CITY
Zoning map remains same

BY DOUGLAS GRAVES
 Special to the Bethlehem Press

With trepidation on the part of some members, city council voted 4-3 Oct. 1 to kill a hoped-for revision of the zoning map.

The bill would have paved the way for resident and architect Dennis Connell to build a five-story, 72-unit apartment building at 11-15 West Garrison St. that would have an underground garage.

Councilman Bryan Callahan told the crowd, "Don't shoot me," as he assured the energized residents who oppose the plan that his "yes" vote did not mean that he would continue to support the measure. He promised to walk through the neighborhood over the next two weeks and meet with residents to hear about their concerns. He said he lives near the West Garrison Street neighborhood.

32nd CELTIC CLASSIC

Sunny weather blesses fest

BY MARK KIRLIN
 Special to the Bethlehem Press

Bethlehem hosted its 32nd annual Celtic Classic Sept. 27-29.

The festival is a three-day celebration of Celtic traditions, including music, piping, dance, athletics, beer, food and merchandise. The yearly festival averages nearly 300,000 attendees, and this year's excellent weather guaranteeing a high turnout.

According to Celticfest.org, 40 percent of the patrons are from the Lehigh Valley, with 60 percent coming from throughout the United States and abroad.

One of the more popular events is the pipe band competition. This year's event had a total of 15 bands competing on Saturday and Sunday. The grade 4 pipe band results from Sunday are as follows: first place, Mohawk Valley Frasers; second place, Ceol Neamh; and third place, City of Dunedin.

The Ceol Neamh Pipe Band's drum corps and midsection marches by. Each pipe band is made up of two parts that include bagpipes, with the other part called the drum corps and midsection.

Bobby Curreri of the band Emish, an Americana folk roots-inspired trio with Celtic influences.

POLICE

COMPILED BY NATE JASTRZEMSKI

Fatal accident on Route 378

Bethlehem police, fire and EMS responders were dispatched to a motor vehicle collision around 11:20 p.m. Sept. 25 on Route 378, in the southbound travel lanes near the Eighth Avenue exit.

On arrival, Bethlehem officers located a 2013 Hyundai Sonata and a 2003 Toyota Corolla. Extensive damage was done to both vehicles, which had collided, and the Corolla was on fire. The operators of both vehicles succumbed to their injuries at the scene of the crash. Both operators were pronounced dead at the scene by the Lehigh County Coroner's Office.

This accident is under investigation by the Bethlehem Police Department Major Accident Reconstruction Team (MART), Traffic Unit and the Lehigh County Coroner's Office. Identities of the deceased will not be released pending notification of next of kin by the coroner's office.

If you witnessed this crash or have any information about this crash, you are asked to contact Officer Jeffrey Fehr, Bethlehem Police Mart Team, at (610) 865-7180 or the Bethlehem Police Department at (610)-865-7000 or the desk sergeant at (610)-865-7179.

Fentanyl seized

Police arrested Daniel Matos, 47, of Pawnee Street, Sept. 26 on numerous drug-related charges following community complaints and a vice investigation.

Police served a warrant for 1175B Livingston St., which Matos was allegedly using as a stash house.

Detectives seized approximately 1,100 grams of loose Fentanyl, approximately 1,200 individual bags of fentanyl, approximately 660 blue colored fentanyl pills, approximately 300 grams of cocaine, approximately 90 packets of Naloxone and Suboxone I and multiple items of drug paraphernalia, including scales, grinders, and hundreds of empty bags used in the packaging and distribution of heroin, fentanyl and other controlled substances. The estimated street value of all the controlled substances seized is approximately $400,000.

Matos is currently being held in Northampton County Prison.

CORRECTION

In our fall festival calendar in last week's Bethlehem Press, we incorrectly stated that the Holy Ghost Catholic Church Fall Festival was the weekend of Oct. 5. In fact the Fall Festival is Oct. 26-27.

Continued from page A5 approved a measure to reimburse counties for some of the cost of new voting machines, Wolf vetoed the bill because it also eliminated a straight party voting option.

McClure said he does expect that the federal and state governments will eventually reimburse the county for this unfunded mandate.

In a sign that county nursing home Grace-dale has turned a financial corner, McClure's spending plan includes no county contribution to keep it afloat. The nursing home's rating has gone up as well. McClure's proposed budget attempts to combat what he calls "warehouse proliferation" by setting aside $3 million for open space projects. The executive added this also reflects the will of the people, as expressed in a 2002 referendum in which voters overwhelmingly endorsed open space.

Like most employers who help pay for the healthcare of their workforce, Northampton County saw its healthcare costs spike 39 percent last year. This includes approximately $1.2 million the county used to fund the health savings accounts of employees. McClure said he believes part of this increase is also because people are now electing to undergo medical procedures they deferred under the previous administration, which had a less generous health plan.

McClure added the budget fully funds a "disastrous public private partnership" for the repair or replacement of 27 bridges. The private contractor has missed several milestone markers and the executive anticipates "much debate and discussion" next year over what appears to be a stalled project.

The budget also includes a 2.5 percent raise for the county's career service, or nonunion workers. Union workers are paid in accordance with separate contracts, and most bargaining units will see a 2 percent raise next year.

This budget now goes to county council. Under the Home Rule Charter, council must adopt or amend the budget by Dec. 16 or it is deemed adopted. Council can also flatly reject it, but it will still be deemed approved unless another spending plan is approved on by that date.

The Charter does this to prevent government shutdowns that increasingly have become the norm on state and federal levels.

Ground broken for $11M center

NORTHAMPTON COUNTY

BY BERNIE O'HARE
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Northampton County broke ground on its first real forensic center Sept. 12. The facility will be located at the Grace-dale campus, next to the 911 Center. Currently, Coroner Zach Lysek has no morgue and operates out of a small office at Louise Moore Park.

Executive Lamont McClure credited Northampton County Council for funding the project. "For nearly 30 years, county councils have rhetorically called for building a forensics center, but have never put their money where their mouth was," he said. He also heaped praise on Fiscal Affairs Director Steve Barron for coming up with a way to finance the facility ty in a way that reduces debt payments.

The forensic center, which has a budget of $11 million, is slated for completion by August 2020. It includes the following features:

- * Family reception and private meeting rooms.
- * Two autopsy rooms with a viewing area for law enforcement and medical school students.
- * Digital forensic lab.
- * Offices for Coroner's staff.
- * Five-bay garage with receiving and storage area.
- * Solar panels.
- * Capacity for future expansion.
- * Secure lockers to preserve chain of custody for evidence and personal effects.

LEHIGH COUNTY

County ahead of game in election prep

BY DOUGLAS GRAVES
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Pennsylvania gave Lehigh County election officials a check for $380,868 that will partially pay the expense of new voting machines.

Secretary of State Kathleen Boockvar presented a mock-up oversized check to Lehigh County Executive Phillips Armstrong in a short presentation last week in the administration building on Seventh Street in Allentown.

She said the check is part of a $14.15 million packet of state and federal funds set aside in 2018 for just this purpose.

Boockvar said the commonwealth is working to issue a bond for up to $90 million that will reimburse counties for up to 60 percent of the actual costs for new voting systems.

"You guys have been ahead of the state," said Boockvar about Lehigh County's proactive purchase of new machines. "You started the process early. I applaud you for your voter preparations - it has been outstanding."

"I am pleased to present this check to the commissioners for the new voting system that Lehigh County voters will use for the first time in the November 5th municipal election."

Boockvar said county residents can feel confident that every vote will be accurately counted and securely protected by the latest election technology, and that the new machines also allow greater access by handicapped voters.

"Our new machines are a physical manifestation of our commitment to election security, integrity and the voice of voters here in Lehigh County," said Commissioner Amy Zanelli in a prepared statement.

The machines scan the paper ballot, tabulate the results, then keep the paper ballot secure until it is delivered to chief clerk of the office of the Election Board member Timothy Benyo. There the paper ballots can be used, if needed, for recounts or audits.

According to Boockvar, the new secure voting systems must be in place and implemented statewide no later than the 2020 primary.

According to information provided by Boockvar's staff, at least 49 counties (73 percent) have taken official action toward purchases or leases of new voting systems. At least 53 counties (80 percent) will be using paper ballots in the November election, including 47 counties with new voting systems and six counties that have been using paper ballots.

the quixotic nature of Lauren Miller's and the other objectors' quest to knock down the proposed project.

He said that since Connell owns the lots, two of which have houses that are in the RT or High-Density Residential District, that Connell wanted to have them restored to their pre-2005 designation of CB or Central Business District. This would have allowed developer Connell to put his five-story apartment building on the contiguous lots that he currently owns.

The apparent success of the neighbors and tenants in stopping the rezoning will not stop Connell from slightly modifying his plan and reconfiguring the building to have up to 12 stories on the CB zoned lots.

Increased stories, explained Callahan, could be required to make up the lost revenue expected from units that would have been on his two lots, whose planned use has now been denied to Connell.

Ironically, Connell could still knock down his two houses in the RT zoning district and use the cleared space for other purposes, to include trash Dumpsters, or a driveway access to his planned underground 74-space parking garage. Connell did not return a call to the Press to clarify his future plans.

The large group of residents who attended the meeting, for the most part, made it clear that change is not welcome, though some bristled at the suggestion that they wanted to exclude future residents.

Resident Lauren Miller, who spoke emotionally and effectively at the previous meeting during a public hearing on the matter, was back. This time she was poised and prepared with visual aids and vegetables from a community garden as an offering to council.

Seniors lauded, vaping new concern

Several students, as well as their families, were on hand to be recognized as Advanced Placement Scholars at the latest Saucon Valley School Board meeting. High school Principal Tamara Gary introduced seniors who had, during their junior year, successfully completed Advanced Placement classes, in addition to recognizing graduates who had successfully completed these courses as Seniors.

Grace Albano, Junior in Student Government, addressed the Board regarding recent events at the high school. She explained that the Panther Cafe, a student-run coffee shop within the high school, was reopening for the school year on Thursday mornings. She also informed the Board of a new student reporter program to be launched at the first Saucon Valley varsity football game, with herself, Megan Kane and Nick Bortz in partnership with D-11 Sports. She gave an update on the school's marching band, who recently performed at the Penn State Blue Band Jam in State College and in Philadelphia at the fifth annual Phillies Band Night at Citizens Bank Park.

All motions unanimously passed, with only a few raising any discussion among the Board. One topic which merited elaboration was the approval of a contract with Virtual High School, Inc. for 10 student seats at the cost of $425 per student. Board member Sandra Miller explained that for some students, it is an essential option for students who might be looking for courses not offered by the school as per their current teacher contract or for students who are unable to physically attend school for a partial or full day. "If we could offer them some alternatives to help them stay as Saucon students, use our curriculum, use our in-house programs, that would save us substantial finances" in comparison to funding students attendance at charter school, she said. A few Board members expressed concern that if this program were advertised and gained popularity in enrollment among students and their families, it could become financially prohibitive. Gary explained that "it's there for students who need it as an option, but it's not advertised as 'hey, this is something you can do' because of the cost

"Do the lives on this street matter? Are we going to push them [the community] out?" asked Miller.

Several other residents spoke supporting Miller and generally expressing a "not-in-my-backyard" view of the proposed apartment building.

Connell, the owner proposing the apartment took his turn speaking to council, but directed his comments to the largely hostile audience.

"I created this neighborhood," said Connell. "I'm not the Devil incarnate. I'm asking to return the zoning to central business district, which is what it was until 2005."

Connell's attorney, who refused to confirm his name or to make a further statement, told the crowd that Connell intends to live in the planned apartment and be part of the community.

John Rothschild said he thinks this is a case of spot zoning.

City Councilman Adam Waldron opined that the "plan is positive." He said the plan would "bring new friends and neighbors to your community."

"I can't imagine harming the neighborhood," said Councilwoman Dr. Paige Van Wirt. "I will not support [the plan]."

Councilman William Reynolds said, "I bristle when I hear the phrase 'commercial intrusion. We live in a city.'"

However, Reynolds said he would vote "no" on the issue.

In other business, Bethlehem attorney James Holzinger, representing the property owners, presented plans to build six twin homes on Blake Street. He asked that the zoning map be changed from RS (Single Family Residential) to RG (Medium Density Residential) for several lots.

Council members also approved, at a first reading, a $6 million bond to re-finance municipal debt. Final vote on the bond issue is set for Oct. 15 at the next regular city council meeting.

associated." Board Vice President Dr. Shamim Pakzad questioned whether the district wanted to encourage students to take advantage of this program in place of physically attending classes at the school's campus. Gary replied, "I think we always have to keep our avenues open for all different situations for students."

Vaping remained a topic at this meeting as well, as Dr. Pakzad referred to continuing news stories about lung damage and hospitalizations of teens and young adults due to its use. He questioned if there were any plans by the schools to "do some public outreach... this sounds to me like we don't want to wait (for) a news story being about one of our kids." Board member Tracy Magnotta said that she was approached by a parent on that day in the school parking lot inquiring about additional educational opportunities for students, because kids "still don't understand the negative effects of it." Superintendent Dr. Craig Baxter affirmed the district's commitment to look further into possible programs and other ways in which the schools can further stress the dangers involved in vaping to students.

No tax increase in proposed budget

NORTHAMPTON COUNTY

Northampton County property owners have been spared a tax hike next year, at least if Executive Lamont McClure has his way. On Oct. 3, he unveiled a $445 million spending plan for 2020 at the 911 Center on Gracedale's campus. His budget keeps the tax rate at 11.8 mills, where it's been for the past five years. A home assessed at $75,000 will receive a tax bill next year for $885.

McClure is spending 5.6 percent less than he did last year. Part of the reason for this is because the county is no longer paying a triple net lease for its human services building, located in Bethlehem Township. It now owns the building. In addition, thanks to a refunding of county bonds, the annual debt service has dropped.

Though spending has been reduced, McClure wants to spend $2.6 million of the county's reserve, or rainy day fund. This is to help pay for new voting machines mandated by Governor Tom Wolf's Department of State. Though the state legislature See NORCO on Page A8 season into qualifying for the postseason.

Liberty desperate to turn things around. Liberty might be looking at a daunting task ahead of them, but the Hurricanes have been down this road before.

Off to a 2-5 start following last week's defeat to Nazareth, the chances for a district berth look bleak, but if recent memory can serve a purpose, Liberty's faithful can only look at last year's turnaround as proof that John Truby's troops can right the ship.

The Hurricanes were 2-5 at this point of the season a year ago and parlayed three game win streak to end the regular

Does this year's group have that magic in them as they prep for Saturday's road contest against Central Catholic (4-3).

Truby knows the odds might be against them, but the reason for belief stems from the Hurricanes past. That starts with getting the offense going, as they've only scored two touchdowns in the past four weeks.

"Have to develop an offense and special teams to complement the defense," Truby said. "The defense has been playing very well, but they have had to be on the field way too long.

We need to be more consistent in all phases of our offense. In all games we have had issues with either the skill positions or the offensive line. Sometimes, we have had issues with both. As a coaching staff, we need to do a better job of putting the kids we have in a better position."

That needs to start this week, or Liberty won't have much hope for a shot at districts.

Vital, Barker moving on Bethlehem area golfers competed in the District 11 golf tournament on Monday at the Steel Club.

With only six golfers able to advance to regionals, the Hurricanes were well represented as Matt Vital shot a 74 for third and Jimmy Barker a 75 to take fourth. Both are freshman golfers which says a lot about the Hurricane program going forward.

"I played pretty good on the front," said Vital. "On the back nine, my putting was just off and missed a lot of short ones - short birdie putts."

Still, Vital hit 12 fairways in regulation and collected two birdies and four bogeys on the day to finish two-over on the par-72 course.

Vital started on hole two with a bogey before a birdie at five got him even. He would go on to bogey 10, 11 and 12 before a birdie on 16 got him back to two-over.

"I was trying to get around even par," Vital said. "I think even would have tied for first."

"My driver was working really good today. I only missed 2-3 fairways. My chipping could have used work."

Parkland's Trevor Grimm shot 72 to win the AAA boys event. Emmaus' Matt Zerfass was second with a 73. Blue Mountain's Connor Gherghel shot 76 as did Northampton's Nate Wheeler, the EPC boys champ, to finish fifth and sixth and also move on.

Just missing out was Liberty senior Joey Altomose who shot a 78 for eighth. Freedom's Jake Haberstumpf was tied for ninth with an 80. LHS's Ryan Evans shot an 88 and was 24th.

Freedom's Brenna Ortwein (20) and Alaina Roman (8) go up to block a shot against Bechahi during a recent game.

Pates hot heading into final week

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

With the volleyball regular season wrapping up this week, Freedom holds the cards to the EPC playoff picture.

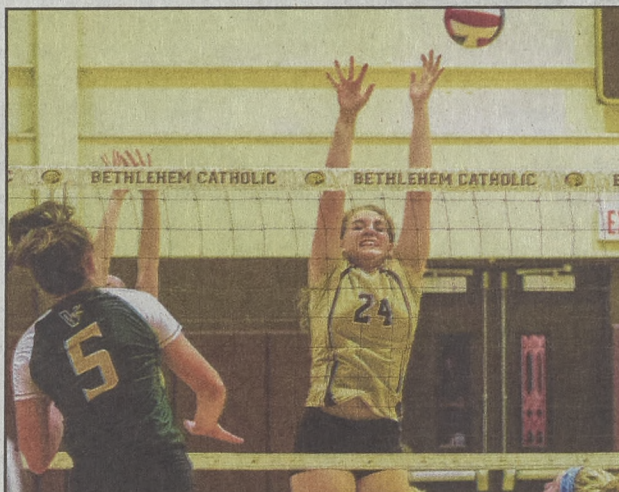

The Patriots (13-2, 12-2) entered this week as the top-seed for the EPC tournament with three matches to go against Bethlehem Catholic, Easton and Liberty this week. With a win over Liberty (11-2, 11-2) already under their belt this season, Thursday's regular season finale against the Hurricanes could be a huge match for league tournament seedings.

"These last three league matches are very importance to us," said Freedom head coach Donna Roman. "To tell you the truth, we have not even considered the seeding in approaching this week. Our focus is on the goals we have set as a team and how we want to play against our city rivals. All three teams we face this week have a lot of fire power and we know that they are going to be coming for us."

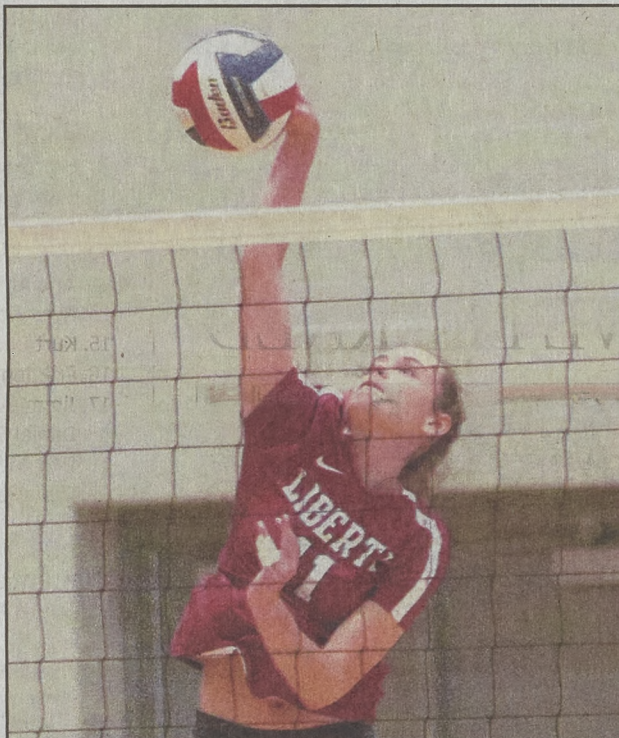

With heightened expectations for the Pates now, Roman didn't always see this type of campaign from her group. The team has won eight straight matches since getting swept by Emmaus on September 16 and Roman feels that loss helped spur this streak of wins.

"Emmaus was certainly a turning point," she said. "We played well but allowed little mistakes throughout the match, and it's those little aspects of the game that make all the difference when you are an undersized team. Part of our theme for this season is "Do your job" and the Emmaus loss really drove that point home. Emmaus taught us a lesson, and helped us to realize how important our individual jobs on the court are."

Liberty and Bethlehem Catholic (11-3, 11-2) will also be in the EPC tournament when things shake out.

Elizabeth Flynn looks for a kill in a recent game.

The Hurricanes have Allen and Dieruff this week before taking on Freedom, while the Hawks face Freedom, Allen and Easton.

In our first meeting with Beca, we had a nice win in the first set, only to drop the next three without putting up much of a fight. Keeping our consistency and an aggressive offense against Beca is a key. And we already know Liberty is coming for us on our Senior Night as we came for them on theirs.

I actually do not think that the top seed has a lot of meaning. Sure it would be great, but this season has shown that the top billing means nothing, and many teams are so dangerous this season. There is no counting out a 7 or 8th ranked team this season. I am expecting to see a lot of exciting matches in the postseason.

I knew that we had the potential to make some noise this season. Though we are still very young, we have the same starting lineup we used last year so the girls have a lot more experience under their belts this season. We also have a very good team chemistry and that has come a long way in tight matches and in those long rallies.

Liberty's girls' soccer team won three consecutive games last week, defeating Allen, 7-1, Dieruff, 5-1, and Northwestern Lehigh, 1-0.

In the Hurricanes' game against Northwestern Lehigh on Saturday, Catherine Kelly scored the game-winning goal in overtime.

In the Hurricanes' game against Dieruff,

Kathryn Wescoe scored two goals in the first half, and Lindsey Hefernan scored one. Hefernan scored again in the opening minutes of the second half, and Kelly scored Liberty's last goal two minutes later.

Assists were made by Alanyse Solomon, Caitlin Ohl, and Wescoe.

Liberty's keepers, Destiny Deschamps and Sophia Albino, combined to make six saves.

Bethlehem Catholic defeated Allen on Friday, 10-1.

Goal scorers for the Hawks were Brooke Bisko, who had a hat trick, Tenley Irr, who had two goals, Marcela Banuelos, Mary Kate O'Reilly, Emma Pfeiffer, Teighan Boyle, and Sarah Knoble.

Earlier in the week, Freedom defeated the Hawks, 3-0.

Lynn finishes third at district tennis

BY KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tnonline.com

Liberty number one singles player Veronica Lynn was a third place medalist at the District XI Class 3A Singles Tennis Championships, played last week at Parkland High School.

"I wanted to make it to finals, but overall, I felt good that I made it that far," Lynn said. "[Coach Chris Conrad] said I did a good job, and it was a good result, being a freshman and making it that far."

Lynn defeated Pottsville's Ayva Strauss in the first round, 6-1, 6-2, Freedom's Isabella Szmodis in the second round, 6-4, 6-3, and Pocono Mountain East's Sarah Naughton in the quarterfinal, 6-2, 7-5, before losing to Stroudsburg's Paraskevi Briegel, 4-6, 5-7, in the semifinal.

Briegel became district singles champion after winning the finals match against Parkland's Joanna Wu, 7-6 (7-4), 4-6, 7-5, on Thursday at Lehigh University.

"Paras was really consistent, and getting everything back, and pushing me backward," said Lynn regarding the semifinal. "My coach told me to move her for short balls and take the ball on the rise. I kind of kept her running around."

Lynn said her quarterfinal match could have gone either way.

"[Sarah's] very good. She and I went to a tiebreaker during the regular season," Lynn said.

Lynn lost that match but won in districts.

"It felt really great—a redemption, in a way," she said.

Naughton was plagued by unforced errors in the first set, and Lynn was being aggressive.

"I kind of got careless in the second set, and she started being consistent, so my coach said, 'Hey, let's do what we normally do,'" said Lynn.

Lynn was able to get more balls back to close out the set.

In Class 2A, three players from Bethlehem Catholic competed in districts.

Cara Magliochetti and Taylor Adams made it to quarterfinals, and Patty Superka competed in the first round but lost to Megan Niechwadowicz, 1-6, 1-6.

Magliochetti defeated Salisbury's Paige Gibbons in the first round, 6-3, 7-5, Blue Mountain's Lily Wright in the second round, 6-1, 6-0, and lost to Moravian Academy's Miranda Gibson in the quarterfinal, 2-6, 1-6.

Adams defeated Jim Thorpe's Christy McLean in the first round, 6-2, 6-1, Central's Niechwadowicz in the second round, 6-2, 2-6, 6-4, and lost to Moravian Academy's Isabella Bartolacci in the quarterfinal, 1-6, 1-6.

Bartolacci was district champ after defeating Saucon Valley's Julia Hernandez, 6-1, 6-1, in the final on Thursday at Lehigh.

NASCAR THIS WEEK

SPEED FREAKS

A few questions we had to ask ourselves

Do we now consider Kyle Larson among championship possibilities?

GODSPEAK: He's the first guy going into Round 3, so yeah, he has a shot at the final four.

KEN'S CALL: Let's slow the roll on that one. I'm gonna say he tops out at final eight.

Which long losing streak ends this week?

GODSPEAK: I'm going to give Jimmie Johnson the nod, which means the No. 48 Chevy now carries the Kelly Curse.

KEN'S CALL: None. Sorry, I'm going with the familiar this week. Either Martin Truex Jr. or Kevin Harvick.

FEUD OF THE WEEK

DENNY HAMLIN VS. JOEY LOGANO

LOGANO: This is pretty tame stuff. Hamlin complained about Logano hanging around the lead pack despite Logano being down by two dozen laps to the leaders.

GODWIN KELLY'S TAKE: Yawn, but here goes. "I thought (Logano) was trying to stay on the lead lap, but they said he was 24 laps down and so he was kind of air-blocking us and we lost the lead," Hamlin said.

GODWIN'S PICKS FOR TALLADEGA

WINNER: Clint Bowyer
REST OF TOP 5: Ricky Stenhouse Jr., Chris Buescher, Kevin Harvick, Erik Jones
FIRST ONE OUT: Kyle Busch
DARK HORSE: Denny Hamlin
DON'T BE SURPRISED IF: Bowyer emerges with a golden ticket to Round 3 of the playoffs.

TALLADEGA

THREE THINGS TO WATCH

Chase Elliott's pit crew pushes his car to the garage at Dover. Now will he have to win Talladega to advance in the playoffs? [AP/JASON MINTO]

1. Up and down

Just a week after winning the Charlotte Roval, Chase Elliott went from first to worst at Dover International Speedway. Elliott exited after turning eight (of 400 scheduled) laps and finished last (38th). Elliott says a win will get him into the next playoff round. "I assume we'll have to win one of these next few weeks," he said. "If you ever make it to Home-stead, you're going to have to win down there."

2. If you recall ...

Chevrolet went through the first nine races of this season without a win. Chevy racing officials strongly urged their stock-car teams to work as one unit at Talladega. They did, and it produced a win for Elliott, who now needs a win to advance in the playoffs. There has been little talk of car manufacturers working together at Talladega, which likely means Chevy officials are working the back lines this time.

3. Preview weekend

Consider Talladega to be something of a preview for Daytona's second Cup Series race next season. Daytona International Speedway's Coke Zero Sugar 400 will end the 26-race regular season and decide the 16-driver playoff field. Midpack teams feel they have an equal chance at Daytona and Talladega. "Everybody is going to be stressed," Kyle Larson said.

DOVER

THREE THINGS WE LEARNED

1. Chevy revival

Chevrolet's two brightest stars have shined in these NASCAR playoffs. Chase Elliott conquered the Charlotte Roval for Hendrick Motorsports, and Kyle Larson won at Dover for Chip Ganassi Racing. "To win a playoff race, my first playoff victory, is special," Larson said.

2. About Chase

Elliott won at the Roval after crashing his stock car. Sunday at Dover, he turned about eight laps before retiring with some sort of horrible mechanical issue. "It just quit running," Elliott said. "It didn't really seem like anything was off. It's an unfortunate way to

3. Mulligan man

Joey Logano was taking pace laps before the race when his No. 22 Team Penske Ford started coming apart. Logano raced into the garage for rear-end repairs. "It was a bummer," Logano said. "Things happen. We definitely used our mulligan."

Hurricanes look to improve after Emmaus loss

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Liberty saw its six-game winning streak come to an end last week following a 6-1 defeat to Emmaus. Losing to Emmaus in field hockey, of course, isn't anything new to schools, but the Hurricanes will look to finish this week off strong before preparing for Saturday's opening round of the EPC playoffs.

The Hurricanes (12-4, 11-4) should be able to lock up a top-five seed this week if they handle their business against East Stroudsburg South (4-11) and Freedom (5-12) in their final two regular season bouts this week.

Head coach Jill Dorn just hopes that the loss to Emmaus can put perspective on what they need to improve upon before the postseason gets underway.

"We'll work on our time of possession with the ball and keeping the ball on our stick," Dorn said. "We understand the implications of what we need to do. We need to elevate the game and speed at which we execute things, but we also need to marry that with appropriate patience when we do possess the ball."

Freedom is out of the playoff picture as the Pates end the season this week, but Bethlehem Catholic (8-9) is still in the hunt to qualify for a District 11 1A spot.

The Hawks face Muhlenberg this week in their regular season finale and a victory would clinch a berth, but a loss could make things tricky as five teams have already qualified. At least six teams will make it, with Becahi currently sitting in that sixth spot. Palmerton (8-9) takes on Northern Lehigh in the Bombers finale and could steal that last spot if the Hawks can't get a result.

Local boys soccer teams pick up wins

BY KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tnonline.com

Bethlehem Catholic's boys' soccer team celebrated senior night with a 3-1 victory over Allen on Friday at Becahi.

Jacob Manhardt scored two goals for the Hawks and Nathan Estock scored one.

Trent Talipan and Daniel DeLuca were credited with assists.

Jackson Gilstrap made 13 saves for Becahi.

The Hawks also beat Dieruff last week, 7-4.

Estock had a hat trick against the Huskies. Jacob Sledz, Talipan, Manhardt, and Rece Martin also scored.

Assists were made by Gilstrap, Rafael SanJuan, DeLuca, Jordan Troxell, Peter Martinez, and Manhardt.

Between the Hawks' games against Allen and Dieruff, Freedom defeated Becahi last Wednesday, 1-0.

Nathanael Rivera scored, and Matt Thomson made two saves for the Patriots.

This past Saturday, Liberty defeated Abington Heights, 2-0.

Chris Schray and Isaiah Trinidad scored for the Hurricanes.

Outdoors: Time of year for fish migrations

BY NICK HRONIAK
Special to the Press

October and November traditionally trigger trout and salmon migrations into Lake Ontario and Lake Erie tributaries where local anglers make the trek to experience some of the best trout and salmon fishing in North America.

Chinook and Coho salmon runs in Lake Ontario tributaries generally begin in mid-September and continue through early November. Steelhead begin their tributary runs in earnest in both these Great Lakes in mid-October, and provide fishing excitement through springtime.

Salmon are on a mission to spawn and they're aggressive and ready to fight. Steelhead on the other hand seem happier and eager to feed, arriving to stuff themselves full of eggs and decaying salmon flesh.

If you plan a trip to pursue these strong fish, the following are the most popular waters that should provide some excellent fishing action:

- Black River (Jefferson County)
- Salmon River (Oswego County)
- Oak Orchard Creek (Orleans County)
- Lower Niagara River (Lake Ontario)
- Cattaraugus Creek (Lake Erie)

According to Willie, from Willie's Bait & Tackle in Cementon, several customers traveled to Salmon River in Pulaski, New York, last week and had terrific action on Coho in the 5-12-pound range. Although the daily limit is three, Willie said his customers could have caught them all day long. "This was the best run of Coho my customers have seen in a while," Willie retells.

Willie went on to say that the guys were also picking up a few browns and steelheads and were using egg sacs, rubber salmon eggs and, believe it or not, Berkley's pink, three-inch trout worms for the Coho.

Easton angler and friend Tom Marchetto, also hit Pulaski and in three days fishing during the last week in September, he reported there was plenty of fish from the DSR up to Pineville (basically the lower stretch of the Salmon River). Marchetto and buddies fished the Staircase Hole area for all three days where the water flow held at around 375 cfs, so access was good. Marchetto said they used a variety of baits including egg sacs, plastic eggs and various flies. Fishing was good, he opined, considering major runs had not yet occurred. The trio focused on Coho and steelheads, but the majority of the hookups were kings (Chinook). Battles were intensive which is indicative of fresh fish coming up the river. Marchetto believed fishing could have been even better had the temperature not been 84 one day. Some rain cooled things off a bit making conditions more typical for fishing there.

"The three of us brought home five kings and one Coho, but the take could have been higher had we chose to keep what was landed. Overall, another successful salmon trip," he proclaimed.

Reporting for On the Water Magazine, my fellow New York state outdoor writer and longtime friend Bill Hilts Jr. says the Salmon River has fish spread out from top to bottom while the lower end of the river is getting the most fishing pressure. He reports anglers have been getting into kings in the DSR, Black Hole, Staircase/Longbridge, Town Pool, Ballpark, Papermill and RT2A areas.

Bill goes on to report that in the mid-upper end of the river, fish continue to be holding in and around the deeper holes and larger runs such as Sportsman Pool, Pineville, Trestle Pool, Ellis Cove and Schoolhouse Pool. Additionally, fish are holding in both the Upper and Lower Fly Zone.

Anglers there are using glo-bugs, sucker spawn, estaz eggs, hot stones, steelhead hammer, egg sucking leeches, comets, bunny leeches and Woolly Buggers.

Area harriers race recently at Whitehall

BY KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tnonline.com

Bethlehem Catholic, Freedom, and Liberty's cross country teams competed against Whitehall, Emmaus, and Allentown Central Catholic last Tuesday at Whitehall.

In boys' team results, Becahi lost to Whitehall, 25-34, Emmaus, 15-49, and Central, 20-41. Freedom defeated Whitehall, 29-27, Central, 23-33, and lost to Emmaus, 22-37. Liberty defeated Whitehall, 18-45, Central, 23-32, and lost to Emmaus, 20-43.

Liberty's Cole Frank took first place in the boys' race with a time of 18:13. Freedom's Alex Hume was third with a time of 18:25, and teammate Alex Heidemann placed fifth with a time of 18:32.

Also from Freedom, Eric Mann finished in ninth place in 19:06. Becahi's Matt Millen placed 11th in 19:09. Liberty's Casey Frank was 14th in 19:20.

In girls' team results, Becahi defeated Whitehall, 26-29, and lost to Emmaus, 19-44, and Central, 19-40. Freedom defeated Whitehall, 28-29, Central, 26-30, and lost to Emmaus, 20-43. Liberty defeated Whitehall, 16-47, Central, 16-47, and lost to Emmaus, 23-34.

Liberty's Emily Jobs won the girls' race in 21:29, and Freedom's Lauren Charboneau was right behind in 21:33. Becahi's Margaret Burke came in fourth in 21:43.

From Liberty, Belle Weikert was eighth in 22:01, Madison Drager was ninth in 22:08, and Camryn Bortz was 10th in 22:33.

The Patriots can celebrate being back on top of the poll this week...

Pete's Top-10: Pates back on top of poll

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

With Easton proving it really wasn't the top squad in the area, Freedom regains the top spot in this week's poll. However, Nazareth is just as viable of a contender.

This week's Becahi-Easton matchup will be telling for both schools, as it's certainly the marquee bout of the week, while the Colonial League saw a shake-up with Northwestern downing Southern Lehigh.

Northampton keeps piling on points to lead the EPC North, but they'll face Whitehall in two weeks to give them a taste of what they can do against the EPC South again.

The leaves are turning, the temps are cooling down and this is the time of year where football really heats up.

1. Freedom (6-1)

Last week's rank: #3
Freedom back on top where it belongs.
The Pick: Freedom 28 - Emmaus 7

2. Nazareth (6-1)
Last week's rank: #2
Blue Eagles should continue Whitehall's misery.
The Pick: Nazareth 35 - Whitehall 14

3. Easton (6-1)
Last week's rank: #1
Big test for Easton this week to see if it's a contender.
The Pick: Easton 28 - Bethlehem Catholic 21

4. Bethlehem Catholic (4-2)
Last week's rank: #4
Hawks get a bout with their EPC North brethren.
The Pick: Easton 28 - Bethlehem Catholic 21

5. Parkland (5-2)
Last week's rank: #5
Trojans should wallop Stroudsburg.
The Pick: Parkland 42 - Stroudsburg 7

6. Central Catholic (4-3)
Last week's rank: #8
Did the Vikings turn the corner

last week with a 35-point offensive burst?
The Pick: Central Catholic 24 - Liberty 10

7. Emmaus (4-3)
Last week's rank: #6
Green Hornets have been underwhelming and this week isn't any easier.
The Pick: Freedom 28 - Emmaus 7

8. Northwestern (6-1)
Last week's rank: #9
Big win for the Tigers last week over Solehi. Can they avoid the letdown?
The Pick: Northwestern 35 - Saucon Valley 21

9. Southern Lehigh (6-1)
Last week's rank: #7
Spartans get a good bounce-back opportunity this week.
The Pick: Solehi 40 - Pen Argyl 14

10. Northampton (6-1)
Last week's rank: #10
K-Kids are torching teams and Allen won't be any different.
The Pick: Northampton 49 - Allen 7

Last week's record: 5-2
Overall record: 41-11

Lehigh, Moravian win

Freshman Zaythan Hill scored the go-ahead touchdown on a nine-yard run with 33 seconds remaining and the Lehigh defense capped a superb effort by stopping Colgate one yard short as the Mountain Hawks opened Patriot League play with their second consecutive win, a 21-14 triumph over the defending Patriot League champion Raiders in the league opener for both teams Saturday at Andy Kerr Stadium.

The Mountain Hawks were stuffed on a 4th-and-1 deep in Colgate territory with 1:22 to play, but Colgate's Grant Breneman fumbled and sophomore Bartek Rybka recovered. Four plays later, Hill scored his first career touchdown to put Lehigh in front for the first time. Colgate drove down the field in the final 29 seconds, but on 1st-and-Goal from the Lehigh nine, Breneman his Garrett Oahey in the left flat, but junior Divine Buckrham came through with the game-saving tackle at the one yard line.

The Lehigh defense was outstanding for a second straight week as the Mountain Hawks held Colgate to 213 total yards and just nine yards rushing. The Mountain Hawks sacked Breneman seven times, one week after sacking Merrimack quarterbacks six times.

The Moravian College football team ran for 174 yards and two touchdowns and passes for 251 yards and three more scores as the Greyhounds finished off the first half of the season with a 33-16 victory at Gettysburg College in Centennial Conference Saturday afternoon.

Senior running back Roberto Diez (Freedom HS) posted his third straight career high with 174 yards on 31 carries while freshman running back Carrington Smith (Easton, Pa.) added eight yards on two attempts. Freshman quarterback/running back Sherwin Stewart (Stroudsburg HS) ran for two yards and a touchdown on four carries while sophomore quarterback Christopher Mills (Penncrest HS) had one touchdown on four attempts.

Mills also completed 18-of-24 passes for 251 yards with three touchdowns and an interception. Junior wide receiver Nick Petros (Liberty HS) caught a team-high seven passes for 64 yards, and he also punted three times for an average of 41.3 yards. Senior wide receiver Alex Pierce (Cliffwood Beach, N.J.) caught six passes for 112 yards and two touchdowns, the second 100-yard game of his career and first with multiple touchdowns. Sophomore wide receiver Eddie Olsen (Easton HS) had four receptions for 70 yards while senior tight end Nick Cregar (High Bridge, N.J.) had one catch for a five-yard touchdown, his first career touchdown.

blocks." With Easton coming to town after suffering their first loss of the season last week to Freedom (6-1), Henrich knows he'll be facing a hungry Rover squad.

"Easton is a typical physical aggressive football team with a feature back [Nahjee Adams]," he said. "Defensively, they are as usual very aggressive, like to bring pressure and play man coverage. We need to match their physicality and contain their running game and be more consistent on offense." The Patriots 26-14 win over Easton puts three teams at the top of the EPC South with 6-1 marks with Nazareth, Easton and Freedom all vying for the division crown.

The victory also marked the 100th of head coach Jason Roeder's career, giving him a career mark of 100-66.

Freedom will host Emmaus this Friday night with the Hornets (4-3) coming off a 35-17 loss to Central Catholic.

Sponsors are being sought for the Puerto Rican Beneficial Society's 66 anniversary celebration at 5 p.m. Oct. 20 at the society, 205 E. Third St.

The society continues to serve new Pennsylvanians coming from Puerto Rico, especially after the country's devastation from Hurricane Maria.

For more information, contact the society by calling 484-767-9690 or 484-223-4743 or emailing onegiron@hgsklawyers.com

STOCKINGS

Donations sought through Nov. 9

The Press, a division of Times News, LLC, a Pencor company, will once again partner with Keystone Military Families to act as a collection site for the Stockings For Soldiers program. The program generally ships 8,000 to 10,000 holiday stockings to American servicemen and women stationed around the world.

The stockings are filled with donations of food, hygiene and other requested items, as well as holiday decorations and cards.

These simple gifts mean a great deal to the very deserving men and women who sacrifice so much for us and are unable to be home for the holidays.

From now through Nov. 9, The Press will collect donations at its office at 1633 N. 26th St., Allentown.

Readers are invited to drop off donated items and Christmas cards with messages of hope and cheer during that time.

Unangst Tree Farms, 7317 Bethlehem-Bath Pike, Bath, has agreed to be a collection site for this program as well.

A list of requested care package items can also be found at The Press office and on the Keystone Military Families Facebook page.

Monetary donations are crucial to help defray the cost of shipping the stockings.

In 2018, Pencor collected over four tons of donations, over 20,000 cards and $30,000 for shipping.

"The generosity, support and kindness of our community for this program is overwhelming and makes me so proud to help lead this effort once again," Cindy Melinger, Blue Ridge marketing/communications coordinator, said. "Our goal for this year is to do better because our military men and women deserve it."

Wind Creek

sponsors contest

Wind Creek Bethlehem is giving local nonprofit organizations an opportunity to win $25,000. The contest will run in tandem with the property's Grand Opening Ceremonies Oct. 10.

A total of 10, active 501(c)(3) organizations were selected to participate in the contest. The selection was based on previous partnerships, locality and established community relationships built over the past decade: ArtsQuest; Hispanic Center Lehigh Valley; Hogar Crea - Women's Center; Junior League of the Lehigh Valley; St Luke's University Health Network, the Foundation For The Bethlehem Area School District; Turning Point Lehigh Valley; Via of the Lehigh Valley; Victory House of Lehigh Valley; and YWCA Bethlehem.

Participants were asked to submit a 30 - 60 second video that showcased their organization, who they are, what they do and if awarded $25,000, how the money would be spent. Each video was posted in random order on Wind Creek Bethlehem's Official Facebook Page in September. The winner will be announced on Thursday, October 10, 2019 during Wind Creek Bethlehem's Grand Opening Ceremonies.

YWCA

Climate Change panel Oct. 16

YWCA Bethlehem is sponsoring "Climate Change: Lehigh Valley Strategies for Today & Tomorrow" Oct. 16, at Kirkland Village, a Bethlehem retirement community. A five-member panel, including staff from the Lehigh Valley Planning Commission, will address approaches Allentown, Bethlehem and Easton are undertaking on climate change and answer audience questions about plans for the future. The free 90-minute program starts at 11 a.m. and includes time for audience questions.

The program will introduce the YWCA's 2020 Great Decisions eight-part lecture series on foreign policy issues which runs from February through March. Attendees of the Oct. 16 panel will be able to sign up for this 2020 winter lecture series, for which there is a fee.

For questions, call the YWCA Bethlehem at 610-867-4669, ext. 101 or e-mail adminassist@ywca.org or ywca.org or ywcabethlehem.org.

Grade: 11th
Family members: Gail (mom), Jim (dad), Jack (Older brother), Ryan (younger brother), Piper (dog)
Favorite subject(s): My favorite subject is definitely journalism, because becoming a journalist is what I want to become. In journalism, I get to experience my dream career every single day.
Activities: Outside of journalism I am on my school's tennis team and I love to play tennis with both of my parents in my free time. I am also largely involved in acting, it has been a huge part of my life since I was 10 and I love to act. I also love skiing, I learned when I was 7 and have loved doing it ever since.
Next steps: After high school, I want to attend a university to study broadcast journalism and radio and tv, to eventually become a broadcast journalist. I also want to continue acting with my acting coach.
Career goals: I want to branch out into numerous sources of income; however, my main career goal is to become a broadcast journalist for a major news outlet, such as Fox News, CNN, or even smaller social media news such as MTV. And having a major acting role in a movie wouldn't be so bad either.
Heroes: My heroes are both of my parents. No matter what I've decided to do, they have always been right by my side supporting me. I cannot express the gratitude that I have for both my mom and dad. Throughout all of my decisions, my parents have stuck by me no matter what. Both of them are huge role models for me in different ways. My dad is so strong, not just physically, even though he has a million things on his list of to-do's he still has time to come and watch any of my sports events. My mom is also strong, she keeps her cool in times of stress, which holds the whole family down. I would be a proud adult if I turned out like the both of them when I am older.
Hobbies: My hobbies include skiing, reading, playing tennis, playing basketball, and spending time with family and friends.

Current job(s): I am currently not working; however, this past summer I worked as a lifeguard at Colonial Crest apartments.
Volunteer/community work: For my community service hours, I assisted my acting coach this past summer with her younger acting class in NYC. I helped her with anything the kids needed, acting-wise.
Likes: I enjoy spending time with my family on the weekends; I love playing board games with them. I also love doing things outside such as skiing, walking my dog, and playing basketball with my brother.
Dislikes: I don't like when my phone runs out of battery and I also dislike the smell of celery.
Greatest accomplishment (so far): I would have to say that my greatest accomplishment so far was interning at WDIY radio station over the summer. I was extremely happy with my work because I created three segments, two for Festival Unbound (a festival happening in October) and one that I constructed by myself. The one I constructed by myself was about my journey being diagnosed with celiac disease. All three segments will be aired on their radio station.
Advice for peers: I think that the best advice I could give to any of my peers is that you're only in high school once, make an impression on your school and strive to do your best every single day. Be so successful that your future self can look back and say that you are proud of what you've accomplished. As my mom tells me every single day, "rock your day, I know you will."

FREEDOM HS NOTES
By Anna Isbell

Royalty announced

Homecoming plays a major role in most highschoolers' lives. It is the time to take pictures, to get ready with friends, and to head off to a dance that celebrates the age old tradition of Homecoming King and Queen. Freedom held its Homecoming weekend Sept. 27 and 28.

The tradition at Freedom is to hold a pep rally to introduce the Homecoming court to the students. The event started with a moving rendition of the Star Spangled Banner as the American Sign Language students, led by Kimberly Elliott, signed the lyrics while the music played. From there, all homecoming nominees paired into couples and performed skits such as "Grease," Mario Brothers, "Mamma Mia" and "Wizard of Oz." The performances were met with crowd approval. Other pep rally events included announcing all the fall sports teams and a dance routine by Freedom's Dance Team.

"I really had an amazing time making a skit, presenting it, and taking all the pictures," said Lily Judge in an email interview.

On Friday, the Freedom football team demolished Pocono Mountain West with a final score of 42-8. Touchdowns were scored by Eloge Kalubi, Vince Repp, Owen Johnson, Maddy Russin, and Gabe Caton. Jared Jenkins threw four touchdown passes and Nick Stannard kicked six extra points for the team. The theme of this year's Homecoming game was neon clothing, so the riot squad was decked out in everything neon.

The Homecoming court was announced at halftime during the game. The nominees for Homecoming Queen were Gabby Book, Grace Grandinetti, Karrington Hall, Lily Judge, Doris Muncan, Nasia Palaos, Grainne Schroeder and Kira Yost. The nominees for Homecoming King were Gabe Caton, Ryan Hill, Jared Jenkins, Thales Maciel, Jimmy Moniz, Vince Repp, Nick Stannard and Matt Thomsen. All of the nominees were escorted across the field with their family members, and their accomplishments were announced as they processed.

The Homecoming dance was held Saturday night. Many students gathered before the event to take pictures and to don their lucky I was to be on the court in the first place, and how good of a time I had actually leading up to the Homecoming dance," said Hill in an email interview. All the Homecoming nominees are involved at Freedom through extracurricular activities and have contributed to the school throughout their four years. "I am part of several clubs and organizations in the school! I am a captain for the soccer team, a defender for the lacrosse team, a liaison for MiniTHON, the female representative for SAAC, the student body secretary, and part of BBQ club. I have many friends in different activities too, such as theater, band, and boys' athletics. Being involved in high school is honestly the best way to spend your time; you meet so many people and make so many friends," Judge said.

ELECTION POLICY
A message to readers, candidates

As we approach the Nov. 5 municipal election, the Bethlehem Press, in the interest of fairness, will halt the publication of columns by local government officials and letters to the editor submitted by those running for office.

The last week for publication of columns by local government officials running for office was the Oct. 2 edition.

We will, of course, continue to cover the local races, in news stories generated by our own reporters.

Letters to the Editor, written by members of the community in support of a candidate need to be received by The Press no later than 5 p.m. Oct. 11.

The Roman Road

The Roman Road shows the way to eternal life! These Scriptures from the book of Romans in the Bible are powerful truths that if sincerely believed and fully acted upon will guide us to the only way to heaven. The first one reveals our standing with God.

Romans 3:23 "For all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God." That's a stubborn fact with which we cannot argue! Our sin separates us from a holy God in this life and in the life to come.

Romans 5:8 "But God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." Good news! God loved us enough to provide His own Son, Jesus, as an atoning sacrifice to save us from sin's devastating penalty.

Romans 6:23a "For the wages of sin is death..." That's eternal death—separation from God forever! Thankfully, there is an alternative!

Romans 6:23b "...but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." Think of it! Jesus took our death penalty so we could have God's gift of eternal life! Here's how to receive it:

Romans 10:9 "That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved."

Romans 10:13 "For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved." That includes you! You can be saved right now by accepting Jesus into your heart as your risen Savior while calling on Him in prayer. Do it now! Let us know that you have done this. Then serve Him:

Romans 12:1-2 "...present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service. And be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God."

Allentown Symphony Pops salutes Sondheim, Webber

BY KATHY LAUER-WILLIAMS
 Special to The Press

Two of the greatest living composers of Broadway theater music will be honored by the Allentown Symphony Pops by featuring three musical veterans, including a Tony winner and the actor who portrayed the Phantom in "The Phantom of the Opera" more than 2,000 times.

The "ASO Pops Series," with the orchestra conducted by Ronald Demkee, presents "The Best of Broadway: A Tribute to Sondheim & Lloyd Webber," 7:30 p.m. Oct. 12, Miller Symphony Hall, Allentown.

The soloists are Tony Award-winner Debbie Gravitte, former Phantom Hugh Panaro and Scarlett Strallen, who is now appearing on Broadway.

"This is an incredible program," Gravitte says. "We are just starting our third season with it and it has just grown in popularity."

Gravitte says that the first half of the concert will focus on Stephen Sondheim, known for darker musicals, including "Sweeney Todd," "Company," "Gypsy," "West Side Story" and "Into the Woods."

"These two guys [Sondheim and Webber], who happen to have the same birthday, are two of the modern era's biggest writers," Gravitte says. "We could easily do four shows of this material."

She says all three of the singers get their "moment in the sun."

Gravitte's moment is when she sings "Everything's Coming Up Roses" from "Gypsy."

She says she can't wait to sing the classic song backed by the brass and strings of the ASO.

"It will be incredible," she says. "The Sondheim music is all gorgeous and thought-provoking. And then we throw in a song like "Not Getting Married" from "Company," which is very funny."

The concert's second half is Andrew Lloyd Webber music from his hit shows, including "Phantom of the Opera," "Cats," "Evita" and "Jesus Christ Superstar."

Songs will include "Don't Cry for me Argentina" from "Evita," several numbers from "Phantom of the Opera" highlighting Panaro and "a few surprises," says Gravitte.

Gravitte will sing the hit song "Memory" from "Cats."

She says that while the three performers are doing lots of different material, "the wonderful thing about this is we are so comfortable and love working with each other."

Gravitte says she also loves working with regional orchestras.

"They usually are a reflection of the community where we are singing," she says. "It really gives you the flavor of the community."

Gravitte received a Tony for Best Featured Actress in a Musical for her performance in Jerome Robbins' "Broadway" in 1989, as well as a Drama Desk Award nomination and New York Showstopper Award. She made her Broadway debut in "They're Playing Our Song" in 1979 and went on to appear in "Perfectly Frank," "Blues In The Night," "Ain't Broadway Grand," "Zorba," "Chicago" and "Les Miserables."

Gravitte has appeared in the Encore's series productions of "The Boys From Syracuse," "Tenderloin" and "Carnival" at New York's City Center, and has performed her nightclub act from New York's 54 Below to London's Pizza on the Park.

She has sung with more than 100 orchestras and appeared with Keith Lockhart and the Boston Pops, Lang Lang and the Chinese Philharmonic in Beijing, Peter Nero and the Philly Pops and Marvin Hamlisch and the National Symphony, as well as with the London, Aalborg, and Birmingham Symphony Orchestras, Stockholm Philharmonic, the Gotesborg and Jerusalem Symphonies, Munich Philharmonic, Royal Scottish National Orchestra, Orchestra Massimo del Palermo, and Symphonica of Brazil.

Kacper Abolik in Baum exhibition

BY ED COURRIER
 Special to The Press

Celebrating celebrity and other subjects, Emmaus-based artist Kacper Abolik's exhibition, "Year of the Dog," continues through Oct. 18 in the David E. Rodale and Rodale Family Galleries, The Baum School of Art, Allentown.

The abstract painter's work includes bouquets, stylized copies of famous artwork, and portraits of famous people.

His recently-created cityscape of Allentown is on display. "Allentown Center City," (2019; mixed media on glass; 19.25 in. x 14.75 in.) provides an energetic nighttime view of the monument at Hamilton and Seventh streets.

Abolik is scheduling free portrait sittings Mondays at the Baum School with an option to purchase the paintings.

Abolik, a first-generation American born to Polish immigrants, is a protégé of artist Barnaby Ruhe, who took him under his wing at a young age.

"He's like a second father to me," says Abolik.

In addition to his mentor's influence, Abolik finds inspiration from "Chinese characters, eastern ideology and spirituality, and iconic art and artists throughout history, which he intertwines with modern figures," according to a posted description of his work.

After graduating from Parkland High School in 2012,

Abolik attended college in Warsaw, Poland, to study Chinese language and culture.

Abolik considers himself a visual reporter of the contemporary celebrity-obsessed age of information. He repurposes well-known images, looking to inspire a new perspective on people or objects that have appeared multiple times in popular culture.

"Celebrity and fashion are just so important to me," Abolik says.

His celebrity work includes lively portraits commissioned by rapper Playboi Carti and rapper and hip hop musician A$AP Rocky. On view are portraits of Madonna, fashion stylist Lotta Volkova, and French business magnate and art collector Bernard Jean Étienne Arnault.

As with "Dogs V1" (2019; acrylic, oil, ink on paper and canvas; 12 in. x 12 in.), the artist renders his subjects in what he says are "combinations of different materials." "This is my first time drawing dogs," says Abolik, "I think dogs are quite magic."

Although he is rooted in the Lehigh Valley, either painting out of his mother Urszula Abolik's Amber Col-

Gravitte can be heard as one of the voices in Disney's animated feature film, "The Little Mermaid."

Panaro is best-known for having played the role of the Phantom in Broadway's "The Phantom of the Opera" more than 2,000 times, including the 25th anniversary production.

Panaro is one of the few actors to be cast by Harold Prince as both the Phantom and Raoul in the show's Broadway production and is now starring as Sweeney Todd in the immersive Off-Broadway production of "Sweeney Todd."

Panaro made his Broadway debut in the original production of "Les Misérables" as Marius, the role he originated in the First National Company. He also created the roles of Buddy in the original "Side Show," Julian Craster in Jule Styne's last musical, "The Red Shoes," and the title role in the American premiere of Cameron Mackintosh's "Martin Guerre."

At the 5th Avenue Theater in Seattle, Panaro played George Seurat in Sam Buntrock's Tony Award-winning production of "Sunday in the Park with George," and Robert in Sondheim's "Company."

His performance

as Jean Valjean in the Walnut Street Theater production of "Les Misérables" garnered him the Barrymore Award, and in 2012, he received the Edwin Forrest Award for his long-term contribution to the theater.

Panaro has performed with numerous symphony orchestras, including Dallas, Detroit, San Francisco, Seattle and Utah Symphonies, and the London Sinfonietta. He was a guest soloist with the Buffalo Philharmonic, conducted by Marvin Hamlisch.

Strallen has starred in productions on Broadway, London's West End, and is a frequent soloist on the concert stage. She is starring on Broadway as Gwendolyn in "Travesties" and has appeared in the title role of "Mary Poppins." Her performance of Josephine in "HMS Pinafore" at Regents Park Open Air Theatre brought her an Olivier nomination.

A frequent soloist with orchestras around the world, Strallen made her German debut at the Philharmonic in Berlin with the John Wilson Orchestra in "A Celebration of the MGM Film Musicals."

Her film and television credits include the title role in the BBC production of "Mary Poppins" celebrating Queen Elizabeth's 80th birthday.

Ilene Hochberg Wood handbag collection in museums' 'Purseology' exhibitions

When Ilene Hochberg Wood's mother gifted her a little red handbag as a child, there was no way to know that the bag would become the basis of a world-class collection.

Now, years after the first bag that started it all, a portion of Wood's collection is being displayed in several museums.

"PURSEology: A Stylish Handbag History," opening Oct. 11, will showcase more than 400 handbags at Historic Bethlehem Museums & Sites' Kemerer Museum of Decorative Arts and Moravian Museum of Bethlehem.

An opening reception for "PURSEology: A Stylish Handbag History" will be held 5:30 - 8 p.m. Oct. 11 at the Kemerer Museum of Decorative Arts.

Get a first look at the exhibit and meet the collector herself, as well as Karen Giberson, president of The Accessories Council, a trade organization dedicated to fashion accessory products with corporate members such as Swarovski, Bloomingdale's, and Tory Burch. Admission is free for members and includes wine and light refreshments. Pre-registration is required and space is limited.

An additional 100 handbags are on display

Lehigh Valley artists. The Moravian Museum will focus on a selection of needlepoint handbags paired with examples of needlepoint from Historic Bethlehem's collection.

"We are thrilled to bring 'PURSEology' to life at the Kemerer Museum of Decorative Arts. This is the first exhibit in the history of the museum that covers such depth and diversity of a critical fashion accessory, the handbag," said Lori Ann Wukitsch, Vice President of Historic Bethlehem Museums & Sites.

"We encourage visitors to experience what we hope is a fun, intriguing and tantalizing exhibit, and that they will develop their own sense of the expanse of Ilene's Wood's unique collection," Wukitsch said.

Exhibition elements include: explore a timeline of the handbag, representing the trends of each decade; the Handbag Hall of Fame, featuring the most rare, unusual, and expensive purses acquired by Wood in her decades of collecting, and a wall that demonstrates the democratization of fashion, from designs right off the runway to mass-produced bags available at big box retailers.

in an exhibition at America On Wheels, "Cars & Purses: A Timeless Pairing." This display of automotive-themed bags includes designers such as Kate Spade, Karl Lagerfeld, and John Gaillano. A special combination ticket is available Oct. 11 through December.

The styles in the collection range from folk art, to contemporary designers, to embroidered. "PURSEology" is the inaugural debut of a curated selection of Ilene Hochberg Wood's bag collection, which numbers into the thousands and believed to be the largest in the United States, if not the world.

Don't join in checkout line tirade

Dear Jacquelyn, While shopping last week I had an uncomfortable experience at the checkout counter. The line was long. A customer behind me was loudly expressing disapproval. How should I respond to a stranger's rude and impatient behavior?

Dear Reader, We all have to wait at

RESPECTFULLY YOURS
By Jacquelyn Youst

times, taking our turns and being courteous. But I suppose someone didn't get the memo. There's a chance the impatient stranger had a lot on his or her mind and may have been trying to multitask through their day. The frustration built and you became an unlucky witness.

Anytime you encounter a situation like this, remember you are only responsible for your own behavior. You can't control anyone else. Practice controlling your emotional response. Don't take someone else's impatience personally.

When a customer behind you is becoming noticeably antsy, it's best to stay quiet. Maybe he or she is having a bad day and is venting.

No matter what, don't join in the tirade, as it only will make the situation worse. Choose to be polite. Take a few deep breaths, shake it off and if possible, find humor in the situation.

Anytime you are dealing with strangers who commit questionable infractions, I suggest smiling politely and without judgement. You probably will never know what events may have transpired that day to cause the rude behavior.

In the fast-paced world we live in, we could all use a little more patience. It's time we all slow down and handle impatience with patience.

Respectfully Yours,

Jacquelyn

WEDDING

M-Kocher Couple married at Walnutport Canal

Taylor Kocher and Sanjeev M were married June 15, 2019, at the Walnutport Canal pavilion.

Festivities commenced at 4 p.m. with a short ceremony surrounded by close family and friends from all over.

This was followed by a casual reception and evening of dancing, heartwarming toasts, and great food and conversation.

For the ceremony, the bride rode in a classic car driven by a close family friend, accompanied by her maid of honor, sister and best friend Madison Kocher.

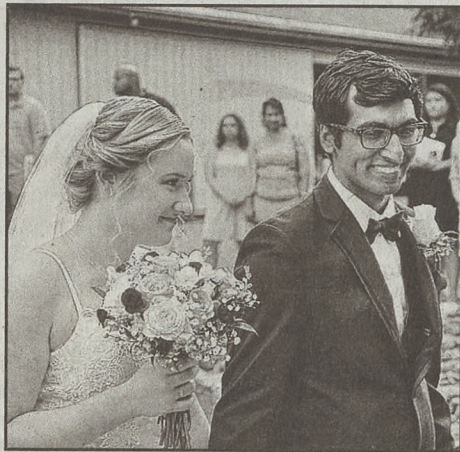

Following, there was a short cocktail hour during which the couple and family had beautiful pictures taken adjacent to the canal.

Dinner was a buffet with classic barbecue food, paired with homemade sangria.

Four of the couple's closest friends gave hilarious and touching toasts after the meal, full of anecdotes (some quite embarrassing) about the couple.

Next, the newlyweds danced to a cover of "I Can't Help Falling in Love" and after, the bride and her father danced to "My Girl," which was met with tears from everyone.

The rest of the evening consisted of catching up and greeting family and friends.

Taylor Kocher and Sanjeev M

There were about 80 people in attendance. The décor was rustic and filled with an array of daisies and baby's breath in colors of pink, green and earthy tones, and with plenty of twinkling lights.

A delicious variety of cupcakes ended the evening. Guests took home locally-roasted coffee as a favor.

The couple honeymooned the weekend after in Newport Beach, Calif., about one hour from their new home in Los Angeles.

The bride, the daughter of Jodi and Earl, is originally from Germansville. The groom, the son of Richard and Lakshmi, is from Singapore.

In celebration of a longtime friendship

In a recent column I asked readers if they thought Facebook was a positive or negative force in their life.

Some responded by saying they would never use Facebook because the lack of privacy could result in problems.

Others said they use it every day and would be lost without it.

Today I had one positive outcome from Facebook when I learned two of my closest friends were celebrating their 60th wedding anniversary. I always keep track of their birthdays but not anniversaries so I would have missed congratulating them if I didn't see it mentioned on Facebook.

Being married 60 years is a whale of an accomplishment.

In the case of Franck and Jan Johannesen, I can say it's what we call "a good marriage." It's more than just being married for a long time. They are always there for each other and I've learned a lot about a thriving relationship from watching them.

Those of you who know the former Clamtown residents know they both share an easygoing disposition along with a sense of humor.

"We all need a sense of humor to get through life," claims Jan.

When I talked with her today she mentioned she and Franck have actually been a couple for 64 years. After meeting at a church youth group they were quickly drawn to each other and dated for four years before their marriage. "We can't say we didn't know each other long enough," she says.

According to Bride's magazine, the typical cost of a wedding in 2017 was $27,000. But in 2018, that number increased to more than $44,000.

I'm guessing that $44,000 was probably more than Franck and Jan paid for their first home. If I remember correctly, and I'm no longer sure I do, in 1966, when Andy and I bought our first home it was about $32,000 but it needed a lot of work. We didn't call a contractor as many do today. Andy did it all himself.

When I called Jan today we had fun reminiscing how "way back then" we got by on a shoestring.

"We sure didn't spend big bucks on a wedding," she says. "I made my own wedding gown from satin a friend gave me. My mother crocheted a tiara to go over my veil."

Their wedding reception was in the church hall.

Jan was a scholarship student in college when she and Franck were married. What they didn't know was that her scholarship would be revoked if she married. "It was a real blow," she says. "Franck was just out of college working his first job. We struggled but we got by."

If our generation did anything well, it could be that we "got by," no matter how tight finances were. I think it's because we had lower expectations. We didn't expect to be able to buy a house right away along with all

WARMEST REGARDS
By Pattie Mihalik
newsgirl@comcast.net

new furniture.

We scrimped and saved until we had 20 percent for a down payment on a house, then, little by little, as we could afford it, we furnished the home.

Probably the most important decision we can make in a marriage isn't picking the right house. It's picking the right spouse.

That's just one more thing Franck and Jan did well.

"We trained each other well," she quips.

Then she gives one secret to having a good relationship. "We always want to please each other."

That's powerful.

When Jan admits she "gives more than she takes," Franck's comeback is, "That's just as it should be."

Everyone laughs at their easygoing banter. But then again, it's easy to laugh when you are around them.

There's an old saying that goes like this:

People come into our lives for a reason, a season or forever.

Through the years I've found that to be true. I always found that "forever friends" are few and far between.

Franck and Jan are forever friends.

We hit it off right from the start.

I always loved visiting them at their Clamtown farmhouse. From the time I opened the door I felt the coziness and warmth of a welcoming home.

They usually had classical music playing softly in the background and often Franck serenaded us at night playing the guitar and singing folksongs. There were nights when, full of contentment, I fell asleep on the furry white rug in front of their fireplace.

One thing I found over the years is that it's hard to find a couple that are perfectly compatible for both you and your spouse. Oftentimes two women may hit it off and enjoy each other's company. But when they get together with their husbands, the foursome doesn't quite work.

Jan and I and Andy and Franck were a perfect fit. We had so many good times together.

The mark of a true friendship is when they are there for you when things are tough. It was being there for each other during the storms of life that made our bond of friendship stronger.

When Andy passed away, Franck and Jan gave me a ticket to Florida for my first holiday without Andy. It was that visit that eventually led to my moving to Florida, 45 minutes away from Franck and Jan.

Today, as I toast their anniversary, I also celebrate our strong 35-year friendship.

Forever friends are certainly something to celebrate.

Is daughter, 15, old enough to date?

Q. My 15-year daughter wants to date. Is she old enough? Should we insist on meeting the boy first? Should we talk to her?

As to whether or not your daughter is old enough to date, panelist Pam Wallace said that depends on the girl's maturity and ability to be responsible.

"The parents know their child best. Is she mature enough to go on a date? Also, does she have ground rules on what to do if something unexpected happens? Will she reach out to her parents if she is in an uncomfortable situation?" asked Wallace.

"I would want more details on how everyone is defining 'date,'" panelist Mike Ramsey asked.

"It can mean a lot of different things to kids, and other things to parents," Ramsey continued, adding, "What are the teens planning on doing on the date? If they are talking about going to a movie or hanging out at the mall with other kids,

THE FAMILY PROJECT

By Carole Gorney

then I think 15 is an appropriate age."

As for meeting the boy, panelist Chad Stefanyak said, "She is only 15, so I think it is right for the parents to want to meet the boy first."

Since transportation likely will be a consideration, Stefanyak said, "It will give the parents the opportunity to meet the boy without embarrassing the daughter by making it seem like they are being overly strict."

Wallace said, "This could be the teens' first attempts at a relationship in their lives, so the first date could have a lot of importance."

The matter of age differences was discussed. "If the boy is 17 or 18, that raises some concerns," Ramsey said.

"If the boy is close to the daughter's age, you still want to ask how and where they met. I think these are reasonable questions to ask," Ramsey continued, noting, "How you ask the questions are just as important as what is asked. The daughter needs to feel comfortable so that future conversations are possible."

Panelist Amy Contakes said that prior to the date the parents should have a conversation with their daughter about dating and their expectations. "I hope it would also be an ongoing conversation," Contakes said. The conversation should include "what ifs," such as what she would do if her date or one of his friends is driving and drinking, or driving recklessly, Contakes said.

"It is important for parents to do their best to keep the lines of communication open so their kids trust them and they can trust their kids," Wallace said.

This week's panel is: Pam Wallace, program coordinator, Project Child, a program of Valley Youth House; Mike Ramsey, program supervisor, Valley Youth House; Chad Stefanyak, school counselor, and Amy Contakes, Valley Youth House.

Topics: Tooth decay, poison, headaches

Q. What causes my old teeth to decay?

Tooth decay and gum disease are caused by plaque, a layer of bacteria. Plaque can build up quickly on the teeth of older people.

In addition, seniors have a greater tendency to get decay around older fillings. And we have more fillings than younger people because we didn't all grow up with fluoride added to drinking water.

Cavities in the roots of teeth are also more common among older adults because the roots are exposed when our gums recede and we become "long in the tooth." The root surfaces are softer than tooth enamel and decay more easily.

Dry mouth, which is a lack of saliva, promotes tooth decay. Saliva is needed to neutralize the cavity-causing acids produced by plaque. Most dry mouth, or xerostomia, is related to medications taken by older adults rather than to the effects of aging.

Despite all of the dental problems related to age, seniors are holding onto their teeth longer than they used to. One reputable survey showed that the rate that seniors lose their teeth has dropped by 60 percent since 1960. This improvement has been attributed to advancements in treatment and better oral hygiene.

HEALTHY GEEZER

By Fred Cicetti
fred@healthygeezer.com

Q. What should I do if someone in my home is poisoned?

If you have a poison emergency, here are some steps you can take. The order of the steps depends upon the severity of the problem.

You can call 911, call your poison control center at 800-222-1222, and search the poison's label for instructions and an emergency phone number.

Here first-aid instructions:

If you get a poison on your skin or in your eyes, rinse the affected area in the shower for at least 15 minutes.

If you inhale toxic fumes, get fresh air immediately.

If poison is swallowed, do not use an emetic medicine such as syrup of ipecac to induce vomiting. Doctors no longer recommend using these medicines because there is no evidence they prevent poisons from entering the bloodstream.

Q. How common are headaches?

More than 45 million Americans suffer from recurring headaches. About 70 percent of headache sufferers are women.

There are primary headaches, which are unrelated to another condition, and secondary headaches, which are:

Primary headaches include: tension, migraine, mixed headache syndrome and cluster headaches.

Secondary headaches include: chronic progressive, sinus and hormone headaches.

About 90 percent of primary headaches are caused by tension. These muscle-contraction headaches cause mild-to-moderate pain and come and go.

Tension headaches are called chronic if you have them more than 15 days per month. They are episodic if you get them less than 15 days per month.

Most tension headaches can be treated with over-the-counter pain relievers such as acetaminophen, aspirin and ibuprofen.

'Poets, Troubadours' continues Festival Unbound

A six-month songwriting workshop led by Bethlehem native and folksinger Anne Hills culminates with three concerts of original music inspired by the story of the city of Bethlehem, Oct. 9-11.

"Poets, Troubadours and Troublemakers" is one of more than 20 events through Oct. 13 that are part of Touchstone Theatre's 10-day Festival Unbound.

Hills led bi-weekly songwriting workshops at Godfrey Daniels, Bethlehem, starting in January, with visiting songwriters John Gorka, Erin McKeown, Suzzy and Lucy Wainwright Roche, Tish Hinojosa and David Roth, and Lehigh Valley singer-songwriters Alex Ramus, Dierdre Van Walters and Jack Murray.

Songwriters chosen for the workshops, Amanda Penecale, Andrew Dunn, Katherine Rondeau and Rhys Williams, along with Hills and Radus, recorded a CD of their songs that will be available for sale at the concert venues.

"Since I moved to Bethlehem 32 years ago, I have found love and support from our artistic community," Hills said.

"Festival Unbound's 'Poets, Troubadours & Troublemakers' has offered me another great chance to create, collaborate and celebrate this vibrant community," said Hills.

The concerts feature performances by the songwriters and Hills, Radus, Van Walters and Murray.

Songs written by Hills and Williams will be featured in the closing ceremonies of Festival Unbound, 5:30 p.m. Oct. 13, Payrow Plaza, 10 E. Church St., Bethlehem.

"Poets, Troubadours, and Troublemakers" concerts are: 7 p.m. Oct. 9, Sigal Museum, 342 Northampton St., Easton; 7 p.m. Oct. 10, The Lyric Room, Miller Symphony Hall, 23 N. Sixth St., Allentown, and 8 p.m. Oct. 11, Godfrey Daniels, 7 E. Fourth S., Bethlehem. A panel discussion follows the Oct. 11 concert.

Fellowship Community, ArtsQuest present dementia improv program

Fellowship Community, a continuing care retirement community, is partnering with ArtsQuest to present a dementia improv program for care partners of those with dementia.

The "Dementia Improv Program" is at 7 p.m. Oct. 21, Zentz Community Center, Fellowship Community, 3020 Fellowship Drive, Whitehall.

To register: FellowshipCommunity.com.

The collaborative program will include a review of the symptoms of dementia and an interactive learning experience using improv guidelines as a best practice for communicating.

Nancy Clee, RN-BC, MSN, Fellowship Community memory care specialist, researched the similarities between improv and caring for people with dementia.

"The skills gained during the session should help alleviate undue communication stress," Clee said.

Clee attended a dementia improv class in Pittsburgh and thought that Fellowship Community should host a similar event to help the Lehigh Valley community.

Clee had research, education and experience in dementia, but had no knowledge of improv. She attended an ArtsQuest improv class where she met improv comedian and instructor Addyson Young and discussed developing the program.

Many of the guidelines for comedy improv are helpful in teaching people how to best communicate with loved ones affected by memory loss.

According to Young, the most important guideline for improv is the "yes and" theory. It's an important element in improv where scenes and characters change quickly.

Comedians and care partners can have the ability to keep lines of communication open and encourage conversation. Clee has implemented the practice and finds it beneficial in working with residents.

Said Clee, "Join those with memory loss in their reality. If someone believes they are 16 and in high school instead of 91 with failing health, just go along with it."

"At Fellowship Community, we bring innovative programs to our campus and to the local community. We are thankful for ArtsQuest's partnership in developing this learning experience," said Mary Kay McMahon, RN, MHA, NHA, president-CEO of Fellowship Community.

"We know the everyday struggles of care partners and are confident that the program will improve the quality of life for people with dementia and their care-givers," McMahon said.

"We're so grateful to be able to assist Fellowship Community in the incredible work they do every day as we continue to discover how the tenets of improv comedy can have so much value both on and off stage," said ArtsQuest Programming Director Ryan Hill.

"We look forward to partnering with them on this workshop, which is designed to provide caregivers with additional resources and tools to help them communicate with family and friends who are being impacted by dementia and memory loss," Hill said.

Fellowship Community offers a comprehensive continuum of services that include independent living, personal care, skilled nursing, short-term rehabilitation and memory support on one campus.

Fellowship Community has been honored with national and regional recognition such as U.S. News & World Report as a Best Nursing Home and a Best Short-Stay Rehabilitation. The skilled nursing facility has been accredited by the Joint Commission with special programs.

ArtsQuest is a Bethlehem-based nonprofit dedicated to presenting music, arts, festivals, cultural experiences and educational and outreach programs that aid in economic development, urban revitalization and

LVHN to provide free flu vaccinations

Lehigh Valley Health Network (LVHN) will administer free seasonal flu vaccinations for the 22nd straight year for adults and children six months and older during two community sessions in November.

Shots will be all drive-thru, 9 a.m.-3 p.m. Nov. 9, Dorney Park and Wild Water Kingdom, South Whitehall Township, and Nov. 10, Coca-Cola Park, Allentown.

For the past 21 years, LVHN's community influenza vaccination campaign has administered nearly 170,000 free flu shots and collected more than 127,000 pounds of food for area food banks.

LVHN is again partnering with area food banks and shelters to accept donations of unexpired, non-perishable food items during each of the drive-thru sessions.

Food donations are optional and not required to receive a shot. Those who choose to donate food should check the expiration date and only bring items that have not expired and are non-perishable.

In addition, volunteers will collect other items to assist those in need, including diapers; personal hygiene products, such as toothbrushes; coffee pods and wipes.

LVHN is again partnering with the Allentown Health Bureau to offer online registration.

Slots are available for morning or afternoon sessions Saturday and Sunday.

Slots are not appointments. Those reserving times may arrive at any time during the reserved time period.

A vaccine information statement, consent form, link to online registration and maps of both locations are available at lvhn.org/flushot.

Bring a completed, and signed 2019-2020 consent form for each individual receiving a flu shot.

According to Terry Burger, RN, LVHN Director of Infection Control and Prevention, quadrivalent flu vaccine will be given this year to those six months to 64 years of age.

It will protect against four different flu strains, two influenza Type A strains and two influenza Type B strains. Burger said those 65 and older will be offered the trivalent Flu Ad (senior) vaccine.

"Anyone can get the flu," Burger said. "Last year, 48 million people were sick with the flu and more than 79,000 died from the disease."

"Even when the vaccine doesn't exactly match the influenza viruses in a given year, it might still provide some protection. Getting the vaccine remains the best way to protect yourself and those around you from getting the flu," said Burger.

According to Burger, vaccine supplies are available. There should not be concerns about being able to get a shot.

Those planning to receive a flu shot during LVHN's November drive-thru vaccination are asked to abide by the following requests:

Review the vaccine information sheet and complete and bring the 2019-2020 consent form for each person to be vaccinated. Forms may be found at lvhn.org/flushot, or requested by calling 888-402-LVHN (5846).

Dress appropriately with loose-fitting clothing for the shot to be administered in the arm, and the leg of children under two-years old.

St. Luke's offers public findings on health needs

St. Luke's Department of Community Health & Preventive Medicine invites the public to presentations on its 2019-2022 Community Health Needs Assessment (CHNA) findings and recommendations, including:

St. Luke's Allentown Campus: Raub Middle School, 5 p.m. Oct. 9

St. Luke's Quakertown Campus: Quakertown High School, 2:30 p.m. Nov. 13

Light refreshments will be provided.

St. Luke's University Health Network recently completed its 2019-2022 CHNA, which identified three health priorities:

1. Improving access to care and reducing health disparities
2. Promoting healthy lifestyles and preventing chronic disease
3. Improving mental-behavioral health

"At the presentations, we share the data and engage in discussions about continued and future collaborations and partnerships to effectively address the needs," said Rajika E. Reed, Ph.D., MPH, M.Ed., Senior Network Director of Epidemiology & Strategy.

"We also will share our Network-wide 2019-2022 implementation strategy," said Bonnie Coyle, M.D., M.S., Chair of Community Health and Preventive Medicine.

The 2019 St. Luke's Network and Campus Assessments were posted May 15 and can be found at:

slhn.org/community-health/community-health-needs-assessment.

To reserve a seat for the community presentation, call St. Luke's InfoLink: 866-STLUKES (785-8537), Option No. 4.

Previous presentations were held in Carbon and Monroe counties, Bethlehem and Allentown.

Heidel Hollow Farm has the distinction of being a "Bicentennial Farm" with its roots dating back to 1750. Continually farmed by the Fink family in Heidelberg Township, they are also celebrating participation in Open Gate since 1968. You are invited to learn about the many facets of this operation. Farm products grown here could end up on your dinner table or be loaded on ocean vessels to feed horses and cows in other countries. Mike Fink grows over 600 acres of sweet corn, pumpkins, tomatoes, hard squashes, etc. for local stores. They will have music, hay maze, corn box, along with other ag-educational activities for all. The Rural Preservation Association will have a food court featuring locally grown food.

Linda Ronstadt heard again

Everybody has a Linda in their life.

For many of a certain age, there was Linda Ronstadt, whose voice soared across the Top 40 radio airwaves as lead singer for The Stone Ponys' "Different Drum," a song written by Mike Nesmith of The Monkees, that went to No. 13 on the Billboard Hot 100 chart in 1967.

The ironically-titled documentary film, "Linda Ronstadt: The Sound of My Voice," tells the story behind Ronstadt's recording of The Stone Ponys' "Different Drum" and many more songs in a career that included the hits, "You're No Good," "When Will I Be Loved," "It's So Easy," "Poor, Poor Pitiful Me" and "Blue Bayou," propelling her to become the first rock era singer to headline and sell out arena concerts, only to be silenced by Parkinson's disease, diagnosed in 2012, that rendered her unable to sing as before. Her last concert was in 2009.

The Tucson, Ariz., native reads from her 2013 autobiography, "Simple Dreams," for a good portion of the documentary, which is a must-see for fans of Ronstadt, pop music and documentary films. In 2019, a year dominated by excellent documentary films, "Linda Ronstadt: The Sound of My Voice," deserves a documentary film Oscar nomination.

The film has lots of exceptional concert footage of Ronstadt singing in her wonderful full-throated voice. Ronstadt, whether wearing a custom-made Cub Scouts uniform, or in hip-hugger jeans and off-the-shoulder top cinched at the waist to bare her midriff, had quite a stage presence, including when I was among the estimated 10,000 who saw her in concert, Aug. 25, 1977, at the Allentown Fairgrounds Grandstand.

The documentary has insightful interviews with musicians, music producers and family members, including Ronstadt record producer Peter Asher; singer-songwriter Jackson Browne; musician Ry Cooder; journalist-film-maker Cameron Crowe; journalist Robert Hilburn; record label founder David Geffen; Don Henley, who was in her backup band with other future Eagles; actor Kevin Kline, with whom Ronstadt starred on Broadway in a Tony Award-nominated role in Gilbert & Sullivan's operetta, "The Pirates of Penzance" (also a 1983 theatrical release); singer-musician Bonnie Raitt; singers-musicians Emmylou Harris and Dolly Parton, with whom she recorded the album, "Trio"; Aaron Neville, with whom she dueted on the No. 1 hit, "Don't Know Much" (1989), and singer-songwriter J.D. Souther, whom she dated.

Shown are images from family photo album photos, which ties into an understanding of the influence of music-making and singing in her household, especially by that of her father.

The film is directed by Rob Epstein and Jeffrey Friedman (co-directors, "The Celluloid Closet," 1995; "Howl," 2010; "Paragraph 175," 2000; "The Celluloid Closet," 1995; "Common Threads: Stories From the Quilt," 1989; "The Times of Harvey Milk," 1984, the latter receiving a feature documentary Oscar).

The Linda Ronstadt documentary film is a worthwhile companion piece to the documentary films, "Echo in the Canyon" (2018) and "David Crosby: Remember My Name" (2019), for its exploration of the mid-to late-1960s and early-to mid-1970s Los Angeles folk-rock music scene.

"Linda Ronstadt: The Sound of My Voice" is an important re-evaluation of Ronstadt as a trailblazer for female rock singers and as a country-rock and pop music trendsetter. Ronstadt was a successful genre-shifter, bringing Baby Boomers to appreciate the Great American Songbook with her album of standards, "What's New," produced by Nelson Riddle, longtime Frank Sinatra producer. She returned to her Mexican roots to record songs sung in Spanish.

If the 2019 Provincetown International Film Festival, where the film received the audience award, is any indication, "Linda Ronstadt: The Sound of My Voice" may be an Oscar nomination voters' favorite, too.

"Linda Ronstadt: The Sound of My Voice," MPAA rated PG-13 (Parents Strongly Cautioned Some material may be inappropriate for children under 13. Parents are urged to be cautious.
