major projects

Proposals for three major capital projects at Bethlehem Area Vocational Technical School (BAVTS) were the highlight at the monthly finance committee meeting Oct. 17. The proposals included a new Workforce Development and Integration Center costing an estimated $9 million.

BAVTS Director Adam Lazarchak presented the rough plans to the board as an investment in the local economy.

"Our role is to support economic and community development by preparing our students for the needs of the local labor market," Lazarchak said. "If we are not training to meet labor market needs, it will affect our economy."

The proposed Workforce Development and Integration Center would create space for three additional programs in financial services and billing, medical and office administration and entrepreneurship. These fields, Lazarchak said, are of high priority in that they are widely expanding in the Lehigh Valley.

"Most students will be working for small business owners, or become one themselves and we have opportunities for preparing students for these occupations as well as those who

These brave ghost hunters hoped to see an apparition for themselves, but had to settle for hearing about one of many tales of hauntings in various location around downtown Bethlehem.

Bethlehem's haunted history

BY CAROLE GORNEY
Special to the Bethlehem Press

On the night of Oct. 13, with a full moon overhead, 13 daring souls went out into the crisp autumn evening in search of the supernatural. They were together as part of a Moravian Bookstore Historic Bethlehem Ghost Tour - one of many held weekly in downtown Bethlehem every October. They were doing their hunting in a group with an experienced guide because there is, after all, safety in numbers.

Carrying lighted candles to guide their way, they started out on foot. The first stop was near the Brethren's House, just across from the Central Moravian Church at the south end of Main Street. Built in 1748 for single Moravian men, it later served as a Revolutionary War hospital for Contimental soldiers. Guide Kelly James tells the ghost hunters that 500 soldiers died there, and many of their spirits are believed to still be around, especially in the attic and basement.

"A janitor reported seeing a man with bloody bandages," she cites as proof. "A woman dressed all in white, a nurse, has also been seen."

James, appropriately dressed in a black period costume, points next door to the all-female dorm of Moravian College, and reveals that students have reported seeing the apparition of a little girl they call Emily. Then she makes a brief mention of a "grey ghost" that cavorts around the buildings outside. A few tour takers begin looking around where they are standing.

Election 2016: The voter fraud myth

BY BERNIE O'HARE
Special to the Bethlehem Press

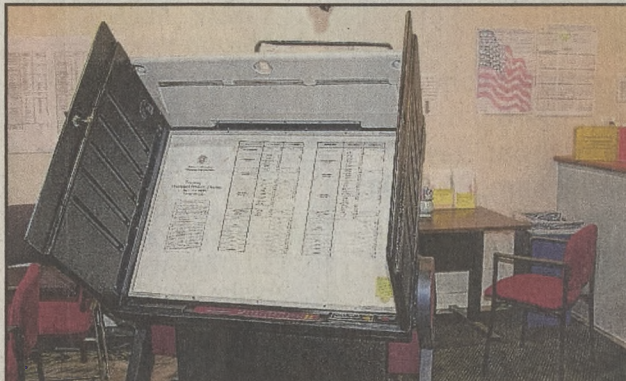

Without offering specifics, GOP Presidential nominee Donald Trump has repeatedly insisted that the Nov. 8 election "is going to be rigged." On the campaign trail, he has said the only way he can lose Pennsylvania is if there is "cheating," so "[w]e have to call up law enforcement. And we have to have the sheriffs and the police chiefs and everybody watching."

He has singled out Philadelphia as one city where voter fraud might occur, and has refused to state whether he will accept the election results if the vote goes against him. And guess what? Most Republicans - 73 percent, according to a recent Politico/Morning Consult poll - agree that the election could be stolen from Trump as a result of massive voter fraud. But despite these repeated assertions, there simply is no evidence of any kind of systematic vote-rigging in Pennsylvania. As Philadelphia City Commissioner Al Schmidt, himself a Republican, recently said, "The real threat to the integrity of elections ... isn't voter fraud, though it does rarely occur. The real threat to the integrity of elections is irresponsible accusations

There are 2,600 souls buried in God's Acre, the Moravian Cemetery in Historic Bethlehem. Three acres of land were set aside in 1742 for the burial grounds. There have been many reports of shadowy apparitions spotted among the gravestones.

PRESS PHOTOS BY CAROLE GORNEY

Kelly James has been leading ghost tours for the Moravian Bookstore for three years. Has she seen any ghosts? "No," she answers, "and I don't want to either. If I see one, I will bolt."

This small white marble gravestone marks the resting place of Catherine Piersch, who died in 1833. All markers in God's Acre are identical to show that everyone is equal in death.

"Freak Out" Shirt with ghosts

Sisters Jeanne Butler, Whitehall, and Janet Reinert, Allentown, went on the ghost tour together. Jeanne says she "absolutely" believes in ghosts because her daughter's 1865 home in Montrose is haunted by a nicely dressed, blond man in his 30s or 40s. They are standing in front of the Hotel Bethlehem, noted for its friendly spirits.

The private Bethlehem Club, which once operated in this building, was reportedly the site of many scandals, at least one death, and paranormal activity.

GHOST

Church is the 1751 Old Chapel, where ghostly echoes of 18th Century music said to have been heard. No music this night. On to God's Acre, the Moravian Cemetery, where 2,600 souls of different races and genders are all buried.

"Moravians believed in the democracy of death - that all are equal in the eyes of God," the guide explains. "That is why the tombstones are all flat in the ground."

Ghost hunters taking photos at night in the cemetery have captured orbs of light on film that indicate the presence of a spirit. James tells her group about these manifestations, as well as the story about the two women sitting on a bench in the cemetery who claim they saw a young girl dressed in white holding her neck. When they went to help her, she disappeared, but where she had been standing was a gravestone of a young girl who had died of a respiratory illness.

Some Moravian guides have reported seeing obscure animal-like figures in the cemetery visiting graves of children. There's also the account of paranormal experts who were taping in the cemetery. According to James, what they heard on tape was a disembodied voice saying, "Leave, please."

At this point, no one seems particularly eager to hang around the cemetery, so the group quickly moves down the street to the 1909 building originally used as the private Beth-hem Club. Here, on the third floor, according to one version, a wife confronted her husband with his mistress, and threw him down four flights of stairs. After that, employees of the club reported all kinds of strange happenings.

The Boyd Theatre, closed since 2011, may be an ideal place to find ghosts frolicking unimpeded in the dark recesses of the building. Spirits were reported by customers when the theater was still operating.

There's more alleged eerie hauntings around the corner at the Boyd Theater on Broad Street. Closed since 2011, the theater has been sold and there are hopes that it will be restored. That should please the ghosts who are believed to live there, the most famous of which is Apple Annie, a little girl who sold apples for 5 cents in the lobby.

Close by is the Wells Fargo Bank, originally built in the 1920s as the home of the Colonnade, Bethlehem's first nightclub. In 1949, the body of a 31-year-old woman named Ruth Mickley was found in the basement of the club. Her death was ruled an accident, but many people at the time thought she was murdered. According to James, people who work there at night say the place feels strange. They speculate that Mickley is looking for closure on her murder and can't rest until she gets it.

As the night grows darker and colder, things get spookier and scarier.

Walking away from the bank, the ghost hunters cross a small street and enter a narrow darkened passageway leading to the 1758 Sun Inn, also once used as a Revolutionary War hospital. It is now a restaurant and there are those who believe a little girl lives on the top floor. There is also the legend that money from the Revolutionary period is stored in the basement, and the spirits of soldiers still guard it.

Back on Main Street, the tour continues to Donegal Square, which James says has lots of ghost stories. The owner has trouble renting the upstairs apartment, she says, because people sleeping alone there have reported an unseen person getting into bed with them.

James and others speculate that perhaps it is Liesel, the 17-year-old daughter of the inn's landlord during the Revolutionary War. She fell in love with the Marquis de Lafayette, who was recuperating from wounds at the inn, but she was rebuffed. Lafayette was handsome, rugged and married.

The ghost barometer reaches its peak as the intrepid 13 reach the Hotel Bethlehem, built by the president of Bethlehem Steel in 1921. It is seriously haunted. Room 932 is nicknamed the "Room with a Boo" because at least once a week staff get reports of ghostly activity from people staying there.

Among the notable spooks wandering the halls, rooms and work spaces are a woman fired from her job who is spotted roaming barefoot and heard rattling pots in the kitchen, and friendly "Daddy" Thomas, a town tour guide and councilman who was buried in God's Acre in 1822. The young girl who loves to act and whose footsteps are heard on the staircase is reputed to be famous actress May Yohe Hope, owner of the cursed Hope Diamond, who as a child in 1868 sang and danced at the Eagle Hotel that stood where the Hotel Bethlehem does today.

After the hotel visitation, the tour ends back at the bookshop. There were no sightings this night; the ghosts have eluded detection. Everyone is assured, however, that there will be other dark nights and other ghost tours. Until then, Happy Haunting.

wish to start their own business," Lazarchak explained, spotlighting entrepreneurship. "They create jobs, add to international and local economies and create social change in the investment community."

With a little shuffling of classrooms, existing space would be used in part to support this new programming, but most of it would be housed in a wing that would be the new center. The entrepreneurship and medical administration programs would be on the second floor while the first floor would house a brand new welding facility.

The proposed welding facility is in response to a recommendation of the Occupational Advisory Committee for the Pa. Department of Education (PDE) to expand and update the facility during their annual visit last December. As an alternative to the Workforce Development and Integration Center, the second proposal focuses solely on the welding facility and would entail updating all of the equipment to better align with industry needs, expanding floor space to support student enrollment, and repairing the ventilation system in the theory lab, altogether costing $2.4 million.

Business Manager Stacey Gober, President Michael Faccineto and Superintendent Joseph Roy listen to a BAVTS capital project proposal at their monthly finance meeting in the EdgeBoro Room of the Education Center Oct. 17.

statements from the American Welding Society indicating Pennsylvania has the third most jobs for welders in the U.S., and predicting a countrywide shortage of 400,000 welders and operators by 2014. "With a salary of $38,600 in Pa. and so much industry need, increasing the number of students who will become welders benefits the local community and the economy," said Lazarchak.

The third proposal is for repaving the entire parking lot and all of the driveways to address BAVTS's numerous recurring potholes, one of which recently caused a bad fall for a student.

"The school claims service recommended that we fix all of these potholes at their annual visit in November to avoid any potential lawsuits," said Lazarchak. "We've been repairing these holes for years and they just continue getting worse. It's time we totally redo our lot and our driveways," which will cost around

$1.8 million. Lazarachak clustered the three proposals into two options for the board to minimize costs. Option one includes the welding facility updates and driveway repairs totaling $4.2 million. Option two encompasses the driveway repairs and the addition of the Workforce Development and Integration Center, which includes a new welding facility, costing $10.8 million. Lazarchak encouraged option two as a better choice for future growth and preparing students to meet the demands of the local economy. In his proposed timeline, BAVTS would complete the planning and design phase over November and December, take it to bid next year and finish construction by Nov. 2018.

The board discussed how these proposed project costs would affect the established $53 million debt repayment schedule for construction of the new Nitschmann MS scheduled to open in 2017. This was, in large part, why Superintendent Dr. Joseph Roy encouraged slowing the process down to allow for more discussion.

"Our own debt service planning around the Nitschmann project counted on knowing that our debt payments stopped for BAVTS in 2021-22," explained Roy. "Our planning for the building fund assumed this drop-off."

Business Manager Stacey Gober added that the drop-off in debt payments for BAVTS allowed for a smooth transition into the debt repayment schedule for Nitschmann, and kept the payments to the same amount.

"When we were planning the financing of the Nitschmann project, we knew that those BAVTS payments were coming off," Gober said. "So any new money we're borrowing for vocational projects are new money for us."

Roy also told Lazarchak that failure thus far to follow the protocol for adding or changing programming, which involves much more discussion and planning, was another reason to slow the process down.

"You're proposing tonight at least three programs when we haven't had any conversation about these programs and how they'd interact with existing programs," Roy said. "And I didn't hear any discussion of reducing existing programs to make room for these new programs. Stacey and I didn't receive the proposals until a short time ago and have hardly had time to look at them. Administratively, I'm in no position to advise the board on how to proceed until we follow the correct process."

Ordinance prohibits lawn parking

BY MICHELLE MEEH
 Special to the Bethlehem Press

City council members approved an ordinance prohibiting parking cars on grass in a front yard. At their meeting Oct. 18, council members first approved an amendment to the original ordinance that would also have prohibited parking on grass in side and back yards.

The amendment deleted a section in the ordinance that required vehicles to be parked in a rear of side yard to be parked "on a mud-free stone-covered surface or an intact solid surface parking pad constructed of either macadam or concrete."

While the amendment was approved unanimously, the ordinance as amended prompted some discussion among the council members.

The amended ordinance was approved 5-2, with council members Adam Waldron and Bryan Callahan voting against. Waldron said, "I don't know if you can force people to be good neighbors or to be thoughtful." He said the ordinance is "a government overreach."

"I have concerns as well," said

BETHLEHEM
The ordinance, designed to protect property values, prohibits residents from parking vehicles on a lawn, with exceptions for moving, loading or unloading items, not to exceed one hour per week.

Council President J. William Reynolds.

The ordinance is a "reasonable solution to a problem that is not exactly overwhelming," city solicitor William Leeson said. He said the simple ordinance provides legal guidelines to address the problem of parking on the grass, while not attempting to list all the possible exceptions.

The ordinance, designed to protect property values, prohibits residents from parking vehicles on a lawn, with exceptions for moving, loading or unloading items, not to exceed one hour per week. Also, the ordinance specifies that vehicles must be parked in front of the house on a macadam or concrete surface such as a driveway. In addition, vehicles cannot block a sidewalk.

During the public comment portion of the meeting, resident James Whittaker asked council to consider exceptions allowing parking on grass if necessary when contractors are doing work. He assured council members that in such isolated cases, he would always move the car off the grass when the contractors were finished for the day.

Council member Eric Evans called the ban a step in the right direction.

Evans said some residents sent photos to council to demonstrate the appearance of cars parked on grass. "It's nothing short of absurd what we were seeing," Evans said.

Council member Michael Colon said the ordinance is a quality of life issue. He recalled when working for the city health bureau, he enforced rules that grass can't be more than 12 inches high.

Mayor Bob Donchez said it is not the intent to punish residents during emergency situations and said residents could notify the city if they need to park temporarily on the grass for valid reasons, so they would not be cited by police.

Freedom HS plans 50th celebration

BY LIZ KEMMERER
Special to the Bethlehem Press

BETHLEHEM AREA SD

Larissa Strycharz and Jane Burgoyne of the Moravian College cross-country team run through Bethlehem underneath blue skies and fall foliage. The warmest day of the recent unseasonably mild period set a record of 84 degrees last Wednesday. The normal temperature for Oct. 19 is 63 degrees. The college teammates were training after returning from a cross-country regional meet in Ohio where the team came in fifth.

The school district's curriculum committee kicked off its Oct. 10 meeting with some lively talk about what's in store for Freedom HS's 50th anniversary celebration in 2017.

Principal Michael LaPorta told the board about an array of festivities being planned by an anniversary committee composed of Freedom teachers, administrators, parents, students, coaches and retirees. Apparel adorned with the official anniversary logo featuring the celebratory theme, "Excellence in All Things," designed by Freedom senior Hector Rosado, is now available for purchase. Anniversary-themed magnets and Christmas ornaments will also be rolled out shortly.

"I made a decision to really focus on our school theme, 'Excellence in All Things!'" explained LaPorta, "and four priorities inspired by that theme."

He said those priorities are 1.) Promoting the Mindset that "We are great!" 2.) Fueling our Students and Teachers with Resources and Grit, 3.) Working for a Safe School Environment, and 4.) Emphasizing the Freedom Family - that everybody belongs to the team.

LaPorta said, "The priority to 'Fuel our Students and Teachers with Resources and Grit' stems from our need to teach our students the skills to get and stay ahead, as well as how to come from behind when they fall," while emphasizing Freedom's legacy of preparing students for a life of excellence.

The festivities for the 2016-17 school year will begin this fall with Homecoming, Spirit Week, the Celtic and Halloween parades and all seasonal sports featuring anniversary-themed activities. Winter and spring concerts will have an anniversary flair spotlighting music from then and now. Sporting events will include recognition of Freedom's winning teams, individual athletes and championships, and not forgetting a special commemoration of Freedom's first football team to play Liberty HS.

The year of special activities will culminate Oct. 15, 2017 with daylong celebration, including a re-enactment of the school's 1967 dedication by U.S. Vice President Hubert Humphrey.

The day will feature displays celebrating the various decades of graduating classes at Freedom.

Alumni will be specially recognized throughout the year with an athletic Hall of Fame induction in the winter and, in the spring, an induction into Freedom's brand new Circle of Excellence, which, like an academic Hall of Fame, is aimed at recognizing graduates who have excelled at Freedom and beyond. An alumnus of the first graduating class will be the keynote speaker at the induction ceremony of the National Honor Society on Nov. 15 and Mark Sigmon, president of the first graduating class, will deliver the commencement speech.

In other news, members of the board of directors paid a visit to Lehigh Valley Academy Sept. 22 to investigate the renewal of the school's charter. This was the last of the information sessions before a final decision is made in November.

Lehigh Valley Academy uses the International Baccalaureate (IB) Whole School program, which emphasizes preparing students personally and professionally for an increasingly diverse, globalized world. The board provided suggestions for how the school can better align its curriculum with the IB program and encouraged the administration to keep to Pa. state guidelines regarding when to administer standardized tests.

With this, issues were raised over the use of tax dollars to cover costs of the school's lunch program. LVA currently has no on-site cooking and uses outside vendors. Tax money is used to supplement this cost on the occasion that it pushes them over budget.

"The program must be more self-sustaining," said Superintendent Dr. Joseph Roy. "All schools struggle to make their lunch programs self-sustaining. We shouldn't be using tax dollars to supplement this loss."

Lehigh Valley Academy CEO Susan Mauser explained that, as a charter school, funding can be somewhat unpredictable, especially as the school is subsidized different amounts depending on what districts its students originally hail from.

"We receive subsidies from other districts that are calculated by our spending the previous year divided by the number of students enrolled," explained Mauser. "With that calculation, we usually get a subsidy anywhere from 1 to 6 percent of last year's budget, which gives us a larger surplus than other years. But some times we don't know what that subsidy will be until as late as January, and the we may not receive it until as late as May, and the fiscal year ends in June. This makes budgets very difficult."

Mauser said larger surpluses from these subsidies are put in a building fund.

Supervisors must ponder medical marijuana sites

BY BERNIE O'HARE
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Is medical marijuana coming to Hanover Township? Supervisors voted unanimously at their Oct. 11 meeting to establish zones for medical marijuana facilities. But hold off on those brownie recipes. Supervisors will zone for it, but that's a far cry from it happening anytime soon.

Steve Salvesen asked why the township is zoning for something prohibited by federal law. Solicitor Jim Broughal said the federal government has taken no action against states that now permit medical marijuana or, for that matter, recreational marijuana.

Recreational marijuana is currently legal in Alaska, Colorado, Oregon and Washington, as well as the District of Columbia. That trend is growing, too. On Election Day, citizens will decide whether to legalize recreational use in five additional states: Arizona, California, Maine, Massachusetts and Nevada.

Medical marijuana is permitted in 24 states, including Pennsylvania. Broughal told supervisors that zoning gives them control over where medical marijuana facilities will be permitted. "You don't have to pass the ordinance," he advised. "But tomorrow, somebody's going to walk into your township, and in a residential district, they're going to put in a dispensary. And you can't stop them because the law in the state of Pennsylvania provides for these uses, and you need to provide for these uses, or else you're going to be found to be exclusionary in zoning. And they will challenge your ordinance and they will win."

Under Pennsylvania law, if a municipality fails to zone for a use permitted by state law, a person can establish that use wherever he wants. Broughal said he wants the township to "get out ahead of this," and establish zones for medical marijuana facilities where they belong. "Your choice would be where to put it."

Though Salvesen told Broughal he understood and voted to advertise an ordinance, he was unhappy about being stuck with the "blowby" because "somebody has a problem with Aunt Sally or Joe or something else."

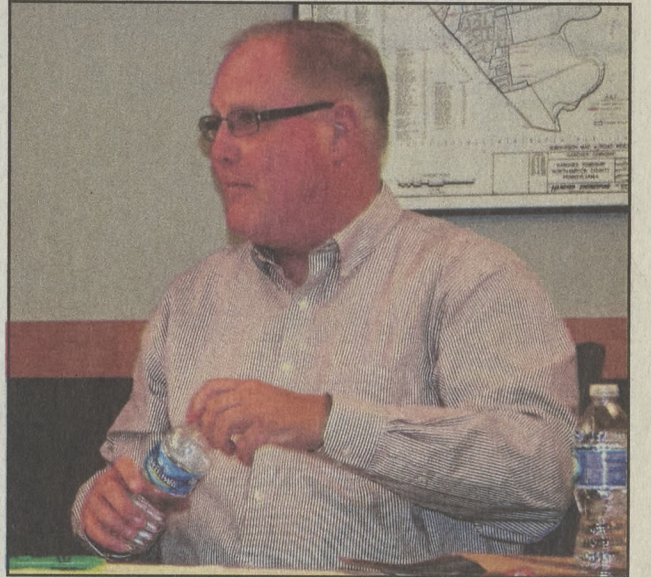

Less controversial was an open burning ordinance, which was adopted unanimously. This ordinance continues the general rule prohibiting open burning within the township, but has exceptions for backyard fire pits.

Supervisors also conducted a conditional use hearing for Chesterbrook Academy Pre-school, which wants to See SITE on Page A8 manned by 20 employees. Nobody opposed the application, and Supervisors are expected to make a decision at their Oct. 25 meeting.

Supervisors also honored Scoutmasters Mark W Firth, Richard L Kanaskie, Michael P Caffrey and Stephen P Dashe for years of service at Boy Scout Troop 352, which is headquartered at Notre Dame of Bethlehem Church. Those scouts participate in an annual flag retirement ceremony.

Jack Nagle, the township's liaison with Bethlehem Area Public Library, had some good news. A tentative budget for next year reveals that there will be no increase in the per capita share currently split among Bethlehem City, Bethlehem Township, Fountain Hill and Hanover Township. Nagle said he will be at the Bookmobile at the Community Center on Halloween, wearing a costume.

"Is a clown?" deadpanned Chair John N. Diacogiannis. "That would be too creepy," answered Nagle. "I will be a mad scientist."

Life Without Chains
A cowboy from the Western plains noticed a live eagle in a large cage at a taxidermist's shop. It was a magnificent bird! "How much do you want for that bird?" he asked. "Oh, that eagle would cost you a lot," and the man named his price. The cowboy said, "I don't know whether I have that much". After going through all his pockets, he asked, "Will you take all I have? I have no more." The man counted the money and replied, "Yes, the eagle is yours."
Eagerly the cowboy undid the eagle's chain and carried it outside of town. He put the eagle on a fence and then stepped back, took off his big hat, and began waving it. The eagle lifted his head, caught sight of the sun, ruffled his feathers, then extended his huge wings and away he flew, up and up.
Some folk who had watched the cowboy asked, "What did you do that for?" "Well," he said, "I live out in the open, and I have seen these eagles enjoying their freedom. I couldn't bear to see that bird chained. It cost me my last dollar, but I wanted to set him free."
One day our Lord Jesus saw us captive, chained, and bound, so He came and gave all that He had for our freedom. That is the great aim of the gospel: to deliver us from bondage. There are so many bondages of sin: evil habits, passions, fears, guilt. But Jesus said, "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free" (John 8:32). And again, "If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed" (John 8:36). When we believe the gospel, we are set at liberty; we began life anew--no longer dominated by the world, the flesh, and devil. This is authentic freedom--life without chains. If you are not enjoying this kind of life but are still captive to sin, like the eagle in the cage, your Liberator waits to set you free. Receive this new life now! It is God's gift to you if you will take it.

Coach Jason Horvath plans to provide the donated cleats to players in the Lehigh Valley.

Ehrig, Adams golden

Duo wins D-11 doubles title

Bethlehem Catholic's Molly Ehrig and Brooke Adams were crowned District XI Class AA doubles tennis champions after winning their match against Moravian Academy's Skyler Hammond and Neelam Ferrari 7-6 (7-2), 3-6, 6-3 on Friday at Lehigh University.

"I was just so overwhelmed and immediately looked at Brooke," said Ehrig, regarding the winning point. "I thought it was going out of bounds, and I immediately panicked."

Although the duo won a highly competitive first set, they dropped the second.

"Our mentality during the second set was to keep talking through each point and pull it back," said Adams.

Although they were unable to do so, they had a strategy for the third, must-win set.

"Get our first serves in, make some volleys, and aim at the net player," Adams said.

In the third set, Ehrig and Adams had a 5-1 lead, but the next game went to deuce three times before Hammond and Ferrari won it. The Moravian Academy pair won the next game too. Then, it was Ehrig's turn to serve.

"When I was serving, I knew we had to get it done," she said.

After dropping the last two games, and now going to deuce again, Adams felt the same way.

"It felt really good going out on a big win," said Adams.

Ehrig and Adams were awarded gold medals by their coach George Harmanos and assistant coach Greg Adams. They will advance to the state doubles tournament in November.

Memories of losing in last year's East Penn Conference championship were certainly on the minds of Liberty players coming into last Saturday's championship match against Parkland.

The Trojans swept Liberty a year ago for the EPC crown and the Hurricanes returned the favor over the weekend, taking care of business in three straight games (25-11, 25-21, 25-20) to over power Parkland.

It was the first league title for the program since at least 2009 and the moment of victory was a sweet feeling for the undefeated Hurricans (19-0).

"I knew we had what it takes, but it's going to take everything we got," said head coach Missy Lynn of the message she gave the team heading into the match-up. "We've been waiting for weeks to play in this game. This is how we can perform if we play up to our ability. We played and beat Parkland in their tournament earlier this year and I think that helped them come in and be a little more relaxed."

Liberty came out more than relaxed, as they were fast from the start in blowing past Parkland in the opening 25-11 victory in the first set.

The second set saw both teams grid locked at 19 until Liberty was able to pull away by outscoring Parkland 6-2 to close out the win and set the tone for the final set, where victory wasn't going to be denied for the Hurricanes.

With the title in balance, Amanda Rachwal scored the winning point off a deflected block to set in motion a Liberty championship.

"It means so much for us because we've been playing hard all year," said Rachwal. "Parkland is a great team and we knew we'd see them in this game. It's incredible to win in a sweep and I'm just so proud of us."

BONFIRE

The Freedom High School bonfire, celebrating the long standing rivalry with Liberty, will be held Friday, Oct. 28, from 6-9 p.m. behind the baseball field at Freedom.

Come grab some dinner from our food trucks and bring the kids to trick or treat with our cheerleaders.

The marching band will be performing along with DJ Real Lion and student band White Noise.

Freedom's fall athletes will be competing in a lip sync battle as well.

This will be a fun night for all so put on your black and gold and come celebrate your Freedom Patriots.

Due to the high cost of clean up we will once again only be using pallets. If you have access to pallets and are willing donate them to our bonfire, please Email Joe Guido at jguido@basd-schools.org to set up a drop off time.

Pates looking for city championship

BY PETER CAR
pccar@tnonline.com

If the Freedom faithful ever needed a shot of adrenaline heading into this Saturday's rivalry game against Liberty, the Patriots certainly got that from last week's 42-21 win over Bethlehem Catholic.

Dashaun Peterson, who opened the contest with a 46 yard TD run on the first play from scrimmage, finished with 161 yards rushing and three touchdowns.

Quarterback Joe Young threw for 108 yards and two touchdowns, adding 45 yards on the ground and another score to give the Pates (5-4) a massive win heading into the regular season finale.

With the win, Freedom is now in position to take home the city championship this Saturday with a win over Liberty (5-4) when things kickoff at 1 p.m. at BASD Stadium.

After going through a mid season stretch of three straight losses, the Pates have now put together back-to-back wins over Nazareth and Becahi and have a chance to improve their playoff positioning with a win over their marquee city rivals this weekend.

"We saw [the Becahi game] as an opportunity for us to build our program around," said head coach Jason Roeder. "I don't think many people expected much of us and some people may have had us dead and buried, but we rose to the challenge. We talked all week how big this game was for our community and our kids wanted it. Now, we play an enormous game on Saturday against Liberty and it doesn't really get any better than that."

With momentum on one side of town, Liberty is hoping to pick themselves up after last week's 47-7 mercy-rule defeat at Nazareth.

The Hurricanes accumulated only 78 yards of total offense last week and will need a vast improvement if they want to have a chance at knocking off Freedom this week.

One thing that Roeder and Freedom can point to heading into week 10 is the progress they've made over the past two weeks, following three straight difficult losses.

Freedom can look back at the Becahi film and point to their 17-play, 87-yard drive in the fourth quarter that ate up 8:08 in the final frame as a sign that things are clicking.

"We always talk about a championship caliber drive and at that position of the game Beca battled back and our kids rose to the challenge," said Roeder. "That's the type of football we need to be able to play at this point of the year."

Hawks ready to refocus on Central Cath.

BY PETER CAR
pccar@tnonline.com

It was the first time Bethlehem Catholic lost a football game in 41 days following last Friday's 42-21 thumping at the hands of Freedom.

You have to go back to September 10 when Emmaus took advantage of a 34-25 score line to teach the Hawks a lesson.

Well, the Hawks may have gotten another dose of humble pie in their defeat to a hungrier Freedom team last weekend.

The Patriots jumped out to a 28-0 halftime lead and used a 17-play, 87-yard scoring drive that nearly took off the first eight minutes of the fourth quarter to cement last week's win.

"I think we may have been a little too emotional going into this game," said Hawks' head coach Kyle Haas. "Our kids got pretty amped to play in this game and maybe I was a little too amped as well. Maybe that's why we started off so poorly, but the one thing I know is that we'll learn from this and get better heading into this week's game with Central."

Becahi (7-2) now needs to dispose of a possible hangover, where they lost an opportunity to win the city title outright with a win last week, and focus on another rivalry contest with Central Catholic this Saturday night at J. Birney Crum Stadium.

The Vikings (8-1) took care of Allen last week 42-7, but haven't been challenged much this year by playing in the EPC North.

They've only played three teams with winning records this year, knocking off Pleasant Valley and Stroudsburg this season, but losing a 31-8 season opener to Freedom.

Despite playing inferior opponents from the north, Haas is confident that Central's high-scoring offense, which has averaged 46.3 points a game this season, is for real.

"I'll tell you one thing, they are a really good offensive team," he said. "They have the biggest offensive line in the league and they block really well on the perimeter. They throw a lot of screens and let their skill kids get in space, which makes them dangerous. It's like watching a basketball team on the football field."

Darnell Ferrell is the Vikes most explosive offensive weapon out of the backfield, as he's rushed for 1,191 yards this season and has scored 30 total touchdowns on the year.

Quarterback Ethan Persa has thrown for 1,592 yards and 16 TD's with only two interceptions.

Ferrell and the Vikings brass of skill position players will be the focus for this week, but getting back to the basics will also be crucial for the Hawks.

"This game is going to come down to getting stops on defense and getting off the field," Haas said. "Obviously, we couldn't get off the field on that drive against Freedom in the fourth quarter last week. We just need to be focused for Central this week. I think maybe our kids were reading too many of their press clippings and you have to be able to handle success. I think we definitely learned something about how to carry ourselves, how to prepare in practice and go out and play in an emotional game from last week's loss."

Quarterback Javon Clements will be back for this week's clash after sitting out the last two weeks with an injury.

Emmaus heads into Week 10 with top-seed clinched

BY PETER CAR
pccar@tnonline.com

It's week 10 of the football season and there's a lot on the line heading into the regular season finale.

Check out the breakdowns below for each classification with scenarios for what local teams have to accomplish to either get into the postseason or improve their seeding.

(All teams listed have either clinched or are in contention)

1A (4 teams qualify)

1. Williams Valley 8-1
2. Tri-Valley 7-2
3. Marian Catholic 5-4
4. Nativity BVM 1-8
5. Shenandoah Valley 0-9

The top three teams have all clinched. Williams Valley clinches top spot with a win over Pine Grove. A loss, coupled with a Tri-Valley win over East Juniata, would put Tri-Valley at the top. Marian is locked into the third spot. Nativity is in with a victory, but could be out with a loss and a Shenandoah win.

2A (4 teams qualify)

1. Schuylkill Haven 9-0
2. Palmerton 4-5
3. Mahanoy Area 5-5
4. Minersville 4-5
5. Catasauqua 2-7

Schuylkill Haven has clinched the top spot. Catasauqua is still breathing but needs to defeat Northwestern this week. A straight up win for the Roughies could put them in, but if that's coupled by a Mahanoy loss, Roughs would be a lock.

3A (8 teams qualify)

1. Notre Dame GP 7-2
2. Palisades 7-2
3. Pen Argyl 6-3
4. North Schuylkill 6-3
5. Jim Thorpe 5-4
6. Tamaqua 4-5

7. Lehighton 4-5
8. Northern Lehigh 4-5

Notre Dame's recent slide has opened up the door for Palisades to overtake the top spot with a win over Saucon Valley this week. Outside of that it's a recipe of scenarios for who goes where. North Schuylkill could go as high as three with a win over Pottsville and a Pen Argyl loss to Bangor. If Pen Argyl and North Schuylkill both lose, Jim Thorpe can jump to three with a win over Lehighton. Tamaqua, Lehighton and Northern Lehigh are all guaranteed to be playing on the road next week.

4A (four teams qualify)

1. Bethlehem Catholic 7-2
2. Central Catholic 8-1
3. Pottsville 8-1
4. Saucon Valley 8-1
5. Blue Mountain 7-2

Becahi and Central are the only two teams to have clinched berths heading into their week 10 rivalry showdown. A Becahi win clinches the top spot, however, a Hawks loss and a Saucon Valley win over Palisades could push them down to fourth.

A Central win clinches them the top seed, but a loss, as well as wins by Pottsville and Saucon Valley, could put the Vikings down to fourth.

As far as the last two spots available, several scenarios will determine who gets in and which team is on the outside looking in, with Blue Mountain needing the most help, as a loss this week to Schuylkill Haven would eliminate the Eagles outright.

If Pottsville (they play North Schuylkill), Saucon Valley and Blue Mountain all win, Blue Mountain is out.

If Blue Mountain wins and both, Saucon Valley and Pottsville lose, Saucon Valley is out.

5A (4 teams qualify)

1. Whitehall 5-4
2. Southern Lehigh 7-2
3. Eastburg South 4-5
4. Eastburg North 3-6

All four teams are in the playoffs. All you really need to know in this bracket are the top two teams. A Whitehall win over Northampton clinches the top-seed. A Southern Lehigh victory over Salisbury and a Whitehall loss, jumps the Spartans to the top. Neither of the top two teams can drop any lower.

6A (8 teams qualify)

1. Emmaus 8-1
2. Pleasant Valley 8-1
3. Parkland 7-2
4. Nazareth 5-4
5. Freedom 5-4
6. Liberty 5-4

Freedom's Kaitlyn Swint and Natalie Sinai placed second at the District XI Class AAA doubles tennis tournament, which concluded on Friday at Lehigh University.

The Patriots were defeated by Easton's Ireland and Sophia Amato 4-6, 2-6 in the district final.

"They just simply played better," said Freedom tennis coach Mark Sigmon.

Swint and Sinai won the first game of the match, but dropped the next three. Swint's net game, however, caught the Amatos off guard.

"I'm proud of her," said Sinai. "She's the best partner, and I'm glad she was there for me. I wanted to win for her."

The Patriots also won the first game of the second set, but dropped the next four.

"They just didn't make mistakes, and they started making some shots," Sigmon said. "It was great tennis. It's disappointing, but we climbed the mountain, and we were one step away."

Swint and Sinai, seeded third in the tournament, defeated second-seeded Sydney DeNardo and Halle DeNardo from Nazareth two days earlier 3-6, 6-3, 6-2.

"We just took it one point at a time," said Swint. "It was really motivational."

BC rally falls short in volleyball quarters

BY CJ HEMERLY
Special to the Press

Bethlehem Catholic girls volleyball head coach Paul Abi-Daher knew his team was going to be in for a battle all night when the fourth seeded Golden Hawks (13-4 overall, 13-3 EPC) took on number five seed Emmaus (14-6 overall, 13-5 EPC) last Tuesday evening at home in the Eastern Pennsylvania Conference quarterfinal round matchup.

Besides the close seedings and records, the two teams have met in the postseason in recent years, and have been tight contests. Tuesday night was no different.

After Becahi took two of the first three games in front of a raucous home crowd, the Green Hornets rallied to win the final two games and take the match 3-2 by scores of 25-21, 14-25, 18-25, 25-22, 18-16. Emmaus advanced to the semifinals, where they fell to eventual runner-up Parkland.

"Both teams played really hard and are very competitive," said Abi-Daher. "They are both great teams, and on any given night either one can win. The top 4 or 5 teams in the conference is anyone's game. It just comes down to the little things that you do during games that goes a long way toward winning. It was just their night."

Emmaus came into the Hawk's nest running. They never trailed in the opening game, and used some powerful serves from their setter Caroline Bond in going on a run that gave them an 11-point lead twice. Becahi made it close in the end, but the Green Hornets finished it off in the end.

"When we fell behind 16-5 in the first set, it looked like it was going to be a long night for us," noted Abi-Daher. "But we came back and made it close. That type of hard work went over into the second and third games and we played really well. We fell short in the fourth game, and were just one shot short in the fifth. It could've gone our way, but didn't, and that's volleyball."

But the Hawks came out with a lot of energy in the second game. They took their first lead of the match during the fifth point of the second game to make the score 3-2. They would add on to the lead and also hold two different, 11-point advantages on their way to a 25-14 win.

Game three was more of the same as Becahi scored three straight points, and never trailed, going on a run after the score was tied at 13 to finish off a 25-18 victory.

"After we won those two games, I thought game four would be ours," Abi-Daher added. "We had all of the mo-

Bethlehem Catholic senior, Rowan Pepe, medaled at the EPC Cross Country Championships, placing 10th last Tuesday at Bethlehem Municipal Golf Course.

"I was really tired, and my legs were heavy, but I was kind of really happy I was done," she said. "I was going to hold back in the first mile, and during the golf course portion, go as hard as I could. I wasn't as intimidated by the hills as a senior after doing them multiple times."

Pepe's time was 20:46.59.

Liberty sophomore, Grace Haas, just missed medaling when she placed 13th with a time of 21:19.84.

Liberty senior, Raisa Kochmaruk, who had led most if not all of the race, slowed and stumbled as she neared the finish line.

"My legs just gave out," Kochmaruk said. "They did not carry me."

Liberty coach Mark Will-Weber could see her throughout the race. "She looked fine," he said. "She had a big lead, basically the whole time."

Becahi's Lauren Bunke was the next to finish for the Bethlehem schools, placing 16th with a time of 21:34.14, and teammate, Mary Frances Scheidel, was 18th with a time of 21:36.36.

Elena Spengler placed first for Freedom and 36th overall with a time of 22:44.17.

The winner of the EPC meet was Stroudsburg's Allana Powlette, whose time was 19:22.47.

In girls' team results, Stroudsburg was first with 31 points.

Becahi placed fifth with 149 points, Freedom was ninth with 224 points, and Liberty placed 12th with 259 points.

In boys' team results, Parkland won the meet with 32 points.

Freedom was seventh with 191 points, Liberty placed 10th with 280 points, and Becahi was 12th with 327 points.

Pleasant Valley's Seth Slavin won the boys' race with a time of 16:27.94.

Finishing first for Liberty and 17th overall was Pedro LaRotta, who had a time of 18:10.54.

Freedom's Isaac Gross placed 28th with a time of 18:31.93, and

LHS boys fall in EPC soccer finals

BY KATIE MCDONALD

The Liberty Hurricanes were right where they wanted to be last Thursday: in the EPC boys' soccer final against Stroudsburg, but after 80 minutes of play, the Mountaineers won, and the Hurricanes were not where they wanted to be at all.

At the 27:48 mark of the first half, Liberty forward, Sammy Abiles, put the Hurricanes on top on an assist by Lloyd Netherlin.

With 11:20 left, Stroudsburg goalkeeper Christian Beebe made two big saves, one on a shot by Valentine Perevalov, and with 6:00 left, made another save on an attempt by Trevor Koski. Still, the Hurricanes went into halftime with a 1-0 lead, but the Mountaineers would prove to be a self-professed second half team.

"We were disappointed, conceding a goal," said Stroudsburg forward, Doug Cilli.

So what the Mountaineers did was score twice within less than a minute in the second half. John Burns scored first on an assist by Ryan Lord at 24:12, and Cilli had the game winner at 23:46.

"My teammate sent me a good through ball over the defense, and I saw the goalkeeper come over the line," Cilli said. "I was ecstatic, one of the best moments of my career."

With momentum seemingly on their side, Beebe made two more saves in the final seconds of the game to win the EPC championship.

"We just wanted to focus on our own game," said Cilli. "We've been in games like this before and knew we'd have to fight to the end."

Jonathan Heess made three saves for Liberty, and Beebe made six saves for Stroudsburg.

Liberty was awarded a trophy for winning the Steel Division, and Stroudsburg was awarded the same for winning the Mountain Division.

Both teams will compete in the District XI Soccer Tournament, scheduled to have begun this week.

Game four was back-and-forth. There were four lead changes, and the largest lead was a four-point edge by Emmaus, twice. Becahi got it as close as 23-21, but just couldn't put together that final run to overtake the Green Hornets. Not only did the Grace Mittl led the way for Liberty with 11 kills and Rachwal followed with 10 kills.

Sydney Wilson had 17 digs, while Jackie Wagner had 26 assists.

The win sets up Liberty as the top-seed in this week's district tournament, where they hope to claim a second championship with a district title.

"We want to win it all," Lynn said. "We want to go to states, we want to win districts, we want to get on our banner at school. That's been the goal since March. We're happy for today, but we still have matches today and we're really looking forward to next week."

match go the distance of five games, but the final game went to extra play.

With Emmaus up 14-11, and only needing one point to win, Abi-Daher called timeout. The Hawks responded with their backs to the wall and tallied three straight to tie the game at 14.

The game was tied two more times, before the Green Hornets scored on two consecutive possessions to win the game 18-16 and take the match.

Becahi now has its sights set on the District 11 AAA tournament, where they have had a lot of recent success.

"We will work on some things and be ready for it," stated Abi-Daher. "We'll have the first round at home and then two more rounds to get it done. It will probably come down to us and Central again, and we will have to take care of the little things like I said."

The District 11 3A field hockey tournament got underway with Monday's pigtail round, as eighth-seeded Pocono Mountain East defeated East Stroudsburg South 2-0.

That was the only pigtail contest of the tournament, as the Cardinals now get a date with top-seeded Emmaus during Wednesday's quarterfinal round.

In the four-five matchup in the top half of the bracket, Northampton hosted Whitehall in another clash between division rivals.

Third-seeded Liberty hosts sixth-seeded Easton, while second-seeded Stroudsburg took on seventh-seeded Parkland in a rematch of the East Penn Conference quarterfinals, where the Mounties defeated the Trojans 1-0.

The semifinal round for the tournament will take place on October 31 at sites to be determined.

In volleyball, 4A brackets will be released on Friday due to being paired in a subregional this year.

Liberty should be one of the top two seeds. Freedom has also qualified.

In 3A, Bethlehem Catholic enters as the #4 seed and open on Wednesday against #5 Southern Lehigh.

Should the Hawks advance to next Tuesday's semifinals, they would likely see top-seeded Blue Mountain.

A crowd gathers to watch the sixth annual Dachshund Races at SteelStacks during Oktoberfest.

Special to the Bethlehem Press

An enthusiastic crowd gathered around the fenced-in area at the Levitt Pavilion Oct. 9 to watch the sixth annual Dachshund Races at SteelStacks during Oktoberfest and to cheer the 40 dogs scheduled to race, as they crossed the finish line.

Whether you had a best friend entered or were just there to watch the race, everyone had a good time and the weather couldn't have been nicer.

The number of heats, number of dachshunds per heat and number of dachshunds that moved on to champion rounds heat were determined the day following check-in. Heats were randomly selected and the dogs raced two at a time, running from one family member about 50 feet to the finish line, to another family member who was waiting with their favorite treat or toy.

The dachshunds were not required to be a purebred, but each owner was asked to use their best judgment and the four-legged friend must at least resemble a dachshund.

Registered dachshunds received a "Puppy Pass" for their visit.

All pre-registered dachshunds received a doggie bag, which included a treat package and an Oktoberfest leash bag.

Prizes were awarded to first, second and third place winners.

The Bethlehem Oktoberfest is held the first two weekends in October and is a traditional German Oktoberfest with Pennsylvania influence.

This dachshund is determined to get to the finish line no matter what.

This little one glides through the air without a care in the world.

Frankie focuses on the finish line.

Frank, awaiting his turn, looks very relaxed.

This owner is trying to no avail encourage his dachshund to run.

Oskar Froustet struts off with no problem.

This little one has a change of heart after seeing all those people.

Frankie looks intently down the field at owner Brian Froustet; holding his other dachshund, Oskar, as Andi Froustet gets ready to release him.

Newlyweds Christian and Brenda Ramos of Bethlehem have their wedding photos taken on the Hoover-Mason Trestle during Oktoberfest.

This young dachshund is a little timid his first time out.

Bethlehem City Hall

Take care of your own house first

BY DANA GRUBB

Special to the Bethlehem Press

At its Oct. 18 meeting, Bethlehem City Council approved an ordinance advanced by the city administration that bans homeowners from parking on their front lawns, except under certain circumstances. The measure is designed to address the aesthetics of parking one's vehicle on one's private front lawn.

It appears to be more of a solution in search of a problem.

Since this initiative was announced about a month ago, I have been traveling around the city to try to estimate what percentage of homes have parked cars on their lawns in Bethlehem. I have not found one instance of this taking place, although others who knew what I was doing have mentioned five locations in the city where they've noticed this situation. One actually even involves a city employee who was observed parking his city vehicle on his lawn.

It certainly does not look like this has reached epidemic proportions in Bethlehem.

In my quest for lawn parking scofflaws, however, I've noticed quite a few other issues around Bethlehem that perhaps city officials should be paying more attention to than interfering with residential property rights.

I will admit that a car parked on a lawn in front of a home may not be the most decorative item, but city ordinances already address abandoned, unlicensed and un-inspected vehicles when they're on private property. Maybe if you own a Mercedes or Jaguar and park it on your lawn, it would be considered a lawn ornament and the fashion police would overlook your transgression.

On my own Facebook page, many questioned the usurpation of private property rights on this initiative, and on other media related blogs I've read, many questioned what could be next for the fashion arm of local government.

As for my travels around Bethlehem, there are much more pressing matters for city hall to be addressing regarding the way our city looks starting with:

- Dead trees on Hayes Street that were planted using federal Community Development Block Grant funds. Six dead trees and another half-dozen or so on life support need to be replaced. Sticks in tree wells are not attractive. At one time Hayes Street was a beautiful tree-lined entryway into the Southside.

- Light standards on the Greenway east of the Heights Bridge are nearly all devoid of their acorn lighting fixtures. Whoever designed the Greenway without using vandalism resistant materials should be held accountable, as either rocks or bullets have destroyed the acorn lights on top of the poles in this area.

- City streets are the worst that I can remember since I began using them as a high school age driver in the mid-1960s. For a real bouncy treat try the stretch of Union Boule-

ANOTHER VIEW

PRESS PHOTOS BY DANA GRUBB

Acorn style lights along the city's Greenway have been missing for over a year due to vandalism. Insert: At the East Sixth Street connection to the Greenway one of two remaining acorn style lights is on its way to becoming another casualty of vandalism.

As city maintenance positions have been eliminated, several city owned properties once mowed are now left to grow wild and city signage touts "exciting changes coming." A residential property owner would be cited by the city if they did this.

The obsolete Lynn Avenue Bridge has been closed for 15 months, affecting access of residents to their southeast neighborhood.

Cribbing installed in Monocacy Park during the 1970s to stabilize the stream banks has been hazardous and unsafe for over a decade. It is not an attractive feature in a park that should exhibit bucolic beauty.

The crumbling asphalt walkways in Monocacy Park have become hazardous and drop off up to 6 inches in many places. It adds to the blighted look of the park.

In my quest for lawn parking scofflaws, however, I've noticed quite a few other issues around Bethlehem that perhaps city officials should be paying more attention to than interfering with residential property rights.

ward between Center and Main streets. This is a major east to west thoroughfare in Bethlehem, but I've heard complaints about street conditions all over the city.

- In fall 2017 the city center, town hall and Bethlehem Area Public Library will be 50 years old. The condition of pavers on Payrow Plaza resembles what one might expect to find in a third world country. For much of the summer, green space directly in front of city hall was weed filled, and landscaping around the complex is half removed and sporadic. It probably compares quite favorably to an automobile on a lawn in terms of attractiveness.

- Recently, a resident on the Southside forwarded a photo of tires and other debris that had been accumulating along Lynn Avenue. It wasn't a pretty sight.

- The maintenance of city parks leaves much to be desired. Large regional facilities, Saucon Park and Monocacy Park, have received little in the way of improvement in decades. In Monocacy Park, 40-year-old railroad ties used to stabilize the creek edge in the 1970s are no longer sturdy and make approaching the stream bank hazardous. The jagged-edged several-inch drop-offs along macadam paths are better designed to turn or break ankles than be a boon to fitness. These conditions have existed for at least 10 years and are both unattractive for a park setting and certainly unsafe.

- As cuts have been made to parks' staffing, the newer strategy of not mowing broad expanses of lawn has been turned into overgrown meadows which signage touts as "exciting changes coming." Homeowners who would refuse to mow their lawn and bill it as "exciting changes coming" would be cited by the city of Bethlehem.

- Residents in the southeast quadrant of the city have had access to their Lynn Avenue and Creek Road neighborhoods hamstrung with the nearly 10-year closure of the substandard High Street Bridge and the over one-year closure of the obsolete and decrepit-looking Lynn Avenue Bridge.

- The Monocacy Creek pedestrian bridge in the Historic Bethlehem Colonial Quarter was miraculously determined to be substandard just days before the start of Musikfest in August. It is also a crucial link in the Monocacy Pathway, an important part of Bethlehem's trail system, and it remains closed. The bridge looks blighted.

- A stand of trees between the Pennsylvania Playhouse and municipal golf course entrance is more dead than alive. Homeowners would be ordered by the city forester to remove trees like these on their private property under threat of citation if they didn't. Apparently those same requirements don't apply to city property.

- The city's maintenance barn along Illick's Mill Road looks dilapidated and the lot behind, which was once the city's miniature golf course, is overgrown and contains debris.

Yet, apparently the parking of cars on front lawns is much more threatening to an attractive Bethlehem.

In the end, it seems to be more of a diversionary tactic focusing on an inconsequential issue so officials can point to it and brag about doing something, while the real and much more challenging aesthetic issues remain. City officials need to get their own house in order first.

LV Academy Regional Charter

Grade: 12th

Family: Mother, Luz Morillo; father, Jesus Garcia; brothers, Amaury and Kevin; sister, Karla.

Favorite subject: English.

I love writing short stories and poems. English class allows me to expand my knowledge and my writing skills. Also, English class allows me to read new novels and poems. Literature is a way to express yourself and entertain, that is why I love it.

Activities: Youth group at my church; member of student council in my school

Next steps: Attend DeSales University to study early child education or secondary education for literature.

Career goal: Become a teacher of some sort. Also, I want to start publishing stories and my poems. I want to write on my free time and work on being a big time author one day, maybe an author that children learn about. When it comes to teaching, I want to get my masters' degree and work at Lehigh Valley Academy.

Heroes: My mother has given me so much. She is hard-working and dedicated to giving my siblings and me everything we need and more. Her work ethic has reflected in me as I work hard for my education and anything I truly want. Another hero is my cousin Edwin Mejia, a Columbia University graduate who attended on a full paid scholarship. Edwin is always there for me when I need advice about school. He is so smart. I have always believed that he was going to do big things for the world, and he is. I want to do the same. He literally saved my life when I was younger. I jumped into a pool and was drowning. He jumped in and pulled me out.

Hobbies: Writing poems and short stories. I also try to come up with ideas for community service and events I would like to do.

Work: Currently I am an associate at Dorney Park & Wildwater Kingdom, but the season ends Oct. 30. As a result, I am now employed at St. Luke's Hospital as a nutrition service aide. When I have time, I work as a babysitter.

Community/volunteer work: I worked with Donegan's after school coordinator Kimberly Bush to make an event that had the students being active and eating healthy.

Likes: I like to write as much as I can. I like to be with children and working. I like to help my mom with anything she needs.

Dislikes: Math and I do not like to waste time.

Greatest accomplishments (so far): Successfully entering the workforce all by myself and earning a scholarship to complete the IB Exams in the spring and the Fe Foundation in the summer.

Advice for peers: Keep a strong work ethic. Life is all about sacrifices, and even though things get tough, do not give up. Whatever you are going through shall pass. Do not let anything get in the way of your education.

Scary treats at Sands Outlets

A steady stream of families with mostly costumed children attended the trick-or-treat Halloween party in the Outlets at Sands Oct. 22. The annual free event featured trick-or-treat Halloween sweets and coupons given out by participating store representatives. Games and costume prizes were part of the Halloween party organized by the Outlets at Sands management.

Children left the mall with bags of candy and smiles on their painted faces. Trick-or-treat night in the City of Bethlehem is scheduled for Friday, Oct. 28 from 6 to 8 p.m. Bethlehem Township, Freemansburg, Fountain Hill, Hanover Township and Upper Saucon Township are also the same night. Bethlehem's Halloween parade is Sunday, Oct. 30 at 2 p.m.

Unity Day big success

Fall is here, and it comes with a lot of fun and exciting days for the Lehigh Valley Academy Regional Charter School students. All the students returned from their enjoyable summers and got straight to work.

It's a busy time for seniors right now as they work on their extended essays, internal assessments and CAS projects. They are all applying to college, writing college papers, getting their transcripts ready, getting recommendation letters, preparing for SATs and ACTs.

This past week, some of our senior girls held step team tryouts for boys and girls in ninth through 12th grades. We successfully have a team: 14 girls and one boy. They have been practicing and stepping their hearts away. Step team is something Lehigh Valley Academy has had around for four years now and it is something our students really enjoy.

Collecting for Stockings for Soldiers

BY DEBBIE GALBRAITH
dgalbraith@ttonline.com

Lehigh Valley Press will once again participate in Stockings for Soldiers working with Keystone Military Families. For our readers who would also like to participate, the items needed are listed below.

All items collected go to all branches of the military and to locations in Afghanistan, Kuwait, Korea and any other Troops who request support from home. All items are sorted and packed according to the requests received directly from the Troops or their families. Since we are gearing up for the holiday season, special holiday items have been added to the list.

Requested items for 2016 include:

- Christmas stockings - 20 to 24 inches in size, handmade or purchased
- Christmas hats - Santa or elf type
- Paper or plastic Christmas decorations - no glass ornaments
- Ground or instant coffee, K-Cups and hot tea. Coffee creamer and sugar packets. Hot chocolate or hot cider.
- Power Bars,* cereal bars, trail mix, granola bars and healthy snacks
- Slim Jims, beef or

- turkey jerky
- Sunflower seeds and nuts
- Individual snacks like crackers, cookies, cheese/cracker kits*
- Peanut butter and jelly - small size plastic jars*
- Candy canes
- Small sewing kits and manicure kits
- Sunscreen and insect repellent*
- Chap Stick with sunscreen, Blistex
- Aspirin, Tylenol and cold meds in small packages

- Vitamins
- 5-Hour Energy and similar products
- Odor Eaters (for boots), Dr. Scholl's foot pads, blister pads
- Hand sanitizer - small size bottles to carry with them
- Mens and ladies calf high socks or boot socks in black or white
- Hand and foot warmers

- Thermal gloves or glove liners
- Pet treats and toys
- CDs* and DVDs - New or used are fine. Current releases are appreciated
- *Money for shipping costs
- * Items most needed or requested by the troops
- Monetary donations are needed to help ship the care packages. This is always the biggest need by far. Shipping costs have increased and it does not matter how many items are collected if there is no money to ship it. There are thousands of Troops who are counting on us to send them some love and cheer from home. In November and December 2015, 7,620 stockings were shipped to Troops all over the world.

Note: The U.S. Postal Service regulations do not allow anything in aerosol cans to be shipped. Shipping currently takes about 14 to 21 days to the combat zones. It takes about a week to get everything sorted and boxed. Please keep this in mind when you are checking expiration dates on food items. Currently not accepting any books.

Items need to be delivered to The Press, 1633 N. 26th St., Allentown between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday by Nov. 7.

For questions, contact Debbie Galbraith at 610-740-0944, ext. 3705 or by email at dgalbraith@ttonline.com.

Wednesday was comfy day, when students enjoyed being in their sweats and favorite Tee-shirts. Thursday was jersey day and students and teachers took the day to represent their favorite sports team. Lastly, Friday was dress like a student for teachers and dress like a teacher for students. The teachers and students had a good laugh and enjoyment out of that one.

Homecoming has been planned and will be coming up Oct. 28, with a starry night theme.

Unity Day has just passed and the K through 12 students joined to all wear orange to encourage to just be themselves and to end bullying. We created an orange poster with "Be You" on it and had student write little slips with "Be _____" and filled in the blanks with words such as, "original," "loving" and "happy." Staff and students all participant and enjoy being united for this wonderful cause.

College week is coming soon and ninth through 12th graders and staff really enjoy this week. Teachers get to represent the colleges they attended and graduated from. Students get to express which colleges they are considering. Students and staff decorate their doors with college themes.

Our guidance counselors also take a day to create a mini-college fair in our cafeteria. Various local Pennsylvania colleges come and set up their own tables. Students have the opportunity to ask questions and get an idea of what they might be interested in.

Spotting the quarantined spotted lanternfly

GROWING GREEN
 L.C. Cooperative Extension
 LehighExt@psu.edu

The spotted lanternfly (Lycorma delicatula) has the potential to destroy high-value crops, including grapes, tree fruits and hardwood lumber. Early detection is vital for the protection of Pennsylvania agriculture and businesses.

In an effort to keep the spotted lanternfly from spreading, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture has quarantined municipalities in the Lehigh Valley and South-eastern Pennsylvania.

The quarantine order, which has been supported by the affected communities, means that any item that could hold any life stage of the spotted lanternfly may not knowingly be moved outside the quarantined area without inspection and compliance. This includes firewood, vehicles, outdoor household items, and any items stored outside during the fall, as well as building materials and plants or plant parts.

The quarantine includes municipal recycling centers. Intentional movement of any of the life stages of the spotted lanternfly is prohibited.

The spotted lanternfly is an invasive insect first discovered in Berks County in September 2014.

Adults can be seen as early as the middle of July and take on a much different appearance than their nymph stages. The spotted lanternfly adult is approximately one-inch long and one-half-inch wide. Adults at rest have a black head and grayish wings with black spots. The tips of the wings are a combination of black rectangular blocks with gray outlines.

When startled or flying, the spotted lanternfly will display hind wings that are red at the base and black at the tip with a white stripe dividing them. The red portion of the wing is also adorned with black spots. The abdomen is bright to pale yellow with bands of black on the top and bottom surfaces. While a poor flyer, the spotted lanternfly is a strong jumper.

Spotted lanternflies have been found in wooded areas and residential landscapes, especially where there are tree-of-heaven (Ailanthus altissima) trees. Adults may also be found congregating at the tree base near leaf litter.

Early in the fall, adults congregate mainly on stems of tree-of-heaven and grape, but also on maple, willow and other trees. Weeping wounds See GREEN on page B2

Amphibians' long winter's nap looms

BUD'S VIEW

A bullfrog raises its temperature in the sun at the edge of a pond.

It is time for the local amphibians to disappear for the winter. Where do they go? They don't migrate like many birds do.

Can you imagine how long it might take for a frog or toad to hop or a salamander to crawl to Florida? So, what do they do?

When fall temperatures begin to drop, the activity level of the three species of amphibians, frogs, toads and salamanders, tapers off. The activity slows to the point where they stop eating.

Before the heart and respiration functions drop to hibernation levels, an amphibian digs down below the eventual frost line to await the warmer temperatures of early spring. When conditions become favorable again, they return to the surface.

Aquatic species shut down their body functions and lie suspended in water at the bottom of a water source. In this location and body condition, they're able to draw enough oxygen from the water to stay alive.

A few tree frogs, like the familiar harbinger of spring, the spring peeper, do not worry about falling temperatures. They produce antifreeze that protects from the cold until burrowing into an area of soft soil or on the bottom of a vernal pool, a temporary water source.

I built a small pond in our yard several years ago in a low area that held water long after a period of rain. Blue, our pup, would come in with muddy feet days after a down-pour.

The small pond took care of the muddy area, but unfortunately it provided an excellent place for Blue to go wading. He loved it, so we decided a wet pup in the house was better than a muddy one. Water is easier to clean than mud.

I used a black plastic liner that a friend had left over from building a waterfall that channels into a holding tank where a pump recycles the water to the top of the falls. I decided to haul in rocks and build a waterfall, too. It became a major project, but it has been well worth the effort. I enjoy sitting beside the pond, listening to the trickling water, watching and feeding the fish and birding.

Amphibians are cold-blooded, or ectothermic, and derive their body temperature from the surrounding temperature. Ectotherms regulate their body temperature by moving from place to place within their habitat. If it is too warm they move to a cooler spot, move back and forth between shaded and sunny areas or in and out of water. This allows them to continually adjust their temperature.

We had two frogs at the pond this year. One, a very dark variety (the species is uncertain) and one that our friend, Gary Pierzga, captured in his parents' swimming pool. He brought it over and released it in our pond. Gary's frog is a leopard frog.

Both frogs enjoyed sit-

"Rent"'s due: The 20th anniversary production national tour of "Rent," the landmark rock musical written by Jonathan Larson, stops at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 1 at the State Theatre Center for the Arts, Easton. "For the past 20 years, 'Rent' has touched the livvwwes of audiences around the world from Broadway to regional productions to high school auditoriums," said the tour's producer Stephen Gabriel. "Rent," based on Puccini's "La Bohème," follows a year in the lives of seven struggling artists. The musical had its world premiere Feb. 13, 1996, and transferred to Broadway on April 29, 1996. "Rent" received the 1996 Tony Award for Musical and the Pulitzer Prize for Drama. Evan Ensign restaged the 20th anniversary tour, with Marlies Yearby (Tony nomination, "Rent") as choreographer, based on the original direction by Michael Greif (Tony nominations, "Rent"). "Rent" was previously presented at the State Theatre in February and September 2002 and April 2006. Tickets: State Theatre Box Office, 453 Northampton St., Easton; statetheatre.org, 1-800-999-STATE

In the concert, LuPone explores, through interpretations of show tunes by Richard Rodgers, Lorenz Hart, Jule Styne, Stephen Schwartz, Charles Strouse, Leonard Bernstein, Stephen Sondheim, Cole Porter and Irving Berlin, her life-long love affair with Broadway. LuPone received her first Tony Award in 1978 as the title character in "Evita" and again received a Tony for Actress in a Musical in 2008 for her role in "Gypsy." LuPone also received two Grammy Awards in 2008. LuPone returns to the State Theatre for the first time since February 2011 when she performed with fellow Tony Award recipient Mandy Patinkin, with whom she starred in Broadway's original "Evita." Robin Flores is this year's honoree at Lehigh Carbon Community College

Lehigh Carbon Community College (LCCC) has named Robin Flores as this year's recipient of the Collegiate Award of Distinction.

The award will be presented to Flores at 6 p.m. Nov. 11 in the Scheller-Woodman Community Services Center on the college's main campus during the LCCC Foundation's annual Fall Festival.

The LCCC Collegiate Award of Distinction is presented annually by the college's Board of Trustees to recognize a person or organization for contributions to the community, service and dedication in support of education, and to honor those who have demonstrated their commitment to the college and its students.

"Ms. Flores has been a fervent advocate and supporter of Lehigh Carbon Community College and the LCCC Foundation. She epitomizes the opportunities and mission of Lehigh Carbon Community College to provide an affordable education for its students," said Lehigh Carbon Community College President Ann D. Bieber.

Flores was a member of the first graduating class of Lehigh Carbon Community College and sang the Alma Mater at the first graduation ceremony in 1969.

After receiving a degree from LCCC, she received a Bachelor's in education and English from Kutztown University and a Master's in administration from the University of Scranton.

She is named to the Who's Who of American Women, and is a member of the National Association of Female Executives. She received the Winning Partnership Award from the Pennsylvania Department of the Aging; the Nike Award from the Business and Professional Women Organization, and was named Alumna of the Year for Lehigh Carbon Community College.

She is on the LCCC Foundation Board of Directors, is chair of the LCCC Foundation Events Committee, and is director of Development and Grants Management at the Literacy Center of the Lehigh Valley.

Want a friend? Join a meet-up

When I wrote a column a few weeks ago about making friends through meet-up groups, it generated a surprising amount of email.

A few wanted to know more about meet-up groups. Were they like dating sites? A few wanted to know how to find a meet-up.

While many meet-ups include both men and women, some are strictly for women only.

The coed meet-ups could lead to dating but that's not the case as often as we might wish. That's because there are always way more women than men who show up. However, I do know two couples who met that way.

I think younger people were using meet-up groups long before I even knew about them. It wasn't until a little over a year ago that I learned about meet-ups when woman approached me to ask if I would do a story on her meet-up party group designed for a younger crowd.

I've since been surprised to learn how many varied meet-up groups are out there. Two of the popular ones in most areas are the walking meet-up and dine-out meet-ups.

In our area I found a book club meet-up, a movie group and a widows' meet-up. Just today I got an email from my friend Linda saying she was starting a singers meet-up. Starting next week they will meet at her place to sing songs and hang out together.

Now bear in mind that every single area is different. I live in Florida where there is a wide variety of meet-up groups with more appearing every month.

I think the primary reason for that is people here are generally transplants from another part of the country. They are looking for friends and for activities.

Several readers wrote to ask me how to find groups in their area. Just Google meet-up groups and the name of your town or county. Or, go to www.meetup.com. I must say the Lehigh Valley Fun with Friends group seems to have a lot going for it.

One woman wrote to say she knows how to send and receive email but doesn't know how to use the Internet to find meet-ups. The easy way for her to start is at the local library where they might tell you where to find someone to help.

Another answer is to find an elementary or middle school student who will teach you. Kids learn computer skills early and some won't mind playing teacher for you.

When I Googled "local meet-up groups" I was surprised when the main response was for a kayaking meet-up group. It meets an hour away but I wondered how the computer connected my love of kayaking with the club. Like the old joke goes, "How does it know?"

The life coach I interviewed for the article I wrote about how to live a successful single life suggested people join meet-ups.

"If you can't find the one you want, start one," she said. That's good advice, if you're brave enough to pass out fliers in your neighborhood.

One widow in our neighborhood did that and four showed up at her first women's luncheon. They now have about 20 coming each month — all because someone was brave enough to start one.

I live in an extraordinarily friendly development. The more people I get to know here, the more I realize I picked the right spot to buy a home.

Here's one example. We all know some people are reluctant to go anywhere alone. They want to meet people but they won't go to a meet-up alone.

When one introverted woman told my gregarious friend Diane that she was too intimidated to walk into our crowded coed monthly meet-ups, Diane thought a smaller women's group would be more manageable for the woman.

So Diane, who has more friends than my yard has weeds, helped by starting a biweekly women's luncheon. Diane goes out of her way to help everyone feel welcome, especially newcomers.

I don't have any trouble walking into a group of any size by myself. I could never work for a newspaper if I were hesitant to approach strangers.

One local woman who sent me an email in response to my column asked if I would take her with me to the next women's luncheon.

Ironically, I had never been to one but I had no qualms picking up a stranger and taking her there. We both had a wonderful time and met some nifty ladies.

But I did find I have one problem meeting people in big groups: I can seldom remember names.

I went to Diane's party where I only knew two people in the big crowd. Yes, I talked to people all night and had a good time. But I only walked away from there remembering three or four names.

In the ladies' luncheon meet-up, there were 19 at the first meeting I attended. By working hard at getting to know the women I knew four rather well by the time I left. But I can't even remember the names of the others. That will take time.

The point is, if you want to make new friends you have to start somewhere. Meet-ups might help you start.

ting on rocks at the edge of the pond, absorbing the sun's warmth. They have not been sighted recently because of the cool weather and will probably not be seen again until we also feel the warm sunny rays of spring. Perhaps a week of Indian summer will roust them out, but I doubt it.

The American toad, which is common to the Lehigh Valley, survives in the same way as the land frogs. They dig down into loose soil where the soil insulates the toad's body from freezing temperatures. I found a toad in mid-October several years ago. I placed it in an old 10-gallon aquarium.

The toad became part of our nature programs and "Adventure Birthday Parties." The children loved to watch it grab mealworms with its tongue. The tongue is attached at the front of the mouth and unravels like a party noise toy. I have to admit it also entertained me when I fed it at home.

If you're not sure how to tell a toad from a frog, here's a tip: Toads have bumpy skin and spend most of their time on land while frogs have relatively smooth skin and spend a major portion of their time in water. Toads need a nearby water source, not to swim, but for a daily soaking. By the way, you cannot get warts from handling a toad nor will a prince appear if you kiss a frog.

When I was a boy, I collected red eft at our cabin in the Pocosinos at Pecks Pond, Pike County. The vibrant orange red efts with red spots would come out at dawn, dusk and during and after spring rainstorms. I did not realize the spotted orange efts were the temporary land stage in the life-cycle of the spotted olive-green eastern newt. This newt lives in water and the eft on land.

I caught newts with a net in the shallow water at the edge of the lake. What I did not realize was the efts and newts were the same species only at different stages of their lifecycle.

Efts are difficult to keep, but newts are a great way to introduce children to amphibian care. As a youth, I brought both stages of salamander home, but I remember I had no luck keeping the orang efts.

It will be rare to see an amphibian until spring.

That's the way I see it!

Hand-washing prevents infections

Q. I've been told that hand-washing is highly effective way to prevent the spread of infections. But what is the best way to wash your hands?

Hand-washing is the best and simplest way to prevent infection and illness, but it must be done properly and often to be effective.

Infectious diseases that are commonly spread by our hands include colds, flu and gastrointestinal disorders.

It's important to wash frequently because we collect germs on our hands during the day from most objects we touch. We can infect ourselves by touching our eyes, noses or mouths with infected hands. We can infect others by touching them or objects they touch.

Washing your hands with soap and water

HEALTHY GEEZER
By Fred Cicetti
fred@healthygeezer.com

works well. Here are the correct techniques:

Wet your hands with warm, running water.

Rub on soap and make a thick lather.

Scrub vigorously over every surface of your hands and wrists for about 20 seconds.

Use a scrub brush to get under your fingernails.

Rinse completely.

Dry your hands with a disposable paper towel or air dryer.

Use the paper towel to shut the faucet.

Alcohol-based hand-sanitizing gels are better than soap-and-water in killing bacteria and viruses that cause disease. If you clean your hands with a sanitizer, apply the gel to one palm. Then rub your hands together and spread the sanitizer on all surfaces until dry. The gel doesn't need water to work; the alcohol in it kills the germs on your hands.

Not all hand sanitizers are the same. You should use only sanitizers that contain at least 60 percent alcohol.

Antibacterial soaps, which are different from alcohol-based sanitizers, are no better at killing germs than regular soap. The combination of scrubbing your hands with soap, antibacterial or not, and rinsing them with water loosens and removes bacteria from your hands.

When should you wash your hands? Here's a list of some important "befores and afters":

Before and after preparing food;

Before eating;

After going to the bathroom;

After changing a diaper;

After touching animals;

Before and after treating wounds;

After blowing your nose;

After coughing or sneezing into your hands;

Before and after touching a sick or injured person;

After handling garbage, and

Before inserting or removing contact lenses.

St. Luke's targets brain tumors with MRI-guided laser technology

St. Luke's University Health Network is said to be the first in the region to offer a new laser procedure that uses minimally invasive MRI-guided laser technology to target and destroy cancerous brain tumors.

Visualase, an MRI-guided laser ablation system by Medtronic, enables neurosurgeons to deliver laser energy through a hole with a diameter approximately the size of a coffee stirrer. The precision of the technology, also known as laser interstitial thermal therapy, allows the laser to destroy the tumor while minimizing harm to surrounding tissue.

"This is an exciting breakthrough in the treatment of brain cancer," said Hugh Moulding, MD, PhD, Chief of St. Luke's Department of Neurosurgery and Clinical Director of the St. Luke's Brain and Spine Tumor Center. "We are now able to treat tumors previously considered inoperable because the accuracy of laser technology allows us to reach lesions deep into the brain and even near sensitive areas." Dr. Moulding is the only physician in the Lehigh Valley and surrounding areas performing the procedure, according to St. Luke's.

"MRI-guided laser ablation is often the best hope for patients due to the lesion's location or because the patient has already exhausted other treatment options," said Moulding. "For example, radiosurgery, a type of radiation therapy, is an effective treatment of brain lesions, however, using radiosurgery to treat a recurring tumor greatly increases the risk of complications from radiation."

Neurosurgeon Hugh Moulding, MD, PhD, reviews MRI images with patient Angela Thomas. Moulding used breakthrough MRI-guided laser technology to target and destroy a cancerous tumor in Thomas's brain.

Moulding recently recommended the procedure to Angela Thomas, a 48-year-old wife and mother of two teenagers. Thomas was diagnosed with melanoma, and then brain cancer, about two years ago. She received various types of cancer treatments. When a tumor previously treated with radiosurgery began to regrow, Moulding scheduled the laser ablation procedure. She received the treatment May 26 at St. Luke's University Hospital, Fountain Hill.

"I didn't know exactly what to expect, but the treatment went very well," said Thomas of Forksville, Sullivan County, about three hours north of Easton. "It was much simpler than I expected."

To prepare a patient for the treatment, Moulding drills a small hole in the skull. Then, the laser applicator and cooling catheter are precisely placed into the tumor. The patient is then taken to the MRI suite to confirm placement of the laser. As a safeguard, Moulding delivers a low-power test pulse. During the treatment, the laser power is increased and while the laser is activated, special MRI images are converted to thermal maps and damage zone estimates. These provide Moulding with precise feedback in real time. He uses these to manage the laser's delivery of light energy to the target area as the tumor is heated and destroyed.

Immediately after therapy, Moulding reviews additional MRI images to verify that the treated area matched the patient's surgical goal.

"Due to the minimally invasive nature of the procedure, patients are discharged within a day of their procedure, much sooner than patients who have had traditional, open surgery," Moulding said. "Also, laser ablation patients report experiencing fewer side effects than those receiving open surgery."

Thomas had no side effects. "I didn't even have a headache," she said. "My entire family was very anxious before the procedure so the first thing I did after surgery was to call my kids. I face-timed them so they could see that I was fine."

Also, because the entry level is so small, the procedure leaves little or no noticeable scarring or loss of hair. "The spot healed within two weeks," said Thomas. "I took it easy for three weeks and then I was back to normal."

ELC administrator named at LCCC

Elizabeth D. Lipman has been appointed Administrator of Lehigh Carbon Community College's (LCCC) Early Learning Center (ELC).

Lipman received a Bachelor's in elementary education, nursery through sixth grade, from the State University of New York at Old Westbury.

She started at LCCC in 2006 and has worked as a child-care teacher part-time and full-time. She also has served as interim director.

The ELC has a half-day preschool program, from 8 a.m. - 12:30 p.m., which uses the Reggio Emilia approach that emphasizes meaningful play experiences and challenging learning opportunities within classroom environments that are designed to meet the child's individual needs.

The program is open to the public and children of LCCC staff and students. Children can attend the program for two, three or five days a week.

The center is nationally-accredited by the

Elizabeth D. Lipman

National Association for the Education of Young Children and has received the top rating from the state Keystone STARS.

The ELC, operating since 1972, accepts children ages 3 to 5. In addition to a preschool program, the center serves as a lab school for students in LCCC's Early Childhood Education program, and many of LCCC's healthcare programs, giving college students real-life experiences by working with children.

LCCC Foundation names exec director

Rebecca Walz has been named executive director of the Lehigh Carbon Community College (LCCC) Foundation, announced LCCC president Dr. Ann Bieber. Walz started in the position Sept. 26.

At LCCC, she will be responsible for increasing support for innovative academic and student success programs, working with corporations, private foundations, government agencies and individuals to support both short- and long-term goals of the college.

"Rebecca brings a strong background in fundraising, both in higher education and in public media," said Bieber. "As LCCC continues to develop innovative programs, Rebecca will be key in garnering support that will help ensure students have the resources to attend, that programs can grow in innovative ways and that there are ample opportunities for growth in a variety of priority areas."

She has more than 20 years of experience in development, fundraising, communications and marketing and most recently served as director of alumni engagement and the annual fund at Northampton Community College, where she was responsible for a $700,000 annual fund goal. Also at NCC, she served as executive director for the Alumni Board of Directors.

Previously, Walz served as director of development and public relations at WDIY Lehigh Valley Community Public Radio Station, Bethlehem, and was vice president of programming at WLVT PBS 39, Bethlehem.

Walz received a Master's in communications, broadcast and cable management from Michigan State University and a Bachelor's in communications from Moorhead State University.

On the road to stage the 'Rent': Actress creates her own persona

BY CAROLE GORNEY
Special to The Press

She's only been out of college for three years, but Katie LaMark already has a starring role in the 20th anniversary of the award-winning rock musical "Rent," now on a national tour and playing one night only, 7:30 p.m. Nov. 1, State Theatre Center for the Arts, Easton.

"Rent," written and composed by Jonathan Larson, is loosely based on Puccini's opera, "La Boheme." In the ground-breaking musical, which received a Pulitzer Prize and Tony Award, seven struggling artists fight to follow their dreams while facing the fear of AIDS. Larson saw his title as having two meanings: payment and being torn apart.

LaMark is cast as the complex, bisexual character Maureen Johnson, a writer and performer described as being outspoken, sassy and flirtatious, and having trouble being faithful in her relationships. She credits getting the role to three things: "general interest, background and excellent training."

The daughter of two musicians says, "I grew up with parents who gave me a lot of insights." Beyond that, she says Syracuse University, where in 2013 she received a Bachelor of Fine Arts in musical theater, "gave me everything I needed to do a part like this."

It also didn't hurt at the cattle call that she had already sung and acted in a regional theater production of "Rent" at Syracuse Stage.

Calling the role of Maureen "iconic," and discussing her own approach to the character, LaMark says, "I think the role needs to have a person who isn't afraid and doesn't try to copy others. I made it entirely my own."

While she says she has watched and enjoyed other actresses playing Maureen, she adds, "I knew what was going to work for me was starting fresh." That meant taking a different approach. "I came at it from a comedic angle. Having the audience feel comfortable laughing with her and at her helps us like her."

"Rent" is LaMark's second back-to-back touring production. In 2015, she performed in "50 Shades! The Musical Parody."

The "Rent" tour was launched in September and continues through next June. "We will have done the show [Rent] 269 times by the end," LaMark says.

How do she and the cast members survive the grueling schedule of moving from city to city and state to state every day or two? "We as a cast and crew have developed a very good work environment. We are happy to come to work every day."

She calls doing a show like "Rent" therapeutic. "It feels good no matter what challenges life presents. The message of the show is about showing love and finding strength."

When asked about the relevance of the musical today, particularly in regards to AIDS, which was a fearful epidemic when the show first opened in 1996, LaMark acknowledges that treatment and prevention has come a long way, but AIDS is still an issue. "The show is a celebration of knowing how far we've come, remembering how much more we can do. The message is about showing love and finding strength."

LaMark says that in digging into the text of "Rent," her biggest discovery was that no matter what a person's gender, sexual orientation, race or religion, everyone's challenges are the same.

"The central challenge [in 'Rent'] is leaving your mark on a world that is trying to eliminate you. Every character in 'Rent' faces that challenge."

Baum 90th anniversary Gala: Rodale Family cultivates art

BY CAROLE GORNEY
Special to The Press

Five generations of Rodales were honored for their family's contributions to art and culture in the Lehigh Valley at the 90th Anniversary Gala of the Baum School of Art in Allentown.

More than 100 people attended the silent auction and dinner Oct. 8 to celebrate the school's founding by Walter Emerson Baum in 1926, and to recognize the Rodales for their long history of support. Rodale grandchildren, great grandchildren, and even one great-great grandchild attended the milestone event.

In her remarks before the dinner, Baum School Executive Director Shannon S. Fugate said that there have been "so many people who have made the school such a special place. Every level of sponsorship, every donation, every volunteer, every staff member, every student has helped us and will and Anna enrolled their children in art classes at the school.

In her tribute, Fugate noted, "While the organic movement grew out of their family's values and unique business, the Rodale family was also cultivating health and wellness through their support of and participation in the arts."

In her comments during the program, Gala Committee Chair Shelbi Stoneback, herself a Rodale, said, "I am so proud to be a member of a family that embraces the arts." Then she added a plug for the art school. "Any child or parent who thinks they aren't talented, they are, and I promise you the Baum School will help you find it."

help us on our journey through the next 90 years." She noted that "the Rodale family has been by our side."

The Rodale involvement in the arts began with J. I. and Anna Rodale, pioneers in organic farming and founders of the lifestyle and health-oriented publishing house based in Emmaus. In addition to their health pursuits, both Rodales were artists. J. I. was a playwright. His wife Anna was a painter.

"The relationship between the Rodale family and the Baum family began as early as the 1940s when the publishing company commissioned Walter Baum to create illustrations for book covers," Fugate told the sold-out Gala audience, adding that J.I.

LVHM to recreate 'Salem Witch Trial'

Performances recreating a "Salem Witch Trial" will be presented at 1 and 3 p.m. Oct. 30, Lehigh Valley Heritage Museum, 432 W. Walnut St., Allentown.

"This is true history, mass community hysteria, and the crucible of darkness," said Joseph Garrera, LVHM Executive Director. "This was a stain on American history so dark it can never be cleansed."

During a 13-month period, more than 200 people were charged, 150 were imprisoned, 14 women and five men were hanged, and one man was crushed to death. It was justice gone awry, as fear and superstition overcame the rule of law.

Based on official transcripts and historical facts from a trial that convened in Salem, Mass., in 1692, LVHM officials have re-created an authentic courtroom scene similar to those of the 1690s. LVHM officials also conferred with the director of education at the Salem Witch Museum.

'Denial' approved

There's no denying the power of "Denial."

"Denial" is based on a true story about Holocaust denier David Irving (Timothy Spall in a pivotal role of muted churlishness), who sued author and university professor Deborah E. Lipstadt (radiant Rachel Weisz in an Oscar nominee-worthy role) for libel.

The author's publisher, Penguin Books, assembled a crack defense team led by barrister (Andrew Scott), who represented Lady Diana in her divorce case, and solicitor (a focused Tom Wilkinson, possible supporting Oscar actor nominee).

Mick Jackson ("The Bodyguard," 1992; primetime Emmy, directing, movie, "Temple Grandin," 2010), directing from a screenplay by David Hare ("The Hours, 2002; "Plenty," 1985) based on the book, "History on Trial: My Day in Court with a Holocaust Denier," by Deborah Lipstadt, brings details to life: the court case presiding British judge (Alex Jennings), in Santa Claus-like red robes, white wig and glasses pouring over tea and biscuit in his chambers; British tabloid and TV news coverage of the trial, and the Royal Courts of Justice exterior and hallway, which resemble a gothic cathedral.

There are riveting courtroom scenes between Wilkinson (supporting actor Oscar nominee, "Michael Clayton," 2007) and Spall ("Mr. Turner," 2014). Deliberations of the Lipstadt team and pleas by Holocaust survivors to be called for testimony set up behind-the-scenes tension that informs the story of the court case, which began in 1994 and played out in 2000, but began much earlier, during World War II and before.

A visit to the Auschwitz-Birkenau Memorial and Museum is one of the key scenes with the characters played by Weisz and Wilkinson symbolizing disparate reactions to the legal strategy in what became a 32-day trial that produced a 334-page document.

Weisz (supporting actress Oscar, "The Constant Gardener," 2005) provides the emotional center as a woman and a Jew who must check her emotions at the courtroom door. Weisz is heroic without histrionics, her face conveying emotion even when contemplative in one of 2016's most compelling theatrical movie performances.

The psycho sexual subtext of the story is presented without fanfare. "I'm a woman and I'm a Jew," Lipstadt explains as to why Irving targeted her.

"Denial" is one of the best courtroom dramas since, for example, "The Verdict" (1982), "Judgment at Nuremberg" (1961) and "Witness for the Prosecution" (1957). It's relevant in the contentious world of social media, too, positing that "not all opinions are equal" and that when striving for the truth in the docket, you need "great lawyers with great passions." Ultimately, "Denial" is a jubilant exorciation of antisemitism. "Denial," MPA rated PG-13 (Parents Strongly Cautioned. Some Material May Be Inappropriate For Children Under 13.) for thematic material and brief strong language; Genre: Biography, Drama, History; Run time: 1 hr., 50 min.; Distributed by Bleecker Street Media.

Credit Readers Anonymous: The "Denial" score was composed by Howard Shore ("The Hobbit," 2014, 2013, 2012).

Box Office, Oct. 21: "Boo! A Madea Halloween" scared up $27.6 million to open at No. 1, putting it out of reach of "Jack Reacher: Never Go Back," starring Tom Cruise, opening at No. 2 with $23 million, and "Ouija: Origin of Evil," opening at No. 3 with $14 million, pushing "The Accountant" from No. 1 to No. 4, with $14 million, $47.9 million, two weeks; 5. "The Girl on the Train," $7.2 million, $58.9 million, three weeks; 6. "Miss Peregrine's Home for Peculiar Children," $6 million, $74.4 million, four weeks; 7. "Keeping Up with the Joneses," $5.6 million, opening; 8. "Kevin Hart: What Now?," $4.1 million, $18.9 million, two weeks; "Storks," $4 million, $64.7 million, five weeks; 10. "Deepwater Horizon," $3.6 million, $55.2 million, four weeks; 14. "Denial," $972,940; $1.9 million, four weeks.

Unreel, Oct. 28: "Inferno," PG-13: Ron Howard returns to direct Tom Hanks, Ben Foster, Sidse Babbett Knudsen and Felicity Jones in the latest thriller based on author Dan Brown's best-selling "Da Vinci Code" Robert Langdon series.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE is hereby given that the Board of Supervisors of Hanover Township, Northampton County, Pennsylvania, will consider for adoption at a Public Hearing to be held at 7:00 p.m. on the 22nd day of November, 2016, at the Hanover Township Municipal Building, 3630 Jacksonville Road, Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, an Ordinance amending the Hanover Township Code of Ordinances by amending the text of the Hanover Township Zoning Ordinance Chapter 185 to provide for the establishment of Brew Pub and Microbrewery Uses in certain Zoning Districts of the Township of Hanover. In the event that the Board of Supervisors do not consider for adoption the Ordinance described hereinafter at the Public Hearing, the Board of Supervisors will consider the Ordinance for adoption at a regular meeting of the Board of Supervisors to be held on the 10th day of January, 2017, at the Hanover Township Municipal Building, 3630 Jacksonville Road, Bethlehem, Pennsylvania. Copies of the proposed Ordinance are available for review at the Hanover Township Municipal Building located at 3630 Jacksonville Road, Bethlehem, Pennsylvania during normal business hours.

ORDINANCE NO. 16-

AN ORDINANCE OF THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HANOVER, COUNTY OF NORTHAMPTON, COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA TO AMEND THE CODE OF ORDINANCES BY AMENDING THE TEXT OF THE "HANOVER TOWNSHIP ZONING ORDINANCE" CHAPTER 185 TO PROVIDE FOR THE ESTABLISHMENT OF BREW PUB AND MICROBREWERY USES IN CERTAIN ZONING DISTRICTS OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HANOVER

WHEREAS, The Supervisors of Hanover Township, Northampton County, Pennsylvania, under the powers vested in them by the "Second Class Township Code" of Pennsylvania and the authority and procedures of the "Pennsylvania Municipalities Planning Code", as amended, as well as other laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, do hereby enact and ordain the following amendment to the text of the Hanover Township Zoning Ordinance; and

WHEREAS, the Board of Supervisors of Hanover Township desire to amend its Zoning Ordinance by providing for Brew Pub and Microbrewery uses in certain Zoning Districts of the Township of Hanover.

NOW, THEREFORE, be it enacted and ordained by the Board of Supervisors of Hanover Township, Northampton County, Pennsylvania, and the same is hereby ordained and enacted as follows, to wit:

SECTION 1: The Supervisors of Hanover Township, Northampton County, Pennsylvania, under the powers vested in them by the "Second Class Township Code" and the "Pennsylvania Municipalities Planning Code", as amended, as well as other laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, do hereby ordain and enact the following amendments to the text of the Hanover Township Zoning Ordinance Chapter 185 Zoning, of the Code of Ordinances, as amended.

SECTION 2: Chapter 185 Zoning, of the Code of Ordinances of Hanover Township is hereby amended by amending Article II, Interpretations and Definitions; Section 185-12 Definitions by adding the following definitions to read as follows:

"Brew Pub - a retail establishment with on-premises consumption of malt and brewed beverages produced on the premises or on real property immediately adjacent to the premises or at a remote location where the Brew Pub owner also has an ownership interest in the Microbrewery that produces the malt and brewed beverages being consumed at the Brew Pub. The Brew Pub may sell, for on-premises consumption, wine manufactured by the holder of a Pennsylvania limited winery license. The Brew Pub must be licensed by the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board and any successor agency of the Commonwealth.

Microbrewery - a facility where more than 250 barrels and less than 15,000 barrels of malt or brewed beverages are produced on-premises on an annual basis and then sold or distributed for off-premises consumption. A Microbrewery may also include a Brew Pub. A Microbrewery must be licensed by the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board or any successor agency of the Commonwealth."

SECTION 3: Chapter 185 Zoning, of the Code of Ordinances of Hanover Township, Section 185-30 F Conditional Uses is hereby amended to read as follows:

"F. Conditional uses. Only the following building types and uses shall be permitted pursuant to Board of Supervisors' approval, in accordance with the review procedures and use restrictions described in §185-54, Conditional uses, of this chapter and the use restrictions described therein:

- (1) Restaurants with drive-through windows;
- (2) Brew Pub; and
- (3) Microbrewery"

SECTION 4: Chapter 185 Zoning, of the Code of Ordinances of Hanover Township, Section 185-31 G Conditional Uses is hereby amended to read as follows:

"G. Conditional uses. Only the following building types and uses shall be permitted pursuant to the Board of Supervisors' approval, in accordance with the review procedures and use restrictions described in §185-54, Conditional uses, of this chapter and the use restrictions described therein:

- (1) Drive-in shopping;
- (2) Brew Pub; and
- (3) Microbrewery"

SECTION 5: Chapter 185 Zoning, of the Code of Ordinances of Hanover Township, Section 185-35 D Conditional Uses is hereby amended by adding new subparagraphs (18) and (19) to read as follows:

"(18) Brew Pub
(19) Microbrewery"

SECTION 6: Chapter 185 Zoning, of the Code of Ordinances of Hanover Township, Section 185-17 Off-Street Parking Regulations; Subsection 185-17 C. is hereby amended by adding the following new Building Type or Use, Minimum Number of Spaces Required and Measurement Unit:

Building Type or Use	Minimum Number of Spaces Required	Measurement Unit
Brew Pub	2.0	100 Square Feet
Microbrewery	2.0	2 spaces per employee on largest shift plus 1 space per 2 seats in tasting room or public area"

SECTION 7: Chapter 185 Zoning, of the Code of Ordinances of Hanover Township; Section 185-18 Off-street loading regulations; Subsection 185-18 C. is hereby amended by adding the following Building Type or Use, Minimum Number of Spaces Required and Measurement Unit:

Building Type or Use	Minimum Number of Spaces Required	Measurement Unit
Brew Pub	1	10,000 Square Feet
Microbrewery	1	10,000 Square Feet"

SECTION 8: Chapter 185 Zoning of the Code of Ordinances of Hanover Township; Section 185-54 Conditional uses; Subsection 185-54 E Specific standards for conditional uses shall be amended by adding the following paragraphs (22) and (23) to read as follows:

"(22) Brew Pub
(a) Must have all necessary permits and/or licenses from the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board or any successor agency.
(b) Must establish proof to the satisfaction of the Township or Township Solicitor that the Brew Pub owner has an ownership interest in the Microbrewery that produces the malt or brewed beverages being consumed at the Brew Pub.

(23) Microbrewery
(a) Must have all necessary permits and/or licenses from the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board or any successor agency."
(b) Only thirty (30%) percent of floor area can be dedicated to public seating/eating or tasting.

SECTION 9: SEVERABILITY. If a court of competent jurisdiction declares any provisions of this Amendment to be invalid in whole or in part, the effect of such decision shall be limited to those provisions expressly stated in the decision to be invalid, and all other provision of this zoning Amendment shall continue to be separately and fully effective.

SECTION 10: REPEALER. All provisions of Township ordinances and resolutions or parts thereof that are in conflict with the provisions of this Ordinance, are hereby repealed.

SECTION 11: ENACTMENT. This Amendment shall be effective five (5) days after the date of passage.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE is hereby given that the Board of Supervisors of Hanover Township, Northampton County, Pennsylvania, will consider for adoption at a Public Hearing to be held at 7:00 p.m. on the 22nd day of November, 2016, at the Hanover Township Municipal Building, 3630 Jacksonville Road, Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, an Ordinance amending the Hanover Township Code of Ordinances by amending the text of the Hanover Township Zoning Ordinance Chapter 185 to provide for Amendments to the Off-Street Parking Regulations, including the creation of Shared Parking Regulations. In the event that the Board of Supervisors do not consider for adoption the Ordinance described hereinafter at the Public Hearing, the Board of Supervisors will consider the Ordinance for adoption at a regular meeting of the Board of Supervisors to be held on the 10th day of January, 2017, at the Hanover Township Municipal Building, 3630 Jacksonville Road, Bethlehem, Pennsylvania. Copies of the proposed Ordinance are available for review at the Hanover Township Municipal Building located at 3630 Jacksonville Road, Bethlehem, Pennsylvania during normal business hours. The following is the proposed Amendment to the Hanover Township Zoning Ordinance: ORDINANCE NO. 16- AN ORDINANCE OF THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HANOVER, COUNTY OF NORTHAMPTON, COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA TO AMEND THE CODE OF ORDINANCES BY AMENDING THE TEXT OF THE "HANOVER TOWNSHIP ZONING ORDINANCE" CHAPTER 185 TO PROVIDE FOR AMENDMENTS TO THE OFF-STREET PARKING REGULATIONS INCLUDING THE CREATION OF SHARED PARKING REGULATIONS

WHEREAS, The Supervisors of Hanover Township, Northampton County, Pennsylvania, under the powers vested in them by the "Second Class Township Code" of Pennsylvania and the authority and procedures of the "Pennsylvania Municipalities Planning Code", as amended, as well as other laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, do hereby enact and ordain the following amendment to the text of the Hanover Township Zoning Ordinance; and

WHEREAS, The Board of Supervisors of Hanover Township desire to amend its Zoning Ordinance by providing for amendments to the off-street parking regulations, including provisions for shared parking. NOW, THEREFORE, be it enacted and ordained by the Board of Supervisors of Hanover Township, Northampton County, Pennsylvania, and the same is hereby ordained and enacted as follows, to wit: SECTION 1: The Supervisors of Hanover Township, Northampton County, Pennsylvania, under the powers vested in them by the "Second Class Township Code" and the "Pennsylvania Municipalities Planning Code", as amended, as well as other laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, do hereby ordain and enact the following amendments to the text of the Hanover Township Zoning Ordinance Chapter 185 Zoning, of the Code of Ordinances, as amended. SECTION 2: Chapter 185 Zoning, of the Code of Ordinances of Hanover Township is hereby amended by amending Section 185-17. Off-Street Parking Regulations; Subsection 185-17B to read as follows: "185-17B. Off-street parking standard. Except as may be agreed to by the Board of Supervisors during site or land development plan review, the building types and uses listed in Subsection C shall have the minimum number of off-street parking spaces shown adjacent to the building type or use per unit of measurement as listed. For uses not listed in Subsection C, the same requirement shall apply as for most similar uses, as determined by the Zoning Administrator (1) Parking spaces required for one building type or use shall not be included in the computation of required spaces for a second building use or; (2) For mixed uses other than a shopping center, the total requirement shall be the sum of the requirements of the component uses computed separately; and (3) Computations resulting in fractional spaces shall be rounded up to the next full space."

SECTION 3: Chapter 185 Zoning, of the Code of Ordinances of Hanover Township, Section 185-17 Off-Street Parking Regulations is hereby amended by deleting 185-17 D in its entirety. SECTION 4: Chapter 185 Zoning, of the Code of Ordinances of Hanover Township is hereby amended by amending Section 185-17. Off-Street Parking Regulations; by adding a new subsection 185-17 G to read as follows: "G. Shared Parking - The amount of off-street parking required by Section 185-17 C may be reduced by an amount determined by the Board of Supervisors when shared parking facilities for two or more uses are proposed, provided: (1) The total parking area exceeds 5,000 square feet; (2) The parking facilities are designated and developed as a single on-site common parking facility, or as a system of on-site and off-site facilities, if all facilities are connected with improved pedestrian facilities and no building or use involved is more than 800 feet from the most remote shared facility; (3) The amount of the reduction shall not exceed 10 percent for each use, unless: (i) The normal hours of operation for each use are separated by at least one hour; (ii) A parking demand study is prepared by a professional traffic engineer and submitted by the applicant documenting that the hours of actual parking demand for the proposed uses will not conflict and that uses will be served by adequate parking if shared parking reductions are authorized; (iii) The Board of Supervisors shall determine the amount of reduction, subject to Subsection 4 of this Section. (4) The total number of parking spaces in the common parking facility is not less than the minimum required spaces for any single use; (5) A covenant or other agreement for shared parking between the cooperating property owners is approved by the Board of Supervisors. This covenant or agreement must be recorded with the Recorder of Deeds of Northampton County, Pennsylvania as a deed restriction on all affected properties and cannot be modified or revoked without the consent of the Board of Supervisors; and (6) If any requirements for shared parking are violated, the affected property owners must provide a remedy satisfactory to the Board of Supervisors or provide the full amount required off-street parking for each use, in accordance with the requirements of this Article unless a satisfactory alternative remedy is approved by the Board of Supervisors. SECTION 5: SEVERABILITY. If a court of competent jurisdiction declares any provisions of this Amendment to be invalid in whole or in part, the effect of such decision shall be limited to those provisions expressly stated in the decision to be invalid, and all other provision of this zoning Amendment shall continue to be separately and fully effective. SECTION 6: REPEALER. All provisions of Township ordinances and resolutions or parts thereof that are in conflict with the provisions of this Ordinance, are hereby repealed. SECTION 7: ENACTMENT. This Amendment shall be effective five (5) days after the date of passage. James L. Broughal, Solicitor Hanover Township Northampton County 38 West Market Street Bethlehem, PA 18018 Oct. 19, 26

SECTION 1: The Supervisors of Hanover Township, Northampton County, Pennsylvania, under the powers vested in them by the "Second Class Township Code" and the "Pennsylvania Municipalities Planning Code", as amended, as well as other laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, do hereby ordain and enact the following amendments to the text of the Hanover Township Zoning Ordinance Chapter 185 Zoning, of the Code of Ordinances, as amended. SECTION 2: Chapter 185 Zoning, of the Code of Ordinances of Hanover Township is hereby amended by amending Section 185-17. Off-Street Parking Regulations; Subsection 185-17B to read as follows: "185-17B. Off-street parking standard. Except as may be agreed to by the Board of Supervisors during site or land development plan review, the building types and uses listed in Subsection C shall have the minimum number of off-street parking spaces shown adjacent to the building type or use per unit of measurement as listed. For uses not listed in Subsection C, the same requirement shall apply as for most similar uses, as determined by the Zoning Administrator (1) Parking spaces required for one building type or use shall not be included in the computation of required spaces for a second building use or; (2) For mixed uses other than a shopping center, the total requirement shall be the sum of the requirements of the component uses computed separately; and (3) Computations resulting in fractional spaces shall be rounded up to the next full space."

SECTION 3: Chapter 185 Zoning, of the Code of Ordinances of Hanover Township, Section 185-17 Off-Street Parking Regulations is hereby amended by deleting 185-17 D in its entirety. SECTION 4: Chapter 185 Zoning, of the Code of Ordinances of Hanover Township is hereby amended by amending Section 185-17. Off-Street Parking Regulations; by adding a new subsection 185-17 G to read as follows: "G. Shared Parking - The amount of off-street parking required by Section 185-17 C may be reduced by an amount determined by the Board of Supervisors when shared parking facilities for two or more uses are proposed, provided: (1) The total parking area exceeds 5,000 square feet; (2) The parking facilities are designated and developed as a single on-site common parking facility, or as a system of on-site and off-site facilities, if all facilities are connected with improved pedestrian facilities and no building or use involved is more than 800 feet from the most remote shared facility; (3) The amount of the reduction shall not exceed 10 percent for each use, unless: (i) The normal hours of operation for each use are separated by at least one hour; (ii) A parking demand study is prepared by a professional traffic engineer and submitted by the applicant documenting that the hours of actual parking demand for the proposed uses will not conflict and that uses will be served by adequate parking if shared parking reductions are authorized; (iii) The Board of Supervisors shall determine the amount of reduction, subject to Subsection 4 of this Section. (4) The total number of parking spaces in the common parking facility is not less than the minimum required spaces for any single use; (5) A covenant or other agreement for shared parking between the cooperating property owners is approved by the Board of Supervisors. This covenant or agreement must be recorded with the Recorder of Deeds of Northampton County, Pennsylvania as a deed restriction on all affected properties and cannot be modified or revoked without the consent of the Board of
