

Jones, Morris John

S. Sgt. Morris Jones
Views Statue Of Relatives At Bangor

Staff Sergeant Morris John Jones of the Quartermaster's Corps, at Fort Meyers, Va., and Mrs. Lewis W. Jones, of Philadelphia, are spending a few days with the sergeant's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. A. Stanley Jones of 830 North New Street.

Sgt. Jones is a native of East Las Vegas, N. M., and enlisted at Fort Bliss, Texas.

He is getting acquainted with his relatives in the East, most of whom he never met before.

Of particular interest to him was a trip to Bangor, founded by his paternal great-great-uncle, Robert M. Jones, at whose statue the sergeant laid a wreath of remembrance for his father, William M. Jones, formerly of Bangor, now living in New Mexico.

Sgt. Jones is one of six sons, four of whom are serving in the armed forces.
