Pa. safety grants a boon, raise questions

BY NATE JASTRZEMSKI
njastrzemski@ttonline.com

Governor Tom Wolf announced last week the approval of $40 million in safety grants to 234 school entities throughout the state.

"These grants are the mechanism we need to create local strategies that will increase safety for our children and our teachers and prevent violence in classrooms and communities across the commonwealth," Wolf said in a statement. "Schools should be safe, secure places for our children to focus on their education and on preparing themselves for a lifetime of success, not another place we need to worry about sending our children. Awarding these grants to more than 200 schools means a safer Pennsylvania."

Local districts which received grants include: Saucon Valley, about $155,000; Salisbury Township, $150,000; Palisades, $131,500; and Northampton, about $100,000.

Bethlehem Area School District's seventh mini-THON raised a record-breaking $140,000 April 27 at Liberty HS. Liberty and Freedom students danced and participated in a variety of activities every hour for 12 hours to raise money for the Four Diamonds Fund run by Penn State Hershey Children's Hospital. Money

The mini-THON is modeled after the Penn State IFC Panhellenic Dance marathon, which runs for 46 hours, no sitting or sleeping and is the largest student-run philanthropy in the world, with 4,000 families helped, $157 million raised and over 16,500 student volunteers.

Saucon Superintendent Dr. Craig Butler said via email, "We are one of the recipients. Our award amount is roughly $154,000. The grant will be used primarily for enhanced communication devices (high quality radios) and a district-wide state of the art camera and surveillance system, and other safety-related equipment. We are thrilled that we are one of the awardees."

But some local administrators are feeling left out; none of the major Lehigh Valley districts - Allentown, Bethlehem and Easton - were chosen, leaving questions about the reviewers and applicant qualifications.

Bethlehem Area School District Superintendent Dr. Joseph Roy said in an email, "I was surprised and disappointed that BASD was not awarded a safety grant. There are some very very small districts that received a lot of money - and larger, urban districts that did not. The money was allocated by region and supposedly by population. Although if you divide Pa. into regions, it's pretty difficult to simultaneously balance population with such large swaths of rural areas in the state."

Roy said the money was allocated by region and population, which is a difficult balance.

As examples, Roy cited: Brandywine Heights, with 1,400 students received a grant for $562,775; and Bellwood Antis, with 1,270 students received a grant of $628,000, or $494 per student. A comparable per student award for BASD would be $6.7 million.

"Or my personal favorite," said Roy, "Salisbury-Elk Lick SD with a total of 265 students received $350,000, or $1,320 per student. Salisbury-Elk's total budget is only $4.6 million. A comparable per student award for BASD would be $18 million."

Roy explained how

BASD would have made use of new safety grant funds. "Our application focused on expanding behavioral health services at the elementary and middle levels and expanding security camera coverage. We continue to work with our community partners to expand behavioral health services and are partnering with Community in Schools through a grant they received to expand services. Regarding cameras, we have a schedule of upgrading and expanding our camera systems each year - the grant would have helped to See SAFETY on Page A4

Annual Southside cleanup

BY MARK KIRLIN
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Bethlehem's Southside Arts District held its annual spring cleaning event April 13. Volunteers gathered on a warm and sunny morning at Farrington Square at Lehigh University.

The goal was to spruce up the downtown and Greenway areas in preparation for upcoming events held throughout the spring. Between the hours of 10 a.m. and 2 p.m., volunteers scattered throughout the Southside area for cleanup duties. The first part of the day consisted of picking up trash. Other jobs assigned later on included planting flowers, painting flower planters and traffic bollards, painting flowers in storefront windows and constructing and painting temporary furniture.

speed up that process." Roy said he asked Sen. Lisa Boscola's office for assistance, as did this reporter.

Boscola spokesman Kurt Derr told The Press the Pa. Commission on Crime and Delinquency had already responded to inquiries, explaining the basics of the decision-making process and saying specific answers would be forthcoming. "PCCD told us there were strict guidelines on the review process, overseen by three independent reviewers. He said districts will soon be informed of the reviewer's notes on their applications. "The reviews will be out in about two weeks, because the districts have questions."

Derr said there were 630 total applications statewide requesting $170 million out of the $40 million available, and Boscola will continue to advocate for such grants in future budgets, at which point districts will have had time to refine their application processes with the reviewer notes.

LEHIGH COUNTY

Human services pushes for more staff

BY DOUGLAS GRAVES
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Members of Lehigh County's human services office again made a strong showing at a commissioners' meeting April 24. They have been making regular appearances at the commissioners' meetings arguing for more staff.

"We have a wholesale system breakdown," said Tony Lupo. He was referring to the ability of existing staff to properly care for children referred to Human Services for care and intervention. "Case-workers are not able to protect the children of Lehigh County," he said.

"We can't keep people," said Lupo. "They run out the door." "I'm at 47 cases; I can't protect that many children," said Lupo. "We are all overworked; we're doing the best we can, but we are burning out. We have to keep people and hire more people - it is essential for the [care of the] most vulnerable people."

Human Services employee Michele Fritz described the case worker to endangered child ratio as "terrifying" and "heartbreaking."

"This haunts me every day," said Fritz.

In other business, Lehigh County Authority, the agency that owns most of the sewer and water infrastructure serving Allentown and nearby municipalities, will get a 43-year extension on its charter. LCA's CEO, Liesel Gross, speaking to the commissioners, said an extension of the charter would provide additional "ability and flexibility" in financial dealings.

A "43 year extension is needed to pursue all available options to include Federal programs," said Gross.

She said the LCA's communication with the commissioners over the past year has improved dramatically, a trend that needs to continue.

In a first reading or preliminary vote, the commissioners approved 8-0 a resolution that will, when the final vote is taken at the next meeting, extend LCA's charter until 2063. Commissioner Marty Nothstein was absent from the meeting.

Jeff Matzakin was re-appointed to the Lehigh-Northampton Airport Authority.

Commissioners gave final approval for the new Supervisory Accountant position for the County's Cedarbrook Senior Care and Rehabilitation center. Commissioner Dan Hartzell (Democrat) and Republican Amanda Holt sponsored the bipartisan bill.

The change is due to Good Shepherd's GS Management canceling the operations contract for the facility. This put management back to the county and thus the need to budget for and hire new staff. Good Shepherd ended their contract Feb. 28.

Commissioners also established a health care plan evaluation committee, comprised of three county commissioners, to include the Board of Commissioner's president (currently Marty Nothstein) and three members of the executive branch.

Changes in the names and structure of some county departments and offices within Lehigh County government prompted commissioners to change the title of some offices; for example, "Director of Cedarbrook" is now "Nursing Home Administrator;" the "Office of Computer Services" is now "Chief Information Officer."

SAUCON VALLEY Proposed budget lacks tax hike

BY MARK KIRLIN

Special to the Bethlehem Press

SVSD Business Manager David Bonenberg revealed April 23 the proposed 2019-20 budget, which totals $47,401,439 with no tax increase. Expenses include a 2.45 percent increase compared to last year's budget. Local revenue is approximately 78 percent, with 22 percent coming from the state.

According to district superintendent Craig Butler, the budget reflects a 2 percent decrease in staff as a result of retirements or resignations. Board member Shamim Pakzad questioned what the district's student enrollment projections and staffing look like. Pa-kzad argued you can't have projected budgets without comparing past years and estimates of future enrollments. Pakzad questioned the numbers of incoming kindergarten students. The district is hopeful that the majority are registered by May; however, enrollments can continue up until the school year begins. Board member Michael Karabin called the enrollments a "moving target." Pakzad discussed other school districts, such as Allentown, that hire firms that can have the projections estimated within 1 percent of the actual total.

Board member Cedric Dettmar spent time last year creating a spreadsheet looking at birth census data and changes in each grade, especially grades such as seventh that experience bumps in enrollment because of transfers from parochial schools. Dettmar suggested the spread sheet could be a good place to start. Moving forward, Superintendent Craig Butler said an action plan will be created to address enrollments.

Historically, budgets have been discussed and approved prior to the current budget. Board members went back and forth on whether to approve or spend more time discussing the proposed budget. Ultimately, the board decided to table the issue for further information and discussions. They have until June 30 to approve the final budget.

Also during the meeting, James P. Deegan was unanimously appointed as Saucon Valley MS Principal, effective immediately. His salary is adjusted to $110,000 effective July 1. Deegan has been the interim principal at SVMS for the past four months after former Principle Ken Napaver resigned at the end of November. Previously, Deegan served as the associate principal at Saucon Valley ES. Superintendent Craig Butler said, "I have the utmost confidence in his leadership; as displayed tonight, you could see the heartfelt interactions with the students."

At their April 29 meeting, Bethlehem Area School Board members approved previously discussed measures, including the continued use of the Sapphire system to track students' school nurse records and contracting with Blackboard Inc. to redesign the BASD website.

All agenda items passed by a vote of 8-0, except the awarding of the food service management contract to Aramark, which passed 6-2, opposed by Angela Sinkler and Tom Thomasik.

The board formalized new principal appointments to replace a trio of longtime educators: Erin Martin-Medina is succeeding Sonia Vazquez at Donegan ES, Courtney Wertman-Stambaugh is replacing Lisa Lynch at Fountain Hill ES and Erin Hines is following Tim Lynch at Hanover ES. José Sanchez has been promoted from dean of students to assistant principal at Fountain Hill.

Superintendent Dr. Joseph Roy commended the St. Luke's University Health Network mobile medical and dental services team. Kathleen Halkins, the district's supervisor of health services, helped to honor SLUHN personnel Dr. Bonnie Coyle, Anita Desai, Raelah Garcia, Casandra Ortiz, and Olivia Strawn.

Freedom HS representative Josh Kon-schnick and Liberty HS representative Elisabeth Lee reported successful spring musicals and the raising of $140,000 through their joint mini-THON event. President Michael Faccinnetto noted that the Foundation for the BASD dinner raised $48,000, and thanked its organizers, particularly Julie Bailey, Kayla Jacobs, and intern Cricket Lennon.

Community member Jack Toy inquired about charter school student busing requirements. Students attending charter schools outside the district receive BASD-funded busing if the charter school is within 10 miles of the district's borders.

President Faccinnetto responded that the board's efforts to reduce this distance to five miles have been "resisted at every level" of state government. Faccinnetto also shared that legislation is being discussed in Harrisburg to set a statewide rate for cyber charter schools; if passed, this legislation would reduce by roughly one-half the amount BASD pays cyber charter schools.

The board finance workshop previously scheduled for May 1 was canceled; the content was to be covered at the May 6 Board Facilities and Board Curriculum Committee meetings at 6 p.m. in the Education Center at 1516 Sycamore St.

Song Stirred Memories of Mother

Ira D. Sankey was traveling by steamboat up the Delaware River when he was asked to sing. He sang the "Shepherd Song" after which a man with a rough, weather-beaten face came up to him and said: "Did you ever serve in the Union Army?" "Yes," answered Mr. Sankey, "in the spring of 1860." "Can you remember if you were doing picket duty on a bright moonlight night in 1862?" "Yes," answered Mr. Sankey, very much surprised.

"So did I," said the stranger, "but I was serving in the Confederate army. When I saw you standing at your post I said to myself: 'That fellow will never get away from here alive.' I raised my musket and took aim. I was standing in the shadow completely concealed, while the full light of the moon was falling upon you. At that instant, just as a moment ago, you raised your eyes to heaven and began to sing. Music, especially song, has always had a wonderful power over me, and I took my finger off the trigger. 'Let him sing his song to the end,' I said to myself. 'I can shoot him afterwards. He's my victim at all events, and my bullet cannot miss him.' But the song you sang then was the song you sang just now. I heard the words perfectly: 'We are Thine, do Thou befriend us, Be the guardian of our way.' Those words stirred up many memories in my heart. I began to think of my childhood and my God-fearing mother. She had many, many times sung that song to me. But she died all too soon, otherwise much in my life would no doubt have been different."

"When you had finished your song it was impossible for me to take aim at you again. I thought: 'The Lord who is able to save that man from certain death must surely be great and mighty' and my arm of its own accord dropped limp at my side." -Religious Digest

Council puts brakes on new voting system

BY BERNIE O'HARE
Special to the Bethlehem Press

NORTHAMPTON COUNTY

Following a lengthy meeting that included a parade of 10 speakers opposed to the Express Vote XL voting machine system, Northampton County Council voted 5-4 April 18 to put the brakes on an anticipated $2.9 million purchase.

Council member John Cusick, who said he actually supports XL, suggested waiting until after the May election to see how the system performs in Delaware. Joining him in a motion to delay the purchase were council members Bob Werner, Peg Ferraro, Matt Dietz and Tara Zrinski. Opposing this delay were Council President Ron Heckman and members Bill McGee, Lori Vargo Heffner and Kevin Lott.

Cusick argued that a brief delay would give him "peace of mind" in this choice.

Executive Lamont McClure said that he would honor council's wishes and wait, though he could make the purchase now. Earlier that night, council voted unanimously to set aside the money for this system, which was endorsed by the elections commission in March. There is some authority that it is the elections commission, and not county council, which decides on voting systems.

That issue is currently being litigated in Allegheny County, which, like Northampton, is a home rule county.

This delay means that the new system, if purchased, will cost an additional $20,000. Administrator Charles Dertinger added, however, that it will still be in place in time for November's election.

Pennsylvania's department of state has directed all 67 counties to have new systems in place, with a paper trail, in time for next year's presidential race.

The Express Vote XL system has been certified by both the state and federal government.

The 10 speakers who oppose the XL included two elections commission members, Councilman Bob Werner's wife, a self-proclaimed "data geek," and Janice Hobbs Pellechio, an "election integrity" activist from Doylestown. They want a return to paper ballots, which are later scanned and have in some states presented questions of voter intent.

Pellechio lectured council that they were quick "to pick something that most of you do not really understand." She said they need "to step back and do your homework." Bob Werner accused the McClure administration of having already decided on XL back in August.

This was disputed by administration employee Amy Cozze, who said he spent "five months of my life" weighing the pros and cons of different systems. She insisted that neither Dertinger nor anyone else had directed her to favor any one system.

The XL system has been under consideration since August. Council members Cusick, Heckman and McGee all said they had already spent a great deal of time looking at numerous systems.

Despite a Cozze presentation showing that the legacy costs of XL are cheaper over 10 years than a paper ballot, Deb Hunter insisted it is more expensive. She dismissed concerns about a state law requiring that over 100 percent of the ballots be pre-printed for polling places that use paper ballots, though she failed to explain how state law could be ignored. Those bags of paper would weigh over 80 pounds in some precincts.

In response to concerns about judges of elections being tasked with transporting this load back to Easton, Hunter said the same public works employees who transport the machines to the polling place can simply pick up the bags when they return after the polls close.

Though this was not addressed, Hunter's suggestion means citizens would never see elections results on election night. Public works employees would need several hours to pick up these bags and would have to be paid overtime. To preserve the chain of custody, judges of elections would have to remain at the polling place, alone, until the bags are picked up. It is also unclear whether judges of elections can surrender results to anyone other than the register of elections.

Ironically, many of the speakers accused county council of not only being in a rush, but acting undemocratically. Tara Stevenson called the decision "boneheaded," and said they were all being hustled. They were presented with a state map showing the number of counties that had decided to use paper ballots. Dertinger and Cozze responded this map, which was waved by several speakers, was pure misinformation. They had spoken to each of the counties.

Liberty's tennis team captured the District 11 team title with a victory over Nazareth last week.

LHS win D-11 title

BY KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tnonline.com

For Liberty tennis coach Chris Conrad, Thursday's District XI team championship was his first solo head coaching crown, but for some of his players, it was their third consecutive when the Hurricanes defeated the Nazareth Blue Eagles, 3-2, last Thursday at Northwood Racquet Club.

"It's something we strove for the entire season. We didn't want to play the favorite role, but one of the hardest things was trying to get this team to make sure that we were in check and weren't complacent. That's one of the things I loved about this team," said Conrad.

Liberty beat Nazareth, 5-0, in its first match of the regular season, but a full season can bring changes in teams.

"The last time we played them, everyone won, so they got better," said one doubles player Anthony Ronca, who won his match along with Wyatt Marshall, 6-0, 6-4, over Hamed Selmani and Soham Patel.

Ronca and Marshall fell behind a couple of times in the second set. "They started pushing the net a lot more and lobbing over our heads so we didn't have a chance to hit a drive off the serve," said Marshall. "We had to find a way to change our game."

The Liberty pair decided if they couldn't beat them, they would join them.

"We started hitting more drives and playing with them so if they would rush the net, we would lob it over their heads, exactly what they did," said Ronca.

Liberty's Shayaan Farhad and Raj Kundu won their match at two doubles over Brendan Alvino and David Araujo, 6-1, 6-1.

The singles matches were not as certain as time went on.

Liberty's Louis Gruber ended up losing to Gabe Knowles at one singles, 1-6, 2-6, and Jacob Wong lost to Nate Tauber, 3-6, 3-6, at three singles.

"Jacob's a player and Nate's a player too, and they're the top number three players in our district. It was hard for me to see that loss," said Coach Conrad. "Jacob is our senior leader. At the end of the day, he played a heck of a match against another senior who's just as willing to grind out matches."

With the score tied 2-2, the match came down to Liberty's David Lynn and Nazareth's Andrew Nicolae, but the two players did not know it at the time because they were still playing after everyone else had finished.

Lynn won the first set, 6-0, but was down in the second set, 2-4.

"I think there was obviously a bit of nerves, but for me to maintain cool on the outside was key," said Conrad, who was checking his heart rate on his watch. "He made a big break at 4-2 which put him into a great situation, allowed him to come back into the match, and gain some momentum."

Lynn said that one of the things that tripped him up in the second set was his serve.

"I think that affected all the games," said Lynn. "After I won the first set, I had some relief and then all of a sudden I was down 4-2. It really matters that you take your time and be very calculated. Physically I was feeling pretty

The race for the final EPC playoff spot in boys' volleyball will likely come down to Friday's regular season finale date and both Liberty and Freedom will be squarely in the mix.

The Pates (15-3, 11-3) and Hurricanes (11-3, 10-3) meet on Friday at Memorial Gymnasium in what could determine who gets the fourth and final spot in the league playoffs.

With Whitehall (14-0) being the only team that has locked in a spot in next week's tournament, the race for the final three spots will come down to Parkland (12-2, 11-2), Emmaus (12-3, 12-3), as well as Liberty and Freedom.

The Hurricanes have four matches this week with Easton, Nazareth, Pocono Mountain West and Freedom, while the Pates just have showdowns with Becahi and Liberty.

Parkland still has to play Emmaus and Whitehall this week and the Green Hornets only have one match this week, being the Parkland contest.

With all that said, nobody knows how anything will play out until the end of the week, giving the EPC an exciting finish down the stretch.

Bethlehem Catholic's softball team wrapped up its city rivalry games with a 4-3 victory over Liberty last week at Becahi.

"It was huge because we're having a horrible year and it's not that we're a bad team. I think we're a pretty good team, but things are happening and we're losing. Maybe now they're going to start believing in themselves," said Becahi coach Rich Mazza. "I wouldn't have cared who it was. We beat a good team. If you beat a good team, then you're capable of being a good team yourself."

Down 2-0 in the bottom of the third inning, Becahi's Mackenzie Brandon tied it with a two-run home run.

"First pitch, I just took it to the outfield and I thought the center fielder was camping under it and she had it, and I was so nervous because I wanted to win this game so bad and when it went over, I was so happy," Brandon said. "We knew this was going to be a tough one because we know Paige and we know how she pitches but we had to take her pitches where they go."

The Hurricanes took back the lead on a solo home run by Alexa Burger, but in the bottom of the sixth inning, the Hawks had two runners on base with singles by Ashley Judd and Jaden Spigner. A wild pitch advanced the runners and with two outs, Alyssa Jimenez hit a double to center putting the Hawks ahead 4-3.

"I'm pretty calm in there, usually, and I was hitting her pretty well all day, so I went in there pretty confident," said Jimenez. "It was my favorite pitch, inside low. I felt like, right there, we pretty much won the game."

Others were not as certain when the heart of Liberty's order came up to bat in the top of the seventh.

"In my mind, it was to keep the ball as far off the plate as I can to get a strike, just keep it in the lines and try and put as much movement as I can so it either pops up or grounds out," said Becahi pitcher Emma Bond. "I felt really good today."

Two strike outs, one walk, and a fly ball to right ended the game.

"I'm so happy," Bond said. "I felt like I helped my team as best as I could and finally got a good game going."

The East Penn Conference baseball tournament gets underway this weekend and Liberty is in the pole position to take home the top seed when actions gets underway Saturday at noon.

Who the Hurricanes (17-2) will be playing is still up in the air, as the regular season closes out this week with contests past Press deadlines.

One thing that's for sure, is that Liberty will enter the tournament as favorites, as they've been undefeated (15-0) in league play thus far coming into this week's final two games against Freedom (7-13) and Easton (14-5), winning Monday's affair with the Patriots 16-9.

After losing to Stroudsburg 6-1 last week in a nonleague affair, head coach Andy Pitsilos hopes the defeat can act as a motivator heading down the stretch.

"The Stroudsburg game was nonleague and it showed in our performance," said Pitsilos. "They are a good team and we were not up to the challenge that day. I think it refocused us for the rest of the season. We are ready for playoffs but there are many good teams and you never know in baseball."

Bethlehem Catholic (9-10, 8-8) could be that team squaring off against Liberty this weekend if they can sneak into the final EPC playoff spot. The Hawks, who have already clinched a District 11 4A berth, are battling Whitehall (9-10, 8-8) for the final league playoff spot.

Becahi lost to Easton on Monday, while Whitehall fell to Northampton (17-3). The Zephyrs most likely get the eighth seed in the tournament, based on having identical records overall, in the league and in the division with Becahi, as their head-to-head victory this season over the Hawks serves as the clinching tiebreaker.

Freedom (7-13, 6-10) made a late season push, winning five-straight contests before falling to Easton last week 4-3 to close the door on their district playoff chances. Wins against Easton and Liberty (season finale) would have pushed them through.

"We started off slow but we started to play good baseball at the end," said Freedom head coach Nick D'Amico. "We bring a lot back for next season, so hopefully we can continue where we left off."

LHS boys unbeaten

Liberty's boys track and field team finished the regular season undefeated with a 98.5-51.5 victory over Freedom last week at Freedom.

Top finishers included Liberty's Devon West who broke the school record in the 100 with a time of 10.50 and also won the 200 with a time of 22.60.

Darlyn Fermin, also for Liberty, won the 400 in 54.70.

Freedom's Alex Heidemann took first place in the 800 in 2:09.00 and the 1600 in 4:36.00.

Liberty's Cole Frank won the 3200 in 10:20.00.

Christian Tackett, also for Liberty, was first in the 110 hurdles in 14.90 and the 300 hurdles in 40.00.

The Patriots won the 4x1 relay with Gabe Caton, Sebastian Gibbs, Vince Repp, and Thawadah Rock in 44.40.

Dylan Stahl, Christian Jancsarics, Josh Noel, and Matt Parkin won Freedom's second close 4x8 relay of the season with a time of 8:57.00.

"All that was in my mind was just stay in front of the kid and if he tried to pass me, cut off whatever angle he was getting at," said Parkin, the anchor. "I was in front of him for most of it. Around the straight-away down there on the second lap he tried to cut it and pass me and I cut it in again to try and close off the angle and I did, and that's when he tucked in behind me again. In the last 100 meters, I don't really know where he was. I only heard my own footsteps and looked forward."

Stahl got the hand off from Noel.

"I think the hand off worked really well. We caught it early. There's might have been a little later, which I think allowed me to get the positioning that I did," said Noel. "We were about even at that point and I knew they were going to take us lightly out there so we all wanted to run with a chip on our shoulder so that's what we did. I figured if I could go out quick, I could maybe catch their guy off guard a little bit and that's what I did and then I tried to hold it from there."

Positioning was also key for Jancsarics, who ran second.

"My coach (Bob Thear) told me to go out harder and I did that so I was able to position myself a little bit ahead of [Liberty], and I was able to keep that," said Jancsarics. "I was able to put Josh in a good position, and I knew once I got it to him, he would be able to keep the pace because that's usually what Josh does."

Stahl led off the 4x8 but then had to watch and wait until three more Patriots raced the Hurricanes.

"I didn't know if we had a chance, to be honest, and I really wanted to stay with [Liberty]. The hand off went really well, actually. I saw all of our hand offs and they went pretty smooth," Stahl said. "It was really exciting because when I had finished, their runner was still ahead and over time, we slowly came back and at the end, our fourth runner was with the Liberty fourth runner for most of the race and it was exciting to see the finish."

In jumping events, Liberty's Elijah Rogers won the high jump with a 5-08.00, Freedom's Ryan Smizaski took first in the pole vault with a 12-03.00, Liberty's Javonte Haynes won the long jump with a 23-00.25, and Sander Sahaydak, also from Liberty, won the triple jump with a 41-10.50.

In throwing events, Liberty's Trevor Harris came in first in the shot out with a 47-04.75, Messiah Johnson was first in the discus with a 130-05, and Nolan Beagell won the javelin with a 161-03.50.

Hurricanes top Pates

Freedom's track and field team hosted Liberty to end the regular season last week when the Hurricane girls won, 105-45.

Top finishers included Gabrielle Phillips in the 100 in 12.60, Essynce Botz in the 200 in 26.80, Yamilet Ferruffino in the 400 in 1:02.00, and Greta Stuckey in the 800 in 2:24.00, all for Liberty.

For Freedom, Lauren Charboneau won the 1600 in 5:43.00, and the 3200 in 12:18.00, and Lola Willey won the 100 hurdles in 17.80.

Liberty's Alicia Rodriguez won the 300 hurdles in 50.40.

"The first 200, you're getting the feel of it. Then the last hundred is where you push through because it's the hardest and that's when everything lines up," Rodriguez said. "My start was a little bit rough but my last 75 meters was good and then I hit the last hurdle but it still was OK. I know we were all really close to each other at the 100 mark but from there I pulled away."

Botz, Gabrielle Phillips, Rodriguez, and Catherine Kelly took first place in the 4x1 relay in 51.40. Liberty's girls won the 4x4 relay (names unavailable) in 4:21, and Emily Jobes, Kristen Rommens, Barbara Perevalov, and Christi Yanacek took first in the 4x8 relay for the Hurricanes in 10:58.

In jumping events, Kelly was first in the high jump with a 4-07.00, and the long jump with a 16-08.50, Freedom's Madison Fey was first in the pole vault with a 9-00.00, and Phillips won the triple jump with a 33-02.50.

In throwing events, Liberty's Jaida Davis won the shot put with a 31-07.25, Freedom's Isabel Rodriguez was first in the discus with a 88-10, and Liberty's Brylee Tereska won the javelin with a 118-11.50.

Outdoors: Hummingbirds entering the area

BY NICK HROMIAK
Special to the Press

In my opinion, there's no bird as interesting and fun to watch as hummingbirds. And they're on the way through the area right now as they're on their way north, according to the Birding Wire.

As per Perky-Pet's birding website, a Rufous Hummingbird was spotted on April 29 in Media, PA, and on April 26 a Ruby-Throated was seen in Nesquehoning.

If you share this interest in hummers, and maintain feeders, now's the time to clean your hummingbird feeders if you haven't already. Then fill them with fresh sugar-water nectar, either homemade or purchased. Then wait it out for one or more to appear.

Spring migration, says the Birding Wire, can be an exciting time at hummingbird feeders with migrating birds stopping by for a short visit while others may wait it out with the idea of setting up a territory for nesting. It's interesting to study their behavior and appreciate the journeys these tiny birds make.

You can follow the northward migration of different species of hummingbirds, including on a national level through the Perky-Pet migration map site on their web site at www.perky-pet.com. You can zoom into the state and local level and even down to your street to see when the first hummers may arrive. But don't wait too long as they can literally appear overnight.

CONTRIBUTED PHOTO

Hummingbirds are starting to appear in the area as they are on their northbound migration route.

Since it's still early in the year, it's hard to plan to have your yard's flowering plants ready to greet migrating hummers with the hope of attracting them to stay. But you can probably buy some greenhouse-grown plants as it's easy to keep them in a pot and move them where you want to attract hummers, like near a window or windows where you can see them.

Tubular flowers seem to be best, especially red, orange and yellow flowers. Trumpet vines, one of their favorite flowers to get nectar from, are about to bloom as witnessed by those in my next-door neighbor's yard. There's also bee balm, cardinal flowers, trumpet honeysuckles, salvia. Even red petunias may work. From this choice, the hummingbird experts say you can always add, remove and experiment with different plants.

It's all part of the fun of watching these speedy, fascinating and attractive birds.

PGC TO STUDY DEER OPENER TO SATURDAY

According to the Pennsylvania Game

Commission, they will be studying their decision to move the deer hunting opener from the Monday after Thanksgiving to Saturday after the holiday.

This comes amidst much controversy from hunters who are against it while others are for it.

The PGC Commissioners will be looking to see if there's evidence the Saturday opener increased hunting license sales and hunter success. And they'll be gauging the opinion of hunters who have taken part of in the state's first Saturday opener since 1963. Their findings will determine if their recent decision will provide the most benefit before they set an opening day for the 2020 firearms deer season.

Pates prep for PHS

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tntonline.com

The Freedom girls lacrosse team have enjoyed a spring filled with plenty of victories, but now crunch time begins as the East Penn Conference tournament gets underway this week to mark the beginning of the postseason.

Freedom (13-4, 7-3) is the third seed in this week's tournament and will take on Parkland (11-7, 9-1) Wednesday, May 8, at Northampton at 5:30.

Top-seeded Easton (13-3, 10-0) squares off against fourth-seeded Pleasant Valley (14-4, 7-3) in the other matchup, which is also at Northampton at 7:30 p.m.

EPC finals take place Monday, May 13, at 5 p.m. at Northampton.

In their only contest against Parkland earlier this season, Freedom fell 18-9 to the Trojans. Three of the Pates four losses this year have come against Easton (two) and Parkland, noting that their road to a championship run in the postseason will go through the Rovers or Trojans.

Liberty's girls finished 8-10 overall and 4-8 in the conference, giving the Hurricanes one of their most successful seasons in their short history, marking their highest win total in a season.

On the boys side, Freedom (7-10) won't be heading back to the postseason this year after bumping up in competition this season. The Pates finished the season losing five of their last seven games and going 0-8 in their new division with perennial powers Parkland, Central Catholic, Emmaus and Easton.

The Pates played hard till the end, as a 10-9 loss to Parkland, the only undefeated team in the area, last week could have turned their district hopes around, as a win over the Trojans would have pushed them through the postseason.

Liberty (3-12) wrapped up the year with two wins over Bethlehem Catholic (0-13) and Pleasant Valley, as both the Hurricanes and Hawks struggled again to find a footing on the lacrosse scene.

In boys EPC playoff action, (1) Parkland will play (4) Easton on Thursday, May 9, at 7:30 p.m. (2) Central takes on (3) Emmaus at 5:30 p.m. Both games are also at Northampton.

Boys EPC finals take place Monday, May 13, at Northampton at 7:30 p.m., right after the girls' finals.

EYE ON THE IRONPIGS

Pivetta hopes to turn things around

BY CHUCK HIXSON
Special to the Press

The Phillies have had success with sending struggling pitchers down to Triple-A Lehigh Valley to get themselves straightened out.

Last season, Hector Neris lost the feel for throwing his splitter and along with it, his confidence. When he returned to the Phillies, he was his old self and probably even better. They had the same hopes for Nick Pivetta and the early returns are pretty good.

After an initial outing where he allowed four innings in six innings of work against Pawtucket, Pivetta formulated a game plan for his second start and executed it perfectly. The plan was to come out throwing strikes and attack hitters with an inside fastball and then throw them off stride with his off-speed pitches. In other words, do exactly what the Phillies wanted him to do.

His second start came against Buffalo and he was stellar. He faced 24 batters and threw a first pitch strike to 17 of them, including putting 12 of the batters in an 0-2 hole. Getting ahead of hitters led him to a career-high 14 strikeouts, including at least two in each inning that he pitched after starting the game by striking out the first six batters he faced and 11 of the first 14.

"My man was dialed in today," said veteran Rob Brantly, who caught Pivetta's second start with Lehigh Valley. "He came in to prove a point today and I think with the first six batters he proved that point. He did that throughout the whole outing. There was absolute focus and a fierce mound presence."

He faced the Bisons again for his last start, this time on the road. While he wasn't as dominating, he did throw six innings for the third-straight start game and finished with just two earned runs against him, which lowered his ERA with Lehigh Valley to just 3.50 through his three starts. His strikeout numbers were well off from his 14 in the previous outing, but he didn't allow a lot of hard contact even though he struck out just four batters.

Once again, Pivetta's battery mate was the veteran Brantly and once again, they were on much the same page. Pivetta rarely shook off any pitches that Brantly called for as the pair just worked to execute their pre-game plan.

"It didn't really matter what I would have called," laughed Brantly about the two being on the same page. "He was so dialed in that he was throwing everything well and it was like that from the time he started throwing in the bullpen before the game."

Brantly has caught a lot of pitchers both in the majors and at the minor league level and could find himself paired with Pivetta as he works through the issues that saw him demoted from Philadelphia to Lehigh Valley after four difficult major league starts. Brantly focused in on exactly the thinking that the Phillies have had with pitchers like Neris and Pivetta, who have hit rough patches in the majors.

"I think it's in the tank for every player [to pitch like Pivetta did in his first game against Buffalo,]" said Brantly. "It's just about getting to that point mentally and finding a way to do that on a consistent basis. I think it's there for everybody; once they find that in them to bring that out every single outing, every single day, then they make the jump and they stay in the big leagues. The stuff is always there, it's just the consistency."

DRIVING 'EM IN... Deivy Grullon had his streak of nine straight games with an RBI broken on Saturday in Buffalo. The 23-year old catching prospect drove in 16 runs during the stretch, Grullon homered twice and hit .444 (16-for-36) and scored five runs for Lehigh Valley. On the season, he's batting .372 good enough for third in the International League.

THE STRUGGLE IS REAL... Over his last seven games, Dylan Cozens is hitting just .043 (1-for-23). He has struck out 15 times during that stretch, including striking out in seven straight plate appearances over a two-game stretch. This season with Lehigh Valley, he is batting .167 (13-for-78) with 42 strikeouts in 99 plate appearances, to lead the IL in strikeouts. Teammate Lane Adams is third with 39 whiffs. The IronPigs have struck out 302 times this season, which is second in the IL, behind only Columbus.

HELPING THE BIG CLUB... Sean Rodriguez and Phil Gosselin opened the season with Lehigh Valley before being summoned to Philadelphia. Both players are getting limited playing time, but are making the most out of them when they come. Rodriguez is hitting .333 (6-for-18) and Gosselin is batting .286 (8-for-28). Rodriguez has played at second, short and in left field while Gosselin has played both shortstop and left field. Another former IronPig, Aaron Altherr was designated for assignment Saturday when outfielder Odubel Herrera came off the Injured List.

Steel draw 3-3 vs. Loudoun

Bethlehem Steel FC saw a player make their mark in the record books in last night's match against Loudoun United FC when Michee Ngalina recorded the quickest brace in club history. The Steel added one more to Ngalina's tally, taking a point from the 3-3 draw.

Philadelphia Union players Derrick Jones and Matt Real were the only first-team features in last night's match, providing much needed experience and leadership on the road. The pair tied for the team-high mark of most touches in the match with 69 each. Jones made five tackles in the match and made 40 passes, while Real made the most passes of any player on the field for Steel FC last night with 45 and provided four tackles to the club's defensive effort.

Despite the late equalizer from Loudoun United, Steel FC found itself hitting milestones. Union Academy goalkeeper Tomás Romero made his first start in the match, while defender Nathan Harriel earned his second. James Chambers and Ben Ofeimu retook their places at the top of the Eastern Conference passing leaderboard with 525 and 515 total passes in 2019 respectively. The match also saw the return of defender Jamoi Topey to the lineup, his first since the match against North Carolina (March 16).

GODSPEAK: After watching the race at Dover, I'm starting to miss those old-school "mystery" yellow flags.

KEN'S CALL: Learned that Alex Bowman has found fourth gear. And that Kyle Larson might be ready to roll.

Do you miss "group qualifying" yet?

GODSPEAK: Yes, and I believe the idea will make a return if they can come up with the right rules package.

KEN'S CALL: Of course not. But I kinda miss the way-back days, when winning a pole meant something. When mechanics and drivers, and not the engineers, could take a rightful bow.

FEUD OF THE WEEK

MORGAN SHEPHERD VS. KYLE BUSCH: Shepherd has limited NASCAR record-book presence. Busch tied his mark of 11 consecutive top-10 finishes to start a Cup Series season.

GODWIN KELLY'S TAKE: Shepherd accomplished his 11 top-10 finishes in 1990 for car owner Bud Moore. Shepherd's best finish during his streak was second at Atlanta. Busch has three wins.

KANSAS

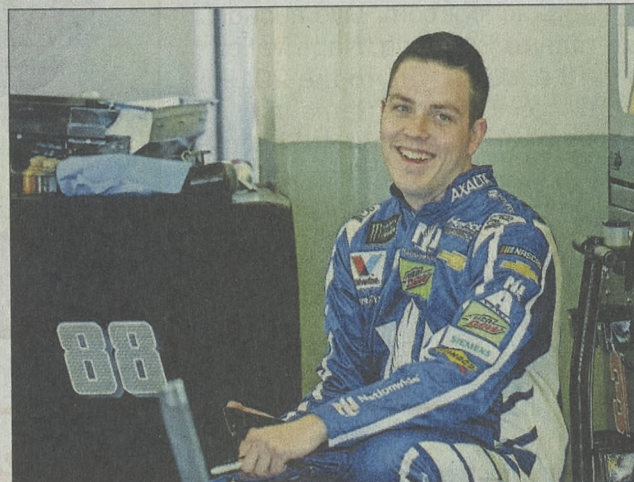

THREE THINGS TO WATCH

1. Package delivery

Several drivers think Kansas Speedway will be the perfect environment for the Cup Series aero/motor package, which features more downforce and less horsepower. "Kansas will be a place that showcases our new rules package," said driver Alex Bowman. With stock cars powering through turns, Chase Elliott thinks the pace will be quick. "I don't think it really changes the strategy, but it's definitely fast for sure," he said.

2. About that sponsor

Race sponsors are usually self-explanatory, such as the Coke Zero Sugar 400 at Daytona. But what is Digital Ally, which is slapping its name on both the Cup and Truck Series races at Kansas Speedway? The Kansas-based company says it "provides law-enforcement agencies along with emergency management and commercial companies with the highest quality video solutions and software management." Now you know.

Alex Bowman, who drives the No. 88 Chevy, is confident the NASCAR aero/motor package will do its job at Kansas Speedway. [AP/TERRY RENNA]

3. Bowyer moment

Clint Bowyer is so full of energy and life that he has become "the quote" in the garage area. Asked recently if his family enjoys interacting with race fans, he was quick with a response. Cash Bowyer, 4, likes to high-five. "Walking through all this chaos that we know as life right now and looking over and giving some stranger a high-five," Clint said. "That wasn't normal for me. And, you know, in his crazy life it is."

— Godwin Kelly, godwin.kelly@news-jrnl.com

DOVER

THREE THINGS WE LEARNED

1. Win on Monday

For the second time in his career, Martin Truex Jr. won a Cup race at Dover on a Monday. The race was postponed because of rain Sunday. He beat the runner-up by nearly 10 seconds for his third career win at Dover. "I promise this wasn't easy," he insisted. "It was a lot of work."

2. Good, bad news

The good news for Alex Bowman? He scored a career-high second-place finish at Dover. The bad news for Bowman? He was about 10 seconds behind the winner. "We had a miserable start to the season and have bounced back," he said. "It would be better if we had a trophy."

Martin Truex Jr. celebrates in Victory Lane after winning the NASCAR Cup Series race Monday at Dover. [AP/WILL NEWTON]

3. Old is new

Cup Series drivers played around too much in group qualifying, so NASCAR's competition department threw up its hands and went back to single-car time trials at Dover. "I perform better in those moments," Jimmie Johnson said, adding this rule brings back his "optimism."

— Godwin Kelly, godwin.kelly@news-jrnl.com

QUESTIONS & ATTITUDE

Compelling questions ... and maybe a few actual answers

Back to Gibbs domination?

It's natural to consider that possibility with Martin Truex Jr.'s Dover win, but look at the rundown and it wasn't a banner day all-around for Joe Gibbs Racing. Yes, Erik Jones was sixth, which works fine for him, but Kyle Busch was a dull 10th and Denny Hamlin 21st. The three non-winning Gibbs drivers combined for one leading lap. All attention should be on the No. 19 team's setup.

We're back to single-car qualifying. Is it back to stay?

Part of the reason for group-qualifying was its timesaving function. Single-car qualifying takes much longer and isn't fun to watch. Is there a good reason why they don't just take the fastest speeds from practice and set the field that way? Let the teams manipulate it however they like, but they'd be wasting setup time if they do.

The joy of the hunt

Every year on Holy Saturday the day before Easter, the Easter Bunny makes an appearance at 729 Ridge St. in Bethlehem. It's a tradition started by Sr. Virginia Longcope to bring joy and love to the children of the residents and graduates of Stephen's Place, a structured recovery home for men who have been incarcerated and struggle with the disease of addiction. The event is made possible with the help of volunteers who donate baskets and their time putting them together and candy is donated by Just Born. This year's event was slightly marred by rain but that didn't deter little Olivia (shown with Sr. Virginia Longcope and friend) from participating in the joy of the Easter egg hunt. There were prizes to be had, games to be played and each child received an Easter basket from the Easter Bunny. Everyone leaves the event with the Easter spirit in anticipation of Easter Sunday.

Bomba's dancing spirit comes to Bethlehem

BY DOROTHY GLEW
Special to the Bethlehem Press

When we think of libraries, we think of books, periodical articles and the World Wide Web. Nowadays one can go to the library to take yoga lessons, learn how to play chess, hear lectures or view films on a variety of subjects. Recently, the South Side Branch of the Bethlehem Public Library offered a class in Bomba, a Puerto Rican musical genre and dance. The event was sponsored by the Friends of the Library to acknowledge Black History Month. On the lower level of the library, Luz Ma Suarez, who immigrated from Puerto Rico, explained Bomba as "a conversation between a drummer and a dancer." She introduced the members of the six-piece band and proceeded to illustrate the first of the five different rhythms she would show the class. Then she invited one of the men in the audience to dance with her. She went on to invite the audience to do various dance steps and finally to dance in pairs. Though the group was small, the dancing was lively, and attendees were clearly having a great time. At the conclusion of the "lesson," everyone chatted while enjoying refreshments. Best of all, Luz plans to offer more dance instruction in the future.

Couples swing, Bomba-style.

In Bomba, gentlemen tip their hats to ladies.

Exhibit chronicles Martin Tower's final years

"A Final Look: Inside the Last Days of Martin Tower" is an intimate look into one of the Lehigh Valley's most iconic structures. Spanning five years, the work showcased at Bethlehem's Fox Optical Gallery chronicles the structure from an untouched, abandoned edifice, with flora and fauna sprouting around a building still pristine inside, to a final glimpse into the gutted tower and its surroundings prior to implosion.

The tower, the former headquarters for the once industrial giant Bethlehem Steel, opened in 1972 and slowly became vacant following its 2001 bankruptcy. This show offers a raw, but delicate window into the last vestige of the Lehigh Valley's tallest building. Join the artist for an opening reception May 3 at 6 p.m. during the SouthSide Arts District's First Friday event. The show will be on display from May 3 through June 29. Glenn Koehler is a photographer and writer based in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania. His work spans photojournalism during fires and Hurricane Katrina, to fine art displayed in galleries and museums. His work has been featured in regional publications such as The Morning Call and in national publications such as The Washington Post and the Associated Press. He works as the Marketing and Outreach Coordinator at the National Museum of Industrial History and serves as the Director of the SouthSide Film Institute.

Activities: In m school, I am involved in National Honor Society and student council. Currently, I am the treasurer of National Honor Society. I have been involved in NHS for two years now. In the past, I started a DECA club at my school. I started this business club in 10th grade with a classmate and was involved as an actively participating member in 11th grade.

Next steps: I plan to attend a four-year college and major in early education.

Career goals: I plan to be an elementary school teacher.

Heroes: My hero is my mother. She is my hero or who I look up to since she embodies everything I want to be. For example, she is a successful elementary school teacher in the Easton Area School District.

Hobbies: My hobbies include art. Even though I am not good at it I enjoy painting in my free time.

Volunteer/community work: I have done many volunteer opportunities. In the summer of ninth grade I helped with a kindergarten class, helped at elementary school events and helped tutor elementary students. In 11th grade, I helped at Artsquest in events like Peepsfest and Christkindlmarkt and volunteered about 60 hours there. In my senior year I volunteered at Celtic Classic with my National Honor Society group.

Likes: I like psychology and helping others.

Dislikes: I dislike when people wait for an opportunity and then complain that they did not get the opportunity.

Greatest accomplishment (so far): My greatest accomplishment was getting accepted into NHS since I was always taught to value education.

Advice for peers: Have fun in high school. It sounds clichéd, but once you're in high school the four years go by quickly, and you'll be a senior before you know it.

Student profile subjects are selected by faculty and administration at the individual schools.

The Jazz Age came to the stage at Notre Dame High School with "Thoroughly Modern Millie" from April 12 through 14. The musical follows the adventures of flapper Millie Dillmount after she leaves Kansas and arrives in New York City in 1922. Although she's in search of a new life and a rich husband, Millie finds wealth and security are less important than love. Shauna Khan was the director and vocal director for the Notre Dame production, assisted by choreographer Jenna Winchenbach and technical director Angela Nicoletto.

FREEDOM HS NOTES

BY CARSON SWICK

Spring into success

The year at Freedom HS (FHS) is coming to a close, as underclassmen have only 17 full instructional days remaining. That number is even lower for seniors as they attempt to hold off "senioritis." Still, there are plenty of activities to keep FHS students occupied throughout the final weeks of the second semester.

Last month, the Freedom High School Theatre Company (FHSTC) performed its annual spring musical. The group's rendition of "Anything Goes" was well-received, and several actors will surely be candidates for the upcoming Freddy Awards. The Freddy nominations will be announced May 9. The ceremony will be held May 23 at the State Theatre in Easton.

While FHSTC students worked tirelessly to perfect the school's spring musical, other art and music students also put on high-quality performances. Freedom's annual art show, a display of student-created drawings, paintings, and sculptures, was held April 25.

The Patriot Band and the orchestra are two more gifted musical groups that excite audiences every year. The band concert will take place May 14, while the orchestra concert, held April 26, was the final performance for many senior members.

"I feel proud of all we've achieved, and I've felt especially proud of all the improvement I've made over the last four years. [Graduating and moving on] is a bittersweet feeling," said Riley Sweitzer, a senior and the vice president of Freedom's orchestra.

Those watching such outstanding arts and musical performances from the audience will soon have their own time to shine. Freedom's prom, themed "A Night in The City," is scheduled for May 17 from 6-10 p.m. at SteelStacks. A committee of Class of 2020 officers took charge of planning the prom.

"Throughout year, we've been reliant on input from juniors. Given some of the feedback we received, we chose ['A Night in the City'] as a way to stay true to all of them," said Alfredo Suarez, Class of 2020 president.

Of course, it would not be a Freedom update without mentioning the tremendous success of the Patriots' athletes this year. Last week, several senior athletes officially committed to continue their careers in college at the annual Signing Day. Still, these gifted young players must focus on the spring season.

All of the Freedom sports teams have respectable records at the beginning of May, but one sport stands out. As of May 2, the boys volleyball team had a 12-2 record, which is good enough for the No. 2 seed in the EPC. What was once a young team is now a powerhouse of juniors and seniors with excellent chemistry.

As the school session draws to a close, Freedom students continue to fight those end-of-the-year blues. Check back next year for another update; but for now, go Pates!

Help us honor a special grad

The Bethlehem Press will be publishing a special graduation supplement on June 26 and we are looking for special graduation situations to spotlight. Do you know of a high school student graduating soon who has overcome extraordinary obstacles? We would like to feature such students in our supplement if they are willing to be interviewed. What we would need is the name and contact information for the student AND it would be very helpful if you (or whoever nominates the student) would make sure the student is open to this idea. Contact editor George Taylor at gtaylor@tnonline.com or 610-625-2121, ext. 3112

speakers who opposed XL claimed to be interested in democracy, they were asking council to ignore the wishes of a clear majority of election judges who preferred XL over three other systems during a demonstration earlier this year. "Elections judges do not understand the system," complained Elections

Commissioner Kathy Fox, who was on the losing side of the 3-2 March recommendation in support of XL.

Tara Zrinski, rumored to be running against State Rep. Marcia Hahn next year, presented the spectre of hacked machines. This was quickly rebutted by both Dertinger and Cozze. Cozze pointed out that each machine is stand alone, and the only way it could be hacked is by giving someone access to each and every machine in 125 precincts. She said they are secured in a camera-monitored warehouse. Dertinger added that no other computers are allowed inside that building. Cozze said the more troubling concern is when arguments arise over a marked ballot where the voter's intent is unclear.

Zrinski also attacked XL vendors because they were absent. They had already made three presentations, including a presentation the previous day to which Zrinski arrived about an hour late.

Hunter and Werner complained that the elections commission should have considered a third paper system, the one chosen by Lehigh County. As Dertinger explained several times, the systems considered were the top two preferences of elections judges.

One of the bugaboos raised about the XL system is a barcode that appears on each ballot. This makes them insecure, according to Deb Hunter's husband Gene. Barcodes are common in hospitals, pharmacies, banks and even at PennDOT.

More than Bach & beer in Bethlehem

112th Bach Festival adds concerts, events, venues

BY PAUL WILLISTEIN
 pwillistein@tnonline.com

Legendary journalist H.L. Mencken wrote of his attendance at the Bethlehem Bach Festival during Prohibition in terms of Bach and beer.

The 2019 Bach Festival of Bethlehem, in its 112th year, is much more than that.

In his 36th season, Bach Choir of Bethlehem Artistic Director and Conductor Greg Funfgeld has added depth and dimension to the Bach Festival.

The festival is May 10, 11 and May 17, 18 in Bethlehem, principally on the Lehigh University campus, with some events at a southside Bethlehem church and on the downtown Moravian College campus.

"The Bach Choir has now outlived Bethlehem Steel. And I think it will keep going. The choir's future is very bright," says Funfgeld, longest-tenured leader in the choir's history.

The all-volunteer, 85-member Bach Choir sings with professional musicians in the Bach Festival Orchestra and vocal soloists from around the world.

The 2019 Bach Festival includes the world premiere of a commissioned work, an artist-in-residence, the festival performance premiere of a Bach cantata, a free outdoor performance, a re-creation of a coffeehouse performance from Bach's era, and a presentation about Bach's Bible.

And, of course, there are the Saturday afternoon performances in Packer Memorial Church of the "Mass in B Minor" by Bach (1685-1750), hallmark of Baroque music, an advent of classical music, and regarded by many musicologists as the greatest piece of music ever written.

"That's one of the privileges of the Bach Choir of Bethlehem," Funfgeld says. "You get to come back to the 'Mass' every year."

"You get to live with this music. In unique ways, it inhabits your heart and your mind and your physical being."

The Bach Choir of Bethlehem, which was founded in 1898, is the oldest American Bach choir and gave the first complete American performances of Bach's "Mass in B Minor" in 1900 in Bethlehem. This year, the Choir is noting its 121st year.

For 2019, two soloists are new to the festival. Mezzo-soprano Krisztina Szab is in her debut with the Choir.

Disney movie concert magic back on stage with Allentown Symphony

Andrea Ross

Andrew Johnson

BY PAUL WILLISTEIN
 pwillistein@tnonline.com

The beauty, excitement and entertainment that are Disney movies will manifest itself in center city Allentown.

Disney fans won't want to miss the Allentown Symphony Orchestra Pops concert, "Disney In Concert: A Dream Is A Wish," 7:30 p.m. May 11, Miller Symphony Hall, Allentown.

It's the third time that Ronald Demkee, ASO Pops Conductor, has led the ASO Pops in a Disney-theme concert at Miller Symphony Hall.

"It's a popular medium. And I think more and more so," says Demkee of the concert format, which includes symphony, orchestral arrangements of popular Disney songs, guest vocalists and clips from Disney movies. "It's an added dimension," he adds.

The program, or similar programs of Disney movie songs, soloists and film clips from the movies, has been performed by the Los Angeles Philharmonic at the Hollywood Bowl and the Philadelphia Orchestra at the Mann Music Center.

Four singers with Broadway credentials accompany the ASO for "Disney In Concert": Andrea Ross ("Whistle Down the Wind"), Whitney Claire Kaufman ("Mamma Mia!"), John DeLisa ("Les Misérables") and Andrew Johnson ("Rent").

The concert includes one hour of high-resolution video clips from the original films.

The presentation is authorized by Disney Concerts.

"What they try to do is pull it together from the Disney films and tie it together in a theme," Demkee says.

Film clips are matched to each song.

Demkee says the concert format presents particular requirements for the ASO and Miller Symphony Hall tech crew:

"You have the added challenge in playing the music at a tempo that reflects the action on the screen. You're synchronizing the performance. You're synchronizing the sound to the film clips."

The ASO rehearses the program once prior to the concert on the afternoon of May 11.

"It's the first time with the soloists and the clips," says Demkee. "The Allentown Symphony is prepared. The musicians receive the music ahead of time."

The May 11 "Disney In Concert" program is expected to include songs from Disney's

"The Little Mermaid," as well as "Aladdin Medley," "The Princess and the Frog Medley," "Cars Suite," "The Lion King Song Suite," "Beauty and the Beast Suite," "A Dream is a Wish Medley (songs from Disney's 'Cinderella'), "Go the Distance" and "Frozen."

Says Demkee, "You have the orchestra performing the music. That, in itself, is worth the admission."

"Then you also have the Broadway singers."

"In addition to that, you have clips from the movies projected on a large screen above the orchestra."

"This is a great program on many levels. That's because it's appealing to young folks, as well as their parents and grandparents," Demkee says.

Festival debut in 2018.

Returning festival favorites are Rosa Lamoreaux, soprano; William Sharp, baritone, and David Newman, bass.

Cantata 111, "Was Mein Gott will, das g'scheh allzeit" ("What my God wills always occurs") is in the concerts, 4 p.m. Fridays, Incarnation of Our Lord Church, Bethlehem.

"This has been an important initiative, that we continue to perform Bach's works that have not been heard here before. We're excited about the opportunity to do a cantata that's never been done before."

Friday afternoons offer an alternative concert. Lutenist Ronn McFarlane returns to the festival, along with Mindy Rosenfeld, flute and recorders, to play Baroque, Renaissance and traditional Celtic music from the 18th century in the the Saal, Moravian Museum, Bethlehem.

The 2019 festival artist-in-residence is Anthony Cecere, French horn, performing Haydn's "Second Concerto for Horn in D major" for the Friday evening concerts.

The Ifor Jones Chamber Music Concert Saturday mornings in Baker Hall, Zoellner Arts Center, is the setting for the world premiere of a work commissioned by the Bach Choir, "The Day Is Done," by composer Gwyneth Walker, with text by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, performed by Bel Canto Youth Chorus and members of The Bach Choir and Bach Festival Orchestra, and directed by Joy Hirokawa, Bel Canto founder and artistic director.

The work commemorates the merger of the Bel Canto Youth Chorus with the Bach Choir and Bel Canto's 25th anniversary.

A real treat at the Ifor Jones concert is Funfgeld, Thomas Goeman, Kerry Heimann and Charlotte Mattax Moersch performing Bach's rarely heard "Concerti for Three and Four Harpsichords," BWV 1064-1065.

"Bach Outdoors," begun at the 2018 Bach Festival, on Payrow Plaza, City Hall, Bethlehem, features a performance by Paul Miller, Principal Viola, Bach Festival Orchestra.

Says Funfgeld, "We were thinking about how to engage a different audience, a different group of people. We have a new principal viola player, Paul Miller. Paul has done a great deal of these street concerts, or outdoor events."

"This year, Paul is playing the electric violin. And he's being joined by the Main Street Brass."

The Main Street Brass, for its first festival, performs as the Festival Brass Choir and also accompanies the festival's "Chorale Sing."

Bach devotees will be especially interested in the "Distinguished Scholar Lecture: The Significance of Bach's Calov Bible," by Dr. Michael Marissen, Daniel Underhill Professor Emeritus, Swarthmore College, 2 p.m. Fridays, Room 145, Zoellner Arts Center.

The three-volume Bible was discovered in the 1930s in the house of a German immigrant family. The Bible is extensively marked in Bach's own hand, providing insights into his compositions and his views of God and religion.

"Michael Morrison is one of the top Bach scholars in the world. We're delighted to have him back. He will have the Calov Bible with him." The copy of the Bible was a commemorative gift to Funfgeld by the Bach Choir board.

Keeping in the spirit of Bach and his times, young musicians, chosen by audition, are again showcased in "Zimmermann's Coffee House," Saturday evenings, Peter Hall, Moravian College. German food, wine and beer are served during a concert of Baroque chamber music performed by students, friends and Funfgeld.

The event echoes the pilgrimage of Mencklen to the Bach Festival during Prohibition when he sought out south side speakeasies, then known as "seafood restaurants."

The Bach Festival is much more than Bach and beer in Bethlehem. It's more than a festival in name alone. It has become a true festival, with a panoply of concerts and activities.

Says Funfgeld, "I think that with the initiatives we have, with all these different events, with the lectures, with trying to engage people from all constituencies, and bringing young musicians into the heart of the festival, it really has become a very significant festival."

That significance continues to transport fans of J.S. Bach to Bethlehem and beyond.

On April 13, 2019, Yo

Ma played Bach's "Suite No. 1 for Unaccompanied Cello" in a park in Laredo, Tex., at the Juarez-Lincoln International Bridge on the border of the United States and Mexico. The performance was one stop on Ma's "international Bach Project" of 36 performances during two years and on six continents.

Ma performed Bach's "Unaccompanied Cello Suites" in 1998 in Central Moravian Church, Bethlehem, for the 100th anniversary of the Bach Choir of Bethlehem.

"I think there are more wonderful performances of Bach in the world than there have ever been," says Funfgeld. "I think there's an ever deepening reverence, respect and gratitude for the music of Bach in our lives."

"People are thinking about it in new and exciting ways. I think Bach would be delighted."

Son's prom manners are good manners

Dear Jacquelyn,
My son will be going to the prom soon, and he asked for my help in doing everything right and being a gentleman. I thought that was very endearing, but I don't really know what to tell him. What are some proper prom manners I can share with him?

RESPECTFULLY YOURS
By Jacquelyn Youst

put everyone involved at ease.

Proms may be a little different today than in years past, but the atmosphere and expectations are probably similar. Regardless, there are some rules of etiquette that should be observed.

Be sure to have a conversation about the flowers he needs to purchase in advance. Traditionally, the guy is responsible for buying the corsage for the girl, and the girl is responsible for buying a boutonniere for the guy.

Corsages need to complement the color of your son's date's dress, so he'll need to find out what color her dress will be. Florists get slammed at prom time, so he shouldn't wait until the last minute to order it. Encourage your son to be in charge of ordering the corsage.

Dinner is typically part of the prom experience. You might suggest he brush up on his dining etiquette; napkins in laps, cell phones off, and elbows off the table. Gentlemen leave their jackets on at the table and pull the chair out for their date.

The day of prom, a young man should be prepared and gather everything he'll need for the evening. His list should include: corsage, prom tickets, cash, and umbrella in the car in case it rains.

He should go the extra mile to make sure the car is clean.

Opening all doors for his date, including the car door, is still considered appropriate.

Prom manners are really just good manners. Respectfully Yours, Jacquelyn

When is worrying excessive?

I recently had a challenging day of trying to manage conflicting "must do's."

Every Monday is "writing day" when I don't move away from my computer. I stay there until I meet my newspaper deadlines for both my column in our Pennsylvania papers and my weekly feature in Florida.

I don't care how tempting other activities are. If it happens on a Monday, I can't do it. Meeting my newspaper deadlines is my top priority.

When I managed to finally get an appointment with an overbooked pain specialist, he had one opening — on a Monday.

Because I needed a bit of help before our trip to Italy, I said I would be there.

Then, I thought the devil learned my phone number when I got called for another "must-do" church commitment.

I stressed for days about how I would manage both commitments and still meet my deadlines.

When I manage to accomplish all three things I was gleeful.

"See that. You did all that worrying for nothing. You worry too much," declared my husband.

Some languages have several words for one emotion. Love, for example, has several different words, depending on the context.

We only have two. Love and like. Of course they are not even close in meaning.

Perhaps we should have more than one word for worrying. Or, perhaps I should never use the word.

I should say I was "concerned" about meeting my deadlines. Yes, perhaps I did worry, but it was more a case of pre-planning.

I got it all done by doing some of the writing on Sunday, something I usually refuse to do.

So my husband might be wrong when he keeps telling me I worry too much.

But, he might be right, too.

Compared to him, I do worry too much. He worries about nothing.

I mentioned before how the engine in our boat caught fire, the pump failed and we were taking on water. In a normal, nonexcited voice, David said, "The boat is going to sink."

I've never seen him excited. I can certainly understand why he was such a good Air Force pilot. He certainly has the disposition for it.

Truth be told, I wish he would worry more — at least when it comes to figuring out how to get essential things done around the house.

The tile around his swimming pool is pushing up in a big way, creating what I think is an immediate need to call a tile guy before it gets worse — like the tile on the other side. It's falling off the pool. Perhaps tree roots got under it.

I don't know the cause. But I know we need to take care of it.

He says I worry too much.

Is that worrying? Or, is it caring?

When I see rain coming into a window in my house, I want it replaced before hurricane season. Is that needless worry? Or, is it trying to avoid a more serious problem?

Is there a difference between being concerned and worrying?

David says it depends on the degree.

OK, I admit it. If they had some kind of barometer to measure worrying, the level wouldn't rise for him. Mine would rise near the top.

I wasn't always like that. I think it's an age thing.

When I was much younger I took everything in stride. Everything! When I stayed calm during a harrowing experience that could have cost us our lives, my friend Carol said I had to have been embalmed to stay calm when we were in such serious jeopardy.

I think I'm usually calm during a crisis because I have to be.

There's a difference between not panicking when in jeopardy and worrying needlessly.

Did I panic when our boat was taking on water? I wasn't calm like David. But I was calm enough to call Sea Tow and convince them we needed immediate help.

I was even calm when I saw the $7,000 repair bill because there was nothing I could do about it — except finally admit it was time to sell the boat.

I have a friend who says we waste energy when we worry about "first-world problems."

If it's a third-world problem — not enough to eat, no health care and no safe place to live, those are real worries, she says.

The rest is a waste of time.

My daughters agree with David that as I get older I'm worrying too much.

Once again, I plead my case by saying there's a difference between being cautious and being a worrywart.

I didn't want to walk around a live volcano that had erupted two days before. Nor did I want to walk in a water-filled cave near the volcano.

I said the volcano might not be finished with its present eruption. And the cave could easily become sealed off if it did.

Plus, what about snakes in the water?

Was I being cautious? Or, was I worrying needlessly?

I admit there are times when I do worry too much — mostly when things involve my children or grandchildren.

While I can't change anything by worrying, I do it anyway.

I call it loving them. And a mother's love isn't excessive, is it?

The jury is still out on excessive worrying.

Helping teen daughter cope with stress

Q. I often hear my teenage daughter and her friends talking about all the stress they are under. Sometimes I even hear them crying together. When I ask them if everything is OK, they change the subject, start laughing or simply say, "Nothing." Why are teens under so much stress, and how can parents help?

The panel agreed that teens are under a lot of stress from school work, sports, social activities and the like.

Cell phones, along with the need to multitask, were named as contributors to stress.

"We have technology that is supposed to save time and all it does is free up time for us to cram in more activities," panelist Chad Stefanyak said.

"There is also something to be said about the stress created by multitasking. Stefanyak continued, adding, "Teens are juggling too many things, and then you add the phone in there where they are always connected, and there are bound to be negative effects."

THE FAMILY PROJECT
By Carole Gorney

Panelist Erin Stalsitz noted that teens' activities today take longer and are too numerous. "They [the students] are involved in a lot of competition, and there is also the element of instant gratification in trying to do everything," she said, noting, "They have no downtime."

"For the first time in their lives, teens have so many demands on them," Stefanyak said. "So, you can look at it from the perspective that this is developmentally appropriate, but acknowledging that for them it is a stressful time."

The stress of worrying about getting into college is such that admissions counselors know teens can't do everything. "The counselors want to see diversity in the teens' activities, but would rather see them involved in only a couple of things. Students don't have to over-extend themselves," Stefanyak said.

One way the parent can help her daughter, according to panelist Kristy Bernard, is by just spending time together so the daughter has opportunities to talk about any problems she is having.

Panelist Pam Wallace added, "The daughter is trying to navigate a whole new system of friends and school, and it is hard. Knowing that her mother is available to listen is how the parent can help her child."

"It is also a whole new world for us parents," panelist Wanda Mercado-Arroyo added. "We have to learn how it operates." She suggested that the mother talk to her daughter's teachers and to the parents of her daughter's friends to understand the challenges the teens face, and to determine what support systems are available.

This week's team of parenting experts are: Pam Wallace, Program Coordinator, Project Child, a program of Valley Youth House; Wanda Mercado-Arroyo, former teacher and school administrator; Erin Stalsitz, Lehigh County Children and Youth Casework Supervisor; Chad Stefanyak, school counselor, and Kristy Bernard, Northampton County Children & Youth Program Specialist.

Fructose intolerance requires check-up

Q. Fruit juices give me a stomach ache. Do you think I'm allergic to them?

I never diagnose because I'm not a physician. I'm just a journalist. If you have a problem digesting fruit juices and this is getting in your way, you should get a medical check-up.

Meanwhile, you might want to keep a diary of the food you eat. This can be the first step to isolate foods that are giving you digestion problems. The intensity of your reaction can help determine whether you are allergic to certain foods or are suffering from a food intolerance.

A food allergy is an abnormal response to a food triggered by the body's immune system. An allergic reaction to food occurs quickly, sometimes within only a few minutes.

Reactions include oral itching, vomiting, diarrhea and abdominal pain. You may have a drop in blood pressure, asthma and skin reactions such as hives or eczema. Allergic reactions to food can cause serious illness and, in some cases, death.

Sometimes, a reaction to food is not an allergy but a "food intolerance." Food intolerance is more common than food allergy.

The immune system does not cause the symptoms of food intolerance, though these symptoms can look and feel like those of food allergy.

Many people think they have food allergies. However, most symptoms are caused by intolerances to foods such as wheat and other grains, sugar found in fruits and honey, dairy products, a corn products.

If fruit juices are giving you a stomach ache, there is a possibility that you have fructose intolerance.

Fructose is a sugar in fruits, honey and some syrups. Fructose is also a basic component in table sugar (sucrose), and it's used to sweeten many processed foods and beverages.

In addition, sorbitol, a sugar alcohol, is converted to fructose during normal digestion. Sorbitol is a sugar substitute often used in diet drinks, ice cream, mints, cough syrups, and sugar-free chewing gum.

You should avoid foods with fructose in them. In addition to fruits, honey, syrups and table sugar, you should watch out for high-fructose corn syrup, powdered sugar, regular sodas, flavored water, sports drinks and sweetened milk. Read food labels carefully to avoid fructose.

The term fructose intolerance covers two conditions: hereditary fructose intolerance and fructose malabsorption.

People with hereditary fructose intolerance, a rare genetic disorder, lack an enzyme that breaks down fructose. This a serious disorder that can lead to liver and kidney damage.

Those who have fructose malabsorption have difficulty digesting fructose. This is a less serious disorder because it doesn't cause organ damage. But it can cause abdominal pain, gas, bloating and diarrhea.

Either condition should be confirmed by a doctor.

Well done, good and faithful servant

Rev. Richard H. Elliott, Sr. Pastor of The Lutheran Church of the Holy Spirit, Emmaus presents Alice Mudge, longtime executive administrative assistant, with a monetary gift on behalf of the council and congregation on her retirement. "It is not 'farewell' as she will continue to be an active volunteer," Elliott said.

Bob Stevens, president of church council thanks Alice Mudge for her dedication to Holy Spirit and presents her with a monetary gift from the congregation.

Alice is riding off into the future with her new bike presented to her at a dinner in her honor April 28.

'Amazing' Aretha

pwillistein@nonline.com

"Amazing Grace" depicts a concert by Aretha Franklin filmed in 1972 on two nights at the New Temple Missionary Baptist Church, Los Angeles, Calif., during the recording of a live gospel music album of the same title.

MOVIE REVIEW

By Paul Willistein
pwillistein@nonline.com

Franklin's version of "Respect" was a big hit in 1967. The albums, "Lady Soul" and "Aretha Now," both released in 1968, included her hit singles, "Chain of Fools" and "Think."

Franklin apparently wanted to get back to her gospel singing and recording roots. "Amazing Grace" became the biggest-selling gospel album ever.

Franklin sings lead on the 11 or so songs in the film, standing stationary at a microphone behind a podium, and briefly singing and playing at the Steinway grand, backed by the Southern California Community Choir; the Rev. James Cleveland, piano, and a great group of recording studio session musicians.

What's extraordinary about "Amazing Grace" is its glimpse into Franklin's sensitive piano playing, nuanced and powerful singing and almost solemn dedication to the material. You can hear the roots of her vocal power in "(You Make Me Feel Like) A Natural Woman" (1967) and "Freeway Of Love (In A Pink Cadillac)," the latter from her 1985 comeback album.

As introduced by Cleveland, "You've Got A Friend" by Carole

King becomes a medley over the combined with "What A Friend We Have In Jesus." Among the moving songs: "Mary Don't You Weep," "How I Got Over" and the title song, "Amazing Grace."

Sydney Pollack directed and, with his blessing, Alan Elliott (a TV and film soundtrack composer in his directorial documentary film debut) took medley over the project. The film was not released for more than four decades because the 20 hours of 16mm film was shot with five cameras without using clapperboards, which made images difficult to synchronize with audio. The film was re-edited and planned for release in 2011 and 2015, but Aretha Franklin sued the producers. After Franklin died at age 78 in 2018, her family agreed to let the film be released. The story of the making of the "Amazing Grace" documentary is almost as amazing as the film itself. "Amazing Grace," MPAA rated G (General Audiences All ages admitted. Nothing that would offend parents for viewing by children.); Genre:

MOTHER'S DAY Gift Ideas

Don't Forget! Mother's Day is Sunday, May 12th. Visit These Local Businesses for the Perfect Gift for your Mom!

MOTHER'S DAY IDEAS FOR MOMS FROM ALL WALKS OF LIFE

Mother's Day is a celebration of women who devote so much of their effort and energy to their families. Celebrating Mom on Mother's Day lets her know all of her efforts haven't gone unnoticed.

Mothers may perform similar tasks, but no two moms are the same. Finding ways to celebrate Mom's uniqueness can make the day that much more meaningful and memorable.

The Crafter
Mothers who are avid crafters may enjoy a craft-themed Mother's Day. A family crafting project can make for a fun afternoon and produce mementos that Mom will cherish for years to come. Dads and kids can plan the project in advance without Mom's knowledge, arranging all of the materials ahead of time and setting up the crafting station the night before or while Mom is relaxing on Mother's Day morning. Kids can even get a head start on the day by making their own craft for Mom and giving it to her as a Mother's Day present. Dads can keep the craft theme going at dinner and get a laugh out of Mom by pouring her a craft beer when dinner is served.

The Reader
A 2017 survey from the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics found that women read more than men. Women read an average of 19.8 minutes per day, which can make a Mother's Day focused on Mom's love of books an ideal and unique way to spend the day. Kids can write Mom their own books, and Dad can help put them together. Dads can visit rare bookstores and look for original copies of Mom's favorite books that she might not find elsewhere.

The Nature Lover
Fishing and other outdoor activities might have a reputation as predominantly male hobbies, but studies show that's not really the case. A 2016 report from the Outdoor Foundation found that 46 percent of people who participated in outdoor activities were women. If Mom is a nature enthusiast, families can plan a Mother's Day enjoying the great outdoors, even giving Mom a new fishing pole, hiking gear or other items that align with her favorite nature activity.

The Relaxation Specialist
Of course, some mothers may want to simply unwind with a relaxing morning at the spa on Mother's Day. In fact, the 2018 U.S. Spa Industry Study found that the spa industry has enjoyed seven consecutive years of consistent growth, with more than 187 billion spa visits in 2017 alone. A relaxing morning at the spa can be the perfect way for moms to begin Mother's Day before they enjoy a brunch or dinner out with their families.

Mother's Day celebrations can be as unique as the women being celebrated.

Carolyn L. Ott died 4/29/2017. The known heirs are James W. Ott, Thomas D. Ott, Sally A. Yelles, Ann E. Davidson and Susan J. Campbell, all of whom have released and waived any interest in the said property and further waived any Notices for the HUD Commissioner Sale. The Sale will be held on the outside steps of the Lehigh County Courthouse, 455 W. Hamilton St., Allentown, PA. The Secretary of Housing and Urban Development will bid $191,813.81. There will be no proration of taxes, rents or other income or liabilities, except that the purchaser will pay, at or before closing, her prorata share of any real estate taxes that have been paid by the Secretary to the date of the foreclosure sale. When making their bids, all bidders except the Secretary must submit a deposit totaling $19,181.38 (10% of the Secretary's bid) in the form of a certified check or cashier's check made out to the Secretary of HUD. Each oral bid need not be accompanied by a deposit. If the successful bid is oral, a deposit of $19,181.38 must be presented before the bidding is closed. The deposit is non-refundable. The remainder of the purchase price must be delivered within thirty (30) days of the sale or at such other time as the Secretary may determine for good cause shown, time being of the essence. This amount, like the bid deposits, must be delivered in the form of a certified or cashier's check. If the Secretary is the high bidder, he need not pay the bid amount in cash. The successful bidder will pay all conveying fees, all real estate and other taxes that are due on or after the delivery of the remainder of the payment and all other costs associated with the transfer of title. At the conclusion of the sale, the deposits of the unsuccessful bidders will be returned to them. The Secretary may grant an extension of time within which to deliver the remainder of the payment. All extensions will be for 15-day increments for a fee of $500.00 to be paid in advance. The extension fee shall be in the form of a certified or cashier's check made payable to the Secretary of HUD. If the high bidder closes the sale prior to the expiration of any extension period, the unused portion of the extension fee shall be applied toward the amount due. If the high bidder is unable to close the Sale within the required period, or within any extensions of time granted by the Secretary, the high bidder may be required to forfeit the cash deposit or, at the election of the foreclosure commissioner after consultation with the HUD Field Office representative, will be liable to HUD for any costs incurred as a result of such failure. The Commissioner may, at the direction of the HUD Field Office Representative, offer the Property to the second highest bidder for an amount equal to the highest price offered by that bidder. There is no right of redemption, or right of possession based upon a right of redemption, in the mortgagor or others subsequent to a foreclosure completed pursuant to the Act. Therefore, the Foreclosure Commissioner will issue a Deed to the purchaser(s) upon receipt of the entire purchase price in accordance with the terms of the sale as provided herein. HUD does not guarantee that the property will be vacant. The scheduled foreclosure sale shall be cancelled or adjourned if it is established by documented written application of the Mortgagor to the Foreclosure Commissioner not less than three (3) days before the date of the Sale or otherwise that the default or defaults upon which the foreclosure is based did not exist at the time of service of this Notice of Default and Foreclosure Sale, or all amounts due under the Mortgage Agreement are tendered to the Foreclosure Commissioner, in the form of a certified or cashier's check payable to the Secretary of HUD, before public auction of the property is completed. The amount that must be paid to pay off the Mortgage prior to the scheduled sale is $191,813.81 as of 2/22/19, plus all other amounts that would be due under the mortgage agreement if payments under the mortgage had not been accelerated, advertising costs and postage expenses incurred in giving notice, mileage by the most reasonable road distance for posting notices and for the Foreclosure Commissioner's attendance at the sale, reasonable and customary costs incurred for title and lien record searches, the necessary out-of-pocket costs incurred by the Foreclosure Commissioner for recording documents, a commission for the Foreclosure Commissioner, and all other costs incurred in connection with the foreclosure prior to reinstatement. Tender of payment by certified or cashier's check or application for cancellation of the foreclosure sale shall be submitted to the address of the Foreclosure Commissioner provided below. /s/ Leon P. DID YOU KNOW?
Sedan owners who suspect they might be part of a dying breed are not wrong to harbor such suspicions, as auto industry insiders note that the production of sedans has been in decline for about a decade. According to LMC Automotive, which tracks the auto industry, many auto manufacturers are responding to consumer demand for taller vehicles by producing more trucks, SUVs and crossovers at the expense of sedans. In fact, LMC Automotive estimates that, by 2022, 84 percent of the vehicles sold by General Motors in the United States will be SUVs or trucks. And GM won't even be leading the pack in that regard, as LMC estimates Ford (90 percent) and Fiat Chrysler (97 percent) will be almost exclusively manufacturing some type of truck or SUV. While trucks and SUVs might first have taken hold of the U.S. automotive market, other countries are now following suit. According to the automotive research firm JATO Dynamics, SUVs, including crossovers, accounted for more than one in three cars sold across the globe in 2017.
