

Sakovics, William

Gets Navy Wings

William Sakovics, 18, son of Mr. Sigmond Sakovics of Bethlehem, Pa., was recently awarded the Navy's aircrewman wings after completing flight combat training here in Grumman Avenger torpedo planes.

Petty Officer Sakovics, an aviation radioman third class, received the silver and gold wings from his commanding officer, Captain Louis E. French, at ceremonies which climaxed months of hard training at this and other Navy stations. He received instruction here in aerial gunnery as well as his specialty, aviation radio. Sakovics is now fully qualified to join one of the teams which fly and fight in the Navy's warplanes.

Sakovics attended Bethlehem Technical high school before enlisting in the Navy, Jan. 4, 1944.
