Soldiers in Africa Sign Names on Play Bill for Own Production.

Thespi has been wooed in a good many out-of-the-way places but the latest to reach the ears of The Globe-Times reporter is word from "Somewhere in Africa," that dark and mysterious continent, that a number of Bethlehem soldiers have enjoyed the presentation of a play, directed by one of their number.

Notice to this newspaper came by way of a poster advertising the dramatic offering. Title of the play is "Crazy With the Heat," and the poster portrays a sextet of Army men "in the pot" while sundry cannibals smack their lips, and the cannibal chief approves the stew. The "art work" is remarkable—done in red and blue crayon on white paper about 10 by 16 inches. You'd love the expressions of the piece de resistance!

Place of the presentation: St. Anne's Mission auditorium; time, 8 p. m.; admission, free; director, Wilbur Klingaman.

Local men signing the poster are George Apgar, Francis Bender, Louis Domotor, Stewart Hall, Kenneth Morgan, Donald C. Wisler, Raymond Hinkle, Preston Fahle, Bernard Koch and Wilbur Klingaman. It was sent to "Raymie" Rabenold, Globe-Times composing room employe, by Klingaman.
