County says its good-bye to Harp

By BERNIE O'HARE
 Special to the Bethlehem Press

Though the May 1 meeting of Northampton County Council was a quick one, Ken Kraft stopped to recognize Director of Administration Tom Harp, who is retiring after five years with the county.

Tom Harp

Harp was the driving force behind a state of the art Archives building, the Citizens' Academy and the move into a centralized human services building.

"It's been a pleasure working with all of you," said Harp, noting Northampton County, "is where I grew up, where I went to school. My heart is here in the county."

Tom grew up in Bethlehem, graduating from Liberty ('67) and Moravian ('71). After that, he started a long and distinguished career in human services. He began by working with the developmentally disabled in White Haven. During his eight years there, he picked up a master's degree in counseling from the University of Scranton.

Tom returned to the Lehigh Valley as a counselor in Allentown's Office of Vocational Rehabilitation, helping people with disabilities find work. He was promoted to supervisor and eventually became the district administrator, overseeing a staff

Angels IN THE outfield

Juniors Megan Brown and Dana Pollock are outfielders on Freedom HS's softball team, but they're really angels in the outfield. Through their efforts, they collected enough food to replenish empty food shelves at New Bethany Ministries' food bank, located on Bethlehem's Southside. Megan, whose mother Marie is a volunteer at the food bank, toured the facility with Dana. "The shelves were really empty," Dana said. So the two of them, with the help of their teammates, recently organized a food drive and brought food for the 500 families who depend on the food bank for three days worth of food every month. The food collected filled two SUVs. "They always need food, not just during the holidays," said Megan. ABOVE: The Freedom HS softball team with coach Nora Borger.

Council considers roses for asphalt

By DANA GRUBB

Members of Bethlehem City Council took a tour of the city's Rose Garden May 5 to learn more about the lease agreement proposed by the Bethlehem Area School District to create a temporary parking lot along the Tenth Avenue side of the park during construction of the new Nitschmann MS.

Parking would be provided for approximately 95 vehicles, including those of Nitschmann staff and construction personnel, according to the district's consulting engineer, Arif Fazil. Fazil said the proposal was being made to alleviate the impact of parking on the surrounding neighborhoods when the $53.7 million project gets underway in the spring of 2015.

Fazil and city parks and public property director Ralph Carp indicated that the subject area, roughly three-quarters of an acre, will have topsoil stripped and stored, a fabric liner installed and covered with modified stone, and the temporary lot would have fencing.

Several members of council appeared concerned about the removal

Grants approved, township left out

By BERNIE O'HARE
 Special to the Bethlehem Press

Has gambling at the Sands Casino had such a direct impact on Bethlehem Township that it needs to purchase a $1.2 million firetruck? In a divided 5-4 vote, Northampton County's Gaming Board said "No" at their April 28 meeting, rejecting a $550,000 grant request for a new aerial ladder truck.

Tom Nolan, representing Bethlehem Township, argued that emergency services are clearly included in what the legislature intended when it gave communities surrounding Bethlehem Sands Casino the first crack at gaming revenue. Those municipalities are Hanover Township, Hellertown, Lower Saucon Township, Freemansburg and Bethlehem Township.

"If you keep whittling this down, you're putting money into the wrong account," he argued, referring to grants for other communities. But as might be expected, a gaming board member from one of those other communities disagreed.

Tony Pristash, an at-large member from Northampton, objected to "calling the other account the wrong account." He said surrounding communities, to be entitled to first crack at gaming revenue, must show a direct impact. Jim Pennington, another at-large member from Lower Nazareth, worried about the precedent this big ticket item would set in the five contiguous municipalities.

"Do they need it? Yes," said Hellertown representative David

PEOPLE SAY

BY DANA GRUBB

What do you think should happen to the suspect identified in the Liberty HS phone hoax that caused a lockdown at the school?

"They should prosecute him to the best of their ability. He belongs in Northampton County prison. They should charge him for all of the costs."

Maureen Lesniak
Hellertown

"He should definitely be punished accordingly and receive jail time for sure. He scared a lot of parents."

Billy Moran
East Allen Township

"I think he should be punished severely. It alters the fabric of our society when things happen like that. It should be treated severely."

Nick Englesson
Bethlehem

"I think he should do some jail time and pay restitution because it's a big burden to place on the taxpayer. He needs counseling, obviously."

Marc Turpin
Coopersburg

"I'm a psychiatrist. He certainly should be punished in some way. He may have a psychiatric illness or he may have done it to become noteworthy by creating such an issue. You need to find out what degree of crime it was. It causes a risk to everybody."

John L.

"He should have to reimburse the school district and municipalities the costs for the time and manpower it took to respond.; receive some community service; and, serve a little jail time. It's a serious matter."

Bethlehem Area School District consulting engineer Arif Fazil explains plans to use the Tenth Avenue side of the Rose Garden for parking during the construction of the new Nitschmann MS to council members Cathy Reuscher, Karen Dolan, Adam Waldron and Michael Recchiuti, who is holding his daughter. Council president J. William Reynolds and councilman Eric Evans arrived later in the meeting.

Playground equipment already installed along Tenth Avenue will be removed if council approves the proposed lease agreement and a new play area will be installed nearer to the Rose Garden bandshell to replace this equipment by the school district.

of two or three trees near the northwest corner of the parcel, their removal necessitated by overall health and location near the proposed entrance into the lot.

As part of the proposal, the district would install a new playground closer to the Rose Garden bandshell, remove existing playground equipment and a swing set and replace 250 feet of sidewalk along Tenth Avenue at the conclusion of the project.

Construction of the new school is expected to take two and one-half years, and upon completion the impacted section of the park would be fully restored to its original state as a grass covered lawn.

City council's parks committee will review the proposed lease agreement after which it will be sent to the entire council for a vote.

Heintzelman. "But I struggle with the word 'direct' impact."

Joe Kelly, representing Bethlehem, supported the grant, saying Bethlehem Township is a backup to the two ladder trucks in service in Bethlehem. He said they have an obligation "to protect that asset," referring to the Sands Casino.

But Northampton County EMS Director Bob Mateff noted that numerous other communities also back up Bethlehem, including SeWyCo, Allentown and even Easton. He added it is rare to see both Bethlehem aerial ladder trucks go out of service.

Voting for the grant were Nolan, Freemansburg Mayor Gerald Yob, Lower Saucon representative David Willard and Bethlehem's Joe Kelly. Opposed were Heintzelman, Pennington, Pristash and at-large member John Dally. Chairman Jay Finnigan, who represents Hanover Township, was the final No vote.

"And let me tell you why. We have an aerial being specced [on spec] right now, and I couldn't justify giving Hanover $550,000.

Other grant requests were approved.

Hellertown: $213,155.03 to fund the cost of two police officers. Northampton County: $10,000 for interpreter fees.

Northampton County: $184,000 for gambling addiction treatment.

Lower Saucon: $29,342 for a police vehicle and $90,482 for the cost of an officer. Bethlehem: $128,883 to remount an ambulance onto a new chassis. Bethlehem:

$75,000 toward a $400,000 sign program directing tourists to different attractions. Freemansburg: $103,723 to replace two aging police vehicles. Bethlehem Township: $99,181 for two police cruisers and $7,049 for a polygraph.

How much money is available? According to Nolan, the Gaming Board's treasurer, $403,688 was received for the first three months of the year, down from about $440,000 last year.

of 35 people in four different counties. He ended his 35 years in human services as the state's bureau director.

Over this time, Tom got to know John Stoffa, who then headed Human Services in both Northampton and Lehigh counties. Stoffa recruited him to join the Allentown Kiwanis, which does a lot of work for downtown Allentown kids with youth soccer, the Boys and Girls Club, Salvation Army and some arts groups. Once retired, Tom intensified his work with Kiwanis and even joined the board at the LV Center for Independent Living.

Tom initially accepted a rather low-paying job as deputy director to help his friend, John Stoffa. He took over as director in 2011, and stayed on to assist Executive John Brown in his early days.

Corbett drops the state's appeal

News of decision came during rally to protest voter ID law

By DOUGLAS GRAVES
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Just as the rally to protest the state's voter ID law that has been wending its way through the courts was about to get underway, Allentown NAACP executive Linda Renick got the word over her cellphone that Governor Tom Corbett had withdrawn the state's appeal.

This might have been the occasion for jubilation among the small group assembled - there were no regular citizens attending the May 8 rally on Payrow Plaza at Bethlehem City Hall. Pedestrian traffic was sparse and no one stopped to hear what was going on. Motorcycles and buses occasionally drowned out the speakers' voices.

But Renick's news brought only smiles from rally leaders; no congratulatory hugs or high-fives.

Expense cited

Buried in the news of a tactical victory was the strategic intent of the governor and the Republican Pennsylvania state legislature to rewrite the law to get around Commonwealth Court Judge Bernard L. McGinley's objections. McGinley issued an order Jan. 17, permanently blocking the controversial photo identification law; Corbett dropped the state's appeal of that decision, citing the expense of continuing.

Reportedly the governor said he would work with the legislature to develop a law that would survive legal challenges.

At the beginning of Pennsylvania's defense of the voter ID law (which proponents touted as necessary to prevent voter fraud), the state stipulated or admitted that it had no specific cases of voter fraud to bring before the court.

Casey pleased

At least one Democratic political leader was quick to support Corbett's decision.
U.S. Senator Bob Casey

Esther Lee, Linda Renick and Walt Garvin get news that Governor Tom Corbett has dropped the state's appeal of a ruling that stopped Pennsylvania's voter ID law from taking effect.

(D-PA) said, "I'm pleased that Governor Corbett has agreed to forego further appeals of the current voter ID proposal. I called on Governor Corbett to drop his administration's appeal because implementing this law would have prevented eligible Pennsylvanians from exercising their right to vote. "Make no mistake, voter ID cannot be retooled or tweaked in a way that would make it fair to those who would be denied access to the ballot. Voter ID is a scheme whose very premise is flawed."

Others quiet

National Republican leaders kept quiet about the decision.

Neither Rep. Charlie Dent's (R-PA) nor Senator Pat Toomey's (R-PA) website's had statements as of May 11 regarding Corbett's decision to drop the appeal.

Attendees at the rally were mostly from the Bethlehem Chapter of the NAACP, led by Esther Lee, and from the Allentown Chapter of the NAACP, led by Dan Bosket, with a few people from Lepoco (Lehigh-Pocono Committee of Concern) Peace

Center and other supporters.

Walt Garvin, chair of the Northampton County Democratic Committee, also attended.

"Confusion discourages voters," said Nancy Tate of Lepoco. "Our country cries out for more justice and more access for all citizens in the election and governing process. We cannot abide the cynicism, distortions and chicanery that result when dollars and those who toss around millions have so much more power to determine the outcome of elections than do average people."

Gerrymandering

Tate also decried the gerrymandering that carves out political bases that effectively guarantee that incumbent politicians stay in office.

"Locally, we know all too well how voting districts are distorted by gerrymandering," she said.

For example, Dent's 15th Congressional District stretches in a long line along I-78 from Hershey near Harrisburg to the Delaware River south of Easton.

It's not just a Republican phenomenon. U.S.

Representative Matthew Cartwright's (D-PA) 17th Congressional District runs from South Bethlehem north through the Poconos to Carbondale.

Greater justice

Tate also called for greater justice for African-Americans and other minorities who go to prison due to "criminalization traps" that disproportionately imprison minorities. She said the effect on voting rights is compounded by the fact that prisoners are counted by the census as being part of the communities where they serve time, "even though they cannot vote anywhere."

"We need justice that engages, informs, encourages, and expands voting rights and voter participation," said Tate.

Esther Lee, president of the Bethlehem Chapter of the NAACP and matriarch of the Civil Rights cause in the Lehigh Valley, spoke to the small group of partisans.

Lee urged support of U.S. Senate Bill 1945 and House Bill 3899 "to update and modernize the provisions in the 1965 Voting Rights Act which was

BETHLEHEM HARB Church will repair some brick work

By DOUG GRAVES
Special to the Bethlehem Press

The Unitarian Universalist Church at Center and Wall streets will get some of its bricks replaced to restore the weather-beaten facade of the church.

According to the church's capital projects committee member Phil DePietro, the south wall of the red-brick structure has so many damaged and deteriorated bricks that the timber structure underlying the brick is exposed.

"Some water has penetrated into the building," said DePietro when he brought the issue before the Historic Architectural Review Board April 2. He estimated that 600 to 900 bricks will need to be replaced. He said that previous efforts to preserve the wall with a silicone sealant had trapped moisture and hastened deterioration of the wall.

The church officials said the Unitarian church bought the building in 1995. It was built in 1869 by the Wesley Methodist Church according to the church's website.

Bethlehem City Council approved the HARB's recommendation on April 16.

The church officials said they have selected Macher Construction Inc. of Allentown for the job.

Liberty arrest

Police announced last week that an investigation in conjunction with the FBI resulted in an arrest of a man thought responsible for the April 16 prank phone call to Liberty HS, which resulted in an hours-long lockdown and campus search for non-existent interlopers.

Phone records and security video footage at a local Wal-Mart store confirmed for police the identity of She Quawn Najee Watson, 25, of Emmaus Avenue in Allentown, as one of two purchasers of the disposable mobile phone.

Watson was arrested May 6 and charged with three counts of criminal conspiracy to commit terroristic threats, and one count each of criminal conspiracy to commit false alarms and false reports to law enforcement agencies, all of felony grade. He was committed to Northampton County Prison in lieu of $100,000 bail.

The investigation is ongoing.

Drugs

Police arrested a man passed out at the East Third Street Rite Aid drug store around 4 p.m. May 8.

Police were called to the scene of a reported 3-year-old child running about a parking lot unattended, and discovered 33-year-old Richard Kohler asleep nearby.

Police allege Kohler, of Riverview Drive in Walnutport, had snorted heroin, and had drugs and paraphernalia on him when then arrived.

Kohler is charged with possession of a controlled substance, public drunkenness and child endangerment, and was remanded to Coplay police on several felony arrest warrants.

PRIMARY ELECTIONS AT A GLANCE

Dent
U.S. Congress
15th District

The 15th District of Pennsylvania includes the City of Allentown; City of Bethlehem; Hanover, Heidelberg, Lower Macungie, Lower Milford, Lowhill, Lynn, North Whitehall, Salisbury, South Whitehall, Upper Macungie, Upper Milford, Upper Saucon, Washington, Weisenberg and Whitehall townships; Alburtis, Catsaqua, Coopersburg, Coplay, Emmaus, Fountain Hill, Macungie and Slatington boroughs in Lehigh County. The district also includes parts of Berks County, Dauphin County, Lebanon County and Northampton County.

Incumbent Congressman Charlie Dent, Republican, is running unopposed in the May 20 primary.

Why should voters reelect you to represent the 15th district?

Serving in Congress is a humbling experience. You put yourself before your community and ask them to trust you will do your best to represent their beliefs, fight for their needs and protect their futures. I never forget the trust shown me or the responsibility placed on me when people vote for me. They expect me to give the important issues of the day my full consideration and to act on them, to govern. My record shows I've done that. I try to bring a pragmatic, clear-headed approach to my duties and responsibilities. I work in a bi-partisan manner and I don't kowtow to party leadership. Since the 2012 election, I've worked to cut waste and duplication in federal programs with the goal of reducing unnecessary government spending; require Congress pass a budget in order to be paid; support policies to encourage economic growth; and increase American energy production and independence. If people again choose me to represent them, I promise to continue working in the best interests of our families and to never forget the great trust you've shown me.

Pa. House
133rd District

The Pennsylvania House of Representatives 133rd District includes the Lehigh County portion of the City of Bethlehem; Hanover Township; wards 1, 2, and 3 in Salisbury Township and wards 1-6, 8 and 9 in Whitehall Township, as well as the boroughs of Catsaqua, Coplay and Fountain Hill.

Incumbent Representative Dan McNeill is the lone Republican on the ballot in the May 20 primary election. David Molony is unopposed on the Democratic ballot.

McNeill
Why should voters re- elect you to represent the 133rd District?

Through legislation I have supported, I have worked hard to improve the lives of every Lehigh Valley resident, from infant to senior.

Since taking office last January, I have supported bills that expand eligibility for Medicaid, legalize same sex marriages, develop the Breast and Cervical Cancer Early Screenings Program, enhance the Newborn Child Testing Act, and make it easier for residents to vote.

I also refused to support privatization of state liquor stores, which will eliminate over 4,000 jobs in Pennsylvania.

With your continued support, I will further my vision to make the 133rd District an even better place to live, work, play and raise a family.

Thank you for your time, your confidence, and your generous support.

Why should voters elect you to represent the 133rd District?

Molony

I have worked with people to bring legislation from getting differing groups of people to find agreement on the need and how to address it, through the State House and Senate and signed by the governor three times. I know the people involved in state government, but most of all I know the people I will be representing. I have spoken with over 5,000 people, door to door, and plan to surpass that this time.

I will get things done, working tirelessly for those I represent, not outside individuals or groups. Constituent services will be efficient and reliable. I will be your closest connection to the state government. That is the job, representing all the people of the 133rd District, clearing up their problems with the state bureaucracy. You can be sure that as a majority member of the Pennsylvania House, you will have a say in state government.

Samuelson

Pa. House
135th District

The Pennsylvania House of Representatives 135th District includes the city of Bethlehem (Northampton County portion) and parts of Bethlehem Township.

Incumbent Representative Steve Samuelson is running unopposed in the May 20 primary.

Why should voters reelect you to the 135th?

I work hard to represent the people of the 135th District. I opposed Governor Corbett's education cuts and I support efforts to increase opportunities for our students. I have a strong environmental record; and I am a consistent advocate for reform in Harrisburg. As Democratic Chair of the Aging and Older Adult Services Committee, I have worked to protect PPL Electric Utilities asks all of its customers to be on guard against scam artists who continue to target electric utility customers by threatening to shut off their service based on false claims of overdue bills.

The utility said it has received several complaints in recent weeks from both business and residential customers about callers claiming to be from the utility. The scammers falsely claim that the customers are behind on their bills. They demand an immediate payment by way of a pre-paid debit card for the customer to avoid having service disconnected.

PPL Electric Utilities accepts payments online, by traditional mail and through the use of credit or debit cards. For information on payment methods, visit www.pplelectric.com and select My account. # Springtime in the city

Lehigh University student Alex Sereno and his mother, Stephanie, stop to admire (or smell the) blooming tulips in Bethlehem at the corner of New and Church streets, near City Hall and the public library. The Lehigh junior was spending Easter Sunday with his parents who were visiting from Rhode Island. "It's beautiful here," commented Mrs. Sereno while walking around the Bethlehem Historic District on the city's Northside for her first time. Alex noted that he rarely traverses from the Southside, where Lehigh is situated, to North Bethlehem. Sunshine and mild temps in the low sixties brought out nature's springtime beauty for an enjoyable day.

The 18th District of Pennsylvania includes the Lehigh County portion of Bethlehem; townships of Hanover, Salisbury, Whitehall; boroughs of Catasauqua, Coplay, Emmaus and Fountain Hill. The District also includes portions of Northampton County.

Incumbent State Sen. Lisa Boscola, Democrat, is running in the May 20 primary.

Why should voters reelect you to represent the 18th district?

I am proud of my record in Harrisburg. I have never voted for a tax increase or a pay raise. I also voted against the pension increase and refused to take it. I put the taxpayers first when I am in Harrisburg. My goals for representing the residents of the Lehigh Valley will remain the same: eliminate property taxes, create good family-sustaining jobs with smart economic development policy and ensure that the state government works for the taxpayers.

Board approve $1M ladder truck

By BERNIE O'HARE
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Just one week after failing to secure a $550,000 grant for a new fire truck from the Northampton County Gaming Authority, the Nancy Run Fire Company had a lot more success on their home turf.

Bethlehem Township Commissioners unanimously agreed, at their May 5 meeting, to spend $1,063,853 for a new 100-foot rear-mounted ladder truck that will replace a 1991 model that is nearing the end of its useful life.

In a divided 5-4 vote, Northampton County's Gaming Board rejected a $550,000 grant request April 28.

Although commissioners have agreed to foot the entire bill from a $10

BETHLEHEM TOWNSHIP

Bethlehem Township Commissioners unanimously agreed to promote Officer Stephen Malitzki Jr. to corporal. "He's worked hard to earn this promotion," said Chief Dan Pancoast, who recommended Malitzki from a pool of three candidates. Malitzki has worked in the police department since 1989 and also served two years before that as a part-time officer. Militski recently rescued a baby in 39 degree weather left in a mini-van while her mother drank in a local bar.

million line of credit, Nancy Run is still seeking grants on a state and federal level. "We'll continue looking out for other options," Nancy Run Fire Chief Jamie Hauze told Commissioners.

One of those options might be the Gaming Authority. Some members, like Lower Nazareth's James Pennington, signaled a willingness to foot 25 percent of the cost, arguing that some of the need for this is the result of the casino.

Other members, like Bethlehem's Joe Kelly, argued that the entire $550,000 should be awarded because the ladder truck is a backup to Bethlehem's two ladder trucks. He said the fire truck is needed "to protect that asset," referring to the casino.

financial future of the district at the board's April 22 meeting. The board recently proposed a zero percent tax increase for 2014-15 for a fifth straight year. Without a tax increase, the district will experience a $2.3 million deficit into 2018.

Lower Saucon Township resident Cedric Dettmar expressed concern because the board, he said, is placing too much stock in believing employee pension contributions will eventually decrease.

Dettmar recommended the district incrementally increase taxes, followed by a larger tax hike. He also suggested the board look at both the con-

SoccerFest to take place in Bethlehem

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

If you can't attend the World Cup in Brazil this summer, SteelStacks Bethlehem will be the closest experience a fan can get once the tournament kicks off on June 12.

During a press conference last week, ArtsQuest announced it will be hosting a free FIFA World Cup SoccerFest and Viewing Party at SteelStacks from June 12-16 and 19-22.

The event will feature a 17-foot high by 27-foot wide outdoor LED screen on SteelStacks' Air products Town Square, broadcasting 26 live matches over the course of the first two weekends of tournament, highlighted by the USA's opening round matches against Ghana and Portugal.

Planning for the event has been in the works for two years and started with the ideas from the likes of Curt Mosel, ArtsQuest Vice President of Marketing and Public Relations.

Mosel attended the 2006 World Cup in Germany and wanted to bring the similar feel of FIFA Fan Fests, which bring in thousands of spectators to watch contests in host cities on giant LED screens, to Bethlehem.

"I remember when we were in Stuttgart in 2006 and they had a huge screen in the middle of the river with 10,000 people watching the game from all over," Mosel said. "It was just an incredible experience and we wondered how we could replicate that here. We have the backdrop with the Bethlehem Steel buildings, but it's really about tying together the passion for international soccer with the youth in the area."

Greg Ramos, executive director of Lehigh Valley United, knows how that experience can influence the youth, since attending the 1994 World Cup in the United States still holds a lasting imprint on his life.

"It's really the next best thing to being in Brazil," Ramos said of the SoccerFest in Bethlehem. "I think you can count on one hand the amount of requests that FIFA has granted throughout the United States for events like this. This footprint here at SteelStacks is so unique and having FIFA's consent and support sends a great message to everyone in the Lehigh Valley."

Mosel didn't know how many other FIFA-

The Lady Hurricanes had some chances to finish their push for a Lehigh Valley Conference championship, but they missed some opportunities along the way and wound up on the short end of a 5-4 loss to Emmaus. The Hornets will now go on to play Parkland for the LVC title.

"The young ladies played hard. Everybody wants to win, but it just wasn't our day today," explained Liberty coach Rich Giering. "We had chances. We had chances early and you've got to capitalize on those things when you're in a playoff game and we didn't. We took advantage here at the end and then we gave it right back."

From the outset, it looked like Liberty would ride the momentum of their big win over Bethlehem Catholic on Saturday. They came out swinging and before Emmaus starter Rachel Brown could even get comfortable, she was down 4-0 after just four batters. Reyna DeJesus led off the game with a base-hit and Ashley Malek followed with a walk. Mariah Kondravy stepped to the plate and slashed a double to drive in both runners and give Liberty a 2-0 lead. Brown walked Alyshia Del-lattore and was pulled off the mound in favor of Olivia Marcks, who restored order for Emmaus, getting the next three hitters and stranding Dellatore at first.

Starter Deb Renner got the first two outs in the bottom of the first before Miryah Palko doubled. Emmaus hit four home runs in the regular season meeting between the two teams and Marcks looked to start the long-ball barrage again when she deposited a shot over the left center field fence to tie the game at 2-2.

Renner got out of the inning and settled in nicely to keep the

LHS reaches LVC playoffs again

By PETER CAR

Liberty kept its stranglehold on the Lehigh Valley Conference's East Division again, squeaking out the division title through tie-breakers over Freedom to land them in this week's LVC playoffs.

The Hurricanes (14-6, 9-5) slipped in as the fourth seed and took on top-seeded Emmaus (17-2, 12-2) Tuesday night at Hackett Park, after Press deadlines.

Second-seeded Parkland (15-5, 11-3) battled third-seeded Whitehall (16-4, 11-3) in the opener Tuesday evening.

For the Hurricanes, who used a better divisional record (4-2 versus 3-3) over Freedom (13-7, 9-5) to qualify for the league playoffs, completing the goal was the first checkmark off the list this spring.

"We're happy to be playing in the LVC playoffs and win the division," said head coach Andy Pitilos. "Whenever you can

Four locals to live NFL dream

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

It was a busy weekend for Bethlehem natives hoping to make their NFL dreams come true, as three former Bethlehem players joined the NFL ranks.

Liberty's Devin Street was selected in the fifth round (146th pick) by the Dallas Cowboys on Saturday to make his NFL dream come true.

His former teammate, Levi Brown (Temple), signed on with the Baltimore Ravens as an undrafted free agent on the offensive line and former Bethlehem Catholic defensive back, Teverin Brandon, signed as an undrafted free agent with the Kansas City Chiefs.

Parkland's Andre Williams also joined the NFL party, getting selected in the fourth round (113th pick) by the New York Giants at running back.

To say the least, it may have been one of the best football weekends ever for Lehigh Valley prospects making the leap into the NFL.

"I think football is definitely growing in the Lehigh Valley," said Street inside of the Cowboys locker room Monday afternoon. "It's all about guys before us paving the way and now we're doing the same thing for younger guys. You always see the talent around here, but some guys get caught up in the wrong things. I hope they see that they can make it here if they put the work in, no matter where you're from."

Street sat tight with his family during Saturday's final day of the draft, anxiously awaiting to get picked. Dallas traded up to select the Pitt wide receiver, who had a third-round grade on the Cowboys draft board.

"I was frustrated, to be honest, having to wait until the fifth (round)," he said. "Everything happens for a reason and I can't be happier than to join the best organization in football. This is only going to fuel the fire even more."

Street, like many rookies, now have to immerse themselves in their team's playbooks throughout the next six-to-seven weeks.

He flew to Dallas Monday morning and

'Canes knock off BC

By KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tnonline.com

One rain delay and an end-of-game rainfall didn't stop the Liberty Hurricanes from defeating Bethlehem Catholic 7-6 on Saturday, knocking the Hawks out of the LVC Softball Tournament, which will be played this week.

"Every time we get to play Beca, no matter what the circumstances are, the intensity is always up," said Liberty third baseman, Emily Cecchini.

Becahi had a 1-0 lead, heading into the bottom of the third inning when rain and thunder forced a 30-minute delay.

"Especially after the rain break, it was important to come out strong," Cecchini said.

Liberty's Reyna Dejesus singled before Mariah Kondravy hit a double to left field. Next, Cecchini swung at the first pitch, only to knock it over the right field fence, giving the Hurricanes a 3-1 lead.

"I knew I hit it really, really well. I was pretty ecstatic to just come back out after the rain and start like that, especially because it was Beca," said

Cecchini.

Although the Hawks scored a run in the fourth inning, Lauren Epsaro's RBI double and Nicole Iasiello's RBI single made the score 5-2 Liberty.

Becahi began a seventh inning comeback, scoring four runs in the rain.

Cecchini said, "There was no place to wipe our hands, and [pitcher] Deb [Renner] had nowhere to wipe her hands, so I was a little nervous at the end, but as a team, we came together."

It was hardly a one, two, three inning as three game knotted. It looked like she would roll through the sixth inning as well, until Alyssa Krasnansky, who hit two home runs in the first meeting of the two teams, singled. Emmaus went to the bench to bring out pinch-hitter Emma Dugan, who jumped on a high pitch from Renner and took it out to right center field and put Emmaus up 4-2.

There was no quit in the Hurricanes though and they quickly went to work on Marcks in the top of the seventh with a leadoff single from Kondravy, who quickly stole second base. Dellatore followed with an RBI double to cut Emmaus' lead to 4-3. Marcks was able to get the next two hitters on strikes before Nichole Iasiello lifted a long fly ball to right. The ball was misplayed and Dellatore scored on the play, with Iasiello going all the way to third. When the relay throw got away, Giering sent Iasiello home, but she was thrown out at the plate to end the inning.

"We got a gift there and then I decided to go for it, and I don't doubt myself there, because they made a good play there. I thought that if we could have at least gone one ahead, that would have put the pressure back on them," said Giering.

Emmaus had the top of their order set to face Victoria Schmidt, who had come on in relief of Renner the previous inning.

Claire Harris led off and reached on an error and Brown then singled and went to second on an error, with Harris landing at third. Palko lifted an RBI single over the infield and Harris scored the winning run.

The Lady Hurricanes will likely be either a three or four-seed in districts, which would give them a home game next Thursday.

"I've got a lot of seniors and a lot of good kids. I think we need a little break, because we've got a few girls who are a little banged up," noted Giering. "We've got the prom coming up, so we'll have the whole weekend off, let them get away, be young ladies and relax. I think we'll be fine."

TRACK AND FIELD Simmons breaks meet record in 300 hurdles

By KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tnonline.com

The Lehigh Valley Conference Track and Field Championships took place last week at Whitehall High School where Bethlehem Catholic, Freedom, and Liberty competed for top honors.

On the first day of the two-day meet, Becahi's Freddie Simmons broke the meet record in the 300 hurdles with a time of 38.68. Becahi graduate, Tyler Horton, held the record from the previous year with a time of 38.71.

Liberty's Darius Jones won the triple jump with a distance of 45-1 1/2, and Denzel Vereen placed second in the shot put with a distance of 48-3 3/4.

Freedom junior, Shaina Palmer, was second in the 3200 with a time of 11:26.88. Liberty's Nicole Capuano was also second in the javelin with a distance of 109-9, and Becahi's Tess Zamolyi placed third in the same event with a distance of 104-11.

On the second day, Simmons won the 110 hurdles with a time of 14.79. Liberty's Victor Santiago took third place in the 100 dash with a time of 11:38, and Becahi's Donovan West finished in second place in the 200 dash with a time of 22.45, and Liberty's Josiah Wright was third with a time of 22.8.

Liberty's Jaylyne Aminu won the 100 dash in 12:48, and placed second in the 200 dash in 26.40.

Freedom's Palmer took third place in the 1600 with a time of 5:18.34.

For Becahi, Antwon Keenan, Donovan West, Mike McDaniel, Simmons won the 4x1 relay, and Simmons, Mike Duffy, Sean Moroney, and John Spirk placed second in the 4x4 relay with a time of 3:27.84.

Moroney said, "We always had high hopes [even though] we were ranked around sixth, but we keep getting better, and it was a close finish."

Simmons led off, and because of the lane stagers, it appeared the Hawks were in last place, but after handing off to Duffy things changed.

Duffy said, "The second runner has to run the first 100 meters in their lane, and then can cross into the first lane and just run."

That's exactly what Duffy did.

"It's basically a dead sprint to get to the front because if you're not there at that point, you're in trouble," he said.

Duffy pulled the Hawks into second place behind Nazareth, and after handing off to Moroney, Moroney passed the Nazareth runner to take first place, but the Blue Eagles' anchor was able to get by John Spirk for the Nazareth win.

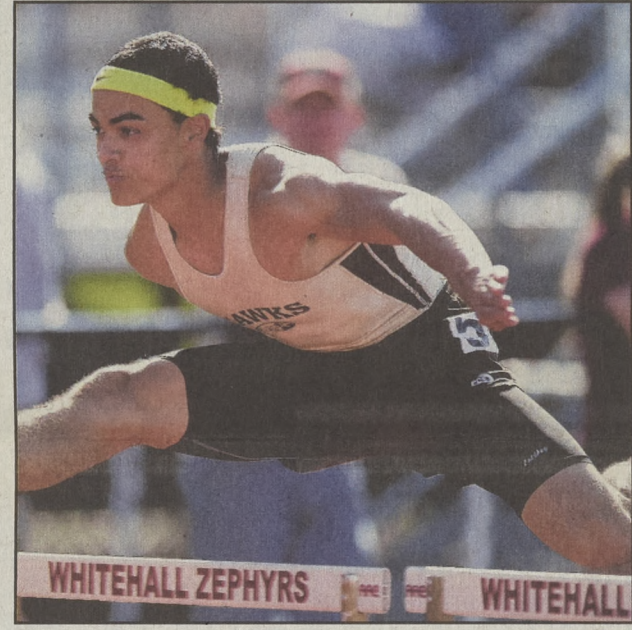

"It was a bit bitter-sweet," said Duffy. "The general consensus was that we can do better. I told everyone that we faced a good team, and we lost, so we have the opportunity to race against them again [at districts]. It's up to us to change the outcome."

Districts begin this Thursday.

Moroney said, "We look good for districts. Last week, we were working on sprints. Before that, it was all distance."

In jumping and throwing events, Liberty's Darius Jones won the long jump with a distance of 22-3, Becahi's Lauren Posch placed third in the triple jump with a distance of 35-2 1/4, and Rachel Finn from Liberty won the pole vault with a height of 11-0.

Aminu took second place in the shot put with a distance of 35-3 1/2.

Liberty's Darius Jones, right, was first in the triple jump at the LVC meet last week, while Becahi's Freddie Simmons won the 110 hurdles. He also set a meet record winning the 300 hurdles.

FHS lacrosse teams make districts

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Freedom's lacrosse programs have come a long way since their inception four years ago, as both the boys and girls programs qualified for this week's District 11 playoffs.

The Patriot girls finished 9-9 overall to squeak into the tournament, thanks to their 19-4 victory over Quakertown Community last week.

That earned them the seventh seed, as they will take on Southern Lehigh (12-4) in Thursday's opening round.

For head coach Charis Innarella, it's a pinnacle moment for the program.

"I am extremely proud of my team," said Innarella. "It has been a very exciting season. They played together and worked hard to achieve our goal. To become the first team to make it to districts is special. I always believed these players had the potential to be really successful.

"They just needed to have the confidence and once we won a few games they dug in and kept moving forward. It has been an enjoyable season."

On the flip side, the boys (6-8, 5-5) managed to qualify via their .500 mark in conference play.

"The significance of making the playoffs for us cannot be overstated," said boys' head coach Patrick Conroy. "To move from 2-16 record two seasons ago to in our third year of varsity making playoffs is a testament to the leadership of our seniors and the work ethic of the team as a whole.

"For both our guys and girls to make the district playoffs for the first time in the same season is a special bonus and I believe that, as with our boys, the girls have been led by their seniors."

The boys will take on Moravian Academy (8-6) on Wednesday in an eight versus nine pigtail matchup.

Getting the Pates ready for the playoffs is now the main objective.

"As far as concerns about getting ready to play: we have none," he said. "We will have the luxury of playing with no pressure against some great competition in what should be an awesome setting."

Sonic get first ever win in US Open Cup play

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

FC Lehigh Valley United Sonic came away with a historic win last week in the first round of the Lamar Hunt US Open Cup, knocking off GPS Portland Phoenix 1-0 in double overtime to register their first victory ever in the tournament.

Shastri Spencer gave the Sonic the goal they coveted in the 115th minute, taking a pass from George Tsurukis down the left flank, cutting inside of the box and chipping the goalkeeper for the game-winner.

It was a historic moment for the Sonic, winning their first ever contest in the oldest soccer tournament in the country.

"It's a huge win for this organization and helps us continue our goal of giving soccer a higher profile in the Lehigh Valley," said head coach Dave Weitzman. "Our name is starting to get some national attention and wins like this help us even more."

The Sonic left the Lehigh Valley last Tuesday night and arrived in Portland, ME at 2:15 a.m.

They then played Wednesday night and returned back home immediately after the contest. Playing up north with without their full roster was supposed to equal hardship in the opener, but the Sonic have parlayed that into hosting their second round matchup Wednesday night at Whitehall High School for a 7:05 p.m. kickoff against the Harrisburg City Islanders.

The Islanders are a USL Pro team, who play in the second highest division of professional soccer in the United States behind Major League Soccer (MLS).

The Islanders are an affiliate of the Philadelphia Union and Weitzman knows that there are at least four players on the Islanders roster that are on loan from the MLS franchise playing in Wednesday's matchup at Whitehall.

"This is going to be the first professional team playing in the area since the early 80s," Weitzman said. "This is going to be the best team we've ever faced. Fortunately, we're going to have more of our Division-I players for this contest and we're ready for the challenge."

A victory over the Islanders would set up a third-round match at Whitehall on May 28. The last amateur team standing in the Open Cup receives $15,000, but Weitzman isn't ready to look ahead that far.

"We have to focus on one game at a time," he said. "The Islanders are a very good team."

put yourself in position to play for the league title, you should be happy."

The downside of that for Liberty is taking on Emmaus, which has arguably been the best team in the league all season. The Hornets defeated the 'Canes twice this season, once by a 6-3 affair and the other, on April 24, by an 8-1 score.

Josh LeMaster, who pitched in the last Emmaus victory over Liberty, figured to get the nod on the mound for Tuesday's matchup. Liberty countered with their top pitcher, Matt Leon, to try and move the Hurricanes through.

"We may have lost to them twice during the year, but they had the better pitching matchups each time," Pitsilos said. "They never saw Leon, but we still need to do all the little things right, because Emmaus is very good."

Liberty lost to Parkland 4-3 in last year's LVC semifinals and hoped they could pull off the upset Tuesday night to move into Wednesday's championship final at 7:10 p.m., also at Hackett Park.

"At this point of the game, it's all about not making mistakes and playing good baseball," he said. "It's just a matter of winning the game."

Freedom ended the season with confidence following last week's 7-6 loss to Bethlehem Catholic, as they finished the year with three-straight wins, including a 1-0 win over Liberty to get their streak going. That helped the Patriots beat Emmaus 7-5 the next day, followed by a 6-2 win over East Stroudsburg South over the weekend.

They'll have the week off to see who they open up with in next week's District 11 tournament.

Bethlehem Catholic (9-9, 6-6) sneaked into the postseason as well, beating Freedom and Easton to end the year with huge wins to finish .500 and get them into the postseason.

The Hawks will open up play in the 3A bracket next Monday as well.

outs were hard to come by for the Hurricanes. The Hawks ended up leaving the bases loaded.

"It was important that we stayed calm. We definitely wanted to finish [despite the rain]. Especially for the seniors, it was the last time we'll play Becca, so it was exhilarating in the sense that it was nice to beat them," said Cecchini.

While Liberty will play in the LVC playoffs, Becchi and Freedom will have a week off to get ready for districts.

Last Thursday, Freedom celebrated senior day with a 3-0 victory over the Hurricanes. Shayla Peterson went the distance and allowed just four hits in the victory.

Becchi edged Freedom back on May 6, 2-1.

approved events would be going on throughout the country, but he did know that Indianapolis was denied a request to hold a similar event.

The event will feature ethnic foods, music, various clinics, coaching courses, while the second weekend will coincide with ¡Sabor!, a popular free Latin festival at SteelStacks that attracted 10,000 visitors last year.

Mosel hopes that the SoccerFest will bring in more than 30,000 people over the course of two weekends.

"We hope that we can reach north of 30,000 people, if not even more," Mosel said. "For kids, it's going to be an experience like no other. There's going to be people with nationalities from all over the world, wearing their flags, have their faces painted and showing passion for the game. We want to expose this great experience to people in the area."

met with head coach Jason Garrett. He got his playbook and planned to study hard, as well as get in the weight room to beef up over the next two months.

"I want to put on 10-15 pounds before training camp," he said. "I want to do whatever I can to make this team. I got my helmet, but there's no star on it yet. I have to earn that. Now that this is a reality, it's my job now to get better and I'm going to work my tail off."

Schwab's mansions

Karen M. Samuels
Columnist

Charles M. Schwab started life in a modest family home and ended life in a small New York City apartment, insolvent. Along the way he acquired four splendid mansions; two of them were spectacular.

In 1862, Charles Michael Schwab was born in Williamsburg, Pa., to John Anthony Schwab and Pauline (Farabaugh). In 1865, his parents moved to Loretto, Pa., where Schwab attended Saint Francis College, but left after two years to find work in Pittsburgh. He began his career as a stake-driver in the engineering corps of the Edgar Thompson Steel Works and Furnaces in Braddock, Pa. He quickly rose through the ranks of Andrew Carnegie's steel complex and at only 35 years of age, became president of the Carnegie Steel Company.

In 1901, after forming the U.S. Steel Corporation from the former Carnegie Steel, Schwab became the first president of the U.S. Steel Corporation. In 1903, because of clashes with U.S. Steel executives J. P. Morgan and Elbert Gary, Schwab left to run the Bethlehem Steel Corporation. Schwab succeeded in making Bethlehem Steel the second largest steel producer in the world. He gambled and risked everything to build a large, modern plant in Bethlehem. By mass-producing the wide-flange steel beam, Bethlehem Steel made it possible to build skyscrapers and changed the way buildings were erected.

Braddock

Schwab was fearless in his decisions about his homes as well as business. In 1890, he built a 22-room brick mansion in North Braddock, Pa. It had an arched stone porch, clay tennis courts, green houses and a carriage house. Inside the house, the front hall was paneled in carved oak. A grand staircase led to large stained glass windows. Most rooms had a marble or brick fireplace. The library was lined with leaded glass bookcases. The 10 servants lived on the third floor. Schwab and his wife, Emma Eurana Dinkey, only lived in the home for a few years. They sold it to Carnegie Land Corporation to be used for future Carnegie Steel superintendents. The house still stands today and is privately owned.

The 75-room "Riverside" mansion completed in 1906 for Charles M. Schwab.

New York City

In 1914, Schwab purchased the block bounded by 73rd and 74th streets, West End Avenue and Riverside Drive for $865,000. It was the former site of the New York Orphan Asylum. At the time, he was president of United States Steel Corporation. By the time his new mansion was built for $2,500,000, he would be president of Bethlehem Steel. He would continue to lavish over $8,000,000 on decorations and furnishings for the home. It took six years to build the 75-room "Riverside" mansion with more than 100 artisans employed. It was the most ambitious private house ever to be built in New York City.

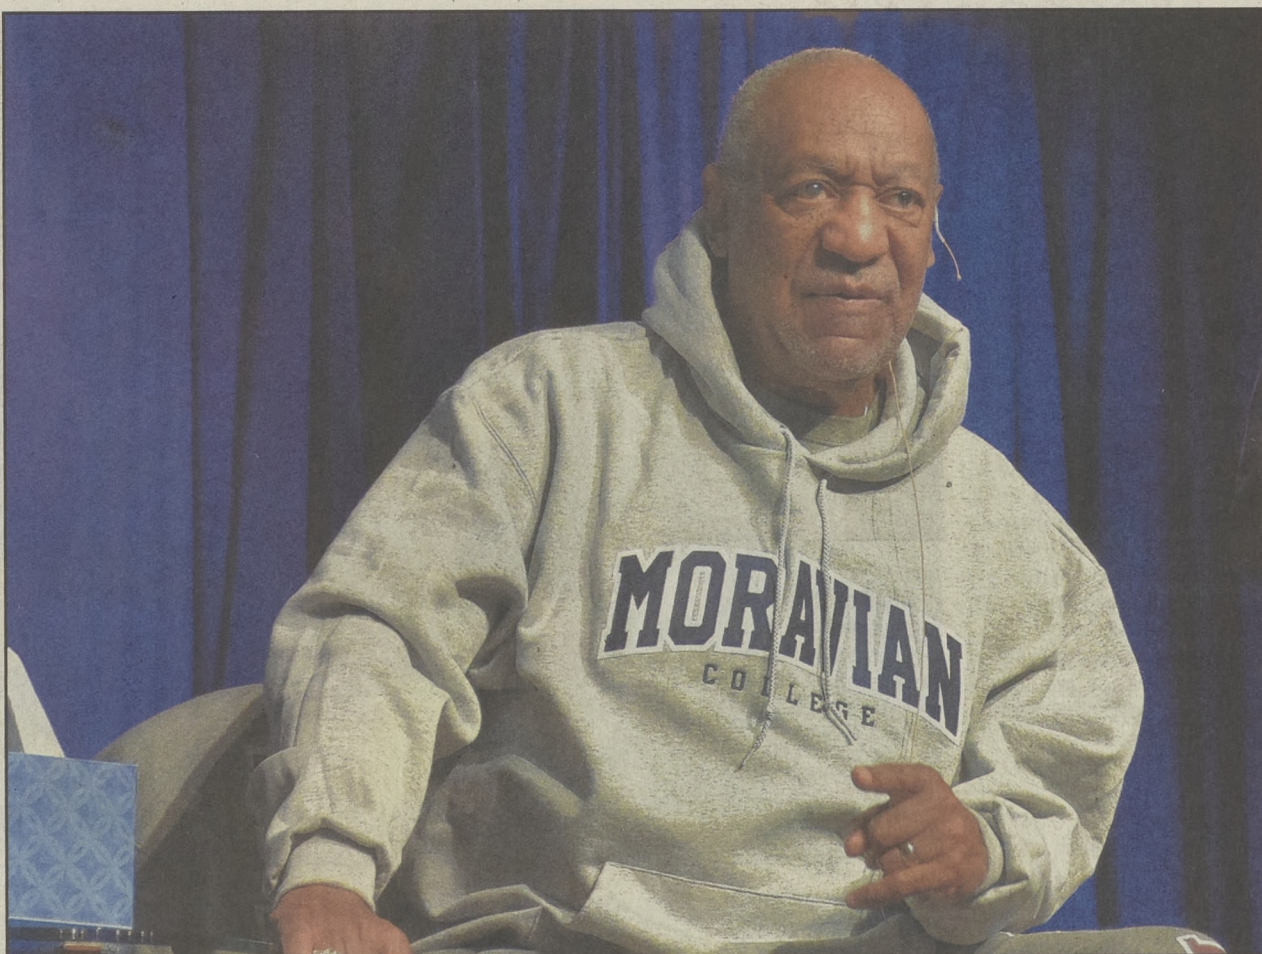

Fortified by steel, the exterior materials were brick, cream-colored granite and limestone. Schwab hired the French architect Maurice Hebert to design a French Renaissance chateau set in its own landscaped park. The Riverside Drive facade was based on that of Chenonceaux, a royal castle in France. Unable to pay property taxes of $60,000 a year on "Riverside" during the 1930s, Schwab moved into a small apartment at 209 Park Ave. where he died in 1939. The mansion was razed in 1948.

Bethlehem

When Schwab arrived in Bethlehem in 1903 to create the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, he purchased Garrett B. Linderman's three-story home on West Third Street in Fountain Hill. Linderman was the general manager of the Bethlehem Iron Company and built the mansion in 1870. He lived there until See WEEK on Page A16

'Cosby College' at Moravian

By PAUL WILLISTEIN
pwillistein@tponline.com

When he took his seat on the stage in Johnston Hall, Moravian College, Bethlehem, Bill Cosby wore a gray hooded sweatshirt emblazoned with "Moravian College" and sweatpants with "Temple," his alma mater, printed on the right pants leg.

After a nearly nonstop one and one-half hour talk in response to a handful of questions, the audience of 1,200 students, parents and members of the Moravian College community were, by degrees, symbolic graduates of another institution of higher learning:

Cosby College. The 76-year-old actor-comedian-writer-philanthropist delivered a wealth of wit, observations and tips from the college of life knowledge, starting when he was a disinterested student at Central High School, Philadelphia, to a dedicated Navy Hospital

Corpsman at the United States Naval Hospital to a fledgling standup comedian.

"We were very lower middle class," the star of TV's "The Cosby Show" (1984-'92) and "I Spy" (1965-'68) said of his family. The audience seemed eager to absorb Cosby's every word, facial expression and sound effect during the April 2 talk presented by the Moravian College United Student Government.

"My sixth grade teacher said, 'William has a great way of not listening.'"

"There are boys right now who think the way I thought and are wasting their education," he said.

Cosby said his Navy service taught him the words that helped make him a man: "I'm not your mother."

"Those weeks and the following years in the Navy I grew because I had to stay with it," said Cosby.

Following his service, Cosby received a track scholarship to attend Temple University. "I was placed in freshman remedial everything," he quipped.

Cosby gave one audience member "the Cosby stare" in response to one of her questions.

"How many in your classroom?" Cosby asked Maureen Leeson, of Bethlehem, a Liberty High School 11th and 12th grade physics teacher. "Thirty," Leeson responded.

"Too many," said Cosby.

When he started out in standup comedy, Cosby tried to sell jokes to comedians at the former Palumbo's nightclub, Philadelphia.

"That's not funny," he said he was told. "So I went out to prove that it was funny."

"I never tried to write anything funny. I wanted people to feel," said Cosby, a 1998 recipient of the Kennedy Center Honor, 2002 Presidential Medal of Freedom and 2009 Mark Twain Prize for American Humor.

VIA, a Lehigh Valley human services agency dedicated to children with special needs, conducted its own version of March Madness, under the roof of Northampton Community College's Spartan Center. The kids needed no lessons for that, but they may have taught a few things to local high school standouts who suddenly began to smile.

Students at Bethlehem's Lincoln ES were recently treated to a special visit from the Lehigh Valley SteelHawks indoor football team Mascot Talon as they prepared for their annual PSSAs, a standardized test given to students between third and eighth grades. At a raucous pep rally, 385 kids erupted in laughter as the two-legged prankster swooped in and immediately began to torment their teachers. Talon was joined by Steel-

Hawks Cory Darby, Leavander Jones, Rashad Rich and Dwayne Hollis. They served as referees in an athletic contest pitting teachers against students in hula hoop races and sliding on a small skateboard. The teachers won, but only because they cheated. ABOVE: Hands fly into the air as students are read several sample math and reading questions that students would later answer in the test.

Two students from Bethlehem Area Vocational Technical School will head to Motor City this June to represent Pennsylvania against students from all 50 states in the prestigious 2014 Ford/AAA Student Auto Skills National Finals. Matt Hitcho and Austin Kochenash, led by instructor Jeff Cantrel, won the Pennsylvania competition at Northampton Community College, Bethlehem, to earn a spot in the National Finals at Ford Motor Company World Headquarters in Dearborn, Michigan June 8-10. There, the duo will compete for millions in scholarship dollars, the opportunity to earn a job shadow experience with Wood Brothers Racing and the possibility of being crowned "America's Best Student Auto Technicians." At the National Finals, Hitcho and Kochenash will have their automotive skills tested with a written exam and timed event. During the competition they will be required to diagnose and repair intentionally installed "bugs" on a Ford vehicle.

his death in 1885. Schwab immediately contracted with A. W. Leh, architect, and spent $500,000 to modernize the home. He added a glass-domed flower conservatory with stamped copper moldings and a large bay window. Schwab called this 27-room mansion the "little house." This house still stands today but has been altered to create apartments.

Loretto

In 1914, Schwab built a 44-room Indiana limestone mansion on 1,000 acres in Loretto called "Immergrün" (German for "evergreen"). The estate featured opulent gardens, a nine-hole golf course on 133 acres, swimming pools, fountains and stables. The fruit and vegetables grown in the orchards and gardens were under the direction of Mrs. Schwab.

Running the estate required 100 gardeners and 15 servants. A waterworks (facsimile of an English fortress) and reservoir on the property served not only the estate but the town of Loretto. The chicken coops were replicas of French cottages. Deep in the forest was an open-air theater for plays. On a 66-acre site, a French village was recreated with cottages and shops but no people. Three years after Schwab's death in 1939, St. Francis College bought the mansion and guesthouse for $32,500 at auction. Today the mansion is used as Mount Assisi Friary on the grounds of Saint Francis University.

A True Fish Story!

Upon being asked about a fish button he was wearing, an old sailor explained, "Well, it goes back some sixty years when I was a lad and went to sea. On the ship I happened to take, the captain was a Christian. We hadn't gone far out to sea when he ordered all hands on deck. 'Boys,' he said, 'it has always been my custom to pray whenever I set out on a voyage and to commit the ship to the Lord.' Right there he ordered us all down on our knees while he prayed and committed the ship, everyone, and everything on board to the Lord. Every day he prayed with us and read the Bible. It wasn't long before every sailor on board was converted to God. It was not only the captain's teaching but his life that won us. There was no drinking, fighting, or swearing during the entire voyage."

"We had a fair trip around the Cape and north to India. All went well until we sailed into the Bay of Biscay. There we ran into a terrible storm. Our ship was lifted mountain high then plunged to the depth of the sea. Suddenly she struck a sharp rock, and we rushed to the pumps. Work as hard as we would, we could not stop the water from rising. Completely worn out we told the captain we were beaten! Our good captain did not seem worried. 'Boys,' he said, 'you remember when we left England two years ago, we prayed and committed the ship to God. He will see us safely through.' We returned to work, and it wasn't long before we noticed the water was going down. In a short time the ship was pumped dry. What happened, we didn't know. We just thanked Almighty God and upon reaching smooth water held a praise meeting."

"On reaching shore the ship was dry-docked. What do you suppose we found? That great hole was corked by a fish—a dolphin, if you please! The same Lord Who spoke to Jonah's fish spoke to that dolphin so he poked his nose into the ship's hole!"

'Rear Window' revisited

Recuperation yields many new observations

BUD'S VIEW

By Bud Cole

In June 2012, I finally yielded to rotator cuff surgery after a dozen years spent delaying the inevitable following a series of shoulder injuries.

The recovery and rehab has been a drawn-out process. The surgeon's treatment is supposed to conclude next month.

During the early part of my recovery I spent many hours in my recliner, observing the actions taking place in my home's backyard.

My vantage point was the recreation room patio window. I compared my rotator cuff recovery experience to the 1954 Alfred Hitchcock thriller, "Rear Window," starring James Stewart and Grace Kelly.

I remember seeing "Rear Window" during a Saturday matinee at the Savoy Theater along Front Street in Catasauqua. That theater, like many other buildings and memories of that era, is gone or long forgotten.

My friends and I were sitting on the edges of our seats as Hitchcock built the suspense with Stewart hobbling around the apartment, his leg in a cast, observing a suspected killer in an apartment across the courtyard.

The comparisons to "Rear Window" include the fact that Stewart's character was a photographer and spent his recovery with a broken leg, peering out his apartment rear window observing his neighbors.

Stewart's character fought boredom by spying on his neighbors and taking photos of their activities. I took photos of the wildlife in my backyard. He imagined, from the clues he observed and noted, that a neighbor killed a wife and concealed evidence in the courtyard gardens. Unlike Stewart, I have no suspicions about a local homicide other than perhaps a songbird or two dispatched by a hawk, or a few rodents falling prey to a fox or coyote.

Recent abdominal aortic aneurysm surgery led me back to my rear window. I again have been taking photos. Spending much more time than usual looking out the window has greatly increased my observations. I've been keeping a daily journal, much like the monthly journals from which I write my year-in-review "Looking Back" columns.

My surgery was April 1, April Fools' Day. I imagined my surgeon saying, "Oops, just kidding. April Fools!" as I drifted into the magic dreams of anesthesia, or perhaps as I awakened being told, "Well, we didn't do anything. How was your nap? April Fools!" I consoled myself by rationalizing that surgery on April 1 was much better than surgery scheduled on Friday the 13th.

I was released from St. Luke's University Hospital on April 7. Although I had great care during my hospital stay, I was very happy to go home.

On my first full day back home, April 8, I observed many birds using our suet and seed feeders. These species, as during the winter, included red-bellied, downy and hairy woodpeckers, northern cardinals, black-capped chickadees, tufted titmice, white-breasted nuthatches, brown creepers, common crows, starlings, house finches, goldfinches, mourning doves, white-throated sparrows, chipping sparrows and throngs of dark-eyed juncos.

The only new additions were a few flickers, at least one mockingbird and several purple grackles. The spring migrating Neotropical birds had not returned. The marauding gray squirrels were also present, stealing seed, devouring suet cakes in less than a day and performing their usual gymnastic routines as they executed their pilfering itineraries.

In addition to the birds, five wild turkeys meandered slowly through the backyard on April 11. Common crows were observed and heard harassing a red-tailed hawk as it tried to repair a nest at the far north end of the yard. Gray squirrels continued to attack the feeders with gusto. I don't mind sharing birdseed with the squirrels if they would only be good neighbors in return and refrain from wasting the seed and damaging the feeders.

On April 14, the doctor removed my 50 abdominal incision staples. When we returned from the doctor's office I noticed that two of the bird feeders were lying on the ground. The one feeder is supported by a pipe imbedded in a concrete-filled tire, which probably weighs at least 100 pounds. The other, a spring-loaded feeder designed to prevent squirrels from stealing the seed, is supported by several six-foot-long stakes driven into the ground.

There's only one local wildlife species with the strength to knock these feeders to the ground: a black bear. This is the third time in six months that a bear has been in our yard pilfering and damaging the birdfeeders. If we lived in what is known as bear country I would take down the feeders.

April 16 turned out to be a special day. Our Springer spaniel, Blue, was acting a bit crazy barking and jumping at the rear patio window. He was the first one to observe seven white-tailed deer slowly moving through the yard browsing on sapling twigs and rhododendron leaves.

Two of the deer were the normal brown color from the mid-body to the front, but had white fur from that point back including the back legs. These piebald, or two-colored, deer are evidently twin fawns from last spring and they are still traveling with their mother. It will be interesting to watch their development.

Today, as I write this column, I've been watching a female bluebird taking blades of grass to one of the bluebird nest boxes. The males and females have been dining on suet and hanging out near two of the boxes. It appears that we will have a pair of "the bluebirds of happiness" breeding in our yard again this year. Oh, happy day.

That's the way I see it!

Rhododendrons will dazzle your garden

GROWING GREEN

L.C. Cooperative Extension
LehighExt@psu.edu

Is the name ericaceae familiar to you?

No?

It's really only a fancy title for the King and Queen of shrubs: rhododendrons and azaleas. Azaleas are members of the genus Rhododendron. These plants are all related.

There are no clear-cut definitions for distinguishing between the plants we commonly call rhododendrons and azaleas. "Rhododendrons" are usually evergreen and "azaleas" usually lose their leaves in fall. There are exceptions to this general rule.

The flowers of the two groups tend to be different in shape and in number of stamens. Even botanists have trouble categorizing some of these plants. This difficulty does not in any way detract from the beauty of these plants and the enjoyment that comes from growing them.

Most rhododendrons that you purchase at a nursery or garden center have been raised in a plastic pot. As the plant grew, the roots expanded to the wall of the pot, turned around and grew, forming a solid wall of roots.

When you remove the plant from the pot, take note that there are probably no free-growing root endings sticking out of the ball. You need to create new root endings, so that when you plant it, the free roots will grow into the surrounding soil, allowing the plant to become established and promote future growth. Failure to free these roots will most likely kill the plant within a year or so.

How do you solve this problem? Remove the plant from the pot and lay it on its side. Hold the plant by the trunk directly above the crown. With a sharp knife, starting at the top of the ball, make four cuts, 90 degrees apart, one-inch deep, all the way to the bottom of the ball. You have now freed the roots. Reach into the slits with your fingers and gently pull out several roots. Rhododendrons require acidic soil for proper growth and nutrient uptake. You should have a soil test done, and follow the directions to amend the soil adequately for an acid-loving plant.

Rhododendrons offer a wealth of selection for everyone. Most of the plants available today are hybrids, which are plants propagated by cross-pollinating the flowers of distinct species to create a variety of colors: white, purple, pink, red, lavender and everything in between.

Plant size is very important to homeowners with limited space.

Dwarf, small-leaved plants that only grow to 15 - 18 inches in 10 years are desirable for small areas, or as groundcovers in rock gardens. Plants that only reach three to four feet in 10 years are another choice.

The large-leaved "rhody" that most of us are familiar with should be planted with great caution because it will extend to 10 feet or more in 10 years.

Azaleas are an ideal choice as a companion for a planting of rhododendrons. Again, you have a wide range of selection. The old reliable evergreen azalea should be used with caution because hardiness in the Lehigh Valley can be a problem.

We are all familiar with the mass of blooms on the plants Mom gets for Easter and Mother's Day. Some, but not all of these plants, are hothouse varieties and cannot be added to your landscape.

A better investment would be to ask your nurseryman to help you select rhododendrons or hardy azaleas that will bring beauty to your home for many years.

Cosmetic surgery popularity detailed

First of two parts
Q. What is the most common type of cosmetic surgery?

I was surprised by the answer to this question. I guessed facelift and was wrong. My wife, Gale, answered correctly without hesitation. Breast augmentation is the leader. She talks to more women, I guess. Women outnumber men by about 9 to 1 for undergoing cosmetic surgery.

According to 2012 statistics from the American Society of Plastic Surgeons (ASPS), the largest organization of board-certified plastic surgeons, the Top 5 cosmetic surgical procedures, with the annual number of procedures in parentheses and the average fees, are: Breast augmentation (286,000) $3,543 - Breast augmentation procedures are increasing and so are the number of silicone implants being used. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) banned silicone implants in 1992, after serious problems were reported. In 2006, the FDA allowed the reintroduction of plastic gel implants. More than half of the implants now are silicone. The rest are made of sterile salt water. In the procedure, the implants are placed beneath either the breast tissue or chest muscles. Breast augmentation is a popular procedure for those in their 20s, when breasts are usually fully formed. Nose reshaping (243,000) $4,493 - Rhinoplasty, or as it commonly known, "a nose job." Nose reshaping is widespread among teenagers. The procedure is common around the time of high school graduation. Eyelid surgery (204,000) $2,972 - Skin loses its natural elasticity as we age. However, some people have eyelid problems that are genetic. Eyelid reshaping (blepharoplasty) is performed by plastic surgeons on both the eyelids immediately above and below the eyes, and excess tissue underneath the eyes, too. In some cases, an eyelid lift is required to help improve a patient's eyesight. The results of aging begin to show in our 40s. Patients between the ages of 40-54 are likely to undergo an eyelid and/or brow lifting surgery.

Liposuction (202,000) $2,852 - Some people can't process fat, even with vigorous exercise and spartan diets. Liposuction is a potential solution, especially if the person is only slightly overweight and has good skin. During liposuction, fat cells are actually liquefied by injection or ultrasound and then removed. The removal of fat cells is permanent. However, it doesn't prevent the addition of new fat cells. Liposuction is popular for men and women after they are in their 30s, when their metabolism slows and they see a change in the way their bodies deposit fat.

Facelift (126,000) $6,630 - Drooping facial skin is a common problem with aging. During a facelift (rhytidectomy), facial soft tissues are lifted, excess skin is removed and skin is draped back. A neck lift (platysmaplasty) is often done with a facelift. A facelift isn't a cure-all for wrinkles or sun damage. This can be corrected with a skin-resurfacing procedure. The facelift is an extremely popular procedure for those 55 and older. At this point, there are multiple parts of the face that need rejuvenating.

Mothers don't get the credit they deserve

Last week, when I joined in a small discussion group, the leader's topic was mothers.

Specifically, we were asked to discuss the kind of mothering we experienced and our reaction to it.

There were only six in our group, and five of the six entered into lively conversation about the kind of mothering they had.

I was the only quiet one. The reason is because it's too painful to think about my mother. I am ashamed of how I didn't give her the reverence and the appreciation she deserved.

She always claimed I was a "good daughter," and she's probably right. For the most part, with the exception of typically volatile teenage years, I was always obedient, attentive and respectful.

But thinking back, I know in the inner workings of my mind that I did her a great disservice. I never gave her the credit she deserved.

I saw with eyes that didn't see. I judged with a mind that was snapped shut.

And what I did see, I interpreted with a self-centered spin instead of reality.

I have no idea why some daughters seem to be born as what we call a "daddy's girl." But I know with all certainty I was one of them.

I knew that if my father could pick only one person to be with, he would pick me. At least that's how he made me feel. He took me everywhere he went. He even took me along when he went to the fire company to kibitz with his buddies.

Most of my precious childhood memories were of times I spent with my father. If I went to the movies or to a sporting event, it was with my dad, not my mother, who was working as a waitress while I was with my dad.

Little kids don't know anything about family finances. I knew my mom struggled to make ends meet. But I never connected the dots to realize she worked only because she had to.

When my mom and dad got a divorce, I didn't see the heroic role she played in being the sole support for two little kids. She worked days in a factory and nights as a waitress.

I never saw her courage, never realized her feistiness was what helped us survive.

I'm ashamed to admit she couldn't win with me. If she was gone all the time, I said it was because she didn't care about my life.

When she was there and did enforce strict rules and guidelines, I said she was "mean" and didn't care about me.

See what I mean? She couldn't win.

I think that's the case with a lot of mothers.

They don't get the cred-

WARMEST REGARDS

By Pattie Mihalik
newsgirl@comcast.net

it they deserve — at least not while they are living.

Sadly, when a mom is gone, that's when we think back and realize how much she did for us.

I think it was Erma Bombeck who said a mother is often faulted while living but she becomes a saint after she dies.

My mother has been dead for a decade, and yes, she has become a saint in my eyes. I value her more and more with each passing year.

While she was here I wish I could have told her I saw her sacrifices for us. I saw how she worked until she was too tired to stand. But instead of resting at night, she cooked and cleaned.

Instead of applauding her, I put her down, saying she kept the house as if she expected the Good Housekeeping photographer to arrive at any minute.

When two of the women in our discussion group said they grew up with single mothers who were never there for them, I wondered if they, too, didn't see the sacrifices their mothers made for them. Or, were they right in thinking they raised themselves?

Few situations are as black and white as we believe. It's the overlooked gray area that completes the picture.

Finally, I spoke up during the discussion, making one point: No parent ever starts off saying, "I want to hurt my kids. I am going to do things that will be destructive to them."

No, we all do the best we can with our circumstances — even when we don't get full credit.

A few years before my mother died, I drove two hours to see her and had a chance for a real heart-to-heart talk.

I told her I was sorry I wasn't a better daughter to her — sorrier still that I didn't appreciate her enough.

She looked puzzled, then said: "What are you talking about? You never gave me a bit of problems and you were the one who was always there for me. You were the one I always turned to."

See — that's another great thing about mothers. Later in life they develop amnesia and only remember the good things.

I guess it's like childbirth all over again where you forget the pain and remember only the joy.

This Mother's Day, may you remember the joys. And if you're still lucky enough to have your mom, tell her how much you appreciate her. Because the older you get, the more you'll understand what she did for you.

'Spider-Man' amazes yet again

How amazing is "The Amazing Spider-Man 2"? Pretty amazing.

Thanks to terrific casting, "TASM2" pulls you in and makes the characters and storyline stick.

Andrew Garfield ("The Social Network," 2010) is a slender, tentative, conflicted Peter Parker-Spider-Man. He is tremulous of voice, with a perplexed look, complete with furrowed brow, and body language that's more puppy dog than pit bull. Even in the Spider-Man suit, Garfield projects world-weariness and a snarky attitude.

Emma Stone ("The Help," 2011) is a luminous, chirpy, strong presence as Parker's girlfriend, Gwen Stacy. Her huge lovely eyes are a special effect all on their own. The slight lisp in her voice only adds to her charm.

Even more amazing in "TASM2" is Emmaus High School graduate Dane DeHaan ("The Place Beyond The Pines," 2012), who carves a major presence, with boyish face and slim physique as Harry Osborn. He exudes the self-possessed power of a David Bowie, Leonardo DiCaprio and Jack Nicholson. He transitions from sweet smile to malevolent grin as Green Goblin. We haven't seen the last of DeHaan in the "Spider-Man" franchise.

Jamie Foxx is a shy, put-upon, insecure nerd as Max Dillon only to become a living, breathing Frankenstein monster as Electro.

Sally Field is fun as Peter Parker's Aunt May.

Paul Giamatti is nearly unrecognizable as Aleksei Sytsevich, a Russian villain who becomes Rhino, of whom we'll no

8th Bach vocal winner named

Janna Critz

Recent performances include the Sorceress in Purcell's "Dido and Aeneas," and select works by Claudio Monteverdi, featuring "Lamento della Ninfa" and "Presso un fiume tranquillo." Past performances include "Music from the Royal Courts of England" and sacred cantatas by Heinrich Schütz.

Critz made her soloist debut in 2013 with the Richmond Symphony Orchestra in a production of Mozart's "Requiem." In 2012, she was the alto soloist for "Voices of Light," an oratorio by Richard Einhorn, with the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Marin Alsop.

Other operatic roles include Cornelia in Handel's "Giulio Cesare," Zerlina in Mozart's "Don Giovanni" and Mallika in Delibes's "Lakmé."

During the past few years she has performed with The Peabody Opera Department, including a production of "Rake's Progress" by Igor Stravinsky.

Critz received a double Master's degree in Voice Performance and Early Music from The Peabody Opera Department and a Bachelor's degree in Vocal Performance from Furman University, Greenville, S.C. She was born and raised in Charlotte, N.C.

Janna Critz, mezzo-soprano, of Baltimore, was awarded first prize in the Eighth Biennial Bach Vocal Competition for Young American Singers, co-sponsored by the American Bach Society and the Bach Choir of Bethlehem during finals held May 4, Peter Hall, Moravian College, Bethlehem.

The prize includes a career development grant of $3,000 and an opportunity to perform as a soloist with The Bach Choir of Bethlehem during the 2014-15 concert season.

Honorable mentions and cash awards of $500 were awarded to Augusta Caso, mezzo-soprano, Philadelphia; Nola Richardson, soprano, Baltimore, and Gene Stenger, tenor, New Haven.

Ten finalists were selected from more than 70 applicants nationwide who submitted demo tapes. Applicants, who were 30 years or younger, were screened by David Gordon, education director, vocal coordinator and master class director of the Carmel Bach Festival in California.

Each finalist performed two Bach arias of his-her choice. The five judges included Greg Funfgeld, artistic director and conductor of The Bach Choir of Bethlehem; Bethlehem Bach Festival soloists Rosa Lamoreaux, soprano; Benjamin Butterfield, tenor; and William Sharp, bass-baritone; and Wendy Gillespie, professor of viola da gamba at the Indiana University Jacobs School of Music.

Critz has been praised for her "elegance of technique" and "vivid vocalism" (Baltimore Sun), and is a rising artist in the early music, operatic and concert arena, with a specialization in Baroque repertoire.

Critz was a featured soloist with the American Bach Soloists Festival Academy performing J. S. Bach's "Mass in B Minor," several sacred cantatas, and Heinrich Biber's "Missa Salisburgensis."

She has made multiple appearances with Lyle Nordstrom, performing with Mountside Baroque, Cumberland, Md., along with the Eastman Viol Consort.

Pat Martino in concert, talk

By ELIZABETH OUELLETTE
Special to The Press

Pat Martino understands that every day is precious. The acclaimed jazz guitarist, who performs at 7:30 p.m. May 15, Musikfest Cafe, ArtsQuest Center, SteelStacks, 101 Founders Way, Bethlehem, lost his memory and ability to play music after a brain aneurysm in the early 1980s.

In addition to his River-Jazz festival performance, Martino presents a talk, 1 p.m. May 15, Laros Auditorium, Doctors' Pavilion, St. Luke's University Health Network, 701 Ostrum St., Fountain Hill. A question-and-answer session follows the talk, which is free and open to the public.

Martino, a National Endowment for the Arts Jazz Master who has been performing since the early 1960s, has been nominated for four Grammy Awards.

After his near-fatal brain aneurysm that left him with amnesia, Martino was unable to play a single note. "I looked at pictures of myself on album covers and thought, 'Well, it looks like me. It must be me,' but I had no memory of it," Martino says in a recent phone interview. Learning to play the guitar again became an important tool in his recovery. "The music was the finest form of medication for me," he says, resulting in his CD, "The Return" (1987).

Martino was named Guitar Player of the Year in Downbeat's 2004 Reader's Poll. His other recent CDs include "Undeniable: Live at Blues Alley" (2011), No. 1 on jazz charts; "Alone Together" (2012), with Bobby Rose; and "We Are Together Again" (2013), with Gil Goldstein. Martino continues to be drawn to jazz because it reflects his desire to live in the moment. "Jazz is the ability to change direction at any time," he says. "Instead of moving towards one specific destination, it's the freedom to improvise and to follow one's intuition."

Martino enjoys the play of imagination and creative improvisation at his performances. Yet it is the interaction with the audience, the embrace of the crowd, that really gives him joy. "We are all together in that moment," he says. "For that brief magical moment, that is our reality."

Viktorija Geëytė goes for Trio

By JERRY DUCKETT
Special to The Press

Viktorija Geëytė is guest vocalist with Gene Perla's Go Trio, 7:30 p.m. May 16, in the "Jazz Upstairs" cabaret series, Miller Symphony Hall, 23 N. Sixth St., Allentown.

Perla, bass, is joined by Sean Gough, piano, and Colby Inzer, drums. Sitting in is Joe Magnarelli, trumpet, flugelhorn.

Geëytė, born in Vilnius, capital of Lithuania, began her singing career at age five with the prodding of her grandmother whose friend gave singing lessons to local children. The lessons grew to public appearances in the surrounding areas. Soon, Geëytė had steady work, even at five-years-old.

"I remember my first pro gig. It was in an Estonian-type restaurant with a colorful dance floor," says Geëytė in a recent phone interview. "I only did one song the first night with my teacher and two the next. I wasn't very conscientiously looking for anything bigger."

"The next thing just led to another and I found myself singing jazz. I was about 10 then, and I really just found myself singing with different groups."

Geëytė joined a sextet at 17, travelling with her teacher. The band members were much older than her. She doesn't remember the details of how she joined the group except that one day while singing she was asked to audition. The band, Green Bridge Band, formed in 2000, was originally Dixieland of Vilnius.

A few years later, the young vocalist applied for and was offered a scholarship at Lafayette College. She moved to the United States in 2004. She sang with a variety of groups.

She traveled to Paris while studying at Lafayette. She knew a little French and wanted to learn more, so she went back in 2008.

She met Gene Perla at Cosmic Cup Coffee Shop, Easton, and she has been singing with the Go Trio since then.

"To me, the Go Trio is very special. Between Sean, who is a completely fresh piano player and a modern-generation piano player, and Gene, who has all the experience and all the adventures behind him, these guys playing together is like magic happening. The way they play, the styles, and also listen to every note is extraordinary."

Barrere's Feat do the walking at the Peak

By PAUL WILLISTEIN
pwillistein@tnonline.com

For 45 years, Little Feat has been at the forefront of what became Americana and jam-band music.

"Little Feat was known as this band of eclectic guys who would perform all these styles of music and a lot of improv like the jazz septets of the 1950s," says Paul Barrere, guitarist, a member of Little Feat since 1972, joining after the release of "Sailing Shoes."

Barrere and Fred Tackett, who became a member of Little Feat in 1987 before "Let it Roll" and has been writing songs for and playing on recordings with Little Feat since 1972, present one of their duo concerts at 8 p.m. May 18, Penn's Peak, 325 Maury Road, Penn Forest Township.

Barerre and Tackett are expected to perform songs from the Little Feat catalogue. They first played together 25 years ago on the album "Dixie Chicken" and have played together or individually on recording sessions for Little Feat, Bonnie Raitt, Taj Mahal, Bob Dylan, Tom Waits, and the Wallflowers.

Barrere's contributions to Little Feat as a songwriter include "Feats Don't Fail Me Now," "All That You Dream," "Time Loves A Hero" and "Down On The Farm."

Barrere plays blues, rock, jazz, cajun and is a slide guitarist.

Also performing in the May 18 concert at The Peak is the super group, New Orleans Suspects, which includes Jake Eckert, guitar-vocals (The Dirty Dozen Brass Band); CR Gruver, keyboards-vocals (Polytoxic, Outformation); Reggie Scanlan, bass (Radiators, Professor Longhair Band); "Mean" Willie Green, drums (Neville Brothers); and Jeff Watkins, saxophone (James Brown Band, Joss Stone Band).

The New Orleans Suspects, formed in 2011 after the breakup of The Radiators, is expected to play songs by Allen Toussaint, Dr. John, Radiators, Nevilles and Dirty Dozen.

"Fred and I usually open the show," said Barrere in a recent phone interview. Barrere and Tackett present a 45-minute duo set. The New Orleans Suspects perform for about one hour. Barrere and Tackett return to play with The New Orleans Suspects for "another hour at least," Barrere says.

Don't expect note-for-note versions of studio recordings.

"We never thought of it as having to be replicated note for note. And there are bands that do that, which is why we may have been bubbling under. It's only been the last 10 or 15 years that we've [Little Feat] been thrown all these accolades that we were trailblazers along with the Allman Brothers, who enabled people to be a little freer [in concert performances]."

Barrere recently played four days of concerts in New Orleans with New Orleans Suspects, Gov't Mule, singer-songwriter Anders Osborne, and Bill

Kreutzmann, Grateful Dead drummer. "That to me is golden," Barrere says, adding, "It's not going to get you a Ferrari."

Barrere's music performance philosophy is akin to his sentiments as a visual artist. "I was taught very much as an art major, it's not so much what your doing. The joy is in the doing."

Barrere works in pen and ink, acrylics and does pencil drawings. "Now that I'm getting closer and closer to my pension, I'm starting to do some art projects." He's working on assemblages.

He's seen a lot of changes in the music business in the last 40 years of rock era.

"As soon as the digital genie got out of the bottle, the whole industry changed. Napster just opened the door for everybody to borrow music as they call it. We had to reinvent our marketing tools. There's so few record stories, it's almost criminal."

Barrere, whose parents were character actors in movies, attended Hollywood High School and graduated from North Hollywood High School. His brother works as a key grip on movie productions. His late brother was a motion picture editor.

Barrere began playing guitar at age 13.

He reckons he has 25 guitars. He has 10 acoustic instruments, mostly classic Martins. A Fender Stratocaster was purchased new in 1969. "I used that one on all the Little Feat recordings," he says.

He looks forward to returning to Penn's Peak. "We've been there a few time times. I like that place."

Representatives from more than 60 agencies in Lehigh County attended to answer questions about the different services and programs available to them.

Julie Wood, of Parkland High School Student Council, speaks with Christine Achey, development associate for the Allentown Rescue Mission, about having students from the high school volunteer time at the mission.

ZONING HEARING BOARD OF BETHLEHEM TOWNSHIP,
NORTHAMPTON COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA
May 28, 2014

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE FOLLOWING APPELLANTS HAVE FILED AN APPEAL FOR A PUBLIC HEARING BEFORE THE ZONING HEARING BOARD OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BETHLEHEM, A HEARING TO BE HELD AT 6:30 PM ON WEDNESDAY, MAY 28, 2014 AT THE TOWNSHIP MUNICIPAL BUILDING, 4225 EASTON AVENUE, BETHLEHEM, PA 18020. THE MEETING, AMONG OTHER ISSUES, CONCERNS THE FOLLOWING ZONING APPEALS:

- Appeal # 04-2014 Robert James, 1225 N. Marshall Street, Allentown, PA 18104, seeks a dimensional variance from Section 275-49A(1) of the Bethlehem Township Codified Zoning Ordinance, as amended, to construct a house on a lot that does not meet the requirement for the minimum lot area. The real estate is located on .202 acres and exists as one parcel east of the intersection at 5th Street and Spear Street. Zoning Code requires a minimum lot area of 10,000 square feet for a single family detached dwelling. The applicant proposes a lot area of 8,800 square feet. Therefore a dimensional variance of 1,200 square feet is being sought. The property is located within the Medium Density Residential Zoning District (MDR). The property maintains Northampton County Tax Parcel Identification number M7SE4 10 11 0205.
Appeal # 05-2014 Vance J. Grozier, 2280 Cherry Blossom Court, Bethlehem Township PA, seeks a dimensional variance from Section 275-49.G (1) of the Bethlehem Township Codified Zoning Ordinance, as amended, to construct at the rear of the house located at 2280 Cherry Blossom Court a permanent awning that will be connected at the roof line and will encroach upon the required rear yard setback of 35 feet. Zoning Code requires a 35 foot rear yard setback for any structure attached to the principle dwelling with a roof. The applicant proposes a rear yard setback of 28 feet. Therefore a dimensional variance of 7 feet is being sought. The property is located within the Medium Density Residential Zoning District (MDR). The property maintains Northampton County Tax Parcel Identification number N7NE2 8 15 0205.
Appeal # 06-2014 Gary M. Fenicle, 2430 13th Street, Bethlehem Township PA, seeks a dimensional variance from Section 275-49 F (1) of the Bethlehem Township Codified Zoning Ordinance, as amended, to construct a garage extension at the side of the house located at 2430 13th Street, Bethlehem Township. The proposed construction will encroach upon the required side yard setback of 10 feet, as well as encroaching upon the required 10 foot wide drainage/utility easement that surrounds the perimeter of the property. Zoning Code requires a 10 foot side yard setback for any structure that expands the principle dwelling. The applicant proposes a side yard setback of 6 feet. Therefore a dimensional variance of 4 feet is being sought. The property is located within the Medium Density Residential Zoning District (MDR). The property maintains Northampton County Tax Parcel Identification number N7NE1 50 13 0205.
Appeal # 07-2014 Wagner-Getz Real Estate Partnership, 1611 N. 18th Street, Allentown PA 18104, seeks several dimensional variances from the Bethlehem Township Codified Zoning Ordinance, as amended, in addition to a special exception remedy. The applicant wishes to subdivide an "L" shaped tract into two lots, one of which will be the site of a new 12,960 square foot building to be leased to the current tenant to continue operation of its auto repair garage and the other lot will be the site for utilization of the existing building as a retail use. As a result of the above proposal to create two lots where presently only one lot exists, three variances are sought:
1. A lot width variance of 43 feet. Section 275-75C of the zoning ordinance requires a minimum lot width of 200 feet should the lot border a non-arterial street. The applicant proposes a lot width of 157 feet, thereby requiring a variance of 43 feet with regard to Meyer Lane.
2. A lot width variance of one foot. Section 275-75C of the zoning ordinance requires a minimum lot width of 250 feet with regard to a lot bordering an arterial or connector street. The applicant proposes a lot width of 249 feet, thereby requiring a variance of one foot with regard to William Penn Highway.
3. A 2 foot diminution in the minimum height requirement for a proposed structure. The applicant proposes the future construction of a one story building rising 22 feet in height. Section 275-230E of the zoning ordinance requires in the Commercial Enhancement Overlay District that buildings shall at a minimum be two stories or 24 feet in height. As a result, the applicant seeks a 2 foot variance from the minimum height requirement.

The applicant also seeks permission to operate an auto repair garage in a proposed 12,960 square foot building to be constructed upon a newly created lot. While the applicant suggests in its petition that this remedy is sought as a special exception, Article VI of the zoning code pertaining to uses within the MDR District may require that a variance be sought. The property is located at 8030 William Penn Highway, Easton, Pennsylvania 18045, within the General Commercial Zoning District with a Commercial Enhancement Overlay District (GC/CEOD). The property maintains Northampton County Tax Parcel Identification Number M8 9 48 0205.
All interested parties are invited to attend and be heard.
