

Dougherty, John B.

TAKES NAVAL TRAINING.
DEC 4 1942

John B. Dougherty, of Bethlehem, is among a number of University of Pennsylvania students who are receiving training in naval science and tactics as members of the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps unit on the campus.

Dougherty, whose home is at 1734 Center Street, is enrolled in the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce at Pennsylvania. Before entering the university he attended Bethlehem High School and the William Penn Charter School.

Upon successful completion of the course in naval science and tactics and the receipt of a degree from the university, students from the Naval R. O. T. C. unit are commissioned as ensigns in the United States Naval Reserve.
