Zoned hauling trial gets trashed

By MICHELLE MEEH
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Zoned trash hauling will not be happening in Bethlehem after a potential pilot program on a 3-3 vote at the city council's Aug. 4 meeting.

Council members Mark Recchiuti, Cathy Reuscher and Adam Waldron voted against the proposed pilot program, while Louis Stellato, J. William Reynolds, and Bryan Callahan voted yes. Council member Eric Evans was absent.

Reuscher also reported on the Parks and Public Property Committee, which met before the general council.

During the discussion about the zoned hauling pilot program, which was to begin with a trial on the Southside in October, Recchiuti said he was concerned about the proposed collection time moving from 6 a.m. to 5 a.m.

"I worry about enforcement," he said. Waldron said he agreed with that concern.

Reuscher asked if other council members would support the proposal if the time were still at 6 a.m.

Mayor Bob Donchez said the earlier start time would allow haulers to be done with busy streets before morning commuting and school traffic.

"I feel it's very important," he said. See CITY on Page A2

Council hears PennEast pipeline details

By BERNIE O'HARE
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Northampton County Council learned at its Aug. 5 meeting what to expect from the proposed PennEast Pipeline, which would run through Northampton County.

David Messersmith, of Penn State Extension and a Governor Tom Wolf appointee to the Pa. Pipeline Infrastructure Taskforce, presented council with information regarding the proposed pipeline, designed to transport natural gas 105-miles from Wilkes-Barre to Trenton, New Jersey.

Messersmith, who is neither for or against the pipeline, noted it is one of 12 or 13 pipelines extending for 3,000 miles in Pennsylvania and surrounding states. He described the PennEast Pipeline as an interstate pipeline that will be regulated at first by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC), and later by the U.S. Department of Transportation (USDOT).

He described the pipe as between 20 and 42 inches, with a pressure of 500-1400 psi, and capable of delivering 1 billion cubic feet of natural gas every day. The pipe will be buried three feet underground.

There will be a compressor station, located north of Northampton County, along with seven interconnects, or laterals. One of these will be in Northampton County, near the proposed inland rail port. He indicated the pipe will last 50-70 years without replacement.

Ninety percent of the land acquired for the 50-foot wide pipeline easement will be acquired by private negotiation, though PennEast will have the power to use eminent domain.

What can local officials do? According to Messersmith, they should consult with project sponsors, educate residents, increase training of first responders and adopt ordinances that manage new development near the pipeline. He indicated that FERC will likely honor the state Safe Streams Act, but not local ordinances that attempt to regulate it.

Are pipelines safe? According to Messersmith a study of safety over a 20 year period involving 10,000 miles of pipeline reveals that there are 2.6 incidents per year. Over that time, there have only been two injuries and no fatalities.

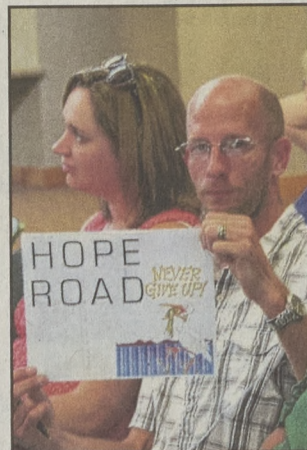

He told council member Lamont McClure that in New Jersey, a property tax is assessed on the easement. In Pennsylvania, it will be assessed on the property owner.
In Bethlehem Township, a consultant's pipeline impact study is expected later this month or September.

More than 50 people, including volunteer firefighters and a large contingent from the Bethlehem Boating Club, packed the house for the July 20 Bethlehem Township commissioners meeting. A group of Ninth Street residents who have experienced broken windows caused by storm water pressure are so concerned that they asked Bethlehem attorney Tom Maloney to join them at the meeting. On June 15, in the middle of a meeting, "Hope Road never Gives Up," says the sign held by Bethlehem Boating Club's Allen Koszi Jr. In 2011, Hurricane Irene wiped out most of Hope Road. Koszi noted that Penn DOT installed a swale that parallels Hope Road, but it stops short.

between four and five inches of rain fell within the township over the course of just three hours. Entire sections of roadway were washed out as the township ran out of barricades to warn passing motorists. The township spent $140,000 in emergency road repairs. "Nice to see all the people here," resident Martin Comer started out, sweetly enough. "Where were you when all the developers came?"

weather was a theme carried over into the speeches of each of the other speakers.

"Each year Musikfest is a catalyst that brings us together to share our great city with people from all over the country and the world," Bethlehem Mayor Bob Donchez said.
He then shared the record-breaking statistics of the festival with the audience: 550 music and art performances, 10 styles of music, nearly 350 performers, 16 stages and approximately 60 food vendors.
"That's what makes Musikfest special," he said prior to wishing the audience members enjoyment and great weather for the duration of the festival.
Joe Pietrantonio, vice president of environment, health, safety and quality and corporate chief engineer for Air Products, presented three awards to sponsors of Musikfest for their support. Lehigh Pizza, Waste Management and 6ABC each received one of the glass-blown music note-shaped awards.

Before the conclusion of the ceremony, a moment of silence was held in memory of "Jolly" Joe Timmer and Bud Berge for their years of contributions. Timmer was a well-known polka musician and owner of Sunny Radio 1100. Berge portrayed Santa at Christkindlmarkt since it began in 1993. Both died recently.

tant. It's a good first step get control of issues," he said, adding that changes would probably need to be made once the program is underway. "We have to tweak it."
Stellato reminded his fellow council members, "Bottom line - it is a trial," and agreed that changes could always be made later if necessary.
Donchez also said strong enforcement would be needed for the pilot program.
Reynolds asked, "What is the mechanism to enforce? How do we practically do it?" Currently police can cite violators.

Reynolds asked, "Have we cited any in the past year? We're not currently enforcing," he said. He suggested monthly reports to council showing the level of enforcement to make sure haulers are not violating the earlier start time.
Callahan urged members to give the pilot program a test period.
"Let's see how it goes," he said. He noted the earlier start time would be a safety issue. "Let's err on the side of safety."

In other business, council members approved Heim Construction of Orwigsburg as the general contractor for the Bethlehem Area Public Library's Room to Grow Phase III renovations.
Funding for the $442,650 project will come from the Office of Commonwealth Libraries, Department of Education, with funds from the Keystone Recreation, Park, and Conservation Fund.
Josh Berk, executive director of the library, said the project should be done by early next year.

Council members also received an update on the extra police patrols at Saucon Park. Donchez said that during the period of May to July 4, the park has been visited by mostly people from the local area. Since the holiday weekend, he noted, there has been a significant increase in weekend visitors from out of state. He said the extra police patrol at the park would continue through Labor Day.
Police Chief Mark DiLuzio said other parks in the area are experiencing a similar situation.

Court order sought over raises

By BERNIE O'HARE
Special to the Bethlehem Press

NORTHAMPTON COUNTY

Bethlehem Attorney Christopher T. Spadoni wants a judge for order Northampton County Executive John Brown to follow through on a 4.5 percent raise to 15 county workers that Brown requested and council unanimously approved April 16. Spadoni, a former Bethlehem city council solicitor and assistant county solicitor, filed what is known as a mandamus action on behalf of employees who work in the offices of magisterial district judges. A mandamus is filed to compel public officials to do what they are required by law to do. In addition to the raise, Spadoni is seeking attorney fees at the rate of $275 per hour. Judge Craig Dally has scheduled a hearing for Aug. 14.

The 15 workers are among 228 clerical employees for whom Brown sought wage hikes April 16, arguing they were needed because the county has "struggled recruiting and maintaining staff in many of the clerical positions." At the time, he argued that the 4.5 percent raise "will result in a more fair and equitable pay rate that crosses non-union and union classifications."

Deputy Administrator Cathy Allen told council the raise would cost about $307,000, and would be above and beyond whatever was being negotiated in union contracts.

AFSCME business agent Justus James urged clerical workers to attend the April 16 meeting at which this raise was unanimously approved.

BERNIE O'HARE

Chris Spadoni represents 15 NorCo employees seeking a 4.5 percent wage hike.

Some of these 15 employees were there and thanked Brown and council.

Though council unanimously approved the pay-hike, these 15 employees never got their raise.

Solicitor Ryan Durkin called it a "scrivener's error," a "pay raise that was never intended to be made." Brown submitted a new resolution, explaining it "was never intended that the people at the top of the scale would be getting a 4.5 percent increase. My apologies to the people who were affected by this." He also argued, along with Mat Benol and Peg Ferraro, that it would create a precedent under which other pay grade would come in and demand increases, too. Benol called it a slippery slope.

Council tabled the resolution at its July 1 meeting, suggesting that the parties negotiate. They refused to take it off the table at their July 16 meeting as well. But at their Aug. 6 meeting, council voted along party lines to renege on the raise. Peg Ferraro and Glenn Geissinger complained that these are union employees, and that Justus James should be there if these workers are entitled to their raise.

Seth Vaughn, who was among the five Republicans voting to take back this raise, was participating by phone. But he was cut off during the meeting and missed the deliberations prior to the vote. He phoned in immediately prior to the vote. Under the state Sunshine Act, a public official may participate in a public meeting by speakerphone so long as he can hear and interact with everyone as though he were physically present.

Lamont McClure called the resolution a "grave injustice."

ACADEMIC SIGNING

By DANA GRUBB AND ALEX GREEN
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Bethlehem Area School District held its second annual academic signing event as the top 23 graduating seniors signed their letters of intent in front of family, friends and district officials June 1 in the BASD Education Center.

The scene appeared similar to an athletic signing event, but instead of athletes under the spotlight yet again, Bethlehem's brightest students were the ones commemorated in front of the cameras.

The top 12 students from both Freedom and Liberty high schools made commitments to a multitude of noteworthy schools from Princeton University to Johns Hopkins University and everywhere in between.

And they all earned their scholarships the old-fashioned way: by studying. Superintendent Dr. Joseph Roy and other area administrators put on the event to recognize the district's elite.

Dr. Roy left them with a piece of advice before they set out on their journeys. "Don't be afraid to ask for help if you need it," he said. "Don't let the weeks go by if you're not sure about something."

Contrasting the academic letter of intent signings with similar athletic signings, assistant superintendent Dr. Jack Silva reminded those in attendance that the "primary enterprise of Bethlehem schools is academics," before he introduced the students.

The 23 signers will major in an array of fields such as bio engineering, chemical engineering, international relations, nursing, math, computer science, environmental science, English and public health.

Parent Paul Kundrik and his wife Rosemary attended to support their daughter Allison, who graduated from Liberty HS and will attend Lehigh University.

"I think it's nice for the kids," Kundrik said.

"It shows all of the work that they've done throughout high school."

23 teachers hired for 2015-16

By KRISTINE PORTER
Special to the Bethlehem Press

At a recent special meeting, the Bethlehem Area School District approved hiring 23 teachers for the upcoming school year. About a dozen additional positions will be voted on at the board's next meeting Aug. 17.

The majority of the new hires are for the elementary schools, but not for the reason most would consider. Sure, the school district has increased kindergarten and is now offering full-day classes in all of its elementary schools. But Jack Silva, assistant superintendent and chief academic officer, said there are many reasons why the school district has so many positions to fill.

Silva explained there has been a lot of internal movement of teachers in the schools. Some teachers moved to a different level, while others moved to a different grade, he said. For instance, some of the current teachers moved to those kindergarten positions, which left openings to fill in other grades.

On top of that, the district had eight teachers and six staff people resign or retire.

"We've had a lot of relocations this summer," Silva said.

The resignations came as a surprise to the district, some of them pretty late in the summer. But the district has been able to hire many good teachers and several young ones, too, he said. The last of the new hires will be finalized soon.

Most of these positions will pay about $47,000 for elementary school teachers with a bachelor's degree. Teachers with a master's degree will earn about $53,000, according to the district's meeting agenda.

As far as if the number of new hires seems high, Silva doesn't think so. It's merely a matter of math. "The school district has about 1,000 teachers. Even if 1 percent of the teachers retire, that's 10 teachers," he said.

The district typically retains about 99 percent of its teachers, Silva added.

Supply chain management puts students on fast track to success

By DEBBIE GALBRAITH

For many, it is not necessary to know how the item on sale at the local store made its way there. But supply chain managers, make it their business to know, as they are responsible for everything involved in getting the product to the consumer.

Supply chain managers' activities include planning, forecasting, purchasing, assembly, moving, storage and tracking products.

They are in high demand and there is a limited supply of qualified individuals. "Recognizing the trend in the growing industry sector of transportation and logistics in the greater Lehigh Valley, along with an increase in inquiries from potential students interested in pursuing a bachelor's degree in the field of supply chain management, the leadership team of The Wesco School of Muhlenberg College convened an advisory board of subject matter experts, representing diverse industries, such as specialty manufacturing, energy and chemical production, to discuss the addition of a concentration in supply chain management to our popular business administration program," Jane Hudak, dean, The Wesco School of Muhlenberg College, said.

 expertise and advice regarding what the program should include to provide our students a well-rounded curriculum in this complex field," Hudak said.
 The accelerated degree program in supply chain management at the college is made up of several two to five-person teams. The team members work together the entire length of the 22-month program. The projects and teaming are based on real-world business environments. Teams meet once a week and complete 17 modules (courses) of study. They also meet with their teams once a week outside the classroom to prepare for their projects/class. Books are included in this degree program and teams are assigned a mentor for the entire time of the program.

 The class structure reinforces the importance of experiential and team-based learning. Students are encouraged and expected to voice their opinions and reflect on their learning. Classes take many forms but generally consist of some lecture with real life application of theory, class discussions, review of assignments and presentations.

 Instructor Glenn Price says careers in this industry include supply chain, demand planning, logistics, strategic procurement and manufacturing.
 According to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, there were 125,900 logistics jobs in 2012, with a growth outlook between 2012 and 2022 of 22 percent, much faster than average. The median annual wage for a logistics professional was $72,780 in 2012.
 "Students are in the field already - senior buyers or warehouse managers, running a forklift, line personnel or production planning," Price said. "These students want a more senior level management position with more responsibility. In supply chain, they manage the production planning for a factory or the supply of products from manufacturers to distribution centers to meet the customer's requirements."

 Price, vice president of global sourcing and sustainability at Crayola LLC, Easton, gave an example of how a supply chain manager works and interacts with others at Crayola.
 "Crayola manufactures markers and sells them to customers. The sales department will forecast the customers' requirements, the production planning manager puts a production schedule together, issues the plan to the operating floor, the manufacturing staff will manufacture the products, which will then be transferred to the distribution manager, who will receive the goods and plan the shipments to customers," Price said.

 "This program is catered to the working student who has about half of their degree complete," Price said.
 Price said the students are required to do projects as a team. They learn how to manage their time, each other and learn how to work with others and resolve conflicts.

 "This experience helps them adapt to any work situation," Price said.
 Operating philosophy, planning, scheduling and inventory, strategic procurement, logistics and distribution management are also covered in the program, according to Price.
 "Students learn how to evaluate and determine who their key suppliers are going to be, how to get the product to the customer for the lowest total cost and everything in between," Price said.

Seeing Beyond the Present

While others focus on the here and now, Christians are called to live a life of faith in God with an eternal focus on His promises seeing beyond the present! Hebrews 11:1 defines faith as "the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen." This "faith chapter" reveals that the "things hoped for" by the heroes of the faith were not material things, but rather the expectation of dwelling with God throughout eternity! Seeing beyond the evils of their day, they lived holy lives consistent with the nature of God, anticipating that He would reward them accordingly. Enoch's faith related to his "testimony, that he pleased God" (v.5). He looked beyond the wicked lifestyles of his peers and walked with God. One day God just "translated" him into His presence, and Enoch experienced the fulfillment "of things hoped for." Today we must have similar faith, seeing beyond the present, focusing upon the eternal promises of our Lord, living a life consistent with that faith, and ready to "be caught up...to meet the Lord in the air" (1 Thessalonians 4:17).

Noah saw beyond the ridicule of his peers as he built the ark and preached coming judgment, "By faith Noah, being warned of God of things not seen as yet, moved with fear, prepared an ark" (v.7). Abraham "looked for a city...whose builder and maker is God." Moses refused "to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season...for he endured, as seeing him who is invisible" (v.25-27). "These all died in faith, not having received the promises, but having seen them afar off" (v.13). This "cloud of witnesses" who saw beyond the present challenges us to "run with patience the race that is set before us, Looking unto Jesus the author and finisher of our faith; who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross, despising the shame, and is set down at the right hand of the throne of God" (Hebrews 12:1-2). FOOTBALL

Some clarity reached on PIAA classifications

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

The saga of expanding the PIAA football classifications from four to six classes will continue into the fall.

The PIAA's two committees responsible for the matter — the strategic planning committee and the football steering committee — met in late July to discuss the eight proposals on the table for football classification expansion.

Ultimately, no decisions were made on the fate of moving to six classes, as the boards agreed to table the discussion for this fall when the strategic planning committee meets in September, followed by a PIAA board meeting in October.

Whitehall Athletic Director and District 11 chairman, Bob Hartman, echoed those statements last week when talking about the decision to move discussions down the road.

"We just need more time to analyze everything," Hartman said. "We want to take the information back to our schools and discuss."

Things that were taken away from July's meeting were:

- A "10 percent" rule for counting enrollment numbers for all sports was passed;
- The eight proposals for football classifications was reduced to three proposals because of the instituted "10 percent" rule;
- A motion to reduce the length of the football season by one week was passed.

The "10 percent" rule change affects students who receive their education from home, cyber, charter, alternative, magnet or vocational schooling and will be counted toward overall enrollment of a school.

This is an important rule change, which will affect all sports starting in the 2016 cycle, because it helps public schools get on a more even playing field when it comes to classifications.

For example, if Whitehall had 100 appropriately aged male students who are either home or cyber schooled, all those boys would count toward male enrollment figures. The "10 percent" rule would only have 10 of those students count toward their numbers.

Hartman doesn't think the "10 percent" rule will have a major effect on schools in District 11, however.

With the institution of the "10 percent" rule, half of the eight football classification proposals were eliminated because only four of them included the "10 percent" rule.

The three proposals that are left are:

1. Status quo of current PIAA classification with four classes;
2. Six classification proposal;
3. Six classes including a Super 700 class, which puts schools with male enrollment of 700 or more, into a 6A category, followed by five other classes of split up evenly.

The motion to reduce the season by a week gives schools options with how they want to handle it, but ultimately, getting the season down to 18 weeks is the goal.

"The consensus is that football season is too long," Hartman said. "Some of the options include taking your second scrimmage and using it as a game or keeping it as a second scrimmage."

With that said, teams have three options at their disposal:

1. Keep two scrimmages, play nine game regular season games, and then onto playoffs;
2. Play one scrimmage, play 10 regular season games, and then onto playoffs;
3. Keep both scrimmages, play 10 regular season games, and cut playoffs by one week.

In the end, only time will tell what happens when the PIAA reconvenes in the coming months.

Teams
start

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

It may be a cooler week than normal in our region, but the official start to the 2015 football season got under way on Monday due to the PIAA's rule change for heat acclimatization.

In recent years, schools had three days to adapt to the heat, this year schools had the option to use five days to acclimate to the heat, starting on Monday.

At Freedom, head coach Jason Roeder and his staff took advantage of the opportunity to get a week of work in before the official start of practices get under way on August 17.

Teams are allowed to get five days in, with three hour sessions allowed per practice.

The Patriots were a part of that process, working in Monday's cool rain.

"This really is just a continuation of our whole offseason," said Roeder of camp starting this week. "We've been in helmets and shoulder pads since May. With all the work we've done in the spring and summer, this is just another phase in that process."

Teams are allowed to work in helmets and shoulder pads this week, before progressing to full pads next week, which is when teams will run double sessions. That's when full contact can begin.

"This week we have limited contact, but the intensity always picks up when we're ready to hit in full pads," Roeder said. "We've seen our guys working for months now, so we know what to expect from most of them, but next week can give guys an opportunity to prove themselves a little more with the pads on."

What Freedom has to prove next season can also be telling, coming off last year's 9-3 campaign that ended in a 28-0 defeat to Easton in the District 2/4/11 sub-regional 4A playoffs.

"Last year's success has created enthusiasm for the program," Roeder said. "We're not done and we still have steps we need to take. I just tell the guys we need to win the day. I know it sounds boring, but we need to focus on getting better everyday."

Catasauqua head boys' basketball coach and tournament director Eric Snyder thought the recent version of the 26th annual Tournament of Champions final was one of the better ones in recent years.

He just isn't sure how many more may be on the horizon.

"We have three adult leagues left in the area (North Catasauqua, Catasauqua, and Stiles)," said Snyder. "It is not like it used to be for a number of reasons. We all would like to see more teams and players in the area."

In the latest final, Nites, a team based of former standouts from across the Lehigh Valley, defeated the Mark Smith for Allentown School Board team, a team comprised of former Allen High School stars, 63-53 at the Catasauqua Playground July 26.

Former Allen High player and Nites player Isaiah Palmer took home the tournament MVP as the Nites represented the Catty League in the tournament and the Mark Smith squad represented the North Catty League.

"It was a very entertaining final," said Snyder. "There is a lot of familiarity around with the teams. We had the three remaining adult leagues as well as other teams from around the area."

"Overall, it was a good tournament with plenty of good games.

Snyder recalled the heydays of the tournament when as many as 20 or more teams comprised the field and leagues were flourishing throughout the Lehigh Valley and beyond from Reading to Easton.

"It was a pretty good summer for us," said Northwest swimmer, Jocelyn Baker.

The girls' team had top three finishes in 16 events, competing against teams from Stones Crossing, Brookside, Lehigh, Saucon Valley, Trident, Stonecrest, and Westwood Heights.

Lydia Csatari, Chloe Kobus, Jocelyn Baker, and Maggie Walters won the 13&Over 200 medley relay in 2:17.37.

Baker also placed second in the 15-18 100 free in 1:04.59, and Walters was third in 1:07.78. Csatari came in second in the 15-18 50 backstroke in 36.22, and Kobus took first place in the 15-18 50 breaststroke in 38.67. Baker then placed third in the 15-18 100 IM in 1:17.17.

Baker's sister, Jaclyn, took third place in the 13-14 50 breaststroke in 39.70. "The older kids swam in the morning, so we tried to rack up as many points as we could to get more for the little kids," said Jocelyn Baker.

The next event was the 200 free relay, ages 6-18, and Helena Lynn, Elizabeth Flynn, Maggie Walters, Greta Stuckey, and Alyvia Herman placed second in 2:12.83.

Charlotte Samuelson, Hallie Smith, Flynn, and Madison Drager finished the 12&Under 200 medley relay in third place in 2:36.75.

Lynn came in third in the 8&Under 25 free in 1:25.78, third in the 11-12 50 butterfly in 36.92, and third in the 11-12 50 backstroke in 39.78.

Samuelson took first place in the 11-12 100 IM in 1:25.78, third in the 11-12 50 butterfly in 36.92, and third in the 11-12 50 backstroke in 39.78.

Flynn had three third place finishes in the 8&Under age group, swimming the 25 fly in 20.90, the 25 backstroke in 25.98, and the 25 breaststroke in 26.43.

FHS' Coccia working to make dream come true

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Mike Coccia had off on Monday from the grind of NFL training camp and came home to spend the day with his family in the Lehigh Valley.

It's been a surreal summer for the Freedom graduate, as he competes for a roster spot with the Philadelphia Eagles, battling among offensive linemen for a coveted role on the team.

So, a day after Coccia and the Eagles took part in an open practice to over 43,000 fans at Lincoln Financial Field, he was back at his stomping grounds.

"We had the day off, so I decided to drive home and spend the day," he said. "It's nice to be close to home."

And Coccia hopes that home will continue to be with the Eagles, as he prepares for his first NFL contest this Sunday afternoon at 1 p.m. when the Indianapolis Colts head into town to take on the Eagles in the first preseason game of the season for both teams.

It'll be Coccia's first real taste of competing in an NFL contest and one that he is excited about.

"It's going to be an awesome experience but I can't look that far ahead," he said. "I just need to focus on the things I have to do everyday to make this team, because once you start looking, that's when mistakes can happen and I don't want that."

Coccia has been getting reps at both center and guard in camp and that versatility can only help his cause as he battles for a spot. With the first round of NFL roster cuts coming on September 1 (when teams have trim their 90-man rosters to 75), the undrafted Coccia is looking to do everything he can to be one of Chip Kelly's linemen.

"One thing coach Kelly always preaches is value," said Coccia. "The more value you have, the better chance you have at making the roster. I feel pretty good about what I've been able to do so far. I haven't played guard in a long time, so it's good to get those reps."

"You're going up against guys that are all fighting for the same thing. They're all bigger, stronger and faster than what you played against in college and they all want to make the team."

What happens to Coccia down the road is undetermined as of now, but he can certainly know that his whole Freedom family is pulling for him.

"It's really an unbelievable experience to be in this position and just be in the locker room with guys you've looked up to as a fan," he said, "but the reality of it now is that it's a business and I'm just focusing on football. It doesn't matter if there's thousands of people in the stands, once I get focused, I just play football."

Jaclyn Baker was part of the 13-and-over medley relay winning team.

In 12&Under diving, Billy Muniz was third with 96.00 points.

Aaron Dolgos, Ben Stuckey, Nolan Vannata, and Brice Kessler won the 200 medley relay in 2:05.36.

Northwest had a 2-3-4 finish in the 15-18 100 free with Kessler finishing in 1:00.61, Jacob Jones in 1:01.28, and Stuckey in 1:01.39.

Vannata won the 15-18 100 IM in 1:06.46, the 15-18 50 breaststroke in 32.73, and placed third in the 15-18 50 butterfly in 30.26.

Kessler won the 15-18 50 backstroke in 31.99, Dolgos was second in the 15-18 100 IM in 11.90, and Stuckey placed third in the 15-18 50 breaststroke in 36.95.

Northwest took third place in the 6-18 200 free relay with Roman Herman, Addison Collins, Jones, Harrison Stevens, and Gilhool finishing in 2:08.62.

leagues, Easton had their leagues, and Bethlehem had their leagues," said Snyder. "West Reading has a league for over 30 years. We also had a number of leagues up north in Schuylkill County. We had a number of great players from all over who used to play in this tournament.

"We still have some great players here, but they are concentrated because of the three leagues. Some guys are playing in all three leagues. And we still have a number of older guys who are still playing."

Generating team revenues and the lack of younger players appear to be two main issues that need immediate attention.

"It is becoming harder for teams to pay the entrance fees that help pay for the officials and overall costs," said Snyder. "In fact, I still have one team that owes me money and I have had that problem the past few years.

"We also need some of the younger players to come out. They seem to have some organizational issues. We've seen some younger players come out recently, but we need more."

Snyder can personally attest to the matter as his son James and other recent Roughie graduates played for Curmaci Dental-Friel and advanced to the quarterfinals. They lost in that round to Mark Smith and it was one of the better games in the tournament.

Other former Roughie players on the team were Anthony Brinkley, Brandon Purrone, Alex Parker, and Jalen Nicholas among others.

"Those guys agreed to play Mark Smith because the team that was supposed to play them couldn't make it," explained Snyder. "It was like Villanova playing Georgetown. They hung tough with them until the very end. They ran out of gas at the end, but it really was a good game.

"When you see a game like that, you realize what could happen if we had more young guys come out for teams."

On a positive note, Snyder has already received some inquiries from teams in Schuylkill County, Summit Hill and Upper Perkiomen. He is optimistic that the leagues and the tournament can return for its 27th season next summer.

If not, Snyder has hinted about a possible high school tournament — each team entry would be guaranteed four games — could take its place next year.

Still, he hopes a great tradition doesn't fade away. "I have looked into a high school tournament that wouldn't conflict with the other ones in the area," said Snyder. "I realize guys have many other commitments and vacations also pop up during the summer. It has become more difficult to play in these leagues.

"But I believe we can keep this going for a few more years."

Open sewer concerns residents

By DANIELLE MARTIN
Special to the Bethlehem Press

In regards to a large bathtub-sized hole reaching the open sewer line behind a row of homes on Forest Street, the neighbors have addressed council with a long stream of complaints.

"I would like the borough to cover it so we're no longer exposed," said one neighbor, Brooke Strachan. "You can't block the smell. We are all living in the same nightmare."

As the situation would have it, one of the attached homes on Forest Street has suffered the neglect of little maintenance and even less cleaning. After the original tenant left, leaving the home to her teenage son, the house's condition worsened. In the attempt to fix the broken sewer line, only a massive hole was created, leaving the two hired hands to quit their work upon sight of the damage. Now the stench of this massive hole and the unkempt home leave the neighborhood in despair.

After months of dealing with this ordeal, several neighbors have finally grouped to bring the matter to Fountain Hill Council. Since the original tenant no longer has the funds to fix her sewage problem, the neighbors hope the borough will take action.

Executive Administrator Anthony Branco said he would check the scene the very next day. While the circumstances never prompted council to pass a motion, they are determined to take action.

With summer passing, Mayor Jose Rosado reflected on the borough's pool attendance, with one concern. On the hottest days, Fountain Hill's residents were turned away because of the overabundance of pool-goers from other towns. Not even season pass holders could enter. Apparently, other boroughs have been either closing their pools or raising rates, driving citizens to the Fountain Hill public pool.

"We should definitely be giving our residents a break," council member Carolee Gifford said.

Rosado wants to raise rates for nonresidents.

Council member Fred Capuano rejected this idea, saying proof of residency would be difficult to enforce, especially if the pool-goers are just a bunch of kids who don't carry IDs. "The problems go in a circle."

Despite the complexity of the issue, Rosado is determined to help Fountain Hill citizen have access to their community pool.

In other business, council hired a new director of finance, an enthusiastic young woman by the name of Bethany Sebesta.

And the Jazz Festival is a go, as council finally passed a motion. The event will take place Oct. 24, rain or shine.

Council ponders new fire marshal

By NATE JASTRZEMSKI
njastrzemski@tnonline.com

Maintenance was the big subject of council's July 21 meeting; Maintenance of its fire department, the streets and Union Cemetery.

Assistant Fire Chief Jonathan Rossi suggested to council the hiring of Palmer Township Fire Marshal Jimmy Alercia to fill the same position for the borough. Rossi and Manager Judith Danko had been searching for someone to fill the post, and Alercia's qualifications and willingness make him ideal. Danko added Alercia said he is willing to perform the duty - which normally consists of code enforcement and investigating the cause of fires - free of charge.

They said they will meet with Alercia to discuss details.

Council also proposed for discussion an ordinance regarding trailer and large vehicle parking on streets when facing snow removal and emergency vehicle movement. It was immediately tabled for later discussion. Meanwhile, council did approve a motion to make a temporary repair to the damaged culvert at Market and Juniata streets. Worried weather would once again interfere with a lengthy street project, council agreed contracting a patch for no more than $1,500 would do for the time being.

Resident and cemetery caretaker Charles Derr said legal and financial issues regarding Union Cemetery may soon require action by council. Care of the old cemetery, and who is responsible for it, has been an issue for the past two years and his concern is mounting as funds for its continued care dwindle.

Derr said historically Union Cemetery was used by Trinity UCC and Christ Evangelical Lutheran Church, but Trinity folded and the property was sold to a nondenominational Allentown congregation which had no connection to the cemetery. The United Church of Christ has made no move since to support Union Cemetery and the Lutheran church is meeting only its expected payments, which cover one-third the cost of upkeep.

Derr explained he separated from those churches many years ago, but he continues to pay the bills and make arrangements as a service to the community. "I'm just a volunteer making sure the grass is cut and people get buried." He said the payments from Lutheran and funds from perpetual care - longtime arrangements for continued maintenance of some cemetery plots - will

Shakespeare back in Allentown park

By LUKE MUENCH
Special to The Press

We so often see theater performed on the stage or in a formal setting that we forget just how magnificent a stage nature can be. Allentown Shakespeare in the Park works to remind audiences of this.

Following its productions of "Romeo And Juliet" (2006), "A Midsummer Night's Dream" (2007), "As You Like It" (2009), "Much Ado About Nothing" (2010), "Macbeth" (2012), "Twelfth Night" (2013) and "Othello" (2014), Allentown Shakespeare in the Park presents five free performances of Shakespeare's first comedy, "The Comedy Of Errors," directed by New York director Erik Pearson.

Performances are at 8 p.m. Aug. 14; 2 and 8 p.m. Aug. 15, and 2 and 8 p.m. Aug. 16, Joseph S. Daddona Lake and Terrace, St. Elmo and Union streets, Allentown. Performances are rain or shine.

Sarah Steele, founder of the annual performances, has been working diligently to bring some of Shakespeare's most classic pieces to the park. "I don't have any ties to Allentown personally, but I married someone who does," Steele says. "So when we came up to visit, I would see this park and just think 'This was made for Shakespeare.'"

With a cast of professional actors from New York, as well as a couple of local interns, not only does Shakespeare in the Park give audiences a chance to learn more about these pieces, but it

"The Comedy Of Errors," 8 p.m. Aug. 14; 2, 8 p.m. Aug. 15; 2, 8 p.m. Aug. 16, Joseph S. Daddona Lake and Terrace, St. Elmo and Union streets, Allentown also provides students from the area with irreplaceable acting experiences.

Allentown Shakespeare in the Park's Actor Apprentice Program teams local high school students with the cast of professional actors. This summer, four students are participating in the program: two from the Lehigh Valley Charter High School for the Arts (Caitlyn Kline, '15; Matt Hogan, '15) and two from William Allen High School (Ibrahim Abbakar, '15; Edilis Rivera, '18).

Rachel Towne, a Charter Arts graduate and member of the 2010 Apprentice Company, auditioned for and was cast in the professional company.

Perhaps what's seen as more irreplaceable is the fact that the plays are free-of-charge. "We wanted to take away the financial boundaries to allow everyone to come," Steele recalls. "Before each show, I like to walk through the audience and introduce myself, explaining how the project was started. I'm constantly meeting parents who are bringing their kids to see their first Shakespeare play, and it's so encouraging to know that, because it's free, we're providing families with such a fantastic opportunity."

In order to allow for this, a variety of local businesses and restaurants provide grants to the program each year, such as the Renaissance Allentown Hotel. "It helps to let us know that there's an audience for all this every year, that we're bringing something truly unique to such a great community."

"The Comedy Of Errors," with twin brothers, both named Antipholus and separated at birth, revolves around the day the main characters happen into the same town, confusing cops, wives, and many other inhabitants.

Presenting the play outdoors already draws some attention, but what really makes this production stand out is how many actors are involved: seven actors perform 15 roles, adding a new dimension to the characters, especially the twins.

"It's hard finding two people who look similar enough to be convincing twins," explains Steele.

"Not only that, but it allows us to better explore these characters in-depth. They have the same genes, but such different experiences and characteristics in life."

The cast is Carter Gill, Sofia Gomez, Christopher Ryan Grant, Jeff Hathcoat, Victoria Janicki, Lily Narbonne and Rachel Towne. The creative team includes Edward T. Morris, sets; Anthony Forchielli, lights; Valérie T. Bart, costumes, and Joel Abbott, original music, sound.

In the play, the father of the two boys, Egeon, is a roaming minstrel, playing sad country-like music throughout the piece. Taking full advantage of this, this "Comedy Of Errors" sees one of the actors, an accomplished musician, taking the role in a new direction, as a wandering cowboy playing melodies throughout the play and one hour before the show, giving audiences a reason to get to the park early to enjoy the atmosphere and a light picnic.

If you don't want to bring your own food, food carts will be present at the performances, including Stuffed To The Grills and the Taza Truck.

To date, more than 6,000 have attended an Allentown Shakespeare in the Park performance.

Love after the rose has bloomed

The Wall Street Journal ran a recent story that tickled me.

Even the headline would get your attention: First date in a nursing home.

The articles went on to detail an innovative dating service at Hebrew Nursing Home in Riverdale, New York.

Residents in their 70s, 80s and even 90s are going on dates again. The nursing home provides opportunities for men and women to meet at the home's riverside cafe.

If they hit it off, they can arrange their own future outings.

I absolutely loved the stories of the 88-year-old man who was excited as he decided what to wear on his first date and the 96-year-old woman who was looking forward to her first date in 70 years.

The stories brought back memories of my own sweet stepfather, Ziggy, who was devoted husband to my mother, even when she had Alzheimer's.

Regardless of the weather, Ziggy drove for an hour every day to spend long hours with my mother. Although she could no longer say his name, she beamed every time Ziggy came in the room. Even with Alzheimer's, she could recognize love and goodness in someone.

I once saw Ziggy tenderly touch her face, telling her she was still the most beautiful woman he ever saw.

After my mother passed away, Ziggy's Parkinson's disease progressed to the point where he could no longer walk. That's when he had to go into an assisted living facility that had an excellent rehab department.

He was supposed to do his exercises every day and keep increasing the distance he could walk with his walker. But I could see that he no longer had an interest in pushing himself to get stronger. He was simply giving up.

All that changed when Grace entered the picture. She was at the rehab center while she recovered from a fall. Grace asked Ziggy if they could sit together for meals. Soon, they were spending their days together.

After Grace came into his life Ziggy blossomed with renewed vigor. He went with her to all the programs at the nursing home and stopped spending much of his day in bed. The physical therapist was amazed at how much Ziggy improved.

And it was all because of Grace, who certainly was an unexpected grace for my beloved stepdad. He told me he was so glad he moved to the assisted living facility because he was no longer lonely and depressed.

I had to laugh to myself when another resident at the home told me she wanted to talk to me in private. She informed me that my 83-year-old stepdad was "living in sin" with Grace.

Grace's son and I told the woman the couple had our blessings and we were planning the wedding. We weren't really planning a wedding, of course, but here in Florida, I see that happen on a regular basis.

One of the things I love about living here is that no one hangs on in God's waiting room with nothing to look forward to.

All around me I see people in their 80s and 90s forming new friendships and relationships. Instead of living lives of isolation, they are dating and dancing through life.

My friend Mel, for instance, went into a deep depression after he lost his wife of 55 years. At 84, he thought his life was over.

When his sons finally coaxed him out of the house to go dancing, he met Louise, a redheaded charmer who now lights up his life and that of everyone around them.

We go dancing with them every Thursday night and I can tell you he has more stamina than most of us.

My friend Betty met her partner Bill when both went into an assisted living facility. Now almost 90, they've been together for 10 years and we all can see how they enrich each other's lives.

I told Betty I was planning to visit her but she cautioned I had to call first because they are "always out doing something or taking another trip."

David and I have our own "after the rose has bloomed" romance. I think we keep each other young. We also stay young by socializing a lot with all the other "kids" here in Florida.

I can guarantee you that the conversation is lively as all of us kids share what we've been doing for the week. Someone always has a new place worth visiting or a new activity to talk about.

David and I often marvel at how much life has changed for older couples. It used to be that when a longtime spouse died, the remaining partner was doomed to a life of loneliness.

No more. If you don't want to be lonely here in Florida, you don't have to be. I think it's getting to be like that in a lot of places, including Riverdale, New York, where their dating service is putting new life into residents.

I don't have the long-term ambition to write a book, but if I did, I would write about relationships in the later part of life. I would call it "Love after the rose has bloomed" and I would share stories from real life.

I'd love to hear from anyone who has his or her own story to tell. At any age, it's always fun to share love stories.

Charlie Chaplin silent films screening to be accompanied by organ at Civic

Civic Theatre of Allentown will screen a double-bill of the silent film classics, "The Kid" and "Easy Street," starring Charlie Chaplin, 7:30 p.m. Aug. 25, 19th Street Theatre, 527 N. 19th St., Allentown.

The presentation is another installment in Civic's ongoing series featuring silent classics of the silver screen.

"The Kid" (1921) was Chaplin's first full-length feature and is considered a silent movie masterpiece. The film utilizes Chaplin's most famous character, The Little Tramp, who discovers an orphan and brings him up but is left desolate when the orphanage reclaims him. Chaplin directed, produced and starred in the film.

Charlie Chaplin

In the film short, "Easy Street" (1917), Chaplin obtains a job as a police officer and is assigned the rough-and-tumble Easy Street as his beat.

A Civic Theatre silent film screening celebrates a classic American art form. Sitting in the historic 19th Street Theatre, which regularly screened silent films during its early years, patrons experience a film the way the audiences did 100 years ago.

Theater organist Don Kinnier accompanies the film on Civic's 1928 Moeller theater organ. Audiences who attended the screening of "The General," "Why Worry?" or "Safety Last" at Civic have marveled at Kinnier's virtuosity.

Kinnier has been called "the premier silent film accompanist in the northeastern United States." He has become well-known to concert, comedy and silent film audiences throughout the Lehigh and Delaware valleys. He is internationally-recognized from concert performances that have taken him from Boston to Buenos Aires and from Toronto to Taipei. Kinnier's programs are easy-going, fun and contain a large dose of good-natured humor, both verbal and musical.

Kinnier's appearance at Civic Theatre is sponsored by Allen Organ.

You don't want to ride 'charley horse'

Q. What exactly is a "charley horse" and why do I get them in my legs at night?

According to the American Heritage Dictionary of Idioms, the term "charley horse" was first used in the 1880s by baseball players to describe a muscle cramp. No one knows the true origin, but the dictionary states, "Among the more likely theories proposed is that it alludes to the name of either a horse or an afflicted ball player who limped like one of the elderly drafted horses formerly employed to drag the infield."

Geezers are more likely to get charley horses because of muscle loss that starts in our 40s. And your remaining muscles don't work as efficiently as they used to. Studies show that about 70 percent of adults older than 50 experience nocturnal leg cramps.

A cramp is an involuntary contracted muscle that does not relax. The common locations for muscle cramps are the calves, thighs, feet, hands, arms and rib cage. Cramps can be very painful. Muscles can cramp for just seconds, but they can continue for many minutes.

Almost all of us have had muscle cramps, but no one knows for sure why they happen. However, many healthcare professionals attribute cramping to tired muscles and poor stretching. Other suspected causes are dehydration, exerting yourself when it's hot, flat feet, standing on concrete, prolonged sitting, some leg positions while sedentary.

Muscle cramps are usually harmless. However, they can also be symptoms of problems with circulation, nerves, metabolism and hormones. Less common causes of muscle cramps include diabetes, Parkinson's disease, hypoglycemia, anemia, thyroid and endocrine disorders.

If you experience frequent and severe muscle cramps, see your doctor.

The use of some medications can cause muscle cramps. For example, some diuretic medications prescribed for high blood pressure can deplete potassium. Too little potassium, calcium or magnesium in your diet can contribute to cramps.

Here are some pointers for treating a cramp yourself: stop whatever you were doing when you got the cramp, massage the muscle and stretch it slowly, apply a cold pack to relax tense muscles.

To prevent cramps, do stretching exercises especially for those muscles that tend to cramp, and drink water regularly. If you are exerting yourself in heat or sweating for more than an hour, you should drink fruit juice or a sports beverage. For recurrent cramps that disturb your sleep, your doctor may prescribe a medication to relax your muscles.

If you have nocturnal leg cramping, ride a stationary bicycle for a few minutes before bedtime. The following stretching exercise is good, too. You should do it in the morning, before dinner and before going to bed every night:

Stand about 30 inches from a wall. Keep your heels on the floor, lean forward and put your hands on the wall. Then, move your hands slowly up the wall as far as you can reach comfortably. Hold the stretched position for 30 seconds. Release. Repeat twice.

ZZ Top plays 'Baddest' hits

By CAMILLE CAPRIGLIONE
Special to The Press

The indomitable ZZ Top rocks Musikfest, 7:30 p.m. Aug. 12, Sands Steel Stage, PNC Plaza, SteelStacks, Bethlehem.

The legendary Texas trio brings its hard-rock blues sound to the Lehigh Valley to perform classic hits such as "Legs," "Sharp Dressed Man" and "Gimme All Your Lovin'," as well as new material from "La Futura," its latest album, which was produced by Rick Rubin.

ZZ Top was formed in Houston, Tex., in 1969, by guitarist and lead vocalist, Billy Gibbons, bassist Dusty Hill and drummer Frank Beard.

Stemming from a roots-inspired sound, and beginning with blues-rock on its earlier albums, ZZ Top later incorporated new wave, punk and dance rock, with heavy use of synthesizers.

ZZ Top has been praised for its technical mastery and has sold tens of millions of records. The group's discography includes 23 albums. The group has garnered 11 gold records, and seven platinum.

The 1983 album, "Eliminator," remains the group's most commercially successful record, selling more than 10 million. ZZ Top was inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame in 2004. "The Baddest Of ZZ Top," a greatest hits CD, was released in 2014.

"In essence, today's ZZ Top sound is a reflection of what we've always been," says Gibbons in an email interview. "Same three guys, same three chords. It's something that continues to evolve and devolve, a paradox of a kind. We've popped out of a cosmic vortex."

ZZ Top is one of the only bands in history to have the same lineup for five decades. "It's not so much an achievement as keepin' on keepin' on," says Gibbons.

"We actually like doing this: recording, touring, rockin' it up big time. It's all something we really like doing. We're having a good time and that, for a fact, is what keeps it going."

The band's deep-rooted friendship, respect and camaraderie is key, he adds.

"We're faultlessly mindful of each other's space and at the same time we've been known to gravitate to each other when the road threads its way. Why not? It's really the essence when you think about it."

The group was a phenomenal international act in the 1970s and in the 1980s, a darling of the MTV music video era. Their stylish look and famed vehicles were the stuff of music video legend.

"Those were great moments as were the times," says Gibbons. "We certainly retain fond recollections of those visionary pieces of cinematic artistry."

"Of course, we're talking about the '33 Ford Eliminator three-window coupe," says Gibbons. "The car's still with us so, in a way, we still have that as a very real outlet. And some other cars, too."

Have the front men of ZZ Top ever considered ditching their iconic beards (which appeared during a hiatus in the late '70s)?

"It's true about the inaugural collective debut of our facial hair being serendipitous," says Gibbons. "Nothing was planned by us, but when we reconnected after a lengthy layover the whiskers had sprouted in a very real way. We just went with the flow thereafter."

"We've been offered a considerable sum to alter the overall wooly look, but it just doesn't seem worthwhile until mirrors and other reflective surfaces are outlawed."

When asked what Gibbons attributes ZZ Top's longevity and appeal to fans across several generations, he says, "It's no secret that we're very much rooted in the blues, so there's the commonality with the pulse of humankind and the pulse of the blues."

"It's downright biological and who among us is willing to deny biology? Without it we wouldn't even be here, which is really the point."

There's more Soul on tap

By ERIN FERGUSON
Special to The Press

Collective Soul is an American rock band formed in the 1990s in the small town of Stockbridge, Ga. The band performs at 7 p.m. Aug. 13. Also on the bill is 3 Doors Down.

Collective Soul consists of Ed Roland, principal songwriter and front man on keyboard, guitar; Jesse Triplett, lead guitar; Dean Roland, rhythm guitar; Will Turpin, bass; and Johnny Rabb, drums.

The band broke into the mainstream with its first hit single, "Shine," in 1993. Dolly Parton received a Grammy for Best Country Vocal Performance for her cover of "Shine" in 2001. The group has had seven No. 1 rock hits, with its song, "Tremble For My Beloved," on the soundtrack for the film, "Twilight," nine years after the song's release. The Roland-written "A Perfect Day" featured Elton John on vocals.

"Elton John is my hero, so to play with him and get to know him is a reward in itself. Dolly Parton, the greatest songwriter on the planet, was also an honor and that they even know who I am and the band's name is a great accomplishment," said Roland in a phone interview.

Songs from Collective Soul's new album, its ninth, "See What You Started By Continuing," set for fall release, are expected to be included in the Musikfest concert.

"We are a band that makes records to listen to the whole thing, not just a single song. Some days you feel good, some day you feel bad and some days you don't want to play at all. This is a rock record and we wanted to have fun with it."

"Rock and roll has a lot of definition in it alone. It's been a cool ride. We are happy where we are and very proud of what we've accomplished. There's a lot more to offer."

'Mission' accomplished

"Mission: Impossible - Rogue Nation" is the 2015 summer movie season's most thrilling action film, in no small part because of Tom Cruise's stunts, starting with the opening scene, one you may have seen in part online or in previews, where Cruise hangs on the outside of a military transport aircraft.

Even though making-of footage depicts Cruise in a harness, that is him outside the plane. There were said to be no computer-generated effects for this scene, one that Cruise and others have said required eight takes.

In addition to the jaw-dropping "airplane hanger" opening scene, there are several other big action scenes involving Cruise: a night at Puccini's "Turandot" inside the Vienna State Opera house; behind the wheel of a new BMW in an inner-city chase, on a motorcycle in a chase on a winding mountain road, and negotiating the underwater realm of a security vault (you'll hold your breath while Cruise does). Director of Photography Robert Elswit captures it all flawlessly. Editor Eddie Hamilton executes the scenes terrifically.

Cruise makes the impossible look possible as Impossible Missions Force (IMF) agent Ethan Hunt in the fifth installment of "Mission: Impossible," for which Cruise is one of the producers. Once again, Hunt is on the wrong side of the United States government as he tracks the Syndicate, an international crime organization led by Solomon Lane (a really nefarious-looking Sean Harris).

The supporting cast is exceptional: Jeremy Renner as intense as ever as William Brandt, head of IMF; a super-secret United States spy organization; Alec Baldwin as perplexed as ever as the CIA director; and Ving Rhames as cool as ever as a CIA operative.

There are two major delights in the casting. First, there's Rebecca Ferguson ("Hercules," 2014) as ex MI6 agent Ilsa Faust, who is either a double agent or a double-cross agent. No spoiler here.

The casting of Simon Pegg as computer expert

MOVIE REVIEW

By Paul Willistein

Benji Dunn, who becomes Hunt's sidekick, is a smart choice. Pegg is not only a clownish compadre, but has a putty face which telegraphs quizzical looks. Cruise and Pegg make a great buddy odd couple.

The plot is not anything new particularly and is particularly convoluted, but it doesn't slow down or get in the way of the action. The screenplay conveys an underlying skepticism about embracing any political cause. "We only think we're fighting for the right side because that's what we choose to believe," it's stated.

Director Christopher McQuarrie ("Jack Reacher," 2012; "The Way Of The Gun," 2000) wrote the screenplay from a story he cowrote with Drew Pearce ("Iron Man 3," 2013) based on the TV series (1966-'73) written by Bruce Geller. "Mission: Impossible," with its globe-hopping locations, pacing, slickness and gadgets, has the earmarks of a James Bond or "Bourne Identify" film. There are old-fashioned blockbuster titles and credits that emphasize the excitement of the "Mission: Impossible" theme by Lalo Schiffrin.

If the mission of this movie was to return Tom Cruise to the top of the box-office, "Mission: Accomplished." The sixth installment of "Mission: Impossible" is in pre-production.

"Mission: Impossible - Rogue Nation" goes with the summer blockbuster season like melted butter on popcorn. Don't miss it on the big screen.

'Valley Vivaldi' season-ender

Pennsylvania Sinfonia Orchestra presents the fourth and final summer concert in its "Valley Vivaldi" series, 7:30 p.m. Aug. 16, Wesley Church, 2540 Center St., Bethlehem.

The concert is intended to pull out all the stops, combining music that is among the most recognized and best-loved in the classical repertoire with an internationally-accomplished guest performer greatly admired in the Lehigh Valley.

One highlight is "The Four Seasons" by Antonio Vivaldi, a joyous, familiar piece. In four distinct concertos, the instruments deftly create an aural picture of nature and the characteristic weather in each of the year's seasons. Joining the Valley Vivaldi ensemble musicians as guest soloist for the work is violinist Paul Chou.

Chou taught orchestral studies at Lehigh University for 13 years and founded the Lehigh University Philharmonic Orchestra. During this period (the 1990's and into the 2000's) he performed often with the Pennsylvania Sinfonia Orchestra. His musical career also took him around the globe to China, Europe, Latin America and Africa, as well as appearances at the Kennedy Center, Washington, D.C.

Paul Chou

Chou maintains a dual life as not just an active musician, but with a professional career in business that began on Wall Street before his time at Lehigh. He held senior executive positions at PaineWebber and Balfour Maclaine Corp. and is now a Senior Client Partner at Korn-Ferry International. He and his wife and son live in Gladwyne, Montgomery County. Chou is music director of the newly-formed Steamboat Chamber Orchestra, Steamboat Springs, Col.

The concert opens with the Oboe d'amore concerto in A, BWV 1055 by J.S. Bach. Soloist for the piece is Cheryl Bishkoff, principal oboist for the Sinfonia, who also performs regularly with the Rhode Island Philharmonic, Symphony New Hampshire, Boston Symphony and Boston Ballet.

The program features a Baroque work for large ensemble, Sinfonia Concertante in A minor by Czech composer Jan Dismas Zelenka. Frequent attendees of Valley Vivaldi have become more familiar with Zelenka's intricate harmonies and counterpoint in recent summers, as Sinfonia Music Director Dr. Allan Birney has programmed several Zelenka works.

In addition to Chou and Bishkoff, orchestra personnel for the program are violinists Mary Ogletree and Rebecca Brown, violist Agnès Maurer, cellist Naomi Gray, double bassist Nancy Merriam, oboist Nobuo Kitagawa, bassoonist Susan Shaw and harpsichordist Allan Birney.

A reception with refreshments follows the concert.

Although the "Valley Vivaldi" series will not reappear until next summer, concert-goers can take comfort in knowing that the Sinfonia's regular season of orchestral concerts begins Oct. 3.

Pennsylvania Shakespeare Festival's "Les Misérables" sold out its entire run at 103 percent capacity.

Audience, revenue best-ever for Pa. Shakespeare Festival

With landmark attendance, ticket revenues exceeding $1 million for the first time, a 45 percent increase in subscriptions and a main stage production playing to 103 percent capacity, the Pennsylvania Shakespeare Festival (PSF) 24th season closed Aug. 2.

"We are grateful to our growing base of patrons for their tremendous encouragement and support this season," said Patrick Mulcahy, PSF producing artistic director. "From 'Les Misérables,' which completely sold out its entire, glorious run of 22 performances, playing to a total audience of 10,700, to Shakespeare's 'Henry V' and 'Pericles,' patrons experienced what some of the finest theater artists in the nation can do when they join the PSF team here in Center Valley."

Overall attendance of 38,615 represents the highest since PSF was founded in 1992, and a 15 percent growth compared to 2014.

"Reaching the widest possible audience is as much a part of our mission and vision as producing world-class theater," said Mulcahy. "It's a great season when we do both."

The full 2016 season, to be announced soon, is expected to include the opening musical, "West Side Story," based on Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet," to celebrate PSF's 25th season.

The season's success complements a $3.5-million campaign designed to fund world-class work close to home and to continue making artistic and education programming available to the widest possible audience. Funds raised will double the endowments that fund these programs, increase the company's annual operating funds, and fund equipment and technology upgrades. To date, the campaign has raised $3 million towards its goal.

In addition, the annual PSF fundraising Gala set a records for attendance.

PSF's 140-plus performances of seven productions featured 33 professional Equity actors as part of a seasonal company staff of more than 200 artists and artisans from 23 states, including award-winning directors and designers.

"Les Misérables" opened the Main Stage to critical acclaim with testimonials to its enduring power and to Associate Artistic Director Dennis Razze's direction: "The stupendous version of 'Les Misérables' ... certifies the Pennsylvania Shakespeare Festival as one of the region's major producers of musicals," wrote Howard Shapiro of WHYY Newsworks.

"Henry V" won praise from The Reading Eagle's George Hatza as "breath-taking," and praised Zack Robidas performance in the title role for "[finding] all of Henry's nuances. ... It is a powerful turn, worthy of an actor who has accepted the challenge and triumphed."

PSF's fourth "extreme Shakespeare" production, "Pericles" won raves from audiences and critics alike: "Shakespeare Fest's 'Pericles' is a wild, satisfying ride," wrote Kathy Lauer-Williams of The Morning Call. "It is astonishing to see what a group of talented actors can do with a script after only four days of rehearsal." PSF customarily rehearses 3.5 weeks.

"What impressed me most about what the actors accomplished with 'Pericles' was an exquisite balance and fluidity between the whimsical and free-spirited atmosphere one might have found in an Elizabethan playhouse and the poignancy and impact of the emotionally richer moments in the play," said Mulcahy, who cast 'Pericles.' "I'm so pleased our audience had a chance to experience this lesser-known but fascinating work and to do so in a production that I heard most often described as 'magical.'"

For the fifth year, PSF performed two plays in repertory with the same actors on the Main Stage: this season, 'Henry V' alternated with Larry Shue's comedy "The Forfeigner," which set a record as the highest attended rep production and sold more tickets than any non-musical in the past seven years. In the Lehigh Valley Press, Paul Willistein wrote, "The production crackles with energy" and described it as "side-splitting comedy ... a definitive interpretation."

A PSF audience favorite 10 years ago, "Around The World In 80 Days," adapted by Mark Brown from Jules Verne, was equally well-received this season and a performance was added to accommodate demand. Lauer-Williams of The Morning Call wrote: "[Around The World In 80 Days] proves that with skillful actors and deft direction, you can fill a stage with dozens of characters, exotic locales and hilarious situations."

PSF's 24th season also featured two one-night-only performances: Dan Hodge's interpretation of Shakespeare's "The Rape Of Lucrece," and a concert by Jeremiah James, who made his debut earlier in the season as Javert in "Les Misérables."

Integral to PSF programming since its inception, children's shows continued to delight families. The PSF-commissioned "Rapunzel" came close to setting an attendance record, as did this summer's "Shakespeare For Kids."

The 2015 Season Sponsor was Amaranth Foundation. Associate Season Sponsors were Dr. James and Penny Pantano, Linda Lapos and Paul Wirth, the Szarko Family, and The Harry C. Trexler Trust.

Pennsylvania Shakespeare Festival is a professional company in residence on the idyllic Center Valley campus of DeSales University, featuring acclaimed actors from New York, Philadelphia and Los Angeles, with Broadway television, and film credits. DeSales theater majors have the chance to intern at PSF, filling in as ensemble members and learning from a cast of seasoned, working professionals.

LVHN in cancer-care alliance with Memorial Sloan Kettering

Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center (MSK) and Lehigh Valley Health Network (LVHN) have announced the beginning of a collaboration aimed at improving patient access to the latest and most effective cancer treatment advances and highest-caliber cancer care.

Leaders from both institutions gathered Aug. 4 to mark the first step in announcing a recently signed agreement for LVHN to join the Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Alliance.

The MSK Cancer Alliance was established in 2013. In September 2014, Hartford HealthCare Cancer Institute became MSK's first Alliance member.

"For more than a century, Memorial Sloan Kettering has been delivering exceptional, patient-focused cancer care and has generated the scientific discoveries necessary to further develop effective new treatments," said Craig Thompson, MD, President and CEO of MSK.

"Memorial Sloan Kettering chose Lehigh Valley Health Network because of our dedication to delivering high-quality, consistent cancer care across the region, and because of the proven expertise of our physicians and medical teams," said Brian Nester, DO, President and CEO of LVHN.

MSK's desire to create and grow this Alliance was fueled in part by a 2013 Institute of Medicine (IOM) report that described the challenges of delivering high-quality cancer care as a "national crisis."

The IOM noted that by 2030, new diagnoses are expected to reach 2.3 million a year as the country's population ages, and that there are simply not enough oncology specialists to care for patients.

During the next several months, MSK will guide LVHN toward strengthening its patient care and clinical cancer research programs. Teams of physicians and other healthcare providers from both institutions will work side by side to ensure that resources, capabilities, and standards of care are in line with the highest and of the MSK Cancer Alliance.

Additionally, LVHN physicians will have opportunities to visit MSK's Manhattan facilities to observe new techniques, and both institutions will share educational resources and begin the process of putting into place the infrastructure necessary to measure outcomes data.

"We are excited to work alongside MSK and the future members of the Alliance to discover new, innovative cancer treatments," said Suresh Nair, MD, director, LVHN cancer program.

While this intensive review period occurs, some LVHN physicians will also have the opportunity to meet with and discuss their more complex cancer cases with MSK physicians, who have experience in treating different forms of cancers and related blood disorders, including rare cancers that are simply not often seen in a community setting.

Central to the MSK Cancer Alliance is creating a strong foundation and system for the expansion and integration of MSK's clinical trials program into LVHN's community and surrounding region.

With more than 800 clinical trials available at its facilities, MSK is leading the nation's effort in seeking new and better ways to treat cancer, and being able to provide LVHN patients the opportunity to participate in clinical trials not previously available.

Memorial Sloan Kettering is the world's oldest and largest private cancer center, home to more than 14,000 physicians, scientists, nurses and staff.

Lehigh Valley Health Network's (LVHN) cancer program is the only one in the region to be selected a National Cancer Center Community Cancer Centers Program, and was responsible for the care of 3,200 newly-diagnosed cancer patients in 2014.

LVHN includes five hospital campuses: three in Allentown, one in Bethlehem and one in Hazleton; 13 health centers in five counties; primary and specialty-care physician practices in the region; pharmacy, imaging, home health services and lab services, and preferred provider services through Valley Preferred.

The terms and conditions of any proposed lease must be pre-approved by the school district by August 20, 2015. Bidders who intend to submit bids for lease financing should submit proposed lease documents for review by the school district by August 13, 2015.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the Zoning Hearing Board of South Whitehall Township will conduct a public hearing on Wednesday August 26, 2015 at 7:30 p.m., in the South Whitehall Township Municipal Building located at 4444 Walbert Avenue, Allentown, Lehigh County, Pennsylvania, for the following zoning appeals:

ZHB-2015-12: The appeal of Dudley and Carol Jinks seeking relief to be able to install and maintain a roofed front porch, on their dwelling located at 1903 Wehr Avenue. The appellants are seeking a front yard setback variance to the minimum requirement found in Section 12.28(c)(6). The subject property is zoned "R-4", Medium Density Residential.

ZHB-2015-11: The appeal of Tesla Motors (property owner is Tilghman Square Assocs LP) seeking relief to be able to install and maintain electric vehicle re-charging stations, on the Tilghman Square Shopping Center property, located at 4650 Broadway. The appellant is seeking a favorable interpretation that the re-charging of electric vehicles via their method should not be considered as establishment of a new and distinct Primary or Accessory Use for Section 12.28(c)(15) but that it is an acceptable accessory Off-Street parking space use. In the alternative, per Section 12.26(b), the appellant seeks a Similar Use Special Exception review that their proposal is similar in character and impact to a listed accessory use of Section 12.28(c)(15), namely, an Off-Street Parking Space. The subject property is zoned "HC-1", Highway Commercial - 1.

Also scheduled to be heard as a continued case is: ZHB-2015-10 Cedar Pointe West. Any above-referenced property is located in South Whitehall Township, Lehigh County, PA. Copies of any plans, applications, and/or supporting documents that were submitted can be available for public inspection at the Township Building during normal business hours where they may be examined without charge or obtained for a charge not greater than the cost thereof (it is recommended that appointments be made in advance). All appellants, or their representative with legal standing, must attend. All objectors and interested parties are invited to attend and will have the opportunity to be heard.
