

Coleman, John J.

Gets New Rating

A member of Uncle Sam's Navy since December 16, 1941, when he enlisted, John J. Coleman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Coleman, of 228 Columbia Street, has been promoted to Seaman First Class, according to information received by his parents.

JOHN J. COLEMAN
(Seaman First Class)

Following completion of his basic training at Newport, R. I., he was transferred to Boston, and was subsequently assigned to convoy duty.

He attended Broughal Junior High School, and graduated from Bethlehem Technical High School. Prior to his enlistment he was an employe of the R. K. Laros Silk Company, and the McCrory store, East Third Street. FEB 25 1943

February 25, 1943