

Dear Mr. Chiles,

For those things which we respect and delight in.

The Class of 1964

DEDICATION

For those things which we respect and delight in, we dedicate our book to a man who has devoted the greater part of his life to the youth of Liberty: for his words of encouragement, for his kind consideration, for his untiring patience, for the way he laughs, for his unassuming devotion, for the faith he has in us, and for his depth and fullness of character, best measured by his greatest affection—missions of generosity.

We dedicate this Cauldron to a demure gentleman with a warm smile and subtle humor beneath a quiet poise of dignity. Mr. Sinclair W. Chiles.

FOREWORD

A brick structure bulging from the crush of three thousand persons within it
. . . a crowded hall . . . traffic control in an overpass . . .
a homeroom in a gymnasium.

A student and a teacher . . . a book to be covered and studied . . . a thought
. . . an idea . . . a realization.

An eight period day . . . a lecture
. . . a studyhall . . . a lesson
. . . homework . . . a test . . .
a report card . . . disappointment
. . . satisfaction.

Plans . . . a hurried conversation between classes . . . a meeting of friends.

Crowds and groups and cliques innumerable . . . And three thousand individuals.

This is Liberty High School 1964.

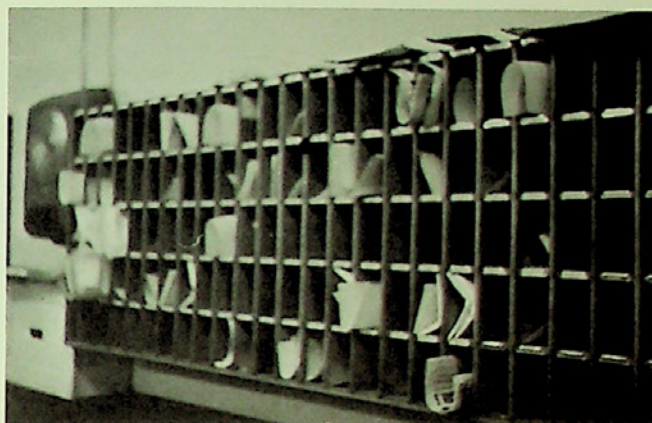

A year has passed at Liberty.

Events which have affected each of us and those which have been dreams and realities for just a few . . . all are important to preserve. Ideally, a yearbook would do this. Realistically, it can only be a partial picture.

Some things are more familiar to us than others.

We are expected to conform to a pattern. However, character is shown through our own initiative.

Each of us, prompted by daily experiences, reveals the varied emotional pitches of high school life.

Contact with the faculty is a broadening experience.

*We receive the advice and wisdom of others, but we must question and alone
we will seek the answers.*

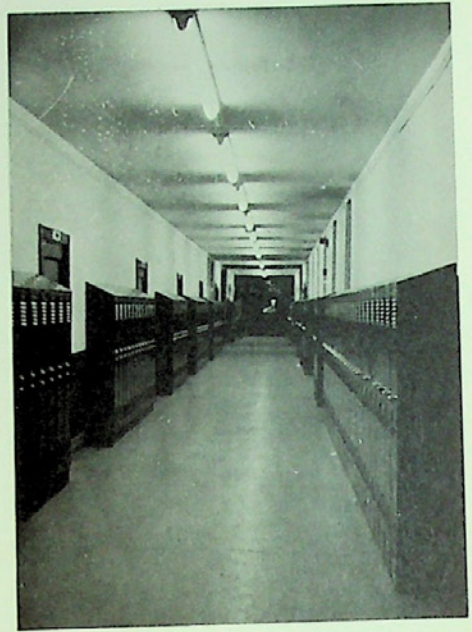

Although we try to justify our thoughts by words, our meaning is more clearly conveyed by facial expression.

Liberty High School will go on without us, but we have left a part of ourselves here. We will remember.

ACADEMIC LIFE

Anyone with the interest or the inclination can get a good education at Liberty High School.

DR. CHARLES E. CHAFFEE

Superintendent of Schools

During the past three years, the class of 1964 has witnessed a 26.4 per cent increase in Liberty's student enrollment. It is through this major development that Dr. Chaffee, Superintendent of Schools, is identified with the class. He served as coordinator when the Bethlehem City Area Union School District, including Bethlehem City, Bethlehem Township, and Freemansburg Borough, was formed in July of 1962. On May 21, 1963, citizens of the community endorsed the eight million dollar bond issue for the expansion of secondary school facilities. As a result, Dr. Chaffee is currently involved in intensive preplanning for renovations at Liberty and for the proposed senior and junior high schools.

In his executive position, Dr. Chaffee cooperates with the Board of School Directors to expand facilities and to raise academic standards throughout the school district.

MR. CHARLES A. KLEIN

Principal

Mr. Klein, too, has had added responsibility because of the increase in both student body and faculty. This year, the principal inaugurated the eight period day, remedying many overcrowded conditions and enabling more students to study electives in addition to the required courses. Complete integration of the high school in all academic areas was accomplished this past year by the principal and his assistant.

Mr. Klein is prominent not only as an administrator but also as a citizen interested in each student and that student's place in an ever-growing community.

An "Administrative Team" comprised of Mr. C. Klein, Mr. J. McIntyre, Mr. J. Risbon, and Mr. F. Brown directed the Vocational Day and Night School Programs.

MR. JOSEPH J. RISBON

Vocational Coordinator

As Coordinator of Liberty High School's Vocational Department, Mr. Risbon worked to meet the demands of modern industry, continually striving to improve the quality of present curriculum. He was interested in each boy's progress throughout the program and was responsible for the placement of many in post-graduation employment.

MR. JOSEPH J. MCINTYRE

Assistant Principal

In addition to his invaluable assistance to Mr. Klein in all administrative areas, Mr. McIntyre's efforts towards the solving of disciplinary and attendance problems were appreciated by all students. He was equally responsible for coordinating an increasingly large student teacher program and for arranging class schedules for the succeeding year.

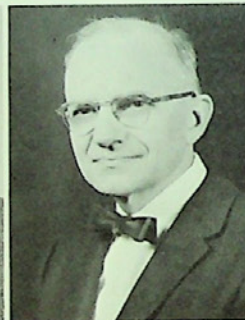

Solving today's problems, urging tomorrow's independence.

ACTIVITIES

Learning extends beyond the classroom. Each individual participating in extra-curricular activities develops further his own abilities and interests.

CHESS CLUB

Michael Gray and Richard Yochum match wits in a grueling game of chess.

The center of interest—a checkered board covered with small chessmen. Two figures, with minds intent on every piece, crouch over it. A calculated move, then another—checkmate, interscholastic chess—a team victory and a personal satisfaction.

The Red and Blue Knights, defending champions of the East Penn-Jersey Chess League, improved their chess skills in match with other club members. Competition was keen, for of the thirty-three members, only the top seven players could participate in interscholastic tournaments.

LITERARY ORGANIZATIONS

Thoughts of the individual are expressed in The Young Writer; minutes of hurried days are recorded in Liberty Life; memories of a senior year are preserved in the Cauldron.

Capturing the creative talents of Bethlehem secondary school students, The Young Writer staff molds outstanding literary efforts into a magazine. Unique layouts and discriminating illustrations mirrored the prose and poetry creations of 1964.

THE YOUNG WRITER

Mr. Shunk and Co-editors, Bob Bender and Judy Quigg, proof-read material submitted for The Young Writer.

Liberty Life staff members seek out news and organize the diversified events of a high school community into an accurate, interesting newspaper. For the ninth consecutive year Columbia Scholastic Press Association awarded Liberty Life first place honors. The newspaper also captured a blue ribbon in the national Tuberculosis Society Contest. Equally as important, but not as evident as the editorial achievements, was the financing of a self-supporting newspaper. A large business staff accomplished this through subscriptions, advertising, and outside activities, such as sponsoring the annual variety show and selling Turkey Day mums and graduation name cards.

Faces—expressions, events—impressions; all the experiences of high school are recorded, never to be forgotten, in the Cauldron. The layouts and pictures have changed to capture a senior year in the manner of 1964. The newness cost money, and the Cauldron staff solicited patrons. Deadlines came and the staff became nocturnal. Challenges were met; a chronicle of Liberty High School, 1964, became a reality.

Using a previous edition as a model, Gail Gross lays out a page.

Post-deadline fatigue.

The entire staff has a part in every edition.

LANGUAGE CLUBS

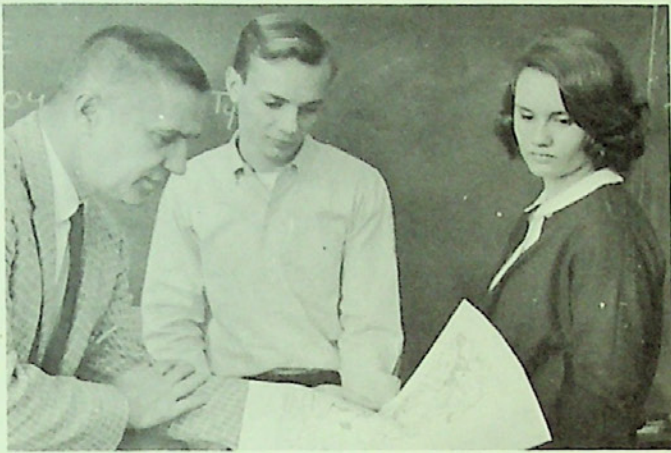

Language courses at Liberty High School require not only a knowledge of the syntax of the language, but also an understanding of the people who speak it.

Five language clubs supplement the curriculum by offering insight into the culture and heritage of foreign peoples and their lands. Spanish, German, Russian, French, and even Latin club programs are conducted in the native languages. Speakers, film strips, and newsreels provide information about the country and its people.

Holidays and festivals present opportunities for members to discover the traditions and participate in the customs of the countries. The stirring carols of all tongues, the lights of the German Advent wreath, and the gay ceremony of the Spanish piñata reveal the unity of all men in the Christmas spirit.

American students, performing the Russian folk dances, establish a bond between dancers in both countries. Latin students, enacting scenes from classical plays, discover the character and thought of another time. The French Club studies the philosophies of great Frenchmen and their influence on the world today.

At every club meeting, the members learn more about another people and, in so doing, discover more about themselves.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

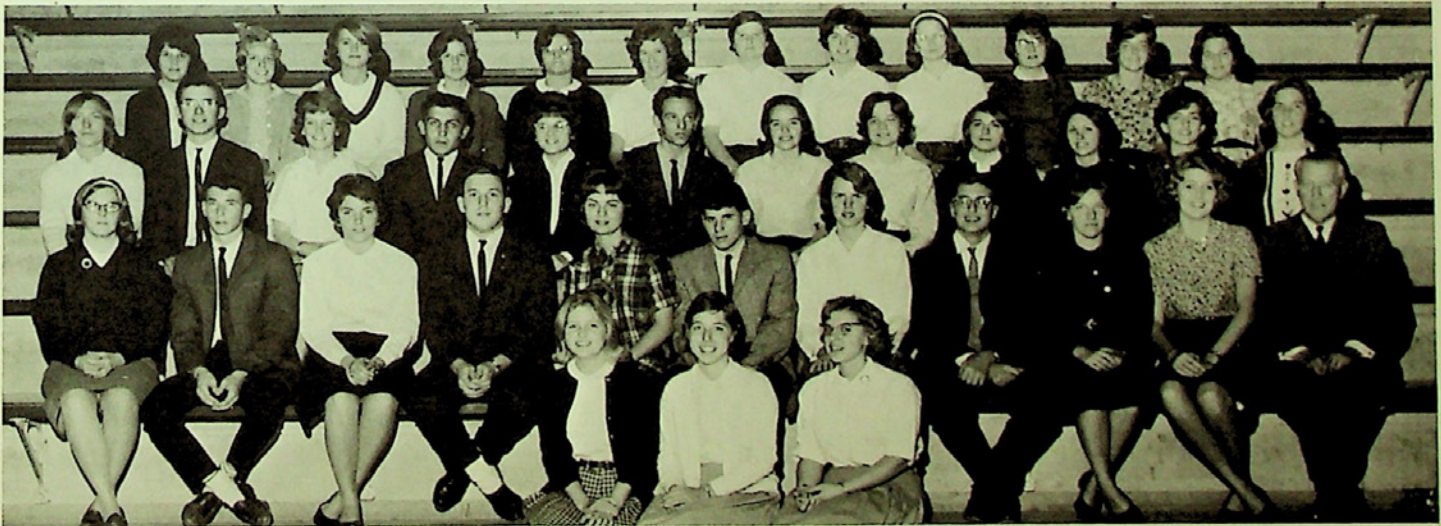

The National Honor Society is the only organization at Liberty High School whose members are chosen specifically on the basis of high academic achievement. However, here the Society's distinction from other associations ends, for its major goals of promoting leadership, responsibility, and concern for others are basically the same as those in every other club at Liberty.

Through programs involving guest speakers and informal discussions, the Honor Society members tried to broaden their scope of interests and knowledge. In December, Mr. Eric Rhodin, a noted author, inspired, amused, and informed Honor Society members with his talk on the trials and rewards of writing. The Society's main project was collecting paperback books for the inmates of Northampton County Prison. Combining scholarship and service, they developed a tutoring program for secondary students in the Bethlehem area.

A guest speaker holds the attention of Society members.

CAREER CLUBS

The future is unknown but not unknowable. With thought, the plans for the future become apparent. With direction, the future becomes a reality.

The officers of the College Preparatory Girls Club planned programs to inform members of requirements for college and to familiarize them with campus life. Hoping to learn from the successes and failures of others, they compiled a booklet of advice offered by college students for prospective collegians.

Future Teachers, through club meetings and service as teacher aides, realized the demands and rewards of teaching.

Jobs in the business field are many and varied. Girls in the Commercial Club received information about vocational opportunities in Bethlehem. The ninety members learned different facets of office work at each meeting.

Membership in the Distributive Education Club provided students in the Distributive Education Course with additional information about distribution, marketing, and retailing. Using their acquired skills, the members operated the school store.

The activities of the Future Nurses League acquainted the members with the preparation and dedication necessary in the nursing profession. Realizing a concern for human well-being, the Future Nurses sponsored a bake sale, "Kup Kakes for Korean Kiddies" for the benefit of Korean orphans.

DEBATING CLUB

Bob Bushwaller takes advantage of a weakness in Bob Bender's constructive speech.

Left to Right: J. Sell, D. Klayton, R. Bender, J. Goldfeder, R. Bushwaller, Mr. Hafner, Advisor.

A conviction stated, another debate commences as two teams defend their arguments with a constructive speech, a cross-examination and a rebuttal. The Lehigh Valley Interscholastic Debating Association stimulated thought among its member schools with the national topic—Complete Medical Care Under Social Security. Liberty debaters participated in four interscholastic competitions and a qualifying championship.

STUDENT ASSOCIATION

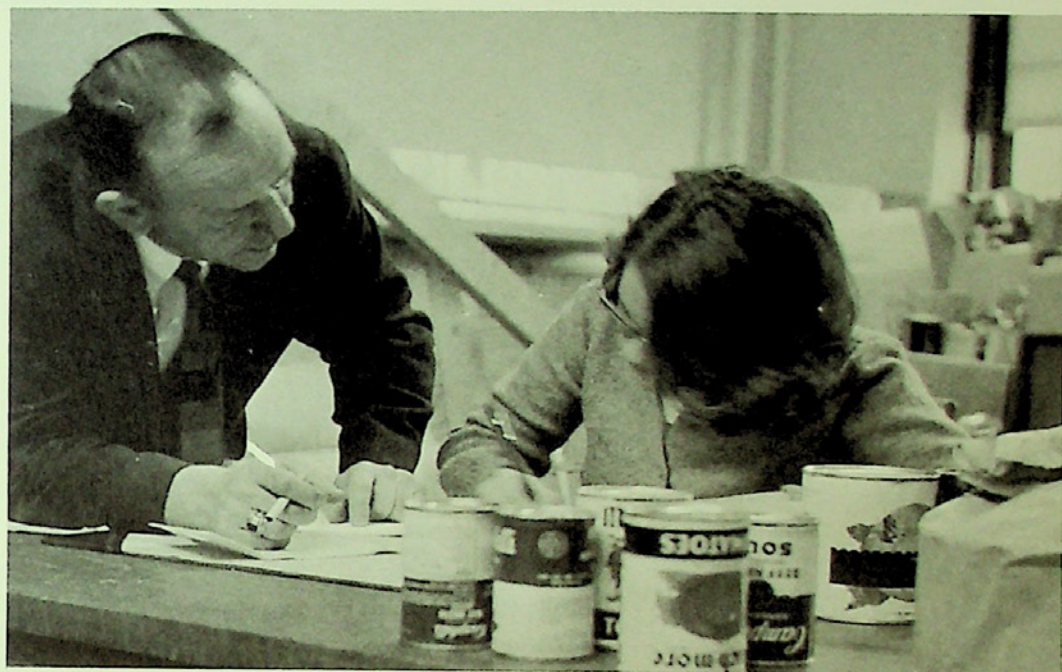

Student Association provides an opportunity for every student to become a vital part of his school community.

The revised constitution, which established a more efficient government, went into effect this year. Representatives of the student body, contributing their time and ideas, were responsible for issuing club charters, studying school problems, and passing resolutions.

The annual can drive for the Salvation Army resulted in an all-school effort to net more canned goods than William Allen. Although this was not accomplished, Liberty students succeeded in soliciting a generous donation of over 5,000 cans. Pep Club, an affiliation of the Student Association, worked to boost school spirit at pep rallies and football games. Eight hoop girls, a newly formed group, aided the cheerleaders in proclaiming the Hurricane's arrival on the field.

Officers of the Student Association exchanged visits with those of William Allen and Easton in an attempt to promote better relationships among schools.

Mr. Cope works with President Carol Henn to organize the Association's biggest project—the can drive.

THESPIANS

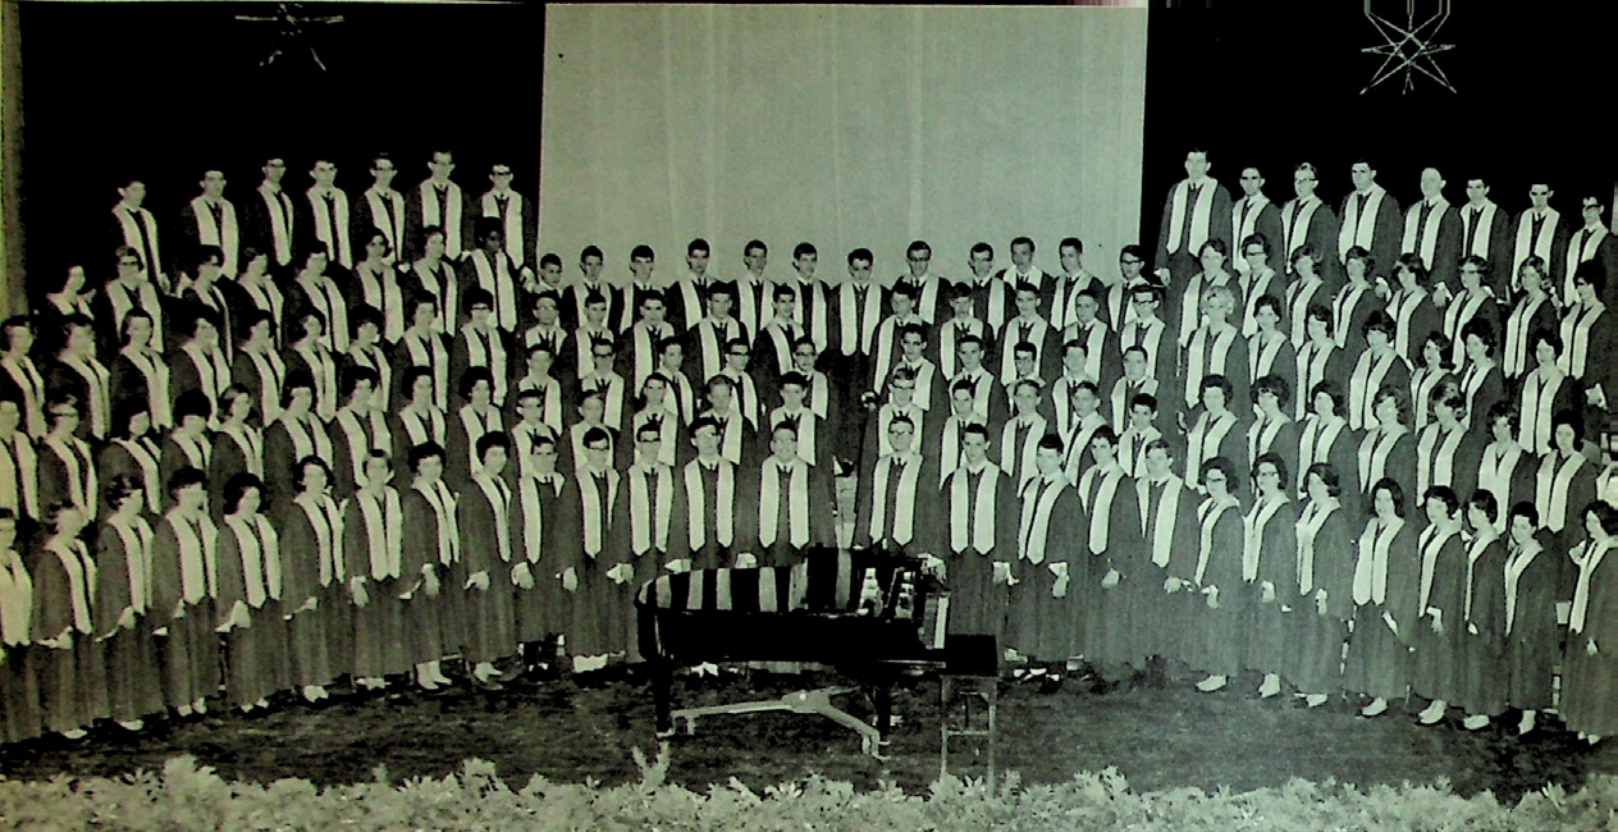

School performances provided opportunities for members of the Thespian Society to prove and practice their skills. Make-up work, memorization of lines, and long rehearsals were parts of acting the Thespians learned and enjoyed. Far from being stage-struck high school students who know of nothing but the glitter of acting, they became familiar with theatrical techniques and developed attitudes that were both realistic and inspirational.

MUSICAL ORGANIZATIONS

Rehearsals are over, lines are formed, the lights dim and the message of Christmas shatters the stillness of expectancy. Hats are straightened, instruments are sought, the baton falls, and music fills the stadium. Music expresses very different feelings; at Liberty, the musical organizations reveal the students' personalities through programs.

Reflecting the spirit of sports, the band enlivened the games with its colorful half-time performances. The color came only through early morning rehearsals, when the stadium was empty and members were sleepy. The contribution which it made to athletic events was only a part of the band's function, for in the spring it entered the realm of the formal program and presented the annual Band Concert.

The Glee Club proclaimed the glory of Christmas at the annual Vesper Services. On stage the bustle of the season was forgotten as singer and song became one. Turning from the religious to the secular, the Glee Club presented the Spring Musicale. The theme this year was Showboat.

At both the Christmas Vespers and the Spring Musicale, the orchestra helped create moods through its music. Unique and appropriate orchestral arrangements set the stage for the class plays. The music of the orchestra enhanced the solemn atmosphere of Baccalaureate.

Bringing a part of Liberty High School to the community, the Choraliers sang at various civic and social functions. With its performances of selections ranging from religious to popular, this versatile group mirrored the enthusiasm that is Liberty.

ART GALLERY CLUB

Hands of the Art Gallery Club work to remove clay from a long-hidden painting.

Paintings of landscapes, still lifes, portraits—in the halls and in Liberty's art gallery—contribute beauty to the school. The members of the Art Gallery Club discovered paintings hidden for years in dark corners and rooms, rescued them from obscurity, and displayed them for all to see and enjoy. They arranged and maintained most of the displays and initiated an art collection illustrating the steps involved in creating a painting.

The Art Gallery Club members hoped to promote an appreciation of art among students by making them aware of its existence.

Dave Nichols, André Dominguez, Eric Shimer, and Jack Valente assist with special lighting effects.

Controlling the main switchboard, John Lance, Peter Lopez, and Burt Anderson prepare for the opening of a musical performance.

STAGE CREW

Michael Butchko and Vince Pivnicny help Ken Irvine raise the backdrop.

SERVICE CLUBS

Janet Goldfeder, Jean Van Haste and Carolyn Felker examine new book selections.

Service Clubs develop a sense of purpose for the individual. Help given to others in an attempt to fulfill a basic obligation benefits the school and the community.

Key Club is a junior Kiwanis organization, composed of members selected primarily for good citizenship and scholastic achievement. More than any other school organization, the Key Club provides opportunities for its members to participate in projects which benefit both the community of Bethlehem and the school community. At Christmas time, the boys repaired broken toys for the Toys for Tots campaign and sponsored a home-room Christmas tree sale.

Carrying out its theme of assistance in the promotion of international good will, the High School Red Cross Council aided needy people in other countries. Children overseas received gift boxes filled with small articles collected from high school students by Red Cross representatives.

Stage productions in the school depend on the services of the Stage Crew. Working behind the scenes, they built sets and controlled switchboards, spotlights, and sound equipment. Supplying accurate timing and skillful management of electrical equipment, they coordinated all stage effects.

Student Library Assistants served the reading needs of the students. The Assistants mended books, arranged displays, participated in the selection of new volumes, and helped with book circulation. In this way, they gained practical experience in the field of library science.

SPORTS

The thrill of victory, the agony of defeat—heightened by the pace of a team in harmony.

But the individual is paramount.

High School athletics—where stakes are low and enthusiasm high—sportsmanship at its best.

Hail to Alma Mater dear!

First and ten, do it again!

Where we've spent our high school years.

Taking advantage of well-timed blocks, Bernie Miller gains yardage with an end sweep.

Coach Pat Garramone, in his second full year at the helm, guided the Hurricanes to their best season (4-4-2) since 1957.

The team opened the 1963 campaign with triumphs over Reading and Atlantic City. Four heartbreaking defeats in midseason shattered the successful beginning.

During the first of two encounters with William Allen, guard Ernie Schoeneberger astounded the entire stadium when he ran 82 yards to score the winning touchdown. In the Thanksgiving Day game, the Canaries rallied to score the final touchdown, deadlocking the game at 7-7.

The annual Exchange Club Banquet held at the end of the season gave recognition to the commendable efforts of the team. Jerry Zerfass and Ernie Schoeneberger received outstanding back and lineman awards.

Disappointed, Rod Apple recalls the score.

In loop competition, the soccer team finished with a 9-1-2 log to gain the Eastern Scholastic League Championship for the sixth straight year. The Red and Blue, massing 32 points, sent four times as many balls into the net as its opponents.

Under Coach Mike Bounassi's tutelage the booters had been invincible for 61 games. Both at home and away they posted powerful victories, one occurring in the only night game, while the meetings with Fountain Hill and Easton resulted in stalemates. Ironically, their first defeat came in the final tilt of the campaign when history repeated itself—in 1957, when the Hurricanes last dropped a contest, it was also to Palisades, by the identical 1-0 count, on the same date, October 29.

Dust flies as Jim Grant helps Kirk Melloy gain control of the ball.

Don Kilpatrick attempts to head in a goal.

COACH HARKINS ENDS CAREER WITH VICTORIOUS SEASON

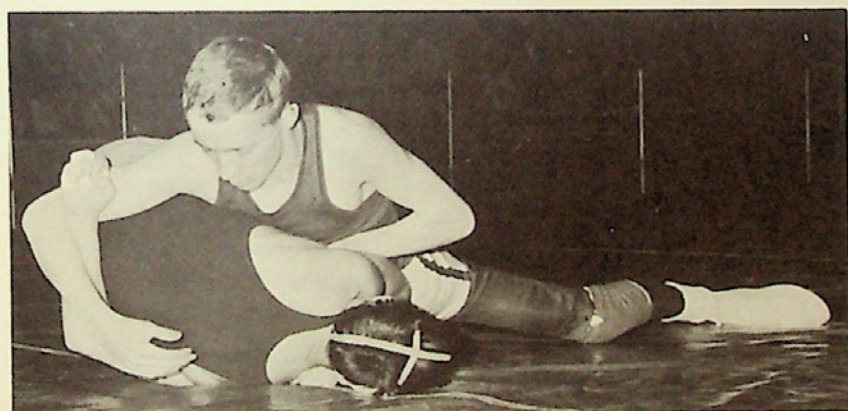

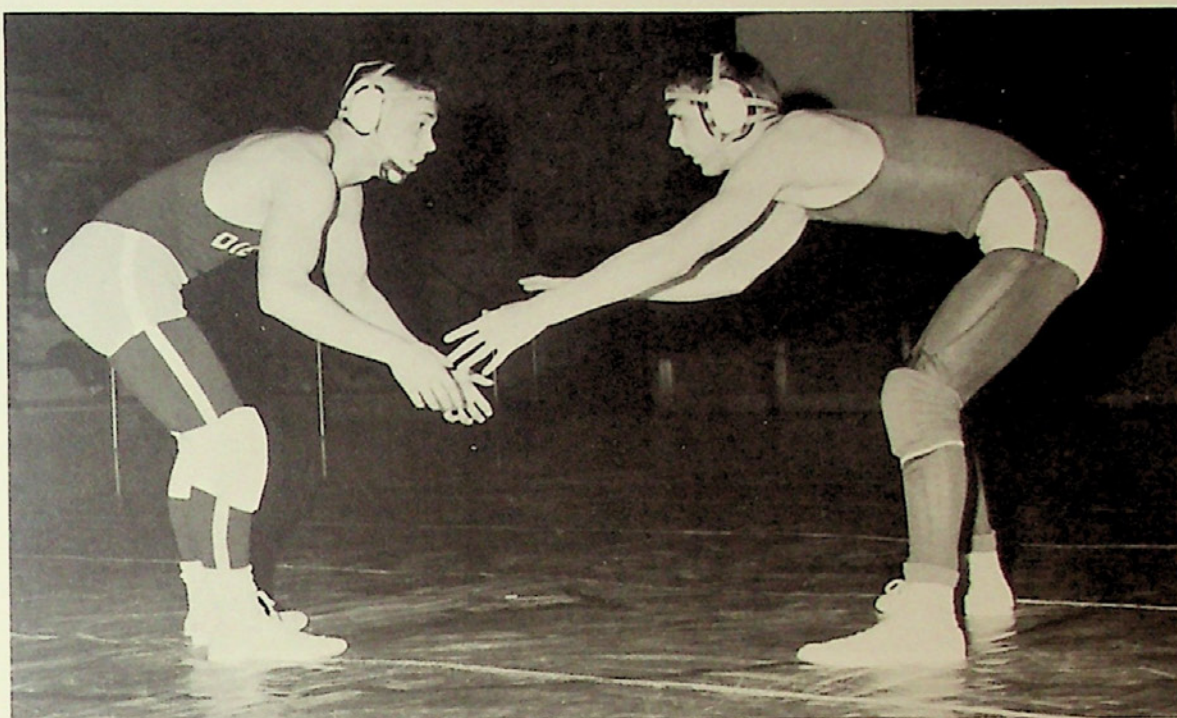

Under the supervision of Mr. James Harkins, the wrestlers completed action in the East Penn Scholastic League with seven victories against two defeats. They also experienced a close loss at the hands of their only non-league opponent, The Hill School. Remaining undefeated throughout the schedule, Chuck Comegys (10-0) and Ernie Schoeneberger (9-0) registered 44 and 38 points, respectively, in individual bouts.

In post season competition, Ernie Schoeneberger became District XI and Regional heavyweight champion for which he received a Jasper.

After sixteen years as mentor of the L.H.S. grapplers, retiring Coach Harkins closed his files with 126 wins, 41 losses, and 2 ties.

TWO MERMEN BREAK TEN RECORDS

John Thoder: forward somersault in pike position: degree of difficulty 1.4.

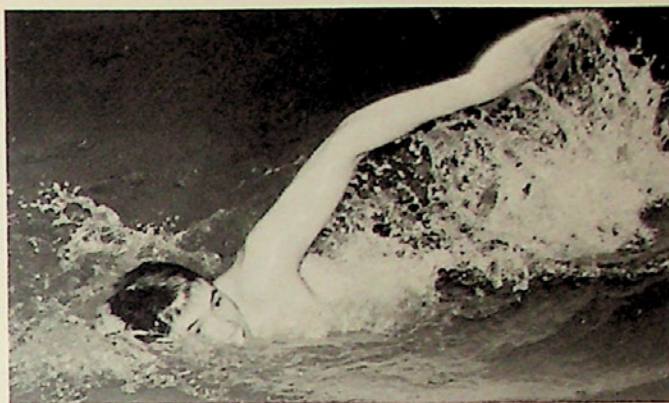

The Liberty High Mermen, coached by Mr. Ted Martz, finished the 1964 swimming season with an even record of five wins and five losses. John Biggs broke seven records and Bill Hitchings broke three as they placed first in their respective events. Biggs also placed first in the District XI competition as he set a record of 2:02.9 for the 100-yard freestyle.

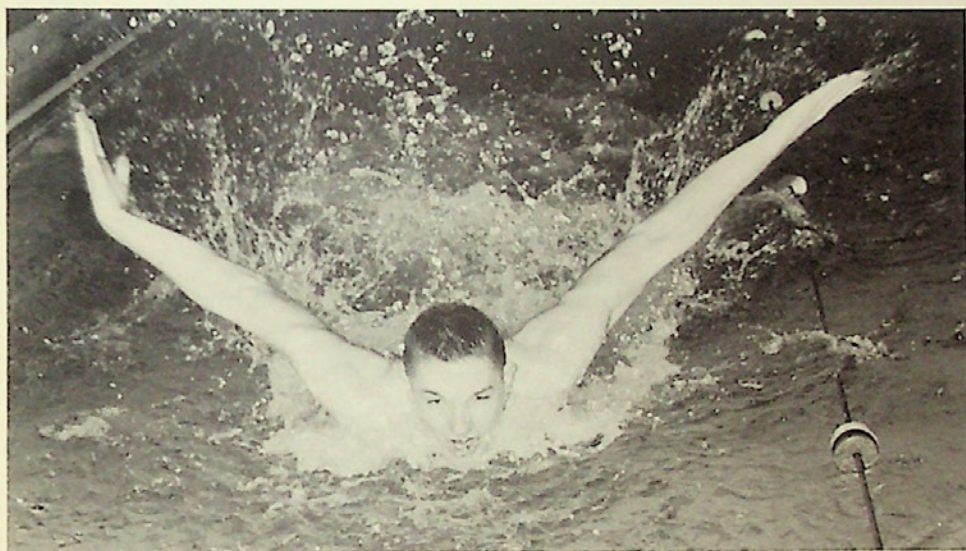

As a result of their superior performances in the P.I.A.A. Regional meet, John Thoder, finishing fifth in the diving event, and John Biggs, sixth in the 100-yard freestyle, qualified for the State Finals.

HOOPSTERS END TRYING SCHEDULE

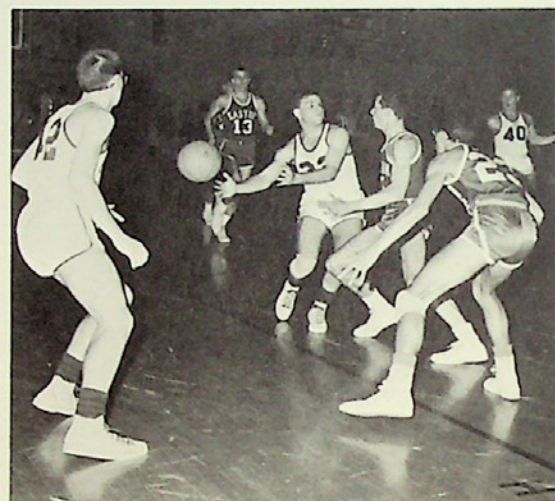

Concentrating their efforts on rebuilding the team, the 1964 basketball squad logged a 12-10 record. In exhibition tourneys, the team dropped the majority of their engagements, but in loop tilts improved with experience to close league competition with 10 wins against 6 losses. Highscorers Dave Bednarik and Greg Zebrowski, garnering 428 and 206 points respectively, paced the hoopsters.

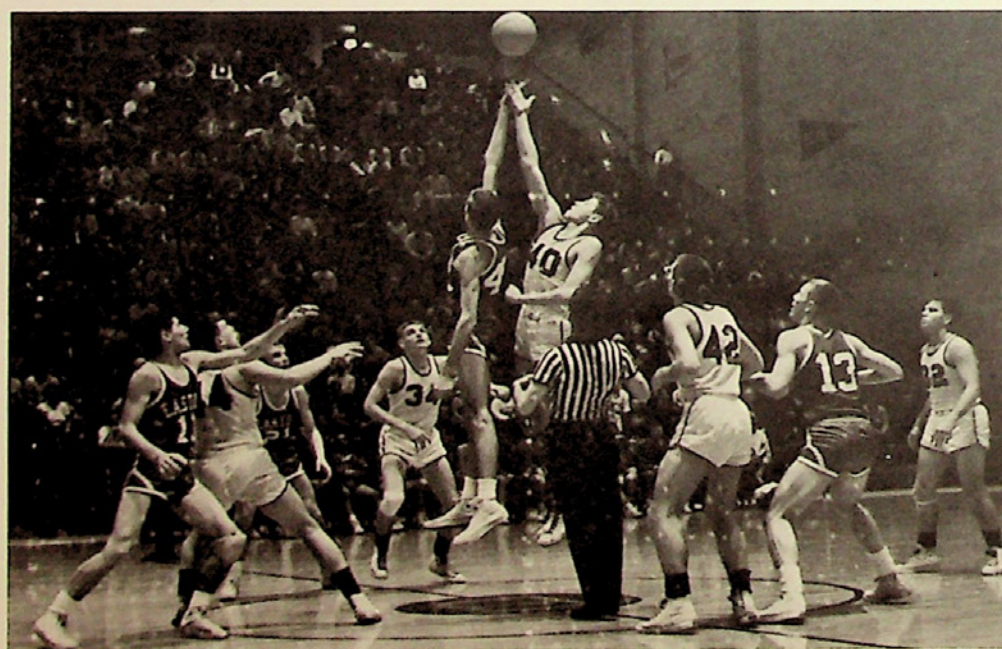

Using a soft shot, Greg Zebrowski aims for two points.

Despite a tight defense, Jack Wolfe gets through for a shot.

Awaiting outcome of the first tap, both teams station themselves in strategic positions.

Undefeated in three previous seasons, the Hurricane tennis team blitzed Emmaus in its final match to clinch another Lehigh Valley Interscholastic Tennis League Crown and conclude four seasons with a remarkable 51-0-1 record.

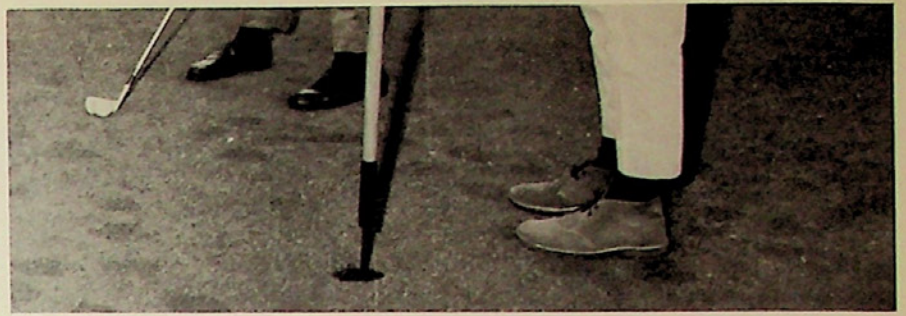

Major victories over Reading and Easton were highlights in the competition of Coach Anthony Donchez's netmen.

Bill Boak, Stan Chickey, and Joe Csandli represented Bethlehem in the District XI playoffs at Easton, but were unsuccessful in their attempts.

Stan Chickey gets set for an accurate return.

As a first year member of the Lehigh Valley Interscholastic Golf League, Liberty High's undefeated golf team copped the league crown. The area golfers trimmed Allen for their final encounter and finished the season with a 8-0 slate.

Coach Harold Bilheimer's five returning lettermen contributed to the Hurricane's unmarred record.

Individual records were prominent during the course of the season. Dave Bartholomew shattered the all-time league record with a par 70, two better than the previous mark.

The 1963 Bethlehem baseball club, competing in the East Penn League, turned in a slate of 10 wins against 4 setbacks for the season. The Hurricanes opened their campaign by smashing Hellertown-Lower Saucon, 9-0, in the only non-league contest.

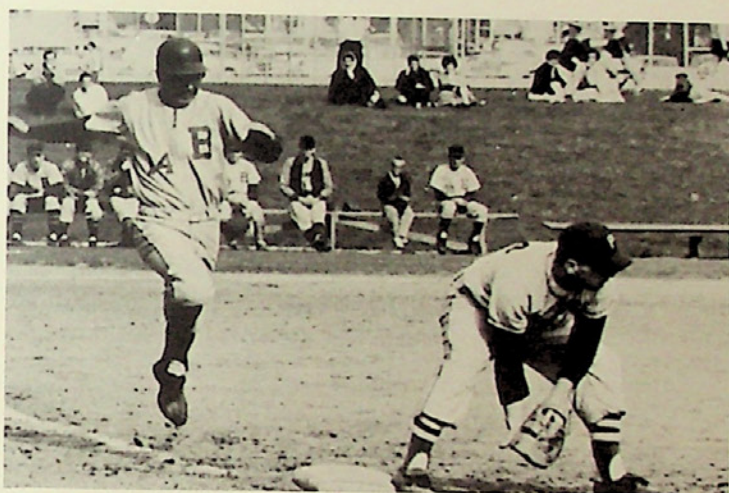

Right-hander Frank Matla and John Wyckoff, a southpaw, contributed strength on the mound, while Ed Ritz and George Pitsilos raised the team's batting average.

Stressing the importance of skill both offensively and defensively, Coach Bernie Fritz directed the squad to a final record worthy of praise.

Coach John Hudak's turfsters posted six overwhelming victories and one loss to close the 1963 season with an impressive .857 average. The team captured second place in the newly-formed East Penn Track League. The trackmen also gained second positions in the J. C. Relays and in the District XI meet.

High jumper Gene Moore, undefeated in both duel and district competition, set a new record for the Emery Relays when he cleared 6'2 $\frac{3}{4}$ ". He then tied for third at the State tilt.

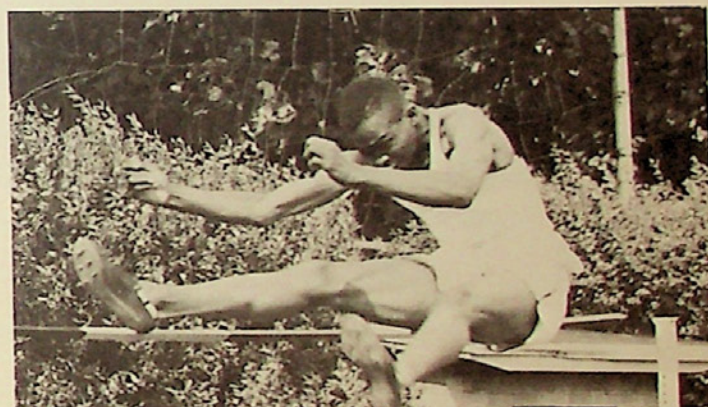

Tom Rachiele hurdles ahead of his Dieruff opponent.

With an air of determination, Joe Bowker puts

MERMAIDS IN THE NEWS

After several preliminary practices, the Mermaids chose twenty-five new "gup-pies" to join the fish bowl. Together they presented the annual aquacade, a synchronized swimming demonstration, this year portraying the pages of a daily newspaper.

Before the "Waterlogue" debut, the girls spent many tedious hours polishing basic skills and numbers used in the show. The highlight of the program was a solo swim by President Susan Cliff.

DETERMINED SKIRTED HOOPSTERS

IMPROVE STATUS

Undertaking her first coaching assignment, Miss Diane Reed, health and physical education instructor, guided the Liberty Lassies to a commendable record of seven wins and three losses. Although the season was not perfect, a 48-46 victory over previously undefeated Central Catholic showed the team's improvement. Daily practices, which included rugged scrimmaging, foul-shooting, and perfecting plays, developed the ability of the team.

Fran Bentkowski and Ruth Hartman were the scoring leaders throughout the season, with 151 and 108 points respectively. Dolores Basanta, Landa Pacini, and Penny Shaton saw considerable action as guards.

INTRAMURAL COMPETITION DEVELOPS SPORTSMANSHIP

When the dismissal bell signaled the end of the school day at Liberty, it marked, for many athletic and energetic girls, the beginning of the intramural sports program. A desire to participate and the keen rivalry among friends aroused excitement as the girls competed in hockey, bowling, basketball, and volleyball. At the close of the season, recognition was given to each winning team and its captain. Girls, who, through their effort and ability had achieved 350 points, received intramural sports sweaters.

Captain Linda Kemmerer gives sound advice to the "Furies."

Hoping for a strike, Elaine Tulba concentrates on the 1-3 pocket.

After a vigorous volleyball game, Sandy Fluck records the final score.

HIGHLIGHTS

The Senior year is, in itself, a highlight. Because it is the last, all its events seem more special and more important. It is sparked with traditions and personal experiences. And each, in its own way, adds to the glow that surrounds the final year of high school.

VARIETIES OF '64

Master of Ceremonies, Judy Ladner, Bob Evancho, Steve Bavaria, and Marilyn Craul, review the script during dress rehearsal.

Bright lights, a stage, an audience—each ready for the curtain to rise on "Hoot-A-Rama", Liberty Life's "Varieties of '64." The entire production was under the direction of Mr. Anthony Donchez and tryouts had been open to any student who wished to participate. Mr. Ronald Sherry conducted the L.H.S. Stage Band which accompanied numbers throughout the show. It began with a dance, ended with a song, and brought an evening of entertainment to those who sat in the crowded auditorium.

Kicking high, the Jean Meixell Dancers practice for the opening number.

Pat McCole explains why she can't do the twist.

Harley Goodfellow, alias Craig Mertz, interviews Richard Price, a victim of a stagecoach holdup, in a skit from Jonathan Winters' Sketchbook.

Among the folk singing groups who performed were the Dorians: Scott Flammer, Dave Hardberger, Craig Boly, and Tom Fitzgibbon.

The "Cockroaches," Mike DeFrancisco, Gary Dologite, Dave Florey, and Dale Warner (missing), twist and shout.

Dancing to "By Heck", Carol Morgan recalls the "Gay Nineties."

Larry's ex-girlfriend, Grace, glances unbelievably at "The Boy" as she leaves with her fiancé, Bud.

Larry Benson had been missing in action during World War II for three years. When the Bensons had given up hope that he would ever come home, they received the astonishing news of his return. Sam Benson, separated from his wife, Freda, during the past year, rejoined his family as soon as he learned of his son's homecoming.

The moment of Larry's arrival was not, however, accompanied by the happiness they had anticipated. The Larry who greeted them at the door was not the boy whom they had waited so long to welcome home.

Our Junior Class Play, the "Death and Life of Larry Benson" by Reginald Rose, directed by Mrs. Elma Bachman, portrayed the effects of this stranger's entrance into the life of the Benson family. While Jessie, Larry's sister, was only bewildered and concerned, Mr. Benson became infuriated that he should come home to receive his son and find this intruder in Larry's place.

Freda Benson realized first that "The Boy" differed from her son only physically, for Larry's personality was alive within the stranger. Finally, after Mr. Benson was convinced that they should befriend him, all three resolved to work together and help "The Boy" find himself again.

A local busy-body, Mrs. Potter, rejoices with Freda over Larry's return.

Mrs. Benson gasps in horror as her angered husband attempts to strike the impostor.

Despite the objections of Jonathan Forbes, Jan's ex-suitor, a congenial policeman does nothing to stop Brad from stealing Jan away.

Alma, Jan's maid, doesn't understand a client's taste in modern art.

Brad composed "our song" for Yvette . . .

and Eileen . . .

and any other girl with an appreciation for music.

Jan Morrow's interior decorating business, conducted from her New York apartment, required the constant use of her telephone. Thus, her anger mounted with each succeeding day that Brad Allen, a singing Romeo, tied up the party line.

When Jan finally lodged a complaint with the telephone company, Brad paid little attention. He assumed that she was disturbed only because neither he, nor anyone else, ever sang "our song" over the wires to her.

Later, through a mutual friend, Brad learned that Jan was an attractive young woman whose number he might like to enter in his "little black book." Realizing how much she detested the mere mention of Brad Allen, he assumed the name and character of sweet, honorable Rex Stetson from Texas and proceeded to set a trap.

His plan was successful, but as Jan fell into the snare, she pulled Brad after her; and he discovered that he, too, was in love. Jan felt disillusioned by Brad's false identity but, eventually, she saw that Brad and Rex were not very different, and she was literally carried away by both.

Mrs. Bachman, director, and Barbara Braund, co-ordinator, pause during dress rehearsal to pose with Susan Cliff, publicity committee member; Charlene Hunter, assistant director; Susan Redline, publicity co-chairman; Deborah Scheid, assistant director; and Patricia Kenny, poster art director.

We had no Roman garden; so, we created one, bordered by lofty white pillars arrayed with garlands of flowers. Even the rain could not dampen our spirits that evening, as we danced through the night under a blue and white crepe paper sky.

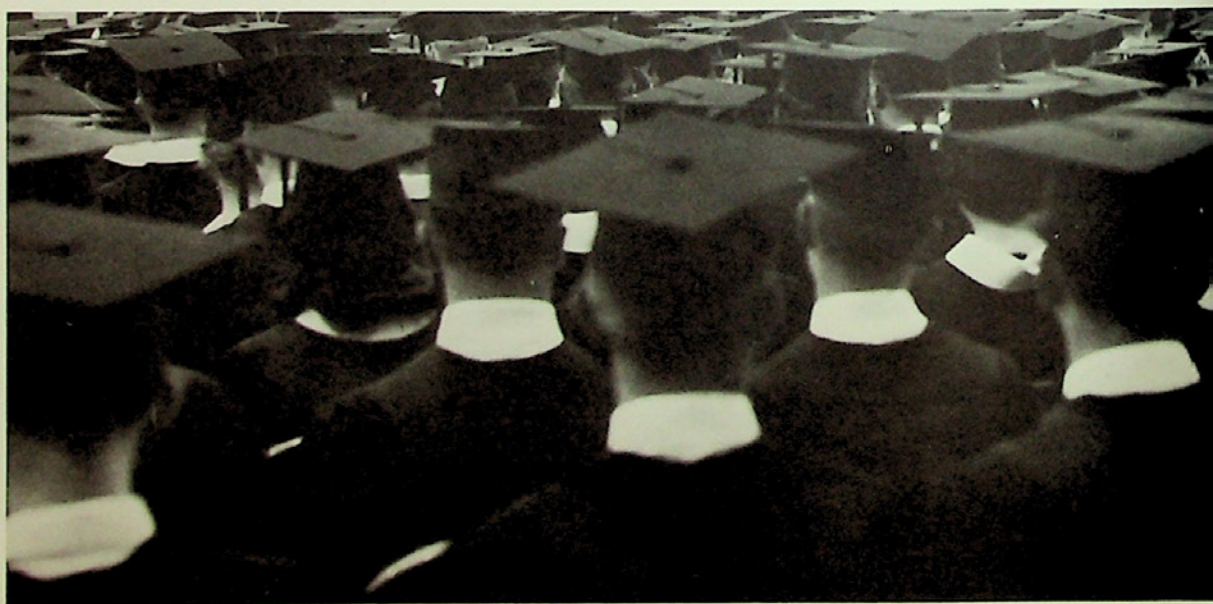

Mrs. Dorris Young and Mr. Louis Chiadis, class advisors.

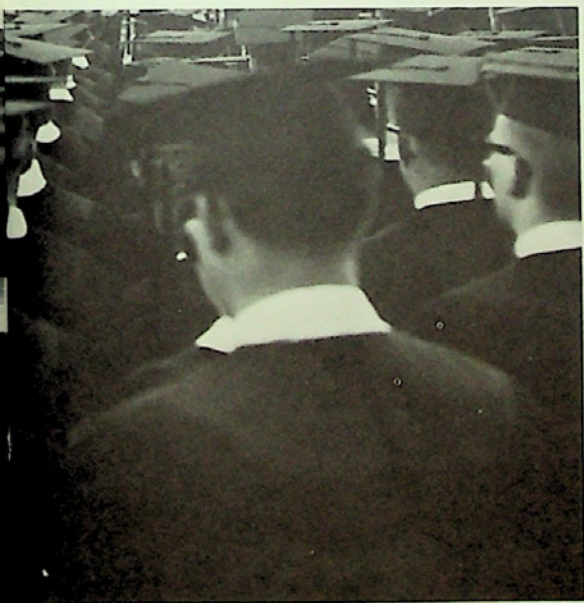

We have heard a teacher, studied a book, discovered a truth, spoken a word, taken a test, developed a thought, made a friend, won a smile, planned a future, given a gift, donned a cap, shed a tear, sung a song . . .

Are we ready to begin?

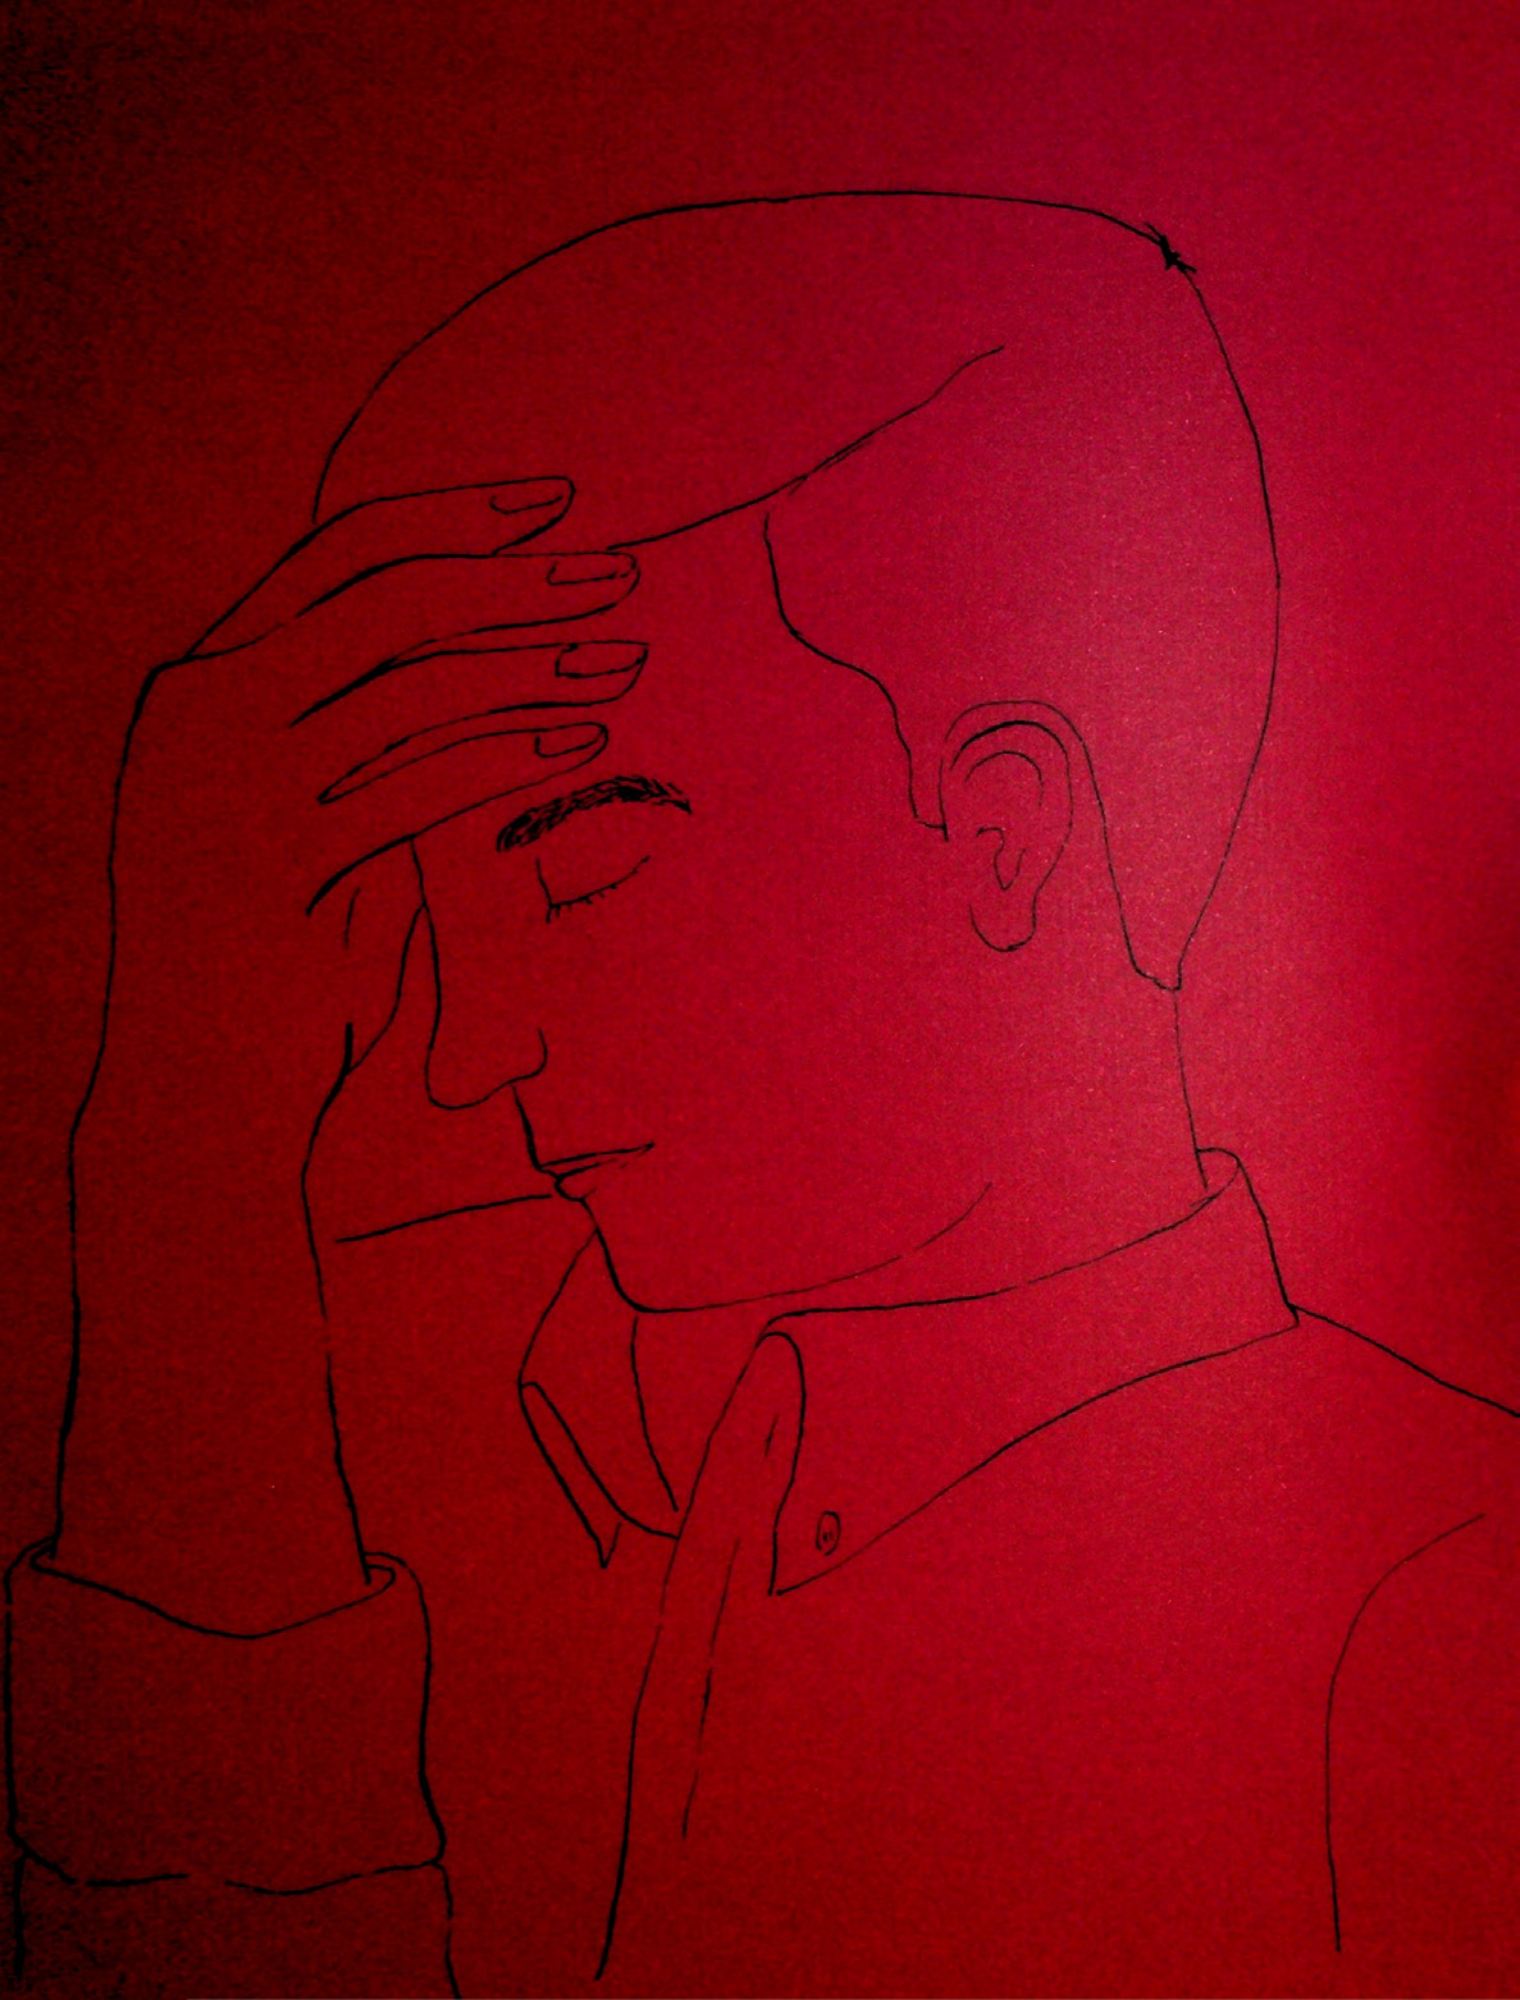

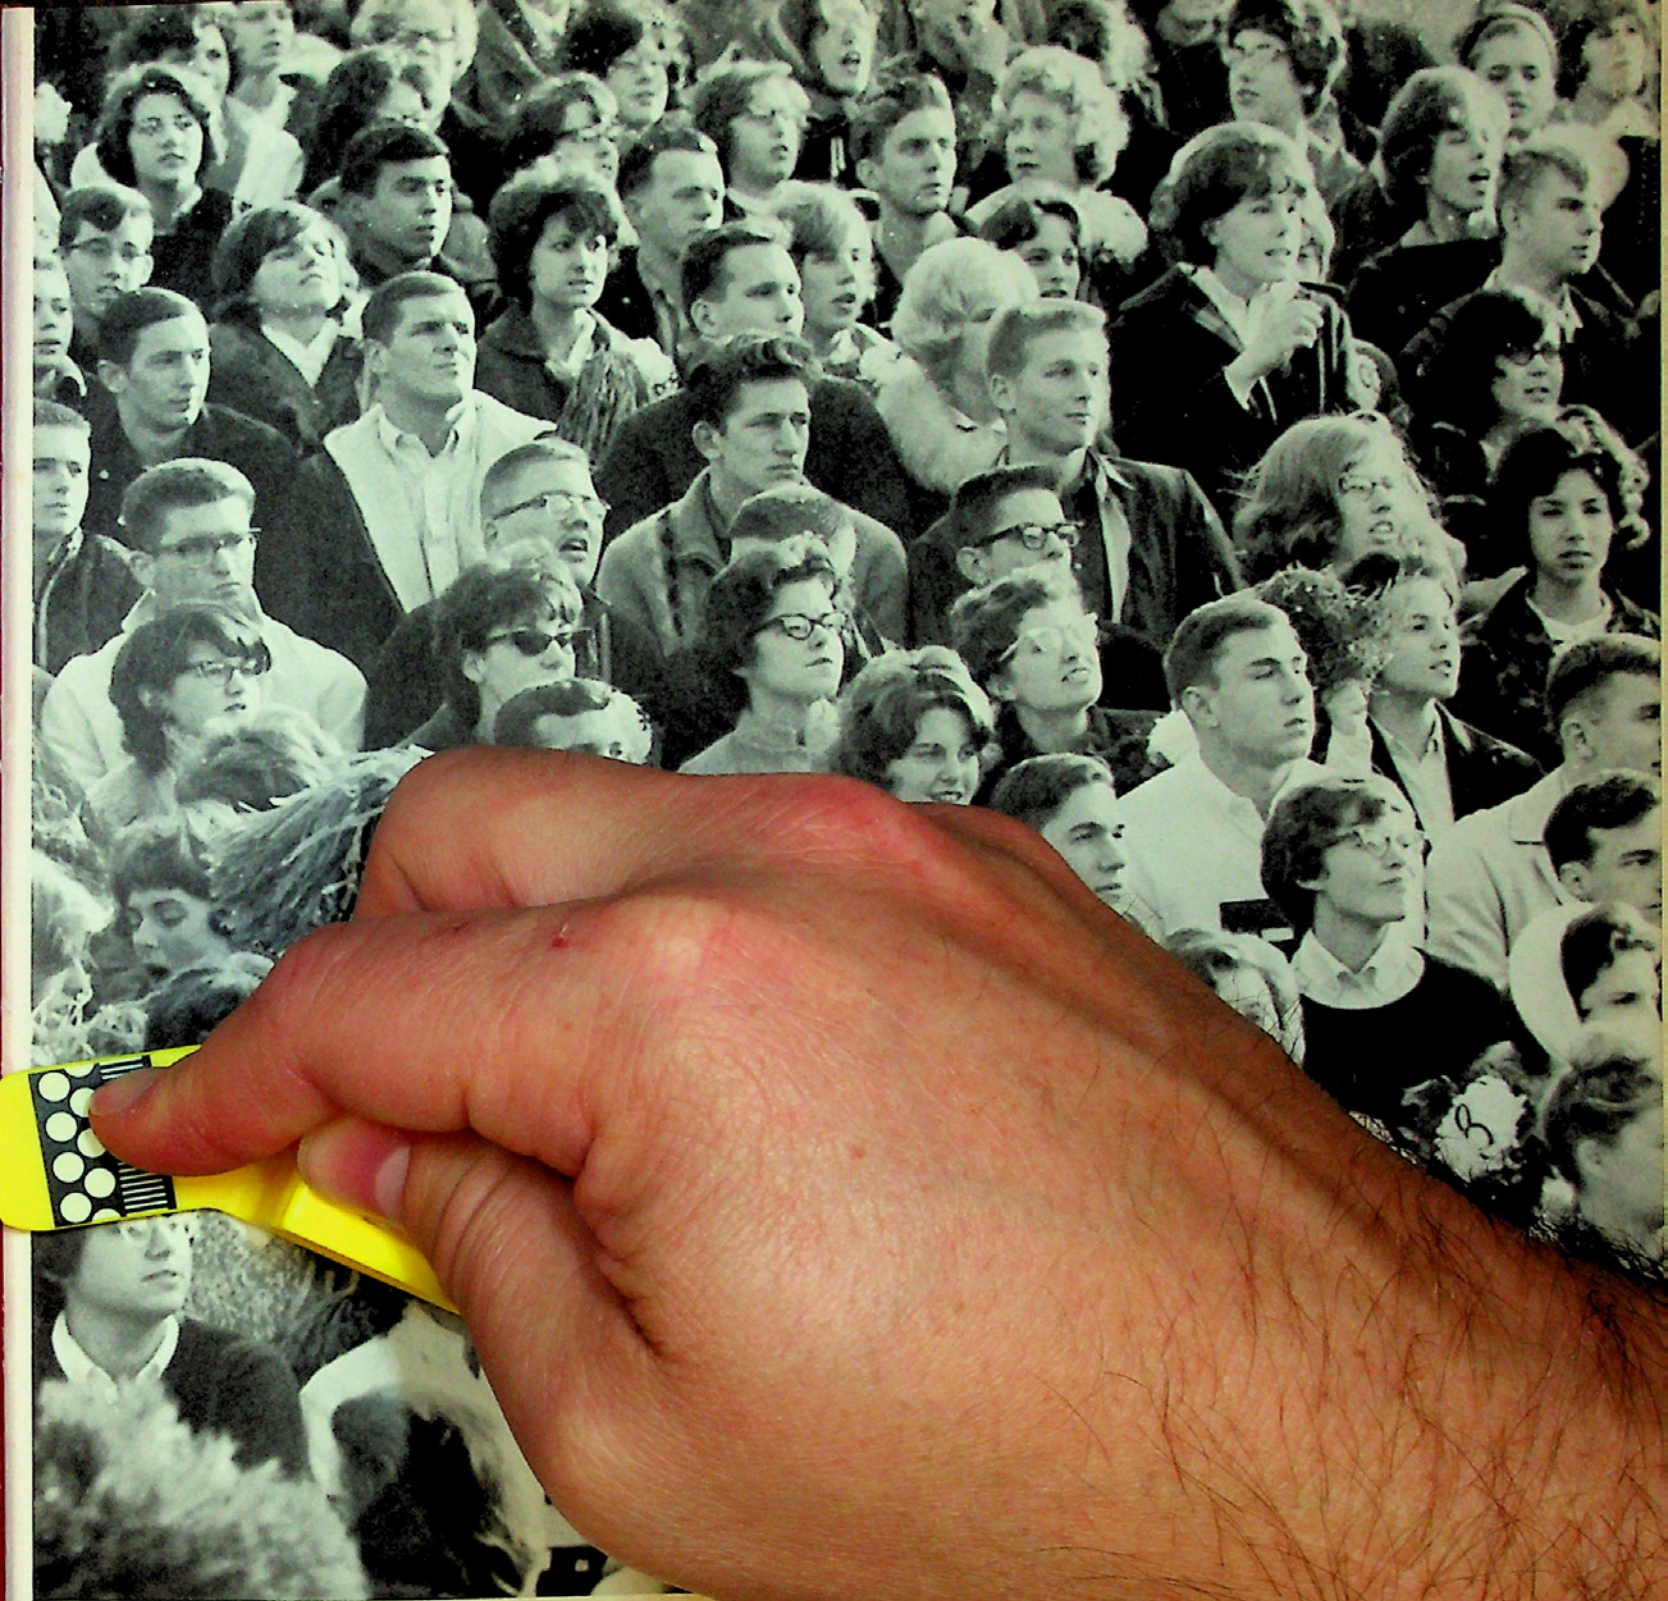

ALMA MATER

Hail to Alma Mater dear!
Where we've spent our high school years,
Now to Bethlehem High we raise
Voices to extol thy praise.
In thy stately halls we've spent
Hours with hearts and minds content,
Now to thee, dear Bethlehem High,
In our loyalty we cry:
Bethlehem High School, hail to thee!
Loyal sons and daughters we,
In the future as the past,
We'll be loyal to the last.

Hail the dear old Red and Blue!
To thy colors we'll be true.
As the star of Bethlehem shone,
So our love for thee has grown.
In the world where e'er we are,
Nothing shall thy honor mar.
Though the future years pass by,
This shall always be our cry:
Bethlehem High School, hail to thee!
Loyal sons and daughters we,
In the future as the past,
We'll be loyal to the last.
