Commonwealth Court gives Atiyeh a victory

By BERNIE O'HARE
 Special to the Bethlehem Press

After suffering a series of legal setbacks before zoning hearing boards and planning commissions, developer Abe Atiyeh has finally won one. A three-judge Commonwealth Court panel has cleared the way for a privately run, 300-bed facility in Bethlehem Township.

Speaking for the court, Senior Judge Rochelle Friedman ruled that the township's exclusion of prisons from its zoning ordinance makes it unconstitutional. Pouring salt into the wound, she also awarded Atiyeh site-specific relief, enabling him to build a prison at 4255 Fritch Drive, located in an industrial park near Route 191.

That's where Atiyeh had originally intended to build a 300-bed work release and treatment center for Northampton County. Bethlehem Township zoners repeatedly blocked him.

After three decisions in the courts, he finally received a green light for the facility, but by then, the county's interest had waned. County Executive John Stoffa and Atiyeh eventually decided on a smaller facility in West Easton.

In the meantime, Atiyeh sought a curative amendment to the zoning ordinance, which fails to provide for prisons, but was rebuffed in a January 2011 decision by Senior Judge Michael Franciosa. The Commonwealth Court's April 5 decision reverses both the township's Board of Commissioners as well as Franciosa's 2011 decision.

"We won the case, but lost the customer," Atiyeh complained, condemning the stall tactics he faces from many municipalities, even when zoning relief should be obvious.

"They find a way to stall you and block you until the customer goes away," Atiyeh lamented, noting he has spent more than $300,000 in legal and engineering fees for the Bethlehem Township site.

"It's about time that somebody stands up to those municipalities and slaps them with a lawsuit to teach them a lesson, and I just might be the guy to do it," Atiyeh declared.

But Paul Weiss, president of the township's Board of Commissioners, said the township never really had any control over Atiyeh's proposed work release facility.

"That's a function of the Zoning Hearing Board," he said. "Our hands were tied."

Weiss added that, although Atiyeh did seek a zoning change to allow for prisons, Weiss never saw an actual plan.

"We told him, 'Submit a plan and we'll look at it.'"

Attempts to reach Bethlehem Township Zoning Hearing Board members were unsuccessful.

Atiyeh said he will now market the site to county, state and federal governments for a private prison.

Weiss indicated it's unlikely commissioners will ask the Pa. Supreme Court for review.

COUNTY Judges issue ban on deputy

By BERNIE O'HARE
 Special to the Bethlehem Press

A deputy sheriff who has been critical of Northampton County judges has been banned from their courtrooms. On April 2, a court order was filed, banning Deputy Sheriff Thomas Bachik from all courtrooms, secured areas or mediation rooms. What makes this unusual, perhaps even unprecedented, is that the order is signed by the entire nine-judge bench.

Bachik, treasurer of the Northampton County Deputy Sheriffs Association, is no stranger to controversy. He's appeared before county council to complain about back pay owed for joint patrols with Easton police and for security at football. Now, in addition to accusing judges of playing favorites, he's complained that President Judge F. P. Kimberly McFadden endangered the personal safety of deputies when she publicly ordered that a suspected gang member be transported to state prison the very next day.

Bachik was concerned there could be an ambush, but the prisoner was transported without incident.

According to sources close to the court, McFadden issued that order out of concern for the prisoner's safety.

Sheriff Randy Miller, Bethlehem's former police commissioner, insisted on transporting the prisoner as directed by the judge. So Bachik and other union members are spearheading a movement to amend the Home Rule Charter to provide that sheriffs be elected instead.

'Not from my neighborhood'

In October, it was 11-year-old girls, and they were bad enough. Now, it's something far more sinister and dangerous - 10-year-old boys.

Residents of Bethlehem Estates, one of Bethlehem Township's more upscale neighborhoods, resent the use of a 6.59-acre park nestled at the end of Anthony Court for kids's soccer. In October, it was the girls, playing games every Saturday with Lehigh Valley Magic. Commissioner Tom Nolan agreed at the time that the weekly traffic "does saturate that little area."

zler said the girls would only be there for one season.

Now, a team of 10-year-old boys use this pocket park for soccer practice with the FC Falcons twice a week. Many of the children on that team are township residents. To eliminate traffic and noise concerns, no scrimmages or games are permitted. But this is still too much for residents like Douglas Drive's Ronald Meldrum.

At an April 2 meeting, Meldrum told township commissioners that practices are noisy and make it difficult for him to take a nap. What bothers him most, he said, is that the people using the field "are not from my neighborhood."

Anthony Drive resident John Murphy reminded commissioners that his is a wealthier neighborhood.

"Do you guys have any idea how much taxes we pay in that community there?" he asked. "I guarantee that, with five houses, we're talking $60,000 a year."

Murphy called the park an

'A Night to Remember'

The unsinkable Titanic sank 100 years ago this weekend. How significant is it to remember the 100th anniversary of this event?

Event to mark 100th anniversary of Titanic's sinking

"I think it's pretty significant to remember all of the people who lost their lives on that date."
Matthew Carty
Bethlehem

"It's extremely significant because there was gross negligence and all of the fuss, and lives lost. It continues to happen today."
Tina Cantelmi Bradford
Bethlehem

"It's a piece of history so I think it would be significant. A lot lost their lives and other lives were ruined."
Patti Althouse
Hanover Twp.

"I think it's really just the media, and people getting on the bandwagon."
Pat DeWolfe
Allentown

"I'm into scuba diving so I think it is more significant for people like me, but for many other people it's the movie about Titanic that they'll think of mostly."
Karl Welty
Fountain Hill

"It's very significant because so many people lost their lives and the ship was supposed to be unsinkable. For those who survived and went on to successful lives, their stories are remarkable. Also, back then there were so many classes on the ship and when it sank a person's social class didn't matter."

The HMS Titanic is coming to downtown Bethlehem April 20 in the form of a dinner at the Hotel Bethlehem to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the sinking of the grandiose ocean liner in 1912.

Just before midnight on April 14 the White Star Line cruise ship on its maiden voyage to America struck an iceberg. Several hours later some 1,500 passengers and crew members perished as the ship sank in the ice-cold waters of the North Atlantic Ocean.

Newspaper headlines called the tragic accident the worst maritime disaster of its time.

The Hotel Bethlehem and the Historic Bethlehem Partnership are jointly presenting a titanic event titled "A Night to Remember," from a 1958 book and a subsequent movie about the sinking of the storied cruise ship told from the memories of the survivors.

"We are thrilled to be partnering with Historic Bethlehem on this event," Dennis J. Costello, general manager of the hotel said in a press release. "The sinking of the Titanic is such a poignant event in American history that we wanted to mark the anniversary with a tribute that would be respectful, enlightening and entertaining."

Proceeds from the evening event in the Grand Ballroom of the hotel will benefit HBP, a nonprofit organization which promotes and preserves Bethlehem history.

According to HBP Managing Director Lori-Ann Wukisch, Titanic artifacts and reproductions will be on display. Wukisch and HBP President Charlene Donchez Mowers plan to wear Edwardian era clothing.

"Attendees are encouraged to dress up for the occasion," added Wukisch who stressed that the request is optional.

There will also be special music by the Uke Jackson Jim Sing Roots Band which will play appropriate music for the Titanic era, such as ragtime, blues and jazz. Featured soloist Arielle Finer and accompanying musicians will perform several numbers from the movie "Titanic."

The highlight of the evening will be a five-course dinner prepared Titanic collectibles from personal collections will be on display during the upcoming "A Night to Remember" 100th anniversary commemorative dinner at Hotel Bethlehem April 20. Katie Klein of Bethlehem shows off a framed set of Titanic china from her late husband's large collection. Among Charles Klein's coveted acquisitions is a cordial glass, bottom left, and a demitasse cup from the Titanic's sister ships of the White Star Line. The decorated dinner plate was used in the 1997 James Cameron "Titanic" movie and later sold as a souvenir.

Barbara Thayer holds a recent Smithsonian Magazine with a cover story about Titanic survivors. Her late husband's grandfather traveled with his family on the Titanic, which struck an iceberg and sank April 15, 1912. The black and white portrait on the fireplace mantle is her husband, Fred Thayer, who worked for Bethlehem Steel.

and served from the original menu from the Titanic dining room on the last night of its maiden voyage. Executive Chef Frederica Muggenburg has recreated the event's menu from the original 10-course Titanic dinner served in the first class dining room.

Hotel Bethlehem historian and concierge Natalie Boch says each guest will receive a commemorative boarding pass before entering the hotel's Grand Ballroom.

She says the 100th anniversary celebration has cast a magic spell on Titanic events this year.

"We're putting a lot of effort into this commemorative event," she says.

Special guests, special ties

Several special guests from Bethlehem have unusual ties to the Titanic and will be a part of the event's historical program.

Barbara Thayer is related to several passengers on the Titanic. Her late husband's grandfather and his family sailed on the ill-fated ship. Fred Thayer worked for Bethlehem Steel as head of the Financial Planning Department.

In her Wall Street home in Bethlehem's historic district Thayer proudly recounted her family's role in Titanic lore.

Holding up a sepia-toned five-by-seven-inch portrait family heirloom, "This is John B. Thayer, who was traveling on the Titanic with his wife Marian and son John," said Thayer.

She went on to say that the father, a railroad magnate from Philadelphia, went down with the ship, but his wife and 17-year-old son, "Jack," were among the fortunate survivors.

She added that Jack later wrote a self-published account of his Titanic experiences, which was allegedly read by James Cameron, who Kathie Klein of Bethlehem will also share her Titanic ties with the other guests. Selected items from her late husband's remarkable Titanic collection of memorabilia and artifacts will be on loan for the event only.

"My husband Charles was a member of the Titanic Historical Society and I accompanied him to numerous conventions and shows. I became a lover of history," said Klein, who is currently a vice president of the South Bethlehem Historical Society.

Her husband's collection, a result of more than 35 years of Titanic mania during his career as a teacher and principal, was disposed of by auction after his passing in 2003.

"I was glad to be able to share his Titanic collectibles with other collectors and those people just getting started," Klein said.

Among some items retained by the family is an album with about 100 Titanic postcards which have been digitally scanned and will be projected throughout the evening at the Hotel Bethlehem.

of appointed, as is currently the case in Northampton County.

Bachik appears to have an ally. At County Council's meeting on April 4, council member Lamont McClure suggested a Home Rule Charter amendment to provide for an elected sheriff.

McClure told his fellow council members and the county executive that the HRC makes an appointed sheriff responsible to the executive and judicial branches of government.

"A sheriff serves two masters in this county," said McClure, suggesting NorCo Council revise the charter to make this an elected position.

But County Executive

John Stoffa disagreed, cautioning that with an elected sheriff the county may get someone not qualified. Stoffa added that his office is in talks with the judges to resolve the problem: "We need to work with these people."

Miller said he will abide by the court order banning deputy Bachik from courtroom security.

He will screen courthouse visitors instead.

Miller declined to say whether any disciplinary measures are under consideration.

"We can't talk about internal matters," he said.

Attempts to reach Bachik for comment were unsuccessful.

11 Things You Need to Know to Pass a Home Inspection

LEHIGH & NORTHAMPTON COUNTIES

According to industry experts, there are over 33 physical problems that will come under scrutiny during a home inspection when your home is for sale. A new report has been prepared which identifies the most common of these problems, and what you should know about them before you list your home for sale.

Whether you own an old home or a brand new one, there are a number of things that can fall short of requirements during a home inspection. If not identified and dealt with, any of these 11 items could cost you dearly in terms of repair. That's why it's critical that you read this report before you list your home. If you wait until the building inspector flags these issues for you, you will almost certainly experience costly delays in the close of your home sale or, worse, turn prospective buyers away altogether.

In most cases, you can make a reasonable pre-inspection yourself if you know what you're looking for. And knowing what you're looking for can help you prevent little problems from growing into costly and unmanageable ones.

To help home sellers deal with this issue before their home is listed, a free report entitled, "11 Things You Need to Know to Pass a Home Inspection" has been compiled which explains the issues involved.

To hear a brief recorded message about how to order your free copy of this report, call 1-800-610-9855 and enter ID #1011. You can call anytime, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Call NOW to learn about how to ensure a home inspection doesn't cost you the sale of your home.

Calvary's Three Crosses

God designed the plan of salvation "before the foundation of the world" (1 Peter 1:19). He planned the timing of His Son's sacrificial death to perfectly coincide with the Jewish Passover, for Jesus was the Passover Lamb Who was to die for the sins of all mankind. God even planned the layout of Calvary to include two other crosses for an object lesson to the whole world! The two guilty men on those two crosses represent all the people of the world! One died IN sin. One died TO sin. The one you identify with depends on your relationship to the One on the middle cross—Jesus, Who died FOR sin!

The one who died IN sin railed on Jesus saying, "If thou be Christ, save thyself and us" (Luke 23:39), reflecting the same cynical insults that Satan cast at the Son of God during His wilderness temptation. This man was influenced by Satan who rebelled against God in the beginning and who continues to influence mankind to rebel against God! The thief on that cross of rebellion refused to acknowledge Who Jesus truly is, and consequently died IN sin.

The one who died TO sin believed that Jesus is Who He claimed to be and prayed "Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom." Jesus responded, "To day shalt thou be with me in paradise" (Luke 23:42-43). The dark past of this criminal on the cross of repentance was forgiven as the hymn puts it, "the vilest offender who truly believes, that moment from Jesus a pardon receives."

The one Who died FOR sin—your sin and mine—on the cross of redemption was Jesus "the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world" (John 1:29). You can die IN sin as did the thief on the cross of rebellion, or you can die TO sin by asking Jesus to save you now as did the other thief on the cross of repentance. What is your choice? Robbery

Police ask for community help finding a Hispanic man who is suspected of robbing the bank West Union Boulevard Giant supermarket April 3.

According to police, around noon, as shoppers unassumingly went about their business, the man approached the KNBT teller and handed her a note demanding money.

Police said the teller handed the suspect an undetermined amount of money and he left the store unimpeded. He drove off in a beige coupe.

The suspect is described as light-skinned, in his mid-to-late-40s, standing about 5-foot, 6-inches tall and weight about 160 pounds.

At the time of the incident he was mustachioed and unshaven, wearing a dark jacket, cap and khaki pants.

Anyone with information is asked to contact Det. Sgt. Van Scott at 610-998-7676 or the Bethlehem Police Department at 610-865-7187.

Assault

Police arrested a 34-year-old man for robbing his girlfriend around 10:15 p.m. April 3.

Johnson Rivera, of the 1200 block of Livingston Street, and his 25-year-old co-habitant were fighting when he struck her, ripped her shirt and pressed a knife to her stomach, threatening to kill her. He stole her cellular phone.

Rivera fled and a warrant was opened for his arrest on charges of simple and aggravated assault, harassment, threats and robbery.

About a half-hour later a man was arrested for assaulting his wife in the 2000 block of Westfield Terrace.

Police said Jeremiah Mahoney, 44, and his wife were at home drinking together when he removed her cellular phone and car keys to keep her from drinking and driving.

Thus ensued a fight, during which Mahoney refused to let her leave, struck her and threatened to kill her.

Mahoney is charged with harassment, threats, unlawful restraint and simple assault. He was committed to Lehigh County Prison.

aggravation that will lower property values.

"That park was there when you bought the property, wasn't it?" asked Commissioner Michael Hudak.

"You should not have a park in a residential community," replied Murphy.

Kathy Vaught, whose home is located close to the park, was before commissioners last October too, to complain about the girls. At that time, she said she never would have invested $700,000 for a home next to a soccer field, even though she loves soccer.

"I'm not an anti-soccer mom," she assured everyone, but said commissioners promised her in 2005 that the park would not be leased and would be for her community.

"Are you that big of an idiot that I didn't think what it would be?" she told the board.

After the October meeting, when Vaught first went public with her concerns, her home was egged. Then it was burglarized and there are now car break-ins as well. None of this ever happened before soccer was being played at the park, Vaught declared. She urged commissioners to restrict park use to her community, make it a kiddie park with swings and playground equipment, or at least give her the option of leasing it herself to prevent its use by other communities.

She also complained her dog barks the entire two hours of every practice.

"That's not just for your community. That's for the entire township to use," Hudak told Vaught. "All parks are open to every taxpayer in the township. ... You're welcome at any park in the township. No one can kick you out."

But Vaught attempted to kick some older teens out of the park herself, she told commissioners. She called them "punks" from another community, there to deal drugs or exchange alcohol.

"Did you call the police?" asked President Paul Weiss.

"Sir, I'm not the park police," answered Vaught, getting angry.

"I think we're done with this conversation," said Weiss.

"I don't think we're done with the conversation," replied Vaught, as she returned to her seat.

Township Manager Howard Kutzler and Weiss both said that they asked township police to review statistics, and no crime data demonstrate any increase in crime with the use of the park by a youth club soccer team.

Kutzler also said commissioners had received a petition supporting the soccer program, but George Vaught contended nobody had validated the signatures.

Barry Roth, who chairs the township's Parks and Recreation Board, told commissioners he's been to a few practices, and the lawnmowers are louder than the boys.

"Organized sports do not draw kids that are gonna' come back to rob anybody," Roth stated. "These kids are more worried about keeping their school grades up, learning what they need to learn, and making something out of themselves."

After the meeting was over, Kutzler said, "We will not have a litmus test as to who can use our parks."

Commissioner Martin Zawarski agreed, stating the parks should be open to every township resident.

TAX TIPS from IRS.gov

Tips for Taxpayers Who Can't Pay Their Taxes on Time

If you owe tax with your federal tax return, but can't afford to pay it all when you file, the IRS wants you to know your options and help you keep interest and penalties to a minimum. Here are five tips:

1. File your return on time and pay as much as you can with the return. These steps will eliminate the late filing penalty, reduce the late payment penalty, and cut down on interest charges. For electronic and credit card options for paying, see www.irs.gov. You may also mail a check payable to the United States Treasury.

2. Consider obtaining a loan or paying by credit card. The interest rate and fees charged by a bank or credit card company may be lower than interest and penalties imposed by the Internal Revenue Code.

3. Request an installment payment agreement. You do not need to wait for IRS to send you a bill before requesting a payment agreement. Options for requesting an agreement include:

- Using the Online Payment Agreement application at www.irs.gov, and
- Completing and submitting IRS Form 9465-FS, Installment Agreement Request, with your return.

IRS charges a user fee to set up your payment agreement. See www.irs.gov or the installment agreement request form for fee amounts.

4. Request an extension of time to pay. For tax year 2011, qualifying individuals may request an extension of time to pay and have the late payment penalty waived as part of the IRS Fresh Start Initiative. To see if you qualify, visit www.irs.gov and get form 1127-A, Application for Extension of Time for Payment. But hurry, your application must be filed by April 17, 2012.

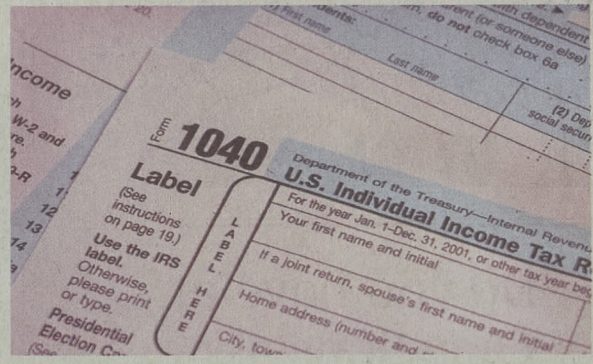

5. If you receive a bill from the IRS, please contact us immediately to discuss these and other payment options. Ignoring the bill will only compound your problem and could lead to IRS collection action.

If you can't pay in full and on time, the key to minimizing your penalty and interest charges is to pay as much as possible by the tax deadline and the balance as soon as you can.

'Animosity ... a little disappointing'

By BERNIE O'HARE
Special to the Bethlehem Press

BETHLEHEM TWP.

A group of Bethlehem Township residents have told commissioners twice, on Oct. 3 and again on April 3, that a 6.59-acre pocket park at the end of the Anthony Drive cul-de-sac should be reserved for them ... and only them.

In October, they objected to Lehigh Valley Magic, a girls' soccer team, that conducted games and tournaments every weekend, leading to lots of noise and traffic congestion.

Now, the FC Falcons 10U boys use the park for practices, just two nights a week. No games. Some residents complained anyway. They claim parks don't belong in residential communities, decrease property values and lead to increases in crime.

But Kim Kanopka, a township resident whose son, Kenan, plays for the Falcons, said she thinks these complaints are "a little ridiculous."

"To find there's animosity in our own township is a little disappointing," she said as she watched her son practice from the exclusive Bethlehem Estates development where the park is located.

Coach Ivor Corlette appears more worried about tying shoes than decreasing property values.

According to team manager John Kostenbader, the team consists of 10 boys, all from the township. In fact, two come lette tied one of the boys' shoes. Kostenbader and Corlette both said they use the field for practices only, and that their home games are played in Allentown.

"We tried to do everything right," Kostenbader said, noting there was even a petition supporting the practices, signed by about 30 residents of Bethlehem Estates. He added that the boys are under constant adult supervision.

The boys loved the attention. As a WFMZ-TV camera van sat in the cul-de-sac, Adam Kostenbader and Omar Silva put on their best moves.

"We're going to be on TV!" they assured each other.

In the distance, a lawnmower could be heard. It was louder than these boys, just as Parks and Recreation Chairman Barry Roth told commissioners April 2.

A travelling team, the Falcons have won five of the six tournaments in which they've played this year.

But they lost on April Fool's Day. Coach Corlette blamed the weather.

Adam Kostenbader demonstrates his kick.

Coach Ivor Corlette and team manager John Kostenbader say they are unsure how 10 year-old boys will increase the neighborhood's crime rate.

Pates end 18-year winless streak vs. Emmaus

By KATIE MCDONALD
kmcDonald@tnonline.com

Heading into their match against Parkland this week, the Freedom Patriots recalled their first victory over Emmaus in 18 years, defeating the Hornets, 4-3. "The nerves were really bad. We were all feeling the pressure. It was hot. We were tired. It was crazy," said second doubles player, Tom Nguyen.

Due to a 3-3 tie, the match came down to first doubles, which was won by Adam Seltzer and Andrew Sinai.

"Once it got to first doubles, the match was really on the line," said Seltzer, who also plays second singles. "That we had to be out there at all, that was the pressure about it."

Seltzer and Sinai handled the Hornets, 6-0, 6-1.

Sinai, a freshman who plays first singles, appreciated the experience that Seltzer, a senior, brought to the match.

"He calms me down," said Sinai. "It's a lot of responsibility [playing first singles], but I play in a lot of tournaments outside of high school season. My serve is actually the biggest shot I have. I also like to stay in long points and rallies."

One thing that the Patriots have going for them this season is their depth.

Third doubles player, Haroom Ahmed said, "On any day, [all the doubles teams] could proba-

Hawks looking to get to .500

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

It's about patience for Bethlehem Catholic's Mike Grasso.

Grasso has been coaching baseball long enough to know that it's not time to hit the panic button yet on his team. With the Hawks (2-4) off to a slow start, they have a chance to pull even to .500 mark this week with games against Allen (0-3) and Central Catholic (5-0).

But the battle of dealing with youth in the starting lineup has led to some inexperience on the Hawks end, especially without the likes of senior ace pitcher Connor Casey.

Casey missed the first four games of the season with a right shoulder injury and was just cleared back to the team for their two games last week against Freedom and Nazareth, both of which were losses.

Casey has seen some time at first and third and has been the team's DH since coming back. He's still not cleared to throw, but Grasso intends a mid-April return, for perhaps, the most important player on Becahi's roster.

"We're having growing pains and when you're starting four sophomores, you expect that," Grasso said. "With Connor not throwing, it hurts us too. Not having him out there puts more pressure on all the other guys. I think when he comes back we'll have a lot more confidence."

Grasso has cited mental mistakes and errors as some of the Hawks main problems thus far, as they committed eight errors combined in their last three losses to Liberty, Freedom and Nazareth, games that they've been outscored 24-5.

"We've been playing four or five good innings a game," Grasso said. "We need to play seven good innings in this league. See Baseball on Page A8

Hawks win, LHS rallies

By KATIE MCDONALD
kmcDonald@tnonline.com

Bethlehem Catholic scored five runs in the bottom of the second inning and never looked back in its 8-3 victory over Easton last week.

First baseman, Courtney DuPont was three for four with a double and two RBIs, Taylor Brady was two for two, scoring twice, and Lauren Visconti had three hits and three RBIs for the Hawks.

"I love to play Easton, but our team was pretty confident, and we work well together," said DuPont. "We knew they'd be bunt hitters, and we knew they'd work the outside corner."

The Red Rovers scored single runs in the fourth, fifth, and sixth innings, but Becahi responded with one run of their own in each of the same innings.

"I always get excited when I hear we're playing Easton. They're my favorite team to play. They're always good competitors," DuPont said.

Joelle Morey was the winning pitcher for the Hawks.

Also last week, the Liberty Hurricanes came back from a 3-0 deficit to defeat the Freedom Patriots, 6-3.

Freedom scored three runs in the third inning, but Liberty responded with five in the bottom of the fourth, and added one run in the fifth.

Lauren Epsaro was 2-for-3 with one RBI and one run scored for the Hurricanes.

VOLLEYBALL

Changes work for FHS

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

As all coaches know, you can always learn from your team's losses and Freedom volleyball coach John Yanek used that to his advantage this season.

The Pates were off to a slow start to the season, dropping their first two matches to Northampton and Easton, which prompted a wholesale shift in the team's offensive agenda.

Since then, Freedom (2-3) has won two out of their last three, with the lone loss coming at the hands of powerful Bethlehem Catholic (4-0) last week.

"We lacked consistent passing and defense and losing that first match to Northampton really sparked the changes," Yanek said. "If we would have never lost that match, I'm not sure if we would have made the changes. We've definitely improved since the first two matches. We used this new offense during the Bobcat Tournament and things have worked out for us."

Part of the changes included moving Kevin McPeck to libero, shifting Rob McVicker to middle hitter and Tommy Robinson to the right side.

"We figured that doing this now would give us more time to adjust and we've been playing well," said Yanek. "We were up on Becahi 20-15 in the third game (a match Freedom was swept 16-25, 20-25, 24-26) and just couldn't close it out. If we win that game, I'm not sure we win the match but our guys showed they could play with them. But the changes we've made have certainly made us better."

Freedom takes on Allen on Thursday, followed by a busy weekend with North Pocono on Friday along with a Saturday jaunt to Dover (PA) on Saturday for a tournament in the talented York area.

Liberty (1-3) will try and right their ship this week with a match against Whitehall yesterday, followed by a tough bout with Parkland on Thursday. The Hurricanes then head to the Christopher Dock tournament this weekend.

Bethlehem Catholic took on Allen yesterday before hosting their first ever Dig Blue event on Saturday at 1 p.m. against District 3 power Exeter.

The purpose and proceeds from the event will help benefit Sacred Heart Hospital in honor of prostate cancer awareness. Becahi students will be able to wear jeans in school on Friday at the cost of $2 to help benefit the event. There will also be a raffle on Saturday.

Eagles edge Becahi

By KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tnonline.com

Bethlehem Catholic's match against Nazareth came down to number one last week, but it was the Blue Eagles who pulled out the victory against the Hawks.

Becahi's Kevin Hamilton, who paired up with Stephen Rossi at first doubles said, "We played sloppy in the first set. It wasn't our best showing. They were both lefties, and they had different formations set up. Then, we would throw in formations of our own."

Hamilton, however, won his match at third singles, 6-4, 6-2.

"He [Bret Vasvari] had a big serve, but I returned it down the line. He came back with a crosscourt forehand, but I used my backhand slice. I'm trying to play my tennis more by not being too aggressive and letting the points come to me," said Hamilton.

Also winning for the Hawks were Luke Mesko and Ryan Schmidt, 6-0, 6-1, and Marcin Boraganli and Paolo Turco, 6-2, 6-2.

Turco said, "We weren't really sure about our opponents because, in the beginning, they looked really good. Once we felt out how they played, we were able to win."

Turco and Boraganli came back from a 0-2 deficit in the first set.

Boraganli said, "We have good chemistry. I know how he plays, and he knows how I play."

Most recently, Becahi defeated East Stroudsburg, 6-1.

bly beat each other. We're all basically consistent, so depth is our strength." One of the Patriots' goals this season is to improve on last year's 10-2 record, which may have already been accomplished with the victory over Emmaus. Freedom's match against tennis powerhouse, Parkland, will have been played this Tuesday.

Second doubles player, Rob Bogardo, said, "I look forward to playing Parkland. I think we have a really good chance to take a good shot at them."

Baseball

That's how it is. We just have to be patient. We have to fight for every win at this point and we have two tough games this week, so it's never easy."

Freedom (5-2) whacked Stroudsburg 18-8 in six innings Monday afternoon for a nonleague victory. The Pates scored 10 runs through two innings, thanks in part to a three-run blast by Eddie Milisits in the first. Milisits went 4-for-5 on the afternoon with six RBI. The Pates took on Central Catholic yesterday and travel to Allen on Thursday.

Liberty (4-1) suffered their first loss of the season last week in a 2-0 shutout defeat at the hands of Central.

The Hurricanes face a three-game slate this week, two of which against tough LVC foes, as they took on Whitehall yesterday and Parkland on Thursday. They round out the week on Saturday with a visit from East Stroudsburg South.

St. Paul's wins Suburban Dart League title

St. Paul's, with its sweep of Salem Lutheran, captured its third-straight Suburban Dart League title and seventh overall. They finished 54-27, three games ahead of Dryland, which was 51-30.

A championship game with the City League champion is tentatively scheduled for April 30.

Swimmers from the Bethlehem YMCA Stars recently took place in the state meet and five came away placing.

Stars place at states

Five swimmers from the Bethlehem YMCA Stars placed in the top six at the YMCA Pennsylvania East-West State Championships last month at Penn State University.

Freedom High School's Helen Hsu clinched first place in the 50 free in 24.30, and third place in the 100 butterfly in 58.88.

Stephen Hoyer placed fourth in the 50 fly in 31.98 and in the 50 backstroke in 34.73.

Jonathan Drago took fifth place in the 100 IM in 1:16.26.

Theo Bissell placed fifth in the 50 free in 25.84, and in the 100 free in 57.14.

Sabrina Krotzer took fifth place in the 50 fly in 28.57, and sixth place in the 100 free in 58.10.

Other Stars swimmers who placed at states were Kayla Drago, who finished ninth in the 100 free in 56.27, and Gregory Sherman, who placed 15th in the 200 IM in 2:14.03.

Kayla Drago, Shannon Hogan, Hsu, and Caroline Madigan took fifth place in the 200 yard medley relay in 1:55.45.

Jessica Becker, Lexi Brown, Sarah Cecchini, and Krotzer finished 11th in the 200 yard medley relay in 2:05.17.

Placing 12th in the 200 yard medley relay were Jonathan Drago, Hoyer, John Jones, and Alasdair Bell in 2:27.01.

Alexis Calderon, Cameron Bell, Sherman, and Kristian Olsen placed 15th in the 200 yard medley relay in 1:56.38.

The Stars are coached by Reik Foust. Assistants are Jeff Matyus, Diana Koccon, Mark Ostapenko, Cody Fink, Abby Koccon, and Erin Matyus.

Pates look for big week

By PETER CAR
pear@tnonline.com

It's one step forward and then one step back. That's how it's been for Freedom's soccer team this spring as a vastly young squad tries to cope with the pace and quality of play in the Lehigh Valley Conference.

The Pates (1-4) have struggled to find the win column this year, but hope that this week can guide them to some fortune with three contests on the docket.

Freedom takes on Allen (0-3), Nazareth (3-3) and Northampton (0-4-1) in three games that the Pates can use to turn their fortunes around.

"We go into every game thinking that we can win," said head coach Jamie Halper. "We're willing to fight for it, but we've battled with our youth issues this year. Hopefully, this week can turn things around for us."

The Pates got their first win of the season last week with a 1-0 victory over Liberty (0-6), thanks to a second half goal by Sarah Bilheimer.

That one foot forward mantra was followed by one step backward with an ensuing 7-2 loss to Central Catholic two days later. Halper hopes they can keep momentum going forward this week with their first three game week of the season.

"I actually think having three games this week will be a good thing for us," she said. "We need some momentum and I think this can be a week where we can get that."

Some of Freedom's problems this year has been allowing too many goals against upper tier opponents, as Becahi, Easton and Central each scored four-plus goals against the Pates.

"Our team speed and size has hurt us at times," Halper said. "We're building a little at a time and this is a resilient group. They're always ready to learn and we just have to keep fighting."

Liberty has struggled to find a victory this season, as their most recent loss was last Thursday's 9-0 defeat to Whitehall.

Things don't get any easier for the Canes this week with Parkland (5-0-1) yesterday and Central (5-1) on Saturday.

They do take on a winless Allen squad on Thursday as well.

Becahi (4-1) bounced back from a 3-2 loss to Easton last week with an 11-2 thrashing over Allen two days later.

The Hawks take on Central, Northampton and Nazareth this week.

Moravian Academy

Grade: 12

Family members: My parents are Alice Gast and Brad Askins; my brother is David.

Favorite subject: My favorite subjects are French, Chinese and English, because I love learning new languages.

Activities: I run cross-country, indoor and outdoor track.

Next steps: After high school I am planning on going to college and law school.

Career goals: I want to be an international lawyer, and help people defend themselves.

Heroes: My heroes are Dorothy Parker, because she was smart, witty and not afraid to be herself, and the Dalai Lama, because he believes in and works for a peaceful and better world. He believes that humans should strive to be the best we can be.

Hobbies: I read all the time. I'm interested in the barefoot running phenomenon. I recommend reading "Born to Run."

Volunteer/community work: I volunteer at Lehigh University, helping out with student and administrative events. Last summer I traveled to Paris, France, and volunteered at a local school, playing games with the kids, making snacks and moderating their numerous spats.

Likes: I like running barefoot, eating, reading and 80s movies.

Dislikes: I dislike dogs.

Greatest accomplishment (so far): Even though I fractured my foot halfway through the track season, putting an end to my long jumping career, I won districts in the 800m and placed seventh at states.

Advice for peers: Don't be afraid to try new things. Go out of your comfort zone and you might discover something you are really passionate about. Also, hard work is key. I know it sounds cliché, but if you don't work for it, you are never going to get what you want.

Pa. blue laws

Today in Bethlehem, we feel free to spend our Sundays as we wish, but there are still vestiges of the old blue laws that restricted some activities.

Karen M. Samuels
Columnist

Although only nine states still have blue laws on their books, Pennsylvania still enforces a few laws for Sunday. Hunting is prohibited on Sundays, with the exception of foxes, crows and coyotes. Alcohol, wines and spirits are to be sold only in the state owned Wine And Spirits shops. The Liquor Control Board permitted wine kiosks in Wegmans; however, the program was a failure. Beer may only be purchased from a restaurant, bar, licensed beer store or distributor. Car dealerships are also closed on Sunday.

Things were a lot tougher in Bethlehem in the late 1800s. According to the Bethlehem Times, in 1877, Charles C. Daniel of the Beeches House (also known as Fountain Valley Hotel) in South Bethlehem was convicted twice for selling alcohol on Sunday. Also, a Main Street ice cream saloon proprietor was charged with selling ice cream on a Sunday in 1879. It wasn't until 1923 that one could buy ice cream on the Sabbath. Cigars were not permitted to be sold on Sundays, as well.

Court decisions struck down blue laws and gave the OK to marry (1850) and get engaged (1882) on a Sunday.

Historians have suggested several origins of the term "blue laws." The term might have referred to the blue paper that the laws were printed on, during the colonial years, or to the derogatory term "true blue," for the Puritans who frequently referred to their constant virtue, or possibly because of the sadness the laws provoked in the citizens.

The first laws regulating behavior on Sundays in Pennsylvania date back to before William Penn's arrival. The Duke of York's Laws governed the territory, from 1676 to 1682. The law simply stated that the Sabbath was not to be profaned by "travellers, labourers or vicious persons."

Once William Penn received his land grant he established his own code of laws named The Great Law or Body of Laws in 1682. Penn's laws were only strict about labor on Sundays. By 1749, the Quakers of Philadelphia insisted that deer hunting on Sunday also be forbidden.

The list of restrictions on activities on Sunday grew in 1794. Anyone caught doing business, playing games, or hunting would be sentenced to pay a fine of $4 or suffer six days imprisonment. On Sundays, chains were extended across the major streets "to hinder and obstruct all coaches, chariots, chaises, wagons, and other carriages whatsoever and all and every person or persons, riding or travelling on horseback." Fragments of this 1794 law continue to remain in Pennsylvania law.

In the 1820s, committees were formed in both Pennsylvania legislatures, each named, "The Committee of Vice and Immorality." For about 40 years these committees presented laws to the legislature to forbid gambling, horse racing, cock fighting, theater, fairs, concerts, parades, bowling halls, billiard rooms, manufacture and sale of alcohol with an emphasis to protect the Sabbath. The Civil War distracted lawmakers from concerns about vice and morality. In the later half of the nineteenth century, Pennsylvania received an influx of new immigrants bringing with them traditions from their home countries, which included recreation on Sundays.

Bethlehem Steel was able to circumvent the blue laws regarding work on Sundays, because of its many government contracts; however, the average worker eventually came to see the blue laws as less about morals than about the protection of Sunday as a day off from work. By 1931, of the 48 states, only California resisted the enactment of blue laws. In 1933, playing sports (including fishing) was allowed on Sunday in Pennsylvania, influenced by Pennsylvanians' love of baseball. However, individual municipalities could vote to forbid it. In the 1940s, Hellertown residents would walk to Saucon Park or athletic fields in Lower Saucon Township to play baseball, as it was forbidden in Hellertown.

Sunday movies and musical events were allowed in 1935. In 1957, the operation of the Whitehall Township Two Guys Store on Sundays provoked a community outcry, leading to a Supreme Court decision in 1961, upholding Pennsylvania's blue laws. Eventually, shoppers' demand for Sunday hours overcame local law enforcement. The laws are still on the books, but local police departments do not want to expend their resources to prosecute store-owners to enforce unpopular laws.

Adding to the confusion, on Oct. 5, 1978, the Pennsylvania Supreme Court decided, by a vote of 5-2, that the blue laws were unenforceable and unconstitutional. Discussion of the blue laws often provokes emotional arguments but it is unlikely that Pennsylvania will reinstate any of the old laws.

'People do care about each other'

LANTA driver and LHS senior help nab hit-and-run driver

What sets Bethlehem apart from other communities, according to Mayor John Callahan, is the willingness of its citizens to get involved, whether it's as volunteers in festivals or participants in public meetings. On April 5, he singled out two area citizens who demonstrate that, in Christmas City, "people do rally care about each other."

Callahan, along with Police Commissioner Jason Schiffer, honored two citizens who helped veteran Officer Wade Haubert apprehend a juvenile hit-and-run driver, who had just rammed into the rear of a bicycle being ridden across the Fahy bridge by Frank Pavlick on April 2.

Right after striking Pavlick, the juvenile attempted to get away. But LANTA bus operator Richard Gubish Jr., who saw the crash in his rear view mirror, pulled his bus across both lanes, stopping the juvenile. "There's no getting around a bus," Gubish laughed.

At the same time, Liberty HS senior and class valedictorian Judson Smull, was on his way to Lehigh after track practice. He stopping to help Pavlick, who urged him to get the license plate of the offending vehicle.

Pavlick suffered minor injuries, although he said they didn't feel so minor a few days later.

Smull did one better. He trapped the hit-and-run vehicle behind the bus, making escape impossible. Officer Haubert quickly took the juvenile into custody, charging him under a new bike safety law that went into effect that very day. It requires anyone passing a bicycle to do so on the left, keeping a buffer distance of at least four feet away.

Haubert also charged the hit-and-run driver with failure to use signals, and fleeing an accident that involved bodily injury. "This is a bike-friendly community," Callahan said, stressing that every day people are riding their bikes to work. In addition to commending Gubish and Smull, the mayor reminded everyone that "we need to share the road."

There is a shared bicycle lane marked with chevrons on the Fahy Bridge, where the accident occurred. A video of the accident, captured by the City's wireless camera system, has been posted on YouTube by Bethlehem police.

After awarding Gubish and Smull with proclamations, Callahan joked with Smull not to let this go to his head and lose his valedictorian status. Smull will matriculate at Lehigh University this fall.

In addition to driving a LANTA bus, you might find Gubish delivering pizzas. His family operates the Little Caesar's pizza franchise on Easton Avenue, north of Liberty HS.

Council sets Easy Weenies hours

In a last ditch-effort to keep the cart vendors out of Bethlehem's business district Tina Kowalski, who said she represented some merchants on Third Street, spoke to Bethlehem City Council March 20 in an effort to dissuade the council from approving an amendment to the city's vending ordinance setting hours for Easy Weenies.

"Where is the law enforcement," asked Kowalski, who owns the Funhouse bar at 5 East Fourth St. She claimed that there have been many "fights and muggings" connected with the hot food cart's late hours. She said it's not fair, and Northampton County judges selected him based on his qualifications, something that fractured city council, which was split in its support of three other candidates. that "merchants deserve better."

Christopher Morales, owner of Easy Weenies, also spoke to the council, saying, "People need to understand my business model. I do have expenses. It's not a gravy train. We work very hard."

Council approved the amendment setting Easy Weenies' hours as 11 a. m. to 6 p.m. and then open again at midnight, 12 a. m. through 4 a. m. Monday through Saturday night. The vending cart will not operate at all Sundays.

The council also repealed Article 738, the ordinance that had banned cell phone use in Bethlehem.

Bethlehem Steel baseball players in October 1918 could not play on Sundays. Shown here are Babe Ruth standing in the back row third from the left with "Shoeless" Joe Jackson in the front row, third from the left.

Heated words were exchanged at the April 2 meeting, as residents ponder the coming impact of another year of tax increases. As one woman asked during public comment how she could continue to live in Fountain Hill on her fixed income, council members could only describe what they are up against.

It was a very one-sided argument, as council members largely agreed the taxes, having increased 38 percent in the past three years, are getting unpalatable. Carolee Gifford said, "We pay taxes too. We don't want to do this."

Fred Capuano said because their population is so low every mill increased brings in only $77,000.

Vice President Norman Blatt Jr. and Gifford said they had gone without an increase for the prior eight years, "and that was probably not for the best because now it's hitting all at once," Gifford said.

There was welcome news from the Bacchanalia Committee, however. Committee President

FOUNTAIN HILL

Steve Repasch thanked everyone for their work and support and said this year's event exceeded expectations. "This year we had a really good event and our committee can give you $7,000," he said, handing a check over to council.

Repasch said last year the eighth annual fundraising event had raised $5,000, and the committee would like to have a closer hand in the money's use. "We raise a lot of money for the playground improvement fund and we'd like some input into where the money goes."

Another argument ensued regarding a waiver for the lease of a Stanley Avenue field by the St. Peter's Church softball team.

The annual waiver allows the group to lease the field for $1 per year so long as basic maintenance is performed by volunteers, said Borough Administrator Rick Prill in an email.

Capuano said the volunteers are to be commended for their efforts, but borough public works employees spent hundreds of hours repairing dugouts

NORTHAMPTON COUNTY Medical transport gets funds

By CAROL SMITH
Special to the Bethlehem Press

The Medical Assistance Transportation Program (MATP) will continue in operation until May. Northampton County's Director of Human Services told NorCo Council Human Services committee members March 15 that additional funds in the budget had been found to provide a temporary extension of the service. A letter to the state's Department of Public Welfare announcing a March 31 closing will be rescinded, Director Ross Marcus added.

The MATP, which is operated by LANTA, provides transportation to doctors' appointments for eligible residents. Marcus said that this program served 559 county residents and LANTA paratransit vans made 39,000 trips annually. The additional funds also paid LANTA the $100,000 it was owed from the 2010-11 budget.

The next Human Services Committee meeting is 5 p.m. April 19 at 669 Washington St., Easton.

COLLEGE NOTES

Lehigh University Design team to compete

A student team from L.U. will compete in the Insurance Institute for Business & Home Safety (IBHS) and the American Institute of Architecture Students (AIAS) "FORTIFIED Roof Design Competition." Design submission deadline is May 1. The competition challenges college seniors to design an affordable, sustainable, aesthetically pleasing and hurricane-resistant roof system. The winning design will be built at full scale, and then tested against hurricane-strength winds and wind-driven rain at the IBHS research center in South Carolina.

Lehigh University is located at 27 Memorial Drive West. For more information, call 610-758-3000 or visit www.lehigh.edu.

Moravian College Bates to perform April 15

Acclaimed pianist Leon Bates will perform with the Moravian College Community Orchestra at 7 p.m. April 15 in Foy Concert Hall, Hurd Campus. He will give a pre-concert lecture at 4 p.m.

Donald Spieth will conduct the orchestra, which is composed of students, alumni and community members.

Moravian College is located at 1200

Main St. For more information, call 610-861-1300 or visit www.moravian.edu.

Northampton CC Exhibition open to April 24

The drawings of NCC first-year art students will be on display April 10-24 in the Communications Hall Gallery, Main Campus. The works have been entered in the Patrick Kraus Memorial Drawing Awards. Scholarship winners will be announced at a reception at 11 a.m. April 19 in the gallery.

The competition is funded by the Patrick J. Kraus Endowment Fund, established by the late John "Duke" Kraus, former NCC bookstore manager, and his wife Katherine, in memory of their son Patrick, an artist who attended NCC in 1985-86.

The exhibit, lecture and reception are free and open to the public. Hours are Monday through Thursday, 8 a.m. to 10 p.m., and Friday and Saturday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. For information, call 610-861-5062.

Madigan at it again 'Funniest woman in America' at State Theatre

By PAUL WILLISTEIN
Focus Editor

"Comedians are never like a band, where we go on tour and then we take a lot of time off," says Kathleen Madigan, who does some 100 gigs annually in the United States.

Madigan appears at 8 p.m. April 13, State Theatre, Easton.

Madigan has appeared on "The Tonight Show with Jay Leno," among other TV shows, and did a popular Showtime special, "Gone Madigan" available on DVD.

She's been called "the funniest women in America" by no less than master funnyman Lewis Black, whom she counts among her friends. Even so, she's surprised at her 22-year career in standup.

"I've had a very good time doing comedy. Every day, I expect someone to knock on the door and say, 'You got to get a job now,'" Madigan says in a phone interview from her home in Los Angeles.

In December 2011, Madigan did her second Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff's USO Holiday Tour of Afghanistan and Iraq on a bill with Robin Williams and Lewis Black.

"I didn't really change a thing. And none of us changed anything. We pointed out the absurdity of the situation.

"We got to one base and they had no toilets or Port-O-Pottys. On this base there were 150 Humvees. But nobody can get a Port-O-Potty? [I said,] 'Why don't you call the Missouri State Fair. They figured it out.'

"I ended up writing a whole lot of material over there. We are still involved in a war and no one cares. When you see what they [the U.S. soldiers] do, I will do whatever they [the USO] ask. Most people would not be able to handle it."

Madigan grew up in the St. Louis, Mo., area, one of seven in an Irish-American family. In high school, she won the Mid-Missouri Hoops Shoot Champion. At 5 ft., 2 in., she's the shortest to ever do so.

She received a BA in Journalism from Southern Illinois University Edwardsville and worked for the St. Louis-area Suburban Journals newspapers. After performing stand-up at open mics, she relocated to Los Angeles.

tion between media consumers and comedy fans.

"Through journalism you're trying to connect with people you don't know. You're trying to educate, to entertain, or communicate.

"Because I went to journalism school, I want to scream to these big papers: 'You need to put something in there that I can't buy.' I know what happened at the Lakers' game last night.

"I'm more of a Kindle or iPad person. I'm friends with Lewis Black. He's always walking around with this pile of newspapers. We just did a gig together. I'm there, 'Lewis, I just read what you read seven hours ago.'

"My parents live in Missouri near a lake. They have a little paper. But the L.A. Times — what is there that I don't know? Whatever is in there, I read hours ago on Twitter. But a local, small-town paper, I still like. I like the local sports because that's awesome for the parents.

"I'm a total news junkie. Like CNN is always on in the background. I used to watch all of it — whether it was Bill O'Reilly or Chris Matthews. But now it's really all opinion-driven and they interview each other. And it's the same talking heads.

"I wish you could go back to the days when CNN was just news. If you watch Sky News in Europe, it's just news. Even 'Headline News' isn't even 'Headline News' anymore. Somebody should start a channel that's just news.

"It all started when CNN was on 24 hours a day. Even in the world, there's not enough news. I can vaguely remember when some serious guy in a suit came out and gave the news. It was news. Nobody gave an opinion. And, really, that's all I need."

"Take that fourth hour of NBC's 'Today' show, for example. 'What are you doing Kathy Lee Gifford and Hoda [Kotb]? This isn't a show. This is really eavesdropping. A show used to imply that you prepared something and you were going to do something that was entertaining."

Madigan's Midwest upbringing informs her outlook as much as her comedy.

"Midwest people are probably more accessible. Our personality is never really aggressive. We're polite to a fault. I remember the first time I was on the East Coast — people were not really impatient, but more at a faster speed."

Was there ever a Title IX for female comedians?

"We're such a small group. Standup is the fairest thing out there. If you're funny and you do the work, everything will be OK. Why would you just judge me on the basis of gender? Jerry Lewis said there were no funny comediennees. Joan Rivers is funny. Roseanne [Barr], Wanda Sykes. Lucy [Lucille Ball] was a comedic actress."

Who makes Madigan laugh?

"Fred Willard. I really don't think there's anybody funnier than Fred Willard. And every Christopher Guest movie ['This is Spinal Tap,' 'Waiting for Guffman,' among others] — I can't get enough. My family makes me laugh a lot — and my friends."

Jazz Collective Gala at Hotel Bethlehem

By JERRY DUCKETT
Special to The Press

The Pennsylvania Jazz Collective (PJC) is a new Lehigh Valley based non-profit organization of regional jazz artists. Their goal is to present the history of American jazz through public performance, focusing on the art of improvisation.

PJC blasts onto the Valley music scene in a big way in April, which is National Jazz Month.

The PJC will present a Black-Tie Gala, 7 p.m. April 19, Mural Room, Hotel Bethlehem, 437 Main St., Bethlehem. Performers include local jazz greats Dave Roper, Nelson Hill, Tom Kozić and Gary Rissmiller.

At the Gala, patrons may bid on a "Home Salon Series," whereby PJC musicians perform in the home of the top bidder. The live auction will also feature a one-week vacation in a luxury condo in North Myrtle Beach, S.C., donated by Joel Gilley of Promus Financial Group LLC, Allentown.

A silent auction will offer recordings by PJC musicians, as well as donated items and services from area businesses. There will be a brief presentation about PJC, free hors d'oeuvres and a cash bar.

PJC's Neil Wetzel joins with the Lehigh Valley Charter High School for the Performing Arts Jazz Combo, 7 p.m. April 26, Godfrey Daniels, 7 E. Fourth St., Bethlehem.

Well-known Lehigh Valley trumpeter Alan

Gaumer, of Saylorsburg, an Adjunct Professor, Jazz Trumpet, at Moravian College for 18 years, is PJC Executive Artistic Director. PJC President of the Board is drummer Wayne Mauer.

"All these regional jazz artists have been on the scene for many, many years and have proven themselves in the field of battle, the stage, and they have all performed together with very well-known artists nationally," Gaumer says.

"I thought about a collective for many years, but actually I only orchestrated the entire thing in November 2010, and that was the date we incorporated as a non-profit.

"The concept behind this is simple. There are numerous symphony orchestras that exist in the United States on various levels.

BUD'S VIEW

By Bud Cole

Spring began March 20, but the mild weather made it feel like spring had already set in long before its official arrival.

Those who enjoy skiing and boarding were fortunate to be able to ski and board locally on man-made snow at Blue Mountain and Bear Creek Ski Areas, but snow shoers, cross-country skiers, snowmen builders, snow ball battlers, snowmobilers and other winter outdoor aficionados suffered from a lack of snow and cold weather.

The mild weather also affected another outdoor pursuit. Late February and most of March are normally the prime time for tapping sap from area maple trees.

This rhyme usually holds true, but not during winter 2011-2012, "the winter without winter and snow":

Sharp frost at night, a thaw in the sun.

Snow melting fast makes the sap run.

Cold nights with temperatures below freezing are followed by milder sunny days above 40 degrees are perfect for gathering maple sap. The sap provides the trees with the nutrients necessary for spring bud and leaf production. The sap began moving early in many maple trees this year.

There were 27 participants at the "Tap the Sap" program March 1 at the Lower Mount Bethel Visitor Center, about two miles upstream from the PPL Martin's Creek power plant. It was a mixed group, including families with children, single men, women and several couples.

One couple from Connecticut happened to be in the area, saw the public notice for the program and joined me along the river. There were also several from New Jersey, parents and children from Tamaqua and three boys and their parents from Emmaus.

The weather was perfect with a high that reached 61 degrees. It had been below freezing the previous night, so our tapping day fit the rhyme perfectly. I started the program with a pre-test to find out what my future tappers might already know.

Following the pre-test, I divided the group into three smaller units. One worked with me and my assistant Cindy Middleton, making spiles, or spouts, out of staghorn sumac branches (not the poison variety).

Alana Roberts, PPL Corp. Community Affairs Specialist, and John Mauser, Lower Mt. Bethel supervisor and naturalist, assisted me with the three stations.

After the smaller groups spent 15 minutes at each station, we reviewed the information they compiled. Next, I demonstrated how to use a brace and 1/2-inch bit (the hand drill used to tap the tree). Other equipment included the crafted spiles, a hammer to tap the spiles into the drilled holes, about six feet of aquarium tubing to carry the sap from the spile and an empty gallon water jug to catch and hold the sap.

The sap tappers quickly identified several maple trees along the path not far from the visitor center. The only problem was that after measuring the diameters, the trees were less than 10 inches in diameter — not large enough to be tapped. Several other maples were large enough, but were covered with poison ivy vines.

We found a perfect example where two trails converged. The rule for the Living the second half of life

Each month I try to attend a Day of Reflection in a neighboring county.

Normally, there are around 15 to 20 of us who attend. This month, there were so many they ran out of chairs. The director noted the huge attendance was due to the topic: The Two Halves of Life.

I was more than interested in the subject because I had just written a column about what we lose and what we gain in the second half of life.

Much of the day's discussion was based on Richard Rohr's book, "Falling Upward." In writing about our "two halves of life," the well-known author says we spend the first half of life "filling our container."

While we look for our identify and our significance, we fill that container with our jobs, our home, our children, our possessions and our achievements. It's all about getting more and doing more.

In the Second Half of life, getting more and doing more loses its luster. We no longer want or need to play that game.

In other words, in the second half of life, many of us have a new or renewed search for meaning.

In that stage, Rohr says we finally have the courage to ask: What is this all for? What am I supposed to do now? Is there some deeper purpose?

In other words, we begin searching for significance and/or spirituality.

Many people are afraid of the word "spirituality." Some think that means someone who goes to church and prays all the time. But searching for more meaning leads them to understand the extended meaning of spirituality.

Rohr is careful to stress that the second half of life doesn't refer to chronological age.

"I've met 11-year old children in cancer wards who are in the second half of life, and I have met 68-year-old men like me who are still in the first half of life," he says.

Often, it's some trauma or crisis that leads us to know we have entered the second half of life. Other times, we realize we are in the second half but we can't pinpoint any particular catalyst that led to getting there.

In our open discussions that day, we were asked to pinpoint when we knew we had left behind the first stage of life.

Several said it happened when a spouse asked for a divorce.

One man said it happened when he lost his job then his home.

One woman said it happened when she was in a serious automobile accident. She found herself hanging upside down in her car for an entire night before someone found her in the ravine. With almost every bone in her body broken and with years of surgeries and rehabilitation ahead of her, she said she knew the first half of her life was over.

number of taps is one spile per tree at least 10 inches in diameter and then one more tap for each additional five inches in diameter, up to a maximum of four taps per tree, no matter how large the tree might be. A 20-inch diameter maple tree could have three taps, but a 40-inch diameter tree should have a max of four taps.

The youngest of three brothers from Emmaus, seven year-old Hayden Schmidt, helped me tap the first tree as eight year-old Tristan and 10 year-old Arti watched. Hayden tapped his own spile into the tree and before we knew it a drop of sap dripped from his spile. I always enjoy the reactions

WARMEST REGARDS

By Pattie Mihalik

While all of them cited catastrophes as being what drove them away from the first half of life, that wasn't quite the case with me.

I can pinpoint exactly when I entered the second stage of life. It was when I gave away all my furniture, clothes and possessions and moved to Florida with only what could fit in my car.

If that isn't leaving behind the first stage of life, I don't know what is.

I left behind the career I had nourished for decades, the job I loved and the people I cherished.

It was easier to leave behind possessions than it was to leave the beautiful people in my life. But I figured correctly that all those who were true friends would stay friends, despite distances separating us.

I remember vividly one day right before I moved when a close friend found me lugging garbage cans filled with my writing awards to the curb for the garbage collection.

She was shocked. "How can you throw away all that you worked for?" she asked. When she couldn't convince me to change my mind, she said I should save just a few major awards.

I saved nothing. Nothing except sacred memories.

While I know some of that was temporary insanity while I was still suffering from losing my husband of 41 years, the rest of it was an inner wisdom that came from the God who has always taken care of me.

What I came to realize was we have to close one door before another can open.

When part of life is emptied, it is filled again, sometimes with surprising blessings.

I made some of those decisions because I was moving from a big, 10-room house to a very small bungalow with no storage space.

But I discovered it was actually freeing in ways I never anticipated. There is a complete freedom in not being weighed down by anything.

When I left behind the first half of life, I also discovered the second half was far better and more meaningful than anything that went before.

I have embraced and enjoyed every stage of life. At each stage, I have declared it to be "my favorite."

That's especially true now. I am having more fun than when I was a kid. And I found that in searching for meaning, life grows more precious, more rewarding and more significant each day.

Don't ever be afraid of the second half of life.

Perhaps the best is yet to be.

as everyone applauds, whoops and shouts as the first drop appears and more sap follows.

The day was a success. We continued hiking as I pointed out additional nature observations and information.

Our culminating activity was a big hit back at the visitor center. Everyone sampled toasted Eggo blueberry waffles covered with pure Pennsylvania maple syrup.

That's the way I saw it! Email comments and questions to: bbbcole@enter.net. To schedule programs, hikes and birthday parties, call 610-767-4043.

'Resting' history in Bethlehem

By PAUL WILLISTEIN
Focus Editor

If you see a nine-foot-tall elephant puppet sauntering by and an 18-foot-long circus wagon rolling along, don't think a band of gypsies has descended upon the Christmas City. Touchstone Theatre and Moravian College Theatre Company are at it again, this time with "A Resting Place," a 100-member outdoor show that is the culmination of more than two years of research and work on The Civil War Project, which has pulled together numerous organizations to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the war and examine its legacy.

Five free performances of the approximate one and one-half hour play (with no intermission) will be presented in its entirety at five different locations on Bethlehem's north and south side followed by lectures and discussions. (For details, see Lehigh Valley Stage listing on this page). It is suggested attendees bring lawn chairs or blankets for the outdoors performances.

While it's called "A Resting Place," there has been little rest for the Touchstone-Moravian collaboration, now in its fourth year.

"Each year, the collaboration has evolved," says Christopher Shorr, Moravian College director of theatre and "Place" director.

"Place" is the first big community project for Touchstone since its "Another River Flows" (2008-'09) and the biggest outdoors show since the "Don Quixote Project" (2003-'05). "A Resting Place" was written by Alison Carey, who wrote "Steebound" for Touchstone, a dramatic interpretation of the demise of Bethlehem Steel Corp. and its city steel-making plant presented in 1999 at the former foundry on the south side plant site.

"A Resting Place" is based on research about Bethlehem residents who lived and died during the Civil War years.

It is based on an actual 19th century entertainer named Dan Rice (portrayed by Bill George), who is believed to have brought his circus troupe to perform in Bethlehem in 1863.

Shorr says Rice's divided loyalties between north and south formed the lynohpin for the plot of "A Resting Place." Rice abandons Barnum-style bunkum to tell the real story of Bethlehem's Civil War heritage. Along the way, Rice and his troupe time-travel to present-day Bethlehem.

Touchstone Ensemble

apprentices Meggan Gomez and Mariel Iezoni researched Rice, his performances and era.

"When we stumbled on this, we decided it would be a good way to tell the story," says "A Resting Place" Production Manager and Touchstone Theatre Artistic Director Jp Jordan.

Lead roles in "Place" are about equally divided between Touchstone Ensemble members, including Almenia (Cathleen O'Malley), and Moravian College and Lehigh Valley Charter High School for the Performing Arts students.

Moravian students and faculty who have featured roles include juniors Jasmin Thomas '13 and Gianna Miranda '13, who play a slave and southern belle, respectively, and Chris Jones, associate professor of biological sciences, who plays Brigadier General William Doster.

There's a chorus of some 40 voices and Moravian, LVPA and community musicians, including Bronwyn Bishop, flute; Ceci Freed, flute; Dave Heine, clarinet, piccolo; Uke Jackson, ukelele; Ivan Moscotta, accordion; Kevin Oates, trumpet; Robert Peruzzi, trombone; Chris Simmons, violin; and Robert "LA" Williams, violin.

Allentown Art Museum Gala: The Allentown Art Museum of the Lehigh Valley will hold its annual Gala Dinner Dance and Auction 7 p.m. - midnight April 14.

This year, the Museum honors the Society of the Arts (SOTA) in the newly-renovated galleries of the Allentown Art Museum of the Lehigh Valley.

The Gala has become a premier black-tie event in the Lehigh Valley and features a cocktail hour with passed hors d'oeuvres, a seated dinner, and a live and silent auction. Music will be provided by the Ken Battista Band.

For 48 years, SOTA has contributed to the educational, social and cultural life of the Lehigh Valley through service to the Museum. Nearly $700,000 has been contributed by SOTA for the acquisition of prints.

SOTA contributed $100,000 to the Museum's capital campaign to establish the SOTA Educational Endowment and has donated more than $165,000 to benefit the Museum's educational programs, including Free Sundays.

SOTA received the 1996-'97 Allentown Arts Commission Arts Ovations Award and the 2007 Outstanding Fundraising Group award from the Eastern Pennsylvania Chapter of the Association of Fundraising Professionals.

The 2012 Gala committee includes: Lygia Bellis, Ari Diaz, Stuart Dubbs, Nancy Ehle, Mary Elaine Ford, Jane Fretz, Barbara

Harries, Susan Harris, Andrea Jones, Mary Anne Johnson, Suzanne Lyons, Lynn Noll, Gillian Piddock, Carol Smoll, Lynda Somach, Deni Thurman-Eyer and Sally Vikner.

Funds raised support exhibitions and educational programs at the Museum.

The good news about the sun

First of two parts

Q. All I ever hear about the sun is how dangerous it is. But, when I was a kid, my mother used to tell me to get out in the sun and play. Did my mother give me bad advice?

Most public health messages have focused on the hazards of too much sun exposure. Ultraviolet (UV) rays, an invisible component of sunlight, can cause skin damage, cataracts, wrinkles, age spots and skin cancer.

But there is some sunny news about the sun.

Sunlight increases the body's vitamin D supply. Most cases of vitamin D deficiency are caused by a lack of exposure to the sun.

If you don't have enough vitamin D, your bones will suffer. In children, vitamin D deficiency causes rickets, best known for creating bowed legs. Low vitamin D levels cause osteoporosis in adults. Osteoporosis is a disorder in which the bones become increasingly porous, brittle and subject to fracture.

Unlike other essential vitamins, which you must get from food, vitamin D can be synthesized in the skin through a reaction to ultraviolet radiation. How much vitamin D you produce depends upon how many units of ultraviolet light penetrate your skin.

HEALTHY GEEZER

By Fred Cicetti fred@healthygeez.com

The UV light can be blocked by skin pigment, sunscreen, clothing and body fat. Dark skin requires about five to six times more solar exposure than pale skin for equivalent amount of vitamin D production.

By the late 1800s, about nine of 10 children in industrialized Europe and North America had rickets symptoms. The medical community began promoting sunbathing for rickets. At the same time, doctors found that tuberculosis (TB) responded to sunlight.

Because of the results with rickets and TB, attitudes about the sun changed. Sunlight also became a popular medical treatment for rheumatic disorders, diabetes, gout, chronic ulcers, and wounds. From this, came the expression, "a healthy tan."

In the 1930s, the United States Public Health Service began issuing warnings about sun-related health risks. Subsequently, the hazards of skin cancer from too much sun were researched extensively.

However, too little sun exposure is associated with Hodgkin lymphoma and other cancers of the breast, ovaries, colon, pancreas and prostate. And, while the sun is a risk factor for melanoma, which is the most dangerous form of skin cancer, there is an increased survival rate in patients with early-stage melanoma who undergo high sun exposure.

Some studies have raised the possibility that vitamin D insufficiency is contributing to many major illnesses. For example, there is evidence that high levels of vitamin D may decrease the risk of developing multiple sclerosis (MS).

A recent Swedish study found that sufficient vitamin D in childhood was associated with a lower risk of developing type 1 diabetes.

There is also a connection between vitamin D and metabolic syndrome, a cluster of conditions that increases the risk for type 2 diabetes and cardiovascular disease.

Next week: Other benefits of sunlight and how much sun is enough.

LV Community Foundation grants more than $1.2 million

The Lehigh Valley Community Foundation has announced the awarding of grants from its discretionary funds for charitable programs and non-profit organizations in the Greater Lehigh Valley.

The Foundation awarded $100,000 in grants in the past year from discretionary funds and $1,047,868 from other funds of the Foundation.

The Foundation's Board of Governors approved the Grants Committee's recommendations for grants at its annual meeting at the end of 2011.

Discretionary grants were presented this year in three of the Foundation's six areas of grant-making interest: Arts and Culture-Heritage, Education and Science-Environment.

In 2012, the Foundation's discretionary grant-making will be focused on Human Services, Healthcare and Community Development.

Grants awarded in support of Arts & Culture-Heritage included:

Allentown Public Theatre, Setting the Stage - $3,500;
Allentown Symphony Association, Young Musicians String Festival and El Sistema Lehigh Valley - $10,000;
Bach Choir of Bethlehem, "Bach at Noon" - $5,000;

State Theatre Center for the Arts, 10th Annual Freddy Awards Program - $10,000; and Touchstone Theatre, Civil War-Cemetery Project - $10,000.

Grants in support of Education included: Bethlehem Area Public Library, "Room to Grow" campaign - $17,000, and Literacy Center, Literacy Instruction Program - $5,000.

Grants in support of Environment included: Lehigh Valley Zoological Society, educational camp scholarships for inner-city children - $5,000; and Wildlands Conservancy, EnviroMentor Program - $2,500.

A philanthropic fund begun by a Bucks County artist provided $28,222 in grants to programs and organizations in the Upper Bucks area for 2011-2012.

The Erwin J. and Gertrude K. Neusch Fund provides grants for projects in the Upper Bucks region, particularly those that benefit residents in areas served by the Palisades and Quakertown School Districts.

A special Neusch grants committee recommended the following grants from the Erwin J. & Gertrude K. Neusch Fund, which were approved by the Foundation's Board of Governors:

Bucks County Free Library - James A. Michener Branch, promote and implement free, online homework-helping tutoring program ("Brainfuse") in Palisades School District - $2,072;
Bucks County Housing Group - Milford Square

Supportive Housing Program, "Wrap It Up" fund drive - $3,300;

PUBLIC NOTICE
Notice is hereby given that the Zoning Hearing Board of South Whitehall Township will conduct public hearings on Wednesday April 25, 2012 at 7:30 p.m., in the South Whitehall Township Municipal Building located at 4444 Walbert Avenue, Allentown, Lehigh County, Pennsylvania, for the following zoning appeals:
ZHB-2012-07: The appeal of the Lehigh Valley Educators Credit Union seeking temporary use special exception approval for a two-day, 50 vehicle sale (for credit union members) to be conducted on the bank property at 3720 Hamilton Boulevard. The appellant is seeking a favorable review per Sections 12.25(c) & (d) for the event proposed for May 31 & June 1, 2012, and then next year on May 30th & 31st, 2013. The subject property is zoned "HC", Highway Commercial.
ZHB-2012-08: The appeal of Nick Pidstawski seeking relief to install and maintain an open-loop, open water ground source, geothermal heating system for the residential property located at 4021 River Road. The appellant is seeking a variance to Section 12.41(m)(3)(B) regarding an explicit prohibition against open-loop, open water systems (only closed-loop systems are permitted). The subject property is zoned "R-H", Rural Holding.
ZHB-2012-09: The appeal of the Stephen and Beverly Volk seeking relief to construct an addition onto the rear of their attached garage, and also for an existing sunroom that was built years ago without permits, at 1511 Red Maple Lane. Both the proposed addition and the existing sunroom encroach into the required minimum rear yard setback per Section 12.28(c)(4). The appellants seek setback variances accordingly. The subject property is zoned "R-3", Low Density Residential.
ZHB-2012-10: The appeal of the Deborah Shaeffer/Deborah Schmoeyer seeking relief to construct a small porch roof addition to cover her front door entrance area of the home located at 2515 Helen Street. The appellant seeks a front yard setback variance from Section 12.28(c)(5), per Section 12.31(b). The subject property is zoned "R-4", Medium Density Residential.
ZHB-2012-11: The appeal of the Robert James seeking relief to construct an 8 foot tall solid fence (6 foot is the permitted maximum height) on his residential property located at 1331 Whitehall Avenue (aka 1328 N. 24th St). The appellant seeks a variance from Section 12.35(b). The subject property is zoned "R-4", Medium Density Residential.
Any above-referenced property is located in South Whitehall Township, Lehigh County, PA. Copies of any plans, applications, and/or supporting documents that were submitted are available for public inspection at the Township Building during normal business hours (it is recommended that appointments be made in advance). All appellants or their representative with legal standing must attend. All objectors and interested parties are invited to attend and will have the opportunity to be heard.
Keith M. Zehner, Zoning Officer

PUBLIC NOTICE
ZONING HEARING BOARD
APRIL 25, 2012
NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE FOLLOWING APPELLANTS HAVE FILED AN APPEAL FOR A PUBLIC HEARING BEFORE THE ZONING HEARING BOARD OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BETHLEHEM, A HEARING TO BE HELD AT 6:30 PM ON WEDNESDAY, APRIL 25TH, 2012 AT THE TOWNSHIP MUNICIPAL BUILDING, 4225 EASTON AVENUE, BETHLEHEM, PA 18020. THE MEETING, AMONG OTHER ISSUES, CONCERNS THE FOLLOWING ZONING APPEALS:
Appeal #5-2012: Brian Uhler, 3905 Wellington Court, Bethlehem, PA requests a variance from Section 405.E.1 of the Bethlehem Township Zoning Ordinance, as amended, for permission to install a 6-ft high privacy fence on the property line along Pond Circle. The property is a corner lot with 2 front yard setbacks of 50 feet from the property lines along Wellington Court and Pond Circle. Zoning Code requires a 50-ft setback from the property line along Pond Circle. The applicant proposes a setback of 10 feet. Therefore a variance of 40 feet is being sought. The applicant also seeks relief from Section 2003.D.6.b.1.(6) of the Zoning Code, which requires fences located in the front yard to be an open picket design with a 1:1 ratio, or be set back the minimum distance from principle buildings. The applicant proposes a solid body fence. Therefore, the variance sought is a solid body fence. The property is located within the "RR" Rural Residential Zoning District. The property maintains Northampton County Tax Parcel Identification number M7NE1 2 10 0205.
Appeal #6-2012: American Signcrafters, 171 Freeman Avenue, Islip, NY 11751 requests variances from Section 1816.A.4.b.(i) and Section 1909.C.1 of the Bethlehem Township Zoning Ordinance, as amended, for permission to add additional signs to a currently existing nonconforming freestanding sign that is approximately 114 square feet in area. The dimension required by Zoning Code is 50 square feet. The applicant proposes a sign expansion that would create approximately 171 square feet in area. Therefore a dimensional variance of 57 square feet is sought. In addition, a Special Exception remedy is being sought under Zoning Code Section 1909.C.3 for the expansion of a nonconforming freestanding sign. The property is located within the "PC" Planned Commercial Zoning District/Commercial Enhancement Overlay District. The property maintains Northampton County Tax Parcel Identification number N7NW2 6 10 0205.
Appeal #7-2012: Kurt Koch, 3810 Hecktown Road, Easton, PA 18045 requests a Special Exception within the Light Industrial/Office Campus (LI) Zoning District under Section 1304.C (275-103.C) of the Bethlehem Township Zoning Ordinance, as amended, for permission to develop the site for the use of an auto service station within the LI portion of the property. The address of the real estate is 157 Commerce Park Drive, Lower Nazareth, PA. The property maintains Northampton County Tax Parcel Identification number L8 11A3 4 0418.
All interested parties are invited to attend and be heard.
