Zoning officer needed ASAP

BY AMIT KAR
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Mayor Carolee Gifford began the Aug. 5 council meeting by thanking all who participated in the big Community Day celebration July 28, singling out the police for bringing additional joy along with the security.

Board President Leo Atkinson echoed her thanks and said it was encouraging to see the turnout of 200-300 people.

TCouncil announced the Donegan and Fountain Hill elementary schools will celebrate their recent major face-lifts with an open house block party for students and families Sept. 5, immediately after an open house.

Borough Manager Anthony Branco reported that the Borough Zoning Officer Albert Rohrbach is resigning his position effective Aug. 16. Councilors expressed their concerns about this loss and agreed that a replacement should be found ASAP.

All council members agreed to Atkinson's suggestion to award a commemorative plaque and certificate to Rohrbach for his dedicated service to the borough.

Borough resident Patrick Figueroa requested that the zoning officer position be increased from part-time to full-time, pointing out the importance and extent of work. Council member Helen Hallman's affirmation drew attention to dirty streets and sidewalks, particularly in the Northside.

Councilors agreed that the full-time position be advertised online for $49-$60 per hour. They opted to appoint Branco, who has relevant experience and certification, as interim zoning officer upon Rohrbach's departure.

A contentious discussion on formation of a Storm Water Authority followed. Five good candidates have been identified for membership.

The ceremony was permitted to be held despite an emergency situation involving a man who climbed the blast furnaces and remained there for 21 hours. The crisis was peacefully resolved.

'For better or worse'

July wedding is permitted to be held during emergency situation at ArtsQuest

BY SAMANTHA ANDERSON
sanderon@tnonline.com

Most of the Lehigh Valley was intently watching the news and social media July 12 after word spread that a man climbed the blast furnaces at SteelStacks in Bethlehem and was refusing to come down. Emergency personnel were on the scene attempting to talk the man down. He stayed up on the structure for approximately 21 hours and came down just before 4:30 p.m. July 13, ending the standoff without major incident.

Devin Hallquist and Michael Steele had another reason to pay attention to the ordeal. They were scheduled to be married July 13 at the ArtsQuest Center at SteelStacks. All of the other events to happen on the campus, including Sangriafest, a concert and Cars and Coffee, were canceled. However, Hallquist and Steele's wedding was permitted to go on - with some minor changes.

Hallquist grew up in Catasauqua and graduated from Catasauqua High School. She works as a special education teacher and was recently hired at Northampton Steele grew up in Slatington and graduated from Northern Lehigh HS. He works at his family business, Mr. Bill's Poultry, in the Allentown Farmers Market. The couple lives in Allentown.

According to Hallquist, who is in the process of changing her last name to Steele, they had their wedding rehearsal 5:30 p.m. July 12 at ArtsQuest and went to ZEST Bar and Grille after for the rehearsal dinner. It was during dinner that they heard about the incident. She said Steele received a text message from their ArtsQuest wedding coordinator 6 a.m. July 13. This message informed them the man was still up there and all events were canceled - except for their wedding.

"We were really excited for our wedding day and just ready to be married," Hallquist said. "We continued with our day and hoped that the situation would be resolved safely."

She noted the employees at ArtsQuest kept in contact with them all day to maintain communication and inform them of the security changes. They were told the first responders did not want to give the man, later identified as Jonathan David Wallace, of Mertztown, an audience, so they and their guests had to enter the ArtsQuest building through a service entrance behind the building that could not be seen from the blast furnaces.

They alerted their guests the event was still happening. Hallquist noted many assumed it was canceled, like the other ArtsQuest events, so they used social media sites to spread the word. Upon arriving, the guests simply informed security personnel they were there for the wedding.

St. Luke's Health Network Next Step target new moms

St. Luke's Next Step program, currently in its fourth session, targets new mothers and pregnant women ages 17 to 24 who live in Lehigh and Northampton counties, have a high school diploma or GED and are economically disadvantaged. The goal is to break the cycle of poverty with two six-month Next Step sessions per year for a total of up to 20 women training for entry-level health care careers.

Participants use assessment tools to determine their job interests. Mentored by St. Luke's staff, they receive 20 hours of work experience a week for jobs that include billing and unit clerks, outpatient registration, patient care assistant, receptionist and medical assistant; plus three hours a week of life skills and professional development in areas that include family planning, leadership and finances.

A $150,000 grant covers the cost of the Saturday professional development classes. The network picks up administrative expenses. Twenty-four out of the initial 30 women who started in the first three sessions completed the program.

Lehigh Valley Health Network System joins oncology network

Lehigh Valley Health Network is among five national health systems and the only one in the Lehigh Valley region joining the Strata Precision Oncology Network.

Strata Oncology includes routine tumor molecular profiling, rapid interpretation of test results and access to precision therapy trials. The program started July 12 at the Muhlenberg and Cedar Crest facilities, and is available to eligible Lehigh Valley Cancer Institute patients.

The test has an expanded gene panel, from 90 to 500 cancer genes, and includes analytical validation of 36 emerging gene expression biomarkers.

Commercial gene sequencing tests can cost patients as much as $5,000 in copays. LVHN will be able to offer Strata testing at no cost. For more information, visit www.strataoncology.com.

Hallquist and Steele, center, are joined by their wedding party, Julia Johnson, Jessica Kamensky, Mattie Hallquist, Matthew Johnson, Dylan Williams and Alex Hallquist.

ding and were shown the way. There were 130 guests in attendance.

The Hallquist/Steele wedding ceremony was scheduled 3 p.m. in the Musikfest Cafe on the third floor, followed by a cocktail hour and reception in the Blast Furnace Room on the second floor. Hallquist noted the only real changes were the modified entrance, drawn shades in the rooms and the inability to take photos outside at the stacks until after the situation was resolved.

"The staff at ArtsQuest is amazing and handled everything," Hallquist said.

She said they had been planning their wedding for six months and the staff at ArtsQuest helped make the event continue smoothly despite the emergency situation happening outside.

Hallquist noted that even though the shades were down, they could still see people moving around outside. She mentioned Wallace walked down one level during the vows then back up to the top.

"It was frightening for our guests to witness," she said.

Looking back on the day, Hallquist said she is just thankful everything was resolved peacefully. She said she feels for the man, who was in crisis enough to risk climbing the stacks. After coming down, Wallace was sent to St. Luke's Hospital, Fountain Hill, for treatment. He has since been charged with risking a catastrophe, reckless endangerment and defiant trespass, according to online court records.

"It is weird having the best day of your life when someone else is having the worst day of theirs," Hallquist said.

She was thankful to the emergency crews and law enforcement personnel, who resolved the situation safely and allowed them to have their wedding.

"I think everyone prepares for a disaster to happen on their wedding day," Hallquist said. "Typically, it is that the flowers aren't perfect or people are running late. So, I was prepared for something to happen, but never would have imagined this. Mike and I were both calm and knew things were out of our control."

Council can exercise its right to terminate the Authority at any time. Otherwise it would run its duration of 20 years, with its membership following a rotational pattern. The meetings would be open to the public.

This would of course raise borough residents' taxes, although there would be rebate relief for any ecological efforts, e.g. planting trees, storm drainage facilities, etc. With 39 nonprofit organizations in the borough, levying a fee instead of tax would work better, as everyone would be required to pay.

Planning meetings for this new authority are still being organized.

Plans are also under way to reduce the borough's own part-time police force by using the state police to help finance the pension fund. The state police are expected to use some sliding scale to determine response times for various issues, e.g., a private mail-box damage, accident, homicide, etc. This will be discussed at he Sept. 3 open council meeting, attended by state police officers.

DA's victim/witness unit nets $700K grant

Lehigh County District Attorney Jim Martin has announced that his office's Victim/Witness Unit has received a $700,000 grant. The Rights and Service Act (RASA) grant, which is administered by the Pennsylvania Commission on Crime and Delinquency (PCCD) covers a period of two years and must be used for victim services.

The purpose of the grant is to assist victims and witnesses of adult and juvenile offenders whose cases are proceeding through the criminal and juvenile justice systems. This entails ensuring that victims receive the information and services they need in order for them to be able to understand and participate in that process. The Victim Witness Unit provides services to victims and witnesses in all crime types from homicide, domestic violence, assaults, DUI's, and sexual assaults as well as theft, property damage, and fraud.

The unit provides the following services:

- Providing documents that inform victims of their rights and provide them with case information and case status information

- Notifying victims of defendants' sentencing dates

- Keeping victims updated on appeals

- Notifying victims when parole is being considered

- Identifying services needed and working with individuals and agencies, including the courts, attorneys, counseling services, employers, schools and victims compensation

- Providing court accompaniment, which includes interviews with both child abuse victims and adults

- Assisting clients with restitution calculation and claims

- Helping victims to write victim impact statements

- Notifying victims of the availability of inmate release notification through the Pennsylvania Office of the Victim Advocate and Pennsylvania's Automated Victim Notification System

- Assisting victims navigate the post-sentence process in order to obtain restitution, parole information, and deal with questions related to civil court proceedings.

National Night Out Hanover (NORCO) Twp. Supporting first responders

BY NICHOLAS ROLLAND
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Cars, food, games and fun greeted Hanover Township residents for the National Night Out Aug. 6, presented by the Hanover Township Community Center and the Colonial Regional Police Department. The annual event is an opportunity for community members to meet first responders while developing and strengthening a positive relationship between law enforcement and the community.

The entrance of the township's community center campus was converted into a helicopter landing pad. The community center parking lot was transformed into a midway that included games, inflatables, and free food, and the grassy field next to the center was transformed into a stylish parking pad for a car show.

As eventgoers walked between the three main attractions at the event, everyone stopped to

National Night Out – Hellertown*Increasing safety awareness

BY MARK KIRLIN
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Hellertown and Lower Saucon held their annual National Night Out Aug. 6 at Dimmick Park in Hellertown. It was an opportunity for the community and first responders to come together in an effort to build relationships and increase awareness of crime and safety.

The family-friendly event included free food, music, demonstrations, activities and games for kids. Members of Hellertown and Lower Saucon Police departments along with Dewey, Lower Saucon Fire & Rescue and Steel City Fire Departments were on hand with the various vehicles they use.

One of the highlights of this year's event was an appearance by Silver the arson detection dog along with the city of Bethlehem's Detective/Deputy Fire Marshal Douglas Nothstein. Silver and Nothstein put on a demonstration for the attendees. Silver is one of only 10 dogs in and its purpose and mission.

CARS

In the main parking lot, where the games, inflatables and food were, police and firefighters met with children and their parents. Hanover Township had several police cars on hand, as well as a fire truck and an ambulance, all for demonstration purposes. First responders gave patrons insights into their duties, answered questions and posed for pictures with them.

Nearby, kids played in a bounce house while music filled the air. Hanover Township provided free hot dogs, ice cream and birch beer to all of the event's visitors on the main concourse.

In the field next to the community center, a third main attraction was getting a lot of attention: the township's annual car cruise and car show, which is a part of the copy of the magazine as well as the original owner's manual.

Next to Dendrin's car was George Nassif's 1974 Pontiac Grand Ville. Nassif, an attorney from Hanover Township, showed his car off with his two sons, Anthony and Lambrose. He bought the car in Las Vegas in 2009 and is motivated by his love of cars and his passion to have his kids experience cars the way he did. A few cars down, Tony Pangaio showed off his limited edition 2015 limited edition Ferrari 458 Speciale Aperta

(it is one of only 499 ever made ) and his Lamborghini Performante (it is one of only 177 ever made).

The event also included child seat safety checks and K-9 demonstrations by the Colonial Regional Police Department, and meet and greets with first responders and township management. It was a night everyone seemed to enjoy, with many attendees already talking about next year's National Night Out.

Tony Pangaio of Hanover Township displays his 2015 limited-edition Ferrari 458 Speciale Aperta. It is one of only 499 ever made.

Business owner?

Ask about our business savings rates.

Offers available in CT, DE, FL, NJ, NY, and PA. Portfolio by Wells Fargo® customers are eligible to receive an additional bonus interest rate on these accounts.<sup>3</sup>

1. To qualify for the advertised APY, you must enroll your new or existing Platinum Savings account in this offer between 07/08/2019 and 08/30/2019 by speaking to a banker and requesting the special rate. Offer is subject to change at any time, without notice, and is available only to Platinum Savings customers in the following states: CT, DE, FL, NJ, NY, PA. In order to earn the Special Interest Rate of 1.98% (Special Rate), you must deposit $25,000 in new money to the enrolled savings account and maintain a minimum daily account balance of $25,000 throughout the promotional interest rate period. "New money" is money from sources outside of the customer's current relationship with Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. or its affiliates (which includes all deposit, brokerage and loan/credit accounts). The corresponding Annual Percentage Yield (APY) for this offer is 2.00%. The Special Rate will be applied to the enrolled savings account for a period of 12 months, starting on the date the account is enrolled in the offer. However, for any day during that 12 month period that the daily account balance is less than the $25,000, the enrolled account will not be eligible for the Special Rate and will instead earn the applicable Standard Interest Rate for a Platinum Savings account. As of 05/31/2019, the Standard Interest Rate and APY for a Platinum Savings account in CT, FL, NJ and NY with an account balance of $0.01 and above is 0.05% (0.05% APY); and for a Platinum Savings account in DE and PA with an account balance of $0.01 to $99,999.99 is 0.05% (0.05% APY) and with an account balance of $100,000 and above is 0.10% (0.10% APY). Each tier shown reflects the current minimum daily collected balance required to obtain the applicable APY. Interest is compounded daily and paid monthly. The amount of interest earned is based on the daily collected balances in the account. Upon the expiration of the 12 month promotional period, then-current Standard Interest Rates apply. Minimum to open a Platinum Savings account is $25. A monthly service fee of $12 applies in any month the account falls below a $3,500 minimum daily balance. Fees may reduce earnings. Interest rates are variable and subject to change without notice. Wells Fargo may limit the amount you deposit to a Platinum Savings account to an aggregate of $1 million. 2. Available in-branch only; you must speak with a banker to request the special rate. Annual Percentage Yield (APY) is effective for accounts opened between 07/08/2019 and 08/30/2019 and requires a minimum of $25,000 in new money brought to Wells Fargo. "New money" is money from sources outside of the customer's current relationship with Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. or its affiliates (which includes deposit, brokerage and loan/credit accounts). Public Funds and Wholesale accounts are not eligible for this offer. APY assumes interest remains on deposit until maturity. Interest is compounded daily. Payment of interest on CDs is based on term: For terms less than 12 months (365 days), interest may be paid monthly, quarterly, semi-annually, or at maturity (the end of the term). For terms of 12 months or more, interest may be paid monthly, quarterly, semi-annually, or annually. A penalty for early withdrawal will be imposed and could reduce earnings on this account. Special Rates are applicable to the initial term of the CD only. At maturity, the special rate CD will automatically renew for a term of 6 months, at the interest rate and APY in effect for CDs on renewal date not subject to a Special Rate, unless the Bank has notified you otherwise. 1., 2. Due to the new money requirement, new accounts may only be opened at your local branch and you must speak to a banker to request the special rate offers for both new and existing accounts. Wells Fargo reserves the right to modify or discontinue the offer at any time without notice. Minimum new money deposit requirement of at least $25,000 is for this offer only and cannot be transferred to another account to qualify for any other consumer deposit offer. If you wish to take advantage of another consumer deposit offer requiring a minimum new money deposit, you will be required to do so with another new money deposit as stated in the offer requirements and qualifications. Offer cannot be: • Combined with any other consumer deposit offer. • Reproduced, purchased, sold, transferred, or traded. 3. The Portfolio by Wells Fargo program has a $30 monthly service fee, which can be avoided when you have one of the following qualifying balances: $25,000 or more in qualifying linked bank deposit accounts (checking, savings, CDs, FDIC-insured IRAs) or $50,000 or more in any combination of qualifying linked banking, brokerage (available through Wells Fargo Advisors, LLC) and credit balances (including 10% of mortgage balances, certain mortgages not eligible). If the Portfolio by Wells Fargo relationship is terminated, the bonus interest rate on all eligible savings accounts, and discounts or fee waivers on other products and services, will discontinue and revert to the Bank's then-current applicable standard interest rate or fee. For bonus interest rates on time accounts, this change will occur upon renewal. If the Portfolio by Wells Fargo relationship is terminated, the remaining unlinked Wells Fargo Portfolio Checking or Wells Fargo Prime Checking account will be converted to another checking product or closed.

Junior council member Noah Kates is spearheading a campaign to beautify the I-78 entrance/exit for Hellertown. The Hellertown I-78 Tree Project will enhance the appearance of this currently vacant space by planting trees and shrubs. Additionally, a plaque displaying the names of all contributors will be placed in this space located directly across from Wendy's in Hellertown. Donors have the opportunity to be "part of Hellertown history," according to their Gofundme page.

Heintzelman also discussed several community topics during the council meeting. There will be a crimewatch meeting Aug. 27 at 7 p.m. This will be held at 950 Front St. All community members are invited and encouraged to attend.

The 2019 Saucon Valley Spirit Parade is scheduled for Oct. 20. Sponsorship opportunities are available for $500. Donations of any type will be accepted and appreciated. Applications for participation in the parade are available on the Saucon Valley Spirit Parade Facebook page.

The Water Street bridge project is still in progress. PennDOT plans to add to the existing project by repairing a damaged retaining wall. This additional work will be conducted during the month of September or October. Local businesses at W. Water Street are still open throughout the project.

Existing road work at Main and Walnut streets is likely to cause traffic delays once the school year begins. The project was initially expected to be completed by Aug. 15, but is now scheduled to continue into the school year. To reduce delays, the Police Department requested funding from PennDOT to have an officer present at the intersection to control the light.

The request for additional funding was denied by PennDOT. "We as council and staff have tried to reach out to them to make a better transition," said Police Chief Robert Shupp.

Shupp also reminds residents to lock their vehicles to prevent theft. Several vehicle thefts and break-ins were reported recently in the Lower Saucon area. "Don't leave keys in the ignition overnight, don't leave your keys in the console. Make sure you lock your doors." Regarding the previous vehicle break-ins and thefts, he said, "They were not forcibly opened if the doors were locked, it was just more of an opportunity."

Martin Tower commemorative bricks available for sale

Thousands of people traveled from all over to see the implosion of Martin Tower, the historic former headquarters of Bethlehem Steel Corp. in May. Now you can own a piece of the landmark building in the form of a commemorative brick from the National Museum of Industrial History.

Retrieved from the tower after the implosion, the bricks were part of the loading dock and parking deck structure on the ground floor of the building. Volunteers and museum staff worked to load the bricks and bring them to the museum in July, securing a way for current and future generations to own a piece of history.

"This is a unique opportunity to own a small part of one of the most historic events to occur in the Lehigh Valley in some time," said Kara Mohsinger, president and CEO of the museum.

The bricks include a commemorative plaque and will cost $25 each. One hundred percent of the proceeds will go to the museum, helping to pay for educational programs and future exhibits. Bricks can be purchased online at <http://nmih.org/martintower> or at the museum.

Due to an already high interest, the museum may take names and payments for brick reservations before the full allotment is prepared with the commemorative plaques. Please contact the museum for immediate availability and reservation questions by calling Deedee Riffle, coordinator of visitor experiences and events coordinator, at 610-694-6637.

After winning a NORCO Legion championship and going 22-5 in the regular season, the Wanderers' season came to an end against Norchester in the Region 2 tournament.

‘Season for the Ages’

Head coach Dwight Pulieri said the 2019 championship season was for ‘all the Wanderers past and present’

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

The Wanderers' season came to a close in the Region 2 tournament, but it didn't take away from the type of campaign the team experienced over the summer.

The NORCO champs fell to Berks champ Norchester 7-1 to end their run in the tournament, going 2-2 in the double elimination format. Norchester scored six runs in the top of the eighth inning to pull away for the win.

For Wanderers head coach Dwight Pulieri, the season was a success after a 22-5 finish that saw his team win the league title.

"This was a season and a team for the ages," Pulieri said. "The championship series with Northampton was an amazing and unbelievably competitive series with all three games decided by one run. It was baseball at it's best by both teams. As far as regionals are concerned, it was a great experience for our guys and we were on par with every team there."

Both of the Wanderers' losses in the regional bracket came to Norchester in extra innings, which proved to be the team's kryptonite.

"Andre Ledee pitched a great game the second time against Norchester and if we had taken advantage of our opportunities in that game it would never have gone to extra innings," Pulieri said. "He deserved a better fate."

Now Pulieri hopes his team can pull an encore for next season, but he also recognized how much this year's championship meant to the program.

"Becoming the 2019 champs was for all the Wanderers, past and present, who have come through our program," he said. "We've been like a family throughout the years. The feeling and the happiness that this championship brought our players was well worth the wait. They deserved it and they earned it. Like I mentioned before a season for the ages."

SUMMER BASKETBALL

Freedom basketball wins first Summer Jam

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Freedom has a knack at winning titles in the summer. Head coach Joe Stellato hopes that can translate to championship aspirations in the winter.

The Patriots won the first annual Lehigh

Valley Summer Slam last weekend at Dieruff, knocking off the Huskies 62-55 in the final.

Malek and Caleb Mims combined for 36 points in the championship game to lift the Patriots to the title.

"We had so many guys contribute," said Stellato. "Malek and Caleb brought the energy and excitement on both sides of the floor and the rest of the guys played their roles perfectly. What is great with this team, including the Mims, is that they don't care who scores, who gets the credit, and whose name is in the headlines. What this team cares about is playing defense and winning games. That makes it a fun group to coach. They have really bought into the team aspect and play together. You can't ask for anything more."

Last weekend's event was the first time Freedom had their entire team together during the summer and proved that they will be a team to contend with when winter rolls around.

"What was different about this win was that we had are entire team show up and bring a lot of energy for the tournament," Stellato said. "It felt like a middle of

BLUE MOUNTAIN LEAGUE

Aungst, Giants even series

BY TODD KRESS
tkress@ttonline.com

Northampton pitcher Justin Aungst took a few steps off the mound toward the Giants dugout in the fourth inning, having thought a called third strike was coming from the home plate umpire. Instead, the former Salisbury ace had to walk back up the dirt after a called ball.

Limeport's Damin Muth singled on the next pitch to bring home the Bulls' first run of the game, leaving Aungst visibly upset.

But he didn't let that adversity affect him. Aungst got Pat Rhoads to pop out to end the Bulls' threat in the frame. He would only look stronger as the game progressed. Aungst, a Salisbury High School graduate who will return to his alma mater as head coach in spring, finished with a complete-game five-hitter as Northampton evened up the Blue Mountain League championship series at a game apiece with a 3-2 win on Sunday night at Limeport Stadium.

"I felt good the whole way," Aungst said. "I had command of my fastball really, and then my off-speed stuff played off the fastball. I threw the change-up well. The slider I kept up a little bit and that hurt me."

Muth's single, which scored Mott Dobeck from second base, cut Northampton's lead to 2-1. The Giants took an early 2-0 lead in the second inning on a clutch RBI double from Jake Wandler that scored Brady Mengel. Nathan Kester also scored on a groundout in the frame.

"I knew I hit it well, but this is a deep park," Wandler said. "He [Limeport pitcher Jarred Schaffer] throws a lot of off-speed stuff, so I was just trying to sit back on the ball and put good wood on it."

Northampton added a run to its lead in the fifth inning. After Ian Luberti, C.J. Gantz and Jake Wloczewski all singled to load the bases, a walk from Steven Sucloski put the Giants in front, 3-2.

Limeport got that run back in the bottom half of the frame, however, on an RBI-single from Andrew DeCew.

"It's always tough to play here in front of these guys," Aungst said. "But we got the home field advantage back, and we're even through two. We have three more left. Hopefully we don't need them, but we have two home games left if needed."

The Giants loaded the bases once again in the sixth inning with just one out, but this time could not bring any more runs across home plate for Aungst. The defense, luckily, helped neutralize the Bulls' opportunities with three inning-ending double plays.

"We had a lot of chances," said Aungst, who played college baseball at St. Joe's University. "We had the bases loaded how many times? It took a walk to get that run in. We just have to execute a little better when they give us opportunities. But we hit all throughout the year, so I'm not worried about it."

the season league game. That is how my players played it. Not like it was an outside pickup game like some of the summer games can be.

David Barnes, Samir Georges, and Nick Ellis played great and showed me that they can handle the varsity level. Frank Falco really stood out in hitting huge shots all weekend. Malik Mims was MVP of the tournament and really showcased his talents. Caleb Mims was consistent as always and the other guards came in played their roles."

Winning breeds confidence and the Pates hope they can take that momentum further in the offseason.

"Winning shows these kids that we are building off of the great season we had last year," Stellato said, "and that we do not need to look back on who we lost as seniors, but move forward and have this group of players step up."

Then we went to red. They lasted two seasons. Then we switched to white for one season. And that's after buying pine bark mulch and gathering pine needles to add to the ground to make it more acidic as advised on websites and in books. But to no avail. They all died. And we love azaleas.

SPEED FREAKS

A few questions we had to ask ourselves

Is it still Penske-Gibbs, or is Harvick now a championship contender?

GODSPEAK: Ford runs strong at Michigan. One race doesn't tell the story. Stay focused on the Penske-Gibbs battle.

KEN'S CALL: It'll still come down to the Penske and Gibbs drivers. Kevin might win another race, but Stewart-Haas isn't title timber right now.

Is that a fork sticking in Jimmie's ribs?

GODSPEAK: I'm calling it right now. The JJ Era is over. "Seven Time" is done. Call in the dogs and put out the fire.

KEN'S CALL: That clanker at Michigan did him no favors. But his fellow Bubble Boys are also capable of clankers, so keep hope alive.

FEUD OF THE WEEK

JIMMIE JOHNSON VS. RYAN BLANEY, II:

Blaney and Johnson got tangled up at Watkins Glen, and both carried the grudge match through Michigan, where they continued their verbal battle.

GODWIN KELLY'S TAKE: "I have nothing to apologize about," Blaney said. "He came down on me. I have a lot of respect — or had a lot of respect — for Jimmie." Folks, this isn't over.

GODWIN'S PICKS FOR BRISTOL

WINNER: Kyle Busch

REST OF TOP 5: Kurt Busch, Joey Logano, Kevin Harvick, Erik Jones

FIRST ONE OUT: Ty Dillon

DARK HORSE: Chris Buescher
DON'T BE SURPRISED IF: The Busch brothers have won the past four races at Bristol, but Kyle has three of those victories.

THREE THINGS TO WATCH

Clint Bowyer, over the next three races, hopes to still be in the NASCAR playoff picture. [AP/BUTCH DILL]

1. Bubble boys

With only three regular-season events left on the schedule, there is a four-driver battle on the mystical playoff bubble. Ryan Newman and Clint Bowyer are just above the cut line, while Daniel Suarez and Jimmie Johnson hope to claw their way back into the playoff picture. Suarez surged into the discussion after posting his third top-five finish of the season. Johnson is falling faster than a severed oak limb.

2. Good point

Clint Bowyer has now taken residence of 16th place in the points battle after crashing out of Michigan and finishing a dismal 37th. "We definitely need to find some things out," he said. "You can talk about the bubble and worrying about points but I am way more worried about getting established and running up front at these types of race tracks. If you make the playoffs and can't compete in it, then what is the use?"

3. What's in a name?

Most people call Bristol Motor Speedway's summer race simply the Bristol Night Race. But the actual name of Saturday's 500-lap run over the .533-mile oval is the Bass Pro Shops NRA Night Race. With that in mind, some older NASCAR competitors refer to Daytona's Coke Zero Sugar 400 as the Firecracker, and many of those same folks call the Coca-Cola 600 at Charlotte the World 600.

MICHIGAN

THREE THINGS WE LEARNED

1. PJ what?

Jimmie Johnson's No. 48 Chevy slipped on the PJ1 traction compound and sent him into the wall early at Michigan. He finished 34th and slipped below the playoff cut line. "We're just going to have to rally on," he said. "These guys are doing an amazing job. We'll keep digging."

Jimmie Johnson limped home 34th after his No. 48 Chevy slipped on the PJ1 traction compound applied at Michigan. [AP/PAUL SANCYA]

2. Two-driver battle

There are three regular-season Cup Series races left on the schedule and a two-driver battle for the regular-season championship. Kyle Busch leads Joey Logano by 20 points. Whoever finishes with the most points gets a 15-playoff-points bonus. Get the point?

3. Pay attention

If you were not paying attention last weekend, the NASCAR Truck Series playoff field was established.

Brett Moffitt is the No. 1 seed. Oh, and by the way, Tyler Ankrum clinched the Truck Series Rookie of the Year Award. "It's awesome," he said.

QUESTIONS & ATTITUDE

Compelling questions ... and maybe a few actual answers

Are we spending too much time on the Bubble Boys?

Yes, of course. But then again, no. Yes, because no driver back there between 15th and 18th place will last beyond two rounds in the playoffs. This isn't the NHL; there's no playoff magic to be found. But then again, it's quite intriguing because one guy (Clint Bowyer) was supposed to be so much better than this, and another (Jimmie Johnson) ... well ... we could be witnessing the end-game of a historic career.

And the anti-bubble gang?

My eyes are turning more and more to Denny Hamlin. Practically everyone considers Mark Martin the best from the modern era who never won a Cup championship. But Hamlin is way up that list, too. He recently bagged his 34th career win, has finished between first and fifth the past five weeks, and has completely put last year's dud behind him. Great career, but he's never been "the man." A championship would change that.

Firefighters from Upper and Lower Saucon townships were among those honored when 24 volunteers from 12 area fire companies were recognized for completion of a 192-hour Bucks County Fire Academy basic firefighting course at a June ceremony at Lower Macungie Community Center.

The local firefighters are Adam Diomedo and Akim King of Upper Saucon Township and Marisa Mowrer of Lower Saucon.

has sponsored the course in Lehigh County so firefighters do not have to travel three hours each week from January to May to the Bucks County Community College campus.

Besides 112 hours of basic firefighting skills, the volunteers also learned life-saving and first aid skills, how to handle hazardous materials, and response to incidents such as anti-freeze spills at a motor vehicle accident, up to intimidating incidents dealing with weapons of mass destruction.

Training certification by the Bucks County Fire Academy is accepted by volunteer fire departments throughout the United States.

FEST NOTES

In light of recent tragic events in El Paso and Dayton, as well as the many that have come before, I found it a little more comforting when I noticed Aug. 5 on Main Street a Bethlehem police officer carrying more than just his normal service pistol as he patrolled Main Street with a second officer.

Dana Grubb

Later that same evening, four mounted patrol officers from the Pennsylvania State Police wound their way along Main Street to West Market Street, where they stationed themselves at the intersection. It was heartwarming to witness their and the public's friendly interaction while they monitored Musikfest activities from their perches on the backs of their mounts.

The first Sunday at SteelStacks offered Lady Antebellum as Musikfest's headline act, drawing many fans. Non ticket buyers began choosing locations along First Street hours before the concert, so they had a good listening spot, and volunteers reported to their stations at the Wind Creek Steel Stage venue. Other attendees stopped to grab a quick bite or favorite beverage before lining up at the venue gates. ABOVE: The crowds begin to build at SteelStacks in anticipation of the Lady Antebellum concert.

Bethlehem residents Lucy Lennon and Stephen 'Hector' Nemes stroll hand in hand between Liederplatz and Main Street Aug. 5.

Luckenbach Mill was a treat. It is the large brick building to your right if you are heading down the trail. There was a very small sign on the stairs. I wish it had been larger. The children's activities are set up in the large room you enter from the stairs. The kids enjoyed working with clay and learned they were using the same kind of clay the early settlers used to make their cups, bowls and plates. There were some samples of early pottery, some broken. Another station was weaving. The kids wove colored yarn on a board. There were jars on the table, holding materials the settlers used to make dye for their wool. At another station were small notched pieces of wood to build with. There was a photo of a log house. At another station, there was a coloring project, coloring and cutting out drawings of children in clothes the settlers children wore. The last station was tin piercing. The kids used a thumbtack to poke into the tin through a paper with a shape outlined on it. There were many designs to choose from. My 5-year-old loved this. His pattern was a simple star. There were more complex designs for older kids. His friend enjoyed the weaving most. The volunteers were very helpful. They were from the Heritage Society, but one told me she also serves as a Musikfest volunteer. There was also a detailed model of the old mill. There was an art exhibit upstairs. I decided against taking the little ones up, but another family went up while we were there, and when they came down they spoke enthusiastically about the exhibit. Unfortunately, the water works was not operating when we visited. But the children's activities alone occupied the kids for the best part of an hour. And the building was air conditioned, a big bonus on a hot sunny day.

Nintendo, Prismatic and good weather

BY MARK KIRLIN

This year mark's the 36th year of Musikfest. It's one of the largest music festivals in the nation with over 500 shows on 17 stages over 10 days. The music, food and fun are supported by 2,000 volunteers and a million plus visitors. Unlike last year's rains and flooding, this year's weather was a welcoming sight to the 60-plus food vendors as well as the many other vendors selling art and merchandise.

Although Musikfest is and has always been a music-focused festival, there are many other attractions beyond music including an expanded comedy lineup featuring over 30 comedians, 19 dance troops performing and many other highlights. One such highlight of this year's fest were the Prismatic, which are 6-foot tall pivoting prisms that create a variety of colors and sounds when guests rotate them.

Another popular attraction for kids and adults was the Nintendo Switch Road Trip, which is a tent area filled with consoles for people to try some of the hottest new Nintendo Switch games, with several Nintendo-themed challenges for players. Based on attendance and enthusiasm, this year's event has been a success.

Bethlehem students backstage

'Work hard at what you love'

BY NICHOLAS ROLLAND
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Liberty HS music students learned what life is like in the music business on a Sunday afternoon at Musikfest. Students were invited to the Wind Creek Steel Stage at PNC plaza, the same stage that Lady Antebellum would grace later that evening, to see what goes into preparing for a show and to learn valuable life lessons on staying focused on long-term goals.

A few hours before the scheduled show, Lauren Allen, director of client and community relations for PNC Bank, met an eager group of Liberty students on East First Street, just past the stage's main entrance. PNC has been a community sponsor for Musikfest for the past 15 years and this is their second year hosting Bethlehem Area School District Students.

"Students think about what they see," Allen said on the warm August afternoon. She aimed to give students more opportunities to see. The partnership between PNC and the school district provide students with the opportunity to experience the many different aspects of the music business, from sound checks to learning about the multitude of supporting roles. Allen stated that the musicians only account for 10 percent of the jobs associated with the music industry, and this opportunity provides students with a peek into the other 90 percent of roles.

After meeting with Allen and Dr. Jack Silva, BASD assistant superintendent for curriculum, the students were ushered into the venue. Students first sat in the stands and watched the band practice vocals and set up their instruments. Soon after, they were on the main stage and met the tour manager for Lady Antebellum, Daniel Miller.

Once on stage, students were able to watch the band's stage crew set up for the evening performance. They watched and listened to a sound check and were able to see all of the equipment that would support the evening's show. Several band members were on and off the stage during the sound check.

After the sound check was complete, students were guided to the adjacent tent, where they could ask questions and hear words of advice and encouragement from Lady Antebellum's tour manager. Miller was asked how he would describe life as a tour manager. He told the students that his days are long, sometimes as long as 18 hours, and he's constantly on the road, along with the five tour buses and two semitrailers it takes to support a Lady Antebellum concert. However, he said they should work hard at what they love, and the Nashville native said he loves what he does. He also encouraged students not to force themselves into music and to align their future careers with their passions.

Francesca Piscitello, who is a fourth-year Grenadier Band member, was impressed with the backstage experience. As a member of Liberty's stage crew team, she already had an interest and an exposure to sound and lighting. She said she wanted to get as involved as possible with theater and stage crew when she attends college in the fall of 2020. She said she was surprised to learn that several band members had their children on stage during the sound check. Francesca got to see a side of the business few see; the inclusion of families while on the road.

Michelle Loaiza, a second-year member of the Grenadier Band and Liberty Jams, was surprised by the amount of gear on the tour. Michelle's takeaway message was to start small, but stay dedicated to the field of music.

Anna Lazewski, a first-year Grenadier Band member, has dreams of majoring in theater and performance and working in a music ensemble. She was surprised to learn how stringent the no photo policy is at the venue during her backstage tour. However, she was inspired by the experience, and plans on working toward her musical dreams to achieve great things.

After the tour manager concluded with the students under the tent, they were given tickets and invited back to the evening performance from the Grammy award winning band.

* While Supplies Last.

What you need to know to fight the bite

BY STEPHEN ALTHOUSE
Special to the Bethlehem Press

For most people, insects are a pest. For others, they are a business. The latter category, represented by the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection, staged a presentation July 30 at Bethlehem City Hall on how to get them out of your life.

One bug on the "least wanted list" is mosquitos. Jeffrey Carroll, Pa. DEP regional program coordinator, noted that mosquitos, besides being major pests, can also carry various diseases. Carroll focused much of his presentation on one — West Nile Virus.

WNV, as it is called, is such a concern the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania created an endeavor anointed the Pennsylvania West Nile Virus Control Program to deal with it. The plan seeks to reduce human exposure to mosquitos, health care costs, and the financial impact that a WNV outbreak would have on region and its industries, such as agriculture, fishing, hunting and tourism.

The best way to reduce the risk at your home is to reduce stagnant organic sources of water.

Make no mistake, WNV is a serious disease that can, in rare instances, cause encephalitis or inflammation of the brain.

"Mosquitoes acquire the disease from feeding on infected birds," Carroll said. "They transmit the virus by feeding on the next bird, animal or person."

The good news is that that WNV is not spread by person-to-person contact. There is also no evidence that people can get the virus by handling infected animals.

If someone is infected, there's a 20 percent chance they'll develop a mild infection called West Nile Fever. The symptoms include fever, headache, body aches, skin rash and swollen lymph glands. One in 150 will develop a severe infection called West Nile encephalitis.

Carroll said the program's comprehensive strategy emphasizes mosquito control efforts, which rely on human, animal and mosquito surveillance. Using a series of slides, Carroll discussed how the agency collects and test mosquito samples.

"The mosquito control efforts are focused on aggressive early season larviciding," he said. This is needed to prevent the seasonal amplification and spread of the virus.

During the evening, Carroll emphasized more than once that best way to reduce the risk at your home is to reduce stagnant organic sources of water.

"Do what you can to reduce standing water around your homes," he said.

Old tires, tin cans, bucket and flowerpots are items that collect water. Some less obvious ones are corrugated downspouts and gutters.

One Way?

Is there only one way to heaven or are there many ways? Those who pride themselves in their broadminded acceptance of all religions and lifestyles say there are many ways to heaven. But Jesus Christ warns, "wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat: because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it" (Matthew 7:13-14).

Just how narrow is the way? God narrowed it down to one person—Jesus! He exclusively declared, "I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me" (John 14:6). The Apostles affirmed that Jesus is the only way to heaven—excluding all others! "Neither is there salvation in any other; for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved" (Acts 4:12). The Bible is perfectly clear that there is only "one mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus" (1 Timothy 2:5). See: www.naog.ws/theway.htm for more on this biblical truth.

Jesus is God's free gift of eternal life: "God hath given to us eternal life, and this life is in his Son. He that hath the Son hath life; and he that hath not the Son of God hath not life" (1 John 5:11-12).

We all need to confess and repent of our sins: "For all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God" (Romans 3:23). Receiving Jesus: "As many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name" (John 1:12).

Life's most important choice is whether or not you will believe on Jesus! "He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life: and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him" (John 3:36).

'It's about the audience'

Easton State Theatre's Shelley Brown previews venue's 2019-2020 season

BY PAUL WILLISTEIN
pwillistein@tnonline.com

The 93rd season of the State Theatre Center for the Arts, Easton, as with previous seasons, is a work in progress.

"We're confirming things right and left that we add," says State Theatre President and CEO Shelley Brown.

Tickets for the new season at the State Theatre go on sale to the public Aug. 15. Tickets for State Theatre members went on sale Aug. 1.

"The biggest challenge is confirming things for the brochure. That's the basis for the season, to which we continually add. There's always more," Brown continues.

"It's not a fixed number. It's always what we can present properly and what we think the audience will want to see," she says.

The 2019-2020 season kicks off with "The Piano Guys," 7:30 p.m. Sept. 13. The duo's classically-influenced pop music performance videos have become a YouTube phenomenon.

"They're back for the third time. They're fantastic," says Brown.

"They're a group that began by doing their own videos on the internet. People know about them all over the world. They bring with them fans from all over," Brown says.

"Beautiful: The Carole King Musical," 7:30 p.m. Sept. 25, is the first of eight scheduled national tours of Broadway shows at the State Theatre.

"Our emphasis this year is Broadway," says Brown. "Thanks to this steel grid we have. This is more Broadway than we've ever done."

The ability to book and present high-end national tours of Broadway shows is the result of changes made to the State Theatre a decade ago, with improvements to the loading dock, elevator and other amenities for production crews.

"We've really concentrated on that. We're really honing in on what we feel is our niche," says Brown.

It's a natural fit, what with the annual 18th annual Freddy Award show and WFMZ-TV telecast, 7 p.m. May 21, 2020, at the State Theatre.

Broadway national tour shows include "Jersey Boys," 7:30 p.m. Dec. 12, based on the pop music career of Frankie Valli & The Four Seasons; "Cirque Dreams: Holidaze," 7:30 p.m. Dec. 19, a Broadway holiday show with 20 acts; "Stomp," 7:30 p.m. Jan. 17, 2020, a percussion extravaganza; "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown," 7 p.m. Feb. 1, 2020, noting the 70th anniversary of the Charles Schultz newspaper comic strip; "Rent," 3, 8 p.m. Feb. 9, 2020, a 20th anniversary production of the Pulitzer Prize and Tony Award-winning musical; "Bandstand," 7 p.m. March 12, 2020, with music and dancing circa 1945; "The Color Purple, 2, 7 p.m. May 2, 2020, based on the Pulitzer Prize-winning story and 2016 Tony Award-winning Best Musical Revival. "These are the real touring shows," says Brown.

Noting that the State Theatre provides a convenience factor for audiences in the Lehigh Valley region in terms of parking and an average 30-minute travel time to and from a performance, she emphasizes, "You can leave your house and be where you want to be in a half-hour. To be able to pay a dollar to park and be home in your jammies."

The State Theatre typically draws audiences from a 50-mile radius of the theater. However, in recent years, the State casts a wider net.

"Because of the internet, it's to infinity and beyond," says Brown. "If they're following an act, we have people who come to Easton to see their favorite artists."

Brown extols the excitement of live shows:

"With live theater, being part of an audience is a fellowship. Entertainment was meant to be entertained in a group."

"When you're with people watching live entertainment, there is a kinship that feels so good, whether you're laughing at the same time, crying at the same time, or that wonderful quiet."

"At intermission, people are talking to each other. And then they're leaving at the end of the night and they're talking about what they saw."

"That's why we cherish our relationship with the Freddy kids. They realize what it's like to be on stage and have an audience."

A mix of State Theatre audience favorites in vocal groups, comedy-variety shows, dance, and tribute concerts is back for the 2019-2020 season.

Vocal groups include "The Four Italian Tenors," 8 p.m. Oct. 11, a tribute concert. See STATE on Page B3

Seeing a show at the State Theatre is akin to going into a time-machine and returning to a bygone era of theater- and concert-going opulence.

"It's been up, down, all around, but it's been continuous," Brown says of the State Theatre's storied history, which dates to 1926.

It hasn't been easy then, nor is it easy now, for the State Theatre, says Brown:

"We're one of 25 local venues.

"You remember the days when we were one of three venues. Now those acts are being vied for by all of the local venues, or many of them, which puts us in the position of we can't afford them anymore.

"When all these venues want them, you get in a bidding war. When you have 1,500 seats, there's only so much you pay because you don't want the ticket price to be so exorbitant.

"And, No. 2, we can't compete against a 3,000- or 10,000-seat venue when it comes to the money unless they want to do an intimate concert. And sometimes artists do. Elvis Costello did a phenomenal concert with us. He sold out.

"The record industry, in essence, collapsed. The record companies would put the artists on tour to sell albums. Now the artists are out there and they need to sell tickets and merchandise. This is their revenue stream now.

"The world as a whole has changed. How could we not expect our business to change?"

The Lehigh Valley theater and concert market has changed significantly during Brown's 29-year tenure leading the State Theatre:

"They're so many venues. You could see two shows per night. We have so much cultural entertainment in the Lehigh Valley.

"When people ask me, 'Who's your competition?', I say, 'Inertia.'

"One of the things that's great is seeing 1,500 people together, enjoying the show together. When I see them walking down Northampton Street afterward, I think we've done a little something for world peace.

"It's fun. There's nothing wrong with fun.

"Certainly, at the State Theatre, there's plenty to see. Plus, we have this fabulous building. And people bring their children. And it's wonderful to see that. A lot of kids have never been to a real theater. When they come, they're so awed by it.

"We're trying to keep this experience alive," says Brown.

"The performance part is the magic. When Tony Bennett was at the State Theatre, he put the mike down and sang without it.

"Every artist who has played the theater comes out and says how great the theater is.

"At venues like ours, the fans are the super-fans.

"The artists feel that love. And they play way longer. It's about the audience," says Brown.

The case of the runaway budget

Before I retired I did a lot of planning.

Before I took that big leap into my retirement years I wanted to make sure I could do it.

I grew more apprehensive when two retired acquaintances admitted they were drowning financially and could no longer make it on their own. One had to ask family members for help.

That woman said she was able to manage in retirement as long as there were two of them paying the bills.

When her husband died, she couldn't believe it when the Social Security Administration told her she would only be receiving one monthly check, not the two she was used to.

"They told me I could get Social Security based on his work history or on mine. But I could no longer receive two checks," she said.

She was also incredulous that she never knew this before. She asked me to "write something" in my column to alert other women about what happens when a spouse dies.

"Don't kid yourself into thinking expenses go down when it's just one person in a house instead of two," she said.

"The bills remain the same yet your income takes a hit."

At the time she was 69 and had been retired from her factory job for four years. She told me she had to go back to work but the factory where she worked for years closed. She was able to find part-time work two days a week, but her health problems were making it hard to be on her feet so much.

As I listened to her I resolved to make sure I could manage before I cut the cords on a full-time job.

I was also leery because of what happened with my friend Carol.

When Carol and her husband were approaching retirement, they decided to move someplace warm.

But they weren't going to be together. Both decided it was the right time to go through with the divorce they had been talking about for a long time.

When they sold their home, they split the proceeds. Between that and her pension from work along with Social Security, Carol thought she would be fine.

When she went to buy a house in Florida, she told me she was pleasantly surprised at the great house the Realtor said she could afford.

The Realtor sold her a wonderful place on a lake with a swimming pool and lush landscaping. It even came with its own canoe and pontoon boat and her own dock.

She bought at the height of the price bubble, but few knew the bubble was about to collapse.

When Carol realized her monthly mortgage payments were eating up too much of her income, she decided to sell the house and get something more affordable.

Unfortunately, no one was willing to pay anywhere near what she did to buy the house.

Eventually, the bank ended up with the house, and Carol became one more victim of the housing collapse.

But she did fine by getting another job and finding an affordable condo.

After listening to stories like that, I made sure I did my homework before I retired.

I called my friend Jan and asked her to help me make a budget of expenses I could anticipate when I moved to Florida.

I tried to think of every expense I would encounter.

"Don't just plan on household expenses," one friend advised.

"Don't forget to budget for personal expenses like haircuts and what you'll need from the drugstore," she warned.

So I reworked my budget and thought I had covered all the bases. I could retire, I figured, if I planned carefully and stuck to my monthly budget.

I found a Realtor I liked and then found a modest but perfect home for one person. The Realtor tried to talk me into a bigger place, insisting I could afford a newer, bigger home with more amenities.

I was smart enough to know that as the size of our home grows larger, so do taxes and household expenses.

I stuck with the smaller home, thinking I planned as well as I could for my retirement years.

The other day as I was clearing out my desk I found the notebook with the budget I made before retirement.

I compared what I thought would be my monthly expenses with the reality of price hikes over the past 12 years.

My planning budget listed $12 a month for basic cable. I don't watch much TV so I had the most basic plan Comcast offered.

A few years ago Comcast did away with that basic plan. Their cheapest plans now start at over $100 a month.

Taxes haven't gone up that much here, but insurance has tripled, and of course, medical expenses continue to climb.

And I never anticipated having to spend $1,500 a month for flood insurance.

The bottom line is before retirement, no one can truly anticipate your living expenses years down the line.

What I tell others planning to retire is that retirement can be for many years, if you're lucky.

Plan for any and all contingencies, because no matter how much you plan, there will be surprises.

There are good surprises, too — such as the daily joy of enjoying life in paradise.

While I don't know what tomorrow will bring, I sure am thankful for today.

Tips for phone cam-free wedding ceremony

Dear Jacquelyn, I have attended a number of weddings recently and I am shocked at people's disregard during the ceremony. So many people were taking pictures with their phones. My wedding is next summer. How does one ask guests to refrain from taking photos during the ceremony?

Dear Reader, Having an unplugged wedding ceremony and encouraging your guests to put down their devices doesn't need to be difficult.

As with any request you make of your wedding guests, you simply need to be sensitive and

RESPECTFULLY YOURS

By Jacquelyn Youst

respectful.

Unplugged wedding ceremonies are becoming increasingly common. It allows guests to be fully present instead of watching from behind a phone screen.

It is possible to politely let your guests know that during the ceremony you would appreciate that no photos are to be taken. The way to approach this is to have a sign stating your wishes.

It can read something like this: "Please honor our wishes. No photos until we are pronounced Mrs. and Mrs. Thank you!"

This is an effective but gentle way to make your wishes known.

You could also have your officiant mention your request during his or her welcome speech.

An example would be: "We'll begin the ceremony in just a moment. Please note there is no photography permitted during the ceremony."

In addition, you can place another reminder in the program.

Know that you're not obligated to restrict technology for the entire celebration. Guests should remain respectful of the photographer at the reception. There's no reason why everyone can't resume their normal phone activities after the ceremony.

The key to having a successful unplugged ceremony is to prepare your guests well in advance and let them know all the reasons why this request is important to you.

Respectfully Yours, Jacquelyn

Coping with grandson's temper tantrums

Q. I have a four-year-old grandson, who is a very sweet child. However, when angry he kicks, slaps and pinches his parents. His parents are calm, spend time with him and do not hit him. He doesn't act like this with his grandparents. Any suggestions?

"My first response," panelist Denise Continenza said, "relates to the idea of temperament: How children respond emotionally and behaviorally to the world."

"Some children have high-intensity emotions, so when they get frustrated and don't get what they want, their emotions are so strong they take over," said Continenza.

Panelist Chad Stefanyak said the problem may have as much to do with the temperament of the parents as with that of the child. "They are calm, and the son's behavior is directed at them. Four-year-olds can be very creative in figuring what has to happen to get what they want," Stefanyak said.

"He's kicking, punching and slapping," panelist Wanda Mercado-Arroyo said. "He's very selective when he does it: when he doesn't get his way. He may be getting away with it because of his parents' passive style," Mercado-Arroyo said.

Stefanyak wanted to know the level of the boy's language skills. "Sometimes, young children get frustrated because they don't know how to communicate. The boy may be smart and able to understand words, but his ability to express himself may be poor."

Continenza said the grandparents may be giving in to their grandson and everybody needs to be on the same page and be consistent. "Let the boy know it is OK to be frustrated and angry. But it is not all right to hit someone."

Give him an alternative, Continenza said, and tell him, "If you want to hit something, here is a pillow, but you don't hit people."

Another suggestion is for the parents to separate themselves from the boy until he calms down. "The parents should take a step back to evaluate what to do, and observe what does calm the boy," Stefanyak said. "When the boy is calm, revisit the situation and explain to him that he needs to have better control of his emotions."

The panel suggested reading materials on temperament and how to respond to it at: extension.psu.edu/youth/betterkidcare.

This week's team of parenting experts are: Wanda Mercado-Arroyo, former teacher and school administrator; Chad Stefanyak, school counselor; and Denise Continenza, extension educator.

Recommendations for selecting hypnotherapist

Second of two parts

Hypnosis is one of several relaxation methods helpful for treating chronic pain, alleviating anxiety, reducing the frequency and severity of headaches, controlling bleeding and pain during dental procedures, quitting smoking and ending alcohol dependence.

Hypnosis achieves focused attention. It is like using a magnifying glass to focus the rays of the sun and make them more powerful. When our minds are concentrated, we are able to use them more powerfully.

Hypnosis, also known as hypnotherapy or hypnotic suggestion, has been a healing practice for thousands of years.

Under hypnosis, you're more open than usual to suggestions, and this can be used to modify your perceptions, behavior, sensations and emotions. Although you're more open to suggestion during therapeutic hypnosis, your free will remains intact and you don't lose control over your behavior.

Before undergoing

hypnosis, you should wear comfortable clothing to help with relaxation, and make sure you're well-rested so you won't fall asleep during the session.

Choose a therapist or healthcare professional to perform hypnosis. When you find a potential hypnotherapist, ask lots of questions, such as:

Do you have training in a field such as psychology, medicine, social work or dentistry?

Are you licensed for your specialty in this state?

Where did you go to school, and where did you do your internship, residency, or both?

How much training have you had in hypnotherapy and from what schools?

What professional organizations do you belong to?

How long have you been in practice?

What are your fees?

Does insurance cover your services?

In general, a hypnotherapist explains the process of hypnosis and reviews what you both hope to accomplish. The hypnotherapist usually induces you into hypnosis by talking in a gentle, soothing tone and describing images that create a sense of relaxation, security and well-being.

When you're in a deep trance-like state, the hypnotherapist suggests ways for you to achieve specific goals, such as reducing pain or eliminating cravings to smoke.

The hypnotherapist may help you visualize vivid, meaningful mental images in which you picture yourself accomplishing your goals.

When the session is over, either you are able to bring yourself out of hypnosis or your hypnotherapist helps you end your trance-like state.

A typical hypnosis session lasts 30 to 60 minutes. You may benefit from one session or several sessions of hypnosis. You can usually resume normal activities immediately. You may eventually be able to practice self-hypnosis.

The American Society of Clinical Hypnosis recommends that you choose a healthcare provider who is properly-trained, licensed and credentialed. This means that the individual has graduate training and holds a valid license in a healthcare field, such as medicine, dentistry, psychiatry, psychology, social work or nursing.

This generally also means that the individual holds an academic degree from a regionally-accredited institution of higher education, and has had supervised experience in offering professional services to clients and patients.

An additional benefit of choosing a licensed healthcare provider is that your healthcare insurance may reimburse for services provided, although you should determine this in advance by contacting your insurer or asking your provider.

Allentown Band is all on board for Buster Keaton classic

pwillistein@tnonline.com

The Allentown Band is on board to perform a live soundtrack for the 1926 Buster Keaton silent film, "The General," to be shown on the big screen, 7:30 p.m. Aug. 17, Miller Symphony Hall, Allentown.

"I'm using Civil War music whenever I can," says Allentown Band Conductor Ron Demkee, "but also the kind of background music that fits the action onscreen. There are obvious chase scenes."

"The General," a comedy-action-adventure film based on a true story that happened during the United States Civil War, was adapted from the memoir, "The Great Locomotive Chase," by William Pittenger, and stars Marion Mack (Annabelle Lee) and Keaton (Johnnie Gray), who co-directed the film with Clyde Bruckman.

In the storyline, Johnnie loves his train ("The General") and Annabelle Lee. The General is captured with Annabelle on board. It's Johnnie to the rescue.

The film entered the public domain in 1953 because its copyright registration was not renewed in the 28th year after publication.

"The General" is regarded as one of great American films and was included in the first class of the Library of Congress National Film Registry in 1989.

"I viewed the film many times," says Demkee, who estimates he's watched "The General" 20 to 25 times.

The approximate one-hour and seven-minute film includes a train plunging off a collapsing bridge, said to be the most expensive single-shot scene of the silent film era.

"The General," budgeted at $750,000, was filmed in Cottage Grove, Ore. Three vintage Civil War era locomotives were purchased, including one for the train wreck.

Keaton performed dangerous physical stunts on a locomotive, including jumping from the engine to the tender to a boxcar; running on the roofs of railcars; pulling out a railroad tie lodged on a railroad track, and sitting on a coupling rod of the locomotive as it gathered steam.

Demkee chose and timed the music that the Allentown Band will perform for "The General."

"It's really splicing a lot of it together after many viewings. I have a lot of the recordings in my library," says Demkee.

Last year, the Allentown Band performed music for Lon Chaney's "The Phantom of the Opera" (1925) in a Miller Symphony Hall screening.

At 7:30 p.m. Oct. 26 in Miller Symphony Hall, the Allentown Band performs a soundtrack composed by Steve Reisteter, principal clarinet, Allentown Band, for a screening of "Nosferatu" (1922), the Count Dracula film directed by F.W. Murnau.

Computer Generated Imagery was used to create the animals in "The Lion King" remake.

'The Lion' Ca-Ching

I went to see "The Lion King" prepared to not like it.

Try as I do to not read or hear reviews before I see a movie to review, it was difficult to avoid the buzz for "The Lion King." Publicity about the movie, which opened with a near-record $185 million at the box office in its first weekend and has grossed $473 million to date in the United States, was everywhere.

Call it "The Lion" Ca-Ching.

While I wouldn't go so far as to agree with the billing of "The Lion King" as live-action, the Disney remake makes the original 1994 "The Lion King" animation feature film look like a cartoon.

The Computer Generated Imagery (CGI) of the lions and other animals of Africa in the remake appears to be as real as a Disney nature film. The big difference is that the animals in "The Lion King" 2019 talk and sing. They do so with a minimum of fuss. The mouths open slightly. Well, maybe not for the hyenas. They've got some mean choppers.

The animals are incredibly realistic. While certain liberties in characterizations were taken with some of the animals' features, the Disney animators mostly played it straight.

That goes for the songs, too, which are integrated seamlessly into the storyline and action. The song, "Can You Feel the Love Tonight," sung by Donald Glover ("Solo: A Star Wars Story," 2018; his hip-hop music persona is Childish Gambino) as Simba and Beyonce (Nala), is presented as interior dialogue, rather than having Simba and Nala baying at each other. To emphasize this perspective, Pumba (Seth Rogen) and Timon (Billy Eichner) observe that the lion and lioness don't even realize they're in love.

MOVIE REVIEW

teties in what is a gorgeous, authentic-looking, often-thrilling and sometimes humorous feature movie. While realistic-looking scenes of a stampede, lions fighting and hyenas attacking may frighten children ages five and younger (The scenes were scary enough for this adult.), "The Lion King" can be recommended for nearly the entire family.

"The Lion King" is a masterful achievement in photo-realistic CGI animation. It can't be overstated how true-to-life are, not only the animals, but flora, fauna, rocks, sky and, well, everything on the screen. The film was seen in 2D for this review. Paying the premium price for the 3D version might be worth it, but isn't necessary.

Director Jon Favreau ("The Jungle Book," 2016; "Chef," 2014; "Iron Man" and its sequel, 2008, 2010; "Elf," 2003) gives the film a peaceful, relaxed and elegant feeling. When action is called for, Favreau directs with a flair for dramatic pace and intensity.

The screenplay by Jeff Nathanson ("Pirates of the Caribbean: Dead Men Tell No Tales," 2017) based on a story by Brenda Chapman and characters by Irene Mecchi, Jonathan Roberts and Linda Woolverton, has dollops of humor, groaner puns (which I love), a mouse and lion scene (homage to The House of Mouse, aka Disney Studios) and a "Be Our Guest" snippet reference to Disney's "Beauty and the Beast" (1981) animation feature film classic.

The voice casting is excellent, including Chiwetel Ejiofor (Scar), John Oliver (Zazu), James Earl Jones (Mufasa), Alfre Woodard (Sarab), Keegan-Michael Key (Kamari) and Chance the Rapper (Bushy). The soundtrack includes songs, "Circle of Life," "I Just Can't Wait to Be King" and "Hakuna Matata," from the original "The Lion King," in new arrangements and with new singers, many produced by Pharrell Williams. The score by Hans Zimmer is luscious, uplifting and exciting.

The 2019 "The Lion King" stands alone, atop Pride Rock. It's state of the art animation art. You can enjoy "The Lion King" anew, and still enjoy "The Lion King" of old.

A "Third Thursday" opening reception will be held 6-8 p.m. Aug. 15 for the "Faculty & Staff Exhibition," which continues through Sept. 11, David E. Rodale and Rodale Family Galleries, The Baum School of Art, Allentown.

Instructor Dana Van Horn has several works in the exhibit, including a watercolor of two seagulls, a small oil of a white pig in mud, and a large oil portrait of his adult son.

"Logan Van Horn" (2019; oil on canvas; 40 in. x 32 in.) presents Van Horn's son seated backwards on a chair with dad's Senegal parrot perched on his left shoulder. The dark brown, wainscoted wall behind him effectively frames the highlighted portrait subjects.

"It was a painting I did shortly before he did the Appalachian Trail. Originally, it had a map of the Appalachian Trail behind him," says Van Horn, who has been teaching painting classes for adults at Baum for approximately 27 years.

There are two small watercolors by Mellen Reinbold, who recently began teaching multiple mediums at Baum. "Watcher" (2019; watercolor on paper; 4 in. x 6 in.) and "Dusk" (2019; watercolor on paper; 4 in. x 6 in.) are plain air pieces Reinbold created while camping at a friend's cabin near Williamsport.

"We were sitting out under the stars at night and this was the view down the river," says Reinbold, adding that "some mystery bird out there" looking at the full moon is the subject of "Watcher." A silhouette of pine trees frame the dark blue sky above and trail below in "Dusk."

Reinbold teaches printmaking, digital illustration, graphic design, drawing and painting classes for ages nine through 17. She also teaches in Allentown School District elementary schools.

On display is a blue porcelain "Sleeping Mermaid" by instructor Jenny Nahan-Gidley, a "Cortical Necklace" by Sarah Buck Mueller, a pastel of pears by Jacqueline Meyerson, and a print of a woman and pink butterflies by Amy Pirrotta.

"This gives us a chance to see our faculty's creative process," said Baum School of Art Director

Shannon Fugate of the bi-annual exhibition. "This is an amazing showcase of the talent that we have here at the Baum School," Fugate continues. "Every piece is close to my heart."

Fugate, who has a background in printmaking, photography and fiber, hadn't decided at the time of the interview what she will exhibit.

Baum School of Art Marketing Director Laurie Siegfried, who assisted Fugate with curating the exhibit, passed on submitting artwork, saying, "I call myself more of an art appreciator than an artist."

Other Baum instructors and personnel who have work in the exhibit include Lauren Fauri, Rosemary Geseck, Linda Henry, Travis Hill, Jennifer Prichett, Karen Z. Reinfinger, Karri Schrepel, Monika Stefany and Stephanie Wolff.

The exhibit is sponsored by Scott and Cathy Fainor.

Sit in with Chaise for MSH 'Jazz Upstairs'

BY GEORGE VANDOREN
Special to The Press

Chaise Lounge returns for the "Jazz Upstairs" series, 7:30 p.m. Aug. 16, Rodale Community Room, Miller Symphony Hall.

Doors open at 7 p.m. for a free buffet, included with the ticket price admission. A cash bar is available.

The Washington, D.C.-based group presents an upbeat blend of standards and originals with an early 1960s' jazz vibe.

Charlie Barnett, piano, accordion and guitar, also writes and/or arranges most of the group's tunes.

The group features Marilyn Older, vocals; Gary Gregg, reed instruments; Joe Jackson, trombone; Pete Ostle, bass, and Tommy Barrick, drums.

The ensemble has been together for 20 years. Says Barnett, "The only change is that about halfway through, we changed trombone players."

The group is a blend of seriously talented musicians. In addition to his playing, Barnett is an award-winning composer and arranger. He composed more than 400 film and television scores. He's received awards and Emmy nominations. His orchestral and chamber works have been performed around the globe. And he's arranged and produced pop and jazz records for numerous artists.

One of his latest efforts is "19: The Musical," a musical about the women who strove to make the 19th Amendment and women's suffrage possible. He's co-producing a Veterans' Day show at the National Cathedral, featuring the United States Marine Orchestra and the National Cathedral Choir. And he's scoring a PBS film.

Older has been singing professionally since receiving a music technology degree from American University. She has written songs and performed with a variety of bands. She's toured as a pianist with Doc Scantlin's Royal Palms Orchestra.

She has contributed as a lyricist to Chaise Lounge's material and has written songs for independent films. Says Barnett, "Lyrically, I think Marilyn is some sort of genius in delivering a cool, heart-felt story."

Gregg, a Las Vegas native, performs with D.C. ensembles and has his own sextet. He's in demand for his work on clarinet, tenor and flute.

Jackson attended the University of North Texas as where he played in the famous One O'Clock Lab Band. He performed with the Maynard Ferguson Band throughout the U.S. and Europe and joined the U.S. Air Force Airmen of Note where he served as leader. While there, he created the "Jazz Heritage Broadcast Series." He has played with the Woody Herman Orchestra and David Liebman Big Band and has done numerous arrangements.

Ostle served in "Pershing's Own," playing with the U.S. Army Concert Band, Army

Blues, Army Army Orchestra, Army Chorale during his 20-year tenure. He formed A La Carte Brass & Percussion and leads the Tuxedo Park Orchestra. Ostle received a degree in arranging and composition from Berklee College of Music.

Barrick has performed throughout the U.S. and Europe. He plays in groups in the D.C. area, from swing and jazz to Latin, funk and punk. His playing can be heard on many television and film scores.

Of recent Chaise Lounge activities, Barnett says, "Our newest CD is an orchestral one recorded at Kennedy Center live with the Panamanian Symphony Orchestra. I did all the arranging. Since it was live, I was shocked at how great it came out."

"We're getting ready to start a new one [CD] this fall. It will be an odd mix. There's this Italian tune from 1952, 'Un Bacio a Mezzanotte.' Another is a Staples Family tune. On some of these, the band does background vocals. It adds a nice flavor to a couple of the songs."

Of Chaise Lounge's sound, Barnett says it's "my nutty vision of what music sounded like from Capitol recordings in 1962. It's a strange mix of very vintage sound with some very modern settings. I don't hear anything else that sounds like this."

Be a green-thumb gardener

As an individual, one might think, "What can I do to help our environment?"

There are many things to consider.

Always plant native plants and pollinator plants. Choosing plants native to the Lehigh Valley can improve gardening success since many of these plants have adapted to the region. Many native plants attract beneficial insects which help control pests, so you are creating a habitat for "good bugs."

By planting pollinator plants we are helping the bee population. Bees

GROWING GREEN

L.C. Cooperative Extension
LehighExt@psu.edu

are the most important movers of pollen, assisted by flies, beetles, wasps, butterflies and moths.

Plants work hard to attract their pollinators and offer them rewards. They offer pollen, an important source of protein, and nectar, a concentrated sugar solution, to lure insect pollinators. The different flower shapes, color patterns and scents are all part of the plant's efforts to attract pollinators.

Pollinators are in trouble. The cause of pollinator decline is complicated because of the interaction of many different stressors.

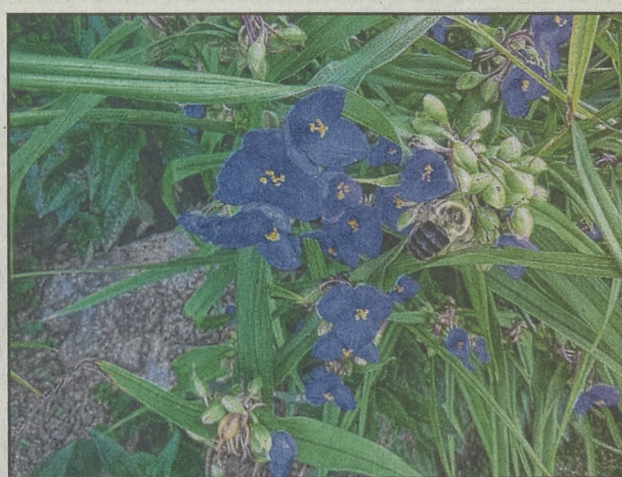

Pollinators face many challenges. The conversion of natural habitats to cropland or for development fragments pollinator habitat and diminishes the availability of floral resources. Nesting sites are often limited in our urban, suburban, and agricultural landscapes.

Non-native invasive plants that have escaped from our yards further degrade natural habitat by reducing plant diversity. Diseases, parasites and a changing climate contribute to pollinator decline.

Exposure to pesticides is also part of the equation. Certain pesticides can kill pollinators outright. Other pesticides can have sub-lethal effects, impairing a bee's memory and ability to return to its hive or suppressing the bee's immune system so it is more susceptible to diseases and pesticides.

Pesticides in this category include some neonicotinoids used in systemic pesticides. Because these are poured on the root system and taken up by the plant, homeowners may feel they are safe for pollinators without realizing that the pesticide moves through all parts of the plants, including into the pollen and nectar.

A bee gathering pollen from a spiderwort flower.

That brings us to Integrated Pest Management (IPM), a systematic approach to pest management that involves a combination of techniques such as biological, physical, cultural, and as a last resort, chemical controls.

Some easy things to consider for insect control without the use of pesticides are rotating crops wherever annual plants are grown. It involves changing the type of plants grown so that closely related plants are not cultured in the same area year after year.

By changing the plant family, pests are less likely to successfully build up to damaging populations. Sanitation is another way to help control insects.

Many insects overwinter or spend part of their life cycle in plant debris around desired plants. Raking and removing fallen leaves, fruits or other plant debris may eliminate certain pests.

Don't guess, soil test. Take a soil test to determine what nutrients your plants need. Plants and lawns may not require as much fertilizer as you think.

Limit your use of lawn fertilizers, herbicides and insecticides. You can reduce your need for herbicides by mowing your grass at 3 to 4 inches. High mowing discourages weeds because higher grass shades out weeds. Use natural fertilizer and time it right.

These are a few of the simple things that we can do without much effort to help improve our environment. As gardeners, there are so many things that we can do to help improve the world where we live.

These Taxes and Costs can be paid up to the time of the sale.

THERE WILL BE NO REDEMPTION PERIOD AFTER THE DATE OF THE SALE.

IT IS STRONGLY URGED that prospective purchasers have an examination made of the title to any property in which they may be interested. Every effort has been made to keep the proceedings free from error. # West End Fair to add new horse tent to livestock area

BY HUNTRE KEIP
HKEIP@TNONLINE.COM

Horses will have their own tent as part of the livestock component of the West End Fair this year.

The horse tent will be a 60-by-60-square-foot coverage that will house 29 horses, including individual stable stalls.

"As the fair keeps expanding, we needed to make room for the cows and horses, so we believe this is the best way," Livestock Director Bill Bond said.

With the new tent, the horses won't have to be tied in their stalls and have the ability to move around.

Fairgoers will be able to view the horses in the tent and walk between the stalls. Certain screenings and bars will be put in place.

The horse tent will be located where the small show ring used to be.

Halter class horse judging will take place at 12:30 p.m. Aug. 19 in the Agricultural Education Arena. Single and double hitch classes will immediately follow.

Heckman Orchards ventures to the fair

BY HUNTRE KEIP
HKEIP@TNONLINE.COM

Many years ago, the West End Fair used to have a produce stand, and now, one family-owned and operated business is bringing it back.

Heckman Orchards, located in Effort, will have a stand full of in-season fruits and vegetables available for purchase. This is the business's first fair venture away from its home base.

"There was an opportunity for us to do this, and we thought, why not," assistant manager of Heckman Orchards Amber Borg-er said.

A final decision on the produce will be made closer to the fair dates. Fairgoers can expect produce such as sweet corn, peaches, tomatoes and peppers. All sales are cash only.

"We take a lot of pride in our business. It'll be a new adventure, and we hope it'll give us more time to talk to our regular customers and even make some new ones, too," Borg-er said.

Heckman Orchards' stand will be at the fair all week. There will be some specials on produce, which will be announced at the fair.

World champion chain saw carver Dennis Beach returns to the West End Fair. Beach creates a different piece for each show, and all sculptures are finished products.

Dennis Beach returns to the fair with his chain saw

BY HUNTRE KEIP
HKEIP@TNONLINE.COM

World champion chain saw carver Dennis Beach returns to the West End Fair.

A popular attraction of the fair, Beach recognizes how he first began his adventure with the chain saw.

"I was searching for a hobby, and I was hired by a tree trimming company and it taught me a lot — I really liked how I worked with a chain saw," Beach said.

Thirty-six years later, Beach has competed and won several world championships in wood carving and travels to multi-ple fairs in the northeast.

At the West End Fair,

Beach is scheduled to perform four wood carving shows each day. On the last day, all of his pieces he made during the week will be at auction for purchase.

"You start to tell what the people like, so I like to make pieces during my shows that people are attracted to. The West End Fair has a good mixture of people where I can try different things," Beach said.

This summer, he's been working on duck and goat sculptures.

Each of Beach's shows are approximately 45 minutes. He creates a different piece for each show, and all sculptures are finished products.

Fairgoers can purchase wineglasses

BY HUNTRE KEIP
HKEIP@TNONLINE.COM

This year, fairgoers can purchase a piece of memorabilia of the West End Fair.

Blue Ridge Estate Vineyard and Winery and members of the West End Fair teamed up to create a West End Fair goblet wineglass.

The glass, adorned with the fair's logo, date and blue ribbons, is currently being sold at the winery for $3. The glass comes free with purchase of a $5 wine tasting.

There will not be wine tasting at the fair.

This is the first year for the wineglass sale.

During the fair, the glasses will be sold at the West End Fair Museum.

Current West End Fair Queen Katarina Frantz is an employee at Blue Ridge.

Hoffman's Smoked Meats and BBQ adds flavor to the fair

BY HUNTRE KEIP
HKEIP@TNONLINE.COM

After making its debut last year, Hoffman's Smoked Meats and BBQ is cooking up more flavor for the fairgoers' taste buds.

Owner Mark Hoffman and his wife, Amanda, grew up attending the fair and are overjoyed to add their business in the mix.

"We grew up attending the fair, our 7-year-old son is growing up with the fair, and it's very exciting to be a part of the fair now, too," Amanda said.

The traveling concession trailer will be set up all week, and prepares for a big turnout.

"Last year, at the beginning, we only sold pulled pork and beef sandwiches till we ran out. Then, we started smoking chicken leg quarters, and the smell coming off the smoker was amazing — everyone enjoyed it," Amanda said.

Pulled pork and pulled beef sandwiches along with the chicken leg quarters will be served all week long. All food sales are cash only.

"We're known for our pulled pork — it's juicy and flavorful. We serve it up in a big sandwich," Amanda said.

Aside from the fair food items, Hoffman's makes whole roasted chickens, smoked pork chops, ribs and more. They also provide whole roasted pigs for private parties and events.

Be sure to come hungry if you choose Hoffman's Smoked Meats & BBQ for a fair treat because you won't be hungry afterward.

Main Street Cruisers returns to fair Aug. 18

BY HUNTRE KEIP

HKEIP@TNONLINE.COM

The Main Street Cruisers are preparing to return to the West End Fair on Aug. 18.

The high-energy show is full of the band's core of favorite songs plus different additions depending on the audience.

"We can perform more than 1,000 songs," founder, manager and bass vocalist Mark Gutman said. "We try to perform each song as close to the original as possible with our own spin, of course."

Gutman, along with Lenny Longo, Lynn Mastio Rice, Jennifer Heilakka, Bill Morrison, Steve Patterson, Bill Lance and Paul Rice, rehearse every week and work together if the band has rough patches.

Main Street Cruisers will be the first band to perform at the fair, after the vesper service. The 6:30 p.m. show will include some gospel tunes and popular songs from the '50s and early '60s, along with the first decade of rock 'n' roll. Then the band will do a brief costume change and jump into its second show at 8 p.m. This show will cover late '60s and '70s music and popular disco songs.

Each show is family oriented.

"We encourage families to bring the kids for them to know what music was like back then," Gutman said.

At the conclusion of each show, the band ends with "God Bless the U.S.A.," considering Longo, Gutman and Lance are veterans. The band believes it's necessary to honor the past and present military heroes.

"We are blessed to live in this country and perform," Gutman said.

SteelCreek band is ready to take the main stage at the West End Fair on Aug. 19.

The band, whose name represents the workers of Bethlehem Steel and the Monocacy Creek, which flows into the Lehigh River along which the steel company was built, is excited to come back to the fairgrounds.

SteelCreek plays modern country hits including some classics and rock 'n' roll.

"It's a nice mix of country," lead female vocalist Jeni Hackett said. "If you listen to Cat Country 96 on the radio, you'll like our show."

The band urges the audience to get out of their seats and practice their country line dancing.

"We always try to make the people have a good time," Hackett said. "SteelCreek will perform twice, at 7 and 9 p.m."

For the third time, the band has brought fairgoers favorite songs from the '60s, and they continue to bring the high energy once more.

"We are absolutely excited to return to the fair," Maureen "Moe" Jerant said.

The band consists of Jerant on drums and guitar, Greg Geist on rhythm guitar and drums, Billy Trexler on lead guitar and electric sitar, John Harkins on keyboards and bass, and Colleen Zajacik on bass and percussion.

The band wants the show to be interactive with the audience members.

The Large Flowerheads are scheduled to perform at 1:30 and 3:30 p.m. Aug. 19.

SwingTime Dolls to debut on Aug. 21

BY HUNTRE KEIP
HKEIP@TNONLINE.COM

The SwingTime Dolls will make their performance debut at the West End Fair on Aug. 21.

The trio which consists of Jillian Ross, founder and lead vocalist; Stacy Gabel, alto vocalist; and Samantha Cummings, soprano vocalist, will take the audience back in time and share a jitterbug or Lindy Hop with Big Band and swing hits of the 1940s. Some modern hits by Michael Jackson and Lady Gaga are arranged to make it sound like the 1940s. Patriotic and Americana are incorporated in every show as well.

Ross created the SwingTime Dolls from inspiration by her grandmother Gilda, who was a singer during the World War II era.

"Big Band and swing music was a large presence in my household growing up, and it's become my favorite genre of all time," Ross said.

For every show, the group makes it a priority to honor veterans and active military by giving special musical attention to all branches of service and also speaking and personally thanking them for their service.

It is the group's first time at the fair, and they look forward to what the fair has to offer.

"We're really looking forward to meeting some new people in the audience and hear some of their stories of what our music means to them," Ross said.

The SwingTime Dolls will take the main stage at 1:30 and 5:30 p.m.

The Fabulous Greaseband performs Aug. 22

BY HUNTRE KEIP
HKEIP@TNONLINE.COM

The Fabulous Greaseband is set to provide fairgoers a variety of music from multiple decades.

The group, which started in high school, has kept the bond solid for 46 years. Five out of the eight current members are original members. Their love for companionship and music keeps the band alive and well.

Bandleader Harry Pasquito says the group is thrilled to return to the fair.

"We had a large crowd the last time — the show is the perfect time for the audience to dance, sing or both," Pasquito said.

Pasquito on vocals and keyboards is joined by Jeanne Giguere on vocals; Jeff Petro on vocals; Larry Ditullo on vocals; Craig Parson on keyboards; Steve Jackson on guitar; George Cook on bass and vocals; Gary Francione on drums; and Bob Brzezynski on saxophone.

The group has shared the stage with musical legends such as the Temptations, Chubby Checker, Bruce Springsteen and more. With these multiple opportunities, the band makes sure to sing its songs with the original artist intent.

"The audience should hear what they're used to hearing," Pasquito said.

Rockland Road performs at fair on Aug. 23

BY HUNTRE KEIP

A family of six, better known as Rockland Road, will visit the West End Fair on Aug. 23.

Formerly known as the Martin Family Circus, Rockland Road gives the audience a different view of a regular concert. Five years ago, parents Paul and Jamie committed full time to have a band with their four children — March, Kell, Texas and Tallant.

Paul and Jamie grew up in the music industry, so they are able to take their knowledge and give it to their kids while on the road.

"We are building this and organically," Paul said. "When you build a house, you need a foundation."

The show will consist of country and gospel classics along with tributes to the band's personal musical influences such as Oak Ridge Boys, Beach Boys and Bruno Mars. The band will perform some original songs based on country with a twist. The six-piece harmony has become their secret weapon.

The family band, originally from Nashville, has traveled the majority of the northeast, but it's their first appearance at the West End Fair.

"Pennsylvania is a beautiful state. We're so excited to perform at the fair," Paul said.

Rockland Road is scheduled to perform at 7 and 9 p.m.
