Navy Brothers
Meet For First Time In Two Years FEB 22 1944

Two brothers, James L. Broughal Jr., and Lawrence Broughal, both with the rank of Petty Officer Third Class, met Sunday for the first time in two years. The former had a 72-hour leave; the latter getting a respite of 10 days. They enjoyed a dinner at the family table and had ample opportunity to talk things over. Petty Officer Third Class Charles Thompson of Minneapolis, Minn., was the guest of James.

Since the brothers donned the U. S. Navy uniforms, both have seen real action, James in the South Atlantic, and Lawrence in the North Atlantic. In the squadron to which James is assigned, they accounted for taking six German subs out of circulation. His brother, Lawrence, also saw some action in the North Atlantic, but what happened was not made known.

James has been in the Navy 26 months and his brother 21 months. Both graduated from Liberty High School.
