

City Council members must “try to learn more about ‘how it works’”

The Bethlehem Gadfly Southside May 13, 2021

 The latest in a series of posts on the Southside

ref: Significant pushback against South Bethlehem Historical District planning study

Gadfly:

It may be helpful for the taxpayers of the City if Council members — all of whom have shown or demonstrated little if any practical knowledge of business, economics, or development — at least try to learn more about “how it works.”

Council is made up of nice people who are teachers or social workers and have shown very little knowledge or interest in learning how development works.

They have superb insight into how to pander to those that scream the loudest and show very little interest in listening to those that may disagree with their “woke” perspective on so many issues.

Bud Hackett