

Coyle, George F.

MARINE ON FURLOUGH

Pvt. George P. Coyle is spending his first furlough since he enlisted with the Marines in February, with his wife and eight-year-old son James, at their home, 217 Northampton Street, Bethlehem.

The Marine, who served overseas with the Army during the first World War, declared that he is with the "best outfit in the world."

He will leave tomorrow for Parris Island, S. C., having arrived here Sunday.

MAY 26 1943

Private Coyle was in mechanical maintenance department of Bethlehem Steel Company while he was a Bethlehem resident.
