In September 1941, he was commissioned an Ensign, and was called to active duty a month later. He was assigned to a gun factory school at Washington, D. C., and following the completion of the course he was assigned to a naval aviation supply bureau. He was advanced to Lieutenant (j.g.) in October 1942.

Concluding the assignment at the nation's capital, he was sent to Jacksonville, Fla., for additional training, thence to a naval aviation station at San Diego, Cal., and later to duty on the Pacific.

"R" unit, as chief engineer, on active duty in the Atlantic. On July 1, he was advanced to the rank of Lieutenant (s.g.)

He graduated from Liberty High School in 1931, and from Lehigh University in 1935, with a B.S. degree in industrial engineering.
