Study suggests centralized records

District Employee Russel Giordano gave a child accountability review to directors at the Sept. 16 meeting of the Bethlehem Area School District school board. The report was at the district's request and was compiled by an outside study team consisting of three school business officials under the direction of the Pennsylvania Association of School Business Officials. Some of the recommendations included filling the open position of director of child accounting, moving to a centralized student registration process and moving the issuance of employment certificates to the various high schools in the district.

"Do we need child accountability? Yes, more so than ever because of the new state demands that are ever increasing on us," said Superintendent Dr. Joseph Roy.

The team suggested performing child registration at a centralized location rather than at the various schools in the district, and keeping working papers available at the high schools alone and not at the education center.

They also emphasized that employees in the child accountability department receive fresh training as there are currently no department veterans because of a retire-

JUDGES Taschner resigns as association president

By BENRNE O'HARE
 Special to the Bethlehem Press

District Judge Jackie Taschner has stepped down as president of the Northampton County Magisterial District Judges Association. She cites family obligations.

Her decision came after the association voted Aug. 20 to submit a new, controversial redistricting proposal to the Pa. Supreme Court. Under a plan already approved by the Supreme Court, two magisterial districts in the northwestern corner of the County will be consolidated. This will force a run-off election between District Judges Diane Marakovits and Robert Hawke. Under the plan proposed by area district judges, Joseph Barner's seat in Bethlehem Township will instead be eliminated. Barner intends to retire, so a run-off election would be unnecessary.

Though the district judge plan avoids an election contest, it has been criticized by police chiefs, Hanover Township officials and State Senator Lisa Boscola as an exaltation of political considerations over the best interests of the public.

President Judge Stephen Baratta told the Supreme Court it comes at "the expense of conven-

Trestle walkway work set to begin

By NATE JASTRZEMSKI
 njastrzowski@tponline.com

A year in design and development, a project to rebuild Bethlehem Steel's Hoover-Mason Trestle as a tourist pedestrian walkway extending from Arts Quest SteelStacks to the Sands Hotel and casino is now underway.

Mayor John Callahan and City Redevelopment Authority Executive Director Tony Hanna made the announcement Sept. 18, while for the first time allowing media members to ascend a scaffold and see the view Callahan has been so excited about.

Designed by Wallace Roberts and Todd LLC with work by Boyle Construction, the $11 million project will stretch more than 2,000 feet, and include 35,000 feet of new walking surface and three handicapped-accessible entrances to allow everyone to enjoy the sights of the city's burgeoning Southside entertainment district.

Callahan said the project is scheduled for completion by October 2014, but the most prominent sections should be ready for use by next August, in time for MusikFest foot traffic.

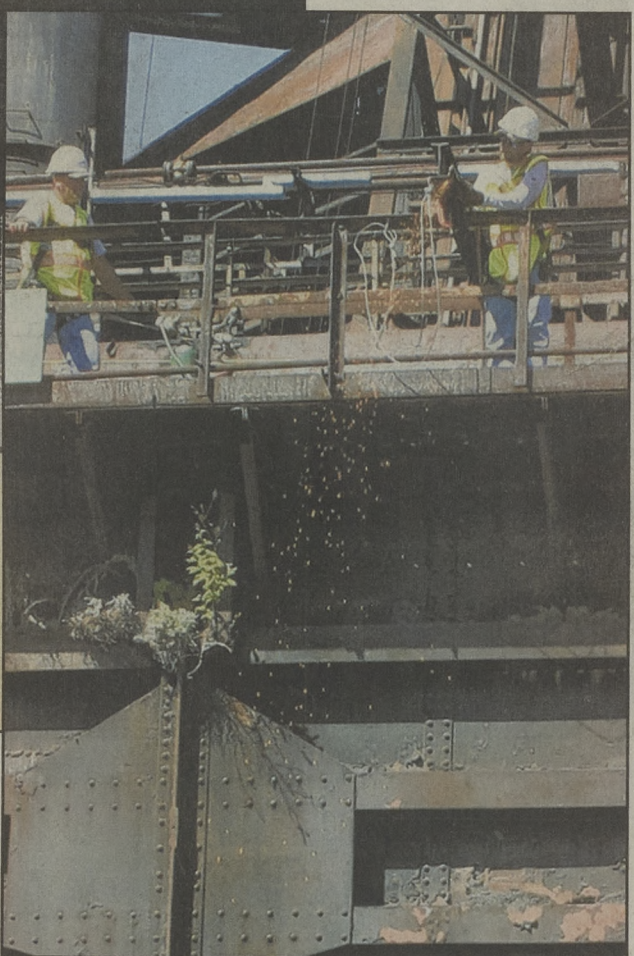

RUST, LONG dark drops and even small trees will make way for a safe "boardwalk" featuring bits of city and steel history and a view of much of an enlivened Southside entertainment district.

ABOVE: Mayor John Callahan says there's no ground to officially break, so to get the project started he calls up to the trestle proper ...

INSERT: ...for two Boyle Construction members to symbolically cut an I-beam, perhaps the most well-known symbol of Bethlehem Steel's legacy.

ment and a death.
"We have to figure out how to make it work," said Roy of moving to a centralized system.
In other news it was also recommended by Giordano that the BASD move to an electronic time clock system, moving away from the current paper system. By using an electronic system to keep track of employee timecards, employees will be paid accurately with no mistakes.
Upon hearing this, Director William Burkhardt said, "How can you go wrong if it manages our time?"
Following some questions about the cost of cards to clock in and out of the electronic system, Business Manager Stacy Gober informed the board that there would not be an additional card; employees would use the same card that gives them access to school buildings to clock in and out.
If approved, the new system would be phased in gradually starting with the transportation department. The estimated cost of the system would be $65,312, plus the time clocks at state contract price of $2,371 each.
"It is going to help us in a variety of important ways," said Giordano.

Lehigh team partners with community

CONTRIBUTED PHOTO

ONCE AGAIN THE Lehigh University lacrosse team and the City of Bethlehem's parks and recreation department have partnered on a clean-up project that is designed to build team camaraderie through performing a community service. On Aug. 28 about 50 Lehigh lacrosse players descended on the city's park property near the Earl Schaffer Ice Rink and Memorial Pool to perform clearing tasks. Armed with shovels, pitchforks and saws, they cleared overgrowth around the rink and from trails near the pool where local school cross country teams run. "Bethlehem is our home and we take pride in that," said head coach Kevin Cassese. Lehigh's lacrosse team is the 2012 and 2013 Patriot League champion, and Cassese is assisted by Brendan Callahan, Will Scudder and Errol Wilson on the coaching end. Senior team leader is Ty Souders from Emmaus. ABOVE: Nearly 50 Lehigh University lacrosse team members don work clothes and grab shovels, pitchforks and pruning saws to clean up overgrown areas of city park property near the Earl Schaffer Ice Rink and Memorial Pool, in what has become an annual team building and community service project. "I value the relationship that has been built between Lehigh lacrosse and the City of Bethlehem," said head coach Kevin Cassese.

PENNSYLVANIA GOVERNOR Tom Corbett chats with Trudy Singley of Hazleton. Corbett was at a Lehigh Valley Health Network facility in the Cedar Crest Professional Park Sept. 17 for a live demonstration of a telemedicine hookup with Hazleton General Hospital. Singley, an emergency room nurse at the Hazleton hospital, herself became a patient last October when she suffered a stroke. A telemedicine consultation from the Hazleton General Hospital with a Lehigh Valley Hospital neurologist (Dr. Christian Schumacher, at right) resulted in Singley's transport to LVH for treatment within two hours of her stroke. St. Luke's helps pay for projects

By LEO ATKINSON
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Fountain Hill Borough Council President Larry Rapp announced at the Sept. 18 work session that St. Luke's Hospital is giving the borough $335,629.

The money will be divided to help pay for three projects: $250,000 toward the Delaware Avenue reconstruction project; $50,000 toward replacing fuel tanks at the public works building; and $35,629 toward the Brighton Street sewer project.

In other news, signs will be installed in Stanley Avenue Park asking visitors not to smoke. Mayor Jose Rosado had asked the council to look into banning smoking at the Sept. 3 council meeting.

Smoking is banned at the Fountain Hill Pool, but Council member Norman Blatt Jr. cautioned against an outright ban in the park. Blatt said visitors should not have to worry about government regulations everywhere they go.

"We're not going to fine you if you [smoke]," Rosado said, "but we are asking people to be more considerate." Rosado went on to say parents accompanying children to the park should try to be positive role models.

Council member Ed Stetch thanked Lowe's for its Hometown Heroes grant, which paid to replace the roof on the Stanley Avenue Park pavilion and to rebuild the picnic tables underneath. Rapp agreed, calling the new roof "spectacular." Public Works Supervisor Jim Levernier applied for the grant earlier this year.

Police Chief Ed Bachert announced the hiring of two part-time police officers. Michelle Geiger and Teddy Kisker-avager will join the Fountain Hill Police Department, bringing the total number of part-time officers to nine.

Councilmembers Fred Capuano and Carolee Gifford were absent from the workshop.

District considers use of students' iPads

By MARK RECCEK
Special to the Bethlehem Press

The Saucon Valley School District wants to stay current with technology.

During the school board's Sept. 10 meeting, the board discussed a pilot program that would permit freshmen to bring their own iPad devices to school. The school district last year implemented a one-to-one iPad program with its seventh grade class. The program this year expanded to the eighth grade.

Due to time restrictions with implementing the program in all four grades at the high school level and costs associated with purchasing and maintaining the devices, the district is now considering allowing students to use their own devices.

Assistant Superintendent Carl Atkinson said the program would reduce costs within the district.

"It tends to be cost-effective," he said. "It's theirs. It's their property. They own it."

Although cost effective, Atkinson said allowing students to use their own devices might prove to be a challenge and burden to the teachers.

"It creates a tremendous amount of variability and diversity within your classroom," he said. "It becomes very complicated, very quickly."

Atkinson did say the district might consider restricting the device to one particular type and model.

Board member Sandra Miller noted because some families may not own a device or be able to afford one, individual students might be looked down upon by their peers.

"We do have a decent population here that do have some economic disadvantages that people have to recognize," she said. "There's some real stigmas and things we would really have to address."

Atkinson said the district would provide devices to those students who do not own one. Board member Bryan Eichfeld said he prefers using district devices because the school controls the information that can be accessed by the student.

Atkinson said the district may consider using products other than Apple, depending on costs and reliability.

"It's our intent here is to try to get ahead of the curve," Atkinson added. "It's a changing world." Also during the meeting, new board member Eric Adams was sworn in. Adams is replacing former board member Lanita Lum, who resigned last month.

Board considers uniforms

By AMY HERZOG
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Director Basillio Bonilla Jr. fielded creating a school uniform policy at the BASD School Board meeting Sept. 9.

Upon seeing other local school districts implement school uniform policies and talking to principals and teachers in BASD schools, Bonilla cited a need for school uniforms in the district.

Bonilla read a prepared statement to the board about the benefits of school uniforms and his personal experience in school without them.

He said that it is difficult to enforce the current dress code and the learning process is impeded by teachers having to take time to address dress code violations. He also said he would like to see a steering committee formed on school uniforms and the dress code policy.

"It is evident there are flaws in the dress code that make it difficult for teachers and administrators to enforce the code. As a former student of this district I can't tell you how many times a student was stopped in the hall or a class was disrupted because of another student's inappropriate dress attire," said Bonilla.

He said some benefits of having uniforms in the schools are the ability of teachers and staff to quickly identify intruders, a boost to school spirit, elimination of gangs and improved discipline.

While Director Eugene McKeon said he agrees with having school uniforms, he wants to leave implementing them to the administration.

The consensus of the school board was to not address implementing school uniforms in the BASD for the 2014-15 school year due to the amount of time needed to discuss it. The time is needed to discuss other major projects taking place this year such as the new Nitschmann MS. They opted to discuss uniforms at another time, but not for the next school year.

Bonilla expressed his disappointment with the decision and said the board had done a disservice to the students.

In other news Breslin, Ridyard, Fadero Architects, the firm chosen to build the new Nitschmann MS was asked to re-evaluate its proposal and have lowered its fee. The project will still have all the services discussed during a meeting Aug. 19, but will now cost $2.25 million.

The board then had a discussion on whether accepting the lower fee was correct or if other firms with low bids have been approached to re-work their

Meadows Road

Lower Saucon Township Public Works Department has begun a project on Meadows Road to install streamflow deflectors and rip-rap stone along the upstream bend of the Saucon Creek.

This emergency work is needed due to the erosion of the streambank from recent storms which is threatening the loss of the roadway. The project is expected to take two weeks to complete.

During this time, Meadows Road will be closed to all traffic from Route 412 to the Meadows Road Bridge. Motorists traveling on Route 412 will be able to reach Meadows Road via Walnut Street-Skibo Road.

Greenway extension reviewed

By DANA GRUBB
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Plans to extend the Southside Greenway toward Saucon Park were recently reviewed with members of the Southside Vision 2014 open space committee. Justin Keller, from the consulting firm Simone Collins Landscape Architecture, reviewed plans to construct the roughly three-quarter mile long $400,000 project.

Keller explained that much of the greenway would be constructed using asphalt, due to the grade, with the remainder using a compacted stone material. The route will disturb as few trees as possible and will track as far as possible from an adjoining Norfolk Southern rail yard to provide a buffer. An eight-foot-high fence has already been erected to restrict access to active railways.

The Greenway will cross over the Saucon Creek near the entrance to Saucon Park and require various improvements to the existing concrete bridge, including removal of the existing fill material, installing an impermeable liner, adding an aggregate surface, installing safety fencing and adding seating so walkers, bikers and runners might enjoy the view. Existing railroad towers JUSTIN KELLER of Simone Collins Landscape Architecture explains plans for phase four construction of the Southside Greenway to members of Southside Vision 2014 open space committee.

PHASE FOUR will begin at the current terminus of the Greenway near East Sixth Street just east of the Lynn Avenue Bridge and extend approximately 3/4 of a mile toward Saucon Park and ending near an Auburn Street cul-de-sac.

will remain and be secured.

Members of the committee were advised that construction was anticipated to begin during the spring 2014 construction season and take three to four months.

Funding for this phase comes from the Pa. Dept. of Conservation and Natural Resources ($200,000), Lehigh Valley Industrial Park ($75,000), Majestic Realty ($75,000) and the City ($50,000).

The city is pursuing additional funds to build a connection to Saucon Park near the railroad bridge.

have been approached to re-work their figures.

Bonilla objected to putting Breslin on the agenda for a vote at the next meeting. He said he is against any bid that costs money that can be saved for the taxpayers.

Several members of the public also spoke out against the way the board selected the architect for the Nitschmann MS project.

"The conversation I heard tonight about this architect debacle frightens me. You either have a bid or you have a request for quotation; one gives you some wiggle room, one doesn't," said resident Jack Toy. "I did not like the conversation on this; it sounds like someone was low but didn't get the bid because someone's presentation was better than the low bidder."

The board was able to reach a consensus to put the finalization of the architect selection on the agenda for the next regular board meeting Sept. 23.

Flooring Remodeling Decorating Handyman Service & Much More... Just Ask!

SALE-A-BRATING OUR 1st YEAR!

Great Prices on the Very Best Service

Our sincerest thanks to our friends and neighbors for all of the support. We love what we do, and we could not do it without you!

You've Got Questions? We've Got Answers!

Why should I choose Fillman & Sons?

We provide the most competent installation experience available in the Lehigh Valley. No job is too small, no obstacle is too tall. We are easy to deal with, and treat our customers like family.

Do you run any sales?

Sure, we run promotions from time to time. But more importantly, our entire showroom is priced to sell every day of the week. We are here to make a living, not a killing.

What separates you from the competition?

In our industry, we are truly an anomaly. The chain stores cannot compete with our knowledge and service. The neighborhood floor stores are more concerned with their bottom line, than with yours. At Fillman & Sons we encourage you to shop around, as there really is no comparison!

Does Fillman & Sons do anything besides flooring?

Absolutely! Not only do we offer other services, but they are part of what we do everyday. We do countertops, window treatments, painting, paper hanging, backsplashes, custom bathrooms, etc. We even offer a handyman service! There is very little we do not do within the home, so if you are not sure, JUST ASK!

Wrestling changes coming at districts

Nothing new on Lehigh Valley Conference-Mountain Valley Conference merger

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

District 11 announced that changes to the team wrestling tournament will be under way for the upcoming season.

Instead of having 10-team formats in both 3A and 2A, 12-team tournaments will now be used moving forward.

The qualified teams and seeds will no longer be determined by a committee as in previous years, rather through the power point system that the district has used in most sports over the past two years.

The tournaments will also change from a single-elimination standpoint, to double-elimination once the quarterfinals get under way, pairing the consolation winner and the finals runner-up in "the ultimate qualifier" bout, giving that winner the second and final spot to the PIAA team wrestling tournament.

The added teams and bouts will also change the venues, as the tournament, in its entirety, will no longer be held at Freedom on a Friday-Saturday format.

The opening night of the tournament will begin on Thursday, Jan. 30, as the lower eight seeds (5 vs. 12, 6 vs. 11, 7 vs. 10 and 8 vs. 9) will square off at sites to be determined.

Winners of those bouts will then move on to Saturday's (Feb. 1) events at Freedom, where they will meet the top four seeds and begin the double-elimination phase. Losers of Thursday's bouts are eliminated from the tournament.

Both 3A and 2A finals will be held at 5:30 p.m. on Feb. 1, but the newly minted "ultimate qualifier" bout will take center stage at 7:30 p.m. as the grand spectacle.

As far as the potential merger of the Lehigh Valley Conference and Mountain Valley Conference, it appears to be a waiting game at this point.

All MVC schools have received their letters of invitation and a response on whether each specific school wants to join the LVC is due by October 1.

That's when things will start to move quickly for both leagues. "At this point, all the schools are talking to their upper administration to figure out what each school wants to do," said Stroudsburg principal and MVC president Jeff Sodl. "Once all the schools send in their response, that's when all the nuts and bolts of the conference need to be finalized. We'll need to figure out divisions, schedules and all the details, really by November, because we need to start generating schedules and working on non-conference opponents before the new year."

Hawks fly into contest with reeling Liberty

Michael McDaniel scored four touchdowns in Becahi's victory over Northampton last week.

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

If you were a betting man before the season, the odds heading into this week's Liberty and Bethlehem Catholic contest would certainly have been different in August than they are right now.

A 3-1 start by the Golden Hawks has Becahi as the leaders in the city entering this week's matchup against Liberty (2-2).

The Hurricanes are coming off a 34-6 loss at home to Parkland (3-1) last week, while Becahi trumped a desperate Northampton team 41-24 on the road last week.

Both teams now head into a huge midseason bout at Frank Banko Field Saturday afternoon to get the first jab at real city supremacy.

"Liberty's a good team with a lot of skill position players on that roster," said Becahi head coach Joe Henrich. "They are a dangerous team and will be a challenge for us."

Henrich also knows that the other danger heading into this game is that his team isn't an overlooked cupcake on the schedule anymore.

The Hawks were favorites last week against Northampton and took care of business, racking up 314 yards on the ground against the K-Kids.

Quarterback Julian Spigner rushed for 128 yards on the night, while Mike McDaniel tailed him with 127 yards and four TD's on the ground, while Spigner threw two TD passes as well.

GOLF

Hsu takes first place

By TODD KRESS
Special to the Press

Freedom's Helen Hsu previously had her two best rounds of the season at Bethlehem Golf Club, the team's home course throughout 2013.

And while Monday's round of 77 at the 2013 Lehigh Valley Conference Golf Championships was a few strokes higher than those previous trips, Hsu's score awarded her first place in the girls tournament.

She finished three strokes ahead of second-place finisher Franca Hurtado of Central Catholic, and her 77 was among the top-10 golfers overall on the day. Her 77 was five strokes below her season average as well.

"I'm playing with really good girls like Kelsey [Patterson], Sam [Fritzingler], Franca [Hurtado], and Loran [Pritchard]," Hsu said. "I knew it was going to be tough. I just had to play my own game and see where I landed.

"I shot two 74s earlier this season, so I know what I'm capable of."

After finishing in 2nd place in last season's league championships, Hsu put together a solid, steady round to outlast the rest of her competition. Her putting, which included six saved pars, was a key factor in leading the girls side.

"My iron was a little bit off," Hsu said. "I don't really know why, but I saved it with my short game, which is good because I've been trying to get better with that the whole season."

She also believes her familiarity with the course was an advantage down the stretch. Other than shooting a three-over in the last three holes, Hsu remained around three-over par for the day.

Freedom wins 10th match

By KATIE MCDONALD
kmcDonald@tnonline.com

Freedom's girls tennis team boosted its record to 10-3 with a 6-1 victory over Bethlehem Catholic last Thursday.

At number one singles, Flannery Johnston (F) defeated Taylor Treadwell (BC) 6-3, 6-2.

"She was hitting it pretty hard most of the time. I got down 30-love, 40-love, and I knew if I got mad, I'd lose, so I tried to stay calm. When I play calm, I get into a longer rally and eventually win," Johnston said.

Patience was the key to Johnston's victory on Thursday.

"I have a cold and haven't been feeling great. When my serve got in, it helped, but mainly, it was patience. It definitely could have gone the other way," she said.

After a slow start, Johnston hit a short ball hard down the line, winning the first game.

"That's when I felt like I could win the match," said Johnston.

At number two singles, Kayleigh DiNoto (F) defeated Emily Hozza (BC) 6-1, 6-2, and at number three singles, Federica Maranzana (F) defeated Meghan McGovern (BC) 6-0, 6-1.

Bethlehem Catholic's Lena Rose DeLorenzo and Lexie Rusin defeated Freedom's Gabriella Green and Madison McTier 8-6 at number one doubles.

Elizabeth McCarthy and Marissa Mele (F) were victorious at number two doubles over Brooke Adams and Alex Madison (BC) 6-4, 6-2. At number three doubles, Corrine Marchese and Kaitlyn Swint (F) defeated Tori Evert and Sam Macaluso (BC) 6-7, 6-2, 7-5.

Jasmeet Kaur and Janessa Scherrman (F) won at number four doubles over Raquel Jouvin and Liah Perez (BC) 6-3, 6-1.

Kaur said, "We had a lot of teamwork, and we communicated a lot. We worked a lot on our cross-court. I was actually nervous for Beca."

Both seniors, Kaur and Scherrman are playing together this season for the first time.

Scherrman said, "We had a lot of net challenges. The first set started to get close at 5-3. Last year, [Freedom] lost [to Beca], so we really wanted to take down our rival."

Pates, 'Canes get wins

By KATIE MCDONALD
kmcDonald@tnonline.com

Freedom's 2-0 victory over Whitehall in boys soccer last Saturday night was a win in the nick of time for the struggling Patriots.

Recent losses to Northampton and Parkland in which Freedom played well could have taken a toll, but the Patriots responded with a win over the Zephyrs under the lights at BASD Stadium in the rain and without senior goalkeeper Josh Wasilik.

Sophomore, John Eltringham, stepped in for Wasilik, who is recovering from a concussion, with seven saves.

"It was tough at points, but we had it in control. It was tougher with the rain on the turf. I felt some pressure, but I was composed and felt more comfortable. This is the victory we needed to have," Eltringham said.

The Patriots scored both goals in the first period.

BY BOB BRANDMEIR

Anthony Santilli and the Hawks fell 2-1 to Whitehall last week.

Jake Banas took a pass from Diego Hernandez, dribbled up the middle, and scored.

Also in the first period, Alex Thomas tried to create a scoring opportunity, slamming the ball off a Whitehall defender for Freedom's second goal.

Banas said, "It feels great, great. We needed a couple. Once we start going and progressing, we should increase our wins. We're definitely keeping our heads up." Freedom coach Michael O'Connell, has been working with his Patriots on commitment and control.

"There's been a kind of progression. The physical part can be fun, but they have to be committed to [the whole game]. We've been talking a lot about that. The Northampton game was a good game. The Parkland game was a good game, but Parkland had control of that. I saw more winning the ball tonight," O'Connell said.

Also last week, Liberty defeated Dieruff 3-2 in double overtime.

The Huskies led at half-time 2-1, but the Hurricanes tied in the second period. Colin Muller scored the winning goal in overtime. Liberty's other goals were scored by Chase Tackett and Felipe Alfonso. Mike Visparos had two assists.

Bethlehem Catholic fell to Whitehall 2-1 when the Zephyrs scored the winning goal with 1:30 left in the game. Marcin Boraganli scored in the second period for the Hawks.

MORAVIAN UPDATE

The Moravian College volleyball team dropped two contests at a tri-match with Lycoming College at Marymount University on Saturday afternoon.

The Greyhounds (5-8) fell in straight sets to Lycoming (25-23, 25-21, 25-18) in the first match before succumbing 3-1 to host Marymount (25-21, 25-20, 17-25, 25-15).

Senior setter Kelly Brown (Bethlehem, Pa./Bethlehem Catholic) became the third player in Moravian College history to join the 3,000-assist club with her efforts Saturday. She finished the day with 3,007 career assists. Brown also moved into a fourth-place tie in the school record books with 1,335 digs.

SOCCER

Sophomore goalkeeper Brian Boland (King's Park, N.Y./St. Anthony's) and the Moravian College men's soccer team posted the season's first clean sheet in a 0-0 double-overtime draw at Lebanon Valley College on Saturday, Sept. 14.

Senior Justin Dilts (Toms River, N.J./Toms River North), junior Lewis Cooper (Royersford, Pa./Spring-Ford), sophomore Austin Niekrasz (Point Pleasant, N.J./Point Pleasant Boro) and freshman Ian Larimer (Bethlehem, Pa./Liberty) all chipped in to a paltry Greyhound backline.

FHS cheerleaders back to basics

By KATIE MCDONALD
kmcDonald@tnonline.com

Freedom High School's cheerleaders are going back to basics while still adding flair to their routines this season, as Coach Lynn Spina's focus will be school spirit during her first year as the Patriots' head coach.

"So far, so good. I came in with a plan, but I have a lot to learn as I go along. Fortunately, I have strong seniors who are helping me along the way," Spina said.

Captains for the 2013-2014 season are Danae Morgan and Rebecca Coriell. Co-captains are Allyson Picione and Taylor Lezak.

Spina is finding that it's the details that are one of her biggest challenges, such as the best way to contact parents, the cheerleaders' roles in school, and throwing candy at football games, just to name a few.

Spina is a Freedom alumnus, and her son, Kyle, was a football player for the Patriots, so her familiarity with the cheers themselves has been helpful, along with assistants, Ausjoli Nieves and Courtney Norder.

Also new for the Patriot cheerleaders will be more involvement with the infamous Riot Squad, led this year by student, Evan Anthony.

Spina said, "The Riot Squad is working with the cheerleaders and the student council in a collaborative effort to support the school."

This past weekend, the Patriots had a beach theme for their football game against East Stroudsburg, and every week will be a new theme, along with many surprises throughout the high school sports season.

In addition, the Freedom cheerleading competition squad is preparing for its first competition later this year. The Patriots will also participate in Easton High School's competition, Bethlehem Catholic High School's competition, and the District XI competition, scheduled for Jan. 11.

CROSS COUNTRY

Pates win another meet

By KATIE MCDONALD
kmcDonald@tnonline.com

Freedom's boys cross country team extended its win streak last week, defeating Parkland 25-36 and Whitehall 19-42.

Ben Ziegler placed first for the Patriots, third overall, behind two Parkland runners. Dan Quigley was fourth, and Jason Lopez placed fifth. Chris Kelly finished in ninth place, and Will Alpaugh finished in tenth. Tommy Salerno placed 11th, and Shane Smith placed 13th.

Kelly said, "We just wanted to beat [Parkland] as bad as we could. They were hit hard by graduation.

Anticipating continued success this season, the Patriots have also been competing in invitationals.

"We've been through enough invitationals, and we have more to go. It's a completely different kind of race. The main point is to get more experience on the state course and face quality competition so we can do better in the state meet," said Kelly.

The Patriots' most recent invitational was the PIAA Foundation Invitational on Saturday in Hershey when Freedom took fourth place out of 30 teams in Class AAA.

Liberty competed in the same invitational, finishing in 14th place.

Last week, the Hurricane boys lost to Parkland 21-40 and Whitehall 24-32.

Liberty was led by Alex Fitch, who placed eighth. Roberto Marrero placed 12th, also for the Hurricanes.

Bethlehem Catholic scored its first two victories of the season, defeating Allen 25-32 and Dieruff 20-41.

John Donchez placed first for the Hawks, third overall. Teammates, Trevor Kleckner placed sixth, Andrew Schaffer placed 14th, Quinn Stasia was 19th, and Chris Landolfi was 20th.

Bethlehem Catholic's girls cross country team also defeated Allen 15-50 and Dieruff 15-50.

Kassi Yocco paced first for the Hawks, sixth overall. Rowan Pepe finished in ninth place, Courtney Gamber finished in 19th place, and Megan Tucker was 20th.

Liberty's girls defeated Whitehall 26-31 but lost to Parkland 15-49.

Nikki Nelson placed first for the Hurricanes, tenth overall. Teammates, Raisa Kochmaruk finished in 14th place, Rachel Finn placed 18th, and Julie Vernarr was 20th.

Freedom's girls also split their meet, defeating Whitehall 22-33 and losing to Parkland 22-37.

Shaina Palmer placed first for the Patriots, second overall behind Parkland's Mikayla Stout by .22 seconds. Olivia Salerno finished in fourth place, and Bridget Tarnowski finished in eighth, both for Freedom.

Becahi resurrected last week, which is probably a similar scenario for the Golden Hawk faithful heading into this week's encounter with Liberty.

"It's probably been a long time since we've been favorites in a game," said Henrich of last week's expectations before Northampton. "It was a good learning experience for our guys, because we didn't play our best game against Northampton, but we still found ways to win."

"Outside of being natural rivals with Liberty, I don't think this game is more important than any other one on our schedule. We want to win, but it's not going to be the end of the world if we don't."

Liberty must still remember last year's 14-13 defeat a year ago at the hands of Becahi to hand the Hawks their first and only win last season.

Following last week's demolition against Parkland, head coach John Truby is looking for improvement heading into this game.

"They beat us up in all phases of the game," said Truby of Parkland. "They flat out just beat us up everywhere. I think our kids backed off and didn't play as hard as we could have, which leads us to having a lot more questions that need to be answered. Parkland came out and just wanted it more."

Parkland led 17-6 at halftime last week and opened the second half with a methodical 17-play drive that devoured the first 8:13 of the half, which led to a 34-yard field goal by Jake Bissell to build a 20-6.

Bissell was an exclamation point on the night in whipping the Hurricanes, as he nailed two field goals and blasted kickoffs into the end zone.

Josiah Wright and the 'Canes will take on Becahi this week.

As Parkland dominated both on offense and defense, Bissell proved to be another valuable special teams weapon, showing everyone that he is the best kicker in the LVC.

That gave Parkland a three-pronged attack that Liberty could never recover from, as the Trojans grinded out 261 yards on the ground, led by quarterback Devante Cross and running back Kareem Williams each rushing for 102 yards.

Williams rushed for two TD's and Cross added one score from the ground, as Parkland scored 27 unanswered points following a 7-6 first quarter.

"It was a complete collapse," Truby said against Parkland. "A lot of the mistakes we made are on us as a staff and hopefully against Becahi, things will change because that is a rivalry game. We'll look at film and go over things, but we need some things to change."

Freedom (1-3) appears to be set for a difficult season, as the Patriots lost to Emmaus 33-13 last week.

It was a long night for the Pates right from the opening kickoff, as Emmaus Wyl Miller returned the kick to Freedom's 13-yard line.

Miller would score two plays later to give Emmaus a 7-0 lead less than a minute into the contest.

Things got worse for Freedom in the first half, when Emmaus turned two turnovers into touchdowns, as Tom Bisko returned a fumble 29-yards for a score late in the first, while Kyzir White picked off Pates' QB Jonah Gundrum for a 90-yard interception return for a score to stifle a potential Freedom scoring drive and build a 19-0 lead with 11:43 left in the first half.

The Pates did get some positives to work off with a 15-play drive that lasted over seven minutes in the third quarter, capped off by a one-yard TD run by Loudon Klotz.

The Patriots look to turn things around this week when they host Nazareth Friday night at Frank Banko Field, as both teams are coming off losses to LVC foes.

toward the back end of the season, which has resulted in games not being made up for various reasons.

This season, if the district committee believes a school failed to work all options to make up a contest, their power rating will be multiplied by a percentage lower than 100 percent.

Also, wins and losses against non-PIAA opponents will count toward the record, but will not be used in the power rating formula.

Lastly, the only other major news is the unsettling future of where the District 11 baseball championships will take place.

Coca-Cola Park has been the latest and preferred home for all four District 11 championships, but scheduling and costs are always factors that need to be determined in order to play at the home of the Iron Pigs.

The Lehigh Valley Baseball Academy provided a sponsorship of $4,000 last year to offset costs of playing the championships at Coca-Cola Park, but what will happen in the spring of 2014 is still up in the air.

"Our primary objective is to stay at Coca-Cola Park," said Catasauqua athletic director Tom Moll. "The Iron Pigs schedule has been accommodating to us, but we don't know what there schedule is for next year. The sponsorship from last year helped significantly as well, but we're working on where we're going to be playing these games next year."

Limeport, Parkland, Hackett Park and Pine Grove were all sites used last year for semifinal contests and would be in contention to host the finals should things with the Iron Pigs fall through. Local college venues are also being considered.

Becahi loses in tri-match against Hornets, Trojans

By TYLER TRUMBAUER
Special to the Press

Bethlehem Catholic knew going into Brookside Country Club last Wednesday that their match with Parkland and Emmaus was a must-win to keep their Lehigh Valley Conference title hopes alive.

Unfortunately for the Golden Hawks, the Hornets were flying the lowest.

Emmaus (410) defeated Parkland (414) and Becahi (418) in a tri-match last Wednesday afternoon at Brookside Country Club that had a postseason atmosphere to it. Emmaus's low score not only gave them two victories from the tri-match, but it also clinched them the LVC championship.

Emmaus's head coach, Mike Mihalik, talked about his team and their success this fall.

"I am extremely, extremely proud that these guys could beat Northampton, Parkland and Bethlehem Catholic this year. I don't care where the course was, the bottom line is that on those days our guys were better than their guys. That is what it is all about. That is why we won the conference this year."

The Green Hornets, who finished the season with a perfect 11-0 record, benefited from their home course advantage as Grant Schumaker shot a 75 to go along with the 78 of Carlos Fullerton, the 82 by Kelsey Patterson, Mike Lessel's 86 and the 89 shot by Kevin Caverly.

The match summoned the USGA rules book before it concluded as Parkland's Brian Cummings's putt on the 18th struck the flag stick that was rested on the green.

That infraction levies a two-stroke penalty, however Cummings didn't take the penalty and signed his scorecard as did Max Harrington of Emmaus to confirm the score. Realizing the error after the signatures, both Harrington and Cummings were disqualified for signing incorrect scorecards.

Even though Becahi (8-3) came up a bit short in this match head coach Tim McGorry was pleased that his team got this opportunity.

"I'm proud of our kids to get to this point where we had a chance to do something successful today. It ended up closer than I expected. We lost by four shots to Parkland and eight to Emmaus. I'm disappointed, but I'm happy that we were at a point where we could have won this one."

The Golden Hawks were in the match the whole time as all five top scorers shot sub-90 rounds. Nick Maff shot a 78, JT Barker an 80, Sean Fritz 86, Zach Surovy 87 and Mike Duffy topped it off with an 87 of his own.

Looking ahead to post-season play, McGorry is optimistic, but realistic at the same time.

"I'm excited for what is coming up, but we are not playing well right now. We need to get better. I'm excited and I think we will do well."

Becahi came out victorious eight times this fall. They are hoping to emerge from districts with the biggest win, the one that crowns them District 11 AAA Golf Champions.

Other notable changes from District 11 include more weight given to the result of a contest through the power rating system.

Last year, there was a 55/45 split given to the result of a contest/compared to strength of schedule. This year the criteria has shifted to a 59/41 formula.

This year, teams who fail to make up scheduled contests, will be punished in the power rating as well. This action would come into play primarily in the spring with sports like baseball and softball, where weather issues have forced postponements of contests toward the back end of the season, which has resulted in games not being made up for various reasons.

This season, if the district committee believes a school failed to work all options to make up a contest, their power rating will be multiplied by a percentage lower than 100 percent.

Also, wins and losses against non-PIAA opponents will count toward the record, but will not be used in the power rating formula.

Despite taking home the top spot in leagues for the girls, Hsu has her eyes set on a district repeat in a few weeks.

"Hopefully this can get me prepared for Districts, which I know is going to be tough because there's like five or six girls, and there's only three spots," Hsu said.

"I know that this isn't districts, and I'm really crossing my fingers for districts."

Bethlehem Catholic's JT Baker and Nick Maff had top-10 finishes on the day. Baker led the Hawks with a score of 75 and a

With both Parkland and Emmaus tied in the team standings after five golfers, the Trojans were named tournament champions after a tiebreaker of both team's sixth golfer was the deciding factor.

CHRISTIAN WEBER and Crystal Olah are prepared to wait out the rain at the "Rooftop White" fundraiser in downtown historic Bethlehem. The Bethlehem couple were among an estimated 200 who ignored the rain to join the party.

YOU COULD say these young "Rooftop White" partygoers are "the cat's meow." Dan Gregory of Nazareth escorted Bethlehem flappers Lisa Flores and Razan Qammaz, who were definitely contenders for the best-dressed prize.

Gatsby meets Boardwalk Empire

By CAROLE GORNEY

An estimated 200 people, many dressed in 1920s-style all-white costumes, braved rain and wind earlier this summer to attend Bethlehem's fourth annual "Rooftop White Party," jointly sponsored by the Downtown Bethlehem Association, the Greater Lehigh Valley Chamber of Commerce and the Bethlehem Parking Authority. Part of the proceeds from the event went to help fund a security system to protect the stalls of off-duty police horses that have been victims of intruder violence in the past.

This year's theme, "The Great Gatsby Meets the Boardwalk Empire," was the brainchild of Karen Merkel, owner of Girlfriends Boutique in downtown Bethlehem and chair of the event. Merkel said the recent release of the movie version of the F. Scott Fitzgerald novel and the popularity of the Boardwalk Empire television series made for a natural pairing.

The "Slicked-up Nine," an eight-piece swing band – yes, eight – helped set the mood and add to the festivities. Trophies were awarded to the best swing dancers, as well as to the best dressed flappers and their escorts.

Held on the top floor of the North Street Parking Garage, the rooftop party idea was created four years ago by downtown Bethlehem merchants, who wanted to create awareness of the then-new parking facility and attract residents to shop in the historic district.

Other sponsors this year were Girlfriends Boutique, BPS, 99.9 Hawk, Lehigh Valley Style, Halde-man Ford, Balloon Works, Bud Light, Valley Beat, and the Sands Bethlehem Event Center.

EVENT CHAIR Karen Merkel is equipped with the right prop for the theme "The Great Gatsby Meets Boardwalk Empire." She is a member of the board of director of the Downtown Bethlehem Merchants Association, one of the sponsors of the annual rooftop party at the North Street Parking Garage.

ARIELLE Toolen-Rogers and Eric Cesare, both of Bethlehem, dare to be different at the fourth-annual "Rooftop White Party," where everyone was encouraged to dress in white costumes from the 1920s.

Grade: 11th
Family members: I have a twin sister, Emily, and a sister who is in her second year at University of Delaware, Rachel. I also have my parents, Anne and Roland.

Favorite subject(s): I really enjoy math and science because they come naturally to me and there is always a specific process that can be followed to obtain an answer. I also like learning about history to see how and why things happened. I've enjoyed english classes because they've introduced me to some really exciting literature.

Activities: Grenadier Band and First Company, Orchestra, Fellowship of Christian Athletes, Varsity Cross Country, Track, Gourmet Group, Relay for Life, Science Olympiad and Stage Crew.

Next steps: Major in political science, with a specialty in international relations. Then attend law school.

Career goals: To become a lawyer and a politician.

Heroes: My grandparents because they have set great examples for me in the way they act.

Hobbies: I love to travel.
Volunteer/community work: I have gone on several week long mission trips, taught Sunday school to little kids, and volunteered around the community. In doing this, I have amassed over 200 hours of community service.

Likes: I love working with people and making a difference while having fun.

Dislikes: I don't like when people complain about things.

Greatest accomplishment (so far): Definitely my greatest accomplishment so far has been to honor God and my family in everything I do. I'm especially proud of raising $3,000 to send to Haiti when I was in seventh grade.

Advice for peers: My advice would have to be that no matter what you are doing you should put your best effort in, in order to get great results. I think that a lot of people these days expect success to come easily, but in reality it can only be obtained through hard work.

LIBERTYNEWS

Changes will aid freshmen transition

In the past, Liberty has seen that the highest rates of class failures and students being held back have occurred in the incoming freshman classes. Whether it is due to the stress of longer classes, more homework, higher expectations, growing up or a tough life at home, the school has found that moving from middle school into the first year of high school is a time when students have difficulty achieving success. Students have been known to say later in their high school careers that they wished they had done better when they were a freshman. With the addition of wanting to better prepare students for the path of heading into the career field or into college, these reasons are a major part of why Principal Harrison Bailey III, and Assistant Principal Beth Guarriello took to reshaping the freshman experience.

One of the most noticeable differences is that a 'Freshman Center' was developed. The center is easy to locate as it is on the top two floors of Liberty's recognizable commons building. With hallways painted red and blue, as well as with inspirational quotes, the Freshman Center is aimed to build a stronger community within the freshman class. It is also designed so that it keeps freshmen from coming into contact with or creating heavy hallway traffic. The classes that are in the Freshman Center include English, history, mathematics and foreign languages. Incidentally, these classes are the ones that have been shortened to 45 minutes each and are the classes that freshmen have daily.

Guarriello has said that, "Teachers have commented that the students as a group seem to be more respectful, seem to be getting to class on time more frequently, and seem to be able to handle the 45-minute periods better than the full 90-minute block every day."

Science classes for freshmen still remain in the Lab Center and are held for 90 minutes every other day. Another class that is integrated into freshmen's schedules every other day is a 90-minute Freshman Seminar. The course is designed to work on organizational and study skills, to explore careers and colleges, and also to incorporate the use of technology in class. Teachers will also place more of an emphasis on writing throughout all of the subjects.

To help the freshmen there have been several orientation days, including one during August for students to meet some staff members and classmates. The second of the orientations was the first day of school, while upperclassmen had a three-hour delay. This orientation was to better acquaint the students with teachers, schedules, classrooms, lockers and the basics of how the school runs. The biggest change to orientation was the establishment of a Freshman Friday. This was a day on which students set goals, signed up for clubs during a sprawling activity fair, were mentored by student leaders on how to be successful, worked on teams, and learned to never give up.

"We have to start taking care of our own somewhere," Bailey said.

"This is a first step," Guarriello added.

Radiofrequency Denervation alleviates back pain non-surgically

Valley Pain Specialists, PC

We've seen good to excellent results observed in most patients.

Radiofrequency Denervation also referred to as "rhizotomy" is a procedure initially used exclusively by neurosurgeons to create neurodestructive lesions through the use of radiowaves. Today, in pain management facilities like ours, this procedure is done primarily for relief of facet joint spondylosis or arthritic pain of the spine.

As with many other treatments, patient selection is vital. The best candidates for this type of procedure are those with neck or back pain, facet joint tenderness, pain worse with extension, absence of significant leg or radicular pain and without major neurological deficits. These patients have generally failed other therapies including oral analgesics/anti-inflammatory medications, physical modalities, and spinal manipulation.

Risks of the procedure are very low. The procedure itself takes approximately 25 minutes and is done under X-ray guidance. Sedation is generally not required. Patients are usually discharged home within 20 minutes after the procedure, then seen in approximately two weeks to assess pain relief and improvement in function.

Results within our practice appear promising with good to excellent results observed in most patients. The majority of patients achieve greater than 80% percent pain relief on a long-term basis. Some patients are able to regain function that was lost secondary to pain or decreased range of motion.

For more information about Radiofrequency Denervation, contact Valley Pain Specialists at 610-954-9040.

Good Works Are Vital

In their zeal to clearly articulate the biblical truth that one can only be saved by trusting in Jesus Christ and not by trusting in their own good works, Evangelicals sometimes fail to emphasize the truth that subsequent to a genuine salvation conversion to Christ, good works are vital outward evidences of one's faith in Christ.

Both of these truths are clearly proclaimed in Eph. 2:8-10, "For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God: Not of works, lest any man should boast. For we are his workmanship, created in Christ Jesus unto good works, which God hath before ordained that we should walk in them." These two truths are also declared in Titus 3:5-8, "Not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to his mercy he saved us, by the washing of regeneration, and renewing of the Holy Ghost; Which he shed on us abundantly through Jesus Christ our Saviour...these things I will that thou affirm constantly, that they which have believed in God might be careful to maintain good works."

Jesus stated that believers' good works among men glorify God, "Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father" (Mt. 5:16). Non-Christians will glorify God by Christians' honesty, "they may by your good works, which they shall behold, glorify God" (1Pe. 2:12).

Titus 2:14 tells us that Jesus "gave himself for us, that he might redeem us from all iniquity, and purify unto himself a peculiar people, zealous of good works." Scriptures abound commanding the believer to "do good" and "be rich in good works" (1Ti. 6:18, Heb. 13:16) "fruitful in every good work" (Col. 1:10). Believers are "to maintain good works" and be "a pattern of good works" (Titus 2:7, 3:14). Many more biblical passages make it clear that good works are vital outward evidences of one's genuine faith in Christ.

Delaware & Lehigh National Heritage Corridor, National Canal Museum merge in time for 25th year

In 1988, the United States Congress designated the area from Wilkes-Barre, Luzerne County, to Bristol, Bucks County, as the Delaware & Lehigh National Heritage Corridor.

On Aug. 8, leaders of the Delaware & Lehigh National Heritage Corridor and the National Canal Museum signed an agreement to merge the two nonprofits to tell the story, "Where America was Built."

"It is time to celebrate all we have done and who we are," said Elissa Garofalo, D&L President-Executive Director.

Next year, the D&L Heritage Corridor will mark its 25th anniversary with many events and programs along the corridor and in communities along the trail.

"Today, we enter a new era with a new alignment, and a thoughtfully-crafted plan for the 'new normal,'" Garofalo said.

National Canal Museum Executive Director, Dr. Tom Stoneback, cited the corridor as a region "where geology met geography and genius."

The mules, Hank and George, will continue to provide the power to pull the boat.

The Lehigh Valley is approximately in the middle of the corridor, which follows the Lehigh and Delaware rivers, and which played an important part in the Industrial Revolution of the mid-1800s.

The corridor passes through three areas: the Wyoming Valley, Lehigh Valley and Delaware Valley. Visitors can explore the corridor while enjoying its beauty and the cultural heritage of the region. You may enjoy the attractions of the corridor by car, boat, bike or on foot.

My wife, Bev, and I use the trail and rivers for fishing, kayaking hiking, biking and walking with our Springer Spaniel, Blue. Dogs must be on a leash and owners must carry a bag for a dog's "duty." The sections between Cementon and Bowmanstown are those we frequent the most.

The 165-mile-long Delaware and Lehigh Trail, which is more than 82 per cent (135 miles) complete, passes through five counties, extending from the anthracite coal regions of Carbon and Luzerne counties to the river port of Bristol. A few sections of the trail are under negotiation for purchase and others are being constructed.

"D&L Trail, Towns & Culture, The Stone Coal Way," by Tom Shealey is a great resource. The guide includes corridor history, photographs, maps and destination information.

Tears are a good thing

Q. My eyes are dry a lot. Is this something common when you get older?

If your eyes seem to have become drier than normal to you, you should visit an eye doctor for a check-up.

Dry eyes are common in those older than 50 because our production of tears diminishes as we age. A lack of tears is more common among women, especially after menopause.

The tears film in your eyes has three basic layers: oil, water and mucus. Problems with any of these can cause dry eyes.

The outer layer of the tears film, which is produced by small glands on the edge of your eyelids, contains fatty oils. These smooth the tears surface and slow evaporation of the middle watery layer. If your oil glands don't produce enough oil, the watery layer evaporates too quickly, causing dry eyes.

The middle layer is mostly water with a little bit of salt. This layer, produced by the tear glands, cleanses your eyes. If the tear glands don't make enough of the watery part of tears, you get dry eyes.

The inner layer of mucus helps spread tears evenly over the surface of your eyes. If you don't have enough mucus to cover your eyes, dry spots can form on the front surface of the eye.

Tears are necessary for overall eye health and clear vision. Tears keep eyes moist and wash away debris. They also help protect the eyes from infections.

Dry eye can be caused by an inflammation or any disease that changes tears.

It can be caused by side effects from medicines including antihistamines, nasal decongestants, tranquilizers, blood pressure medicines, Parkinson's medications, birth control pills and anti-depressants.

Women on hormone replacement therapy may experience dry eye symptoms. Allergies are associated with dry eye. Infrequent blinking from staring at a computer or video screen, may also lead to dry eye symptoms.

Those who've had Lasik or other refractive surgery, where their corneas have reduced sensation because of incisions or tissue removal, may also experience dry eye. Those who wear contact lenses long term are at risk for developing dry eye.

Dry eye can damage the cornea, the clear, protective surface that covers the colored part of the eye, the iris. Permanent loss of vision from dry eye is uncommon.

Next week: Treatments for dry eye.

'Chocolate covered strawberry moments'

I've just carved out one Saturday a month to attend the Suncoast Writer's Guild meetings. While there are writer's groups all over, the Suncoast Guild has many exceptional members.

I'm happy to oblige when they sometimes ask me to present a writing seminar for them. But I find they teach me as much as I teach them.

I don't have the same aspirations of the other guild members. I don't want to write a book, as most of the other members are doing. I've always loved newspaper writing and I'm content to concentrate on that.

And to tell the truth, the guild members are much more ambitious than I am. I like being with them because their creativity is contagious. So is their energy and enthusiasm.

Linda Lou, one of my favorite members, recently challenged me to "write something you're not being paid to write. Write something just for the joy of writing."

That spurred me on to a different kind of writing that I found to be joyful and empowering. I think I'll go on doing that.

Another member, Phyllis Reading, just tickled my memory bank and got my creative juices flowing when she shared a little essay she wrote called "Chocolate Covered Strawberry Moments."

What a delicious way to describe exquisite moments so precious that we hold them in our heart forever.

This is what Phyllis wrote about her chocolate covered strawberry moment with her mother:

"I remember the time I went to visit my mother when she was getting on in years. I felt I had to help her as much as I could in my time there.

While I was busy cleaning and cooking, she asked me to sit and talk to her instead. But I was doing what I thought I should do.

The radio was on and a waltz tune filled the room. I asked her if she could waltz. She said, 'Not very well. I never was a good dancer and now I have a bad leg.'

I stopped what I was doing and said, 'Well, I have a bum leg too because of my fall off a bicycle.'

I took her hand, helped her out of her chair, then we waltzed - her bum leg and my bum leg together.

As we danced around her small living room, the music sent us to a world of ladies in beautiful ball gowns with their gentlemen partners dancing and dancing. It was a wonderful chocolate covered strawberry moment."

Phyllis was so grateful she took time for that waltz because her mother passed away a year later. It's now one of her most cherished memories.

As I read Phyllis's little essay, it brought to mind my best chocolate covered strawberry moment with my own mother.

At the time, my mother's mind was gone, stolen away by the cruel thief we call Alzheimer's disease.

Every time I went to see her in the nursing home, those visits tore me apart. But while I was there I kept chatting with her even though she had lost the capacity for speech.

Worse of all, she no longer knew me. The doctor said her mind was totally gone.

When I told my friend Andy Babinchak I was going to visit my mother even though I knew it would tear me apart emotionally, he told me he was going to pray day and night that I would have a good visit.

"It will be a special visit, you'll see," he promised.

During the day of the visit, my mother didn't even look up when I went over to talk to her. There was no recognition of my presence at all.

Her face remained blank while her hands nervously fingered the baby beads they had given her. She didn't even lift her head when I talked to her.

After I was with her for a while, I left to go to the ladies' room. When I came back to her room, something astonishing happened.

Mom looked up at me and her face lit up. Then she said the first word she spoke in over a year: She said my name, "Pattie," as she lovingly stroked my face. For just one brief moment, I had my mother back.

There was not a greater gift anyone could have given me.

On the way home, I thought about my friend Andy's prayers. It was proof positive that prayers are powerful.

It was also somewhat of a miracle that I got to hear my mother's voice. She died a year later without ever saying another word to anyone.

But I stored that precious moment in my heart to keep forever.

I find that our best moments tend to disappear into the ever-busy, clogged computer we call "our mind."

One event gets layered on top of another. We may have wonderful moments we think we will never forget. But often, those moments are lost in our daily living.

That's one reason why I'm keeping a personal journal. When I read over it, I'm reminded of special times I have forgotten.

Phyllis is right when she says certain chocolate covered strawberry moments will warm us forever.

Ponder this for a while: What chocolate covered strawberry moment warms your heart?

If you want to share a special moment, send me an email.

Valley television productions win regional Emmy awards

Lehigh Valley television productions have received Emmy awards from The National Academy of Television Arts & Sciences Mid-Atlantic Chapter at the 2013 Mid-Atlantic Emmy Awards in Philadelphia.

"The Peak," received a Human Interest Program Feature Emmy for "Laughing at My Nightmare."

Accepting the award Sept. 7 were Ashley Russo, Creator and Executive Producer of "The Peak"; Ken Szydlow, Executive Producer; Shane Burcaw, Producer; and Rocky Ulrich and Julia Ulrich of Fire-Rock Productions.

"Laughing at My Nightmare" tells the inspirational story of Shane Burcaw, a student who has Spinal Muscular Atrophy.

"This is such an honor for 'The Peak' in our first year as a show. We're trying to tell the in-depth, good-news stories of the Lehigh Valley. We follow people's journeys through good times and tough times, but we always have a positive spin," Russo said.

"The Peak," a 30-minute regional newsmagazine show about medical news, healthy recipes, ways to stay fit, financial wellness and volunteering, is telecast at 6:30 p.m. Sundays, WFMZ, Channel 69, with past episodes on TheP-lows the progress of teachers and students in the Harrisburg Area School District over the course of one school year.

EMediaWorks is an educational media partnership specializing in the creation of programs, music, animation and curriculum content for the classroom.

PBS39 reporter and producer Grover Silcox was announcer for the Emmy awards ceremony Sept. 7 at the Sheraton Society Hill, Philadelphia.

Silcox, a three-time Emmy-award winner, has been a reporter and producer with PBS39 for six years.

He wrote, produced and narrated the 2013 documentary "Bringing New Life to Old Steel," which showed how the Bethlehem Steel site was transformed into a vibrant community and serves as an economic model for other cities across the United States.

In addition to working on PBS39's "Tempo InDepth" and the new community affairs show, "Focus," which premiered Sept. 20, Silcox is a humorist and performer. His Edgar Allan Poe performance will be featured in an upcoming episode of "Focus" set to air next month.

De Niro, Pfeiffer all in 'Family'

"The Family" is a generically-titled film that is anything but generic.

The mob comedy-drama stars the iconic Robert De Niro, in one of his best roles in years, and the magnificent Michelle Pfeiffer, also in one of her best performances.

"The Family" is smart entertainment on the order of "Goodfellas" (1990). In fact, there's a nod in the storyline to "Goodfellas," directed by Martin Scorsese, who produced "The Family."

There's also a sense of "Married to the Mob" (1988) "Analyze This" (1999), and "Meet the Fockers" (2004).

Call it "Meet the Mobsters."

There's smart multi-generational casting in "The Family." In addition to cinema classics De Niro and Pfeiffer, there's the casting of the up-and-coming Dianna Agron and John D'Leo as their son and daughter.

Add to the mix Tommy Lee Jones, and an excellent supporting cast playing FBI surveillance agents, hit-men and French residents, and you've got what adds up to not only one of the year's best films, but also one of its most entertaining.

Look for a possible actor Oscar nomination for De Niro and a possible Oscar supporting actress nomination for Pfeiffer.

In "The Family," Robert De Niro plays Giovanni Manzoni, who is in the United States' federal Witness Protection Program, and is relocated with his wife, Maggie (Michelle Pfeiffer), and their two children, Belle (Dianna Agron) and Warren (John D'Leo), to Europe.

They arrive in a small town in Normandy, France, their third stop after Paris and the French Riviera because Giovanni's lack of anger management has again gotten him into trouble.

The children are enrolled in a French high school. After Warren is bullied, he teaches his classmates how they do it in Brooklyn. His sister, Belle, takes a liking to the student intern math teacher.

Meanwhile, Giovanni, now called Fred, decides to write his memoir, much to the chagrin of his FBI handler, Robert (Tommy Lee Jones), who fears it will be a tell-all.

Back at Attica State Prison in upstate New York, the mobster who Giovanni ratted out has not given up on tracking him down to the ends of the earth.

"The Family" plot builds to a delicious twist and a satisfying conclusion.

Director Luc Besson (director, "La Femme Nikita," 1990; "The Fifth Element," 1997; "Arthur and the Invisibles," 2006; and screenwriter, "Transporter," 2002, and "Taken," 2008), co-wrote the screenplay for "The Family" with Michael Caleo (writer-director, "The Last Time," 2006), based on a novel by Tonino Benacquista.

Besson has an eye for the telling detail in plot devices, dialogue and cinematography.

In plot, for example, the audience is in on De Niro's dastardly shenanigans, as well as the explosive actions of Pfeiffer, although neither knows exactly what the other is up to.

In dialogue, Pfeiffer says to De Niro, "You're sick," to which he responds, "Maybe I should see a psychiatrist."

Besson uses a lot of closeups for De Niro, Pfeiffer, Jones, Agron and D'Leo. He frames and lights his shots carefully in the well-crafted film.

It's good to see De Niro in a role in which he's in nearly every scene and is not just playing a supporting player. De Niro, in salt and pepper beard and hair, shambling around in pajamas and a robe, "Wise Guys" vocal mode, and trademark wry and whimsical facial expressions, seems comfortable and is convincing in a role that is admittedly not much of a stretch for him, given his film-acting resume. He plays it straight to terrific results.

His scenes with Pfeiffer are delightful. Pfeiffer has several scenes where she's on her own, in frumpy dress, sandals with white socks, and hair curlers. She also plays it straight, and that's what makes her portrayal all the more wacky and funny.

As the daughter, Dianna Agron (TV's "Glee") is excellent, like a young Cameron Diaz, and gives a fully-realized performance. As the son, D'Leo ("The Wrestler," 2008) is fine, like a young Ralph Macchio, and also gives a nuanced performance.

Tommy Lee Jones, as the frustrated FBI agent, also plays it straight, lending additional weight to the storyline's believability.

"The Family" is a taut thriller, a send up of mob-themed films and an overall good time at the movies. Don't miss it.

"The Family," MPAA rated R (Restricted. Children Under 17 Require Accompanying Parent or Adult Guardian.) for violence, language and brief sexuality; Genre: Action, Comedy, Crime; Run Time: 1 hr., 51 min.; Distributed by Relativity Films.

Credit Readers Anonymous: Many of the scenes in "The Family" were filmed in Orne, Normandy, France.

Box Office, Sept. 20: "Prisoners" took no prisoners, opening at No. 1 with $21.4 million, dropping "Insidious Chapter 2" to No. 2, $14.5 million, $60.8 million, two weeks;

Lehigh U. named in Top 25 for entrepreneurship program

Lehigh University has been ranked No. 20 on The Princeton Review's "Top 25 Undergraduate Schools for Entrepreneurship Programs for 2014."

Lehigh officials cited the university's entrepreneurship programs, led by its Baker Institute for Entrepreneurship, Creativity and Innovation, in receiving the award.

It's the third time Lehigh has received the Princeton Review Top 25 ranking. This summer, Lehigh was also named one of "10 Great Colleges for Aspiring Entrepreneurs" by Online-education.net and its College of Business and Engineering was ranked No. 12 for Entrepreneurship specialty programs by Bloomberg BusinessWeek.

"We're gratified to yet again be recognized among the nation's leaders in entrepreneurship education and for building a supportive, vibrant ecosystem," said Todd Watkins, Lehigh professor of economics and Baker Institute executive director.

"We commend Lehigh University and all of the other institutions on our list this year not only for their superb faculties and wide range of courses in entrepreneurship, but also for their out-of-class offerings," said Robert Franek, Princeton Review senior VP-publisher.

Based on surveys sent to school administrators at more than 2,000 institutions from April - June 2013, the lists recognize 50 programs in all, including 25 undergraduate and 25 graduate program, for their excellence in entrepreneurship education. The list was released Sept. 19.

The Princeton Review has reported these lists annually since 2006 in partnership with Entrepreneur Media Inc., publisher of Entrepreneur magazine.

Lehigh's Baker Institute, founded in 2010, provides students, faculty and alumni with the skills, resources and connections needed to enable entrepreneurial ventures to launch and prosper. Its network encompasses a worldwide alumni base, regional economic development and incubation resources, and campus-based courses and programming.

The Princeton Review chooses schools for this distinction based on evaluation of a wide range of institutional data. Schools are asked about the levels of their commitment to entrepreneurship inside and outside the classroom, the percentage of their faculty, students and alumni actively and successfully involved in entrepreneurial endeavors, the number of their mentorship programs, and their funding for scholarships and grants for entrepreneurial studies and projects.

The top entrepreneurship program lists are posted on The Princeton Review's website, princetonreview.com/entrepreneur

The magazine's feature article will appear in its October issue, available on newsstands Sept. 24.

St. John's Lutheran Church installs new pastor

The Rev. Nelson Quinones, center, of Allen Township, is installed Sept. 22 as pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, Fogelsville. Presiding at the ceremony attended by parishioners and guests who filled the church sanctuary was the Rev. Jerel Gade, left, Dean, Lehigh Mission District, Northeastern Pennsylvania Synod, Evangelical Lutheran Church in America, and Michael Divers, right, of North Whitehall Township, president, St. John's Lutheran Church. The Rev. Lyn Langkammer delivered the sermon.

Among those enjoying cake, food and beverages at the reception for Rev. Nelson Quinones in St. John's Fellowship Hall are, back to front, Zachary and Madison Divers, children of Keri and Michael Divers; and Miley Divers, daughter of Ken and Stacey Divers.
