

Gemberling, George C.

SPENDING FURLOUGH HERE.

~~JAN 11~~ 1943

Sergeant George C. Gemberling, son of John Gemberling, city letter carrier, has been spending a six-days' furlough here at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Wegner, 216 East Greenwich Street, visiting his wife and son.

He enlisted in the United States Army in June, 1942. In August he became a corporal, and received his present rank of sergeant in October. He is stationed at Fort Meade, Maryland, a member of the 301st Combat Engineers of the 76th Division, the World War I famous Liberty Bell Division.

January 11, 1943