

Two possibilities for the silence of the Health people (51)

The Bethlehem Gadfly Martin Tower, Serious Issues May 11, 2019

(51st in a series on Martin Tower)

Martin Tower demolition May 19

www.martintowerbethlehem.com

Peter Crownfield is officially retired but spends most of his time working with students in his role as internship coordinator for the Alliance for Sustainable Communities–Lehigh Valley.

ref: “Where are the Health people?” post #50

Gadfly:

Well, two possibilities seem obvious — which does not mean either is correct!

City officials did not realize there were any potential health concerns because they got all their information from the developer and/or the demolition contractor. – or – City officials did realize there were potential health concerns and sidelined all health experts in favor of the pro-demolition people. (But why on earth would the city’s business manager be on the panel?)

I hope there are other reasons, since either of these would be frighteningly irresponsible.

Peter