Guilty as Charged!

Those who work in prisons or counsel prisoners tell us that almost all of them proclaim their innocence. If that is true, the judges in our land are grossly unjust! Be that as it may, there is a Supreme Judge over the universe Who is absolutely just.

Paul, the apostle, looking ahead to his own judgment, stated: "Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me at that day; and not to me only, but unto all them also that love his appearing." (2 Timothy 4:8) Each of us will stand before that very same Judge! In fact, your appointment is already made! "And as it is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgment: So Christ was once offered to bear the sins of many; and unto them that look for him shall he appear the second time without sin unto salvation." (Hebrews 9:27-28)

Don't even think about pleading innocent! This omniscient (all-knowing) Judge has a book (see: Revelation 20:12) on every word, thought, and deed you have ever committed! You must plead guilty, and throw yourself on the mercy of the court. "Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; and let him return unto the LORD, and he will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon." (Isaiah 55:7) Admit your guilt, and accept the pardon purchased for you at Calvary.

Freedom HS celebrates new sports turf

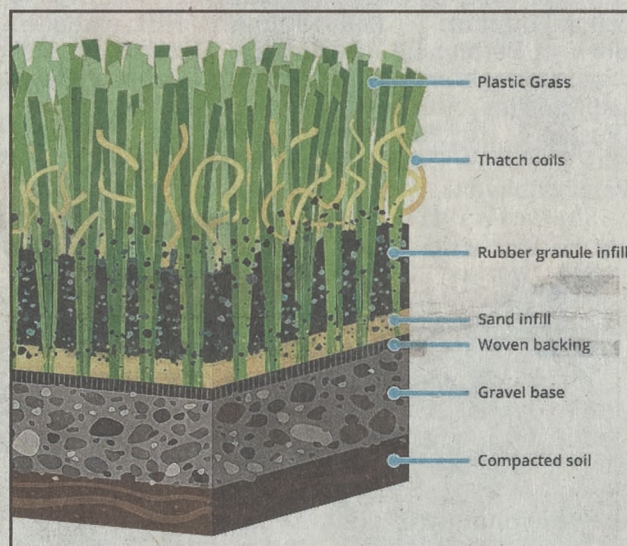

PRESS PHOTOS BY NATE JASTRZEMSKI

The synthetic turf, full of rubber crumble, is part of an overall sports field upgrade that cost about $2 million with new stadium lighting and storm water management system.

ABOVE: Bethlehem Area School District administrators and board members cut the ribbon in celebration of the new sports field at Freedom HS Aug. 19. Student band members and athletes were present to show school spirit. Left to right: Superintendent Dr. Joseph Roy, board member Craig Neiman, board member Eugene McKeon, board President Mike Faccinotto, board member Shannon Patrick, Freedom Principal Michael LaPorta and board member Dean Donaher.

WHAT IS SYNTHETIC TURF? The 'grass' in synthetic turf (also known as artificial turf) is plastic, usually high-density polyethylene, polypropylene or nylon. The tufts of grass are attached to a blanket or membrane and supported by the infill material. Some turf systems use little coils of polyethylene or nylon (sometimes called 'thatch') to provide additional support. The pesky little black beads found on most artificial turf fields are 'crumb rubber,' used as an infill material to support the grass. Most crumb rubber is made from recycled automotive tires and contains many compounds. The exact mix varies from field to field, but common ingredients include latex, silica, black carbon, lead, zinc, barium and selenium.

Alliance for Sustainable Communities-Lehigh Valley

Recommendations

The Center for Disease Control:

1. After playing on a synthetic turf field, individuals are encouraged to perform aggressive hand and body washing for at least 20 seconds using soap and warm water.
2. Clothes worn on the field should be taken off and turned inside out as soon as possible after using the field to avoid tracking contaminated dust to other places. In vehicles, people can sit on a large towel or blanket if it is not feasible to remove their clothes. These clothes, towels and blankets should be washed separately and shoes worn on the field should be kept outside of the home.
3. Eating while on the field or turf product is discouraged.
4. Avoid contaminating drinking containers with dust and fibers from the field. When not drinking, close them and keep them in a bag, cooler, or other covered container on the side of the field.

Dept. of Health, Ridgefield, Conn.:

1. Wash hands and exposed body parts aggressively after playing on fields.
2. Turn clothes inside out as soon as possible to avoid tracking dust to other locations.
3. Keep beverages closed and in bags/coolers when not drinking to minimize contamination from filed dust and fibers.
4. Be aware of signs of heat-related illness and dehydration. Fields can get excessively hot on warm, sunny days. Take all necessary precautions!

Laros grant supports new industrial museum

The National Museum of Industrial History, which opened its doors to public Aug. 2, is excited to announce the fulfillment of a $20,000 pledge from the R.K. Laros Foundation. The grant is in support of an exhibit showcasing the rich history of silk production in the Lehigh Valley. The Laros Silk Mills were founded in 1919 by R.K. Laros and the foundation he established in 1952 continues to make a difference to the community that he believed contributed so mightily to the success of Laros Industries. The grant check was presented to NMIH President & CEO Amy Hollander in a small ceremony by R.K. Laros Foundation Trustees Diane Donaher, Robert Bilheimer and Laura Bennett Shelton. Right: Laura Bennett Shelton (left), Robert Bilheimer, and Diane Donaher (right) present Amy Hollander (center), the president and CEO of the National Museum of Industrial History, with a $20,000 check.

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION OF PENNSYLVANIA

The following are true and correct copies of joint resolutions of the General Assembly regarding amendments to the Constitution of Pennsylvania that were proposed in the General Assembly during the 2015 session. The proposed amendments were agreed to by a majority of the members elected to the Senate and the House of Representatives. Pursuant to Article XI, Section 1 of the Constitution, the Secretary of the Commonwealth has caused the proposed amendments to be published here. Were any of these proposed amendments to be agreed to by a majority of the Senators and Representatives elected to the General Assembly at the November 8, 2016 General Election, the proposed amendments so approved would be published again and then submitted to the qualified electors of Pennsylvania for approval. If approved by a majority of the electors voting on it, the corresponding amendment becomes part of the Constitution.

Those parts of the joint resolutions that appear in BOLD PRINT are the words of the Constitution that are proposed by the General Assembly for addition or deletion. If an amendment were approved, the words UNDERLINED would be added to the Constitution and the words in BRACKETS (e.g. [Constitution]) would be deleted. The unbolded words would remain unchanged in the Constitution.

Anyone who needs help reading this advertisement or needs the text of the proposed amendments in an alternative format may call or write the Pennsylvania Department of State, Bureau of Commissions, Elections and Legislation, Room 210 North Office Building, Harrisburg, PA 17120, 1-877-868-3772, ra-BCEL@pa.gov.

Pedro A. Cortés, Secretary of the Commonwealth

Joint Resolution 2016-1

Proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, reducing the size of the General Assembly.

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby resolves as follows:

Section 1. The following amendment to the Constitution of Pennsylvania is proposed in accordance with Article XI:

That section 16 of Article II be amended to read:

§ 16. Legislative districts.

The Commonwealth shall be divided into 50 senatorial and [203] 151 representative districts, which shall be composed of compact and contiguous territory as nearly equal in population as practicable. Each senatorial district shall elect one Senator, and each representative district one Representative. Unless absolutely necessary no county, city, incorporated town, borough, township or ward shall be divided in forming either a senatorial or representative district.

Section 2. (a) Upon the first passage by the General Assembly of this proposed constitutional amendment, the Secretary of the Commonwealth shall proceed immediately to comply with the advertising requirements of section 1 of Article XI of the Constitution of Pennsylvania and shall transmit the required advertisements to two newspapers in every county in which such newspapers are published in sufficient time after passage of this proposed constitutional amendment.

(b) Upon the second passage by the General Assembly of this proposed constitutional amendment, the Secretary of the Commonwealth shall proceed immediately to comply with the advertising requirements of section 1 of Article XI of the Constitution of Pennsylvania and shall transmit the required advertisements to two newspapers in every county in which such newspapers are published in sufficient time after passage of this proposed constitutional amendment. The Secretary of the Commonwealth shall submit this proposed constitutional amendment to the qualified electors of this Commonwealth at the first primary, general or municipal election which meets the requirements of and is in conformance with section 1 of Article XI of the Constitution of Pennsylvania and which occurs at least three months after the proposed constitutional amendment is passed by the General Assembly.

Section 3. Upon ratification by the electors, the General Assembly shall enact legislation to implement this constitutional amendment so that it applies for the first time to the first session of the General Assembly which begins after the 2020 reapportionment.

Joint Resolution 2016-2

Proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, further providing for exemptions and special provisions.

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby resolves as follows:

Section 1. The following amendment to the Constitution of Pennsylvania is proposed in accordance with the provisions of Article XI:

That section 2(b)(vi) of Article VIII be amended to read:

§ 2. Exemptions and special provisions.

(b) The General Assembly may, by law:

(vi) Authorize local taxing authorities to exclude from taxation an amount based on the assessed value of homestead property. The exclusions authorized by this clause shall not exceed [one-half of the median assessed value of all] 100% of the assessed value of each homestead property within a local taxing jurisdiction. A local taxing authority may not increase the millage rate of its tax on real property to pay for these exclusions.

Section 2. (a) Upon the first passage by the General Assembly of this proposed constitutional amendment, the Secretary of the Commonwealth shall proceed immediately to comply with the advertising requirements of section 1 of Article XI of the Constitution of Pennsylvania and shall transmit the required advertisements to two newspapers in every county in which such newspapers are published in sufficient time after passage of this proposed constitutional amendment.

(b) Upon the second passage by the General Assembly of this proposed constitutional amendment, the Secretary of the Commonwealth shall proceed immediately to comply with the advertising requirements of section 1 of Article XI of the Constitution of Pennsylvania and shall transmit the required advertisements to two newspapers in every county in which such newspapers are published in sufficient time after passage of this proposed constitutional amendment. The Secretary of the Commonwealth shall submit this proposed constitutional amendment to the qualified electors of this Commonwealth at the first primary, general or municipal election which meets the requirements of and is in conformance with section 1 of Article XI of the Constitution of Pennsylvania and which occurs at least three months after the proposed constitutional amendment is passed by the General Assembly.

Joint Resolution 2016-3

Proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in taxation and finance, further providing for exemptions and special provisions.

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby resolves as follows:

Section 1. The following amendment to the Constitution of Pennsylvania is proposed in accordance with Article XI:

That section 2(b) of Article VIII be amended by adding a paragraph to read:

§ 2. Exemptions and special provisions.

(b) The General Assembly may, by law:

(vii) Permit a city of the first class to impose taxes for the benefit of the city of the first class on real estate used for business purposes at a tax rate that exceeds the tax rate applicable to other real estate, in accordance with the following:

(A) So long as a rate variance is in effect, the combined rate of taxes on real estate used for business purposes imposed by the city of the first class or authorized by the city of the first class for its school district shall not vary by more than fifteen percent from the combined rate of taxes on other real estate imposed or authorized by the city of the first class.

(B) The General Assembly shall require the city of the first class to reduce the aggregate revenue from other taxes imposed for the benefit of the city of the first class both on businesses and any wage and net profits tax by the amount of any real estate tax revenues attributable to the variance.

Section 2. (a) Upon the first passage by the General Assembly of this proposed constitutional amendment, the Secretary of the Commonwealth shall proceed immediately to comply with the advertising requirements of section 1 of Article XI of the Constitution of Pennsylvania and shall transmit the required advertisements to two newspapers in every county in which such newspapers are published in sufficient time after passage of this proposed constitutional amendment.

(b) Upon the second passage by the General Assembly of this proposed constitutional amendment, the Secretary of the Commonwealth shall proceed immediately to comply with the advertising requirements of section 1 of Article XI of the Constitution of Pennsylvania and shall transmit the required advertisements to two newspapers in every county in which such newspapers are published in sufficient time after passage of this proposed constitutional amendment. The Secretary of the Commonwealth shall submit this proposed constitutional amendment to the qualified electors of this Commonwealth at the first primary, general or municipal election which meets the requirements of and is in conformance with section 1 of Article XI of the Constitution of Pennsylvania and which occurs at least three months after the proposed constitutional amendment is passed by the General Assembly.

Liberty's Darian Street scores one of his two touchdowns in the team's win over Easton Friday night.

Liberty knocks off EHS

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

From one big game to another, Liberty's football team has and will be going through a series of mental and physical tests over a two weeks span.

Fresh off their 28-21 victory over Easton last Friday night, Liberty now has to re-shift its focus to another test against one of District 11's top powers, as a road trip to Parkland (2-0) is on the agenda Friday night.

If one thing came from last week's pivotal victory over the Rovers (1-1), it's that Liberty (2-0) has the talent to play with anyone, but they also have the belief now as well.

"For a young group this is a lot of confidence," said head coach John Truby of the added value of beating a team like Easton. "It gives us a little bit of a boost. We just preach belief. The whole week we needed the kids to believe they were going to do well. They bought in and felt really good about themselves."

After a fast start that produced a 28-point first quarter, both teams settled down to a 14-14 half-time tie until quarterback Todd Erney found star wideout Darian Street for one of his two TD catches on the night, this one from 23 yards out to give the Hurricanes a 21-14 lead midway through the third quarter.

Easton came back just before the quarter ended with a fourth down conversion when Ben Nimeh threw a two-yard TD to Trey Bailey with 1:57 on the clock.

Erney and Street hooked up for another big play in the fourth quarter, connecting on a 76-yard completion that set up Nasir Legree's four-yard TD run with 7:30 left in the game.

From there, the Hurricanes defense stood strong and closed things out with an Abe Dimmitt interception with a minute remaining to celebrate a huge week two win.

After giving up 236 yards of offense in the first half, Liberty buckled down to giving up 126 yards in the second half.

Street, however, showed the big play potential that will give opposing defenses fits this season, as he caught four balls for 176 yards and two touchdowns.

"I love being the underdog and we used that as motivation coming into the game," said Street. "This gives us a lot of motivation and energy, but we know we have to have another strong week of practice with Parkland coming up this week."

The Trojans (2-0) struggled through three quarters with Nazareth last week before opening up the lead with a 21-point fourth quarter en route to a 38-13 win.

With Parkland viewed as the team to beat by many this year, Liberty will now have to show they can put a big win behind them and focus on a bigger task this week in Orefield.

"We got Parkland now, a team that was a state runner-up from a year ago," Truby said. "They've probably had us circled on the calendar for a quite a long time and we just got to be ready to go."

Hawks eye Emmaus after beating up on the K-Kids

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Bethlehem Catholic has enjoyed a positive start to the football season, but the Golden Hawks will finally be put to the test this Saturday night when they host Emmaus in a key week three showdown.

Fresh off their 50-0 beat down over Northampton last week, the focus now shifts to a battle with Emmaus, as both teams enter week three undefeated.

The Green Hornets piled up 77 points in a week one win over Dieruff and followed that up with an impressive 38-14 victory over Whitehall last week, giving this week's tilt added emphasis and luster for two programs looking to make a mark in the EPC South this season.

"We aren't satisfied with beating Pocono

Freedom had a week off from the rigorous confines of EPC South football, blasting Allen 48-0 in a mercy rule contest last week.

Joe Young threw for 177 yards and three touchdowns, as the Patriots led 35-0 at halftime to enact the mercy rule.

Now, the Patriots (2-0) will turn their focus to hosting Easton this Friday night, hoping to give the Rovers the same dose of defeat they endured at BASD Stadium a week ago in their loss to Liberty.

"We know we are going to get Easton's best game to date," said Freedom head coach Jason Roeder. "Our keys to victory as always involve winning the turnover margin and limiting their explosive plays."

"We need to continue to be able to establish a ground game, be efficient in the pass game and take advantage of big play opportunities when they present themselves."

One player from the Bethlehem area that won't have the opportunity to make big plays on the field his senior year is Bethlehem Catholic running back Damian Diaz.

Diaz suffered a lacerated kidney in the team's season-opening win over Pocono Mountain West after being tackled from behind in the first half and landing on the ball. He played the rest of the half and into the third quarter and didn't realize something was really wrong until he got home and was rushed to the hospital.

Now, Diaz's role will shift from running back to coach, as head coach Kyle Haas wants to make sure Diaz feels apart of the program.

"It's tough for a kid to go through something like that their senior year," said Haas, "especially someone like Damian, who would really do anything for the team. He sent me a text before our game against Northampton and I read it to the team on Saturday night and I think it really meant a lot to them. He's a leader and he'll be helping us the rest of the season."

Liberty's win over Easton last week obviously meant a lot to the Hurricane faithful as well.

For a team that struggled in their opening quarter against East Stroudsburg South, Liberty was a vastly im-

Pates beat Parkland

BY KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tnonline.com

It was only a matter of time before Freedom's girls' tennis team defeated Parkland, even though Patriot coach Mark Sigmon thought it would have happened before last Tuesday when the Pates won against the Trojans 4-3.

"So many years I thought we had them," Sigmon said. "I'm proud of them. It's hard to beat Parkland in anything. I think Parkland was more surprised the years they beat us. But, yes, it was a very satisfying win."

That victory took place early last week, and as the match progressed, the outcome hinged on three singles and one doubles.

"I realized in the second set, we might not win against Parkland, and she was still lobbing on me, and I had to get back out," said Freedom junior, Becky Placko, who won at three singles after three hours against Anna Li 4-6, 6-3, 6-4. "I was down 4-2 in the third set, so I had to get my emotions under control and give my mind to the game."

At one doubles, Natalie Sinai and Kaitlyn Swint were confident going up against Patricia Yao and Madison Staiman, and ultimately clinched the victory for the Pates 6-1, 6-3.

"We love doubles. I was mostly up at the net, and Natalie was at the back, and they were both playing in the back," said Swint, who also plays at two singles. "[Beating Parkland] wow, it felt like an accomplishment. It felt really good."

Earlier, Swint had defeated Staiman 6-1, 6-1, and Sinai defeated Yao at one 6-4, 7-6 (7-4).

"Natalie had a tough time. She was hitting a lot of slices and lobs, and that's not her game," Sigmon said. "With Becky, I thought it was over, but she found another gear."

Most recently, Freedom defeated Central, also by a score of 4-3. As with Parkland, the Patriots won their singles matches as well as their match at one doubles.

Sinai defeated Olivia Luchetti 7-6 (7-5), 7-5. Swint defeated Madison Hess 6-0, 6-2. Placko defeated Hallie Niechwidowicz 6-0, 6-1.

"I should not have had trouble, but I just wasn't feeling it today," said Sinai, regarding her back-and-forth match at one singles. "I'm still kind of tired, but I just focused. I'm hoping I play better next time."

Sinai later teamed up with Swint to win at one doubles 6-0, 6-3.

Gabriella Green Howard and Jessika Klo lost at two doubles 0-6, 3-6. Anjali Chhugani and Olivia Chhugani lost at three doubles 6-4, 4-6, 1-6, and Megan Cavanaugh and Meghan Smith lost at four doubles 0-6, 2-6, all for the Patriots.

"We played better today against Central, but it's much harder to play good doubles than good singles," said Sigmon. "You have to have everything in doubles."

BY KATIE MCDONALD

Four goals by Valentine Perevalov and another goal by Wilmer Aleman in the final minutes of Liberty's soccer game against Easton on Saturday gave the Hurricanes a 5-1 victory over the Red Rovers.

"Every team is going to come out and play us, and new challenges will be recognized. With Pleasant Valley, with Freedom, we'll be faced with challenges," said Liberty coach Jason Horvath. "Easton didn't quit, and playing like this against the better teams, we [also] have to get past the stigma of Emmaus and Parkland."

Saturday's victory was the second in two days for the Hurricanes after defeating Moravian Academy 5-0 on Friday.

"We're in good form. We just have to keep going and win our games," said Aleman, whose goal that originated on a pass to midfield from Lloyd Netherlin, was his first on varsity. "I just had to make that run for the ball. I zipped through and took my chance. I didn't expect it, but I was excited."

The Hurricanes had a 2-0 lead at halftime after Perevalov scored twice.

"Chase [Tackett] had a good kick, and I took it down with my head, and then I took a guy around with my foot," said Perevalov, regarding his first goal. "We'd been working in the pre-season on passing drills, positioning, spreading the field. I think we're looking really good so far."

Horvath would agree, still preferring not to have given up a goal against the Red Rovers that was scored by Fynn Haldeman around the 16:00 mark in the second half.

"We have to get better at our defensive corners," Horvath said. "We can only give up so many goals throughout the season, so now we're down one, so I would say, let's finish the game."

The Hurricanes will face Bethlehem Catholic on Wednesday at Becahi, later taking on Allen on Saturday at Liberty.

Becahi falls to Allen

BY KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tnonline.com

Bethlehem Catholic forward, Joe Hawach's goal in the last eight minutes of the Hawks' 2-1 loss against Allen on Friday left the Hawks feeling excited about what's to come, despite the final score.

"We dominated the whole game. They played the long ball, and we played possession," said Becahi coach Anthony Briody. "I'm feeling extremely excited."

Allen took a 2-0 lead into the half on goals by Sam Dolobaipu and Anibal Mendez, so Briody decided to make an adjustment at halftime.

"We had two defensive breakdowns, and they scored," Briody said. "We put Nick Cenek on their number six [Mendez], and we shut them down."

With less than eight minutes left in the game, Hawach made the most of an assist by right-wing, Kevin Michels.

"I got tugged, but before I hit the ground, I got enough under the ball to get it over the keeper's head," said Hawach. "It was incredible, starting the season with a goal. This is my third year playing, and I think this was the best performance we've had for a first game of the season. I'm really excited."

Becahi scrambled to try and tie the game in the remaining minutes.

"I think the whole team basically pushed up, and tried to see if we could get the goal," Hawach said. "All-in-all, it was a great game, and we're really excited."

Briody continued to maintain, and Hawach agrees, that having a full offseason together has made all the difference to Briody from a coaching and an athletic standpoint.

Briody was not overly concerned about a missed penalty kick in the first half.

"It happens, and you have to have a short memory," he said. "If we play our game, we don't have to worry."

Allen goalkeeper, Trevor Rockwell, stopped the penalty kick.

Becahi goalie Tom Corley saved a corner shot to keep the gap to one score, while fullback Drew Thomas made two crucial clears.

The Hawks will take on Liberty on Sept. 7 at Becahi.

Pete's Top-10: EHS making a climb

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Week two is in the books and Emmaus has become everyone's darling of the early part of the season, as the Hornets look to make another statement win over Bethlehem Catholic this Saturday night.

Harold Fairclough has clearly turned the program around and it's good to see the Hornets back in football relevance.

Liberty, on the other hand, made their own statement win over Easton last week, as they'll look for their second straight upset of the season this week against Parkland.

The top five teams in the poll this week have clearly made their mark through the first couple weeks of the season, but what can they do in week three?

"Clements won the job for this week," said Haas, "but we're still looking to see if he can do this on a consistent basis. I don't want our kids to be complacent. Liam [Nixon] is going to keep pushing for the job and still has to be prepared as if he's going to play."

The Hawks will certainly be ready to play against an Emmaus team that has undergone a rebirth under new head coach Harold Fairclough this season.

little trouble achieving on the defensive side of the ball last week, as they held Northampton to a pathetic -25 yards of total offense in the first half.

On Northampton's first five passing attempts, Kids' QB Colin Schucker was sacked four times and threw an incomplete.

"The nice thing about last week was that our kids played with energy and hunger throughout the entire game," said Haas, as Becahi scored on their seven possessions last week. "They didn't play down to their competition. They were relentless the whole game. We need that this week because Emmaus is going to be a great test for us. Our kids feel like they have a lot to prove."

Quarterback Derek Sheaffer went 14-of-16 for 182 yards and three touchdowns with wide receiver Josh Artis being his big play target, hauling in four passes for 144 yards and two touchdowns.

The Hornets throw a lot of quick passes and use the run-pass-option to keep opposing defenses off track.

"We have to get good pressure and disrupt their receivers at the line of scrimmage," Haas said. "We also have to be good on special teams, as they [Emmaus] returned three kickoffs to Whitehall's side of the field. That's something we're really going to focus on this week."

Pressure is something that Becahi had the large crowd at BASD Stadium.

"This is my first time beating Easton and it's a very special thing," Truby said. "Easton's a great program with tradition and to take a group of kids like this and beat them, it's a really special thing."

Bethlehem Catholic's varsity cheerleading squad of 17 won the Superior Squad award, took first place in the Elite Division in cheer, and third place in the Extreme Routine Division on Aug. 17 at Pine Forest Cheerleading Camp.

"I was so proud," said Becahi cheerleading coach Colleen Iannetta. "At camp they learned a lot of new cheers and sidelines, a dance, and many new stunting skills and pyramids, but most importantly, the team bonding that hap-ing the only team to take a set from them on the day.

Lynn was happy to see her team go through some adversity during the tournament with Nazareth taking a set, giving her group an opportunity to learn from.

"I was really impressed with how strong they were, especially since they lost so many seniors last year," Lynn said about the Blue Eagles. "It was good for us to lose a set. It really showed the girls we can't let up on anyone and made them refo-cus."

The performance of a few of the Hurricanes also stood out for Lynn, who knows that her team will only get better as the season moves forward.

"[Sophomore] setter Jackie Wagner is really starting to adjust to the faster pace of varsity ball," said Lynn. "She's getting more confident in running the offense, and the older girls are helping her get com-portable. We have an extremely strong passing core, centered around senior libero, Sydney Wilson, which gives us a lot of confidence. Our hitters and blockers did a great job, with Amanda Rachwal, Grace Mittl and Lina Perugini leading our attack."

Still, topping Emmaus in the final capped off the weekend for the Hurricanes, which was a good sign for the team being able to handily defeat them in both sets moving forward.

"Emmaus is always a difficult team to play," said Lynn. "They are well-coached and disciplined on defense and they have a few strong hitters, who we tried to zero in on with our blockers. They made us earn our points and didn't give too much away. I think we're in a good place for it being so early in the season, but we know our weaknesses and we've been working really hard on improving them."

pens there is amazing."

Becahi's captains this season are seniors, Amber Firth and Sasha Kish.

"We are so excited for this season and look forward to great games playing some local rivals," Iannetta said. "We can't wait to show off all our new cheers and stunts on the sidelines."

get Ehrig, Gina Gaglione, Alexa Metelkin, Jasen Reinhart, Rebecca Seeds, and Reagan Zengulis.

"We are also very excited for competition season and love our choreography this year. The girls have incredible attitudes and work so hard every practice to achieve all their goals, but most importantly they all support each other and cheer each other on to do their best," said Iannetta. "As only my second year coaching at Bethlehem Catholic, I'm excited about this team, this season, and for the future of the program."

Liberty's volleyball team kicked off the season in the best way possible, coming home as champions at the First Kill Invitational held at Freedom.

The Hurricanes defeated Emmaus 25-16 and 25-17 in the finale to give Liberty a glimpse of what they can hope to achieve this season.

"This is the first time we've won this tourney since I've coached here," said Liberty head coach Missy Lynn. "It was one of our goals and a great start to the season. I think we played consistently well. There were only two sets all day that I felt we let up, but they bounced back strong and showed a lot of focus and intensity each match."

PROPUESTA DE ENMIENDAS A LA CONSTITUCIÓN DE PENNSYLVANIA

Las siguientes son traducciones fieles y correctas de resoluciones conjuntas de la Asamblea General, en relación con las enmiendas a la Constitución de Pennsylvania que se propusieron en la Asamblea General durante la sesión de 2015. La mayoría de los miembros elegidos para el Senado y la Cámara de Representantes aceptó las enmiendas propuestas. De conformidad al Artículo XI, Sección 1 de la Constitución, el Secretario de Estado de Pennsylvania ha causado las enmiendas propuestas que se publicaran aquí. Si la mayoría de los senadores y representantes de la Asamblea General elegidos en las Elecciones Generales del 8 de noviembre de 2016 aprueba alguna de las enmiendas propuestas, se publicará nuevamente y se someterá a la aprobación de los electores calificados de Pennsylvania. Si la mayoría de los electores que voten la aprueba, dicha enmienda se convierte en parte de la Constitución.

Esas partes de las resoluciones conjuntas que aparecen en LETRA OSCURA son las palabras de la Constitución que se proponen por la Asamblea General para su adición o eliminación. Si se aprobara una enmienda, las palabras SUBRAYADAS se añadirían a la Constitución y las palabras entre PARENTESIS (por ejemplo, [Constitución]) se eliminarán. Las palabras que no estén en letra oscura se mantendrían sin cambios en la Constitución.

Cualquier persona que necesite ayuda para leer este anuncio o que necesite el texto de las enmiendas propuestas en un formato alternativo puede llamar o escribir al Departamento de Estado de Pennsylvania, Oficina de Comisiones, Elecciones y Legislación, 210 North Office Building, Harrisburg, PA 17120, 1-877-868-3772, ra-BCEL@pa.gov.

Pedro A. Cortés, Secretario de Estado de Pennsylvania

Resolución conjunta 2016-1

Se propone una enmienda a la Constitución del Estado de Pennsylvania que reduce el tamaño de la Asamblea General.

La Asamblea General del Estado de Pennsylvania establece lo siguiente:

Sección 1. Se propone la siguiente enmienda a la Constitución de Pennsylvania en conformidad con el Artículo XI:

Que la sección 16 del Artículo II se modifique como sigue:

§ 16. Distritos legislativos.

El Estado se dividirá en 50 distritos senatoriales y [203] 151 distritos representativos, que deberán estar compuestos por territorios compactos y contiguos, así como un número de habitantes tan similar como sea posible. Cada distrito senatorial elegirá a un Senador, y cada distrito representativo a un Representante. A menos que sea absolutamente necesario, ningún condado, ciudad, ciudad constituida, municipio, localidad o barrio se dividirá con el fin de formar un distrito senatorial o representativo.

Sección 2. (a) Una vez que la Asamblea General pase esta propuesta de enmienda constitucional por primera ocasión, el Secretario de Estado de Pennsylvania procederá de inmediato a cumplir con los requisitos de publicidad de la sección 1 del artículo XI de la Constitución de Pennsylvania y emitirá los anuncios necesarios a dos periódicos de cada condado en los cuales se publiquen, con el tiempo suficiente después del paso de esta propuesta de enmienda constitucional.

(b) Una vez que la Asamblea General pase esta enmienda constitucional por segunda ocasión, el Secretario de Estado de Pennsylvania procederá de inmediato a cumplir con los requisitos de publicidad de la sección 1 del artículo XI de la Constitución de Pennsylvania y emitirá los anuncios necesarios en dos periódicos de cada condado en los cuales se publiquen en los diarios con el tiempo suficiente después del paso de esta propuesta de enmienda constitucional. El Secretario de Estado de Pennsylvania deberá presentar esta propuesta de enmienda constitucional a los electores de este Estado durante la primera elección primaria, general o municipal que cumpla los requisitos y esté en conformidad con la sección 1 del artículo XI de la Constitución de Pennsylvania y que ocurre por lo menos tres meses después de que la enmienda propuesta se haya aprobado por la Asamblea General.

Sección 3. Luego de la ratificación de los electores, la Asamblea General promulgará las leyes para poner en práctica esta enmienda constitucional para que pueda ser aplicada por primera vez durante la primera sesión de la Asamblea General que comienza después de la nueva distribución pautada para el año 2020.

Resolución conjunta 2016-2

Se propone una enmienda a la Constitución del Estado de Pennsylvania que provee más exenciones y disposiciones especiales.

La Asamblea General del Estado de Pennsylvania establece lo siguiente:

Sección 1. Se propone la siguiente enmienda a la Constitución de Pennsylvania, en conformidad con el artículo XI:

Que la sección 2(b)(vi) del Artículo VIII se modifique como sigue:

§ 2. Exenciones y disposiciones especiales.

(b) La Asamblea General puede, por ley:

(vi) Autorizar a las autoridades fiscales locales de excluir de los impuestos un monto basado en el valor estimado de la propiedad residencial principal. Las exclusiones autorizadas por esta cláusula no deberán exceder de [la mitad del promedio del valor estimado de todo] 100% del valor estimado de cada una de las propiedades dentro de una jurisdicción fiscal local. Una autoridad fiscal local puede no aumentar las tasas de amillaramiento de sus impuestos por bienes inmuebles con el fin de pagar estas exclusiones.

Sección 2. (a) Una vez que la Asamblea General pase esta propuesta de enmienda constitucional por primera ocasión, el Secretario de Estado de Pennsylvania procederá de inmediato a cumplir con los requisitos de publicidad de la sección 1 del artículo XI de la Constitución de Pennsylvania y emitirá los anuncios necesarios a dos periódicos de cada condado en los cuales se publiquen, con el tiempo suficiente después del paso de esta propuesta de enmienda constitucional.

(b) Una vez que la Asamblea General pase esta enmienda constitucional por segunda ocasión, el Secretario de Estado de Pennsylvania procederá de inmediato a cumplir con los requisitos de publicidad de la sección 1 del artículo XI de la Constitución de Pennsylvania y emitirá los anuncios necesarios en dos periódicos de cada condado en los cuales se publiquen en los diarios con el tiempo suficiente después del paso de esta propuesta de enmienda constitucional. El Secretario de Estado de Pennsylvania deberá presentar esta propuesta de enmienda constitucional a los electores de este Estado durante la primera elección primaria, general o municipal que cumpla los requisitos y esté en conformidad con la sección 1 del artículo XI de la Constitución de Pennsylvania y que ocurre por lo menos tres meses después de que la enmienda propuesta se haya aprobado por la Asamblea General.

Resolución conjunta 2016-3

Se propone una enmienda a la Constitución del Estado de Pennsylvania, en cuanto a impuestos y financiación, que provee más exenciones y disposiciones especiales.

La Asamblea General del Estado de Pennsylvania establece lo siguiente:

Sección 1. Se propone la siguiente enmienda a la Constitución de Pennsylvania, de conformidad con el Artículo XI:

Que la sección 2(b) del Artículo VIII se modificará como sigue:

§ 2. Exenciones y disposiciones especiales.

(b) La Asamblea General puede, por ley:

(vii) Permitir que una ciudad de primera clase imponga impuestos de bienes inmuebles de primera clase usados para fines comerciales, en áreas de la ciudad de la primera clase, a una tasa impositiva superior a la tasa del impuesto aplicable a otros bienes inmuebles, de conformidad con lo siguiente:

(A) Siempre que una variación de la tasa esté en efecto, la tasa combinada de los impuestos sobre bienes inmuebles usados para fines comerciales, impuestos por la ciudad de primera clase, o autorizada por la ciudad de primera clase por parte del distrito escolar, no variará más del quince por ciento de la tasa combinada de impuestos sobre otros bienes inmuebles impuesta o autorizada por la ciudad de primera clase.

(B) La Asamblea General exigirá a la ciudad de primera clase reducir el ingreso agregado de otros impuestos establecidos, en favor a la ciudad de la primera clase, tanto para las empresas como para cualquier ingreso y ganancia neta por la cantidad de cualquier impuesto sobre bienes inmuebles atribuible a la varianza.

Sección 2. (a) Una vez que la Asamblea General pase esta propuesta de enmienda constitucional por primera ocasión, el Secretario de Estado de Pennsylvania procederá de inmediato a cumplir con los requisitos de publicidad de la sección 1 del artículo XI de la Constitución de Pennsylvania y emitirá los anuncios necesarios a dos periódicos de cada condado en los cuales se publiquen, con el tiempo suficiente después del paso de esta propuesta de enmienda constitucional.

(b) Una vez que la Asamblea General pase esta enmienda constitucional por segunda ocasión, el Secretario de Estado de Pennsylvania procederá de inmediato a cumplir con los requisitos de publicidad de la sección 1 del artículo XI de la Constitución de Pennsylvania y emitirá los anuncios necesarios en dos periódicos de cada condado en los cuales se publiquen en los diarios con el tiempo suficiente después del paso de esta propuesta de enmienda constitucional. El Secretario de Estado de Pennsylvania deberá presentar esta propuesta de enmienda constitucional a los electores de este Estado durante la primera elección primaria, general o municipal que cumpla los requisitos y esté en conformidad con la sección 1 del artículo XI de la Constitución de Pennsylvania y que ocurre por lo menos tres meses después de que la enmienda propuesta se haya aprobado por la Asamblea General.

Benner South Bethlehem office building approved

BY ED COURRIER
Special to the Bethlehem Press

The new construction project for the corner of South New and Third streets was granted another certificate of appropriateness for proposed masonry, windows and cable railings by the Bethlehem Historic Conservation Commission on Aug. 15. City inspector Philip Roeder served as chairman.

This time, the six-story retail and office building, which is to be linked to a new parking garage, faced scrutiny by the board. Architect Howard Kulp, representing developer Dennis Benner, reassured the BHCC that no split faced masonry will be used in construction of the new structure. He passed several samples of building materials and glass samples to the board for consideration.

When it was observed by some board members that none of the glass samples were truly clear, Roeder explained that to meet Pennsylvania energy conservation codes, even "clear" glass is tinted for solar transmittance.

Kulp also brought along a sample of Sun Sensitive, a self-tinting glass that he told the panel he was checking out as a possible alternative option. The self-tinting glass is activated by brightness and temperature. Kulp said with this new product there would be no need for blinds to be installed in the windows from the second to sixth floors. Since the first floor would house retail businesses, "clear" windows would be installed.

The back wall of the building would be kept simple, either with masonry panels or blocks. Color is to be determined later, depending on whether paint or stain will be used.

The board unanimously approved the proposal as submitted, stipulating that no split faced masonry panels will be used and the color for the west wall is to be determined later. Kulp would also need to contact them with his findings on the self-tinting glass.

Before adjourning, Philip Roeder announced that the business at 123 West Fourth St., which had been on the evening's agenda for a name change, may have decided on keeping its existing sign. He mentioned two other Southside properties that will need to come before the board for signage approval. One See BHCC on Page A14

Lo siguiente es una copia fiel y exacta de una resolución conjunta de la Asamblea General de Pennsylvania que propone una enmienda a la Constitución de Pennsylvania. De conformidad con los procedimientos establecidos en el artículo XI, Sección 1 de la Constitución, la Asamblea General propuso por primera vez la enmienda durante la sesión de 2013 y la aprobó por segunda vez durante el período de sesiones de 2015 de la legislatura. Según lo requerido por el Artículo XI, Sección 1 de la Constitución y la ley estatutaria, el Secretario de Estado de Pennsylvania ha causado la enmienda propuesta que se publicará en 2014 y 2016.

De conformidad con las resoluciones conjuntas originales, la enmienda propuesta debía presentarse a los electores de Pennsylvania en la primaria general a celebrarse el 26 de abril de 2016. Sin embargo, el 12 de abril de 2016, la Asamblea General aprobó la H.R. 783, una resolución coincidente que llevó al Secretario de Estado a eliminar la enmienda propuesta de la papeleta de la primaria general e incluir la enmienda propuesta en la papeleta de la elección general en noviembre de 2016.

El Secretario de Estado de Pennsylvania, por lo tanto, ha causado una vez más que la propuesta de enmienda se publicara aquí, como anticipo de la elección general. De conformidad con el mandato de la H.R. 783, el Secretario de Estado de Pennsylvania presentará la enmienda propuesta a los electores de Pennsylvania en la forma de pregunta en la papeleta en la elección general que se celebrará el 8 de noviembre de 2016. Si se aprueba una pregunta de la papeleta por una mayoría de los electores que votan en esta pregunta, la enmienda correspondiente se convierte en parte de la Constitución.

Esas partes de la resolución conjunta que aparecen en NEGRITA son las palabras de la Constitución que se proponen por la Asamblea General para su adición o eliminación. Si se aprobara una enmienda, las palabras SUBRAYADAS se añadirían a la Constitución y las palabras entre CORCHETES (por ejemplo, [Constitución]) se suprimirían. Las palabras que no estén en negrita se mantendrían sin cambios en la Constitución.

Siguiendo a la enmienda propuesta se encuentra el texto de la pregunta que se pondrá en la papeleta electoral. Debajo de cada pregunta hay una "Simple declaración en inglés", elaborado por la Oficina del Fiscal General, y publicado como exige la ley, lo que indica el propósito, las limitaciones y los efectos de la pregunta de la papeleta al pueblo de este estado.

Cualquier persona que necesite ayuda para leer este anuncio o que necesite el texto de la enmienda propuesta en un formato alternativo puede llamar o escribir al Departamento de Estado de Pennsylvania, Oficina de Comisiones, Elecciones y Legislación, Sala 210 Oficina del edificio del Norte, Harrisburg, PA 17120, (717) 787-5280, ra-BCEL@pa.gov.

Pedro A. Cortés, Secretario de Estado de Pennsylvania

RESOLUCIÓN CONJUNTA 2015-1

Se propone una enmienda a la Constitución de Pennsylvania, que se conceda una indemnización y jubilación de los magistrados, jueces y jueces de paz de la Asamblea General.

La Asamblea General del Estado de Pennsylvania resuelve lo siguiente:

Sección I. Se propone la siguiente enmienda a la Constitución de Pennsylvania, de conformidad con el artículo XI:

Que sección 16 (b) del Artículo V se modificará como sigue:

§ 16. Compensación y retiro de jueces, magistrados y jueces de paz

(b) Jueces, magistrados y jueces de paz serán retirados en el último día del año natural en que alcanzan la edad de [70] 75 años. Jueces jubilados y exjueces, magistrados y jueces de paz recibirán la compensación que dispone la ley. Salvo lo dispuesto por la ley, ningún salario, beneficios de jubilación u otra compensación, presente o diferida, se pagarán a cualquier juez o juez de paz que, en virtud de la sección 18 o bajo el Artículo VI, está suspendido, retirado o excluido de la celebración de un cargo judicial para la condena por un delito grave o mala conducta en la oficina o conducta que vaya en detrimento de la administración de la justicia o lleve la oficina judicial al desprestigio.

Sección 2. (a) Cada primer paso por la Asamblea General de esta propuesta de enmienda constitucional, el Secretario de Estado de Pennsylvania procederá de inmediato a cumplir con los requisitos de publicidad de la sección 1 del artículo XI de la Constitución de Pennsylvania y emitirá los anuncios necesarios para dos periódicos en cada condado que se publiquen en los diarios con el tiempo suficiente después del paso de esta propuesta de enmienda constitucional.

(b) En cuanto al segundo paso por la Asamblea General de esta enmienda constitucional propuesta, el Secretario de Estado de Pennsylvania procederá de inmediato a cumplir con los requisitos de publicidad de la sección 1 del artículo XI de la Constitución de Pennsylvania y emitirá los anuncios necesarios en dos periódicos de todos los condados que se publiquen en los diarios al tiempo suficiente después de la aprobación de esta propuesta de enmienda constitucional. El Secretario de Estado de Pennsylvania deberá presentar esta enmienda constitucional propuesta a los electores de este Estado en la primera elección primaria, general o municipal que cumpla los requisitos y esté en conformidad con la sección 1 del artículo XI de la Constitución de Pennsylvania y que ocurre por lo menos tres meses después de que la enmienda propuesta se haya aprobado por la Asamblea General.

PROPUESTA REVISADA DE PREGUNTA 1 EN LA PAPELETA

ENMIENDA A LA EDAD DE JUBILACIÓN JUDICIAL OBLIGATORIA

Pregunta en la papeleta

¿Debe enmendarse la Constitución de Pennsylvania para requerir que los magistrados de la Corte Suprema, jueces, y jueces de distrito se retiren en el último día del año en que cumplen la edad de 75 años?

Declaración en Inglés Simple de la Oficina del Procurador General.

El propósito de la pregunta de la papeleta es modificar la Constitución de Pennsylvania para exigir que los jueces, magistrados y jueces de paz (conocidos como jueces de distrito magistrados) se retiren en el último día del año natural en que alcanzan la edad de 75 años.

Actualmente, la Constitución de Pennsylvania dispone que los jueces, magistrados y jueces de paz se retiren en el último día del año natural en que alcanzan la edad de 70 años. Los jueces de paz se conocen actualmente en el distrito como jueces magistrados.

Si la pregunta de la papeleta se aprobara, los jueces, magistrados y jueces de distrito magistrados se retirarían en el último día del año natural en que alcanzan la edad de 75 años en lugar que del último día del año natural en que alcanzan la edad de la enmienda 70 años.

Esta enmienda de la edad obligatoria de jubilación se aplicará a todos los jueces y magistrados en el Estado, incluyendo los jueces de la Corte Suprema de Pennsylvania, los jueces de la Corte del Estado de Pennsylvania, Tribunal Superior, las cortes de primera instancia de los condados, tribunales comunitarios, tribunales municipales en la ciudad de Philadelphia, y jueces magistrados.

La pregunta, en la papeleta, está limitada para que no modifique otras disposiciones de la Constitución de Pennsylvania relacionadas con las aptitudes, elección, la titularidad, o la compensación de los magistrados, jueces o jueces magistrados de distrito.

El efecto de la pregunta en la papeleta sería la de permitir a todos los magistrados, jueces y jueces de distrito magistrados a permanecer en el cargo hasta el último día del año natural en el que cumplen la edad de 75 años. Esto permitirá que todos los jueces y jueces de distrito magistrados sirvan un período adicional de cinco años más allá de la edad actual de jubilación requerida.

With hearings regularly scheduled on the third Monday of the month. The Bethlehem HCC is charged with the task of determining if new signs or other alterations to a building's exterior would be an appropriate fit for the neighborhood in one of three designated historic districts.

Obtaining a certificate of appropriateness is only a first step for business owners and residents in a designated historic district who wish to make alterations to a building's exterior. The BHCC's recommendations are later reviewed, then voted on by city council before any project is allowed to proceed.

Pa. budget receives mixed reviews from politicians, organizations

BY CHRIS DYFOOS
NATE JASTRZEWSKI
Special to the Bethlehem Press

The 2016-17 state budget, which was recently approved by Gov. Tom Wolf and the legislature, arrived July 13. Though the budget arrived reasonably on time — with no shades of last year's infamous budget gridlock that paralyzed the state for nearly nine months — there, of course, were many compromises and controversies.

The budget will spend approximately $31.6 billion, which is a 5 percent increase over last year's budget. The increase is due in due to mandatory payments for the pension and corrections systems as well as Medicaid.

The $1.5 billion increase marks the largest to the state's budget since 2006.

The finalized budget plan cuts roughly $2 billion from the original plan Wolf proposed in February. Despite this reduction, the state still needs to raise more than $1.28 billion in new revenue to cover the increase.

The state will get the additional funds by allowing the sale of alcohol in grocery stores, expanding gaming, increasing taxes on tobacco and expanding the sales tax to include digital downloads.

School districts will reap the benefits of this new budget, getting $200 million to fund basic education and a total of $50 million more for special education, prekindergarten and Head Start programs. In the 183rd Legislative District, this translates into $1.6 million that will be divided by the four school districts.

This marks a win for Wolf, who said he has championed the expansion of education from the outset of his term.

A total of $15 million will be spent to combat the state's addiction crisis, another core value of Wolf's tenure.

Though the streamlined process has undeniably prevented another wave of the apprehension that dominated last year, reactions have been mixed toward the new budget.

State Sen. Lisa Boscola, D-18th said in a statement, "This spending plan is reasonable, responsible and balanced. I'm encouraged by the Senate's bipartisan effort and spirit of compromise that produced this budget — and hope we can apply the same cooperative spirit to other issues."

"Perhaps most importantly, the budget would invest 200 million additional dollars in our public schools, $20 million more for special education, $25 million more to Pre-K, $10 million more for early intervention services and $5 million for Head Start."

"I also proudly supported the Senate amendment that would increase higher education funding by 2.5 percent; and provide over $7 million more for student grant and loan programs."

She said this budget would make these additional investments without raising broad-based taxes.

State Rep. Julie Harhart, R-183rd, was generally pleased, she said.

"This budget may not be as 'lean' as I would have perhaps wanted, but with any large undertaking, there were needed compromises along the way," she stated in a recent press release. "I am pleased we were able to significantly reduce the amount of money the governor originally wanted to spend and were able to take any broad-based taxes off the table."

State Rep. Justin Simmons, R-131st, was initially in favor of the budget. However, he later voted against it, saying the revenue package that was presented to the House of Representatives was different than what was agreed upon during the vote.

"[The budget] makes significant changes to how Pennsylvania has always treated the business community in its role as our partners in tax collection by eliminating the vendor discount on collected sales tax. It unfairly targets smaller community banks — a group that is key to the continued growth of entrepreneurship in our state and new jobs in our communities."

"The package also relies on unwise borrowing to fund spending, and I believe that is not a responsible path. These are just some examples of items that changed from the original revenue proposal, and that forced me to vote no."

Organizations across the board have taken issue with the increase to the budget. Nathan Benefield, vice president of policy for the Commonwealth Foundation, sees the budget as a largely flawed document that overspends without reforming the spending process. A press release from the Commonwealth Foundation outlines five major areas the organization takes issue with, including unsustainable spending growth and leaving the poor vulnerable to tax hikes.

"The budget now heading to the Senate spends far more than the state can afford while not taking the critical steps needed to address today's wasteful spending," Benefield stated in the release. "Ultimately, these kinds of spending increases will demand more from Pennsylvanians' paychecks — forcing hardworking taxpayers to sacrifice their family budgets for unnecessary state spending hikes."

On the opposite end of the spectrum, other groups believe there is not enough spending going on. One such group is the Pennsylvania Health Care Association. Its president and CEO, W. Russ McDaid, issued a statement July 14 deriding the lack of Medicaid funding in the budget: "Pennsylvania's Medicaid program still does not come close to covering the real cost of care. Nursing facilities received flat funding in this year's budget, which leaves Pennsylvania's frailest and sickest residents... vulnerable."

"Without adequate funding moving forward, some facilities may have to turn away seniors on Medicaid because they cannot afford their care, creating... issues in parts of the state."

Ordinances, codes and more covered doing inspections," says Borough Executive Administrator Anthony Branco. The fire code is edited every 3 years on the national level and the boroughs are usually a cycle behind. This discussion will be put on the September agenda for further discussion and approval.

The rental ordinance was also discussed. The current ordinance is outdated and needs improvements. Branco has been working to draft a new ordinance that would include a residential license application, letter to landlords, codes and inspections checklist and fees for landlords, if they do not comply. Council will be continuing to add changes to the ordinance and working to strengthen the policies. Enforcing the rules and penalties has been an issue in the past and will be something that they work on for the future to ensure the safety for Fountain Hill residents. Council approved continuing to work on the existing ordinance.

Police Chief Ed Bachert received applications for crossing guards for the 2016-17 school year and he recommended Robert Schlegel for a job. Schlegel's background check was clean, he is a retiree and would be trained in the mornings. Council unanimously agreed to the hire. He will be posted at the corner of Broadway and Delaware Avenue.

The board has decided to move forward with getting the website redesigned and is in discussions with the final selection of companies. Residents are complaining that the website is not easy to navigate and is outdated. Council Vice President Norman Blatt said, "with the proper website the people will know everything."

Carolee Gifford, recreational committee chair, and Mayor Jose Rosado were not present at the meeting.

Council adjourned to an executive session for discussion of negotiations for the possible purchase of property.

During a half-hour regular meeting at East Hills MS Aug. 22, school directors agreed to submit applications for two community improvement grants; one specifically for middle school staff security training and the other for a major federal grant directing resources toward student enrichment.

The Safe Schools Initiative Targeted Grant is $25,000 for conflict resolution and dispute management programs for staff. This professional development training is for East Hills and Northeast middle schools.

The board also approved an agreement with Promise Neighborhoods of the Lehigh Valley to apply for a multi-million dollar federal grant. PNLV works to make major changes for communities in Bethlehem, Allentown and Easton, and the grant will focus on improving the educational and developmental outcomes of children in distressed communities.

PNLV and the district are focusing on the Marvone/Pembroke housing development and a portion of south Bethlehem.

Later, Northampton Community College board secretary Loretta Leeson provided details about the Pennsylvania Advanced Training and Hiring (PATH). NCC will partner with local See BASD on Page A16

Crossing guard Sue Schmidli and her companion, Chrome, a guide dog in training, stop traffic at the designated crosswalk. Schmidli's Golden Retriever often accompanies the Bethlehem native during her crossing guard duties. "It's good training for the Seeing Eye dogs. The more they get out and mix with people, the better guide dogs they become," she said. Schmidli just started her 42nd year as a crossing guard.

CITY POLICE Assault

Police arrested a Tennessee man Aug. 30 after he and another man allegedly attacked a number of Lehigh University students two days earlier.

Christopher Navarrette, 30, of Spring Place Road in Cleveland, Tenn., is charged with two counts each of harassment, simple assault and aggravated assault.

Police said officers responded to a reported assault in the 500 block of East Fifth Street around 1:30 a.m. Aug. 28, and found three men bleeding and with injuries to their faces and heads, including facial lacerations, concussions, and damage to ears and skulls. All three were transported to St. Luke's University Hospital for treatment.

City, Lehigh and Sands Casino cameras were used to view Navarrette and another man allegedly exit a white vehicle and attack the victims, and then to identify and find Navarrette's vehicle, which was later found at the Extended Stay America Hotel on Schoenersville Road.

Navarrette was committed to Northampton County Prison in lieu of $100,000 bail.

A second assailant is under investigation.

'Life and love'

Allentown Symphony brings 'powerful pieces' to audiences

BY PAUL WILLISTEIN
 pwillistein@tnonline.com

First of two parts

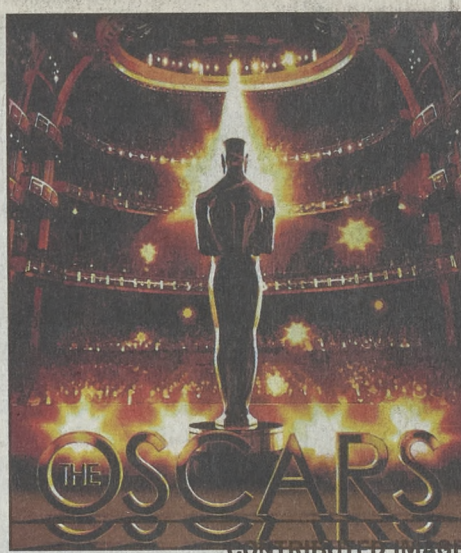

After a season celebrating her 20th anniversary as artistic director and conductor of the Allentown Symphony Orchestra, Diane Wittry knew she wanted the 2016WW-17 season to be even more memorable.

You couldn't do better than "Lights, Camera, Oscars!" the opening Allentown Symphony Pops Series Concert, 7:30 p.m. Sept. 24, with ASO associate conductor Ronald Demkee and vocal soloists Marie Danvers and Destan Owens; the Symphony Classical Music Series Opening Gala, featuring Grammy winner jazz saxophonist Branford Marsalis as soloist for Villa-Lobos' "Fantasia for Saxophone and Orchestra," Oct. 15, 16, and the Symphony's Classical Series of Elgar's "Enigma Variations," Nov. 5, 6.

Allentown Symphony season programming for 2017 includes the Pops Series Concert with pianist Jim Brickman, Jan. 21; "Viennese Nights" Classical Series Concert, Feb. 11, 12; "Peter and the Wolf" Family Classical Concert, Feb. 25; Symphonic Organ Festival, March 11, 12; Mahler's "Resurrection Symphony No. 2," April 8, 9, and the season-concluding Pops concert, "Rock On! Classic Rock & Pop From the 1970s and 1980s," May 13.

The 2015-2016 season was themed to commemorate Maestra Wittry's 20 years leading the Symphony. For the 2016-2017 season, Wittry says, "There's no overall theme," but then, qualifying, she adds, "There are some themes that are surfacing after the fact, like life and love."

"The Mahler 'Resurrection Symphony' is about life and what might happen after life," says Wittry. The April 8 and 9 concerts include the Allentown Symphony Chorus, with chorus master Eduardo Azzati and guest soloists, soprano Elizabeth De Trejo and mezzo-soprano Charlotte Daw Paulsen.

"I realize that I'm also doing 'Death and Transfiguration' before that, which also deals with the love of life and something beyond," Wittry says. The Strauss work is part of the Symphonic Organ Festival, March 11, 12, highlighted by the world premiere of "Ewazen" for organ and orchestra by guest composer Eric Ewazen and performed by organ soloist Hector Olivera.

"'Viennese Nights' is all about love of life," Wittry continues. "It's a party, designed after a New Year's celebration, and it's also about resolutions about your life." The "Viennese Nights" concerts, Feb. 11, 12, include piano soloist Katie Mahan, soprano Jessica Lennick and the Bel Canto Children's Chorus Of The Bach Choir Of Bethlehem, with artistic director Joy Hirokawa, in a selection of works by Strauss, Nicolai, Schubert, Suppe, Mozart and Lehar.

"'The Enigma Variations.'

That's Elgar," says Wittry. "It's a melody that came to him, pointing out his love for his life. He took that melody and he was playing with it and making it sound like this friend and that friend. He captured 12 of his friends in this work. It can be a love of life and the love of people near you."

On the Nov. 5 and 6 concerts program is cello soloist Alexander Hersch, 2016 Schadt String Competition winner, performing Schumann's

"Cello Concerto in A minor, Op. 129." There's also the world premiere of "Local Composer Variations on a Theme by Elgar."

"The composer contest went so great," says Wittry. "We had 25 entries. The quality level of all of the entries was amazing. The winners will be presented at the November concert."

"Each person took the Elgar theme and characterized a friend of theirs. We selected four. One is by a seventh grader who is studying at Juilliard pre-college. It was so advanced that we called the coordinator to make sure it wasn't in the wrong category. The word came back that he wrote it in one night."

Each piece is about two-minutes-long. Moravian College composer-in-residence Larry Lipkis has themed them together into one work. "So, it's our own 'Enigma Variations,'" says Wittry.

"The title ['Enigma Variations'] has been the conversation of a lot of research. All of the titles are initialed with three initials. And one is titled by three asterisks. There's also the enigma that there's a theme that he stole his theme from. The word from the latest research is 'A Mighty Fortress is Our God.' Luther looms, which also talks about resurrection and transformation.

"And then with Marsalis, it's certainly a love of the saxophone," Wittry says. Marsalis performs Villa-Lobos' "Fantasia for Saxophone and Orchestra." Paired with that is Beethoven's "Symphony No. 3." "Talk about serious pieces," says Wittry. "That was the whole turning point in his life and in his world. That's where he [Beethoven] was becoming deaf. It's facing life and facing death."

'Powerful pieces'

"These themes I didn't plan, but I realize that there's an underlying theme about how we express our deepest concerns and emotions in music. It's interesting that looking at it afterwards that there were some tie-ins that were subconscious," Wittry observes.

"But the most important thing about the season is that there are so many powerful pieces, pieces that capture so many emotions and feelings and move us. This is why we do this music."

"The Pops series is also very eclectic. We had the sold-out the Disney concert [for the 2015-16 season]. We have 'Lights, Camera, Oscars!' Jim Brickman is New-Age and we end with 'Rock On! Classic Rock & Pop From the 1970s and 1980s.' There's really something in there for everyone.

"I'm excited about the season," Wittry continues. "I just think the orchestra is playing so well. A lot of the people who have moved to the area don't realize we have a great orchestra and a great concert hall. I ran into some people yesterday and they said they don't feel the need to go to Philadelphia, that we have great concerts right here.

"A lot of our concerts are selling well. You can still get subscriptions. You can still get single tickets. The Century Fund has been providing free tickets for anyone up to age 21."

The 'Allentown Sound'

In orchestral music, there's said to be the "Philadelphia Sound" of the Philadelphia Orchestra. Is there an "Allentown Sound" for the Allentown Symphony, Wittry is asked?

"We have an energy to the performance, of absolute commitment to music-making. You get people who are on stage playing at 150 percent at all times.

"This orchestra has a lot of heart. And to me that's why music-making is all about. It's not just playing the notes. It's what you bring to the music.

"All of our auditions are done blind, behind a screen. We definitely look for a presence of sound, confidence in playing and something musical to say. We're not interested in a technician, someone who is playing technically, but is boring."

Many Allentown Symphony musicians live in the Lehigh Valley. However, some orchestra members commute from New York, New Jersey, Philadelphia and Baltimore. "Two of our players love playing with us so much. One moved to Huntsville, Alabama. Jennifer Case, second oboe, and one moved to Ontario, Canada. Robin Lubert, second violin, for 30 years. One flies back and one drives. We have some committed players.

"It's so competitive now to play with the Allentown Symphony," says Wittry. "We're graduating more and more amazing players. They go to schools all over the country."

New programs

Under Wittry's tutelage and that of Allentown Symphony Association Executive Director Sheila Evans, new programs have been launched and enhanced.

The Symphony's Conducting Fellows Program allows conductors to hone their craft through mentorship in the Symphony Association's programs. The Conducting Fellows travel to the Lehigh Valley to work side by side with Wittry before and during a Classical Series Concert.

The weekly noon concert series, "A Taste of Allentown Symphony," with ASO duos performing classical music, popular songs and other repertoire at center city locations, including the Arts Walk and the Allentown Art Museum cafe, continues Sept. 9, 16, 23 and 30. The schedule is on the Miller Symphony Hall web site.

"Meet the Artist" is held at noon Fridays at Miller Hall before Symphony concerts weekends.

The Allentown Symphony Chorus performs for the Mahler "Symphony No. 2, C minor: Resurrection," April 8, 9 concerts.

"One of the reasons I wanted to form a chorus is to form something different," Wittry says. "It's a project chorus. They only meet six weeks before the concert. It fills a void for people who are very busy.

"I was trying to build something that would be very, very high quality, which is why it's an auditioned group, and they become our ambassadors into the larger community. We have people coming from an hour away to sing with our chorus. It makes them have pride and personal involvement with the organization."

Another community-involvement endeavor is the "Fantasy Symphony," Nov. 20, Miller Symphony Hall, giving area musicians the opportunity to play under the baton of Wittry and alongside Symphony members. Registration information is on the Miller Symphony Hall web site.

"With the 'Fantasy Symphony,' people can bring their instruments and play the music and sit with members of the orchestra that they look up to," says Wittry.

Youth outreach

The Symphony also has major outreach programs for young persons.

"We have an El Sistema summer program," says Wittry. "El Sistema has been so rewarding to watch how students who have never had an instrument in their lives to see how it's totally changed their lives. Two students were selected to go to a national program. And there's no way that that would have happened."

The Symphony's most high-profile international youth initiative is the Annual Schadt String Competition, in its 21st year March 3 - 5, 2017. This year, the contest is for classical guitar musicians.

The Schadt Competition was begun in 1997 following a bequest to the Symphony Association from Edwin H. and Leigh W. Schadt. The contest alternates annually between violin, cello and classical guitar.

The Schadt Brothers String Summer Camp Scholarship Program provides opportunities for young string students in the Lehigh Valley region.

There's also the 62nd Annual Voorhees Concerto Competition, and the eighth annual Young Musician String Festival, the latter Nov. 6, Miller Symphony Hall.

For the younger set, there's the Symphony's "Petting Zoo," where children can touch musical instruments, including 1 - 6 p.m. Sept. 11 at the Lehigh Valley Festival of Art, Science, and Technology, PPL Center, Allentown, and 1 - 2 p.m. Oct. 8 at the 2016 Kids Discovery Expo, Da Vinci Science Center, Allentown.

Wittry's email includes the phrase, "Changing the world through music," a motto she believes in:

"My life's goal is that I love music. But if I was playing music in an empty room, that's not what it's all about. For me, it's about sharing the music and seeing how the music can impact people and change their lives for the better. That might be as simple as, you know, somebody had a bad day at work and they leave the concert feeling real concert."

"It's one thing about coming to a concert and being moved, but it's also personal involvement with music," Wittry says.

Dealing with visual hallucinations

Q. Since my eyes started to go, I've been hallucinating and I'm afraid to tell anyone about it. Any ideas?

Hallucinations can be a symptom of a variety of problems, both physical and mental. They can be caused by schizophrenia, dementia, depression, Parkinson's disease, stroke, fever, drugs, and alcohol. You should see a doctor immediately about this symptom.

You wrote that your hallucinations started with impaired vision. Visual loss (worse than 20/60 in both eyes) is a common cause of hallucinations, too. However, research suggests that they are more likely to appear if you have visual acuity between 20/120 and 20/400.

About one in 10 with vision problems has hallucinations. It is suspected that this phenomenon is under-reported because victims fear they are losing their minds and don't want their doctors to know.

Complex hallucinations among people with vision loss is called Charles Bonnet Syndrome (CBS). Charles Bonnet was a Swiss philosopher. In 1760, he described this condition in his 89-year-old grandfa-

HEALTHY GEEZER
By Fred Cicetti

ther who was blinded by cataracts.

These hallucinations can strike at any age, but usually affect seniors. The most likely reason that the syndrome affects the elderly is the prevalence of visual problems in this age group. The common conditions leading to CBS are age-related macular degeneration, glaucoma and cataracts.

It's common for vision-related hallucinations to be doozies: odd people, animals, panoramas and bizarre images right out of the most phantasmagorical dreams.

These images, sometimes called visual hallucinations, can range from elaborate images to less-complex line patterns. The pictures appear suddenly and can last for hours.

The visual hallucinations often stop within one year to 18 months. However, it is difficult to predict the frequency of the hallucinations and how long they will persist.

Today, CBS is not widely known, even among physicians. One reason for this phenomenon is that many of those who hallucinate keep it to themselves.

There is no cure for CBS. The best way to handle the syndrome is to reassure victims that the weird images are a symptom of eye disease, not mental illness.

The syndrome is sometimes called "phantom vision" and it is compared to phantom limbs. Amputees can have sensations from limbs they no longer have.

Similarly, when retinal cells become impaired and are no longer able to receive and relay visual images to the brain, the visual system begins firing off images on its own.

A research study in the Netherlands found that people used a variety of techniques to deal with CBS. If you believe you are suffering from the syndrome, try these:

Close your eyes and then open them.

Look away from the image quickly.

Walk away from the image or approach it.

Stare at the image.

Switch on a light.

Concentrate on something else.

Some got relief by shouting at the image or trying to hit it.

Have a question? Email: fred@healthygeezzer.com.

Is body image 'all in the head?'

Did you ever notice how much we complain about our bodies?

Well, at least women do.

In any gathering of women of any age group, it would not be unusual to hear someone say, "Ohhh, I hate the way I look." Then they add their specific wish.

"I wish I could lose 5 pounds." Or 10. Or whatever. Most women are unhappy with their weight.

I hear many women say they wish their stomach was flatter.

Many wish their butt was smaller, their bust was bigger or their hips were smaller.

I guess as an aside I just have to say I never heard a woman of any age remark that her brain was too underdeveloped or her intellect was too stilted.

Even teenagers wish their bodies were different. Maybe I should say that's especially true of teenagers. Did you ever hear a teen say, "I like myself just the way I am?"

My granddaughter and her friends all look like models with their long legs, long, shiny blond hair and ever-so-skinny bodies.

But when I hear them talk I can't believe how derisive they are about their gorgeous bodies.

One girl is so beautiful it's hard to stop looking at her. But she honestly thinks she's ungainly and homely. She looked at a picture where she looked like a model with her dazzling smile and good looks. But what did she say: "I hate pictures of me. I always look so ridiculous."

And, of course, they all hate their "big fat thighs." This from girls with colt-like legs and bodies so small a size 2 would be too big.

Are we as women never satisfied with our bodies?

I saw a poster in the Hallmark store that made me laugh. It said: "Don't you wish you still looked like you did long ago when you thought you were too fat to be seen in a bathing suit?"

It's true that when we look back at pictures of ourselves from years ago we can't believe how good we looked. But we never thought so at the time.

Let me ask you this. Do you ever hear a guy say his butt is too big or his legs are too fat? A guy can have a protruding stomach that walks in the doorway before he does. But he doesn't sit around lamenting the way he looks.

I asked my husband if he ever heard a guy complain about not liking his body. "No," said David, "but that doesn't mean he likes what he sees in the mirror. Guys don't say what they're thinking."

I got a laugh over that truism.

It was a simple quote that turned my thinking around. Here's the quote that stuck with me:

My body and my mind are valuable and beautiful for what they can do.

WARMEST REGARDS
By Pattie Mihalik

Do you dare to think like that?

Do you dare to appreciate your body and your mind?

Reading that sentiment about appreciating ourselves made me recall a Weight Watchers circle (very different from regular Weight Watchers meetings) when 12 of us sat each week listening with rapt attention to tips and techniques to lose weight.

The male instructor asked us to think of one part of our body we liked and to give thanks for it. Then he challenged us to be grateful for our legs and thighs that most of us complain about. Instead of complaining, he said, think of how well they treat us.

They make us strong enough to pick up children, carry groceries, go for evening walks and take us to places we want to see. Be grateful.

This week, as I went for my morning gratitude walk, I added a short thanksgiving for legs that could still walk. That is no longer something I can take for granted.

Now, as I walk, I think about how strong my legs are instead of thinking about how short and stocky they are. As I walk up a hill, I concentrate on how my legs take the climb. When I concentrate on movement, I can appreciate everything my sturdy legs do for me.

Call it an attitude adjustment.

Instead of complaining to myself that my legs are too short to allow me to reach the top shelf in a supermarket, I say thank you for those same legs that allow me to shop for groceries, carry in the packages and put things away.

When I went boating with a friend, I said thank you for legs strong enough to let me easily climb in the boat that pitched much higher than the dock.

Whoever made up that quote is right. My body is beautiful for what it can do for me.

And so is my mind. My mind is ever so beautiful to me when it serves me well.

I seem to misplace a lot of things lately. But when my mind suddenly recalls that my lost car keys are in the glove compartment where I put them, I am grateful for a mind that works.

I'm grateful every single time it works because I'm at the age where my mind doesn't always remember what it should.

Maybe if I just keep complimenting it when it does work, it will do it more often.

Let's vow to be kind to ourselves by appreciating what we have.

Yearly Eye Exams Can Reveal More Than Just Vision Trouble

More evidence points to the importance of routine eye exams, not only to pinpoint potential conditions of the eye, but also to serve as windows to diseases that affect the entire body. Now more than ever it is essential to make and keep annual eye exams, as they can help to reveal the first signs of serious ailments.

Doctors from around the world say dozens of diseases - from certain cancers to arthritis to high blood pressure - can show symptoms in the eye. Under the watchful and knowing gaze of an eyecare professional, individuals can get early diagnosis and begin treatment promptly.

In addition to the conditions mentioned, jaundice can indicate liver disease while retinal detachment and bleeding in new blood vessels may indicate hypertension. By looking at the color of the cornea, some doctors can tell if a patient has elevated levels of cholesterol. Many people have had their eye doctors be the first healthcare professional to detect the presence of their diabetes.

If an ophthalmologist suspects an underlying medical condition, he or she will likely refer men and women to their primary care doctors for a more thorough examination.

Going to the eye doctor can do more than ensure your vision is sharp. It's a life-saving decision for many people who have major health conditions diagnosed through the eyes.

St. Luke's, Rodale Institute expand organic farming in Bethlehem Township

The St. Luke's Rodale Institute Organic Farm has added variety and forged partnerships over the past year that will increase its impact on the health and wellness of the Lehigh Valley community, according to Ed Nawrocki, President, St. Luke's Anderson Campus.

The farm, a collaborative initiative of St. Luke's University Health Network and Rodale Institute in its third season at the Anderson Campus, Rt. 33 and Freemansburg Avenue, Bethlehem Township, provides organic produce to patients, staff and visitors.

In 2016, to supply the growing network of employees, patients and community members the farm serves, the Rodale team increased the number of varieties of produce it plants to 100, up from 30 varieties last year. New fruits and vegetables include melons, corn, brussels sprouts, ground cherries, kohlrabi, leeks and okra. The farm has also doubled its footprint and now spans 11.5 acres.

'Mobile Market'

This year, the St. Luke's Rodale Institute Organic Farm partnered with the Kellyn Foundation and its mobile healthy grocery market known as the "Eat Real Food Mobile Market." Kellyn purchased a truck, trailer and an industrial-size cooler that will be stocked with produce from the organic farm and other local farms, as well as some grocery staples, such as eggs, beans, brown rice, and whole grain bread and pasta. The "Eat Real Food" Mobile Market travels to low-income areas in Northampton County where people don't have reliable access to fresh produce.

There have been numerous studies proving that diets rich in fruits and vegetables, especially organically and/or locally-grown, offer many advantages over the traditional American diet, including increased amounts of vitamins, minerals, essential fatty acids and antioxidants, according to Bonnie Coyle, MD, MS, Director of Community Health, St. Luke's University Health Network.

"From a health perspective, this translates into a reduced incidence of heart disease and some cancers and a lowered risk of common conditions such as cancer, heart disease, allergies and hyperactivity in children," Dr. Coyle said. "That's why we feel it is so important to find a way to get our produce into the hands of these underprivileged communities."

'Farmer Lynn'

As part of the original partnership, Rodale Institute provides St. Luke's with a farmer to run the operation following organic farming practices. Lynn Trinza, aka "Farmer Lynn," has been working the farm since its inception.

This year, Trinza added two work study students to her roster of farm hands, thanks to a new partnership between St. Luke's University Health Network and the Children's Home of Easton (CHE). These "farmers-in-training" are compensated at the end of the summer for their work.

"I am really excited that we will be involving these young people in what we do," Trinza said. "Exposing the next generation to organic farming practices and the many benefits of eating organic fruits and vegetables is one more way that St. Luke's and the Rodale Institute are 'planting a seed' in sustainable and local food production and the best way to ensure that our farm continues to flourish well into the future."

Todd Nemura, Wellness Program Manager from the Children's Home of Easton, is thankful for the work that the organic farm is doing to bring healthier eating into the community and for the opportunity being given to the CHE students this summer. "Hopefully, this is a partnership that will continue to grow as the farm continues to grow and more of our students will be able to work on the farm year after year," he said.

hospitals in the nation to offer patients organic produce grown at an organic farm on-site at a hospital campus.

Fresh organic produce is distributed every week in season to all six St. Luke's hospital cafeterias. The patient menu in all hospitals has been re-designed to incorporate fresh, organic produce from the farm and to increase awareness for patients choosing menu options. By providing patients and employees with local grown organic produce, St. Luke's is showing a commitment to the environment and promoting the health of its patients and the community.

St. Luke's University Health Network and Rodale Institute were the recipients of an "Excellence in Sustainability" Award presented at the 2015 Da Vinci Science Center Hall of Fame Gala. The award recognizes organizations that are advancing sustainable business practices and lifestyles through eastern Pennsylvania and western New Jersey.

In addition, St. Luke's Anderson Campus received the "Save Our Planet Award" from the Pocono Chamber of Commerce for its commitment to protecting or improving Monroe County's environment.

tionally-recognized network providing services at six hospitals and more than 200 sites, primarily in Lehigh, Northampton, Carbon, Schuylkill, Bucks, Montgomery, Berks and Monroe counties in Pennsylvania and in Warren County, N.J.

Since its founding in 1947 by J.I. Rodale, the Rodale Institute, Maxatawny Township, Berks County, has been committed to research in organic agriculture, advocating for policies that support farmers, and educating people about organic farming. The Institute is home to the Farming Systems Trial, America's longest-running side-by-side comparison of chemical and organic agriculture. New areas of study at the Rodale Institute include rates of carbon sequestration in chemical versus organic plots, new techniques for weed suppression and organic livestock.

'Kubo and the Two Strings' extraordinary

"Kubo and the Two Strings" is a remarkable animated film unlike many animated films that you are likely to see at the multiplex.

These are not flashy, popsicle-colored, cartoon animals cracking wise in a silly story with pop-rock music on the soundtrack.

"Kubo and the Two Strings" tells an original fable taking place in ancient Japan about a young boy, Kubo (voiced by Art Parkinson); Monkey (Charlize Theron), an amulet come to life, and Beetle (Matthew McConaughey, channeling his best Mel Gibson meets Buzz Lightyear), a samurai. You won't find a more unusual crew either side of the Yellow Brick Road in "Somewhere Over the Rainbow."

The visuals in "Kubo," produced by Oregon-based Laika Studios ("The Box Trolls," 2014; "ParaNorman," 2012, "Coraline," 2009) are an extraordinary combination of stop-motion and computer generated animation.

The storyline includes a mysterious village, origami made by Kubo to illustrate his storytelling, often accompanying himself on a stringed instrument, the shamisen; huge, crashing ocean waves; a sailing vessel made of leaves; underwater creatures; dense forests; mountain and valley paths; a childhood home, and ghosts of memories.

The storyline is that of a quest, but not for riches or fame but rather to discover the truth of one's childhood. Kubo must find a sword, a breastplate shield and a helmet to protect him from the wicked sisters of his mother and also a grandfather who is full of resentment and revenge. The film takes the form of an odyssey.

While the storyline in the screenplay by Marc Haimes (in his theatrical feature screenplay debut) and Chris Butler (screenwriter, "ParaNorman") from a story by Haimes and Shannon Tindle (in her theatrical feature story debut) leaves something to be desired in clarity, the visuals are stunning and well worth the price of admission to "Kubo," directed by Travis Knight (Laika Entertainment, LLC President-CEO in his theatrical feature directorial debut after being lead animator on Laika's "The Box Trolls," "ParaNorman" and "Coraline"). "Kubo" was seen in the 2D format for this review. There are certain scenes which would be worthwhile to see in 3D.

The soundtrack to "Kubo" includes lovely flute and lute music. The dialogue in "Kubo" is frequently funny, but in a more subtle manner than that of the typical animated feature.

One of the chief attractions in "Kubo," in addition to the extraordinary animation, are the voices. Instead of shouting and rasping and odd voices, the voices in "Kubo" are gentle and expressive. Parkinson, Theron and McConaughey are excellent as are George Takei (Hosato), Rooney Mara (The Sisters), Ralph Fiennes (Moon King) Cary-Hiroyuki Tagawa (Hashi) and Brenda Vaccaro (Kameyo).

The phrase "You are my quest" is one of the many thoughtful lines of dialogue that merits repeat viewing of "Kubo and the Two Strings," a likely Oscar animation feature film nominee.

"Kubo and the Two Strings," MPAA rated PG (Parental Guidance Suggested. Some Material May Not Be Suitable For Children.) for thematic elements, scary images, action and peril; Genre: Animation, Adventure, Family, Fantasy; Run time: 1 hr., 41 min. Distributed by Focus Features.

Credit Readers Anonymous: Regina Spektor sings an Asian music influenced version of George Harrison's "Why My Gently Weeps" during the closing credits, which includes a scene of filming the giant skull monster model.

Box Office, Sept. 2: Weekend box office results were unavailable because of the early Labor Day holiday deadline for the Focus section.

Unreel, Sept. 9: "Sully," PG-13: Clint Eastwood directs Tom Hanks, Laura Linney, Anna Gunn and Aaron Eckhart in the drama based on the true story of Chesley "Sully" Sullenberger, who glided his commercial airliner when it became disabled into the Hudson River, saving the lives of the 155 passengers and crew on board.

"Author: The JT LeRoy Story," R: Jeff Feuerzeig directs the documentary film about the literary persona JT LeRoy created by American author Laura Albert.

"Before I Wake," PG-13: Mike Flanagan directs Jacob Tremblay, Kate Bosworth, Thomas Jane and Annabeth Gish in the horror film about a young couple who adopt an orphan child whose dreams and nightmares become reality.

"Shut In," Faren Blackburn directs Charlie Heaton, Naomi Watts, Jacob Tremblay and Oliver Platt in the thriller about a widowed child psychologist living in rural New England who must rescue a young boy during a winter storm.

"The Wild Life," PG: Vincent Kesteloot and Ben Stassen direct the voice talents of Matthias Schweighöfer, Kaya Yanar, Ilka Bessin and Dieter Hallervorden in the animation film comedy in the retelling of how Robinson Crusoe became stranded on a tropical island, told from the perspective of a parrot no less.

The Muggles out in force for 'Harry Potter' tome at Moravian Book Shop

BY CAROLE GORNEY
Special to The Press

One dark and rainy night, the streets of downtown Bethlehem were crawling with all sorts of witches and wizards and magicians. Their destination was the Moravian Book Shop along Main Street, where at one minute after midnight July 31, long-anticipated and tightly kept secrets about their hero Harry Potter would be unwrapped.

There were rumors about an eighth book after nine years that would reveal new threats to Potter and his family, but even the dementors hadn't been able to frighten the faithful Moravian guardians into opening the boxes where the secrets were being kept until the appointed time for the "Harry Potter Midnight Book Release Party."

Despite rumors that You-Know-Who is a fictional character and the central antagonist ("He Who Cannot Be Named") might be in the bookstore in disguise, the nearly 250 fantasy-seekers managed to escape the Muggle world and, while they waited not so patiently for midnight, to enjoy a couple of hours of merriment in a mini-version of Diagon Alley.

There was Gringotts, where there was a chance to win a handmade Harry Potter House Scarf, or Tonk's Transformation Station, providing face-painting disguises. At Olivanders, wizards young and old could make their very own magic wands, and there were crafts and coloring distractions at the Leaky Cauldron.

By far the most popular attraction, however, was Eeylop's Owl Emporium. Here a long line of Wizardry World members checked out a couple of possible owl mail carriers that were being handled by Rachel Spagnola, educational specialist, Hawk Mountain Sanctuary (No one suspected that she was a Muggle.) Another fact also seemed to elude the wizards. Unlike Harry Potter's faithful companion Hedwig, a snowy white purchased by Hagrid from the "real" Eeylops Owl Emporium as Harry's 11th birthday gift, the Hawk Mountain owls don't work during the day. They are nocturnal.

As the night grew darker outside, and both hands on the clock on the wall inside moved closer and closer together near the number 12, the tension and apprehension could be felt throughout the store. Hogwarts faculty members were keeping a sharp eye out for anyone trying to unwrap the secrets too early.

Another distraction was called for: the costume parade to let wizards compete to see who was wearing the best finery. First, the children, totaling the lucky number 13, walked one-by-one up to the top of a few steps, introduced themselves, and then spun around to loud applause. Only one could be the winner, and she was 13-year-old Avalon Dewey of Bethlehem, a Nitschmann Middle School student.

Surprisingly, Avalon's impersonation of Professor Trelawney didn't seem to upset the other Hogwarts faculty. Instead, she was rewarded with a Harry Potter activity chest and a brand new wand.

The adult costume winner, Jordan Hardiman of Allentown, clearly impersonated a Hufflepuff student from Hogwarts. Can you imagine? Things were really getting out of hand. Thank goodness it was almost midnight.

At the appointed time, the guardians ripped off the seals from their boxes to reveal hard-bound copies of "Harry Potter and the Cursed Child," the eighth in a series of stories about the boy who escaped the wrath of Lord Voldemort and lived to vanquish the evil nemesis. Three-hundred copies of the book were gone in minutes.

A quick read of the plot reveals that it is now 19 years since the events

It only took a few minutes of face painting, but Avri Chandler of Germansville, Heidelberg Township, is obviously pleased with the result. Her owl face is appropriate because Harry Potter had a pet owl for many years while he went to school at Hogwarts.

in the seventh book, "Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows," and the secrets involve what is happening to Harry, now an overworked employee of the Ministry of Magic and father of three. For sticklers of detail, "Cursed Child" is the eighth book, but not a novel. It is the rehearsal script of a two-part play based on a story by Harry Potter's creator J. K. Rowling, in collaboration with John Tiffany and Jack Thorne.

The new book and play are birthday presents for Harry and Rowling, who not coincidentally were both born July 31. It was also not coincidental that most of the Potter books and films since their introduction in 1997 have been released in July. The Harry Potter play by Jack Thorne premiered in London's West End the day before the book's release. American Potter fans will have to wait awhile for the play to cross the Atlantic, but the good news is that could be as soon as next year. The bad news is that Rowling says this is definitely the end of the series. In her own words, "Harry Potter is done now."
