Bethlehem Catholic and Emmaus leading the way. He hopes Liberty will be in that mix too.

"Our goals are to get better each day in practice and push each other to be the best we can be as a team," he said. "We hope to be in contention for a district championship at the end of the year."

BC boys look to rebuild in 2022

BY KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tnonline.com

Bethlehem Catholic's boys soccer team will be rebuilding its squad after graduating several seniors who led the Golden Hawks to the district quarterfinal last year.

Becahi head coach John Hohn will look to this year's seniors, Paul Taylor in the midfield and Noah Zacharia on defense, to keep the Hawks on target.

Hohn also identified sophomore midfielders Ethan Wiles and Daniel Sledz as key returners to the team.

"This year's incoming freshmen look good," Hohn said. "Gabriel Santamarina and Andrew Spiegel are promising young stars who will most likely play an offensive position."

The Hawks will be forced to take on soccer powerhouses Nazareth and Parkland for its first two games.

"We are a young squad, so I believe we have a lot of work to do to compete in the EPC," said Hohn. "What I am seeing so far is these boys want to put in the work, so I am very hopeful for the season."

Becahi girls soccer returning successful squad

BY KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tnonline.com

One could say that Bethlehem Catholic's girls soccer team has a head start on the upcoming season, returning 10 of 11 starters who reached last year's district semifinal and who clinched the Lehigh Valley Summer Soccer League crown in July.

Now primed for its home opener against Nazareth, the Golden Hawks' defense will be led by captain Emily Pepe, surrounded by Sarah Gowell, Kenzie Davis, and Kim Zuniga.

"We are also returning our entire midfield led by Summer Hill," said Becahi head coach Brad Kratzer. "Around her in the midfield is Tealyn Boyle, Gabby Mutis, Maddie Nicholson, Ashley Zuniga and many others. We are also returning three-year starting goalkeeper Gabby Amato."

The Hawks have a talented freshman class that Kratzer expects to be involved in making an immediate impact on the team, including Tallia Hill, Sophia Arvelo, Jaon Lee, and Kristen McMenimen.

"We have depth at several positions this year," Kratzer said.

"That, coupled with returning so many starters from one year ago, makes this group very optimistic for the upcoming year, and we fully intend to compete for the EPC post season as well as a District XI 2A title."

This summer, Becahi led its summer league division in goals scored and had the fewest goals allowed.

"We are looking to parlay that into the fall season," Kratzer said.

Pates are young

BY KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tnonline.com

The defending Eastern Pennsylvania Conference boys soccer champions, aka Freedom Patriots, are under new leadership with head coach Tyler Nolan, taking over for Matt Reightler, this season.

"Our goals (this summer) were to get to know the players, begin to implement our playing systems and styles, and work on fitness leading up to preseason," Nolan said.

To do that, Nolan held open training sessions three days a week.

"We have a tremendous amount of talent that now just needs to be molded into our systems and put together into a final product," he said. "I'm really excited to see these guys grow as individuals and as a team. They are young but are ready to take the next step as the players we count on to lead us to titles."

Some of the Patriots' key returners will be goalkeeper Tristan Willey, who earned 11 shutouts last year, forwards Corey James and Michael Deluhrey, and defender Owen Lynn.

Coach Nolan expects freshman Ben Soleymanni to play a big role for the Pates in the midfield and on defense.

"We have been working on situations and scenarios all summer and into preseason, but there is no way to replicate real matches," said Nolan. "I have the utmost faith in our guys that they'll get their bearings quickly and adjust to being the leaders I expect them to be."

McIntyre takes over girls team

BY KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tnonline.com

Freedom's girls soccer team will have a new look on the sideline this season with first-year head coach Sean McIntyre taking charge of the Patriots.

"Our goal for the season is to continue to get stronger with each training session and each game," said McIntyre, "and come the end of October, we are very much looking forward to the opportunity to compete in the EPC and District XI Tournaments."

Key returners to the squad include senior midfielder/forward Grace Joseph, senior midfielder Tess Zalutsky, senior goalie Megan Raffino, junior defender Lucy Kontir, sophomore midfielder Anya Johns, and sophomore midfielder/forward Hannah Heide-mann.

"We have a strong group of upperclassmen who are leading by example and doing the small things the right way," McIntyre said. "They have done a tremendous job establishing the standard and setting the tone for what is expected being part of the program."

Newcomers who could make an impact for the Pates include sophomore defender Grace Burke and freshman defender/midfielder Danii Herman.

Jason Horvath returns to LHS boys soccer team

BY KATIE MCDONALD

Liberty's boys soccer team will be aiming to get back to the positive side of the win-loss column in the 2022 season under head coach Jason Horvath who has returned to the helm after a six-year hiatus during which he was an assistant soccer coach at Phillipsburg High School where he still teaches.

"We are filled with upperclassmen who gained valuable experience over the last few years," Horvath said. "We are strong and experienced on the defensive side of the ball."

Last year's scoring struggle has become this year's emphasis.

"We are going to need to create chances around the goal in order to win games," said Hor-clude senior goalkeepers Jonny Smith and Owen Cassel, senior midfielder Ryder Paulus, and senior defender Brady Vaclavik, along with junior defenders Tanner

Newcomer Kaique Costa Duarte, a senior, will be a player to watch

Unproven Hurricanes look to make noise

BY KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tnonline.com

Liberty girls soccer coach Andrew Uhler is watching this year's Hurricane squad evolve into its own identity and believes it will be the key to the Hurricanes' success this season.

"I'd say that, for the most part, our team is fairly unproven," said Uhler whose 'Canes graduated 12 seniors. "We are replenishing with younger players with less varsity experience. I don't really see this as a negative, though."

Liberty does have its share of key returners, including senior goalie Sophia Albino, senior midfielder Caitlin Ohl, and senior defender Lorelei Burch, junior midfielders Natalya Teran, Hannah Oliver, and junior defender Payton Davis, as well as sophomore midfielder Jalyn Reeves and sophomore forward Megan Goodman.

"I expect a much larger role out of Jalyn and Megan," Uhler said emphatically. "We've worked diligently over the summer to improve in areas we knew were weak spots last year. We also enjoyed playing in the Lehigh Valley Summer Soccer League as a ramp up to the season starting."

In fact, the Hurricanes have been preparing since spring with the goal of becoming bigger, stronger, and faster with work in the weight room.

"I believe the strength of our team is that we've grown as a collective, and our current group of players has a great sense of community about them," said Uhler. "We are looking to embody the idea that the team's success is greater than individual success; that we all win together. I think that's something the girls have naturally fostered throughout the summer and pre-season."

Freedom's girls tennis team is returning five players who will have the top five spots in the Patriots' lineup this season.

Devon Umer, Nadya Manne, and Liyana Paiker are Freedom's one, two, and three singles players, respectively, and Samantha Torok and Katie Twigg are team up at two doubles.

"Our first four players are very even," said Freedom head coach

Three and four doubles pairs are tentatively Arleen Nagra, Sofia Nabyat, Khadeeja Hus-sain, and Misha Braski.

Liberty tennis using new tools this season

BY KATIE MCDONALD

The Liberty Hurricane tennis team is taking a different approach to the way it practices by including film sessions along with workouts with the hope of developing a growth mindset for the upcoming season.

“We’re having two-a-days and treating practice in more of a collegiate way, studying the game, knowing who the girls are facing, and making adjustments, hoping we can challenge some of the more experienced players,” said Liberty head coach Chris Conrad.

Key returners for the Hurricanes this season will be singles players Sruti Tekumalla at number two and Stephanie Zheng at number three.

Sliding into the number one singles position will be sophomore Helena Lynn, who is homeschooled but fitting in nicely and adjusting very well to high school tennis.

Although Conrad expects there to be some changes within the doubles lineup, Sophia Csartari and Sophia Horstmann are expected to be the two doubles pair to start the season.

Bianca Justance and Erineah Quan could be paired at three doubles, and Ava Sabetti and Abigail Mayes could be the Hurricanes’ four doubles pair to start the season.

“I think it’s tough to predict (the season), but we want to be in the conversation with the top teams,” Conrad said. “We want to see if we can threaten Parkland and Emmaus. We knew we were going to bring back our top girls from last year.”

High hopes for Liberty cross country

BY KATIE MCDONALD
kmcaldonald@tnonline.com

Liberty's boys cross country team placed second at the District XI Cross Country Championships last year, and with all but one runner returning to this year's team, Hurricane head coach Kelly Bracetty expects a repeat, if not a first-place finish at this year's district meet.

"They are a strong core, and they're super motivated, and they're out to make a statement," Bracetty said. "We have seven senior boys coming in with lots of experience."

Emrick Leshko, Owen Reilly, Cole Ruhf, Jack Huie, Jacob Rivera, Luke Diagnault, and

Spencer Sabo will play key roles in the team's success this season.

Seniors on the girls team include district medalist Maddie Mumma, Mikailyn Matacavage, Ella Scott, and Shayrimar Velazquez.

"We're building off a strong summer, and practice is going great," Bracetty said. "We've had some workouts, and once the season starts, we'll do more cross training and more focus on recovery."

Bracetty developed an individual training program for all 40 Hurricane harriers, and each has the possibility of pairing with others for workouts.

"I looked at previous mileage and added different components like strength training, form, and efficiency," said Bracetty.

Liberty's first meet will be the Northampton Invitational on Sept. 3.

"We're coming into the season with a lot of experience which will help how we do as a whole," Bracetty said.

"We can't control other teams but we're consistently working together to achieve common goals."

Also this season, Liberty will be hosting its own invitational, the Hurricane Invitational, for middle school teams, scheduled for Oct. 1 at Louise Moore Park in Easton.

The girls team returns District XI Class 3A bronze medalist Ava Fihlman, now a junior.

"She had a really good summer, and she had a good track season," Thear said. "(Hailey) Reinhard from Emmaus will be tough, but I think Ava's closed the gap on her. By how much, I don't know."

Senior Aubrey Yeager is also returning, and freshman Amelia Holden will be a Patriot runner to watch.

"I have three A's up front, a good nucleus, so if I could get a little bit from the newcomers, we'll be more formidable than last year," said Thear. "We have six girls right now; we might get one or two more. I'd like to have some wiggle room just in case someone gets injured."

The boys team returns sophomore Dylan

Boyle, who had a good freshman season.

"Dylan also had a really good summer and looks really good so far. He put a good amount of miles in and trained really well," Thear said.

Senior Joe Bauer is also returning, the only senior on the team along with Yeager.

"Joe is healthy this year, so I'll be curious to see how he bounces back, but we're lacking a little bit of depth on the boys side," said Thear. "Our first (dual) meet is Sep. 13, so we'll have two-and-a-half weeks to get the newcomers on board, get them up to speed, and get them back into shape a little better."

In assessing the upcoming season, Thear made the point that a team can be without a good front runner and still have a decent team.

"Overall last year, I didn't think we were that strong, so are we going to upswing back? I'm just curious to see how the league is, in general," he said. "I think both of our teams should be around .500."

Hawk harriers to focus on personal bests

BY KATIE MCDONALD

Bethlehem Catholic cross country coach Kassi Yocco plans to focus on personal bests for her Golden Hawks in the 2022 season.

"It's hard considering we're such a small school, and we don't have the numbers like other schools, so we're going to focus on P.R.s and not get discouraged by other big teams,"

Yocco said.

The Hawks' current roster holds nine boys and six girls while Yocco is hoping for two more girls.

The first official week of practice included time trials, hills, and Fun Friday.

"Fun Friday is a run to The Cup (Bethlehem Dairy Store), rewarding a week of hard work," said Yocco.

Seniors Adrianna

Simmons and Margaret Burke will lead this year's girls team.

"We're a pretty young team, guy-wise, but I'm excited to have two kids who ran track, Mekai Britt and Michael Montesdecca," said Yocco.

Both boys are sophomores and ran distance events this past spring.

Becahi's first meet will be the Northampton Invitational, scheduled for Sept. 3.

"Stroudsburg is better than us on paper, and Pleasant Valley is equal to us on paper,"

"It's not as many as four or five years ago," said Harmanos. "Everybody's numbers are down, but last year was a deeper team, for sure."

Other players in the mix will be Madison Araniego, Josie Fiorini, Victoria Botek, Hyeyun Im, Hannah Mishkovich, and Judy Pintor.

Simon said. "If we don't beat Pleasant Valley, we could have some problems."

'Canes golfers look to win third-straight

BY JEFF MOELLER

For Liberty's golf team this fall, it will be the matter if the Hurricanes can get the threepeat. That is, winning their third consecutive district Class 3A title.

Coach Steve Bradley's club has entered the East Penn Conference (EPC) golf race this summer as the prohibitive favorite in the conference with Nazareth and Stroudsburg on their tail. The Hurricanes finished the 2021 season with an overall 25-1 mark, losing to LaSalle College in the regionals.

However, Bradley is taking a cautious, optimistic approach.

"We'll see what happens," said Bradley, who begins his 24th season at the helm. "We still have to go out and play."

"The Vital brothers missed some matches because of a commitment in a tournament out west. We also have some new guys in the lineup."

Matt Vital is back as the defending district 3A champ, and his brother, Michael, round out the top half of the card for the Hurricanes.

Cousins Jase and Jimmy Barker along with Matt Ronca return to fill out the likely top-five spots. Jimmy Barker was injured this summer, but he should be back in the lineup. Ronca was third and Jase Barker were third and fourth respectively at last year's EPC tournament.

Chase Orsinky, Trent Stahley, and Paul Erfel are the newcomers who both should see some quality time.

Bradley also noted that Jimmy and Jase Barker recently combined to win the Waser Cup, both shooting six-under par 66 at Shepherd Hills Golf Course. The Hurricanes didn't win the event last year, but they have had several victories in the past. Both Barkers were state qualifiers two years ago, but they were ousted at regionals last year.

Liberty opened its season with a quad-match victory over Easton, East Stroudsburg, and Northampton. Bradley knows league play will be a test for his troops.

"Northampton, Nazareth, and Stroudsburg are pretty good," he said. "Emmaus may have lost some people, but you can't take them lightly."

"It is a quick season, and we have to always be ready to play our best golf."

Freedom golf team sets some lofty goals

BY JEFF MOELLER

Freedom head golf coach Mike Evans has set some lofty, but attainable goals for his club this fall.

"I think we can go 10-5," said Evans. "We expect to be in a lot of close matches, and we have enough key people back to make a difference."

"We should be able to shoot in the 415 to 425 range."

Evans has 14 golfers back in the fold, and stated that approximately half of them saw considerable time last season. He likes his club's chances in the top-five slots, but realizes his five through eight golfers will endure some growing pains.

Senior Krish Patel and Jacob Grillo are expected to be the Patriots top-two golfers this season. Patel averaged a 77 last season, while Grillo shot in the 80s regularly.

"Both of them should have good seasons," he stated. "They are going to be our number one and two golfers."

"They both have the potential to go far this season."

Juniors Louis Pagano and Dhruv Patel will be on their heels. Both of them shot in the mid-to-high-80s last year, and they should lower their scores.

Sophomore Nick Hoffman has improved his game, and he is expected to make an impact.

"We're pretty balanced," noted Evans.

"We have enough experience. Grillo and Hoffman are our biggest surprises and they have been playing well. They both should have pretty good years for us."

Evans understands his club will be tested before the school year begins. The Patriots will play nine of their 15 scheduled matches before the first school bell rings.

"That will be huge for us," he said. "We play Parkland early, and they beat us by 17 strokes last year. It will be a big litmus test for us."

"But we like our chances this year. We just have to be consistent."

Hawks looks to make most of small roster size

BY JEFF MOELLER
Special to the Press

Bethlehem Catholic's golf team will need to get the most of every member of its team this fall.

Literally.

Head coach Mark Csencsits has eight golfers on his squad, but the third-year head coach is confident his team can make some strides this year.

"We have some kids with experience, and we have some kids who are green," said

Csencsits, who is the head pro at Bethlehem Municipal. "Our kids have been working, and they should improve throughout the season."

Junior George Pavis leads the pack. Pavis shot consistently in the 90s last season, and he has been in the low 80s this season.

"George has cut a lot of strokes off his game," said Csencsits. "He could get down in the 70s. He has really worked and you can see the difference. He just needs to stay consistent."

Sophomore Derek Ostrosky already has received high marks, and he should be a pleasant surprise this fall.

"We have some high hopes for him," added Csencsits. "He is a good kid, and he is getting stronger, too. We see him as our number two player."

Freshman Ethan DiLello and Peter Vallance both are expected to make an impact, and Csencsits believes they both have a bright future.

Junior Luke Zeitner is a newcomer with promise. Zeitner has worked with Csencsits privately, and the head coach sees him making his mark next season. However, Zeitner should be competitive this season.

Senior Xavier Lopez is a three-year returnee, and Csencsits has seen plenty of production.

"He has shaved about 15 strokes off this game over the past two years

," said Csencsits. "He has come a long way. He can help us this year."

Senior Haize Camacho is a first-year player, and junior Charlie Scanlan will be a contributor. Csencsits will seek to improve his team's depth.

"I will definitely try to get more kids out," he said. "It will be a matter of being more active in the high school, and also getting into the grassroots level in the elementary schools. There has to be more kids out there who are interested in golf."

However, Csencsits knows it will take time.

"You can definitely see progress," he said. "They are over their jitters as they are not as nervous as they were."

"We may be able to place someone high in the EPC (East Penn Conference) tournament. We just have to keep working to get better."
