$10 million Former banker charged in ponzi area scheme

At one time, he was president of Lafayette Bank. But Richard A. Freer, 67, is now in jail. He's charged as the mastermind behind a ponzi scheme that defrauded 81 local, and mostly older, Lehigh Valley residents of $10 million over the past four years. Northampton County District Attorney John Morganelli announced the charges Sept. 27 after Freer was arrested at his Palmer Township home. Based on a grand jury presentment, Freer has been charged with 90 counts of theft by deception and theft by failure to make the required disposition of funds; forgery (50 counts); deceptive or fraudulent business practices (42 counts); failure to register under the Pa. Securities Act

NORTHAMPTON CO.

(1 count); and sales and purchases in violation of the Pennsylvania Securities Act (1 count).

"He deserves to die in prison," Morganelli said. "I hope he has a long life because it's going to be spent in jail."

Ironically, Freer succeeded James P. Greer as president of Lafayette Bank when Greer was convicted of tax evasion in 1987. According to the presentment, Freer was forced to resign his position as president in 1991. Public records reveal that he was plagued by financial problems after he left Lafayette Bank, with numerous judgments filed against him. He sold his property, after which he and wife Beverly rented a home on Tatamy Road.

There is no evidence that Freer or his wife lived a lavish lifestyle, or had a drug or gambling dependency, according to Assistant DA Bill Blake, who is also handling this prosecution.

According to the presentment, Freer bounced from job to job after his departure from Lafayette Bank until 2002, when AVIVA Insurance hired him. From their Bethlehem offices, Freer began offering high yield investments to customers who agreed to invest their money with him privately. He promised to place their money in a real estate investment trust or with his employer. But he instead deposited the money into his personal checking and savings accounts.

In addition to his work with AVIVA, authorities claim that Freer carried on his ponzi scheme

PENN STATE Dent favors NCAA leniency

By BERNIE O'HARE
Special to the Bethlehem Press

The NCAA plans to gradually restore football scholarships to Penn State as a result of progress made since cuts resulted from the Jerry Sandusky scandal. But if you ask Lehigh Valley Congressman Charlie Dent, all 40 scholarships should be restored now.

Though Dent is happy to see "NCAA revisit its arbitrary and capricious punishment of innocent student athletes," he said he wants all scholarships restored immediately to "allow more student athletes the opportunity to graduate from a top-rated university." He has suggested the money should come from the $60 million fine the NCAA imposed on Penn State last year.

Dent, himself a PSU graduate, is joined in calling for the restoration of all scholarships by Congressman Glenn "GT" Thompson, whose congressional district includes Penn State. Thompson condemned the NCAA's punitive action against innocent students, noting it "only serves to harm past, present and future academic achievers."

Charter school

Board gives OK for move to Southside

By AMY HERZOG
Special to the bethlehem Press

The Bethlehem Area School Board cleared the way for the Lehigh Valley Charter School for the Performing Arts to move to a new location on East Third Street on the Southside during a regular board meeting at East Hills MS Sept. 23.

A representative from the charter school had appeared at the Sept. 9 curriculum meeting presenting the school's case for moving to a new location inside the TIFF zone on East Third Street. During the presentation several reasons for the move were outlined including the need for more space. While the initial resolution at the meeting was to deny the move, after discussion the curriculum committee decided to change the resolution to approve the school's move.

Prior to the vote during the public comment session, many members of the public spoke to the board in support of allowing the move. See BASD on Page A4

CELTIC CLASSIC 2013

EFFECTS ON THE VALLEY

Views vary on assistance cuts

By BERNIE O'HARE

The U.S. House approved legislation Sept. 19 that will knock $39 billion off the food stamp program, known technically as the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP).

According to the non-partisan Congressional Budget Office, up to 3.8 million people will lose food stamp benefits next year. Currently, one out of every seven Americans receives benefits.

Democrats in the House opposed this cut, but the measure passed by a 217-210 vote, though it appears unlikely that it will succeed in the Democratically-controlled Senate.

Democratic Congressman Matt Cartwright, who represents half of the Lehigh Valley, decried a bill "that will take the food out the mouths of nearly four million Americans next year." In a statement denouncing a draconian measure, the Scranton-based congressman adds that this bill will cut school lunches for more than 200,000 children as well as food assistance to 170,000 veterans.

Congressman Charlie Dent, who represents the remainder of the Lehigh Valley, was undecided about this bill but voted with his party, mainly to get it to a conference committee so that a larger farm bill can be adopted. He predicted that cuts in the final bill will be closer to $6 billion, as opposed to the $39 billion in the House version.

Dent says he supports a provision imposing work requirements on able-bodied adults without dependents.

"I'm fine with that," he noted. He also pointed out that food assistance to children and veterans would come through other programs.

Alan Jennings, whose Community Action Committee of the Lehigh Valley operates the Second Harvest Food Bank, distributed a record 7 million pounds of food last year.

"We need more support, not less," he observed. "The proposal by radicals in the House who have bullied the moderates into submission is an attack on working people whose only offense is that their skills are of little value in an increasingly complex, harsh and unforgiving marketplace."

In the wake of these sanctions, Dent last month introduced the NCAA Accountability Act, which is designed to standardize the enforcement process and gives students more priority. A four-year scholarship will no longer be revoked if a student is injured or loses his athletic prowess.

through Financial Services Group, Richard A. Freer and Associates and Limerick Properties, LLC. But he never registered these businesses with the Department of State as required by law. Nor has he ever registered as a broker-dealer, agent or investment adviser. In fact, he failed the examination for mutual fund and variable annuity salesmen on four separate occasions.

Freer operated by referral, visiting people at their homes. Though he did sublet office space at 65 E. Elizabeth Ave. in Bethlehem, he had no working phone or computer. His office consisted of a desk, television and filing cabinet.

Investigation begins

Morganelli began this investigation based on concerns raised by Bethlehem Attorney Nicholas E. Englessen and William Koscinski, an Allentown Certified Public Accountant. Their client, Hanover Township resident Jane Morris, 80, had signed over an annuity to Freer worth $48,000. She invested an additional $106,000 with Freer, based on his assurances that she would double her income. But last November, Morris began receiving notifications from the IRS that she owed $15,000 in taxes for prematurely cashing out the annuity. Koscinski contacted Freer, and later received a telephone message that, "all necessary information was sent to the IRS and you should not contact Mr. Freer or Mrs. Morris regarding this issue any further."

Koscinski then learned that Freer had provided nothing to the IRS and that the income tax issue remained unresolved. As he continued pressing the issue, Freer ultimately paid the $15,000 in income tax from his own account. But by this time, Morris had entrusted Freer with more than $400,000.

Based on this information, Morganelli began a grand jury investigation.

The Walters

According to the grand jury presentment, Easton residents Ted (64) and Lois (63) Walters invested more than $600,000 with Freer, beginning in 2004. He deposited this money in his personal account.

When they asked for monthly annuity payments, he provided them with $5,000 per month. They also invested $10,000 with Freer as a deposit on a vacation home in Delaware. He told them their mortgage was denied, but they subsequently learned from the owners of the vacation home that there had never even been an agreement of sale. The Walters asked Freer to transfer their money to another investment broker, but he provided nothing but excuses why this was impossible.

The Gencarellis

At least 10 members of this family, located in Bethlehem and Easton, entrusted $1.45 million to Freer for trusts that would enable their children to attend college. Freer told them he ran a big business with 19 employees, an attorney and his accountant. He promised to set up annuities with AVIVA, but instead deposited their money into his personal account. He used the money for personal expenses and to make payments to other victims of his ponzi scheme.

The Steads

Kenneth (83) and Shirley (77) invested more than $630,000 with Freer, starting in 2006. He cashed out their life insurance policies and an IRA, which went into his own personal account. Their money is gone.

Special investors

Detective Gerald Walsh executed a search warrant at Freer's home May 29. At that time, Freer told Walsh he finds "special investors" for his clients, with a guaranteed 5 to 11 percent rate of return. He acknowledged that most of his clients are between 55 and 75 years old. He told Walsh that his files were at his Bethlehem office, but Walsh found 82 files in an upstairs bedroom. According to Walsh, they reveal a "significant fraud" against numerous people, totaling $10 million. There were no documents indicating he had invested the money with legitimate investment firms or "special investors."

Fraud continues

During the course of the investigation, Freer's bank accounts were identified and frozen in July. Freer opened up a new checking account and took $189,000 from an elderly couple. He made out a cashier's check to himself for $20,000 and used other money to make payments to some of his victims.

DA outraged

Calling this "one of the most outrageous cases I've ever seen of theft," Morganelli condemned Freer's "despicable conduct." His office is looking for additional victims.

"I gotta believe there's more people out there," said Assistant DA Bill Blake. "Hopefully, they'll reach out as time goes on."

"We're not done yet," Morganelli added.

COLLEGE NOTES

Northampton Community College Veterans events scheduled

Northampton Community College (NCC) will host "Off to War & Coming Home: Historical Perspectives on Military Veterans During and After Their Service" year-round program. The free events are made possible by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities and matching donations. Community partners include the Bethlehem Area Public Library, Eastern Monroe Public Library, Bethlehem Area School District, Stroudsburg Area School District, Historic Bethlehem Partnership and Monroe County Historical Society. For information, call the college or visit the website.

College fair Oct. 15

Representatives from more than 150 colleges, universities and technical schools will be at NCC for a College Fair from 6 to 8 p.m. Oct. 15 at the Arthur L. Spartan Center, Main Campus, 3835 Green Pond Road. The fair is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Association of College Admission Counseling. It will be open free of charge to students of all ages who are considering post-secondary education and to their families.

Nurse Aide information session Oct. 7

Northampton Community College will hold a free nurse aide information session Oct. 7, from 6 to 7 p.m. at the Fowler Family Southside Center, 511 E. Third Street, Bethlehem.

Attendees will learn about the career, training requirements and tuition assistance through CareerLink.

Classes for nurse aides will start Nov. 11. The program has requirements that must be completed prior to the first class. The cost of the 3-week class is $1,100.

For instructions on requirements, go to www.northampton.edu/healthcarecerts or call 610-332-6585.

ing the school to move and about the benefits to the students and the Southside community from the move.

"We offer students with talents in the arts additional opportunities to practice that art that they might not otherwise get," said Mario Acerra, president of the board of directors for the Lehigh Valley Charter School for the Performing Arts. "We want to be on the Southside of Bethlehem. Sixteen of our students are already from the Southside and by moving there we may encourage other talented students."

All the details are in place for this move, Acerra continued.

"We have the necessary plans and the funding to realize that, including over $4 million in donations; please do not let these plans go to waste. I ask that you base your decision on the educational needs of our students and I am confident that you will."

During discussion about approving the charter school's move, several members of the board spoke in favor of approving the school's request to move, but Bonilla spoke out against the move.

Bonilla said he would not vote in favor of the charter school moving.

"I just want to say I will be voting against approval of the charter school. It is our job to stand up for the taxpayers. On behalf of the taxpayers I cannot support this," Bonilla said.

Supporters of the charter school present at the meeting broke into applause as the board voted 7-2 to pass the resolution, allowing the school to change locations once their new building is built.

In other news, the architect to build the new Neichman MS was finalized. Breslin, Fidero and Ridyard will build the project after being chosen by the board after lowering their initial fee for the project.

The firm's hiring as the architect had caused some controversy at the facilities committee meeting Sept. 16 when it was announced that Superintendent Dr. Joseph Roy

HARB OKs windows, denies decking

BETHLEHEM

By LEO ATKINSON
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Bethlehem's Historical and Architectural Review Board reviewed four proposals at the Sept. 4 meeting, but the majority of their time, more than 50 minutes in a meeting which lasted just under an hour and a half, was focused on a twin home at 266 E. Wall St.

The owner and applicant, John Zawarski, proposed to replace the existing windows, porch posts and porch decking with lower-maintenance materials. The replacement windows and posts are designed to mimic the historic appearance of the originals.

Board member Beth Starbuck told Zawarski, "We prefer to have [the original] repaired," and called the artificial materials "not historic."

Both Zawarski and Phil Roeder, HARB member and Bethlehem building inspector, reported that the windows and porch posts were beyond the point of restoration.

Zawarski was granted

JOHN ZAWARSKI'S proposed improvements to this East Wall Street house divided Bethlehem's Historical and Architectural Review Board at its monthly meeting.

a Certificate of Appropriateness to replace his windows and porch posts, with only Marsha Fitz, HARB member, dissenting on the porch posts vote.

The porch decking was another matter.

Fitz told Zawarski that she did not like the artificial decking materials.

She explained that she had gotten the porch on her own home redone with wood and though she had it custom milled, it was cheaper in the long run and beautifully done.

Roeder responded, saying he was "not convinced that once installed it will look artificial," calling the manmade material an "adequate replacement."

The HARB voted 8-1, with Roeder objecting, to deny Zawarski the use of the proposed artificial porch decking.

In other business, the Unitarian Universalist Church of the Lehigh Valley, located at 424 Center St., was granted a Certificate of Appropriateness to allow UGI to install an external gas meter on the Pine Street side of the building.

Also, the HARB approved plans to rebuild a garage damaged in an automobile accident in the 200 block of East Market Street and plans for a new cedar fence at a property in the 200 block of East Wall Street.

Stray dogs no problem in township

HANOVER TOWNSHIP

Though Northampton County has a growing animal control problem, it has thus far eluded Hanover Township. According to Township Manager Jay Finnigan, only five strays were picked up in 2012, and the township was able to find homes for them all. Four of those five dogs were a pitbull breed.

"We've been lucky," said Finnigan at the Sept. 10 supervisors' meeting. "It's a huge problem [elsewhere]."

A LONG-AWAITED bucket truck arrives in Hanover Township. The truck will enable township employees to replace lights and install banners.

While on the topic of dogs, Finnigan reminded everyone that FreshPet was hosting a Sept. 14 movie night at the Township Park, featuring "Hotel for Dogs." In addition to free FreshPet samples, there was a K-9 demonstration, Search and Rescue dogs and therapy dogs galore.

"Finnigan must have forgotten that dogs are banned in the park," said Public Works Director Vince Milite, who also doubles as animal control officer. Milite said he

STATE POLICE Theft

A resident of Nancy Lee Court in Hellertown reported to police the theft of a firearm around 4 p.m. Sept. 25.

According to Lower Saucon Township police, the weapon, a .45 caliber Colt Defender pistol, was taken from a residence in May or June. Police did not indicate if the home was broken into or if ammunition was also taken.

DUI

Police arrested a 25-year-old man following a car crash on East North Street around 7 p.m. Sept. 13.

According to police, James Martin, of Laufer Street, was involved in an accident and found to be in possession of marijuana and a grinder, and is suspected to have been under the influence.

Martin is charged with traffic violations, required insurance, DUI, and possession of marijuana and paraphernalia.

Stickups

A resident reported he was robbed at gunpoint in the 1100 block of Fritz Drive around 9:35 p.m. Sept. 18.

According to police, two black males stole $200 in $20 bills and the victim's Apple iPhone 4S.

Just before midnight police responded to a reported robbery in the 1100 block of East Fourth Street.

Police said two men, bearing a pistol and shotgun respectively, broke into a residence. The victim was struck in the face and his dog was shot, police said. No additional information was released.

Bill Berry is a former Bethlehem Township Commissioner interested in preserving the Archibald Johnston Mansion at Housenick Park. And he's even found a roof doctor willing to make a house call at no cost to anyone. That's what he told commissioners at their Sept. 16 meeting.

Berry, originally from Sullivan County, learned that a roofing consultant was used there to evaluate the county courthouse's 20,000-square-foot slate roof. He was responsible for inspection, specifications and developing bid packages. The replacement cost about $500,000, with a $17,000 fee paid to the roof doctor.

Berry contacted Mark J. Soback Roofing Consulting, located in Wilkes-Barre. He is willing to make a similar evaluation of the mansion's 5,320-square-foot roof at no cost to the township. Berry added that the township engineer could provide a similar bid for comparison.

"ongoing problem" exacerbated by five new inlets from a bank, emptying into a playground next to the bike path.

"It's a catastrophe for the children," he warned. There will be no quick fix.

"It's not going to be solved this week. It's not going to be solved next month," remarked Kutzler.

President Paul Weiss explained that property owners along the bike path have encroached on the township right of way, which complicates things. Kutzler predicted that the problem would be addressed in the spring and expressed some frustration when Kresge complained about not seeing township employees along the bike path for months at a time.

"You're taking a shot at my staff," Kutzler told Kresge.

Finally, commissioners heard from Troop 317 Boy Scout Ryan Hall, who is planning to install landscaping and a 20-foot flagpole at the Freemansburg-Bethlehem Athletic Association facility in Miller Heights. The entire cost of the project is $1,900, and Hall is already well on his way to raising the money, thanks to a $1,000 donation from United Way. He asked commissioners to waive the $25 fee for a permit.

They refused. But that's only because township solicitor Jim Broughal offered to pay the fee himself.

Kutzler called it a "very worthy project."

Hall is a junior at Freedom HS.

AREA POLICE Disorderly

Police arrested a man and two women within an hour in two separate incidents of public urination the early morning of Sept. 21.

According to police, around 1:25 a.m. Kimberly Christman, 31, and Shannon Obrien, 25, both of Northampton, were observed seeking relief in a South New Street parking lot.

About 40 minutes later officers arrested Ronald Bowser, 33, of Prospect Avenue, for peeing in the alleyway behind the Old Brewery Tavern on West Union Boulevard.

All three are cited with public disorderly conduct, and Bowser is also charged with public drunkenness.

Burglary

A resident in the 800 block of Walters Street reported a break-in around 3 p.m. Sept. 20.

According to police, unknown persons entered the residence by breaking a rear window. Jewelry, prescription medication and cash was stolen.

STRAY

In other business, Milite reported that he's finally taken possession of a one-ton bucket truck that will enable his 13 employees to replace lights and install banners as needed.

Supervisors also heard from Cherry Avenue resident Paul Gerra, who is concerned about the marketing of airport land near his property.

"We know what you know," explained Supervisor Glenn Walbert, who told Gerra there are no plans or discussions with the township concerning that property.

Community Benefit District program draws criticism

By ANDREW FOX
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Bethlehem Council members considered the public comments of residents regarding Southside Bethlehem's proposed Community Benefit District at their Sept. 17 meeting.

This land revitalization effort was proposed in May 2013 by local property and business owners under Pennsylvania's Neighborhood Improvement Act of 2000. Under the direction of program coordinator Donna Taggart, Urban Planning Commission Taggart Associates has been placed in charge of providing various proposals as council considers public opinion and whether the establishment of a Community Benefits District in Southside Bethlehem would be favorable to all involved in the community.

Program cost

If approved, the establishment of a Community Benefit District would cost $500,000 per year, with a total assessment of $6.8 million, as indicated by an early draft of the project. As it stands now, that expenditure would equal a median commercial property tax of $336, with some properties in the proposed district borders projected to be taxed as high as $10,000 extra per year. The cost of the project as a whole, however, would be offset by donations from local businesses, including a $100,000 per year pledge from Lehigh University, which committed to its donation last May.

New services

According to the May 2013 proposal, this money would provide for several new services in Southside Bethlehem, including "safety patrol providing eyes and ears for Bethlehem police" and "power washing high traffic sidewalks and common areas."

While these services have been proposed with the intention of revitalizing the community, several local residents voiced their opposition to the plan. Southside resident Mary Pongracz called the plan, "another form of eminent domain."

CITY COUNCIL

"I don't want to hear about flower planters when kids are hungry."

MARY PONGRACZ

Pongracz described a host of other problems that the local community faces in the wake of such a proposal, including a level of poverty that several residents in the area face.

"I don't want to hear about flower planters when kids are hungry," Pongracz said.

Ridge street resident Stephen Antalics opposed the program as well. He was careful to note previous revitalization efforts that the district has already undergone, including renovations to Main and Church streets, which have seen construction improvements twice in the past already.

Give back

Antalics suggested that, rather than investing money in the Southside Community Benefits Program, money residents are being asked to give ought to be given back to the city instead.

At the conclusion of the meeting, council members collectively agreed to postpone voting on the Community Benefits District Program until mid-December when, according to Council President Eric Evans, council will approve its budget. Project consultant Taggart commented on council's actions, noting, "It's never good to rush anything."

Other business

In other business, council issued citations to two former members of the Bethlehem City Police Department, commending them for their years in service. Former Sgt. John Karb and former Chief Jason Schiffer have both recently decided to retire and spoke at the meeting, noting that they felt both honored and privileged to have served the city for so long. Karb, with 23 years of service, started with the department in 1991 and was promoted to the rank of sergeant in 2010. After Karb accepted his citation, Schiffer was called to the podium and spoke of his confidence in the new team of police leaders who would take his and Karb's place.

WRESTLING Changes produce thought, debate

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Change always comes with a breath of contention and wrestling coaches have their opinions on and off the record of the latest news regarding the newly formatted District 11 3A and 2A team tournaments.

With 12-teams qualifying in both brackets, nobody has an issue with a larger wrestling party to give more teams an opportunity to compete for postseason opportunities.

Where those teams get seeded and "the ultimate qualifier" bout is where there is room for debate.

In years past, a District 11 committee would meet before district duals and seed teams based on an array of factors to put the best teams in the proper positioning for the postseason.

With the recent changes of wrestling seeds being predicated off the power point system that the district uses in most sports, Lehigh Valley Conference coaches, primarily in 3A have their own concerns.

With the Mountain Valley Conference looking like a lock to join the LVC after next season, issues of where those teams will be seeded may only last for a year, but in the meantime, LVC coaches are not thrilled at the prospect of having teams from the North, including Blue Mountain, gaining higher quality seeds over their LVC counterparts based off their power point rating.

Northern schools have always come down to district duals with impressive records, but to be honest, very little clout, as the competition they face on a weekly basis doesn't compare to what the schools in the LVC go through.

The committee was able to fix any of those discrepancies in years past with the power rating system, but without them, it appears that all coaches will have to deal with a computer system aligning teams for the tournament.

"I'm sure most LVC teams would like to see our tougher schedule help us in seeding," said Freedom head coach Brandon Hall. "The seeding committee has always balanced that out, but now there won't be a committee to do such things."

"All that being said, the cream will rise to the top and I do think the two best teams will advance to states."

Advancing to states is the ultimate goal for the top two teams in each classification coming out of the district's two classifications.

With the addition of "the ultimate qualifier" bout, teams that have made the finals now have another incentive outside of district gold and a spot in Hershey — and that's called not wrestling in the consolation bout.

As anyone in wrestling knows, battling back in consolation

Hawks flying high

Becahi knocks off LHS for second-straight year

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

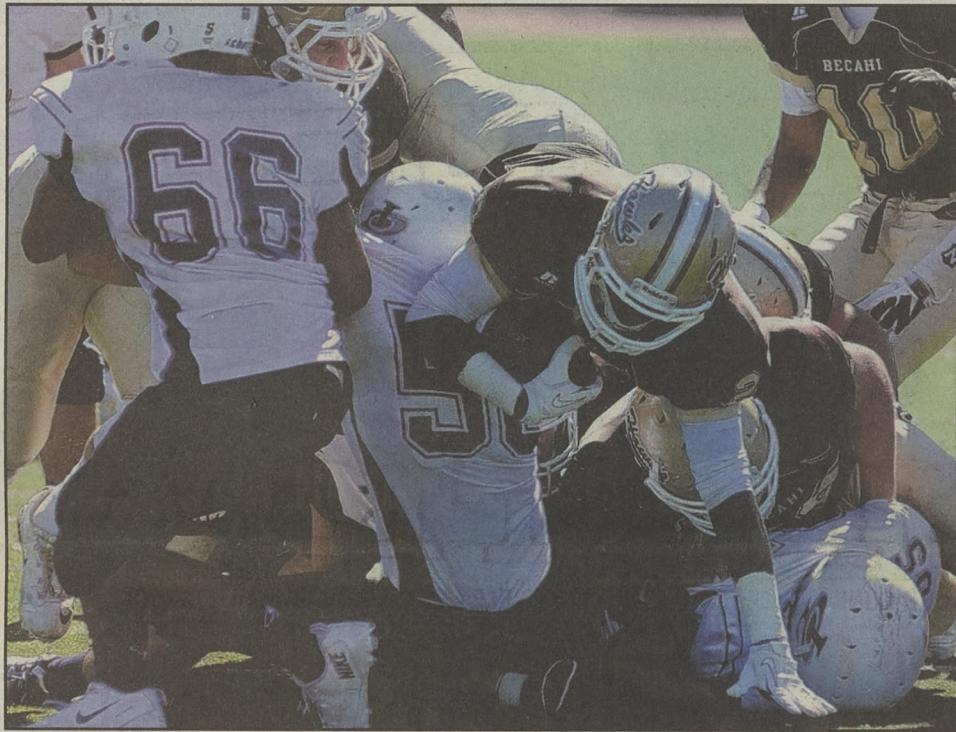

With one of their most skilled players ejected in the first quarter and starting down the barrel of a 13-point deficit heading into the fourth quarter, Bethlehem Catholic faced their share of adversity last Saturday afternoon at Frank Banko Field.

But in the end, Becahi proved that this season has been no fluke and that the football program is flying high following a dramatic 35-27 victory over Liberty last week.

The Hawks improved to 4-1 overall and 3-1 in Lehigh Valley Conference play, to grab a share of the league lead with the likes Parkland, Easton, Emmaus and Whitehall, who all share 3-1 league marks.

But for the Golden Hawks, this unlikely climb to the top from an outsiders perspective was one that was always attainable from within, something that Becahi didn't have a year ago.

"The biggest difference for us is the resiliency and heart this team has," said Becahi running back Michael McDaniel. "This is a totally different team from last year. No matter what happens this year, we always believe that we can come back. It's all about heart for us."

McDaniel rushed for 138 yards and four touchdowns on the afternoon, as Becahi needed someone to step up following a first quarter ejection from wide receiver Freddie Simmons, who was tossed following a pileup where he was accused of throwing a punch.

McDaniel knew that moment needed to be a rallying cry for the team moving forward.

"I'm not going to lie," he said. "That really both- See Hawks on Page A14

Races come down to wire

It's getting down to crunch time in the volleyball season and Liberty and Freedom are looking to clinch district berths as the season winds down to its final two weeks.

Liberty (7-6, 4-5) and Freedom (4-6, 4-5) are both on the cusp of qualifying for the postseason, but will need to close out the season on positive notes if they want to clinch berths.

Liberty needs to win two matches out of their last five in order to solidify a postseason berth, while Freedom needs three LVC wins in their final five bouts to clinch.

The Patriots, who have only missed the postseason three times in Joe Yoo's 31 years and who haven't missed in over 10 years, have matches with Emmaus (10-1) and Dieruff (1-13) this week. The Pates figure they should beat the Huskies, which would presumably leave them with needing two wins against either Easton (4-7), Bethlehem Catholic (7-5) or Liberty (7-6) next week.

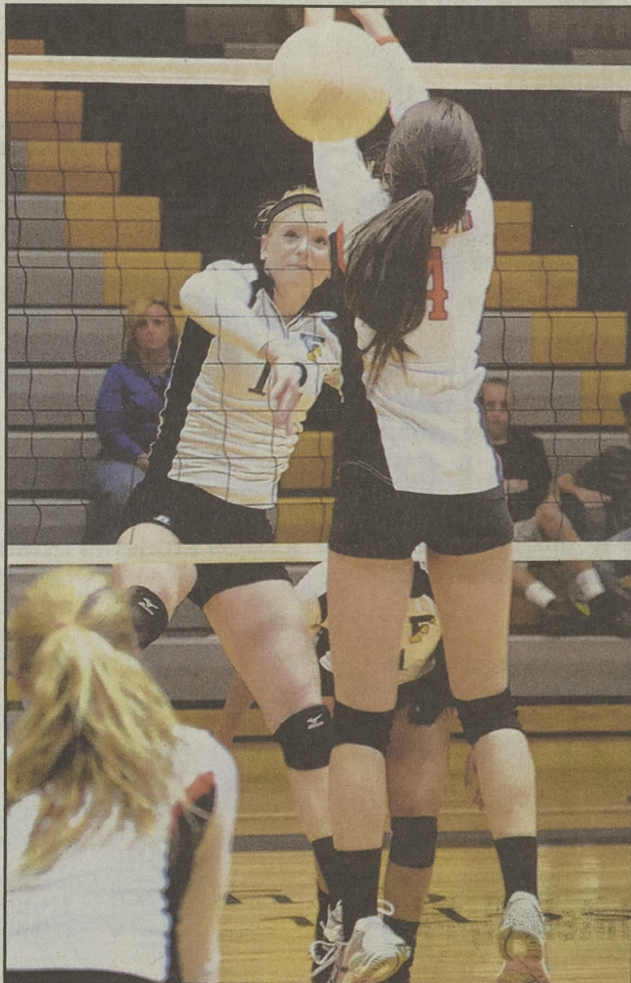

"The way it looks now, it's going to come down to the end," said Yoo. "We just haven't been able to finish games. We get scores in the 20s and then can't close out the games. It's really been the story of our season."

That became more apparent last weekend at the Haverford tournament, where Freedom went 1-8 and found themselves in similar situations of having the chance to close out games, but not being able to do so.

"It became apparent that it was a mental thing for us on Saturday," Yoo said. "We need to get past that if we want to get into districts."

Liberty has Nazareth (6-5) and Northampton (6-8) this week before closing out next week with divisional matchups. Head coach Missy Lynn knows her team's magic number is two and would like to get that out of the way this week.

"We play an enthusiastic and intense Nazareth team for our Dig Pink match Tuesday," said Lynn. "Like us, they are a See Vball on Page A14

FIELD HOCKEY

'Canes look to finish strong

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Liberty's field hockey team doesn't have much to worry about heading into the stretch run of their season.

Freedom and Bethlehem Catholic don't really either. The difference is that the Hurricanes are heading into a different direction as their counterparts, as Liberty (8-4, 7-2) have essentially sealed the division title, to clinch them a spot in the LVC playoffs, barring a major late-season collapse.

Bethlehem Catholic (2-10, 2-7) and Freedom (2-9, 2-7) are headed the opposite way, mathematically eliminated from the post-season, looking to build for the future in their final games.

But if there's one thing that any of the programs want to avoid at the moment, it's complacency, whether you're doing well like Liberty or swimming through rough waters like Becahi and Freedom.

"I think we are in a comfortable spot right now, but I don't want the girls to 'get comfortable,'" said Liberty head coach Mary Kathryn Omdahl.

"I want them to want more and to continue to improve and strengthen their game. Consistency has been extremely important. We have not found consistency across an entire game yet, but we are working to fix that. The goal is to play 60 minutes all out with no mental lapses."

Charis Innarella has been through plenty of good years at Freedom, but the Pates have struggled to get things moving in the right direction as of late. Freedom lost to Pocono Mountain East 3-0 over the weekend to continue a tough year, but Innarella remains positive.

"We understand we have work to do," she said. "We are proud of the fact that we have made some strides and practices have been positive and everyone is staying together as a team.

"We're working to create more scoring opportunities and everyone understands the depth of intensity they need to bring with each game.

"True character is revealed in times of struggle. I have belief and confidence in my team and know that tomorrow will be the start of good things including a strong push to finish out the season."

Becahi head coach Luke Wilde is enduring his first year as boss of the program and knew he had obstacles heading into his first year as coach.

He hopes that some of See Hockey on Page A14

BOYS SOCCER

Pates top Dieruff

By KATIE MCDONALD
kmcDonald@tnonline.com

For the second time in one week, Freedom's boys soccer game under the lights at BASD Stadium yielded winning results, when the Patriots defeated Dieruff 6-2 last Wednesday night.

"They played us tough last year. It was a great opportunity for me to see how we would respond. I didn't really see any intensity in us in the first 20 minutes, but then we got six out of ten players involved in that first goal," said Freedom coach Michael O'Connell.

That first goal was scored by Nigel Long after Diego Hernandez played the ball across on a pass from Quinn Ackerman.

"Dieruff has a lot of good pieces. You have to play them straight up. We brought the better of the play, and the score reflected that," Long said.

Ackerman scored the second goal before Long scored the third when Freedom goalkeeper, Josh Wasilik, put the ball in the box. Long played it across, Hernandez shot, and Long put it in.

Wasilik was making his return to the team after being sidelined with a concussion.

"It was a long couple days. [Tonight] I felt like we dominated most of the game. Our defense was pretty strong," said Wasilik.

Also scoring for the Patriots were Jake Banas, Alex Thomas, and John Morales.

Days later, Freedom lost to an undefeated Pleasant Valley team 2-1, and Emmaus 6-0. Victor Gonzalez scored a goal for the Patriots in the second period, and Wasilik had nine saves against Pleasant Valley.

The Pates had been hoping to challenge both the Bears and the Hornets.

"We have a little bit of momentum. Pleasant Valley never dealt with a loss. We came from the ground up. We're fighting for that district seed," Long said.

Last week, Liberty defeated Nazareth 2-1, and Bethlehem Catholic also defeated the Huskies 9-2.

Bethlehem Catholic's Nick Maff led the way shooting an 80 at Mahoning Valley Country Club, par-73 on Monday, Sept. 30. Overall it was tied for the sixth-best score of the day.

Liberty's Kevin Zakszeski shot 81 to tie for seventh. Freedom's Tommy

Two more Hawks qualified: JT Barker and Zach Surovy who both shot an 85.

In all, 22 kids qualified on Monday, which didn't include those who qualified for states last year as well as league champs, who are all exempt.

Emmaus' Carlos Fullerton shot 74 and was tied with Northampton's Tyler Smith for lowest round of the day.

Liberty's Peterson gets silver at No. 1 singles

By KATIE MCDONALD

All the pieces came together for Liberty tennis player, Samantha Peterson, when the Hurricane sophomore won the silver medal at number one singles in the Lehigh Valley Conference Tennis Tournament on Monday at Parkland High School.

"I just kind of went for it no matter what. My ground strokes, in general, and my forehand were good today," Peterson said.

Peterson began the day with an 8-3 victory over Northampton's Leah Hodge.

"I played pretty consistent [against Hodge]," she said.

Peterson's cross town rival from Freedom, Flannery Johnston, won her match against Central Catholic's Marina Zardet 8-4, setting up a Hurricane-Patriot rematch. Just last week, Peterson lost to Johnston, but on Monday, Peterson scored the 10-5 victory.

"It felt amazing. Again, I had to go for it. I was basically fearless, and my net game was really good. It was the best feeling ever, since I lost [to Johnston last week]," said Peterson.

Liberty coach Leo Schnalzer knew his number one singles player had the potential to medal.

"I've seen segments of that, but today, they were much longer, and she played to her capability. She served beautifully. She moved well on the court. She just came out with a good mindset to play the best tennis she could play. It's nice to see how capable she is when she does that, and it builds her confidence," Schnalzer said.

Peterson's final match of the day was a 10-5 loss to Parkland's Jenna Peng, but that did not dampen her spirits.

"I did better than I expected. I prepared at practice, but I never expected this," Peterson said.

Freedom tennis player, Kayleigh DiNoto, did her homework and saw it pay off with a silver medal at number two singles in the Lehigh Valley Conference Tennis Tournament on Monday at Parkland High School.

"It's good. It's nice, and it's really exciting," DiNoto said.

DiNoto's first match ended in an 8-4 victory over Bethlehem Catholic's Emily Hozza.

"I was consistent, and that was good," DiNoto said.

Expecting a tough match from her second opponent, Catherine Garrity of Emmaus, DiNoto learned Garrity's style of play.

"She's really powerful. It was close during the [regular] season, but I beat her. She only lost to Parkland and me. I learned how she played and her direction. Whenever I go soft, I mess up because she's tall, and she slams it down the line," said DiNoto.

DiNoto then faced Parkland's Anna Qiu in the final where Qiu won 10-7.

"She had really good shots. I had to keep up with her going back and forth, but my net play was off today," DiNoto said.

DiNoto's silver was the first LVC medal for the Patriot senior, after sitting out last year with an injury.

Shaina Palmer gets best time of year

By KATIE MCDONALD
kmcDonald@tnonline.com

Freedom cross country runner, Shaina Palmer, recorded her best time of the season last week with a 19:32 finish, leading the Patriot girls over Nazareth 22-34 and tying Northampton 29-29.

Liberty's girls also defeated Nazareth 21-35 but lost to Northampton 25-32.

Freedom freshman, Olivia Salerno took second place, and Bridget Tarnowski placed fourth, also for the Patriots.

Liberty's runners rounded out the top ten, as Nikki Nelson finished in fifth place, Raisa Kochmaruk was eighth, Rachel Finn came in ninth, and Julie Vernarr placed tenth.

Bethlehem Catholic's girls lost two last week, falling to Emmaus 19-42 and Central Catholic 23-32.

Kassi Yocco took eighth place and Rowan Pepe finished 12th for the Hawks. Bethlehem Catholic's boys also lost to Emmaus 20-40 and Central Catholic 27-30.

John Donchez took ninth place, and Trevor Kleckner finished tenth for the Hawks.

Liberty and Freedom's boys scored two victories apiece, as the Hurricanes defeated Nazareth 26-33 and Northampton 20-41, and the Patriots defeated Nazareth 15-46 and Northampton 15-48.

Finishing in first place was Freedom's Ben Ziegler in 16:30, followed by teammate, Jason Lopez, who came in second.

Liberty's Alex Fitch was third, and Freedom's Chris Kelly came in fourth. Will Alpaugh was fifth, and Dan Quigley was sixth, both for the Patriots, and Hurricane runner, Robert Marrero placed tenth.

Freedom's boys are currently 8-0. Liberty's boys are 5-3.

In the final rivalry match of the girls tennis season, Freedom defeated Liberty 7-0 last week at Freedom.

Flannery Johnston defeated Samantha Peterson 6-1, 6-0 at number one singles, Kayleigh DiNoto defeated Madelyn Conrad 6-1, 6-2 at number two singles, and Federica Maranzana defeated Emily Moss 6-0, 6-0 at number three singles.

Maranzana said, "Last year we lost against Liberty, so [winning] is always nice. We're definitely doing better than last year. I feel like our three singles [players] are strong, and our [team] record is much better."

At number one doubles, Marlena Krcelich and Madison McTier defeated Marisa DeLuca and Martina Gale 8-3.

At number two doubles, Elizabeth McCarthy and Marissa Mele defeated Abby Frankenfield and Katie Kametz 6-3, 6-2. Corinne Marchese and Kaitlyn Swint defeated Nataliya Ahkemdova and Prakruti Patel at number three doubles 6-3, 6-4, and at number four doubles, Jasmme Kaur and Janessa Scherrman defeated Yesenia Cano and Sarah Manley 6-0, 6-3.

Freedom coach Mark Sigmon said, "My doubles have thoroughly exceeded my expectations. Each one is over 50%. My singles players have a total of about seven losses in 42 matches. That's our strength."

Freedom High School 2012 graduate, Valeria Ceron, has assisted Sigmon this season, focusing on the doubles players.

"I usually do a lot of drills with them and try to work with them one-by-one. I just take my time with them. We all respect each other, and even though we're close in age, they still see me as an adult," Ceron said.

Also last week, Bethlehem Catholic defeated Easton 5-2.

Cynthia Blay (E) defeated Taylor Treadwell (BC)

6-2, 6-2 at number one singles, and Paige Colver (E) defeated Emily Hozza (BC) by the same scores at number two singles, but Meghan McGovern (BC) won at number three singles over Elise Herschlag (E) 6-0, 6-0.

At number one doubles Liah Perez and Lexie Rusin (BC) defeated Nicole Pambianchi and Aubrey Reed (E) 8-6.

Brooke Adams and Alex Madison (BC) defeated Olivia Bishop and Megan Hsu 6-3, 6-7, 6-4 (E) at number two doubles.

At number three doubles, Tori Evert and Sam Macaluso (BC) defeated Kristina Litonjina and Amanda Tyrell (E) 6-3, 6-4, and at number four doubles, Raquel Jouvin and Maureen Mazza (BC) defeated Brooke Schlough and Mahnoor Shah (E) 6-3, 6-3.

Freedom tennis player, Federica Maranzana, was filled with mixed emotions following her silver medal finish at number three singles at the Lehigh Valley Conference Tennis Tournament on Monday at Parkland High School.

"I just kind of went out pretty relaxed. I wanted to play my best and see where it went. Once I got close, I wanted to see if I could do this. It's a little upsetting that I was that close," Maranzana said.

Maranzana made it to the final, taking on Parkland's TuQuyen Pham and missing out on the gold medal 8-10.

"At the beginning, I was down 0-3. Then it started being close," she said.

Maranzana's previous match was also a challenge, but the Patriot senior defeated Emmaus's Victoria Chan comfortably, 10-5.

"I was a little nervous because I lost to her during the season. It was close in the beginning [of today's match], but I was able to pull through," said Maranzana.

Facing Whitehall's Nicole Tock proved to be less difficult as Maranzana won 8-0 in her first match of the day.

"During the season, I won in three sets, so I thought it would be tougher," Maranzana said.

Accepting the silver medal, Maranzana displayed a combination of pride and regret.

"In my last two matches, my forehand went pretty well. I'm happy I got second, but a little disappointed. Overall, happy," said Maranzana.

OUT-TRAIN. OUT-PERFORM... GAME ON.

Former 'Cane Brown in senior season at Temple

By JEFF MOELLER
Special to the Press

Levi Brown realizes his football career at Temple University is winding down in his senior season on and off the field, but he doesn't have any regrets along the way after a stellar career at Liberty High School.

Instead, Brown has certainly made the most of his career since he first made the trip down the Pennsylvania Turnpike to North Philadelphia five years ago as a redshirt freshman.

The Owl's nose tackle and captain entered this season with 20 starts in 34 overall games and recorded 27 tackles last season. He is also wearing number nine this season, a tribute from head coach Matt Rhule who handed out numbers one through nine in recognition of how tough a player one can be.

Through his team's first two games this season, Brown has five solo tackles and two assisted tackles during a visit to South Bend to tangle with Notre Dame and the home opener against Houston. Unfortunately, Temple dropped both games.

"It was exciting going to Notre Dame," said Brown, a 6-2, 300-pound tackle. "It was a great experience to play a team that was in the national championship game last year and one that has such a great tradition as Notre Dame."

"We didn't have the outcome we wanted, but everyone has been working hard."

Hard work and dedication have been trademarks of Brown's career.

"Levi is a real leader on this team," said head coach Matt Rhule. "He proved that he is the toughest guy on this team and he is always putting his team first above any individual honors. He is a guy we can depend on."

Dispelling any honors, Brown is proud to wear number nine.

"That was a great honor for me," he said. "I was really excited to be chosen especially in my senior year. I know I have to make the most of my opportunities this year and it has been a great ride here."

Brown also is proud that he graduated in the spring with a degree in criminal justice.

"That's something I wanted to do, so I could just concentrate on football," he said. "This year, coach wants us to be more physical. I knew I had to work on my strength and speed and really worked to increase my strength. Last year, I had an ankle injury that was a struggle, but I took enough time off to get back."

"I also wanted to work on my technique and not to have to think about things too much. For me, it is just about making contact and quickly getting past my opponent."

Despite plenty of transitions in the program, Brown has been satisfied with the mixed feelings about the program after playing in three state championship games at Liberty. In fact, he has played for three different head coaches over the past three years.

"I'm really excited about this year and what we could do," Brown said. "This has worked out for me over the years and I have been happy here. We have had some limited success here and we did play in a bowl game in 2011."

Despite having a degree, Brown has his sights set of fulfilling his lifetime dream of playing in the NFL.

"Ever since I was eighth, my goal has been to play in the NFL," said Brown. "I have my degree, but I'm not thinking about a career next year. I want to keep playing football this year and next."

If he can make the most of his current opportunity, Brown won't have any other regrets about his next move.

Pates keeping heads up

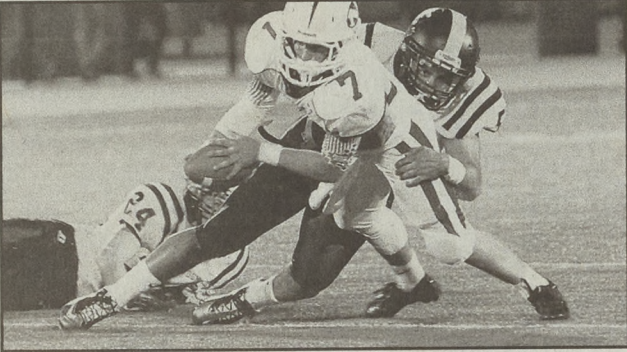

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Amid a 1-4 start and heading into a matchup at Easton this Friday night, you can say the 2013 campaign for Freedom football hasn't been ideal nor does it get any easier.

The Patriots lost to Nazareth 21-7 last week and head coach Jason Roeder knows that keeping a positive attitude is all he can do for his struggling program at the moment.

"Moping around and feeling bad about yourself isn't going to make things any better," Roeder said. "You have to keep your head up. We have five games left and some of them are big games for our kids, so you have to look at them as opportunities for us to improve."

The Pates have committed a league leading 19 turnovers on the season through five games, which is the highest number of giveaways Roeder has endured in his entire coaching career.

Louden Klotz brings down a Nazareth player during last week's loss to the Eagles.

It's part of the problem the Pates have in competing against LVC teams, where the margin for error is so small every week.

"We're not using youth as an excuse, but I'm sure it's been a factor for us in that department," said Roeder about the turnovers. "You can't be successful when you turn the ball over. It's as simple as that."

And what doesn't get any simpler is playing Easton this week with the Rovers (4-1) coming off their first loss of the season, a 14-7 defeat at Emmaus last week.

It may be the worse time for anyone to face Easton, but Roeder isn't going to shy away from the opportunity, as every week presents a chance to turn things around.

"We look at the last five games of the year as a chance to get better and take steps in the right direction," he said. "We have a bad taste in our mouths from last week's loss and we have a chance to go out and play. You have to be tough in tough times and that's where we are right now."

Pete's Top-10: Parkland on top

In a shocking revelation, Emmaus' football team actually showed they had guts and beat a rough and tumble Easton squad.

That's what we took away from week five, as the Rovers were brought back down to reality and Emmaus fans must be thinking 'what if' their first couple of games didn't start so poorly.

Like they say, every dog has its day, and the Hornets had theirs. Bethlehem Catholic is certainly having ered all of us. We were upset, but we still had a whole football game to play and we just needed to keep on moving forward from it."

And even after quarterback Julian Spigner was picked off by Liberty's KJ Williams for a 63-yard interception return for a TD with 2:42 remaining in the third period to put Liberty ahead 27-14, the Hawks kept moving forward.

Spigner found wide out Chris Figler on a 16-yard TD with 6:43 in the fourth to pull within six points.

Becahi then forced Liberty to punt from the back of the end zone, which resulted them starting the drive at the Liberty nine-yard line following the return.

That's where McDaniel gave the Hawks his third score of the afternoon, bursting in from two yards out with 3:00 left, as the extra point gave Becahi a 28-27 lead.

"This team is a special group and they really just won't quit," said Hawks head coach Joe Henrich. "They just have a passion for winning. It was an ugly first half and we committed too many penalties. But our resiliency paid off for us. We have some playmakers this year and we're bigger and stronger than we have been in the past, but there is a no quit attitude with this team."

McDaniel bursted through for his final score, a 44-yard scamper with 18 seconds left on the clock, where the Hawks may have wished to take a knee, as the touchdown gave them an eight-point cushion, but also kept Liberty alive.

The Hurricanes (2-3, 1-3) returned the kickoff to the 43, which was followed by a 40-yard completion from Doug Erney to Williams to give Liberty one last play from the 17.

Unfortunately, that's where it ended for the 'Canes as a final passing attempt was swatted down to give Becahi their second straight win over the Hurricanes.

"I've never been apart of a game where you were on a roller coaster like this," said Liberty head coach John Truby. "We score 21 points in the third quarter and then go out and give up 21 in the fourth. This loss really stings. It's our cross town rival and this was a game that you really want and I give Becahi the credit. They never quit."

young team with a ton of potential. We will need to be at our strongest to win. When we are focused and passing well, the rest falls into place."

Bethlehem Catholic (7-5) has already clinched a district berth for the 2A post-season, but still have their eyes set on winning the division to qualify for the LVC playoffs.

The Hawks take on Emmaus and Dieruff this week as well, with the Emmaus match being a gauge for where the team is at before they head into the final week of the season.

Change

tion rounds is not where you want to be.

It's difficult both mentally and physically and there is very little down time to get over a loss and refocus on the next task at hand. Perhaps it will be easier to do that as a team, but for a program like Parkland, who has lost the last two team titles to Easton, they would then have to gear up after losing their finals match and take on the consolation finalist, who is coming off a victory with momentum.

"I think it's always hard to wrestle for a true second," said Northampton head coach Seth Lisa. "All the momentum in the world is going to the team that's coming off a win."

"They do that format in some individual summer tournaments and you see how difficult it is for the kid that's coming off a loss in the finals. That kid that loses in the finals goes on to lose the next match a lot."

Still, both Lisa and Hall both agreed that the district is trying to do its best to help the sport and make the best decisions to get the top two teams to states.

Teams who have been seeded in the fourth or fifth spot are ultimately paired up with the top seed in the semifinals, which has particularly been a controversial subject as of late in 2A, since that meant a certain loss to Bethlehem Catholic.

Which begs another question. Are some of these changes predicated because of Bethlehem Catholic's success?

Opinions differ on that subject, but it wouldn't be far fetched to understand that Becahi has plenty of schools in 2A, primarily Pen Argyl, who have made their voices heard about the prospects of battling the Hawks in the semis.

Dating back to the district's own historical archives for champions, since 1997, only three teams have won district duals in the 3A format — Easton, Northampton and Nazareth.

Since 2000, Easton has won 10 of the last 13 dual titles, including the last four in a row.

In that same time span, five teams — Wilson, Northern Lehigh, Pen Argyl, Northwestern and Bethlehem Catholic — have won 2A titles, with Wilson leading the way with five titles, including four in a row at one point.

Hawks head coach Jeff Karam knows his program is always under the spotlight because of their success. He feels the changes will benefit teams in the district, even though he doesn't really worry about them.

"They're trying to get the two best teams to states and that's a good thing," he said. "In 3A, there has been some tough semifinal bouts that made you wonder what would happen if some of those teams were on the other side of the bracket."

Other concerns that come to mind with the new format is the new way coaches are going to have to approach weigh-ins, since the one-pound allowance appears to be scrapped that schools used to have because of consecutive days of wrestling.

Adding more teams to the tournament also is a mixed bag of opinion.

"We won our first bout [of districts] 76-0 last year," said Karam in reference to taking on ninth-seeded Panther Valley. "People then look and say you're trying to run up the score when we're really just preparing for the postseason. I'm not sure how much that match helped either program."

Lastly, attendance figures should rise, as getting fans to attend events at various venues should help the gate, rather than having the entire tournament in Bethlehem.

And if there's one thing we all know about sports, it's that finding ways to increase revenue is always on the agenda.

the lessons learned from this season can help the program grow further in the future.

"I knew that coming into this year we had a good amount of skill and athleticism, but that we had to fill 7-8 starting positions on the field after losing a good group of seniors last year," he said. Developing chemistry and gaining experience has come in the form of some tough losses.

"I think we still have a way to go at this point. It is unfortunate that we have had to suffer so many losses, but hopefully our team can learn from them and become more competitive. We need to continue to work hard, and make sure we work to prepare for next season."

VHDC cheers affordable housing

The Valley Housing Development Corporation announced at a mini-gala event Sept. 5 the official grand reopening of several revamped sites in Bethlehem and Allentown.

Four years in the making, the project encompassed the renovation and consolidation of four older properties into a single entity overseen by VHDC.

Costing $3.6 million, the renovations on Pennsylvania Avenue and Atlantic and East Fourth streets in Bethlehem and North Fifth Street in Allentown total 51 low cost apartments, three of which are wholly handicapped accessible.

The gathering was held at the Atlantic Street apartments.

Executive Director Daniel Beers said it's more efficient to run the properties together. "You have to look at it and say, 'Jeez, these smaller buildings just aren't working. How can we preserve the family housing that is really needed in our community?"

Beers said putting the disparate properties together was the most difficult and time-consuming part of the process, the applications for which alone filled several three-ring binders, but, "It got to a point where we all felt confident that, yeah, we can do this thing. It's worth the risk."

Congressman Charlie Dent (R-15) said to all the organizations present, "[We have] great partners in the community who are trying to stretch these dollars as far as we can. "You're really helping us."

Community Action Committee of the Lehigh Valley Executive Director Alan Jennings briefly explained the affordable housing units run about $200-$300 less expensive a month than the Lehigh Valley's fair market amount of $915. That number signifies 97-hour work-weeks at minimum wage jobs. In today's market, he said, "The reality is we just don't have the kind of jobs to pay the bills."

"That makes these kind of heroic efforts necessary."

Beers said all units are currently occupied, but there is turnover, so for applications call VHDV at 610-433-2312.

A Good Sinner?

Evangelist Eddie Martin told of a lady who came forward in response to a salvation invitation. He took her hand and began to lead her in a sinner's prayer asking her to repeat after him, "Dear Lord, I know I'm a no-good sinner..." She never said a word. He looked at her and said, "Don't you want to be saved?" She said, "Yes, but I'm not a sinner." "Then you can't be saved," Eddie said, "Jesus only died for sinners." "But, Mr. Martin," she replied, "I'm a good sinner."

"A good sinner? Lady, there are no good sinners! You will have to take your seat. God can't save you until you become conscious that you are a no-good sinner and need His forgiveness." "But you don't understand," she said, "I'm really not a bad sinner."

Evangelist Martin relates, "I told her to go sit down. She held onto my hand with a vise-like grip. Finally she said, 'Oh, please forgive me. I know I am a no-good, hell-deserving sinner. I am a proud, no-good sinner. I do need Christ to forgive me of my sins.' I said, 'Now, lady, you are ready to do business with God.' We prayed—she came clean with God and He saved her!"

The Bible declares, "If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us" (1Jn 1:8). Let us cry out to God as did the prophet Isaiah, "Woe is me for I am undone" (Is 6:5) and admit, "all our righteousnesses are as filthy rags" (Is 64:6). If we have the attitude of the prodigal son, "Father, I have sinned against heaven, and in thy sight, and am no more worthy to be called thy son" (Lk 15:21), and pray with David, "O LORD, pardon mine iniquity; for it is great" (Ps 25:11), God will hear us as He did the publican who prayed, "God be merciful to me a sinner" (Lk 18:13). The Bible states, "If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness" (1Jn 1:9). See "A SINNER'S PRAYER" at www.naog.ws/message.htm

It was more than free hot dogs, pizza and great weather that drew a crowd of more than 500 to Bethlehem Township's 30th annual Night Out Aug. 8. When else do you get to try the sirens on police cruisers and fire trucks? Kids of all ages love that.

Firefighters gave lessons on using fire extinguishers. Moms and dads put out gasoline fires while their kids tried on the fire helmets. A 100-foot tower ladder was fully extended, perched above the crowd. Firefighters who looked more like trapeze artists dangled dangerously. Even higher, a PennSTAR helicopter slowly circled and then finally descended onto a field by the community center. Once the blades had stopped, kids rushed forward for a closer inspection.

Of course, the big star was Castro, a Belgian Malinois police dog assigned to work with K-9 Officer Dan Barsnica.

Castro had Commissioner Paul Weiss on the ground in a split second after Weiss fired a fake gun and tried to run off.

Weiss should recover in the next month or so.

Castro was wagging his tail as he tore at Weiss' protective suit. He was apparently in a good mood.

This event was made possible by the efforts of Tony Stevens, an investigator in the Bethlehem Township Police Department. Area businesses and restaurants donated the food.

Mosquitoes stayed away from Night Out Out of professional courtesy to some local politicians looking for votes. One of these was a smiling NorCo Council Council Vice President Peg Ferraro, who came down from Bushkill Township, bringing pens for everyone. She told everyone to have fun.

She only had to say it once.

1946: Eagles vs. Lions at Liberty HS

For 17 seasons the people of Bethlehem looked forward to watching the Philadelphia Eagles practice right in their very own backyard.

Jason W. Rehm
Columnist

Before training camp was moved this past summer from Lehigh University to Philadelphia, all the action of the NFL could be witnessed from mere feet away.

If, during this age of top-notch television coverage, the prospect of seeing football's biggest stars in person still elicits excitement, how much more so would it for a population who could only listen to games on the radio?

The Bethlehemites of 1946 were able to get a close look at the NFL's best when the Philadelphia Eagles came to town to play the Detroit Lions in the Lehigh Valley's top gridiron attraction of the year.

The two teams tangled on the night of Sept. 19 before a crowd of 15,000 at the Liberty HS Stadium. Completed in 1939, Liberty's stadium was believed to be the most modern athletic complex in the state, if not on the east coast.

Looking back, 1946 was a very important year in local sports history. Bob Sell's Bethlehem Bulldogs, a minor league football team, kickstarted their four-year run that fall. The Bulldogs were part of the American Football League and had a working agreement with the Philadelphia Eagles.

The team played its home games on Wednesdays at Liberty. In fact, it was owner Bob Sell, who operated R.F. Sell Contracting Co., who had lights installed in the stadium so games could be played at night. I'm sure Liberty football coach Johnny Butler and his Hurricanes had no problem with that.

Big time football made its debut in Bethlehem the previous year, when Philadelphia played in two bruising preseason contests at Liberty Stadium, defeating both the Chicago Bears and Boston Yanks.

For the 1946 match, Detroit coach Gus Dorais brought his squad directly to Bethlehem from Charlotte, N.C., where the team had just whipped the Charlotte Clippers of the Dixie League 38 to 3. The Motor City "gridders" took quarters in the Hotel Bethlehem and used Lehigh's facilities for training purposes.

Both teams consisted of former serviceman, collegiate aces and tried veterans.

Bethlehem's own rugged Southsider, Chuck Bednarik, was a few seasons away from playing for the Eagles. By this time he had already flown on 30 combat missions over Germany as a B-24 waist-gunner with the Eighth Air Force. In 1946 Concrete Charlie was excelling at both center and linebacker at the University of Pennsylvania, where he returned from war a man among boys.

Even with the absence of Bednarik, there are a number of players on Philadelphia's 1946 squad that Eagles fans should be familiar with.

The team was led by Hall of Fame coach Earle "Greasy" Neale. Under Neale's direction the Philadelphia Eagles became strong contenders and to this day are the only team to have won back-to-back NFL championships by shutouts, once in 1948 and again in 1949.

At quarterback, the Eagles relied on Tommy Thompson, who despite being blind in one eye due to a childhood accident, was one of the most accurate passers of his time.

The Eagles' ground game ran through Hall of Fame halfback Steve Van Buren, who combined punishing strength with explosive speed. In his eight seasons, Van Buren led the NFL in rushing four times and was a first-team All-Pro five times.

Al Wistert, known as "the Ox," was a perennial All-Pro and his number 70 jersey has been retired by the team. Other players of note are halfback Bosh Pritchard, end Jack Ferrante, and lineman Bucko Kilroy, who has been called on of the toughest, if not dirtiest, players of that era.

Both Philadelphia and Detroit came into this final exhibition match hoping to carry some momentum into the regular season. Commissioner of the league, former Philadelphia Eagles coach, and originator of the NFL draft Bert Bell was in attendance for the big game.

Detroit planned to slow down Steve Van Buren with their capable linemen headed by Alex Wojciechowicz. With the Eagles operating from the T formation, the Lions had an advantage defensively, having crushed T formation teams 11 out of the past 12 times.

However, this matchup in Bethlehem was all Eagles from start to finish. Detroit managed to bottle up Van Buren, but their focus on the run game opened up lanes for the Eagles' aerial attack. Offensively, the Lions could not generate any kind of sustainable offense.

If it had not been for five interceptions and a number of fumbles, the Bethlehem Globe-Times believed that the Eagles could have run the score up to 20 or more points.

In the end, the Eagles won a 10-7 victory and created childhood memories that many longtime residents still cherish.

The 28th annual Blueberry Festival was held in July at Burnside Plantation in Bethlehem. Appealing to visitors of all ages, the festival featured arts, crafts, entertainment and Colonial exhibits, games and demonstrations. Labeled as the "Sweetest Festival of the Summer" by its presenter, Historic Bethlehem Museum and Sites, the event provides visitors with a variety of blueberry treats. New for 2013 was a Tasting Tent where local wine and beer samples, including blueberry varieties, were available for an extra entrance fee. Wine in bottles and glasses was also for sale in the tent, which offered live music. The annual two-day event was well attended. Admission fees help cover festival expenses and support the yearlong programs and activities of Historic Bethlehem.

A large Tasting Tent was set up on the hillside of Burnside Plantation, and for an extra fee, festival attendees could sample wine and beer, especially blueberry varieties. Bethlehem Brew Works offered its favorite beer selections. Visitors could also enjoy live music under the big tent. Colonial brewer Chris Bowen presented ale-making demonstrations nearby.

Next steps: After high school I am looking to go into a five year physician assistant program.

Career goals: I plan to be a physician assistant for a hospital specializing in trauma or oncology.

Heroes: My hero would have to be my great-grandmother. She was always so warm and welcoming to everyone. She was known as everyone's grandma no matter the person. She was the most kind-hearted person I have ever met in my life and I wish to be like her.

Hobbies: I take piano lessons, enjoy going to plays, and spending time with friends/family.

Current job(s): I currently work at Putt U Miniature Golf in Center Valley.

Volunteer/community work: I help out with my family's nonprofit organization, Kyle Miller Memorial Inc.

where we raise money for children with cancer and other families in need. I also volunteer every year as a teen helper for Lepoco's Peace Camp.

Likes: I like helping people and being a role model to others.

Dislikes: I dislike bullying and treating others wrongly.

Greatest accomplishment (so far): My greatest accomplishment so far would be all the hard work I put into school and all the academic achievements I have made.

Advice for peers: My advice to my peers is to never give up and always be the best you can be. Don't let anyone bring you down.

Addition to facilities, club offerings mark new year

This school year Lehigh Valley Academy has taken the middle school and high school and created one junior/senior high, run by Principal Cristal McCollum and Vice Principal Jennifer Nonemacher.

LVA has added more students, allowing us to expand the school and create additional hallways and classrooms. In addition to the hallways, LVA has also added a brand new cafeteria with space to fit more students. The cafeteria features a new lunch menu that the students are enjoying. The old cafeteria has now been turned into a school store/café. The school store includes school supplies for students to purchase as needed. It also includes breakfast and healthy snacks that are available to students at the beginning and end of the day.

With all of the new additions, the students are getting adjusted to the school year. This year LVA has created new clubs for the students. They include feature reading club, prom committee, walking club and basketball club. In addition to the clubs already offered, LVA is forming a student government. In the past our student government included officers and representatives responsible for running the whole high school. This year, there is going to be a student government for each grade level, each responsible for their own grade. The students are submitting their forms to be candidates. Campaigning will begin soon.

LVA's homecoming this year is going to be "Candy Land" theme and will take place within the next couple of weeks. The planners are busy with decorating and finalizing plans. Liliona Alves and Gladys Nieves, senior DP art students, are the official decorators as they are busy in the art room making props.

The junior/senior prom this year will again be taking place at Hotel Bethlehem with the theme being "Great Gatsby." The seniors on prom committee, headed by DP teacher Andrew Hall, are excited to make this extravagant themed prom happen.

The DP Art and Film students are going on a trip to New York City to visit the National September 11 Memorial & Museum and the Museum of Modern Art. They will also see the Broadway musical "Newsies."

A grand night for revelry

Acclaimed soloist, works will open Allentown Symphony classical season

Classical Views

By Diane Wittry

Revelry /'re-vl-ry/ noun
1. lively and noisy festivities.

Opening night for a symphony series is always a challenge to program because it is customary to start the season off with a big bang. Music that exemplifies exciting concert-openers and concert-enders are critical for creating the celebratory atmosphere that people seek on this special night.

This year, the first concerts of the Allentown Symphony Orchestra season, 8 p.m. Oct. 12 and 3 p.m. Oct. 13, Miller Symphony Hall, 23, N. Sixth St., Allentown, are called: "Opening Revelry." The word "revelry" refers to "a grand celebration," but it also happens to be the name of the first piece on the program written by the American, New York-based, composer Lowell Liebermann. I first met Lowell many years ago and have admired his music ever since.

Liebermann's music has great audience appeal and it is virtuosic for the orchestra to perform. His piece, "Revelry for Orchestra," was written in 1995 for the 70th anniversary of the Westchester, N.Y., Symphony. Xylophone, Slap-stick, Police Whistle, Ratchet and Brake-drum are just a few of the percussion instruments that make this piece so much fun. It is fast, exciting and tuneful; everything that makes a great opening piece. In programming it, I knew that it would set the tone for the rest of the evening.

Paired with "Revelry" on the first half of the concert, I selected the "Grieg Piano Concerto." I have fond memories of this concerto because the opening, Bach-like, cadenza was the only thing that my father could play on the piano. I don't know when, or how he learned it, but he could certainly impress people by playing those arpeggios and scales.

Edvard Grieg, was a Norwegian composer (1843 - 1907) known for capturing the lyrical and tuneful simplicity of his homeland. The beautiful, sentimental second movement is nicely contrasted with the dance rhythms of the lively final movement.

The piano concerto was written in 1868 when Grieg was just 25-years-old. I think back to what I was doing when I was 25-years-old. I certainly wasn't writing a piano concerto that would still be played 145 years later.

Awadagin Pratt, our piano soloist, is known for his unique interpretations and for the freshness and vitality of his concert performances. He won first prize in the Naumburg International Piano Competition and he also received an Avery Fisher Career Grant. He was named "One of the 50 Leaders of Tomorrow" in Ebony magazine's 50th anniversary issue. You won't want to miss hearing his live performance of the "Grieg Piano Concerto."

My favorite piece on the program is Symphony No. 2 by Finnish composer Jean Sibelius. The piece oscillates between warm, heartfelt melodies and a meandering brooding with a Gregorian chant-like feel. The most memorable movement, however, is the finale.

Throughout this piece, we feel like we are on a journey, similar to life with lots of ups and downs, challenges and releases. The last movement is one of triumphant and joy. With its trumpet calls and fanfares, it marks this arrival point with confidence and builds throughout to a grand conclusion.

Exciting beginnings, exciting endings, make for a great opening night. Throw in the middle a famous piano soloist who has flair and style, performing a piece that has lived through the test of time, and you have one incredible evening.

Add to that the expertise, musical passion and dedication of the 75 members of the Allentown Symphony Orchestra and you have an historic event: "Opening Revelry" — a wild, noisy celebration.

Diane Wittry is Music Director-Conductor of the Allentown Symphony Orchestra, Artistic Director (USA), International Cultural Exchange Program for Classical Musicians, Sarajevo Philharmonic, Bosnia; and author, "Beyond the Baton" (Oxford University Press).

Make your trees storm-proof

Let's hope this October there are no storms that cause power outages in the Lehigh Valley because of falling or uprooted trees.

We wouldn't want three times to be the charm.

In 2011, it was the Halloween nor'easter, which broke records for snowfall in 20 cities along the East Coast, Oct. 28 - Oct. 30. Up to 16 inches of snow fell in Pennsylvania.

Last year, it was Superstorm Sandy, which hit coastal regions Oct. 29, with more than 100 deaths and homes and property destroyed.

Will three times be the charm — or the alarm?

When it comes to trees, it's best to plan ahead and be prepared.

One of the great plagues of landscape trees is storm or mechanical damage. This is inflicted by wind and-or the massive weights of ice and snow. Minor breakage can occur in small crown branches, but large limbs can also break off.

The worst scenario occurs when major branches break or split into the trunk itself. Entire trunks may split when major "twin leaders" are forced apart. The latter situation often requires the entire tree removal.

One should prune trees and shrubs of dead or broken branches. Removal of dead wood helps stop the invasion of insects and pathogens. To prevent further damage, the tree's crown should be thinned to allow wind to blow through and to leave fewer branches for accumulation of snow and ice. Ideally, trees should not be pruned in the spring. Spring pruning often results in sap flow, which attracts insects. However, pruning of dead branches or removal of rotting trees should never be postponed, since such trees will be hazardous in storms.

Good nutrition stimulates cambial activity and, therefore, faster healing. Dormant season fertilization is often the better route to follow. Trees should be watered with soaker hoses weekly even in fall, especially during droughty conditions.

When trees are replaced, you should select storm damage resistant species, such as oaks, ginkgo, apple, spruce and fir.

Avoid storm-susceptible species such as Bradford pear, willows, white birch and silver maple. V-crotched trees are generally more susceptible to storm damage than U-crotched trees, such as ginkgo.

Superstorm Sandy toppled many trees in the Lehigh Valley, including this evergreen, in late October 2012.

Even when we do all of the right things, we can still incur losses. Prevention, however, really pays off.

Never stop moving;
never give up

Here's the best way I can describe my physical fitness level to you.

Boil a piece of spaghetti until it is overdone. Now try to make that piece of spaghetti stand up straight. That limp noodle equates to my current physical condition.

As someone who always has thrived on activity and as one who has been a fitness buff for many years, I'm stunned to find myself in this position.

So, what happened?

It's simple. I followed doctor's orders - the order of one pain specialist and one physical therapist, to be exact. Both told me my back pain wasn't getting better because I would not rest enough to give healing a chance.

I was upset when they said no kayaking, no biking, no dancing. Just rest, they said. But finally, I accepted their dictates and followed instruction. I did nothing.

The more I "did nothing," the more pain I had. But I continued to listen. After all, the doctor said so.

When I was sent to an orthopedic surgeon for his opinion, he strongly asserted his disdain for anyone who told me to "do nothing."

"Never stop moving!" he said. "That's the worse thing anyone can possibly do."

He explained inactivity makes my back tighten and hurt more and wrote a script to send me to a new physical therapist.

I'm appalled at how much muscle tone and physical ability I lost with four months of inactivity.

The new physical therapist gave me simple isometric exercises to do at home. I do them faithfully, but I can't help but wonder how long it will take to beat pain and "get normal" again.

When I'm tempted to get discouraged, I think about Ken Ryno, the most inspirational person I've ever met. I told Ken's story in the newspaper seven years ago, calling him "the little engine that could."

At 17, Ken was a care-free teenager and a bit of a daredevil - until a motorcycle accident left him completely paralyzed. When he awoke from a three month coma, he asked the rehab doctor why he couldn't move. Then he was told the devastating news: He would never walk again.

After weeks of rehab therapy, the Saylorsburg resident regained movement only in one arm, with no sign of muscle activity in his other three limbs.

With pluck and determination, Ken used his one good arm to work his paralyzed one. Over and over again as he lay in bed he kept trying to work the paralyzed arm.

Ken Ryno wasn't about to give up. Nor would he stop trying, no matter what he was told about never regaining more movement.

Little by little, he did gain strength and eventually movement in both

WARMEST REGARDS

By Pattie Mihalik

arms. But his legs remained paralyzed.

Here's the astonishing thing about Ken Ryno. For more than 10 years Ken never stopped trying to move his leg muscles.

Day after day, week after week, month after month, the years passed but Ken's efforts never lessened. He kept visualizing movement while he kept trying to work his leg muscles.

If that were you, when would you have given up? After a month? After a year of failure?

Ken Ryno never gave up, not even when he had nothing to show for his effort.

Sometimes, a bit of bad luck turns out to be a lucky break. That's what happened when Ken developed severe bedsores from lying in bed so much.

When a home health care nurse was assigned to treat the bedsores, Ken mentioned he thought he was regaining a little muscle movement in his legs.

The nurse placed a pie plate on his legs and told him to try to move it. She saw he was right. There was muscle activity.

Based on her recommendation, Ken was evaluated by a doctor at Gnaden Huetten Rehabilitation. They agreed to admit Ken for another chance at regaining movement.

Grateful for the chance and determined to make the most of it, Ken told everyone he was going to walk out of that place on his own volition.

After regular therapy was over, Ken stayed in the workout room doing more - then more and more again.

Ken Ryno kept his promise to himself.

When he was discharged, he walked out of the rehab hospital on his own, using just a walker. It was quite a fete for a man who didn't stand for over a decade.

When Ken walked from the hospital, other patients and hospital personnel from all departments lined the corridor for his walk of glory.

I was there that day and was one of the many crying with joy for the man who would never give up.

I've been in Ken's company a few times since then and every time was an inspiration. Although I haven't seen him for seven years, he remains a strong motivating force in my life.

This is what Ken Ryno instilled in me: Never give up. Never, never give up. Winston Churchill said it first, but Ken personifies its meaning.

So I sit here doing my little exercises, believing in an eventual good outcome. And I keep repeating Ken's motivating mantra:

Never give up.
Never, never give up.
They are words that will serve all of us well.

Treatments available for dry eyes

Second of two parts

Tears are necessary for overall eye health and clear vision. Dry eyes are common in people older than 50. A lack of tears is more common among women, especially after menopause.

The treatment for dry eyes depends upon the cause.

First, physicians have to determine if a disease is the underlying cause. Then, the disease is treated.

If a medicine you're taking for another condition is causing dry eye, your doctor may recommend switching to a different drug.

If contact lenses are giving you dry eye, your eye care practitioner may recommend another type of lens, or reducing the number of hours you wear your lenses.

There are procedures by eyecare professionals to plug the drainage holes at the inner corners of the eyelids where tears drain from the eye into the nose.

Lacrimal plugs, also called punctal plugs, can be inserted temporarily or permanently. In some cases, a simple surgery, called punctal cautery, is recommended to permanently close the drainage holes.

If other methods do not give you adequate dry eye relief, your ophthalmologist may suggest that you use a prescription medication. One such medication, cyclosporine, works by stimulating tear production.

Steroid eyedrops may also be used, but are generally not recommended for long-term treatment. Other treatment options may include ointments, gels and inserts.

Omega fatty acids may help relieve dry eyes symptoms. Omega fatty acids are available in foods and in supplements. Always talk to your doctor before taking any food supplements.

A new study published in the peer-reviewed journal, "Cornea," showed that HydroEye, a nutritional supplement containing omega fatty acids, improved dry-eye symptoms. The study, which evaluated 38 postmenopausal women with tear dysfunction in both eyes, was conducted by two world-renowned dry-eye researchers: Dr. Stephen Pflugfelder and Dr. John Sheppard.

"Prior to this study," said Pflugfelder, "clinical evidence showing that nutritional supplements were beneficial in treating dry eye was scarce. However, within three months, the group treated with HydroEye showed statistically significant improvements in irritation symptoms of dry eye, and no progression of ocular surface inflammation or corneal irregularity. The placebo group's dry eye symptoms actually worsened over the six-month testing period."

'Prisoners' takes no prisoners

When it comes to psychological thrillers, "Prisoners" takes no prisoners. "Prisoners," paced by an intense, carefully-crafted and completely believable performance by Hugh Jackman, is a tension-filled nail-biter with a plot twist that you probably won't see.

Keller Dover (Jackman) is a middle-class father living in western Pennsylvania who owns his own remodeling business. He and his wife, Grace (Maria Bello), have a teen son, Ralph (Dylan Minnette), and young daughter Anna (Erin Gerasimovich).

They visit their neighbors, Franklin and Nancy Birch (Terrence Howard, Viola Davis), for Thanksgiving dinner in the subdivision where they live. The Birches have two daughters, Eliza (Zoe Borde) and Joy (Kyla Drew Simmons).

During the visit, the youngest daughters, Anna and Joy, disappear when they are playing outside. Police Detective Loki (Jake Gyllenhaal) brings in a suspect, Alex (Paul Dano) for questioning. Alex owns the RV that was parked in the vicinity. Alex cannot be held because of a lack of evidence.

The cinematography in "Prisoners" by the great Director of Photography Roger Deakins ("The Shawshank Redemption," 1994; "No Country for Old Men," 2007; "Skyfall," 2012; Coen Brothers' films) is desaturated, as Movie Maven Mike Gontkosky of Whitehall pointed out. The color palette is that of the blues and grays and browns of the overcast skies and snowy-rainy landscapes that one associates with late fall-early winter Pennsylvania.

Canadian Denis Villeneuve ("Incendies," 2010; "Polytechnique," 2009; "Maelstrom," 2000), directing from a screenplay by Aaron Guzikowski ("Contraband"), has Deakins frame the shots in a very workmanlike manner that bespeaks not only the matter-of-fact procedural nature of the storyline, but the lives and occupations of the protagonists, as well. The settings are unembellished.

My quibbles with the film have to do with its time and place. The year or decade is never disclosed. The place is never specified, although there is a reference to Graterford

MOVIE REVIEW

By Paul Willistein

Prison, and a "Local News Pa" web site is depicted. However, the police department sign states Conyers, which is in Georgia. Also, there's a Wine and Spirits store, clearly not a Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board State Store.

Based on the car-year models, cell phones, computers and televisions, the story seems to take place in the 1990s. If this is supposed to be true, there are gaffes, especially concerning the year and types of vehicles. Plus, several Pennsylvania vehicle registration sticker expiration dates state 2012 and 2013. There are also a few flat-screen computers and TV monitors visible.

And, at 2 1/2 hours, "Prisoners" is overly-long by a good 30 minutes.

"Prisoners" is an ensemble piece and each of the lead actors, as well as the supporting actors, in the small cast is excellent.

Jackman, in full beard and flattened hair, disappears into the role. He's unrecognizable. He doesn't seem to be at all the same person who starred as Valjean in "Les Misérables" (2012) or the lead in "The Wolverine" (2013). His eyes have a fierce intensity. He doesn't so much as say his words as spit them. He is an angry papa bear of a man trying to rescue one of his cubs. His performance is nothing short of explosive. He deserves an Oscar actor nomination.

Jake Gyllenhaal gives a reined-in, thoughtful, sincere performance as the beleaguered police investigator. Look for a possible Oscar supporting actor nomination for Gyllenhaal. Maria Bello plays the desperate housewife with believability. She etches the arc of her character's desperation. Viola Davis and Terrence Howard are fine as the other couple coping with the kidnapping of a child.

Paul Dano makes yet another indelible impression as the suspect in the kidnapping. Melissa Leo plays one of those middle class ciphers with incredible depth and understanding.

"Prisoners" goes inside a story that is every parent's worst nightmare and makes it real. On another level, it's a cautionary tale about what can happen when one tries to take the law into one's own hands.

"Prisoners," MPAA Rated R (Restricted. Children Under 17 Require Accompanying Parent or Adult Guardian.) for disturbing violent content including torture, and language throughout; Genre: Crime, Drama, Thriller; Run time: 2 hrs., 33 min. Distributed by Warner Bros. Pictures.

Credit Readers Anonymous: Even though "Prisoners" is set in western Pennsylvania, it was filmed in and around Atlanta, Ga.

Box Office, Sept. 27: The weather report was good for "Cloudy with a Chance of Meatballs 2," opening at No. 1 with $35 million, sending "Prisoners" to No. 2, $11.2 million, $38.9 million, two weeks, and keeping "Rush" at No. 3, $10.3 million, $10.6 million, two weeks, and "Baggage Claim" opening at No. 4, with $9.3 million, and "Don Jon" opening at No. 5, with $9 million;

6. "Insidious Chapter 2," $6.7 million, $69.5 million, three weeks; 7. "The Family," $3.6 million, $31.6 million, three weeks; 8. "Instructions Not Included," $3.3 million, $38.5 million, five weeks; 9. "We're the Millers," $2.8 million, $142.4 million, eight weeks; 10. "Lee Daniels' The Butler," $2.4 million, $110.2 million, seven weeks

Unreel, Oct. 2: "Gravity," PG-13. Sandra Bullock and George Clooney star as two astronauts set adrift in space. Alfonso Cuarón directs the science-fiction drama with Bullock already an Oscar actress nominee contender.

"Runner Runner," R: Ben (He who will be "Batman") Affleck and Justin Timberlake star in a crime-thriller about coming face to face with the offshore operators of an on online poker game.

Lafayette $27.9-million gift for science facility at college

Lafayette College has received one of the largest contributions in the college's history from Trustee Kent Rockwell, Lafayette College, Class of '66. The gift, made to a trust that Rockwell established benefiting the college, was in the form of stock that was sold for $27.9 million.

The gift is expected to support a new interdisciplinary science facility at the college.

"We are immensely grateful for this extraordinary and historic gift," said Lafayette President Alison Byerly. "Lafayette is committed to becoming a leader in offering innovative educational programs in fields at the intersection of the life sciences, technology and engineering. Kent Rockwell's vision and generosity will enable us to strengthen our efforts in this area significantly."

Rockwell has been chairman and CEO of Rockwell Venture Capital, Inc., Pittsburgh, since 1983. The firm invests in technology-based engineering products and services. He is chairman and CEO of Rockwell Forest Products and of ExOne, a global provider of three-dimensional printing machines and printed products to industrial customers. He also is chairman of Strata Proximity Systems, which provides safety systems for mines.

Rockwell graduated from Lafayette with a major in economics and attended the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School. He was elected in 2009 to his second term as a Lafayette trustee. He also served on the board from 1971 - '75.

He established the S. Kent Rockwell '66 Scholarship Fund to provide financial aid to Marquis Scholars at Lafayette. His father, Willard Rockwell, through the Rockwell Foundation, established the Rockwell Foundation Scholarship Fund.

PUBLIC NOTICE INVITATION FOR BIDS

The LEHIGH COUNTY HOUSING AUTHORITY will receive bids for DRIVEWAY REPLACEMENT at 2767 Old Post Road, Schnecks-ville, Lehigh County, Pennsylvania. Bids will be received in the offices of the Lehigh County Housing Authority, 333 Ridge Street, Emmaus, PA 18049 on or before 11:00 A.M., Thursday, October 24, 2013.

Bid Packets can be obtained at the offices of the Lehigh County Housing Authority, 333 Ridge Street, Emmaus, PA 18049 between the hours of 9:00 and 3:00 weekdays. Bid Packets MUST be picked up at the aforementioned address. There is no charge associated with obtaining the Bid Packet. Bid Packets will not be mailed, emailed or faxed.

The Housing Authority will NOT have a formal Bid Opening and only record the delivery and acceptance of bids.

The Housing Authority will then review all Proposals and award the contract to the Bidder who has met all the Request For Proposal criteria and who is deemed to be the lowest respon.

The project will consist of work to be performed under a single contract for general construction. It is a requirement of the Housing Authority that the general contractor be a firm that has been engaged in the replacement of driveway macadam on a full time basis for not less than the most recent ten (10) years. It is also a requirement of the Housing Authority that all sub-contractors have a minimum of ten (10) years experience in the trade for which they would be engaged.

A certified check or bank draft, payable to the Lehigh County Housing Authority, or a satisfactory bid bond, executed by the bidder and acceptable sureties in an amount equal to five percent of the amount of the bid shall be submitted with each bid.

Bidders are advised of the provisions for Equal Employment Opportunity. The owner encourages participation by Women and Minority Business Enterprises.

Bidders are encouraged to participate in the hiring of Section 3 eligible persons.

Bidders are advised that payment of not less than the minimum salaries and wages as set forth in the Bid Packet must be paid on this project.

The Owner reserves the right to reject any and all bids or to waive any informalities in the bidding process. No bid shall be withdrawn for a period of 60 days subsequent to the opening of bids without the consent of the Owner.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the Zoning Hearing Board of South Whitehall Township will conduct public hearings on Wednesday October 23, 2013 at 7:30 p.m., in the South Whitehall Township Municipal Building located at 4444 Walbert Avenue, Allentown, Lehigh County, Pennsylvania, for the following zoning appeals:

ZHB-2013-23: The appeal of Isidoro Goncalves seeking relief to construct a 1200 square foot accessory detached garage on his property located at 2674 PA Route 309, which contains a primary use dwelling of approximately 1056 square feet. The appellant is seeking a variance to Section 12.28(c)(4) regarding the minimum 15 foot side yard setback and also a variance from Section 12.25(b) and its requirements that an accessory use be of a size and intensity in keeping with the scale, nature and characteristics of the permitted primary use residence. The subject property is zoned "R-3", Low Density Residential.

Any above-referenced property is located in South Whitehall Township, Lehigh County, PA. Copies of any plans, applications, and/or supporting documents that were submitted can be available for public inspection at the Township Building during normal business hours where they may be examined without charge or obtained for a charge not greater than the cost thereof. (It is recommended that appointments be made in advance). All appellants, or their representative with legal standing, must attend. All objectors and interested parties are invited to attend and will have the opportunity to be heard.
