Local Seaman Patient In St. Alban's Hospital

Recently returned from overseas where he spent 10 months, during which he participated in D-Day, Seaman First Class Lester J. Compton Jr., is a patient at St. Alban's Hospital, Long Island, where he will undergo surgical treatment. He will observe his 19th birthday anniversary next week.

Last Sunday his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester J. Compton Sr., accompanied by Maynard Compton, Vernamae Compton, Mrs. Robert Compton and Mrs. Richard Wachter visited him at the hospital.

A brother of the former, Seaman First Class Robert Compton, is serving with one of Uncle Sam's units in the South Pacific.
