How to Festival UnBound

Prometheus / Redux

Touchstone Theatre presents the world premiere of "Prometheus/Redux", an original play commissioned for Festival UnBound written by Gerard Stropnick. Marking the 20th anniversary of Bethlehem Steel's closing, and the seminal work "Steelbound" from our 1999 "Steel Festival", "Prometheus/Redux" asks us how we define ourselves in the face of an ever-changing, ever more interconnected world. No longer "bound" to the steel industry, what has become of the proud steel-worker Prometheus, and our community, 20 years later?

DATES & TIMES:

Friday, October 4 – 8:00-10:00p

Saturday, October 5 – 2:00-4:00p (panel discussion follows performance*)

Saturday, October 5 – 8:00-10:00p

Sunday, October 6 – 7:00-9:00p (Open Captions and Audio Description)

VENUE: Lehigh Valley Charter High School for the Arts | 321 E. Third Street, Bethlehem, PA

PRICE: $25 adult & $15 student/senior/steelworkers; limited amount of Pay What You Will tickets for purchase; please call 610-867-1689 to order.

\ There will be a panel discussion following the Saturday, October 5th 2pm performance facilitated by Bethlehem City Councilman Willie Reynolds from City of Bethlehem. The discussion will explore the changing landscape of our post-steel community, including topics of health and housing.*
