Gadfly's been holding off on commenting on this recent incident that he referenced at the Thursday Committee of the Whole meeting, waiting for the official press conference. That's not scheduled till next Wednesday now. Long time a'coming. Gadfly suggests that you read along in the meantime, though, for you will recognize now classic issues that he feels we should be discussing locally.

This is a rap video from the knife-wielding man recently shot and killed by police in Philly. The family attorney calls him "a passionate man, a hard working gentleman. I'm not sure if we are talking about just bi-polar or manic depressive or some pinch of autism."

His mother ...called the police 3 times that day because he was attacking her. At that time, she said he was high on PCP.... Now she is saying he is autistic.... Whatever fits the required narrative.

I don't care if he was Jesus Christ revisited. You charge a cop with a knife, you take a dirt nap.
