Politics, smoke, mirrors?

Mayor, fire chief propose closing Dewberry station

By DOUGLAS GRAVES
Special to the Bethlehem Press

More than 70 Bethlehem City firefighters and paramedics and other citizens packed the hearing room at the Safety Committee's meeting Sept. 9 to hear the administration's proposed realignment of fire and emergency medical services (EMS) in Bethlehem.

"It's an emotional issue," said Mayor John Callahan, who presented data to support the administration's proposed closing of North Central Fire Station on Dewberry Avenue near Bethlehem Catholic HS. His proposal would then staff the building with EMS technicians and vehicles.

Safety Committee Chairman and Councilman David DiGiacinto reminded the audience that the council would not vote on the issue during the meeting.

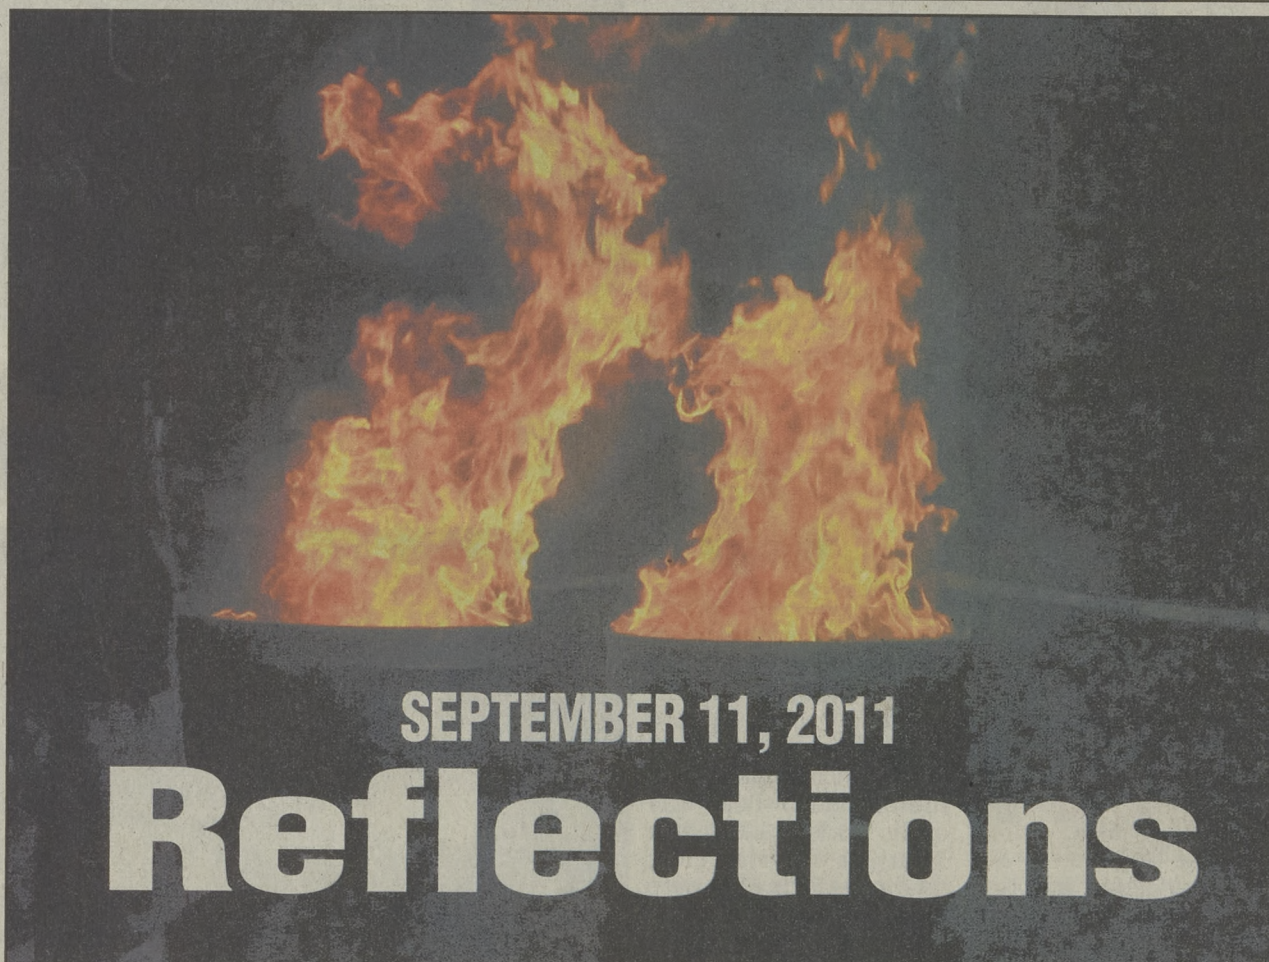

DiGiacinto told the public that the issues involved public safety, financial implications and consideration of the emotional elements.

"Give us your comments," DiGiacinto said. "This is not a debate. We are here to listen."

Fire Chief George Barkanic sat beside his boss, the mayor, during the first part of the hearing. Later, EMS Chief Gordon Smith took his place when they presented EMS-related issues to the Safety Committee.

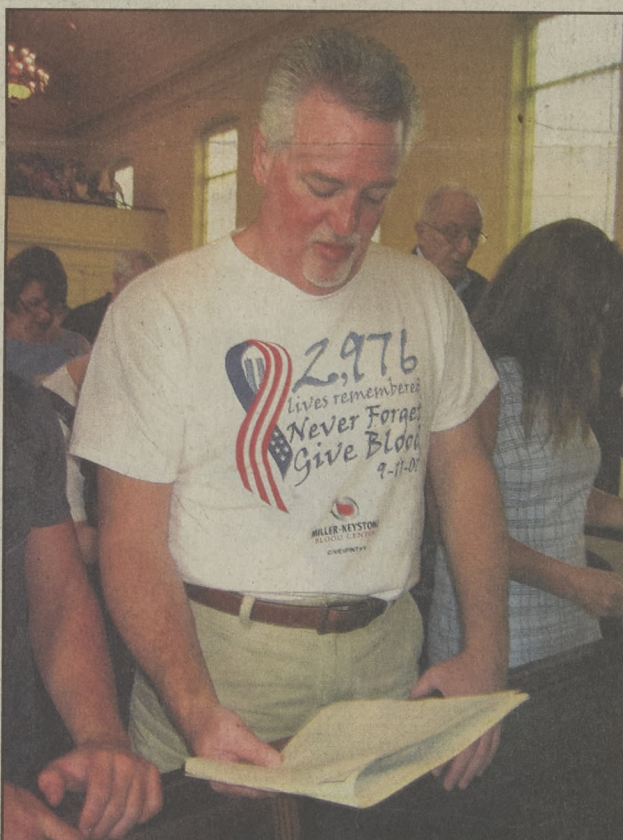

The mayor and Barkanic argued that closing of the North Central Station on Dewberry Avenue would not materially affect service in the

Zoners host re-run of Elias saga

Sept. 8, 2011, was a busy day. More than 100,000 people were ordered from their homes in Wilkes-Barre and Binghamton, N.Y. as a raging Susquehanna River reached flood stage. President Obama presented a $450 billion jobs plan to get America back to work. Air Rodgers threw three first-quarter touchdown passes as Green Bay tangled with the New Orleans Saints in an NFL season kickoff that seemed unlikely just a few short weeks ago. And the new television season is underway.

But on the second floor of the Bethlehem Public Library, the Zoning Hearing Board was doing a rerun. It conducted yet another hearing in the case that just won't go away.

Elias Farmers Market, located at 3131 Linden St., is a family-run grocery specializing in fresh produce at reasonable prices. Its origins go all the way back to 1929, when it was a fruit stand for an 18-acre orchard that sold locally-grown apples, cherries, peaches, plums and pears. By 2006, when the Elias family took title, the roadside stand had become a market surrounded by beautiful homes instead of apple trees. It employs 20 people, and at this time of the year, 70 percent of its produce and fruit is obtained locally.

The Elias family wants to expand its warehouse and loading dock, current-

Irene damage costly

By BERNIE O'HARE
Special to the Bethlehem Press

As a cold September rain battered the municipal building Sept. 6, Bethlehem Township Manager Howard Kutzler gave commissioners a preliminary report of damages caused by the previous storm - Hurricane Irene. He said township damage totaled approximately $100,000.

Nancy Run firefighters rescued nine vehicles stranded along Willow Park Road, where an angry Nancy Run Creek overflowed. In addition, the firefighters pumped water out of 20 basements. But the damage was more serious throughout the township.

According to Kutzler, about $20,000 was spent for manpower and equipment. In addition, the bottom of Sculac Road, near the Lehigh River, will need to be re-paved. But the big ticket item, at $75,000 is the repair of a one-acre sized storm water detention pool at Lehigh Valley Industrial Park, behind Farmersville ES. Its liner needs to be replaced. In addition, a dozen sinkholes have sprung up in the now empty pond.

'V' for victory, unity

By LINDA ANTHONY
Special to the Bethlehem Press

A crowd gathered at Payrow Plaza Sept. 11 for the unveiling of "Victorii Rebuild," a sculpture made from 45-year-old cured concrete taken from the foundation slurry wall of the World Trade Center. Many of the materials used in its formation were made in the Lehigh Valley.

The late John Krapf, formerly of Northampton, worked with Long Island based Impact Environmental to secure the foundation slabs from a recycling facility in New Jersey. Environmental Impact President Richard Parrish and Krapf widow, Kay, chose Sandra Priest to sculpt the slabs.

Priest's project, "11up," will place 9/11 relic sculptures in 11 cities across the county. All of the pieces will be sculpted from large forms of the foundation concrete which was removed during reconstruction of Ground Zero. New York, Pennsylvania and Washington D.C., the three sites affected by the 9/11 attacks, are recognized in binary code around the sculpture.

Kay Krapf choked back tears as she introduced artist Sandra Priest, who created the sculpture using her dad's old stone-cutting tools.

"I need to return this transformed figure of America's pride to the people," Krapf said. "It weighs heavy on my mind how this art will be received by others. It is the most personal artistic journey I have ever had."

Sandra Priest, a Florida artist, explains how the V, which is the shape of the sculpture, not only represents victory but has also always been a symbol of unity to her. Priest was in Bethlehem at Payrow Plaza for the dedication of her sculpture, "Victorii Rebuild," the largest concrete sculpture from a 9/11 relic in the country.

Lisa Krapf turns to her husband, H.J. Krapf Jr., for comfort during the unveiling of "Victorii Rebuild." H.J.'s father, John Krapf was instrumental in securing the World Trade Center foundation slab.

attacks. "We treated each name with the dignity and respect due a VIP," said Martin, who admitted that her "recollections are painful" and that "time does not heal all."

"There are emotional and psychological scars to bear," she added.

A wall of remembrance in the NCC College Center contains the names of all 2,752 victims of the attacks in New York, Washington D.C., at the Pentagon, and the flight 93 aircraft that crashed in Shanksville, Pa., as valiant passengers heroically fought with the terrorists who had commandeered the plane.

81st Floor Survivor

This miraculous story (condensed from news.crosswalk.com 9/17/01) reminds us of how God was there on 9/11:

According to A/G News (9/14) and ReligionToday (9/17), God helped Bethel Assembly of God deacon Stanley Prainmath of Elmont, Long Island escape from under debris and punch through a wall to exit the 81st floor of the World Trade Tower Two! "For some reason, I gave the Lord a little extra of myself that morning [during prayer]," Stanley said. "I said, 'Lord, cover me and all my loved ones under your precious blood.' I said it over and over."

Stanley was in his office on the 81st floor of Tower Two when he saw fire on Tower One and with others, evacuated to the concourse level. There a security guard said, "Two World Trade is secured. Go back." When Stanley returned to his office, his phone was ringing. "It was someone from Chicago calling to find out if I'm watching the news," he said. He told the caller everything "was fine." As he was talking, he looked up and saw United Air Lines Flight 175 heading straight for him. He said, "Lord, you take control, I can't help myself here."

As Stanley dove under his desk, the plane tore into the side of the building and exploded. Miraculously, he was unhurt. However, he could see a flaming wing of the plane in the doorway of his department. "It was someone from Chicago calling to find out if I'm watching the news," he said. ## CITY POLICE

Armed Robbery

A resident reported he was robbed by two armed men mid-afternoon Aug. 31 on Keystone Avenue.

According to police, the victim was in the parking lot of his apartment complex near Glendale Avenue when approached by the men, both described only as Hispanic and carrying pistols. They allegedly stole an undisclosed amount of cash and jewelry from him.

Police ask anyone with information to call the anonymous tip line at 610-691-6660 or Detective Martinez at 610-997-7678.

DUIs

Police arrested three people for alcohol violations within a single hour early Aug. 26.

Police said during a traffic stop around 12:25 a.m. on East Broad Street, 19-year-old Kristina Gallardo, of Morton Street, was found holding an open can of Labatts Ice beer. She is charged with underage drinking.

About a half-hour later on Pennsylvania Avenue Michael Gaumer, 26, of Liberation Avenue in Allentown, drove into a parked vehicle. He is charged with DUI.

At around 1:20 a.m. police arrested Emily Lewellin, 21, of Northampton, when she drove the wrong way on one-way Chelsea Avenue. She is charged with DUI and one-way roads.

Robbery

Police arrested two men for allegedly violently robbing a resident on East Third Street around 2 a.m. Aug. 27.

According to police, two young black males approached the 23-year-old victim while he walked from the Taylor Family Market, and asked him for a dollar. The victim displayed an empty wallet and was struck down.

When officers arrived, four males encircled the victim, police said. Two fled.

Sterling Crumblin, 21, of North 11th Street in Allentown, and Tyquawn Be-Origina Grey, 20, of Front Street in Catawauqua, are charged with attempted robbery, conspiracy and simple assault. They were committed to Northampton County Prison.

Drunkenness

Police arrested 42-year-old Christian McCormick for public Drunkenness around 12:25 a.m. Sept. 5; and again about 45 minutes later.

Police said McCormick, of Oakland Road, was observed walking in traffic on the Minsi Trail Bridge, and when officers arrived they found him urinating off the bridge's east side. He was charged with public drunkenness and released to his wife's care.

Not long thereafter, on Center Street, McCormick dashed from the car while at a stop light. Officers snatched him up again and he allegedly told them he didn't want to go home with his wife.

McCormick was placed in a cell until he sobered up, and was again cited for public drunkenness.

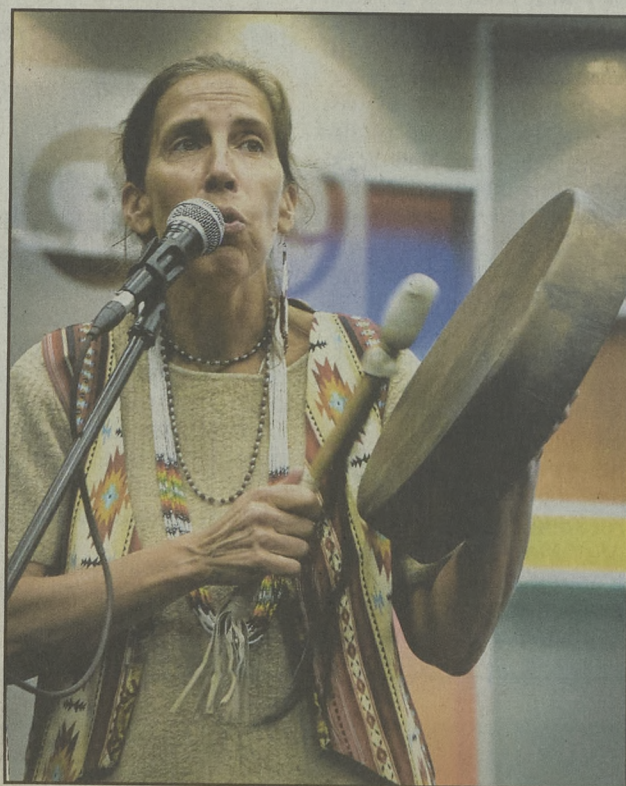

Special guest speaker on the culture of peace, Ambassador Anwarul K. Chowdhury, under-secretary-general and high representative of the United Nations (2002-2007), is entertained by the children who are participating in the World Peace Flag event hosted by WLVT Channel 39 (PBS).

Channel 39 EVENT

It was standing room only inside the building at WLVT Channel 39 (PBS) for World Flag Day and the Peace Pole dedication to celebrate peace in the Lehigh Valley and around the world. President and CEO Patricia C. Simon introduced local musicians and religious leaders in a show of solidarity and a prayer for peace. Special guest speaker on the culture of peace was Ambassador Anwarul K. Chowdhury, former under-secretary-general and high representative of the United Nations (2002-2007). There were somber moments followed by moments of jubilation as the energized flag day ceremony began. Children and adults waved flags from around the world as they sang the All Nation Peace Chant. Though the planting of the Peace Pole did not happen as planned due to the weather, the event itself lifted spirits above the clouds.

'I had no answers'

Moravian pastor grateful for opportunity to be of some help to first responders, volunteers at Ground Zero

By PAT KESLING
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Gordon Mowrer, 76, councilman, Moravian minister and former Bethlehem mayor, didn't tell many people, but beginning three days after the Sept. 11, 2001 attacks, he served for three months as a volunteer counselor at Ground Zero.

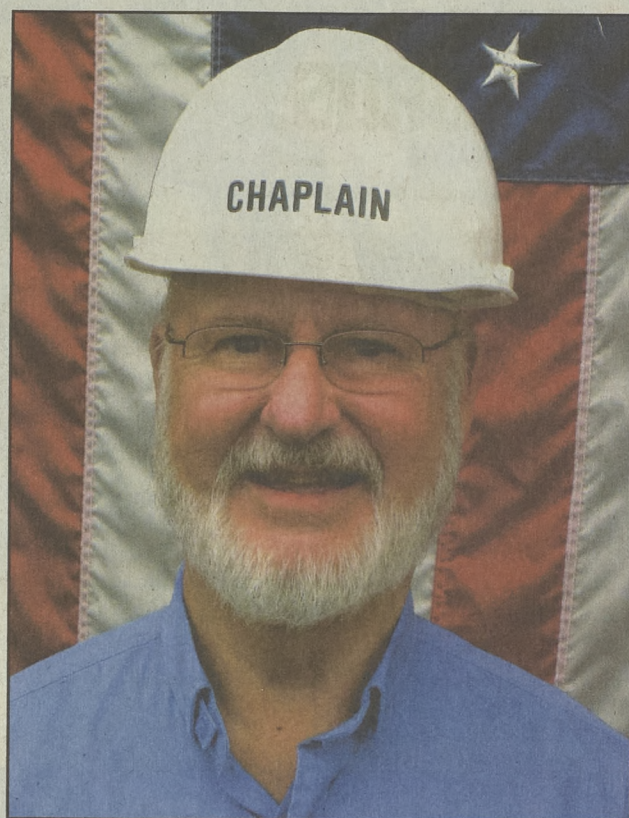

"Along with David Henkleman, I represented the Moravian Church," he explains. "I expected it to be the worst thing I could imagine and it was. I was dazed but knew I had to help. The Red Cross called for volunteers and we responded. I think it was one of the most important services we could have provided."

After three days of interviewing prospective volunteers to make sure they were credible, the Red Cross gave those selected a quick training and released them to their jobs.

Five days a week, Mowrer and Henkleman made the bus trip into New York City. TransBridge didn't charge them for their twice-daily trips.

A Red Cross building was available to first responders for quick naps, a hot meal and a counseling center.

"Sometimes we mingled with the firemen, the policemen, and you could feel the panic as they recalled rushing the towers," Mowrer said. "They were exhausted and hungry. Volunteers were welcome here, too. I especially remember a motorcycle group who drove from California to help in any way they could. They stayed for three months."

THE REV. GORDON MOWRER

Sometimes he walked the streets, which were barren because pedestrians were not allowed near the site.

"I would stand and look and wonder how could this huge mass of steel perish like this. I had no answer," he says. "In the first days we were doing our jobs, especially when an alarm went off and we knew they had found a body. Chaplains were called to do blessings."

He remembers one man who sought a counselor out and found him.

"He told me his clock alarm didn't go off, and he had to take the next bus. He got in and found the towers and his entire company gone. He had survivor's guilt and kept asking 'Why not me?'" Again, Mowrer says he had no answer, but he knew the man's entire life was changed forever. He could only offer comfort.

The most indelible picture in Mowrer's mind is that of the firemen.

"They kept going back into the rubble looking for people, including other firemen. They talked of coming down stairs, carrying people, tripping over bodies in the smoke and soot, only to find doors wouldn't open. Some were able to call buddies for help. Sometimes they were able to get through. Others died."

One entire platoon was gone. Firefighters cried when they talked of them. "The firefighters took the worst beating," Mowrer says. "They lost so many, and now so many are sick. They gave it their all."

Onsite psychologists were worried about major issues with post-traumatic stress and they were correct, Mowrer says. He was amazed at the sudden appearance of pictures of those missing and lost, of families crowding as near to the grounds as they were allowed. And he was saddened recently to learn that 11 of the women who perished that day were pregnant.

Mowrer says he is grateful he was able to be of some help, especially to volunteers who worked day and night, and the experience has left a lasting impression on him.

"There will always be an overwhelming vision of a huge cross still standing in the midst of the rubble of the building where all these people died."

Study shows high rates of child hunger

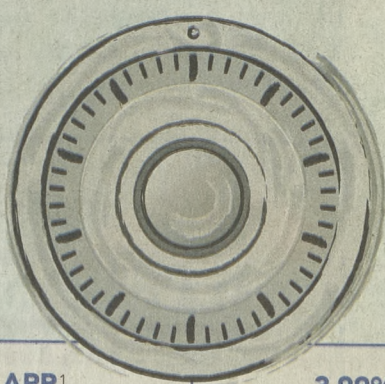

The Second Harvest Food Bank of Lehigh Valley, an affiliate of Feeding America, and Northeast Pennsylvania (SHFB) released a new study showing that 21.7 percent of children under the age of 18 living in the food bank's six-county service area are struggling with hunger. The study, at <http://feedingamerica.org/mapthegap>, provides data for every county across the nation. The highest rate of child food insecurity in the six-county area is in Carbon County, where the rate is 24.4 percent. Lehigh County's rate is 23.2 percent and Northampton's is 20.6 percent.

Alan Jennings, executive director of the Community Action Committee of the Lehigh Valley (CACLV), whose agency operates the Second Harvest Food Bank, says that people "who are not getting enough good food to eat are less productive, less able to go about their daily tasks. The risks to their health and well-being have consequences for all of us."

Nearly 45 percent of the people served by the emergency food network served by Second Harvest's network of 200 nonprofit organizations are children. Programs that provide food include the Special Supplemental Food Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC), school lunch and school breakfast programs, The Emergency Food Assistance Program (TEFAP), and the Commodities Supplemental Feeding Program. Second Harvest also provides packages of food to children through its own Backpack Buddies program. The research for this study is supported by ConAgra Foods Foundation. This account includes a fixed rate option. This rate may vary, but once established as a new Fixed Rate Advance, will not vary thereafter. A $50 rate lock fee applies each time you establish a Fixed Rate Advance. The fee is waived if rate is locked at closing. Closing costs for lines of credit up to $500,000 typically range from approximately $94 to $523 depending on line amount, appraisal requirements and property location. In addition, title insurance is required if the line is used to purchase the property or the line is for $500,000 or more. Also, there is a $300 Trust Review fee, if applicable. Borrower must pay mortgage satisfaction fees at loan termination. Property Insurance is required. Rate and terms subject to change and may be withdrawn without notice. Rates are available to qualified borrowers and loans are subject to credit approval. Introductory rate offer does not apply to refinancing of existing Lafayette Ambassador Bank debt or properties currently listed for sale. The advertised 1.99% APR (Annual Percentage Rate) applies to new lines of credit of at least $10,000 and an automatic deduction of payment from a Lafayette Ambassador Bank deposit account. Applications must be received by October 31, 2011. Borrowers will receive 1.99% APR for 12 months from the opening date. After the expiration of the 12-month introductory rate period, the APR will be based on the WSJP as published daily plus a margin or minimum APR of 3.99%, whichever is greater. The advertised 3.99% APR is our current standard rate with automatic deduction of payment from a Lafayette Ambassador Bank deposit account. Depending on credit qualifications and payment option selected, APRs may range from 3.99% (Minimum) to 6.75% (WSJP plus 3.50%). APR may increase if automatic payment is discontinued. The maximum APR is 18.00%.

JAZZ

Hotel to host King on Sept. 15

The Historic Hotel Bethlehem will host an evening of jazz by George N. King Jr. and Friends quartet from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Sept. 15 in the Tap Room Restaurant. King, headmaster of Moravian Academy, has two degrees in music education, and one in jazz studies from New England Conservatory of Music, Boston.

He is a saxophonist, arranger, composer, producer and vocalist. At the Conservatory, he studied with Joe Allard, George Russell, Phil Wilson and Jaki Byard. He was a member of Jaki's Apollo Stumpers Big Band, Boston. He headed the house band at Wally's, the city's oldest jazz club, and performed at colleges, concerts, festivals, and on television in the New England area. He has performed with legendary jazz drummer, composer, and bandleader Chico Hamilton, performing throughout the United States and in Europe at places such as the Café Au Dreher in Paris, Ronnie Scott's in London, Tivoli Gardens in Copenhagen and the Montreux Jazz Festival, Switzerland. Joining King for the evening will be Greg Snyder on guitar, Gene Perla on bass, and Paul Wells on drums. For reservations, call 610-625-2226.

LEHIGH GAP Nature Center sets Migration Fest weekend

The Lehigh Gap Nature Center is celebrating autumn migration and Appalachian ecology with a Migration Fest at the Nature Center in September. The weekend celebration, Sept. 16-18, will focus on the migration of hawks along the Kittatinny Ridge, songbird, bat and monarch butterfly migration, seasonal changes (phenology) and the ecology of the plants and animals of the Kittatinny.

There will also be workshops on phenology and monarch butterfly migration and tagging, plus talks by local experts on bat migration, neotropical migrants, gardening for migrants and Kittatinny Ridge conservation.

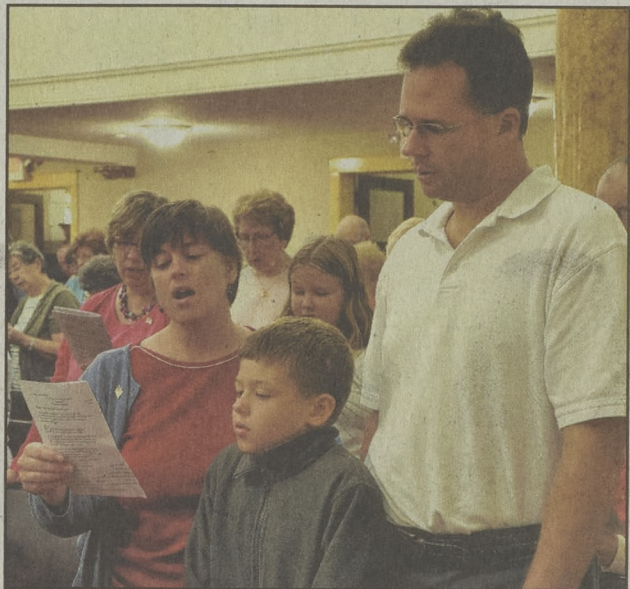

For more information on the program see <http://lgnc.org> or contact the Nature Center at 610-760-8889 or lgnc@ptd.net. Lehigh Gap Nature Center is a nonprofit, member-supported environmental education center located along the Kittatinny Ridge in eastern Pennsylvania. ## 'You could see people being moved'

By PAUL WILLSTEIN
pwillistein@tnonline.com

The Bach Choir of Bethlehem brought the solace of music and the peace of song to an emotion-filled week-long New York City 10th anniversary observance of the Sept. 11, 2001, attacks.

The Choir, chosen as the official representative of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, owing to the Shanksville, Somerset County, downing of United Flight 93, joined choirs representing Washington, D.C., site of the Pentagon attack; New York City, where two passenger planes crashed into the twin towers of the World Trade Center; and Boston, origin of the flights commandeered by terrorists.

For longtime Bach Choir members, many of them seasoned travelers with the choir for concerts in England, Germany and at the Kennedy Center, Washington, D.C., the Lower Manhattan concerts Sept. 9 at Trinity Church and St. Paul's Chapel, which provided sanctuary to nearby Ground Zero first-responders, were something special.

Edmund W. Young, Bass 1, and a choir member for 57 years, described the Bach Choir's three concerts as "most moving."

"You could see people [in the audience] being moved," Young observed. "And we were moved, too."

The Bach Choir's noon Sept. 9 program at St. Paul's, Broadway and Fulton Street, William Sharp, baritone, foreground, accompanies The Bach Choir of Bethlehem during the Trinity Church concert. The Choir, Sharpe and other vocal and instrumental soloists also performed a noon Sept. 9 concert at St. Paul's Chapel, which was directly across the street from the World Trade Center.

featured works of American composers, including "Will there really be a 'Morning'?" by Craig Hella Johnson, based on a poem by Emily Dickinson, and the New York premiere of Stephen Paulus' "A Dream of Time," based on text by Carl Sandburg. The work was commissioned by the Bach Choir in honor of Greg Funfgeld's 25th anniversary as Bach Choir artistic director.

Funfgeld conducted the 86-member choir; vocal soloists Rosa Lamoreaux, soprano, and William Sharp, baritone; and instrumental soloists Robin Kani, flute; Mary Watt, oboe; Loretta O'Sullivan, cello; Christopher Hanning, percussion; and Thomas Goeman, piano.

The estimated 100 who filled the seats in St. Paul's sanctuary for the one-hour program gave "A Dream of Time" a standing ovation, with three curtain calls.

Sandburg's Poem No. 6 from "The People, Yes," written during the Great Depression, cites examples of hope, including "And Bach being broadcast from Bethlehem, Pennsylvania."

St. Paul's is known as "the little church that stood," as it was shielded by sycamores despite the collapse and debris of the twin towers across the street. With its displays of a fireman's sooty suit and boots; photographs of memorials that festooned the churchyard fence; and fire department insignias from around the nation, Sandberg's words, "And tall skyscrapers practically empty of tenants" were prescient and ominous, even as gleaming new skyscrapers and smooth memorials rise a block away.

The Bach Choir also performed at 5 p.m. Sept. 9 at Trinity Church, featuring Bach motets 140 and 158, and joined for the mass choirs' 8:30 p.m. Sept. 9 concert, also at Trinity Church.

The three-hour evening concert, attended by an overflow crowd of more than 800, concluded with Funfgeld conducting the some 250-member massed choir in the "Dona nobis pacem" from Bach's "Mass in B Minor."

"Everything we're singing is a prayer," said Cass Kwan, Soprano 1 choir member.

The concerts were broadcast via Trinity's website and National Public Radio and taped for the Public Broadcasting System, with possible rebroadcasts and repeat telecasts.

DESALES MEET Hawks in middle of pack

By MIKE HAINES
mhaines@tnonline.com

The DeSales University Centaur Invitational Cross Country Meet gives runners a good early season gauge of where they stack up against some of the best competition in the eastern part of the state. The 32nd annual meet was held last Saturday and once again it drew a stellar field to Center Valley.

Some area runners and teams found out they're right where they want to be heading into the heart of the dual-meet season.

Bethlehem Catholic, with some of its varsity runners competing in the freshman race, finished near the middle of the pack in the team standings.

The Hawks girls team placed 16th out of 26 teams. The boys 22nd out of 29 teams.

"I think we did fair," said head coach Lou Sabler. "We didn't do outstanding. We're young. We'll get better."

"At this point in the season we're not ahead of where I'd like to be. But the kids are working and that's the main thing. The rain kills us because we really don't have a place to practice when it rains hard. We're going to have to start working harder, runs some hills and stuff."

Bethlehem Catholic's John Donchez and Jenny Schadt led the Golden Hawks contingent at DeSales.

Schadt, a junior, finished 42nd overall at the Centaur. At the team's season-opening meet, the Moravian Academy Lion Invitational, she finished fifth overall in the Class AA race and led the team to a second-place finish.

Donchez, a sophomore, placed 82nd at the invitational. That came just a week after he placed fifth overall in the Class AA race at the Moravian Academy Invitational and the Hawks boys team was fourth.

Other Bethlehem Catholic girls varsity runners at DeSales were Olivia Zemanek (62nd), Cecilia Zemanek (63rd), Lauren Reightler (109th), Abby Moninghoff (146th) and Gaberiella Ciaccio (158th).

For Beca's boys team, behind Donchez were 96. Ryan James (96th), 122. Trevor Kleckner (122nd), Matt Lazicky (127th), Quinn Stasa (144th), 147. Chris Landolfi (147th) and Dominic Santanasto

Patriots stun Vikes Hawks up next for Central Catholic

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Freedom's 34-24 victory over Central Catholic last week marks one of the biggest wins in Jason Roeder's seven years at the helm of the program.

That victory might make things a little more difficult for his cross town counterpart at Bethlehem Catholic, as Joe Henrich's Hawks travel to J. Birney Crum Saturday night.

It's a tale of two teams trying to transform themselves after disappointing results last year, as both the Patriots and Hawks stand at 2-0 heading into week three.

The Pates victory over Central was a shocker to many in the area, except of course to Freedom's inner circle.

"We know how people outside of this locker room perceive us," said Roeder. "We were confident going into the game that we could come out and get the win. I felt like our kids expected to win and that's what we did."

The defeat of the defending district and state 3A champions put the Valley on notice on what Freedom has at their disposal, as quarterback Brian Uliana posted a 130 yards passing and 71 more yards on the ground as Freedom rushed for 307 yards against the winless Vikes (0-2).

Senior running back Okezie Alozie totaled 205 yards on the night including three touchdowns, two of which came from 62 and 59 yard sprints to pay dirt.

Freedom led 34-10 in the fourth quarter before

Devon Jones had a key punt return for a TD that put Liberty on its way to victory.

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

It may have been a sluggish start for Liberty last Friday night on the road at Northampton, but the Hurricanes proved again that they were just warming up.

Liberty capitalized on a 14-7 halftime lead en route to 20 unanswered points in the second half to blow away Northampton 34-7.

Quarterback Jimmy McCarthy and running back Mikey Harris rushed for 75 and 74 yards respectively and each scored a touchdown, as Liberty (2-0) gained 296 yards on the ground.

Picking up their second straight road win was a welcoming feeling for a team that hosts undefeated Nazareth (2-0) Friday night at Frank Banko Field.

"This is the second straight week that things have been close at half-time and we didn't panic," said 'Canes head coach Dave Brown. "Things don't always go your way and our guys stayed calm. We came out in the second half and did what we needed to do and got the win."

Devon Jones broke Northampton's back early in the third quarter after the Kids opened the half with a three and out series. The ensuing punt showed the one dimension Liberty dominated last week - team speed.

Jones took the punt off the ground and raced 71 yards down Liberty's sideline to put the 'Canes ahead 21-7 with 9:45 left in the third.

Pates ready for showdown with Kids

By KATIE MCDONALD
kmcDonald@tnonline.com

Freedom's girls' tennis team began one of its toughest weeks of the season with a record of 5-0 on Monday, and today marks the halfway point with a match against Northampton, who also has no losses as of Press deadlines.

Freedom coach Mark Sigmon expects the Patriots' match against the K-Kids to come down to the doubles matches, although he is hoping that his team will incur enough victories to keep the pressure off Freedom's number one doubles team, most likely, Marielle McIntyre and Julie Boylan.

"Northampton's good up top, but we're better," Sigmon said. "I expect number one and number two [singles] to win."

Wednesday's match, at Northampton, will pit Marielle McIntyre against Brittany Hodge at number one singles, and Julie Boylan against Darby McCall at number two singles.

Sigmon expects a close match at number three singles with Freedom freshman, Flannery Johnston, taking on Northampton junior, Madison McCall.

"I'm very happy with number two and number three doubles. They're playing really well," said Sigmon.

In a recent 4-3 victory over Nazareth, Valeria Ceron and Federica Maranzana won at number two doubles, 6-0, 6-2, and Kaleigh DiNoto and Tiffany Stanley won at number three doubles, 6-4, 6-3.

"As long as they play as consistently as they have, they should do well on Wednesday," Sigmon said. "Number four doubles

Downingtown East won the girls title at DeSales, finishing with 49 points, well ahead of second-place Northwestern's 113.

Holy Ghost Prep won the boys race at 75 points, a comfortable margin over Archbishop Wood's 100.

Most of the teams at DeSales are Class AAA and some are among the state's elite teams.

Bethlehem Catholic, which will compete in Class AA in the postseason, could be a contender against other schools its size. Sabler plans to have his team running its best later in the season.

"We'll get a little stronger," he said. "I don't believe in being out early in the season because I feel that leagues and districts are more important than one or two meets. Not that we don't run to win. I've always coached that we get a little better all season and at the end you do your very best."

FIELD HOCKEY

'Canes need big week

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Liberty's field hockey team was hoping to make a stand this week as they enter a tough part of the schedule but the Hurricanes fell short of that Monday, losing to Easton by a 2-0 affair.

Arianna Grays and Michelle Couch scored for the Rovers in the first half to lead Easton to an important division win.

Liberty takes on Freedom (1-2) today in rivals action and then take their shot against Parkland on Friday.

Head coach Mary Kathryn Omdahl knows this is an important test in the calendar.

"I think our division could be up for grabs this year and we need to make a statement this week to show that we want to be in the running to be on top of it," said Omdahl. "We are very young and are just beginning to work in cohesive sequences on the field. This week we will see if we can consistently produce those cohesive moments throughout an entire game.

"I've been stressing team work since day one and they know that team work is the only way they will return to post season play."

Junior midfielder Paige Gross has been a rock in the middle for the 'Canes and senior Kira Huron has shown her leadership, tallying four goals in a 5-2 win over Bethlehem Catholic last week.

Liberty trailed 2-0 in that affair and showed that they had grit to come back and win emphatically.

"They got mad," said Omdahl of the 'Canes comeback last week. "They used that energy to put goals in the cage. They turned it into a positive on the field and I want them to remember that energy this week.

"Up to now, goals had been scarce and we looked timid in front of the cage. That is gone."

Becahi (1-2) picked up their first win of the season over the weekend with a 3-0 shutout over Catty. Jackie DeSarro scored twice for the Hawks along with a goal by Courtney DuPont. They take on Easton today and Central Catholic on Friday.

Freedom (1-2) knocked off Wilson over the weekend as well in nonconference action to get a victory, as Alyssa Villani, Kerry Hathaway and Kelly Winegar each scored.

The Pates face off against Liberty today and Allen tomorrow.

SOCCER

Hawks look to down Easton

By KATIE MCDONALD
kmcDonald@tnonline.com

Becahi's soccer team will attempt a BASD hat trick of sorts, as they take on Easton today. If the Hawks win, all three Bethlehem high schools will have defeated the defending District 11 Class AAA champion.

Liberty got the revenge it had long desired since losing to the Red Rovers in the district final last year by defeating Easton, 2-0, on Monday night.

Freedom also defeated Easton, 1-0, last Friday.

"Easton is tough, it's a big school, and they're never weak. We went in the best we could," said Freedom coach, Karl Peters.

With 1:30 left in a scoreless game, Freedom's Ali Eser headed a pass from Moon Nguyen into the net for a Patriot victory.

Peters said, "Not a lot of offense was generated from either team. The defense played well, and there were a lot of battles in the midfield."

The Patriots are still tweaking their lineup and recently added new goalkeeper, Tyler Morton, who joins goalie, Josh Wasilick. Both are sophomores.

On Monday, the Patriots added another victory to their record after defeating Becahi, 2-1.

Freedom's Brendan Kaulius scored a goal in the opening minutes on an assist by Josh Recke. With 17:22 remaining in the first period, a thunderstorm delayed the game for 50 minutes.

Becahi captain, Chris Blaszkas, said, "During the rain, we had a lot to talk about. Our coach said we were playing a lackadaisical

VOLLEYBALL

Hawks try to stay on top

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Howard Vernick knows he has talent on the Bethlehem Catholic volleyball squad, but he also knows that there will be bumps in the road this season.

The Hawks have jumped out to a 3-1 start on the season with that lone loss opening the season with a defeat to Southern Lehigh (in four games).

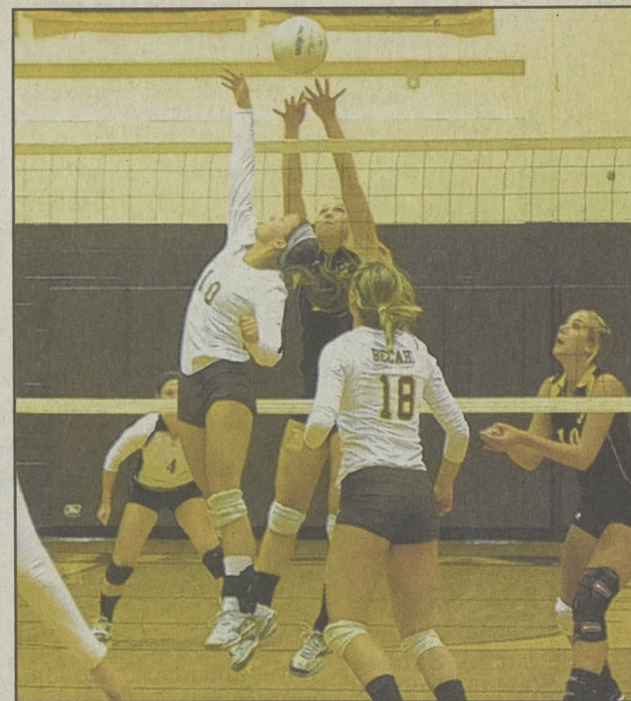

The Spartans will be there all year as a potential nemesis for the Hawks district championship hopes and Vernick knows the challenge that awaits.

"Southern Lehigh will probably be in the district final and we hope to be there as well," he said. "I think that opening loss taught us some things and we were experimenting with some lineups as well."

"One thing we know is that they're (Solehi) very good and that we need to get better."

The Hawks have made work of their LVC schedule to date, beating Nazareth in five games in their league opener and then upending Liberty in three games.

Becahi got some revenge on Monday night against Freedom, beating the Patriots in three games by scores 25-10, 25-17 and 25-16.

Lauren Hess led the Hawks with 13 kills, while Ashley McCauley had 31 assists on the night.

The victory was important for Becahi to avenge, since they lost twice to Freedom a year ago, but with Allen tonight and Easton tomorrow on the schedule, Vernick hopes that unblemished trend in the league continues.

"It's very important that we do well this week," he said. "Easton is going to be tougher this year and we lost both of our matches to Freedom last year."

"They kept us out of the LVC playoffs last year

Well, the giant of Central Catholic keeps falling and the stability at the top stays flowing. I tried to think of a third verse that would rhyme, but I'm not Eminem. So outside of things I can't do, like rap, check out the picks below for some local football wisdom.

1. Liberty (2-0)
Canes finally back at home to face an unruly guest.

Last week's rank: #1
The Pick: Liberty 28 - Nazareth 21

2. Whitehall (2-0)
Last week's rank: #2
Easy one for Zeph's.
The Pick: Whitehall 49 - Dieruff 8

3. Freedom (2-0)

4. Parkland (2-0)
Last week's rank: #6

Polo shirt battle against Emmaus this week.
The Pick: Parkland 31 - Emmaus 20

5. Nazareth (2-0)
Last week's rank: #5
I would have moved the Blue Eagles up, but they're probably going to lose this week after upsetting Easton.
The Pick: Liberty 28 - Nazareth 21

6. Easton (1-1)
Last week's rank: #4
Rovers will be upset and Northampton continues to have the toughest opening schedule.

The Pick: Easton 24 - Northampton 14
7. Pen Argyl (2-0)
Last week's rank: #7
The Knights continue their Colonial demolition.
The Pick: Pen Argyl 42 - Notre Dame-GP 13

8. Central Catholic (0-2)
Last week's rank: #3
One more chance for Central at staying in the poll.
The Pick: Central 35 - Bethlehem Catholic 17

9. Stroudsburg (2-0)
Last week's rank: #9
Mounties have some peculiar out of conference foes.
The Pick: Stroudsburg 28 - Williamsport 20

10. Northern Lehigh (2-0)
Last week's rank: #10
Bulldogs have another easy one.
The Pick: Northern Lehigh 42 - Saucon Valley 7
Last week's record: 7-1
Overall record: 14-4

District 11 Football Notes

Wide receivers Kevin Gulyas of Central Catholic and Matt Camilletti of Pius X both had 125 career receptions entering this year. That placed them tied for 6th place all-time in District 11. The 5 players ahead of them at the time were:

1. 144 catches - Jeff McGeehin - Central Catholic (1971-73)
2. 138 catches - Bob Frederick - Allen (1971-73)
3. 137 catches - Fenton Black - Panther Valley (1990-92)
3. 137 catches - Tyler Artim - Whitehall (2008-10)

6. 131 catches - Kevin Gulyas - Central Catholic (2008-11)
7. 129 catches - Adam Thomas - Wilson (2004-06)

Camilletti and Gulyas both passed Adam Thomas for 5th place all-time in District 11. With Gulyas's 2 TD catches vs. Downingtown East in week one, he now has 29 career TD catches tying McGeehin for the school record. The District 11 record is held by Tim Masasuqui of Parkland (1998-

TRIVIA

Brendan Nosovitch of Central Catholic entered the top-ten all-time in the region for passing yards.

Nosovitch, after game one, had 5,763 career passing yards placing him in 9th place.

• Congratulations to Dylan Evans of Pen Argyl for breaking the 50 touchdown barrier in week 1. Evans now has 51 career TDs. He's 37 TDs behind school record holder Woody Petchel (Penn State) who had 88 from 1968-71. Evans also caught his 50th career reception last week (TD) and is now only 17 behind school record holder Tim Hahn, who had 67 career catches from 1987-89.

• Rob Getz of Pleasant Valley had 4 catches against Nazareth tying him with Rich Irving (2008-10) for the school record for career reception with 79. Ironically they are both tied for the single season record in receptions as they both had 46 last year. Getz is also 132 yards from the career reception yardage record of 1,032 yards also held by Irving. Getz is six career TDs behind school record holder Chris Jacobs (1996-98) who had 28 total TDs.

• Sophomore QB AJ Long of Pius X went over 3,000 career passing yards and Daniel Harding of Nazareth went over 2,000 career passing yards in week 1.

Central

Central ripped off two late scores, but the victory by the Pates may have made things a bit more tougher for Becahi as they venture into Allentown Saturday to face a hungry Central squad.

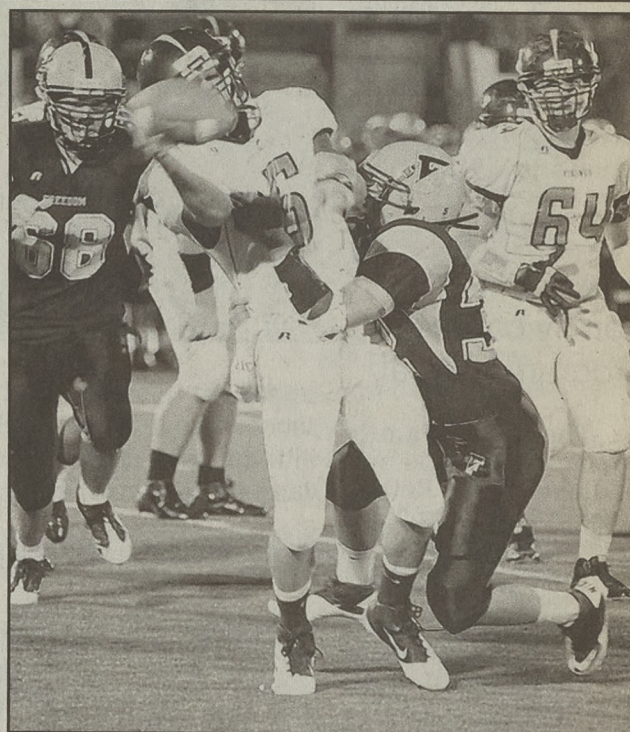

"It's a challenge no matter which way you look at it," said Henrich. "I'm sure they're going to be a bit more hungrier than usual, but we just have to go out and execute our game plan."

Becahi trounced Allen 37-6 last week with four different Hawks (Connor Casey, Justin Millan, Jose Ortiz and Robert Akrie) scoring rushing touchdowns on the night.

Casey had two TD's inside the five on the night and the Hawks hope they can control the clock on Saturday to keep Central's offense off the field.

Despite the fate that the Vikings have been dealt up to this point in the season, Henrich feels that Central is still a top team despite all the added pressure that's been put on them from outside sources.

"Central's played two good football teams and they lost a lot of great football players from last year," Henrich said. "There's still a learning curve for these new guys and I think everyone has put unfair expectations on them. They still need time to gel just like any other team.

"We still look at them as the defending state champions and we will never underestimate an opponent. There's no way we're going to do that this week despite them not having a win."

Freedom, meanwhile, takes on Allen Friday night in a game that Roeder has to be happy with the favored sentiment that his team will walk away 3-0 after this weekend.

"We still need to focus on improvement every week," he said. "We gained a big confidence boost from the win over Central, but that doesn't mean we're perfect. We just need to worry about ourselves."

Hawks, 'Canes back to courts

Becahi was back on the tennis court with a 5-2 victory over Saucon Valley on Saturday, but Liberty was not as lucky, having to wait three more days after its matches were rained out all last week.

The Hawks' record is 3-1 as of Press deadlines, defeating Hamburg, 6-1, Central Catholic, 4-3, and Saucon, and losing to Northampton, 2-5.

"It felt good to be back, especially coming off a tough loss to Northampton. I was a little nervous because we didn't have the practice time, but I played on my own," said Becahi's Paige Gurski, after defeating Saucon Valley's Kayla Bohnhorst at number one singles.

"Honestly, it's all about confidence. I think it's more mental than physical. That used to be my downfall, but today, it was my strongpoint, and I think that's what won me the match."

Saucon Valley's Courtney Lambert defeated Becahi's Nina Kopy at number two singles, but Mara Blanchard won her match at number three singles for the Hawks over Kendall Kramer.

"It was a challenge, but I think we pulled through and just played our game," said Blanchard. "Once I got the lead, it was easy from there, but I had to keep my emotions under control."

Becahi's Taylor Treadwell and Allison Barczynski lost to Saucon Valley's Emily Folenta and Deborah Martin at number two doubles.

At number three doubles, Rachel DiBenedetto and Julia Atiyeh won for the Hawks against Rachel Moyer and Mackenzie Till, and Becahi's Ally Setcavage and Lauren Wells won at number four doubles. (Opponents names were unavailable.)

Also, Gurski and Kopy paired up at number one doubles to put away the Hawks' 5-2 victory.

In the next two weeks, Becahi will play ten matches, including Whitehall on Tuesday, Nazareth on Wednesday, Parkland on Thursday, and Wilson on Friday.

Liberty also has four matches scheduled for this week against Dieruff on Tuesday, Central on Wednesday, Emmaus on Thursday, and Stroudsburg on Saturday.

The Hurricanes are currently 3-2, having defeated Whitehall, Allen, and Pleasant Valley, and losing to Parkland and Northampton.

"I think we're improving," said Liberty coach Leo Schnalzer. "The three singles players have pretty much repeated their play from last year, but our doubles pairings are pretty good."

In particular, Paige Dolcey and Nicole Correll, who had no varsity experience, are playing well together at number four doubles.

"I'm pretty pleased with how they're playing," Schnalzer said.

broke a 58-yard run with his speed to deflate Northampton's chances at coming back.

"It seems like in the first half of both games this year, we just haven't been clicking on all cylinders," said McCarthy. "But we settled down at halftime and got the job done. That's all that matters."

Harris opened the scoring for Liberty in the first quarter with a seven-yard option throw to K.J. Williams in end zone.

Northampton answered with a 67-yard TD pass from Pat Cook to Brandon Heimbach until Stephen Font-Toomer added a 13-yard score with 2:13 left in the first half to give Liberty a lead they wouldn't relinquish.

The Hurricanes also picked off Cook three times as he threw for 131 yards on 9-of-21 attempts.

With two games in the books, Liberty gets to take a Nazareth squad on that came back from a 14-point fourth quarter deficit last week to sting Easton with a 35-28 victory.

"We lost to Nazareth last year during the season and it was a game that cost us getting into the playoffs," said Brown. "It's going to be a great game, but we need to play four quarters of football against them because it isn't going to be easy."

bles will be a close match."

Number four doubles will pit Adriana Fazil and Maribelle Rodriguez against Kristin Danek and Leah Hodge.

The Patriots scored their early-season victories over Emmaus, Allen, Pocono Mountain West, Nazareth, and Dieruff. The K Kids scored theirs over Liberty, Emmaus, Dieruff, Becahi

"If we win all four [this week], we'll be in really good shape; even if we win three out of four, we'll be in good shape," said Sigmon.

The Patriots and the K Kids will face off at 3:30 p.m. at the Wolf Field Tennis Courts.

It was the Timberwolves, however, who scored the first goal, and ultimately, the last.

Trying to make sense of the loss, Meny said, "We realized we fixed our back and midfield. Now, we have to worry about scoring goals."

Becahi's Anthony Papa-georgiou scored a goal in the first period for the Hawks.

In addition to Becahi's game against Easton this afternoon, Liberty will take on Freedom at 8 p.m. at BASD Stadium.

Waslick said, "There was a little raucous. They kept on coming down, but I knew our defense would help out."

Becahi had 11 shots on goal, more than double their shots in Saturday's 2-1 overtime loss to East Stroudsburg North.

Coming off a 4-0 loss to intercity rival Liberty last Thursday night, the Hawks were back on their home turf with high hopes on Saturday morning.

"We were supposed to win," said Becahi captain, Marc Meny.

"We really picked it up in the second half. We had a lot of good passes and a lot of good movement."

Becahi's Marcin Boraganli scored on a penalty kick after Kaulius scored his second goal of the game on an assist by Nick Geraghty. The Hawks threatened in the final minutes but were unable to tie the game.

Children's Advocacy Center

Council addresses questions

By CAROL SMITH
Special to the Bethlehem Press

High on the to-do list for the opening of Northampton County's first Children's Advocacy Center is the adoption of an organizational structure for the center.

At the June meeting of the CAC's Advisory Council pros and cons of three options were explored. The two most popular options involve having the CAC form its own nonprofit or joining another already-established county nonprofit with a mission to assist children who have suffered child abuse. A third option would have the county's CAC partner with Lehigh County's CAC. Lehigh County's CAC is one of more than 700 CACs across the United States.

Ross Marcus, the county's director of human services, who led the discussion, said he was not in favor of the CAC being part of county government because of the number of contract services already in his department and said the CAC might get caught up in the politics of government.

The purpose of a CAC is to help abused children and their non-offending family members by providing a safe and comfortable environment to get support and protection. Through a Multidisciplinary Team (MDT) and the use of protocols, CACs reduce the trauma to child victims caused by the investigation process and assist in the prosecution of those who commit crimes against children. A MDT consists of members from law enforcement, child protective services, prosecution, mental health services and health care.

While there is no right or wrong way to organize a CAC, there were a number of disadvantages listed for merging with an already existing nonprofit. Many See CENTER on Page A16 said they felt a change in the nonprofit's leadership or mission would leave the CAC in a vulnerable position. Most said they wanted the county's CAC to be a reflection of the community it represents. It was suggested to seek out existing CACs with a nonprofit affiliation to determine how leadership, staffing and shared resources are defined.

Currently the CAC has about $700,000 in start-up funds but the center will need to do its share of fundraising to maintain its operating budget. Those attending the Advisory Council meeting said having the CAC be a free-standing organization might be difficult with the competition for funds for nonprofits.

In other business, Marcus said that two Lehigh University Masters' program students will be working with the Department of Human Services and with the Children's Advocacy Center. Marcus said one of the fellows' projects would be to assist with the completion of the protocols that guide the MDT in resolving child abuse cases. David Gilgoff, president and CEO of Valley Youth House, said it would be important for the CAC to find a champion for financial support.

Marcus also reported that Requests for Proposals (RFPs) for architectural services will be going out on the vacant building across from the courthouse, which is shared by voter registration. At an earlier meeting, a tour of the facility had met with a positive response because of the ease of access to the courthouse and the parking availability.

CAC Advisory Council meetings are held in Northampton County Courthouse, 669 Washington St., Easton. For more information on the CAC and its next meeting, contact Marcus's office at 610-559-3010.

HANOVER TOWNSHIP

'Silent sentinel of freedom'

By BERNIE O'HARE
Special to the Bethlehem Press

A diverse crowd of nearly 200 people attended Hanover Township's Patriot Day Remembrance and Flag Retirement Ceremony at the Community Center Sept. 11. From Canes slugger Sammy Kraihanzel, age 12, to Walt Whitman Lane resident Irene Recor, age 85, they remembered.

Instead of speaking, politicians like State Rep. Marcia Hahn listened as Port Authority worker Michael Mayurnik described what it was like to be on the 69th floor of the World Trade Center when its 97th floor was hit by an airliner. After looking out a window and seeing paper and other debris flying everywhere, one of his co-workers said, "Let's get the hell out."

And so they did. As they and other lucky ones were leaving, New York firefighters were making their way in, some never to return.

After this remembrance, the crowd shuffled outside the Community Center for a moving flag retirement ceremony performed by Notre Dame Boy Scout Troop 352, assisted by Scoutmaster Michael Caffrey. The Stars and Stripes was presented to scouts by Bethlehem's Mounted Police Unit, which had slowly wound its way through the township park in what seemed like a funeral procession.

During this ceremony, the colors were separated as Liberty HS bagpipers Victor Neumann and Krysden Schantz played "Going Home." One scout held the blue field with 50 stars, as others cut away each of the 13 red and white stripes of Old Glory. Master of ceremonies Joshua Soares called our American flag, "the silent sentinel of freedom." Then that flag, and about 50 others, were placed into two barrels.

As flames and billowing smoke climbed from these twin pyres into the evening sky, it was yet another reminder of the conflagration at the twin towers Sept. 11, 2001.

It was a mostly informative-only session of the Bethlehem Water Authority meeting Aug. 18, held a week late to accommodate Musikfest.

Board President John Tallarico reported they have received a revised proposal from Malcolm Pirney water consultants after a lackluster initial offering in July. He said the new proposal is "the first step in a long journey."

Authority Executive Director Stephen Repasch said the original, "had lots of back-end stuff we didn't feel we needed to look at." In cataloging needed steps toward the transition from an administrative to an operating authority, the proposal is about half as costly and more detailed in actual planning phases.

Board member Vaughn Gower said of the more precise plan, "Now we can try to understand the financial implications" of the proposed transition.

As for the wind energy project, a shake-up caused no small amount of concerned discussion yet was rather easily resolved.

Citizens Energy Corporation dropped out as a financial partner to begin. Delsea Energy, the company commissioners hope will install the giant wind turbines if the project goes through. New Jersey Resources Clean Energy Ventures is suggested by Broadlands consultants as the top replacement. New Jersey has some reservations, they said, and finding partners in the venture is difficult because there are so many questions yet to be answered. Gower said partnerships are up in the air because there is uncertainty about the return on investment.

Board Member Richard Master said, "After all these studies it may be that the project is not economically feasible." Environmental issues, bird studies and even the FAA may end the project long before it begins.

Resident Steve Antalics said he'd been looking into the bird issue, concerned that the board may not be taking seriously the possibility of birds hitting the turbine blades. He said he'd been told previously that "more birds die hitting wind-energy fans, and so he decided to take that comment as literal and calculated the number of existing turbines and windows - worldwide, presumably - and the ratio of avian deaths resulting from unexpected impacts.

He found, "The numbers given were bogus bordering on the absurd." Antalics said, "They were probably given by those who are pro-turbine."

Tallarico said the authority had not yet performed its own study and had no empirical evidence to support either claim.

In the end they simply decided to offer to negotiate with New Jersey using the same base agreement they were using with Citizens.

Union Depot train wreck

Bethlehem became the home of several industries due to the busy railroad traffic that arrived daily in the city. The heavy traffic on these lines brought wealth, prosperity and jobs to the people of Bethlehem. On occasion, the trains also brought tragedy.

On Sept. 27, 1926, two trains collided outside the new Union Depot building, built in 1924. Bethlehem residents waiting for a 6 a.m. train on that clear, sunny Monday morning witnessed a horrific crash that killed nine people and injured 40 others. The tracks surrounding the station were scattered with wreckage from the preventable accident.

The crash involved an eastbound Lehigh Valley Railroad passenger train (the Lehigh Limited) and a southbound Central Railroad of New Jersey passenger train (Scranton Flyer). The Lehigh Limited consisted of two coaches, one club car and eight Pullman sleeping cars. The Jersey Central train was pulling two baggage cars, one mail car, one coach, four Pullman sleeping cars and a combination car.

The Lehigh Limited was coming from a stop in Allentown and was approaching the Union Depot at 15 miles per hour along the south bank of the Lehigh River. The Scranton Flyer also had just left Allentown on the Jersey Central tracks, which brought the train on the north side of the Lehigh River, then across the iron bridge to the south side. The end of the bridge was located only 123 feet from the station. This train also arrived no faster than 15 miles per hour.

Lehigh Limited Conductor Kromer and Engineer Donlin stated they had received the signal to proceed to the station. Scranton Flyer Conductor Terry and Engineer Schmidt also stated that they were given the signal to proceed. The Lehigh Limited arrived at the station first. The Scranton Flyer engine struck the side of the Lehigh Limited near the rear end of the first car. That car was derailed and broke away from the engine hauling the train. The second car was then overturned. The Scranton Flyer engine turned over on its left side.

Passengers in both trains were thrown into the aisles from their seats and sleeping berths. The lights went out in the trains. Steam filled the air from the broken pipes of the Lehigh Flyer's engine. The passengers who could climb out of the trains through the windows and end doors wandered around the south bank of the Lehigh River in confusion and terror.

Chief of the Bethlehem Police Department William Halteman arrived a few minutes after the crash. He summoned 25 policemen and ambulances from St. Luke's Hospital and Allentown's Sacred Heart Hospital and Allentown Hospital. All available physicians and nurses assisted the injured into the ambulances.

A wrecking crew from the Lehigh Valley raised the overturned car to find eight dead passengers buried in the wreckage.

Northampton County Coroner Walter J. Cathrall impaneled six men to serve as a jury. They gathered baggage to determine the names of the dead. Within a few hours, hundreds of people were gathered on the Hill-to-Hill Bridge to observe the wreck and consequently stopped all traffic on the bridge. The police had to clear a path on the bridge for the ambulances to make their way to the Allentown hospitals.

Cathrall began interviewing witnesses, including a janitor named Cunningham who was making his rounds inside the general office building of the Lehigh Valley Railroad on Brighton Street. From his vantage point he could see both train signals just before the trains collided. The janitor saw a stop indication signal displayed for the Scranton Flyer.

Assistant District Attorney Russel C. Mauch issued warrants for the arrest of engineer Henry Schmidt, engineer Henry Donlin and towerman Terrence Riley on misdemeanor charges of disregarding signals. They each produced $1,000 for bail.

A month later the Bureau of Safety of the Interstate Commerce Commission concluded, "This accident was caused by the failure of Engineman Schmidt of Jersey Central train 306 to properly observe and obey signal instructions."

The steel construction of the rail cars was said to have saved lives.

Schmidt maintained, "I think something was wrong with the signals. I threw my brakes and blew my whistle. I was too close and could not stop. If the Lehigh Limited had been moving faster the accident would not have happened."

Schmidt had emigrated from Germany to the United States in 1889. He was first employed by Jersey Central as a brakeman in 1902 and was promoted to engineer in 1907. Schmidt had run trains over the tracks where the accident occurred since September 1925. Schmidt had no record of violations of any service law. Schmidt continued to reside in his home in Jim Thorpe until his death in 1941. There were no further news items regarding his punishment for his role in causing the train wreck.

The new ramp onto the Hill-to-Hill Bridge was set to open ahead of schedule on Sept. 13, according to a PennDOT press released received last week. Concrete railings have been installed to match the existing railings on the bridge. Motorists heading up the ramp will be able to enjoy a view that includes the historic Wilbur Mansion, Masonic Temple and former Lehigh Valley Railroad office building.

Traffic relief in sight

Motorists driving through the construction area on West Third Street should see some relief soon. According to PennDOT spokesperson Ron Young, the new ramp leading to the Hill-to-Hill Bridge was originally planned to be open by the end of the year. Constructed as part of the overall $7.6 million of traffic improvements in this area, the new ramp will alleviate congestion where the existing Third Street ramp intersects with West Third Street. Young said that by spring 2012, final paving will be completed on the widening of Wyandotte and West Third streets with removal of the abandoned Third Street ramp to follow. City of Bethlehem director of public works Mike Alkhal said that the area reclaimed from the ramp demolition would be graded and seeded initially. ABOVE: The Third Street ramp roadway plan shows how the road improvements are designed to help with traffic flow in this high congestion area.

Grade: 12

Family members: My parents, my brother David and our dog named Oreó

Favorite subject: My favorite subject is English, because of its creativity level and subjectivity. In English class you are allowed to have an opinion, and can argue that opinion to your heart's content. You can analyze literature and write what you think, and I think that makes the learning process seem freeing.

Activities: I am part of the cross country team and the track and field team. I participate in Key Club, Italian Club, Eco Club, WORD Club and Tech Club. Last year, I was a staff writer for the school paper, The Hawk, and this year I hope to become editor.

Next steps: After high school I plan to attend college and major in English.

Career Goals: I hope to pursue a career in writing.

Heroes: The person I look up to the most is my mom. She has shaped me into the person that I am, and has always made sure of my happiness. She homeschooled me first through eighth grade, and still homeschools my brother. I want to grow up to be like her.

Hobbies: In my free time, I write fiction and poetry. I also enjoy playing the piano, and I like to cook and paint.

Current job(s): This is my second year being a student reporter for the Bethlehem Press.

Volunteer/community work: I volunteer at Good Shepherd Pediatrics, spending time and playing games with the kids there.

Likes: I like watching classic Disney movies, eating Italian food and collecting fortunes from fortune cookies.

Dislikes: I do not like long infomercials about things that can chop onions, grate cheese, or sculpt muscles "faster than the technique you are already using"...but hey, that's just life.

Greatest accomplishment (so far): My greatest accomplishment in life so far is the poetry I have gotten published in the teen writing journal, Teen Ink. I really love writing, and knowing that someone out there liked what I wrote enough to publish it was a great feeling.

Advice for peers: My advice to my peers is to not care what other people think. The world is too big a place to try and get everyone to like you, so just get comfortable in your own skin, and you'll realize who truly belongs in your life.

Paper airplanes soared across the gym at Donegan ES as part of a program encouraging interest in STEM (science, technology, engineering and mathematics) for fifth graders. Several mechanical engineering students from Lehigh University worked with the elementary school students to build and decorate the airplanes. They launched the airplanes and marked where they landed. The engineering students then provided ideas for adjustments to make the planes go farther on their next launch. The engineering students are filling an outreach requirement by NASA after receiving a grant to spend a week at NASA, which will include the opportunity to experience microgravity. ABOVE: Students at Donegan Elementary School ask questions during the presentation by Lehigh University's Micro Gravity Team.

New club has 200 members

As the school year begins, there is never a dull moment at Bethlehem Catholic HS. Its academics, sports and activities continue to advance students in their paths to leadership and success. Although it is sad to see the summer fade away, it's time to step up and show some Becahi Golden Hawk pride.

Over the summer, the cafeteria underwent some renovations and menu changes. Thanks to Principal John Petruzzelli and school chef Phillip Stetler, breakfast items are now available for students and faculty before the school day starts. This is a great convenience, especially for first and second period study halls.

One of the new clubs at Becahi, the Pep Club, has recruited about 200 students. Seniors Marianne Brooks and Gabby Lacherza created the group to boost school spirit and to have a bigger and better student section for sports events. The first student section theme was a "beach theme," and students wore wetsuits, sunglasses and swim trunks for the football game against Allen Sept. 9. A Facebook group will be created for the club to keep students informed of ways they can contribute to a fun-filled year.

The boys varsity soccer team has also started off the season with a bang. Freddie Taylor, Ryan Peslis, Anthony Papageorgiou, Antonio Bofcia, Alex Meny, Marc Meny, Nick Frankenfield, Marcin Boragani, Anthony Santilli, Scott Eftling, Matt Collier, Chris Blaszk, CJ Daniels, Todd Yildiran, Kevin Wood and Emmanuel Kibane give their all at each game and continue to make Becahi proud.

"We may not be as skilled as other teams, but we have pride and determination," says sophomore Anthony Santilli.

Once again, the Becahi cross country team has begun a strong season. The first meet was held at Moravian Academy Sept. 2. Junior Jenny Schadt came in fifth in the Varsity Girls' race, and sophomore John Donchez came in fifth in the varsity boys race. This is a huge success for the team, and for Becahi. At their second meet at DeSales University, Donchez also ran extremely well, with his time of 19:19.9. The team will have meets at Freedom HS, Bicentennial Park, Allentown Parkway, Illicks Mill and Easton HS before their league meet at the Bethlehem Gold Course Oct. 8. Afterward, the top seven runners from each team will advance to the district meet Oct. 22. Good luck to all the runners.

Success! Students watch a paper airplane take off.

SCHOOL NOTES

Becahi students at Iacocca Institute

Jenna Edelman and Elizabeth Zurek attended Lehigh University's summer Iacocca Institute. Edelman, a junior, attended the National Youth Leadership Forum on medicine in San Francisco, Calif. The 10-day forum introduced students to a variety of concepts in public health, medical ethics, research and general practice. She attended site visits to medical facilities and clinics, engaged in simulations using problem-solving-based learning through the presentation of fictional patients' case histories, in which the students were taught how to diagnose and develop treatment plans. She received college credit through George Mason University.

Elizabeth Zurek, a senior, attended a five week residential program with the Pennsylvania School of Global Entrepreneurship at Lehigh University. National and international students focused on business and leadership development, team-building, global networking, project management and working in a culturally diverse environment. Her group project assignment helped ArtsQuest devise a way to get Lehigh students interested in the cultural activities in Bethlehem; she was the group leader. Her group created a movie that showed ArtsQuest offerings and the best route to walk from the campus to attend them. The team worked with the ArtsQuest staff and presented their movie at the end of the program. ArtsQuest plans to use

L.V. P.A. juniors, seniors at Symphony Hall

More than 50 of the 11th and 12th grade theater majors were recently part of Allentown Symphony Hall's On Screen/In Person film series. The documentary, "Trust: Second Acts in Young Lives", centered on a Honduran immigrant who lands in a psychiatric hospital after surviving a childhood fraught with abuse. When she is in her late teens, a counselor refers her to the Albany Park Theatre Project, a company that makes plays from its performers' real-life stories. Thanks to Robin Flores, Grants and Education manager, with the Allentown Symphony Association, the students were granted a private viewing of the film, along with a visit from Nancy Kelly, the film's director.

Instrumental students were part of a master class given by jazz guitarist Howard Alden along with faculty member Frank DiBussolo.

Red Cross says
be prepared

For National Preparedness Month, the American Red Cross of the Greater Lehigh Valley is calling on families, businesses, schools and organizations to take steps now to become better prepared for the next emergency or disaster, from earthquakes to hurricanes to terrorist attacks such as those that occurred on Sept. 11, 2001.

Everyone should have an emergency preparedness kit. The kits should include enough supplies for at least three days in case of evacuation.

Water (one gallon, per person, per day), nonperishable food, a flashlight, battery-powered or hand-crank radio, extra batteries, a first aid kit, a seven day supply of medications, a multi-purpose tool, sanitation and personal hygiene items and copies of important personal documents should go in every kit.

The Red Cross also recommends having at least two weeks worth of supplies at home. All members of the household should work together on an emergency plan including a place to meet, how to reach other household members and an out-of-area emergency contact person.

For more information, call 610-865-4400 or visit www.redcross.org.

Lehigh Valley Russian families seek bicultural parity

By JOHANNA S. BILLINGS
jbillings@ttonline.com

Second of two parts

Anastasia Katchan wants her son, Pavel, 4, to be able to speak with his relatives in Russia.

"I know many families who speak Russian and their kids don't speak Russian at all," said Katchan, a native of St. Petersburg, Russia.

Just because a child grows up with bilingual parents doesn't mean he's going to become bilingual, too, said Katchan, who lives in Macungie with Pavel and her husband, Ivan.

Despite the fact that both of Pavel's parents are native Russian speakers, Pavel seems to find it easier to speak English.

"When he meets Russian children, also he speaks English," she said.

Two visits to Russia greatly improved Pavel's Russian, his mother said. However, occasional trips are not enough.

"It's much easier for him to learn with other kids," she said.

Valeria Makovskia agrees — so much so, in fact, that she started Matrioshka USA, a club for families in the Lehigh Valley who want their children to grow up appreciating their Russian roots.

The name of the club is translated from the Russian word for the popular traditional nesting dolls.

"I didn't feel the need for that Russian social circle until I had children," said Makovskia, who also is from Russia. "Then I appreciated what I had been missing."

Makovskia and her American husband, Julian Tiffany, lived in England for many years before moving to Bethlehem last year.

Their three children, Katya, who will be 7 Sept. 23; Natasha, who will be 5 next month; and Maxim, who turns 3 in November, were all born in England, where she ran a similar club.

It came about after Katya was born. The couple discussed the issue at length and agreed they wanted their children to grow up bilingual and bicultural.

"It's a commitment and it's hard work," Makovskia said. "When you teach your children a language [that is not spoken around them] that is a lot harder."

Pavel Katchan, 4, right, interacts with his mother, Anastasia, left, during a Matrioshka USA meeting at the Bethlehem home of Val Makovskaia. Living in the United States, Pavel naturally wants to speak English. Teaching him Russian requires commitment and effort, his parents say.

Matrioshka USA meetings generally begin with a family activity. The theme for the August meeting was pirates so the group went on a treasure hunt following maps and clues written in Russian by Makovskaia.

After the activity, everyone comes in for snacks and social time. Makovskaia also works with the children on written and oral Russian language exercises related to that month's theme.

"I now have a lot of experience working with families trying to raise the children with more than one language," she said.

She advises couples to discuss the issue and decide if both marriage partners are committed to the process.

"Are you working on this as a family or is this you against your husband or your wife as the case may be?" she said.

In order to make Russian language and culture a part of every day, Makovskaia and her husband watch Russian films together with the children and allow only Russian television programs on weekdays.

Their house is filled with books, toys and games in both languages.

"I only speak Russian to my children, no matter who, when, how or what unless we've got a play date and I need to say something everybody needs to know," said Makovskaia. "Even if [the children] have friends around, they will address me in Russian."

Families who want to be successful must treat Russian as an important part of everyday family life and not as a "second" language.

Interacting with other Russian speakers helps, she said, "so [the children] don't think it's some sort of funny secret language only Mommy talks."

Makovskaia's husband is an important part of the process. Coincidentally, he studied Russian in high school, long before he met her.

"He obviously learned it well because he still appears to remember quite a bit," she said. "He understands enough to know when the children are trying to play us against each other."

The situation in the Brophy household in Bethlehem is similar. Natalia Brophy is a native Russian speaker from Belarus. Her husband, Gary, is American. They have three children, Sasha, 6; Aiden, 3; and Roman, 4 months.

Gary didn't speak any Russian when they met. While they were dating, through, he studied the language in an attempt to impress her, she said.

He never became fluent, but he knows enough Russian that he doesn't feel excluded from her conversations with their children, she said.

Growing up bilingual is "like a bonus," said Ivan Katchan. "[Pavel] doesn't realize it now. He will later on."

Russian families also emphasize Russian culture. In addition to having Russian television, movies, books and games, all three families celebrate both Russian and American holidays and eat Russian food.

They are all happy to share their Russian culture with interested Americans. Often, however, such conversations revolve around stereotypes.

"I get asked about vodka all the time," said Brophy. "Not everybody drinks vodka. I don't like vodka. I drink beer."

Russia covers 11 time zones, Brophy said, and not all parts of the country are cold.

"Some parts of Russia are very hot," she said.

Ivan Katchan said both Russia and the United States have made great progress in overcoming stereotypes. Still, some stereotypes persist on both sides.

"[Americans] say in Russia there's bears on the street and you drink vodka all the time," he said. "Then all Americans are feeding cows in the day and then dancing in the bars at night."

Blues are a blast

Buckwheat Zydeco headlines 35 acts at SteelStacks

Grammy Award winner Buckwheat Zydeco and internationally-acclaimed artist JJ Grey & Mofro highlight the lineup of more than 35 international, national and local blues acts performing at ArtsQuest's inaugural Blast Furnace Blues Festival at the new SteelStacks arts and cultural campus in Bethlehem Sept. 16-18.

For Blast Furnace Blues, ArtsQuest has partnered with Michael Cloeren Productions to present a dynamic and eclectic lineup of blues legends and up-and-coming artists. During the festival, there will be music on four stages including performances by harmonica master Charlie Musselwhite, acclaimed blues guitarist Bernard Allison, 2010 Grammy Award nominee Ruthie Foster, former Howlin' Wolf band leader and seven-time W.C. Handy Award nominee Eddie Shaw & the Wolf Gang, and Dana Fuchs, music star of the Sony Pictures' movie, "Across The Universe."

"The Blast Furnace Blues Festival will showcase the best in contemporary and traditional, acoustic and electric blues, soul, zydeco and gospel music," says Cloeren, founder and producer of the award-winning Pocono Blues Festival, which took place annually from 1992-2010.

"Michael Cloeren has such a tremendous knowledge and history with the blues. It has been a thrill to work with him on this event," says Patrick Brogan, Vice President of Performing Arts for ArtsQuest.

Blast Furnace Blues Festival gates open at 4 p.m. Sept. 16 and noon Sept. 17-18. Music begins at 5 p.m. Sept. 16, 12:30 p.m. Sept. 17 and 1 p.m. Sept. 18.

During Blast Furnace Blues, there are three days of free performances by local and regional blues artists at the Air Products Town Square. Acts scheduled to perform include BC Combo, Craig Thatcher Band, Donovan Roberts, Friar's Point and more.

Among ticketed concerts, at 8:45 p.m. Sept. 17 is Buckwheat Zydeco, who, The New York Times, said, "leads one of the best party bands in America."

Stanley "Buckwheat" Dural Jr., winner of the 2009 Grammy Award for Best Cajun and Zydeco Album, has been performing soul-filled zydeco and Cajun music for more than three decades. Over the years, he has gigged with everyone from Eric Clapton and U2 to The Boston Pops. His band performed to a worldwide audience of three billion people at the 1996 Summer Olympics' closing ceremonies, as well as to packed houses at both inaugurations for President Bill Clinton.

During the festival, audiences will have the opportunity to enjoy a more intimate experience with select Blast Furnace Blues Festival artists during the "Blues Banter Series" in the Musikfest Cafe. Each "Blues Banter" show will feature the artist performing, as well as taking part in a Q&A session moderated by Cloeren. "Blues Banter" at 7 p.m. Sept. 17 features Eddie Shaw and his band, who will perform a set showcasing the music of Howlin' Wolf.

Highlights of the Blast Furnace Blues Festival include a tribute to Chicago Style Blues Sept. 18, featuring music by legendary guitarist Hubert Sumlin with the Chicago Blues All Stars featuring Willie "Big Eyes" Smith, Bob Stroger and Bob Margolin; late-night jams in the Musikfest Cafe and a special Blues Brunch with Teeny Tucker 11 a.m. - 1 p.m. Sept. 18 (separate brunch ticket required).

Robbi Kumalo gives voice to jazz series

By JERRY DUCKETT
Special to The Press

Vocalist-pianist Robbi Kumalo, who moved to the Lehigh Valley about one year ago, performs at 7 p.m. Sept. 16 as part of the Upstairs Cabaret Series in the Rodale Community Room, Symphony Hall, 23 N. Sixth St., Allentown.

Accompanying her is her husband Bakithi, bass; Frank DiBussolo, guitar, and Vern Mobley, drums.

New York City born Kumalo, at age three, had already written her first song, "A U Monkey Face," a tribute to her brother's funny face. She continued her music ambitions by playing piano, violin, and guitar.

From elementary school through college she performed in concerts and the theater. Her voice and charisma led her to sing with Aretha Franklin, Chaka Khan, Diana Ross, Jewel and Rod Stewart.

Robbi Kumalo, 7 p.m. Sept. 16, Upstairs Cabaret Series, Rodale Community Room, Symphony Hall, Allentown

During the early 1990's she became friendly with record producer Arif Mardin, who discovered many of the stars Kumalo sang with during her career.

According to Kumalo, Mardin told her, "I am going to call you every time I need singers when I make a record." She worked closely with him as a producer and contractor until his death in the late 1990s.

For more than 25 years, Kumalo has performed and worked to develop young audiences by producing programs as a teaching artist at Lincoln Center, New York City.

"It's been a long time since I discovered I had this gift, a passion for music. As I got older it became very clear to me as an artist that I had the affinity to translate and share music with younger audiences in a way that they understood music," she says.

Kumalo, who sings and speaks English, Spanish, French, German, Italian and Zulu, has incorporated a host of characters in a variety of accents, dialects and idioms in her performances.

She has released three children's CDs: "Set It Free"; "Keep the Beat," winner of a Parent's Choice Award; and "Music Makes Me Happy," winner of a choice Silver and Parenting Award.

She has also been heard as the background voice in many TV and radio commercials. She has appeared on "Oprah," "60 Minutes," "The View," "VH1 Storytellers" and "The Late Show with David Letterman."

Germaphobia has overtaken us

One of my favorite things at the gym is the nice variety of exercise classes.

My favorite class combines stretching and strength training with a real aerobic workout. But when I was there this week doing the mat exercises at the end of class, I couldn't do some of the simple exercises. It's not that they were too hard. I was spazed out because I forgot my own mat.

When I tried to lay my head back on the gym's mat, I noticed it was horribly grimy. For that matter, the exercise ball I was using as well as the hand weights and body bar all were filthy.

Instead of concentrating on stretching my muscles, all I could think about were the millions of germs that were probably getting in my hair from the mat and equipment used by everyone.

I never thought it would happen, but it did. I caught a case of germaphobia. It's an epidemic that is sweeping the country.

I vowed it would never happen to me. I think we are obsessing about germs to the point where it seems each week we are warned about germs lurking in some new unsuspected place.

We're told our desks, phones and cell phones harbor more germs than our toilets. We're warned not to touch any surface in public places. We're told we're better off not reading the magazines in doctors' offices because too many people have touched them.

This week's Associated Press story warned that potential pathogens can and do lurk on doctors' and nurses' uniforms. The study, which was published first in the American Journal of Infection Control, found potential pathogens on 63 percent of the tested white coats or uniforms. Some of the cultures grew into the dreaded MRSA.

All that information is enough to drive you to make crazy decisions. Consider this: After reading that story about germs on magazines in waiting rooms, some people have carried it to extremes and said they've stopped taking books from the public library because of fear of germs.

At a seminar last week, I laid a cookie and napkin on a countertop while I poured myself a cup of coffee. Another woman said I should throw the cookie away because part of the it was directly on the countertop that was touched by dozens of people. (The open plate of piled cookies was probably touched by a lot of people, too.)

Yikes. We're going crazy worrying about germs.

When I am out to dinner, I always order water with a slice of lemon, even though we're told not to do it because the lemons aren't washed enough to negate germs. Heck, if we thought about all the places bacteria can be and all the kitchen hands involved, we would probably never eat out in the first place.

If it's true that early exposure to germs, dirt and bacteria builds up

WARMEST REGARDS

By Pattie Mihalik
newsgrl@comcast.net

immunity in our bodies, I should be protected forever. As a kid, I was always playing in dirt or the polluted creek that ran through town. But we didn't know the word "polluted" back then. We didn't know fear of germs either.

That's not true of today's kids. Some school districts have asked parents to include antibacterial wipes along with their child's school supplies. The wipes are supposed to be used on surfaces others may have touched.

Germaphobia is so prevalent that many people won't shake hands anymore and don't want to be touched in any way. Forget hugs. Hugs are just another danger.

Howie Mandel, the host of Deal or No Deal, is one of the better known people who have an obsession with germs. He makes it known that he won't shake hands and doesn't want to be touched. When he was hospitalized after passing out, he refused to put on a hospital gown.

While we all know hospitals are probably the easiest place to pick up infections, it isn't always possible to avoid them. Nor is it possible to avoid germs.

I try not to worry about what I can't control. It's impossible to follow all the health warnings without going a bit crazy.

I buy bagged, pre-washed, cut-up lettuce for my daily salads. But a survey came out that said pre-washed bagged salad isn't any better than whole heads of lettuce for avoiding germs.

A few websites advocate soaking all fresh produce in a mild wash of bleach and water. Other websites warn don't do it. The bleach could be poisonous.

One of my friends absolutely refuses to eat lettuce of any kind because it all harbors germs, she says. As proof, she sites our lettuce-loving neighbor who has serious complications from E.coli bacteria. They haven't pinpointed the cause.

Years ago, we had few of today's kitchen precautions and we seldom worried about germs of any kind. Don't you wonder how we all grew up and lived this long?

While I refuse to obsess about germs, I still have a problem with that gym class. When we use machines on the main floor of the gym, we wipe them down before and after use. Somehow we have to extend that to the exercise room.

Life is sometimes like walking a balance beam. We all try not to fall off while we seek a balance between caution and craziness.

My problem sometimes is telling when a practice is prudent and when it slips into crazy. When it comes to fearing germs, I think many of us are slipping into the crazy mode.

'Little Boogaloo' is larger than life

By PAUL WILLISTEIN
Focus Editor

After a wild ride phone call from her car, Eden Brent has settled into Jetty's Juke Joint and is holding court.

"I'm sitting here, drinking some Hennessy, straight out of the half-pint bottle. This is my home away from home," says Brent, a Greenville, Miss., native and self-described "Little Boogaloo" who performs at 12:30 p.m. Sept. 17 at PNC Plaza and 4:30 p.m. Sept. 17 at Levitt Pavilion SteelStacks, as part of the Blast Furnace Blues Festival.

"When you drive down Highway 61, you cross over the Mississippi state line into Louisiana. Not too far after that is Jetty's Juke Joint, on the old Highway 61.

"This is 'the' Highway 61. Highway 61 goes almost all the way to Bethlehem. We'll be traveling all the way up Highway 61 and then we'll take a right turn," jokes Brent before letting loose one of the many raucous volleys of laughter that punctuate the interview.

"The only other time I played in Pennsylvania was with Boogaloo [Ames], which means that was maybe in the year 2000," explains Brent.

Ames was Brent's mentor. She has a Bachelors of Music from the University of North Texas. "But I got a PhD in Boogaloo. That is a true fact.

"I was always interested in entertaining. When I was three, I was trying. By the time I was five, I was taking [piano] lessons. I really learned how to play when I met Boogaloo. That was a defining moment.

"He was a kind of fixture, playing all the lounges, around town, all over Mississippi. He played at my sister's wedding. I watched the way he could do a crowd. When he would play, everybody would tap their foot, even laugh out loud. Finally, I got the courage to ask him to teach me."

She says her apprenticeship began in 1984 or '85. He was 68. He died at 83. She was 18 or 19.

While Boogaloo may not have been nationally-known, Brent says not to worry.

"When you meet me, you will meet Boogaloo. It will be a white, female version of an old black man. That's a true fact. He said, 'You know, I knew I was going to teach somebody. It never occurred to me that it was going to be a young, white woman.'"

The boogaloo sound is a combination of boggiewoogie, stride and the blues. Legend has it one of the members of the Rat Pack, led by Frank Sinatra, gave Ames his nickname.

Music runs in Brent's family. Her mother was a big band singer.

Brent says she's bringing an excellent band to Bethlehem, including "Bad Bones" Bobby Walker, drums, and the Andy Irvine, aka, "Cornbread," bass, and, of course, Brent, piano and vocals.

Look and listen for songs from her 2008 release, "Mississippi Number One."

"We've got some surprises," she teases.

"I don't ever plan a show. I've never planned a how in my life. There's no telling what I'll do. I let the audience decide where we're going to go. It's not about me. It's not about them. It's about us. That is my goal. If I can make us happy, then I've done what I'm supposed to do."

At this point, she yells to a patron in the bar, "That's what I want to be when I grow up, too."

"Actually, when I grow up I want to be a crop duster," she says, turning back to the interviewer, "flying above the wires and then real low. The way I grew up, I watched that. It's musical. You can even hear it."

She says her knucklebusters style was born of necessity.

"The first time I played I didn't have amplification for my voice or piano. So, I had to holler. It's a lot like Bessie Smith. She had to holler and walk across the room."

Brent gigs steadily. "I've not had more than a couple of nights off in a year and half." She performs internationally. "My favorite thing to do is to go other places and invite them to Mississippi—Jetty's Juke Joint, the capital of Mississippi in Zachary, Miss."

Oh, one final question: About that first name, Eden?

"What happened was my mother was very pregnant right before I was born. I was going to be named Halley Hayes. Right outside of Yazoo, Mississippi, there's a town named Eden. And my mother said, 'Howard, if it's a girl, let's call her Eden.' But all my friends call me 'Little Boogaloo.'"

Sands partners with Vision, Live Nation for Event Center

The Sands Casino Resort Bethlehem has announced the start of construction of an Event Center to open in May 2012. The plans include 50,000-square-foot of flexible multi-purpose space, allowing the resort to accommodate meetings, conventions and entertainment.

The Sands Bethlehem Event Center is a partnership between Sands Casino Resort Bethlehem and Vision Entertainment Group, which will work in conjunction with Live Nation to bring some of the biggest names in entertainment to the Event Center.

The Event Center is expected to add 100 full and part time jobs to the Sands Casino Resort Development project.

"We are so pleased to continue expanding our resort during this milestone year and provide new entertainment options for the region," said Sands Casino Resort Bethlehem President Robert DeSalvio.

"We are partnering with Vision Entertainment Group to ensure that the Sands Bethlehem Event Center will provide everything that our guests are seeking when visiting our property.

"In May of this year we launched the Sands Hotel and Emeril's Italian Table and will be previewing The Shoppes at Sands, our luxury outlet mall, in November.

"The Event Center will continue to position the Sands Casino Resort Bethlehem as a premiere destination for leisure and business travelers."

The Event Center is the latest addition to the resort, which launched the 300-room Sands Hotel, more than 5,000-square-foot of meeting space and a new Emeril Lagasse restaurant, Emeril's Italian Table.

The Sands Bethlehem development also consists of plans for 200,000 square feet of luxury outlet shopping for popular retailers and designers, the Shoppes at Sands.

Approximately eight stores will launch for a soft opening Nov. 1, with a number of additional stores due to open in February 2012 for a grand opening.

Sands Bethlehem Event Center, to be completed by May 2012, will be constructed by local contractors Serfass Construction and Alvin H. Butz.

The event center was designed by Allentown based Howard Kulp Architects and will offer an event capacity of more than 3,000 and a banquet capacity of more than 1,000.

"Vision Entertainment is excited to be working in conjunction with two giant industry leading organizations; Las Vegas Sands Corp. and Live Nation," said Jeff Trainer, Co-Founder of Vision Entertainment Group.

"We designed the Sands Bethlehem Event Center as a first-class, state of the art entertainment and event facility offering professional, high-quality entertainment, food, and beverage for both guests of the Sands Bethlehem and residents of the Mid-Atlantic region," Trainer said.

"One of our primary focuses was to ensure the quality of the performances, events and experience of the Sands Bethlehem Event Center will contribute to the overall goals and successful development occurring within the City of Bethlehem and Mid-Atlantic region," said Trainer.

"An event center of this caliber bringing great affordable entertainment as well as having reasonably-priced food and beverage and unparalleled customer service, is not possible unless all aspects of the project come into alignment. The winning combination includes the Sands Casino Resort Bethlehem, Live Nation, and Vision Entertainment Group," said Rich Welkowitz, Co-Founder of Vision Entertainment Group.

"We look forward to working with the Sands and Vision Entertainment Group to bring top touring talent to the venue," said Geoff Gordon, Live Nation Mid-Atlantic President.

"The new Event Center gives artists a new touring option when booking their east coast tours, providing great entertainment for the Lehigh Valley and surrounding regions and visitors of the Sands Casino Resort Bethlehem," Gordon said.

Situated on the former site of the historic Bethlehem Steel plant and located within close proximity from Philadelphia and New York City, the Sands Casino Resort Bethlehem debuted in May 2009.

The Sands Casino property offers more than 3,000 state-of-the-art slot machines, 129 live table games, and a variety of entertainment and dining options. These include Emeril's Chop House, Burgers And More by Emeril, Emeril's Italian Table, Carnegie Deli, St. James Gate Irish Pub and Carvery, The Market - Gourmet Express, Cobalt Buffet & Café and the bar-lounges, Coil, Molten and Infusion.

St. Ann's Fall Fest provides fun for all

Jan and Helen Klucar grill potato pancakes at their food stand for St. Ann's Fall Fest held Sept. 8 to 10. In addition to delicious food, there was bingo, crafts, live bands and carnival rides. This annual community event is a fun time for the entire family.

It's the time for The Zombies 'Contagion' can be deadly

By PAUL WILLISTEIN
Focus Editor

Colin Blunstone, lead singer for The Zombies, on a double bill with The Strawbs at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 15 at Musikfest Cafe, ArtsQuest Center, SteelStacks, Bethlehem, says the naming of the seminal 1960's British Rock band wasn't an attempt to cash in on the public's fascination with zombies. "There wasn't a zombies culture when we were thinking of the name of the band in 1961 or '62," Blunstone says in a phone interview from England last week, before boarding a plane with fellow band founder Rod Argent for Canada and the start of their North American tour.

"We needed a name for the band. We started out with two really lame names, Just for a few weeks, we were the Mustangs — even in England. Shortly after that, we were The Sundowners. There was a film [1960, starring Deborah Kerr and Robert Mitchum]. That's what we took it from.

"We're 16-years-old, sitting around at rehearsal, just trying to think of a name. The original bass player, Paul Arnold, who left the band, and became a doctor — he didn't have time to commit to the band — he just came up with this idea. And there was no deep thought to it.

"I think we all agreed it was very unusual and, at that time, very unlikely that anyone would have the name The Zombies."

The lore of zombies, a Haitian Creole term describing a corpse brought back to life by mystics, was popularized by director George A. Romero's Pittsburgh area filmed, "Night of the Living Dead" (1969).

The Zombies, best known for the hits, "Tell Her No," "She's Not There" and "Time of the Season," broke up in 1967, but reunited several times.

"In all three of those songs — the arrangement was written with the song. The bass line was written, although Chris White [original bass player-songwriter] may have slightly modified it.

"When Rod [Argent] came in and played the song, he didn't just play the top line, he played the bass line as well. Same way with 'Time of the Season' — bah, bah, bah ... cah cha."

Blunstone was asked about the atmospheric, airy, jazz-like feel to their string of hits.

"The Zombies were always a very natural band. We were never trying for anything. We had a very wide spectrum of musical influences from classical music through rhythm and blues to pop music."

Members of The Zombies were schoolmates. At their first rehearsal, "there was a really broken-down piano. He [Argent] played 'Nut Rocker' by B Bumble and the Stingers. I was just absolutely gob-smacked. We managed to convince him to play piano. I started singing 'Lonesome Town' by Ricky Nelson. And that's how I became the lead singer in The Zombies."

Blunstone credits producer Ken Jones with getting The Zombies a deal with Decca Records after the group won the Herts Beat Competition from a field of 10 bands before an audience of 2,000 in Hertfordshire.

The Zombies' first recording session at Decca's Olympic Studios along Baker Street, almost didn't happen, Blunstone recalls.

"We recorded in the evening. Part of me thinks our recording careers could have stopped then. He [the recording engineer] had gone to a wedding during the day. He was absolutely and completely drunk. Not only was he drunk, he was aggressive. He was screaming down the headphones.

"We were very lucky in that he passed out after an hour or so. He went out cold and we had to carry him out of the studio and put him in a cab. Gus Dudgeon, who recorded all the early Elton John ['Your Song'], filled in as engineer."

The Zombies' 50th anniversary tour includes material from their most recent release, "Breathe Out, Breathe In," released last year. Blunstone's song, "Any Other Way," from his 2009 solo record, "The Ghost Of You & Me," is included on the CD.

"Contagion" is deadly — deadly dull, that is.

Why would anyone go to see a movie about a pandemic?

My excuse is that this space needed a movie review.

It was either "Contagion" or "Warrior." Despite "Raging Bull" and "Million-Dollar Baby" being among my favorite all-time films (and I specifically subscribed to HBO when Larry Holmes was fighting as Heavyweight Boxing Champion so my father and I could see his fights), I just wasn't up for another movie about the pugilistic arts.

So, on the weekend of the 10th anniversary of the Sept. 11 attacks, why not pile on somber thoughts and tragic outcomes with "Contagion"? The movie tells the story, documentary-style, of the spread of a virus that strikes fear and panic in the United States' and world populace.

The pedigree for the film is outstanding. Steven Soderbergh ("Ocean's Eleven," "Traffic," "Erin Brockovich," "Sex, Lies, and Videotape") is highly regarded by this and many movie-goers. Yet, Soderbergh's coolly observed direction in "Contagion" is so clinical as to be cold.

The film is exceptionally cast. Matt Damon plays a dedicated and troubled dad trying to protect the health of his daughter.

Lawrence Fishburne is a by-the-book Centers for Disease Control official.

Marion Cotillard plays a steadfast and risk-taking World Health Organization researcher.

Jude Law is a conspiracy-prone blogger.

In supporting roles are Gwyneth Paltrow, Elliott Gould and Kate Winslet.

Each excels. Adding to the verisimilitude is TV doctor Sanjay Gupta as himself.

In addition to the fine performances, the cinematography is superb, the pacing is efficient and the synth-pop, Kraftwerk-inspired soundtrack even makes dull scenes of reportage seem exciting.

MOVIE REVIEW

By Paul Willistein

The problem with "Contagion" is that the terse, limited dialogue screenplay by Scott Z. Burns ("The Bourne Ultimatum") unfolds in a rudimentary manner, not unlike an extended Public Service Announcement commercial.

"Contagion" is a zombie flick without the zombies.

That said, "Contagion" is worthwhile. It tells you, step-by-step, how an epidemic can get out of control. In this way, it's instructive for families, as well as first-responders and those interested in the public good.

The pandemic is compared to SARS, H1N1 and the Spanish flu, which in 1918 claimed 50 million lives and which my father survived.

Perhaps because I was emotionally drained by the 9/11 coverage I did in New York City, plus attending a "Come Together in Hope" 9/11 event at the Jewish Community Center in Allentown, I was not ready for a "big-issue" film such as "Contagion."

Maybe I should have gone to see "Warrior" and watched two fighters physically beat each other up, rather than subject myself to being emotionally beat up.

Then again, "Contagion" had its effect on me. After the film, outside the movie theater, when I saw someone sneeze, I did a double-take.

"Contagion," MPAA Rated PG-13 (Parents Strongly Cautioned. Some material may be inappropriate for children under 13) for disturbing content and some language; Genre: Action, Science-Fiction, Thriller; Run time: 1 hour, 45 minutes; Distributed by Warner Bros. Pictures.

Credit Readers Anonymous: "Contagion" was filmed on location in Atlanta, Ga.; Chicago, Ill.; Hong Kong; Los Angeles; and San Francisco.

Box Office, Sept. 9, "Contagion" spread to No. 1, opening with $23.1 million, and ending a three-week run at No. 1 for "The Help," dropping to No. 2, $8.6 million, $137 million, five weeks, and fighting off "Warrior," opening at No. 3 with $5.6 million.

4. "The Debt," $4.9 million, $21.9 million, two weeks; 5. "Columbiana," $4 million, $29.7 million, three weeks; 6. "Rise of the Planet of the Apes," $3.8 million, $167.8 million, six weeks; 7. "Shark Night 3D," $3.5 million, $14.7 million, two weeks; 8. "Apollo 18," $2.9 million, $15 million, two weeks; 9. "Our Idiot Brother," $2.7 million, $21.4 million, three weeks; 10. "Spy Kids: All the Time in the World in 4D," $2.5 million, $34.2 million, four weeks.

Unreel, Sept. 16: "Drive," Rated R: The action-drama stars Ryan Gosling as a Hollywood stuntman who moonlights as a get-away car driver for criminals. Along for the ride is Carey Mulligan.

"I Don't Know How She Does It," Rated PG-13: The romantic comedy finds a post "Sex and the City" Carrie role for Sarah Jessica Parker, whose character's marriage to her husband, played by Greg Kinnear, is put to the test by a business associate played by Pierce Brosnan. The movie also stars Kelsey Grammer and Seth Meyers.

"Straw Dogs," Rated R: The remake of the Al Pacino classic stars James Marsden, Kate Bosworth and James Woods in a new southern United States setting.

ENVIRONMENTAL ADVISORY COUNCIL MEETING

The Salisbury Township Environmental Advisory Council will be meeting on Wednesday, September 21, 2011 at 7:00 P.M. in the Municipal Bldg., 2900 S. Pike Ave. Sept. 14

PUBLIC NOTICE
ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS
The Borough of Emmaus, 28 S. 4th Street, Emmaus, PA 18049-3899, will receive sealed bids for Sewer Inspection and Rehabilitation - 2011, Contracts A and B, until 12:30 PM, (Prevailing Time), Wednesday, September 28, 2011, at which time bids will be publicly opened and read aloud at the Borough of Emmaus Municipal Building. Bids shall be sealed and marked:

BID(S) ENCLOSED for Sewer Inspection and Rehabilitation - 2011

Bidding Documents may be reviewed and obtained at Emmaus Borough Hall, upon payment of forty dollars ($40.00) per set, non-refundable. Documents may be shipped FedEx for an additional payment of twenty-five dollars ($25.00). All checks payable to "Borough of Emmaus".

The Work of Contract A (Inspection) includes furnishing all equipment, materials, labor, and supervision to clean, inspect, video record, and report/assess the condition of existing sanitary sewer lines, generally 8-inch diameter, in the Borough of Emmaus. Contract B (Rehabilitation) includes repair of sewer lines by installing CIPP full-length liners in locations designated by the Engineer. Bidders may bid on either one or both Contracts.

Contract B is subject to the Pennsylvania Prevailing Wage Determination Act 287 of 1974, as amended.

Each Bid must be accompanied by a Certified Check, Bid Bond, or Bank Cashiers Check in the amount of at least ten percent (10%) of the total amount of Bid, payable to "Borough of Emmaus", as a security that if the Bid is accepted, a Contract will be entered into, and the performance of the Work thereof properly secured. No Bidder may withdraw their Bid Proposal within sixty (60) days after the date of the Bid Opening.

The Borough of Emmaus reserves the right to reject any or all of the Bids, and to accept any Bid which in its judgment is in the best interest of the Borough.

PUBLIC NOTICE
Notice is hereby given that the Zoning Hearing Board of South Whitehall Township will conduct public hearings on Monday September 26, 2011 at 7:30 p.m., in the South Whitehall Township Municipal Building located at 4444 Walbert Avenue, Allentown, Lehigh County, Pennsylvania, for the following zoning appeals:

ZHB-2011-21: The appeal of Nick Pidstawski (grandson - future owner) and Helen N. Pidstawski (Nicholas and Helen S. Pidstawski - are record owners per Lehigh County) seeking relief to subdivide the existing conforming property located at 4017 River Road Tax PIN 547850801811. The proposal is to create two new lots, from the original large "mother" lot, for the potential to construct a new additional dwelling. The appellant is seeking a variance from Section 12.28(c)(1) regarding creating a new lot that is deficient in road frontage (and 12.33(a) as it too may apply in that it is a subdivision of land with a self-created hardship). The subject property is zoned "R-H", Rural Holding.

Any above-referenced property is located in South Whitehall Township, Lehigh County, PA. Copies of any plans, applications, and/or supporting documents that were submitted are available for public inspection at the Township Building during normal business hours (it is recommended that appointments be made in advance). All appellants or their representative with legal standing must attend. All objectors and interested parties are invited to attend and will have the opportunity to be heard.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED AND ENACTED, by the Board of Supervisors of Hanover Township, Northampton County, Pennsylvania as follows:

SECTION 1. The Supervisors of Hanover Township, Northampton County, Pennsylvania, under the powers vested in them by the "Second Class Township Code" and the "Pennsylvania Municipalities Planning Code," as amended, as well as other laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, do hereby ordain and enact the following amendment to the Hanover Township Codified Ordinance, as amended.

SECTION 2. Ordinance 02-1, Chapter 65, is hereby amended with the addition of the following:

"65-3(C). Sprinkler System Offer Form. The Township shall enforce Section 901(g) of the Act by requiring a form entitled "Offer to Install Automatic Sprinkler System in One- or Two- Family Home" or such other form as approved by the Township Zoning Officer, which form shall be executed by a buyer, and submitted by a builder, of a one or two- family dwelling at the time of application for a building permit."

SECTION 3. All Ordinances and parts of Ordinances inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

SECTION 4. The provisions of this Ordinance shall be severable and if any provision thereof shall be declared unconstitutional, illegal or invalid, such decision shall not affect the validity of any of the remaining provisions of this Ordinance. It is hereby declared as a legislative intent of the Township that this Ordinance would have been enacted had such unconstitutional, illegal or invalid provision(s) not been included herein.

SECTION 5. This Ordinance shall become effective five days after enactment.

 <h2 style="text-align: center;">Debunking popular automotive myths</h2> Certain myths about automobiles have been around as long as there have been cars on the road. Many drivers adhere to driving and repair theories out of sheer force of habit, without ever knowing if these strategies are legitimate. Here are some common myths revealed and debunked. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• High-octane gas improves performance in all vehicles. Most cars will not get any added benefits from the use of high octane fuel, which is designed for higher-performance engines that burn hotter than those of most vehicles. Drivers will only waste their money putting in more expensive gas. Always use the fuel recommended in the owner's manual.</li> <li>• Longer cars are more stable. Many believe the longer the wheel-base the more stable the car will be. But wheelbase is only one of the factors that determines a vehicle's stability and reaction time.</li> <li>• Four-wheel-drive vehicles are invincible in poor weather. Four-wheel-drive capabilities may improve traction and handling when driving off-road or when the road conditions are not ideal. But no car is invincible when it comes to driving on snow and ice..</li> <li>• Side mirrors are properly adjusted when you can see the side of the car in them. Actually, the mirrors should be adjusted so you can't see the sides of the car. The mirrors work in concert to allow a panoramic view around the car. This eliminates the need to turn your head to check blind spots, which takes your eyes off the road.</li> <li>• Automatic braking system (ABS) was designed to shorten stopping distances. ABS was created to give drivers the ability to steer around obstacles while braking instead of spinning out of control.</li> <li>• Engine oil should be changed every 3,000 miles. There's no need to change engine oil that frequently, as motor oils today are much more durable and protect engines for longer distances. Unleaded fuels and clean-burning engines typically require oil changes every 7,000 to 10,000 miles, but consult your owner's manual.</li> </ul> 						Been Here 85 YEARS Doin' it Right for   Certified preowned vehicles Sales &amp; Service EBERHARDTMOTORS.COM 610-262-3081 Egypt/Whitehall'
