

DeCarlo, Victor
Anthony

Pfc. Victor DeCarlo With Engineers In Italian War Theater

Pfc. Victor DeCarlo, son of Mrs. Lena DeCarlo, 731 Wood Street, is an automotive equipment operator with an aviation engineer unit which builds and maintains airfields for the powerful Allied airfleet based in Italy.

Pfc. DeCarlo entered the service in March, 1943 and was sent to Atlantic City, N. J., for basic training. He was assigned to an air force training unit at Camp Lee, Va., and sent to Jefferson Barracks, Mo.

Since landing on foreign soil in January, 1944, Pfc. DeCarlo has seen active duty in Corsica, France and Italy. He wears the European-American and Middle Eastern campaign ribbons with two battle participation stars.

DeCarlo attended Bethlehem vocational schools and is a former employe of the Bethlehem Steel Company. Prior to entering the service, he was employed by the Modern Clothing Company of Allentown. A brother, Pfc. Anthony DeCarlo, is serving with the Air Corps in England.

May 3, 1945