Proposed budget approved

By AMY HERZOG
 Special to the Bethlehem Press

During a May 12 special board meeting the Bethlehem Area School District board approved the proposed final budget for the 2014-15 school year with an almost 5 percent tax increase.

While discussing the budget prior to voting, several members of the board made their opposition to the spending plan known. However, the most outspoken was Director Basilio Bonilla Jr., who described the impact the tax increase would have on the elderly residents of the district.

He recalled conversations he had with several senior citizens, including one woman who broke down crying, saying the tax increase meant she would have to move in with her daughter.

"We have an obligation to our seniors and our citizens. It has been made clear to this board that this is not the only increase coming. It is our job to stand up not only for our students, but our senior citizens," said Bonilla.

The proposed final budget of $242.5 million passed on a vote of 6-3, as directors Eugene McKeon, Rogelio Ortiz and Bonilla voting against it.

Previously, district officials have said that they are keeping a tight control on expenses and the majority of the budget cost drivers were out of the local officials' hands. These costs include items such as charter school tuition.

'A Soldier's Odyssey' Area man publishes WW II experiences

By ELSA KERSCHNER
 ekerschner@nonline.com

Frank W. Maresca, who served with Company F 289th Regiment in World War II, was looking through a Disabled American Veterans magazine and inside was a list of reunions. At the top was the one for his company.

Maresca's life soon changed, as he was about to become an author.

His book, "A Soldier's Odyssey: To Remember Our Past as it Was," tells the story of his regiment.

The company's reunion was at Niagara Falls, a site his wife Grace wanted to visit, so there was no question about going.

Over the years, many of the men had changed and he did not recognize them, so he looked up the company historian.

He was given a roster of the men who were in Company F. Maresca, now living in Effort, wrote letters to some of the members, who then passed on the word he was trying to contact everyone.

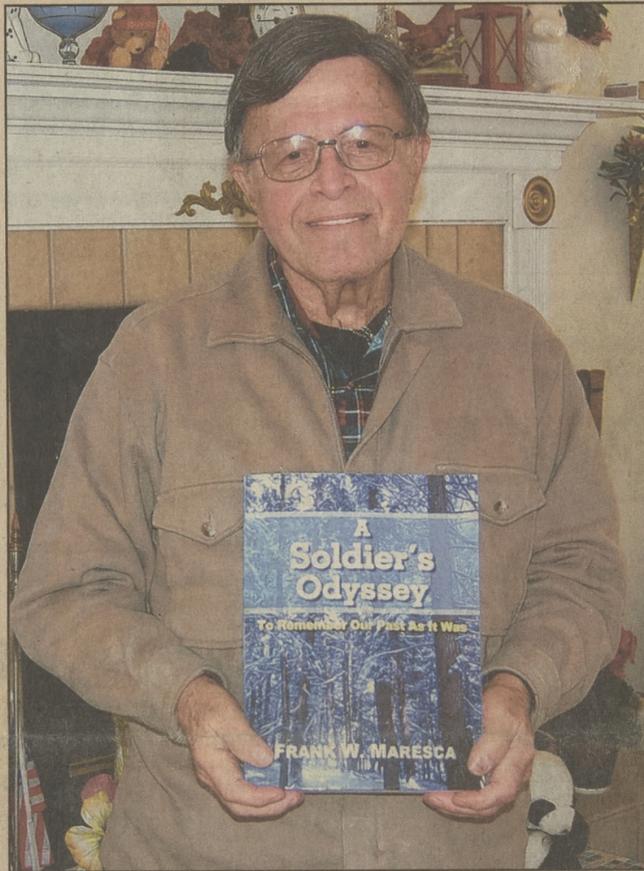

A friend suggested he go to the archives in Washington, D.C.

"My knowledge grew exponentially," said Maresca, who was living in Florida at the time. "Soon, I didn't want to write only about my buddies but the whole company."

Eventually, he had a foot-high stack of papers containing information from his travel research, interviews, reading notes, photographs and clippings.

He has photos of all 167 men, but one is not named. There are also cartoons, maps and war photos in the book.

A friend told him, "If a fellow has a picture, grab it, even if you have to break his arm."

Grace soon realized her husband was going to ask her to type the book.

She instead took him to Office Max, where they purchased a computer, even though Maresca did not know how to type.

He was up until 3 a.m. some nights typing his book.

After 18 years of research, it took another nine years to organize the information into book form.

The book, "A Soldier's Odyssey: To Remember Our Past as it Was," is almost 1,000 pages.

Nepotism claim

Is it a blessing or a curse to be the child of a highly-placed elected official? That relationship might make it easier to secure a position or a raise. But the person involved could be exposed to all kinds of scrutiny that would never occur if no relationship existed.

Mary Alice Einfalt, Northampton County's accounting manager, could probably weigh in on this topic. By a 5-2 vote of County Council at its May 15 meeting, she was reclassified as part of a fiscal overhaul to give her additional oversight over many operations. She was also awarded a major salary hike, from $66,504 to $87,307. To some, this promotion and reorganization were long overdue. To others, it was nepotism. Einfalt is the daughter of Council President Peg Ferraro.

Einfalt's reclassification is part of a plan to require accountants to report to accountants, instead of program directors. This problem, along with a lack of tighter fiscal control at Gracedale, has been identified by external auditors as a "material weakness" in internal controls for the past two years. It has also

Valley faces food production challenges

By DOROTHY GLEW
 Special to the Bethlehem Press

In 2012 the United States Department of Housing and Human Development awarded the Lehigh Valley a Regional Planning Grant to create strategies for maintaining its quality of life while absorbing thousands of new residents. To prepare for the creation of a plan, several community organizations studied the local food economy and recently published their results in a lengthy and detailed document titled "Assessment Report: Lehigh Valley Local Food Economy." The report is intended to provide a basis for the formulation of a Fresh Food Access Plan.

Allison Czapp presented the findings in the report recently at the quarterly meeting of the Lehigh Valley Chapter of the Weston A. Price Foundation. The foundation is committed to "restoring nutrient-dense foods in the American diet through education, research, and activism." Czapp is the outreach coordinator for the Greater Lehigh Valley Chapter Buy Fresh Buy Local. She has worked with several organizations to improve access to food in low-income communities, and she manages the Bethlehem Farmers Market.

The assessment covers numerous aspects, both positive and negative, of the local food economy. Its biggest challenge, Czapp noted, is the loss of both farms and farmland. In 1930 there were 5,032 farms in the Lehigh Valley; in 2007 there were 1,002 farms. In addition, there has been a decline in the number of acres per farm. If this rate of loss continues, there will be no farms left in 50 years.

Both Lehigh and Northampton counties have been imposing land use restrictions in certain areas to preserve them for agricultural purposes exclusively.

According to the Lehigh Valley Planning Commission, the land is being appropriated for housing, as well as commercial and industrial purposes, at a rate of 3.5 square miles per year. Pressure to develop the remaining farmland will increase with the anticipated addition of 146,000 people to the Lehigh Valley over the next 20 years. This will put a tremendous strain on the availability of fresh food. On the positive side, both Lehigh and Northampton counties have been imposing land use restrictions in certain areas to preserve them for agricultural purposes exclusively.

Another issue Czapp discussed is the dramatic decrease in the number of farmers in the Lehigh Valley. Farmers under age 35 have decreased by 37 percent. Barriers to becoming a farmer are lack of access to land and capital, as well as lack of training for farming. Only 17 percent Maresca enlisted toward the end of 1943 at Jersey City, N.J. His father told him to join the Navy, but enlistees were not needed at the time.

The Army needed infantrymen, tankers and engineers. Maresca really did not want to join the infantry but it was the best choice.

At the time, the Allies were getting ready for an invasion, and wanted front-line soldiers. After completing basic training, Maresca was sent to Camp Howze, Texas, an infantry replacement training center near Gainesville.

The men crouched down in foxholes while tanks drove over the top.

"They would spin their treads and bury us. It was scary," Maresca said. "And Texas was hot - 113 degrees in the shade."

In August, he was sent to Breckinridge, Ky. By then the invasion had taken place. He was seasick most of the time on the HMS Franconia traveling to England.

The company landed in Liverpool and was sent to Pembroke for training to speak French and German, and how to treat the civilians.

Maresca participated in the Battle of the Bulge, which is thoroughly covered in the book.

After the war ended, he spent 1946 as a supply sergeant with the Army of Occupation. Maresca was there during the Nuremberg Trials.

"We'd ask where the Nazis were," he said. "Everyone would say, 'Down the street,' and soon we would be out of that town."

When he came home, Maresca attended high school at night and worked at Western Electric.

He attended St. Peter's College in Jersey City, became an executive assistant to an admiral in the Navy, then heard about the base closing and quit before he could be laid off.

Forty years with the IRS in Newark followed until he retired in 1985.

Maresca received the French Ordre National de la Légion D'Honneur from the charge d'affaires at the French Embassy in Washington, the highest honor the French gave.

of farmers own the land they farm. Czapp noted that local governments could make land available for farming, and city owned lands could be made available as well. The Seem Seed Farm is providing training, so individuals can try farming before investing in equipment.

The lack of access to fresh food, especially in low-income communities, is another challenge. One aspect of the problem is the lack of infrastructure necessary to transport food from farms to wholesale buyers, such as hospitals, colleges, retirement communities and prisons. Food hubs and food business incubators could mitigate the difficulty. Moreover, food waste, due in part to overstocking and blemished foods, must be reduced.

Czapp stressed the importance of buying locally-grown food. Not only would it ensure a more healthful diet, but also purchasing it returns three times as much money to the local economy as purchasing food produced elsewhere. If residents spent $10 weekly on locally grown food, the local food economy could generate almost $100 million in economic activity. This would increase economic growth and jobs for local farms and businesses.

The budget includes furloughing 22 teaching positions, but will preserve the educational core of BASD's programs.

McKeon was opposed to the budget, saying the board did not pay enough attention to rising pension costs when they began restoring programs over the last several years and that is why he is opposed to the budget.

"I am going to be voting no on the proposed budget option. I just don't think it was wise a couple years ago to reinstate programs," said McKeon.

The final vote on the budget is scheduled for June 16.

cost the county money. With the exception of Controller Steve Barron, nobody has voiced any serious objection to this reorganization, which also reduces the responsibilities of an accountant at Gracedale and creates a new fiscal administrator for human services.

Barron's objection was that the county was putting the "cart in front of the horse." He pointed to outdated fiscal policies and procedures, which go back to 1988, and suggested they be revised first.

Nobody challenged Einfalt's qualifications. A CPA, she's been employed by the county since 2010. In that time, she's assumed responsibility for numerous financial statements, initiated paperless pay, eliminated over time in payroll by 97 percent, and has taken some Human Resources tracking from there to payroll. She has identified and eliminated internal control weaknesses missed by the outside auditor and controller.

One glaring example of this is eliminating a practice in which the accounts payable department was permitted to create new vendors. She is a cross-training advocate and also a disciple of Continuous Improvement (CI), which ironically was championed by John Brown's opponent, John Callahan.

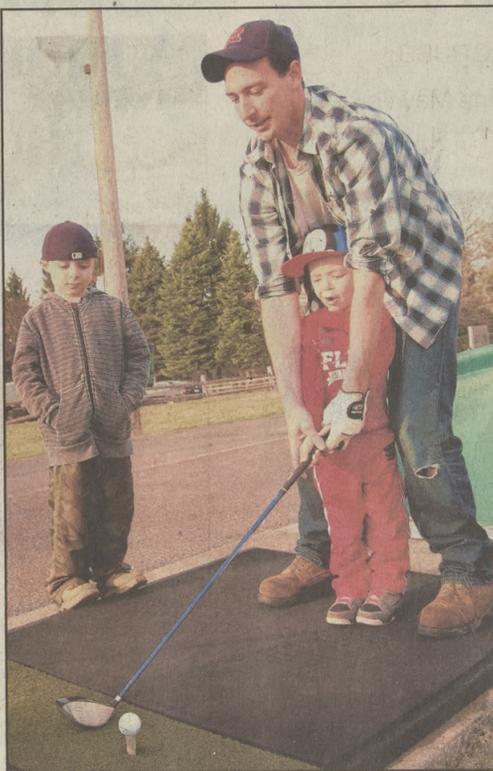

But some council members, particularly Lamont McClure, had concerns that have also been voiced by county workers.

McClure was put off by the size of the salary hike, a point he mentioned repeatedly at a council and Personnel Committee hearing.

"When was the last time this county gave anyone a 30 percent pay hike?" he asked Executive John Brown, who was unable to cite an example.

"Unprecedented," "historic" and "massive" are words McClure used to

The Bethlehem resident introduces his favorite sport to younger son John while Robert eagerly awaits his turn in the hitting bay. "It's their first time holding a golf club," said the proud father. describe the pay increase.

McClure and Ken Kraft also raised questions whether career service regulations were being followed. When a new position is created, career service regulations require the job to be posted so others within the county can apply. But Executive Brown told them this was no new position. Einfalt was and remains the accounting manager. As a result of a desk audit, her position has been re-classified to add additional responsibilities and give her a larger salary.

Then McClure raised the nepotism issue. It had been raised the previous day by council member Hayden Phillips, but after speaking to Einfalt, Phillips became "enthused." "I have to tell you, I'm a big fan," he had said at a committee meeting.

McClure, to put it mildly, was unenthused.

"No one else in this county is getting this kind of raise. Our employees are still shell-shocked over the Easton commuter taxes. I'm very concerned that, in order to get this kind of consideration, you need to be politically connected, and I'm just very concerned about that. It's unfortunate."

"That's very uncalled for," retorted Peg Ferraro.

"What's uncalled for?" McClure responded. "What I think is uncalled for is that people who are interested in the issue - you, madam president, making phone calls to our fellow council colleagues regarding this issue, in advance of the issue, when you should have, in my view, not been involved in any conduct whatever advancing this issue."

After the meeting, Ferraro acknowledged that she did call council members, as council president, to advise them that this matter would be considered. She denied lobbying for her daughter; took no real part in the discussion at council and in committee and recused herself from the vote.

McClure, who accused Ferraro of nepotism, bristled during last year's budget debates when a council member suggested that he was unable to vote for raises to professional employees like his wife, who is employed as an assistant district attorney. He pointed out, correctly, that she is part of a class receiving the raise and there was no conflict.

After the nepotism accusation, the vote was quickly taken. Ken Kraft and McClure opposed the promotion. Ferraro recused herself, and the five remaining council members, including Democrat Scott Parsons, supported the reclassification. Bob Werner was absent as a result of a death in the family.

The other proposals, which reduced the responsibility of Gracedale's fiscal administrator and created a new position for fiscal management of human services, passed 8-0.

Armed Forces Day - Hanover Township

A moral obligation to support those who have served

By BERNIE O'HARE
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Fewer and fewer municipalities celebrate Armed Forces Day, which honors those serving in all military branches. Hanover Township has been reversing that trend, and with growing crowds. It celebrated its third annual Armed Forces Day Program May 17 at Armed Services Park before a crowd of more than 100 people.

In addition to all Hanover supervisors, the ceremony was attended by state representatives Marcia Hahn and Mario Scavello. The Nitschmann MS Marching Band, which provided musical entertainment, played the national anthem despite having only one day to practice. The Honor Guard was made up of members of American Legion Post 379, located in Bethlehem.

Keynote speaker Brig. Gen. Stephen J. Ressler (US Army Ret.) spent 34 years in the Army Corps of Engineers before moving to Bethlehem.

"I wish I had known that before we designed this park," wisecracked Township Manager Jay Finnigan.

Ressler spoke of the wild variations in the way the public perceives the military. Treated with open hostility in the 70s, they became heroes after 9/11. Today, he described the treatment as "benign neglect," and lamented that "my beloved Army" is currently being reduced to its lowest levels since World War II.

He noted this attitude is universal, and quoted Rudyard Kipling's "Tommy," dedicated to the British soldier:

"For it's Tommy this, an' Tommy that, an' 'Chuck him out, the brute!"

But it's 'Saviour of 'is country' when the guns begin to shoot."

At a time when some

VA administrators are under investigation for hiding patient waiting lists, Kessler said we have a "moral obligation" to support the men and women who served.

"Hire a vet," he suggested. "Look him in the eye, shake his hand and thank him for his service."

Brig. Gen. Stephen G. Ressler spent 34 years in the Army Corps of Engineers and lives in Bethlehem.

The Nitschmann MS Marching band provides musical entertainment.

The American Legion Honor Guard consists of Steve Matala, Norman Koch, Charles Perna, Gene Ryder, Walter Markotic, Joseph Herkalo, Jim Reese, Mark Hoffman and John McCulloch.

Supervisors Steve Salvesen, Glenn Walbert, Jack Nagle, Mark Tanczos, John Diacogiannis and Township Manager Jay Finnigan.

Brewery turns 'Sweet 16'

By DANA GRUBB
Special to the Bethlehem Press

On April 15, 1998, the Bethlehem Brew Works first opened its doors in the Main Street Commons, a featured tenant in the newly renovated, historically restored buildings that once housed the former Orrs Department Store.

This past April 15, the Bethlehem Brew Works celebrated its 16th anniversary by offering beer discounts, past classic menu items such as Portabello Napoleon and crab cake sandwiches, as well as a limited edition beer, 16th Anniversary Ale.

Head Brewer Josh Bushey said that the anniversary provided incentive to "make something big and something different, so we went with a wheat ale that has a huskiness and dryness on the palate."

According to owner Rich Fegley, the single batch of this craft beer that has been brewed, 15 barrels total, will mean that it will be available for a limited time. Fegley pointed out that patrons at the Bethlehem Brew Works will be able to enjoy the anniversary ale on tap, and then purchase a bottle or two to take home, since a third of the batch, five barrels worth, has been bottled.

Fegley's Brew Works owns a second brew pub in Allentown, where the family-owned and run business has a brewing and bottling facility and is headquartered, as well as Fegley's Coffee Works and Fegley's Burrito Works at other Lehigh Valley locations.

Borough chooses trash collectors

Borough council attended to regular business May 6, but was primarily concerned with establishing a new sanitation contract.

To that end, as they did last time, local sanitation companies vying for the right to haul Freemansburgh's trash sent representatives to argue against their opponents.

Of the four companies who made bids, only J.P. Mascaro & Sons and Advance Disposal sent advocates, and the Mascaro lawyer explained at length to the assembled council why the other bids should be rejected. He said Mascaro has worked with the borough for almost a decade and the other companies were unable to place bids without defects and calculation errors.

The Advance advocate spoke for only a moment and said his company looked forward to working with the borough.

Council member Mark Lorrach said Mascaro had done excellent work for the borough until six months ago, and the representatives and handful of residents in attendance were left to wonder if the rest of the council felt the same as they talked behind closed doors for more than an hour.

When they returned, council President Homer "Bud" Lorrach said, "We

Women's heart attack symptoms can differ from men's

Symptoms of a heart attack can include radiating pain down the arm and tightness in the chest. While these may be universally recognized symptoms of heart attacks for men, new studies have shown such symptoms are not necessarily what women can expect if they're having a heart attack.

Research indicates women may experience symptoms quite different from men when it comes to heart attacks. Dismissing the symptoms of a heart attack can delay life-saving actions. It is critical for women to recognize warning signs. Even when signs are subtle, the results can be deadly.

The American Heart Association notes that a heart attack occurs when blood flow that brings oxygen-rich blood to the heart is slowed down or cut off. Arteries that supply blood flow to the heart may gradually become blocked by cholesterol, fat and plaque. The National Institutes of Health indicate women often experience new or unusual physical symptoms as early as a month before experiencing a heart attack.

Women's symptoms may not be as predictable as men's, but there are still some signs to consider: sweating, pressure in the chest and back that may feel like a rope being tightened around the body, nausea, pain in the back, neck, jaw or stomach, shortness of breath without having exerted yourself, lightheadedness, chest pain may be present, but fewer than 30 percent of women actually experience any pain in their chest, unusual fatigue, indigestion, and/or sleep disturbances.

If a woman experiences any of the above symptoms and suspects a heart attack, it is better to be safe than sorry. First, call 9-1-1 and make sure to follow the operator's instructions. Chew and swallow an aspirin (325 mg) if you have one available. Aspirin will prevent platelets in the blood from clotting and further blocking up an affected artery. This prevents any other heart muscle cells from dying from a clot obstruction.

If you suspect you are having a heart attack, do not drive yourself to the hospital. Wait for paramedics or have someone else drive if you have no other choice. Lie down and try to remain as calm as possible until emergency responders arrive. Be somewhere safe in case you lose consciousness and have the door unlocked so that EMTs can get inside your home should you lose consciousness.

One of the best ways to remain healthy with regard to heart attack is to take certain preventative measures to reduce your risk of heart attack. Quitting smoking, walking 30 minutes per day and choosing foods that are lower in fat and dietary cholesterol can help prevent heart attacks.

PENNDOT/DEP
Volunteers sought for cleanups

PennDOT and the Department of Environmental Protection are seeking volunteers for this year's Great American Cleanup of Pennsylvania effort that runs through May 31.

The statewide cleanup is an annual effort sponsored by PennDOT, DEP, Keep Pennsylvania Beautiful and other partners through which interested individuals and groups can create cleanup events. Groups involved in PennDOT's Adopt-A-Highway program, which involves volunteers cleaning roadsides year round, are also encouraged to participate in the cleanup.

"These cleanup programs play a huge role in keeping Pennsylvania beautiful through cleaner roadsides and communities," PennDOT Secretary Barry J. Schoch said. "It's my hope that more individuals get involved and join the thousands of dedicated volunteers who participate in these efforts year after year."

"DEP works every day to provide for the health and safety of Pennsylvanians through a cleaner environment," DEP Secretary Chris Abruzzo said. "The Great American Cleanup of Pennsylvania is a great opportunity for volunteers across the state to join us in that effort."

During last year's Great American Cleanup, 6.1 million pounds of litter was collected from Pennsylvania's roads, trails and shorelines by more than 137,000 volunteers. PennDOT's AAH program contributed more than 72,000 volunteers who cleaned up more than 65 percent of the collected litter on 10,859 miles of cleaned up roadway. Through the AAH program, volunteers collect litter on a two-mile section of state highway four times a year. The program currently has nearly 7,000 participating groups, more than 117,000 volunteers and 15,140 miles of adopted state-maintained roadways. Interested individuals can find a listing of cleanup events, resources for organizing a cleanup and other information about the effort online at www.gacofpa.org.

Groups interested in adopting a section of highway are encouraged to contact their local PennDOT County Maintenance office and ask for the AAH coordinator, or visit www.dot.state.pa.us.

It's all too easy to be scammed

One of the things I like best about doing newspaper features is that I constantly learn something new.

This week I covered a meeting where the civilian crime prevention specialist in our county talked about ways to protect ourselves against fraud.

We hear a lot these days about identity theft. But before I heard that talk I didn't think it was much of a problem. After all, what are the odds someone will steal our identity?

A lot higher than you think, said Dale Phillips, citing the escalating number of people who fall victim to identity thief and credit card fraud.

"Two things are making it easier than ever before for crooks to scam us — credit cards and the Internet.

"People think it isn't much of a problem — until it happens to them. Then they see how serious it is because it can take years to undo the damage," she says.

I used to believe crooks only went after people with lots of money. Not true, she says. Anyone who owns a credit card or uses an ATM is vulnerable.

In our small county there have been 92 reported cases of credit card/ATM scams just in the past four months. "And that number only counts the people who call our office and report they've been scammed. Some people don't want to tell others how they were ripped off," she says.

Last week two people in my town were victims. One woman filed her income tax and waited for her anticipated refund. Instead of getting the refund, she was notified by the IRS that her return was already filed and the refund was sent to another address in a different state.

Someone pulled off that scam by gaining access to the victim's Social Security number and then listing a change of address so the refund was sent to them.

"Guard your Social Security number like you guard your children," she stresses. "Never carry your Social Security or Medicare card in your wallet and be careful about giving your number to anyone. That's all someone needs to steal your identity."

She also warned against paying bills by putting checks in your curbside mailbox then raising the red flag to let the letter carrier know you have outgoing mail.

"That also alerts scam artists. Once they have the bank routing number on your bank check they can use that information to steal from you. If you're mailing checks, you're better off doing it from the post office," she said.

An even more dangerous practice is not being vigilant with your credit card," she added. "When your credit card is out of your possession such as when you are paying in a restaurant, be especially vigilant. Someone can make a copy of your credit card information. They may wait awhile before using that information, and when they do, it's almost impossible to catch them," she says.

Another successful pattern used by scam artists is to gain your credit card number then file a small phony charge of two or three dollars.

"People often fail to question a small amount like that. But that lets the scammer know it's a live card number and it leads to bigger charges down the line," Phillips said.

Two audience members said that's exactly what happened to them. But both prevented a bigger scam by acting immediately when they saw the under $2 charge they never made.

Phillips strongly recommends that credit card users carefully examine their bills every month then question every charge you don't recognize," she says. The same is true about examining monthly bank statements.

Banks recommend checking Internet accounts several times a week. One bank officer said she routinely checks her accounts at the end of every day. She advises others to do the same.

"The earlier you can spot fraud, the easier it is to correct the problem," the fraud prevention expert says.

She strongly advises judicious use of debit cards and ATMs. Use inside machines only, she stresses.

At an ATM outside a local supermarket, a scammer had installed a device to capture information from every card that went through the machine.

"These skimming devices are showing up more frequently at gas stations, supermarkets and other outside card readers. If you have trouble with your card sticking when you insert it into the slot, it could be because there is a skimmer hidden inside. If a card sticks, leave that machine right away," she advises.

After I heard her talk, I made some changes in my own life. Because I've been going to doctors on a regular basis, I've been carrying my Medicare card in my wallet. Of course, we all know these cards carry our Social Security number. I now keep my Medicare card at home until I am leaving for a doctor's appointment.

"There have been movements to urge the government to stop putting Social Security numbers on these cards. So far it has fallen on deaf ears," she says.

I've also stopped putting my outgoing mail with enclosed checks in my mailbox. Following the expert's advice, I take them to the post office.

"The sound of a paper shredder should be daily music in your home. Shred everything, even junk mail," the fraud prevention specialist recommends.

Changing a few habits now might save major problems down the road.

Tips if you consider cosmetic procedure

Second of two parts

Cosmetic procedures are used to make the skin look more youthful. Many dermatologists perform cosmetic procedures. Here are some examples:

Microdermabrasion uses tiny, fine particles or a very hard diamond-tipped wand to slough off cells from the top layer of the skin and encourage new skin growth.

Laser resurfacing uses high-intensity light to zap and improve the look of wrinkles and scars by tightening loose skin.

Chemical peels are used to treat mild acne scars, age spots, dull skin texture, skin discoloration, or wrinkles around the eyes or mouth. The peels remove the outer layers of the skin and encourage the growth of new, smoother, more evenly colored skin.

Botox injections can paralyze tiny facial muscles, smoothing out the appearance of lines or wrinkles.

The American Academy of Dermatology (AAD), which represents virtually all practicing dermatologists in the United States, advises patients to ask 10 questions before undergoing a cosmetic procedure:

Will a board-certified dermatologist perform the procedure?

The AAD urges everyone considering a cosmetic procedure to select a doctor who is board-certified in dermatology or a similar medical specialty. All treatments should be performed by the physician or under the direct supervision of the physician.

HEALTHY GEEZER

By Fred Cicetti
fred@healthygeezer.com

Complications increase when cosmetic procedures are not performed by a board-certified physician or under the doctor's direct supervision.

How many times has the doctor performed the procedure?

The procedure should be one that the doctor performs regularly. When physicians have specialized training in performing a procedure and have successfully performed the procedure on numerous patients, they usually want others to know.

What results can I expect?

A dermatologist typically tells a patient what to expect after visually examining the skin and gathering a medical history.

What is the recovery time?

While cosmetic procedures have become less invasive and require less downtime, patients should know what to expect after the procedure. For example, after botulinum (Botox) rejuvenation, patients can have temporary swelling, redness or bruising.

'Railway Man' calls for Oscar

The summer movie season began with "The Amazing Spider-Man 2." The Oscar season gathers steam with "The Railway Man."

MOVIE REVIEW

By Paul Willistein

If Academy Award voters remember — the September through December Oscar season is a ways up around the bend — look for multiple Oscar nominations for "The Railway Man," including actor (Colin Firth) and actress (Nicole Kidman). "The Railway Man" is superbly-accomplished cinema. It's an unconventional film about an unconventional topic that resonates on multiple levels in the contemporary international socio-political climate. "The Railway Man" is transformative.

The film is based on the best-selling autobiography, "The Railway Man: A POW's Searing Account of War, Brutality and Forgiveness" (2008) by Eric Lomax, a British World War II Army officer captured in 1942 by the Japanese in the fall of Singapore. Lomax and thousands of POWs were forced to build the Burma-Siam railway, a project which inspired director David Lean's classic movie, "The Bridge on the River Kwai" (1957).

Lomax (Firth) was tortured because he wouldn't reveal why he spearheaded the building of a secret radio receiver and drew a map depicting the railroad line and bridge.

"I like trains," Lomax says.

Lomax's obsession with trains, specifically, passenger train service timetables he memorizes, frustrates his wife Patti (Kidman). They met — where else? — on a British passenger train in 1980. Their dialogue echoes and references director Lean's movie, "Brief Encounter" (1945).

Patti is bound for the Highlights. Lomax, in crazy curly hair, goofy mustache and unfashionably huge glasses, is just bound — bound to his past. He's a "railway enthusiast, not a trainspotter," he emphatically tells Patti.

Patti suffers Lomax's nightmares, outbursts and sullen silences. He is unable to share his wartime experiences with her. She confronts Lomax's wartime Army buddy, Finlay (Stellan Skarsgard). Lomax's recollections, including the building of the railway, construction of the radio, its discovery and the unspeakable cruelty of his Japanese captors, is recounted vividly (the violence depicted is too intense and lengthy for this reviewer).

Lomax's wants to seek revenge when he learns the Japanese officer, Takeshi Nagase, who supervised his interrogation is still alive. We'll let you see this extraordinary, difficult and inspiring film to learn the rest of the story.

Firth is brilliant in portraying the nuances of a furtive, cauterized, ruined man who is "still fighting the war."

Kidman is efficient in creating empathy not only for the weary wife who endures her husband's abusive nature, but in conveying sympathy for the often cruel Lomax, as well as wounded warriors everywhere. Her cool blue eyes radiate with warm love for him.

"The Railway Man" is directed at a leisurely pace by Jonathan Teplitzky ("Burning Man," 2010) from a screenplay by Frank Cottrell Boyce ("Millions," the wonderful 2002 Danny Boyle directed film) and Andy Paterson (producer, "Beyond the Sea," 2004; "Girl With A Pearl Earring," 2003;

"Hilary and Jackie," 1998). Teplitzky, working with his long-time cinematographer Garry Phillips, lets the camera linger on the actors in moments of silence. His long and considered view allows the audience, to consider the effect of the spoils of war on those who serve.

The fine soundtrack by David Hirschfelder ("Australia," 2008; "Elizabeth," 1998; "Shine," 1997) augments the characters' emotional conflicts.

Get on board. Don't miss "The Railway Man."

"The Railway Man," MPAA Rated R (Restricted. Children Under 17 Require Accompanying Parent or Adult Guardian.) for disturbing prisoner of war violence; Genre: Biography, Drama; Run time: 1 hr., 54 min.; Distributed by The Weinstein Company.

Credit Readers Anonymous: Stay for "The Railway Man" closing credits for photos and information about the real-life persons on whose lives the film is based. Scottish-born Eric Sutherland Lomax died in 2012. His wife attended the film's premiere at the 2013 Toronto Film Festival.

Box Office, May 16: "Godzilla" stomped to No. 1, with $93.2 million, treading the year's biggest opening day, $38.5 million, and second biggest opening weekend, after "Captain America: The Winter Soldier," $95 million. "The Neighbors" moved to No. 2; $25.9 million, $91.5 million; two weeks; 3. "The Amazing Spider-Man 2," $16.8 million, $172.1 million, three weeks; 4. "Million Dollar Arm," $10.5 million, opening; 5. "The Other Woman," $6.3 million, $71.6 million, four weeks; 6. "Heaven Is For Real,"

$4.4 million, $82.2 million, five weeks; 7. "Rio 2," $3.8 million, $118 million, six weeks; 8. "Captain America: The Winter Soldier," $3.7 million, $250.6 million, seven weeks; 9. "Legends Of Oz: Dorothy's Return," $1.9 million, $6.5 million, two weeks; 10. "Moms' Night Out," $1.9 million, $7.3 million, two weeks

Unreel, May 23: "X Men: Days of Future Past," PG-13: Patrick Stewart, Ian McKellen, James McAvoy, Michael Fassbender, Jennifer Lawrence, Halle Berry, Anna Paquin, Ellen Page, Peter Dinklage, Hugh Jackman and a cast of mutant thousands star in the sci-fi action film. Wolverine goes back to the past to change the future, while managing to invoke the title of The Moody Blues' 1967 concept album. Characters from the original X-Men film trilogy join forces with their younger selves from "X-Men: First Class."

"Blended," PG-13: Drew Barrymore steps away from her chair in her duties as co-host with Robert Osborne of TCM's "Essentials" classic movie show to see how essential Adam Sandler is to a comedy about a families' resort where romance is the last resort. Kevin Nealon, Bella Thorne and Joel McHale co-star.

Closed sales of Valley houses decline for 4th month in row

Pending home sales 9.7 percent increase said positive real estate market indicator Closed sales of houses in the Lehigh Valley have decreased for the fourth straight month.

Closed sales in April decreased 11.3 percent to 1,524, compared to 1,719 in April 2013.

That's less of a percentage drop than in March when closed sales of houses in the Lehigh Valley decreased 15.2 percent, 407 houses, down from 480 closed sales of houses in March 2013.

Closed sales in February were down 10 percent, compared to February 2013.

Closed sales in January were down 3.1 percent, compared to January 2013.

The four-month decline in closed sales contrasts with month-to-month closed sales percentage increases and last year's overall yearly increases.

Closed sales for the year in 2013 were 15.5 percent higher than 2012 and 32 percent higher than in 2011.

The statistics are provided by the Lehigh Valley Association of Realtors (LVAR) and were collected from its Multiple Listing Service (MLS) that compiles data from more than 2,000 Realtor members.

Closed sales data includes that for single-family homes, townhomes and condominiums.

In a positive note for future closed sales, during April, pending home sales increased 9.7 percent to 733, compared to 668 during the same month last year. In April 2012, pending sales were recorded at 551.

"The increase in pending sales will directly impact closed sales in upcoming months," said Kim Lucas Mantz, President of LVAR.

"The 33 percent increase in pending sales from two years ago is a positive indicator for the current housing market," said Ryan Conrad, CEO of LVAR. Pending home sales reflect homes that are under contract but have not yet closed.

New listings in April were recorded at 1,343, up 3.1 percent compared to April 2013. Comparisons to 2012 show a 23.7 percent increase, when new listings were recorded at 1,086.

"We are optimistic that the trend in new listings will continue and increase the amount of housing inventory from which buyers may choose," Conrad said.

Year-to-date, the median price remained the same at $158,000. The median sales price reflects the median point at which half of the sales sold for more and half sold for less, not accounting for seller concessions, in a given month.

The average sales price was $177,730, a 1.4 decrease from last year at the same time.

The months' supply of inventory in April decreased 9.3 percent to a 6.8 months' supply. Inventory of four to seven months is typically regarded as constituting a balanced real estate market.

Average sales and median prices fluctuate monthly depending on the number of sales at the high or low end of the price range. The year-to-date numbers generally remain more constant.

An afternoon spent viewing historic gravesite markers

Jerusalem Western Salisbury Church historian Joshua Fink, in colonial garb, tells his audience about headstones which reveal information on some of the oldest legible gravesite markers in Lehigh County. The cemetery includes the remains of Leni Lenape Indians who resided along the Little Lehigh before the birth of this nation.

PRESS PHOTOS BY JIM MARSH

Area residents with an interest in local history gather at Jerusalem Western Salisbury Church May 18 for a "Spring Afternoon Cemetery Walking Tour" in the church's cemetery, one of the oldest in Lehigh County. The cemetery holds the remains of persons dating back to the mid-1700s, before the USA was born.

PUBLIC NOTICE ZONING HEARING BOARD OF BETHLEHEM TOWNSHIP, NORTHAMPTON COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA May 28, 2014

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE FOLLOWING APPELLANTS HAVE FILED AN APPEAL FOR A PUBLIC HEARING BEFORE THE ZONING HEARING BOARD OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BETHLEHEM, A HEARING TO BE HELD AT 6:30 PM ON WEDNESDAY, MAY 28, 2014 AT THE TOWNSHIP MUNICIPAL BUILDING, 4225 EASTON AVENUE, BETHLEHEM, PA 18020. THE MEETING, AMONG OTHER ISSUES, CONCERNS THE FOLLOWING ZONING APPEALS:

Appeal # 04-2014 Robert James, 1225 N. Marshall Street, Allentown, PA 18104, seeks a dimensional variance from Section 275-49A(1) of the Bethlehem Township Codified Zoning Ordinance, as amended, to construct a house on a lot that does not meet the requirement for the minimum lot area. The real estate is located on .202 acres and exists as one parcel east of the intersection at 5th Street and Spear Street. Zoning Code requires a minimum lot area of 10,000 square feet for a single family detached dwelling. The applicant proposes a lot area of 8,800 square feet. Therefore a dimensional variance of 1,200 square feet is being sought. The property is located within the Medium Density Residential Zoning District (MDR). The property maintains Northampton County Tax Parcel Identification number M7SE4 10 11 0205.

Appeal # 05-2014 Vance J. Grozier, 2280 Cherry Blossom Court, Bethlehem Township PA, seeks a dimensional variance from Section 275-49.G (1) of the Bethlehem Township Codified Zoning Ordinance, as amended, to construct at the rear of the house located at 2280 Cherry Blossom Court a permanent awning that will be connected at the roof line and will encroach upon the required rear yard setback of 35 feet. Zoning Code requires a 35 foot rear yard setback for any structure attached to the principle dwelling with a roof. The applicant proposes a rear yard setback of 28 feet. Therefore a dimensional variance of 7 feet is being sought. The property is located within the Medium Density Residential Zoning District (MDR). The property maintains Northampton County Tax Parcel Identification number N7NE2 8 15 0205.

Appeal # 06-2014 Gary M. Fenicle, 2430 13th Street, Bethlehem Township PA, seeks a dimensional variance from Section 275-49 F (1) of the Bethlehem Township Codified Zoning Ordinance, as amended, to construct a garage extension at the side of the house located at 2430 13th Street, Bethlehem Township. The proposed construction will encroach upon the required side yard setback of 10 feet, as well as encroaching on the required 10 foot wide drainage/utility easement that surrounds the perimeter of the property. Zoning Code requires a 10 foot side yard setback for any structure that expands the principle dwelling. The applicant proposes a side yard setback of 6 feet. Therefore a dimensional variance of 4 feet is being sought. The property is located within the Medium Density Residential Zoning District (MDR). The property maintains Northampton County Tax Parcel Identification number N7NE1 50 13 0205.

Appeal # 07-2014 Wagner-Getz Real Estate Partnership, 1611 N. 18th Street, Allentown PA 18104, seeks several dimensional variances from the Bethlehem Township Codified Zoning Ordinance, as amended, in addition to a special exception remedy. The applicant wishes to subdivide an "L" shaped tract into two lots, one of which will be the site of a new 12,960 square foot building to be leased to the current tenant to continue operation of its auto repair garage and the other lot will be the site for utilization of the existing building as a retail use. As a result of the above proposal to create two lots where presently only one lot exists, three variances are sought:

1. A lot width variance of 43 feet. Section 275-75C of the zoning ordinance requires a minimum lot width of 200 feet should the lot border a non-arterial street. The applicant proposes a lot width of 157 feet, thereby requiring a variance of 43 feet with regard to Meyer Lane.

2. A lot width variance of one foot. Section 275-75C of the zoning ordinance requires a minimum lot width of 250 feet with regard to a lot bordering an arterial or connector street. The applicant proposes a lot width of 249 feet, thereby requiring a variance of one foot with regard to William Penn Highway.

3. A 2 foot diminution in the minimum height requirement for a proposed structure. The applicant proposes the future construction of a one story building rising 22 feet in height. Section 275-230E of the zoning ordinance requires in the Commercial Enhancement Overlay District that buildings shall at a minimum be two stories or 24 feet in height. As a result, the applicant seeks a 2 foot variance from the minimum height requirement.

The applicant also seeks permission to operate an auto repair garage in a proposed 12,960 square foot building to be constructed upon a newly created lot. While the applicant suggests in its petition that this remedy is sought as a special exception, Article VI of the zoning code pertaining to uses within the MDR District may require that a variance be sought.

The property is located at 8030 William Penn Highway, Easton, Pennsylvania 18045, within the General Commercial Zoning District with a Commercial Enhancement Overlay District (GC/CEOD). The property maintains Northampton County Tax Parcel Identification Number M8 9 48 0205.

All interested parties are invited to attend and be heard. Deborah Roseberry, Zoning Officer Telephone: (610) 814-6464
