Sierra Club support

Inside, the hearing started with Donald Miles, a resident of Bethlehem and a chairman of the local chapter of the Sierra Club, reading a statement in support of the project.

Miles said Pennsylvania is 20th in the world in production of greenhouse gas because of its dependence on fossil fuels. He said without clean, renewable energy sources the state would have the same climate as Georgia within the next few decades.

Miles told the board that cats kill more birds than wind turbines. He said fossil fuels would cause a greater potential risk to wildlife than the

LV Cup team falls in tourney

BY KATIE MCDONALD kmcdonald@tnonline.com

Lehigh Valley's Carpenter Cup team ended its Softball Classic run last week with a 2-1 loss in 10 innings against Tri-Cape after defeating Chester County 8-3 at FDR Park in Philadelphia.

"Maybe we just weren't as focused as a team," said Liberty's Kristin Kaleycik. "We really thought we were going to win it. We were the team to beat."

Lehigh Valley, a solid hitting team, found themselves hitting for outs in the Tri-Cape game.

"We were hitting right at people, or they made some good defensive plays," said Lehigh Valley coach Blake Mor-gan. "It was just one of those days. We just didn't get that break." Tri-Cape held a 1-0 lead for six innings when Emmaus's Cassie Burke scored on an RBI mates, coaches, everysingle by Parkland's one believed in me. They Shauna Frank to tie the

BASKETBALL Patriots looking for consistency in summer

BY PETER CAR pcar@tnonline.com

Summer league basketball is a time to try different lineups, play younger players and develop chemistry. For the Freedom boys this summer, it's been a challenge finding the right formula.

The Patriots were 4-5 heading into this week's contests with Bethle-hem Catholic and Allen, but head coach Joe Stellato knows there's still more to learn this summer with the Stellar Catch a Rising Star basweek and SportsFest the following weekend.

led them in scoring throughout their calendar of contests, but finding a number two option has been hit or miss.

Tyler Muniz and Jason Hall have been two other players that Stellato has credited for good performances, but finding consistent performers outside of King has been the struggle.

"We need to see more from the other guys," said Stellato. "We just haven't had the best summer so far."

Liberty is near the top of the pack with a 7-2 ketball tournament next record, as they squared off against an undefeated Reading (9-0) team "We haven't been aying real well so far on Tuesday night. The Hurricanes close out the playing real well so far this summer," said Stel-lato. "We've been trying on Wednesday and a tough test against Park on Wednesday and a tough test against Parkland (7-2) on Thursday.

Camps offer options for summer fun

BY PETER CAR pcar@tnonline.com

Sports camp in the summer are common place across the country. but Bethlehem Sports Camps is offering an array of camps this summer to keep kids active during their time off from school.

Joe Stellato, the head boys' basketball coach at Freedom, has organized these events over the past six years and oversees the coordination of football, basketball, base-ball, softball and wrestling camps throughout the summer.

Stellato had 85 football players attend a camp in mid June at the Bethlehem Township Athletic Association's fields led by Freedom head coach Jason Roeder.

Camp attendees, ranging from ages 7-15, went through various drills and activities that they can expect to see when they reach the high school level, as they were instructed by an array of high school and college coaches, as well as for- drills during the recently held mer NFL players including the event. likes of Tim Moncman (Parkland head coach), Jeff Pukszyn (Moravian College head coach), Bob Stem time. search is on

The search is on for the 2016 Great Allentown Fair Queen, a $1,000 educational scholarship opportunity for a young woman selected to represent the fair's mission during the event's Labor Day week run, at the State Fair Queen Contest in January and in the community throughout the year.

The Lehigh County Agricultural Society, the nonprofit organization that has been operating the fair for 164 vears, is looking for contestants from Lehigh, counties who possess an ability to communicate enthusiasm for the Allentown Fair, local farming and the agricultural industry.

Young women ages 16 to 20 years of age are encouraged to enter the competition that awards a $1,000 scholarship presented by Lehigh-Northampton Pomona Grange #68 to the winner, who will reign over various activities at the upcoming Allentown Fair running Aug. 30 – Sept. 5. The deadline for registration is June 30.

The queen's duties extend to promoting the fair's purpose all year at events and speaking engagements throughout the community. She will also go on to vie for the title of Pennsylvania State Fair Queen in Hershey in January, a position that involves visiting fairs during the summer months of 2017.

Gofundme begun for Bud Cole's recovery

BY PAUL WILLISTEIN pwillistein@tnonline.com

Bud Cole, long-time columnist for the Lehigh Valley Press whose award-winning "Bud's View" appears in the Focus section, is grateful for the friends and relatives who've helped him in his recovery.

Chief among these has been Sandy L. Burkart, PT, OCS, PhD, a fraternity brother at East Stroudsburg University and retired West Virginia University Professor and Chairman of Physical Therapy.

Burkart has spearheaded a gofundme campaign to help retrofit the Lehigh Township house where Bud Cole lives with his wife, Bev.

'What I am trying to convince him is that he can return to writing and he can return to nature. We just have to do some adaptations," says Burkart in a phone interview.

"He's walking well now. His sense of humor is still good, even though his jokes are still bad," Burkart quips.

This year, Cole received his second Keystone Press Award, taking Second Place, Sports-Outdoor Column, Division VII, for "Bud's View," with three representative columns from 2015 submitted for the annual Pennsylvania NewsMedia Association Foundation contest. The June 29 "Bud's View" on this page is his first since his column, and the tracking and tagging nia Game News, The Boater July 15, 2015. The next day, Cole entered the hospital.

"They're such a lovely couple," Burkart says of the Coles. "They've gone through hell and back. But he's on his way back.'

Coincidentally, Burkart and Cole were both admitted to the hospital July 16, 2015 (though for reasons unrelated). Upon his discharge, Burkart has followed Bud's long journey in the ICU. He has prayed incessantly for Bud's recovery.

"Bud will require continuous care for several months and will need many support services and specialized equipment to assist in his re-covery," says Burkart. "The goal is to improve the quality of their lives, regain Bud's total independence and mobility and have him continue to write about and explore nature

"My wife and I and friends will purchase and train a new dog for them. The litter will be born in the fall. The breeder will house-break the pup and help with the training.'

"With Bev by his side; the support of many friends, teaching colleagues and fraternity brothers; and divine intervention, Bud woke up from a coma and began his road to a slow, yet progressive recovery, demonstrating his steadfast will to live and serve.

"Three weeks into his rehabilitation, he relearned how to walk and to use his paralyzed right arm.

'Reminiscent of the good old days, Bud walks, talks, smiles and laughs, recalls memories (and bad jokes!) and is very motivated to recover."

Continues Burkart, "This loving couple is now in need of our support as Buddy continues his rehabilitation and is the reason we have launched the gofundme account.

"In addition to making home modifications necessary to aid in Bud's recovery (i.e., ramps, doorway access, bathroom accessibility, seated stair-climber unit, computerized home security and video system, seated all-terrain scooter and car lift, fencing for a dog run, and a computer, monitor, printer, software and scanner), we are also seeking to provide in-house home services.'

A gofundme account, gofundme.com/bud-cole, has been established by Burkart with the Rotary Club of Boca Raton Sunrise, Fla., to raise funds for Bud Cole's rehabilitation.

The account is administered by Ira Herschbein, CPA, treasurer of the Rotary Club Foundation. He will distribute the monies directly to Bud and Bev Cole. This will ductible.

BUD'S VIEW By Bud Cole

I want to thank all my readers for the cards, emails and personal phone calls. Your kind support helped me through nine months in the hospital and rehab facilities. I also want to thank my friends and hospital staff. Finally, I would not be home now if not for my loving wife, Bev, pushing me to not give up. She continually told the doctors during my first two months in a coma to do everything possible to save me because I was strong and I would want to pull through.

Now let's get back to work. My unplanned leave from writing my column and enjoying our home and wooded property reinforced in me how much there is to miss in life. It can happen out of nowhere. I entered the hospital in mid-July last year for out-patient hernia surgery, but due to complications and blood infections I was not able to return home until recently.

During the nine-plus months away from home I definitely missed Bev, our dog, Blue, and our cat, Charcheerful songs of our bird vious years they learned my missing the changing colors full-time during the ski sea-

Multiply that by the trees on our property (about antler sheds. 75; many are oaks) and you each year. Despite the time necessary to gather leaves I would have found it delightful compared to lying on my back in the hospital. Thanks to my friends and fraternity brothers for working on the leaves last fall.

I also missed the time afield hunting pheasants with Blue. Not only was it good exercise, it was great to watch Blue's natural instincts kick in as he trailed the pheasants' scents during our hunting jaunts. I'm not as good a shot as I once was and it was comical to see how Blue looked at me after we had walked for several hours and I missed a bird he had flushed. I imagine he thought, "I do all this work nose to the ground, aren't you supposed to hit them?"

I was not home to note the fall departures of the migrating birds. I always mark the date of the last ruby throatnectar feeders, the departure of other songbirds who spend their winters in the south and the arrival of the winter birds, like the juncos. The white throated sparrow, like the junco, flies south to spend the winter season in this area.

The majority of my winters, since retiring from teaching elementary school, have tography, skiing, snowshoe-I spent the rest of the sum- ing, traveling, playing with

The non-wildflower blooms of the narcissus. tulips, hyacinths, daffodils, dogwoods and forsythia were also missed. Fortunately, Bev brought in photos of the blooms on her IPad.

> One goal in writing my column has been to extend my teaching career through writing about the wonders of nature. If you've learned anything from reading this column I hope you see how important it is to not stress out on the small issues, to appreciate every minute of life and to take notice of the beautiful world around you. We have no way of telling what can happen to us at any moment. So please take time to smell the roses, and the wildflowers. Life is short. Enjoy it to the fullest.

We praise 'Julius Caesar' at Pa. Shakespeare Fest

BY PAUL WILLISTEIN pwillistein@tnonline.com

All roads lead to Rome, it once was said.

In William Shakespeare's "Julius Cae-sar," and to paraphrase another aphorism, the roads are paved with good intentions.

ironically and perhaps foreshadowing one of the great tragedies in United States' history, when Junius, Jr., Edwin and John Wilkes Booth appeared in "Julius Caesar," Nov. 25, 1864, Winter Garden The-ater, New York City, in a benefit to commission a Shakespeare statue in Central Park (it's still there).

John Wilkes Booth, who played Marc Ant-ony, lost the part he wanted, that of Brutus, to his brother, Edwin. John Wilkes Booth vowed he would someday make a name for himself. John Wilkes assassinated Booth President Abraham Lincoln April 14, 1865, in Ford Theatre, Washing-ton, D.C., shouting "Sic semper tyrannis!," the line Edwin Booth delivered as Brutus in that 1864 production of "Julius Caesar."

Life imitates art, as Oscar Wilde posited in 1889

"Julius Caesar" was said to reflect the end-ing of the Elizabethan Age and, with the elderly Queen Elizabeth not having or naming a successor, fears of a civil war happening in England similar to that in Rome as depicted in the play.

In the midst of this most turbulent U.S. presidential election year and as England's referendum went the way of all "Brexit" as the United Kingdom voted to leave the European Union, the PSF produc-tion of "Julius Caesar" could not be more time

The score by Thomas Newman is lovely.

"Finding Dory" is one of the few theatrical movie releases so far this year that can be recommended for the entire family. It is really a gentle film, with little or no double-entendres, little or no violence and an overall cheerful, upbeat, happy tone. Even the Marine Life Institute sees to be controversy-free.

Most parents would do almost anything for their kids. Few of WARMEST us would quibble with REGARDS that.

Like many dads, especially those who were once competitive athletes, Bobby plays sports with his boys. As a former basketball standout and a current basketball coach, he teaches his sons how to play the game.

But it's not about how good they are, the coach says. It's about how much fun they have doing it and how much pride they have in being part of a team.

So I guess I would expect all that from a gung-ho coach who gives his all to working with kids.

But when his kids talk about "adven-tures" with their dad, they talk about things like going camping, doing motor sports and scuba diving.

Bobby knows it builds character for a kid to have to struggle for something.

As a coach, he hears some parents rail at him if their kids have time sitting on the bench. It's the rare parent who encourages a kid to work hard enough to earn a chance to play.

As a coach Bobby has his players practicing five days a week, sometimes twice a day. It's not all about winning, he says. It's about developing a work ethic, character and teamwork.

State Theatre 90th year A-Treat for Valley arts

To celebrate "90 Years of Wow" for the 2016-17 season, The State Theatre Center for the Arts, Easton, has unveiled a new logo, created by Kennan-Nagle Advertising, and a new community partnership with the Jaindl Companies & A-Treat soda.

Tickets for the 2016-17 season go on sale to State Theatre members Aug. 3 and to the public Aug. 17.

State Theatre patrons can now enjoy locally-produced A-Treat sodas and Jaindl Turkey Jerky at State Theatre concession stands.

"It is wonderful to connect two iconic brands, The State Theatre and A-Treat, in our historic venue," said Shelley Brown, State Theatre President and CEO.

"We are so excited to add these memorable flavors to our patrons' experience here. Just seeing the cans makes me smile. David Jaindl brought this product back by popular demand, just as we bring beloved artists here to the State. We look forward to a great, fun future together," Brown said.

The father and daughter exhibition, "Related Impressions: Rudy Ackerman and Ann Lalik,' continues through July 5 at Civic Theatre of Allentown Gallery514, 514 N. 19th St., Allentown.

"I always thought my dad and I would have a show together and I am sad he passed away before we did," stated Ann Lalik in her artist's statement.

Dr. Rudy Ackerman, award-winning sculptor, painter, printmaker who founded the Moravian College art department and was executive director and gallery director of the Baum School of Art, Allentown, died in May 2015 at age 82.

Among the numerous lives he influenced as an artist, teacher, administrator, and arts visionary was his daughter, Ann.

Lalik, Gallery Director at the Ronald K De Long Gallery and Arts

Coordinator at Penn State Lehigh Valley, is passionate about her role as a woman and an artist, stating, "I create wearable pieces depicting feminine archetypes. Jewelry as a metaphor exemplifies 'those things' we carry around with us ...

For this exhibition, I focused on the formal, design vocabulary of my father's work that holds a special place in my heart."

Michelle Neifert's exploration of color and light grace the walls of the David E. Rodale and Rodale Family Galleries, The Baum School of Art, 510 W. Linden St., Allentown.

"The Zen of Seeing," an exhibit of her calming, colorful creations, continues through July 7 at Baum.

"I wanted to be a painter since when I was five," said Neifert. She was inspired by her father's best friend, Mark, a graphic designer who would draw for her whenever he visited. "I was hooked," Neifert said. "My gosh! It's magic! You can make something appear that didn't exist before!'

realized that I was deficient in color.'

She decided that "I'm going to focus on color. I'm going to learn everything about it ... I set my mind to exploring, experimenting"and fell in love with it and everything about it.

Pennsylvania Shakespeare Festival tells a brilliant 'West Side Story'

BY PAUL WILLISTEIN pwillistein@tnonline.com

If you think you know "West Side Story," either from having seen a previous stage produc-tion or the 1961 movie version, think again.

Until you've seen the Pennsylvania Shakespeare Festival's production of "West Side Story" directed by PSF Associate Artistic Director Dennis Razze, you don't know "West Side Story.

PSF's "West Side Story" leaps, jumps and sings with excitement on the Main Stage, Labuda Center for the Performing Arts, where the classic 1957 musical continues through July 3 on the DeSales Universiicated to its founder Fa-

(The excitement continues for PSF 2017 with the opening night June 17 curtain talk announcement by PSF Producing Artistic Director Patrick Mulcahy that "Evita' opens PSF's 26th season.)

PSF production of "West Side," reviewed June 17, is Broadway-caliber on every level. It gleams like a switchblade, is as unforgettable as a favorite song and resonates with ripped-from-headlines reality thanks to its brilliant 36 actors and gifted technical artists:

PUBLIC NOTICE NOTICE OF CATASAUQUA ZONING HEARING

HEARING #2-16 JULY 12, 2016

The Catasauqua Zoning Hearing Board will hear the following appeals on Tuesday, July 12, 2016 at 7:30 P.M. in the Municipal Complex, 18 Bridge Street, Catasauqua, PA 18032.

Approval of the minutes of the May 17, 2016 meeting. APPEAL #8-14 Appeal of Frederick H. Silver, President of Medical Device Development, Inc., 557 Belvidere Corner Road, Mt. Bethel, PA. The appeal relates to the property at 2

Front Street, Catasauqua, PA familiarly known as Silver Manor. The property is located in the DC-Downtown Commercial Zoning District. In that district a Boarding House or Rooming House use is not permitted, neither is a personal care home/ assisted living facility. It is the Zoning Officer's determination that the use is a preexisting, non-conforming use pursuant to a special exception permit issued by the Zoning Hearing Board in December, 1988 to allow for the use of the property as a personal care residence for the elderly. Specifically the appellant is:

- 1) Appealing the Determination of the Zoning Officer that the property can only be used as a personal care home/assisted living facility; or
- 2) In the alternative the Appellant is seeking a variance by estoppels by alleging prior municipal acquiescence; and
- 3) The Appellant is seeking a use variance to operate the facility as a boarding house

This is a continuation of a hearing begun on September 23, 2014. Appeal of Wilbur Hill, 928 6th Street, Whitehall, PA for variances relating to the establishment of an additional dwelling unit in the property at 231 Church Street, Catasauqua, PA, and the appeal of a zoning enforcement notice issued April 25, 2016. The property is located in an R-3 High Density Residential Zoning District. Specifically, with respect to the variances, the applicant is requesting a use variance from Section 280-25 and attachment 1, The Table of Permitted Uses by District, Primarily Non-Residential Districts, Note 1, which relating to the minimum indoor heated living area required for apartment conversions; a two-car variance from the off-street parking requirements of Section 280-38A; an 80 square foot variance from the requirements of Section 280-54C relating to the minimum size of dwellings; and a variance from the requirements of Section 280-54C for the location of the proposed dwelling not being primarily above the level of the ground. The applicant is also requesting an interpretation that the building is existing and non-conforming with respect to any dimensional requirements of the ordinance.

Appeal of Pennsylvania Venture Capital, Inc., 1177 6th Street, Whitehall, PA, for Section 280-30D (5) (c) [2]. The applicant is requesting a two-foot height variance to allow for the placement of a section of six-foot high fence adjacent APPEAL #3-16 to a stairway, on a corner property at 126 Bridge Street, Catasauqua, PA. The property is located in the DC-Downtown Commercial Zoning District.

Appeal of Feline Finish Line, 415 Prospect Street, Catasauqua, PA, for a use variance to establish a feline rescue shelter and kennel at 415 Prospect Street. The applicant is also requesting variances from Sections 280-29A (17) (a) and (b) relating to area and setbacks, and Section 280-29A (17) (h) relating to inspec tions and compliance with applicable regulations and inspections. The property is located in an R-2 Medium Density Residential Zoning District. Any other business that comes before the Board.

Describes my class: Vibrant Why that word: The people in my class have an incredibly broad range of interests. Among us are photographers, athletes, musicians, writers, mathletes, volunteers, inventors, peer tutors, artists, actors, singers, dancers, and activists, just to name a few! My peers have taught me so much about what it's like to be truly passionate about something and how to be an outstanding part of both local and global communities. Top school memory: In middle school one of my Mathcounts coaches pulled me aside at the competition, since I was very nervous, and told me to never underestimate what I could do. Jawhara Maria Karam, valedictorian

Parents: Badway and Yvonne Karam

College: Drexel University Career plans: I plan on pursuing a career in biology with a focus on research. Describes my class: Potential Why that word: We've accomplished a lot as a class. We have classmates attending prestigious colleges, such as William and Mary, UC Berkeley, and Notre Dame. While at Notre Dame, we stood for twenty-four hours to raise money for kids with cancer. Throughout our four vears at Notre Dame, my class helped the school raise nearly $300,000 for Four Diamonds. We witnessed the football team claim the title of district champions for the first time in school history. The girls' soccer team advanced to the district finals after a game of double overtime, which was also a first for Notre Dame. We had a strong senior year in athletics. academics, and extracurriculars. As seniors, we took our responsibility as leaders of the school seriously. The Class of 2016's potential is truly limitless. Top school memory: When I was a freshman, the school kicked off THON, our 24-hour dance marathon, by gathering all the dancers outside. It was the middle of February, so it was freezing. The energy and enthusiasm in the student body was so electrifying, however, that I didn't feel cold at all. Together, we rushed into the school screaming "FTK" (For the Kids) and despite my earlier reservations about being able to stand for 24 hours, I felt ready at that particular moment. Hui Chen Message to classmates: | hope my classmates pursue their passions and hold on to the Christian values that Notre Dame has taught us. I hope that my classmates will be able to look back on their high school years and think to themselves that their time at Notre Dame really helped them grow into the wonderful people they were meant to be.

Ross Sonnenblick, valedictorian

Parents: Melissa and Jordan Sonnenblick

College: Tufts University Career plans: I would love to be the U.S. Secretary of State someday, and I hope to find time to work in some creative writing along the way.

Top school memory: I loved the excitement of the weeks leading up to our graduation. People shored up friendships and even established new ones while schoolwork was conveniently kept to a minimum.

Secret of success: I legitimately appreciate learning. I don't think I could have studied as much as I did if I hadn't somewhat enjoyed the process. Plus, I tried to develop close relationships with my teachers, which made the classes more pleasurable. My teachers were invaluable resources and inspiring people.

Message to classmates: Opti-

mism is contagious, and I think people generally enjoy being around those who seem excited about life.

These Freedom graduates look forward to their commencement ceremony and moving on to the next phase of their lives.

As a class speaker I'm supposed to tell you the best times of our lives are just around the river bend, and that statement is basically true. But I'd be sorely remiss if I didn't remind all of us that rough seas are bound to be ahead.

With Lamp of Knowledge award in hand, Jeremy Parker beams over his academic success at Freedom.

Julia Ingarao had the love and support of her parents, Santo and Robyn, on graduation night. She will attend Highpoint University and major in business.

May Wai, valedictorian

Parents: Tun and Nandar Wai College: Johns Hopkins University

Career plan: Dermatology Describes my class: Resilient Why that word: With so many of the previous generation trying to label a whole generation as petulant or brain dead due to technology, our class has remained undaunted. We strive for goals most would dismiss as unattainable. We show more kindness to others than they have shown to us. We dare to break molds imposed upon our society. We are facing challenges never before seen by those who have come before us. The same individuals who would see us as little more than privileged drones have left for us a world brimming with issues and no. solutions. It's with this resilience and ambition that we go forth to look for those solutions.

Top school memory: The people who accompanied me on the journey made passing events into favorite memories. I think my top memory (which is more of a compilation of memories) would be standing next to one of my oldest friends whenever we would medal in Science Olympiad competitions. The places and years are fuzzy but walking up next to him will stay with me.

Top school memory: earning a

gold medal for an epidemiological event with one of my oldest friends - Ben Kussmaul - as my partner.

Secret to success: Understand that one does not have to excel in all things. Pursue your passions and in the pursuit of them, you will often find yourself having travelled further than you had realized on the momentum of said passion. Most importantly, don't berate yourself for others' successes.

Message to classmates: Each of those passing faces in the halls or on the streets have something new to teach you. Be humble.

LEHIGH VALLEY PRESS SUPPLEMENT 17.

Student's parents: David and Lorraine Deshler College: Villanova University Career plans: I am majoring in biochemistry with a pre-med track. I plan to attend a medical school and become a physician. Describes my class: Supportive Why that word: Our class was always willing to go the extra mile to help each other out. It never mattered what sports people played or what clubs they were in. If anybody found themselves in a difficult situation, there was always somebody there to lend a supportive ear or help in whatever way possible. This extended far beyond the classroom as well. The dedication and compassion put into our volunteer work shows how amazing our class was. We were active, passionate, supportive, sincere, kind, intelligent, ambitious, humorous, faithful, and just everything somebody could hope to have for in a class.

Top school memory: Cheering on the football team with the rest of the band as the team played in the state playoffs. And then seeing during Pit band some of those same football players dancing and performing the Conga in our school musical, Wonderful Town.

Since 1936

Message to classmates: Never forget Beca and never take it for granted. We were fortunate enough to attend an amazing school. Never forget the teachers who cared about who we were as individuals. They strived every day to leave us with the intelligence and compassion to become a better person, and to be ready to face the world justly. Never forget the friends we have made. The ones who cheered with us during football games, stressed with us over a Tarnowski essay, cried with us when the pressure became too much, laughed with us over lunch, and stuck with us through it all. Never forget the memories that make us smile and the ones that made us cringe. Beca taught us what we need for our future, pride, passion and purpose.

Lehigh Valley Charter High School for the Arts

Monday, June 13, Asa Packer Chapel

Livia C. Oliver, student speaker

Parents: Mr. and Mrs. Barry D. Garner and Mr. Donald A. Oliver College: Savanna College of Art and Design, Savanna, Georgia Career plans: Majoring in animation

Describes my class: Diverse Why that word: Every artist in the school is unique in their own way. They all have a range of talents that go beyond their major and they are all striving to learn new things.

Top school memory: I remember in my sophomore year, the snow was so bad that most of our teachers were late. Because much of the staff were late; we couldn't start classes. So in the meantime, the faculty that was there put on a small "talent show" completely unrehearsed in front of the students. I thank Livia C. Oliver the faculty for such a hilarious memory.

Message to classmates: I couldn't have asked for a better group of peers. I'm so thankful I'm surrounded by likeminded people and so many different kinds of artists.

This contingent of Charter Arts Class of 2016 grads are looking forward to a bright future.

Your choices have created you. Realize the vastness that that phrase holds and strive to apply this to your everyday life. It's all a choice. We build our personalities. Much in relation to your art, you create yourself.
