Hawks fall in state final

BY KATIE MCDONALD

Punxsatawney pitcher Kylee Lingenfelter was able to keep Bethlehem Catholic's batters off balance just enough for the Chucks to defeat the Hawks, 2-0, in the PIAA State Class 4A Softball final last Friday at Penn State.

Kylee Lingenfelter, who will attend Penn State this fall, had 15 strikeouts.

"She was everything we heard she was," said Becahi coach Rich Mazza. "Penn State doesn't offer a full scholarship as a pitcher if she's not pretty good."

The Chucks scored both of their runs in the third inning, one on an RBI double by Lingenfelter and one on an RBI single by Madison Stonbraker.

In the fifth inning, Becahi's Jess Indelicato and Tatum Kresley had base hits, and in the sixth inning, Julia Sledz hit a double.

"We did have some chances, and definitely in the seventh inning. We just couldn't push them across," Mazza said.

That's when Becahi's Addie Roche walked and Jaden Spigner reached on an error, but that was as far as it would go for the Hawks.

"There were some tears, but I told them they have to take positives away from it," said Mazza. "Out of all the girls who played softball this year, there were only 12 teams in the state final, and we were second in the state."

Earlier last week, Becahi won its semifinal game against Greater Nanticoke, 11-0, on Tuesday at Pine Grove Area High School.

One run in the second inning and another run in the fifth was only the beginning for the Hawks as they scored nine runs in the seventh inning.

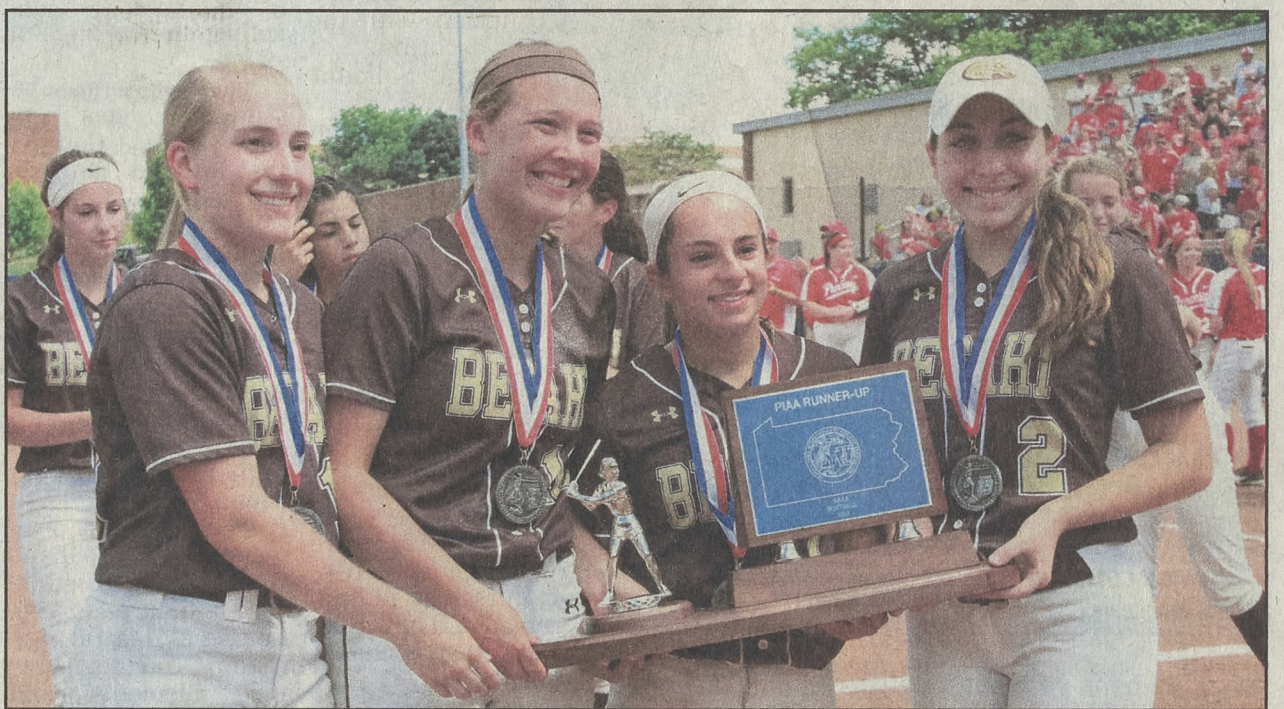

Indelicato led off with a single, Alyssa Jiminez had a triple, Tasha Miner hit a single, and Sledz and Kresley had an RBI single apiece.

Kresley had eight strikeouts in the game.

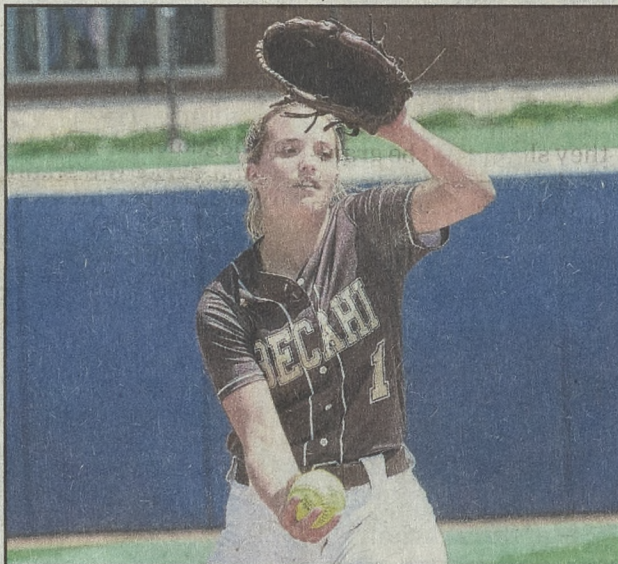

Becahi also won its quarterfinal game against Tunkhannock, 4-1, at Central Columbia High School in Bloomsburg.

Jiminez and Miner had doubles in the first inning to tie the game, 1-1, and Alexa Panuccio put the Hawks ahead, 2-1, with an RBI, also in the first inning.

In the fifth inning, Jiminez led off with a triple, and Julia Sledz had an RBI single to score Jiminez, 3-1, and in the sixth, Roche hit a single and scored on an error for the Hawks' final run of the game.

The Hawks take a minute to enjoy a video honoring their season before the game starts.

They said it: A look back at Becahi's softball season

Before the season

"We expect to be pretty good. We only lost one player [to graduation]."

- Rich Mazza said.

After a big win over Easton

"[Juliana Presto] was pitching all inside, so I stepped off the plate a little bit and drove through the ball. I think it got us all hyped up, especially that we got ahead in the game. We stuck with that mentality even out on the field."

- Jess Indelicato

"Very much [surprised]. Very much. I know we have hitters, but you know, some days we hit, some days we don't, but I'm impressed with the way we hit the ball today.

"We started out by beating Parkland, and then we got beat by Liberty, and that's high school sports. You have good days and bad days, and right now, we're having pretty good days. Stroudsburg was a nice team, and we beat them, so we'll see."

- Rich Mazza

After beating Liberty

"I only hit one over in my life before. I was looking for the exact pitch I got, so when I first hit it, I had to turn and ask my coach if I hit it over because I didn't think I did. I know we're having a good hitting year and so are they, and we respect that they can hit the ball, and it was a very high scoring game but we can also hit, and that's what we did today."

- Julia Sledz

"When my team came back, that really changed up the game for me. Yes, yes, more calm, my team was more calm on defense and hitting-wise, even though it kind of slowed down in the middle of the game. You just push through it, especially with one out and people on first and second."

- Tatum Kresley

"This team has big goals. We believe that if we play our best every game, we can make it all the way."

- Alexa Panuccio

Before district finals

"We just had to make sure that we did all the fundamentals to get the job done, and that's pretty much it. We just kept the same mindset during the game, never let up, always pushed our hardest, and that's why the score was how it was."

- Alexa Panuccio

"I'm looking forward to being back in the district final. It's been since sophomore year, and I was hurt most of last year, and every game I play could potentially be my last game of softball, so that drive is in there, like I have to win, I want to keep playing, so that's the most exciting part."

- Julia Sledz

"We're going to continue doing pretty much everything we do. There's a couple things we saw that I think we can work on that will help us against Bangor.

"This is the time of year you want to reach your peak. You want to keep them motivated but you want to make sure that halfway through the season they don't start going downhill. You reach your peak and then it is downhill, so that's what you've got to watch."

- Rich Mazza

After winning districts

"Amazing. Amazing. I love this team. I can't wait for states."

- Tatum Kresley

"When I was up to bat, I hit a couple foul balls, and I felt that I was going to get a hit. I figured it was just going to be a base hit, but I was fouling her off pretty hard," Jiminez said. "It felt great. I knew we won it then."

- Alyssa Jiminez

Rick Thompson named BC wrestling coach

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Rick Thompson doesn't need much of an introduction to wrestling fans in the area. His short-lived retirement from the coaching world now puts him squarely back in the bull's-eye, as Thompson was approved last week to become Bethlehem Catholic's next wrestling coach.

With Jeff Karam resigning in April after 10 years of leading the Becahi program, the Hawks bring in Thompson, who guided Phillipsburg to a 268-54-1 record in three stints with the program. Thompson was most recently the head coach at Bangor from 2008-2017 and also coached at Franklin, Voorhees, Hackettstown and the old Mountain High School (West Orange).

After retiring from teaching last year, Thompson decided to move down to Myrtle Beach, SC, but quickly got bored of the beach life and came back to the Lehigh Valley.

"It was this time last year where I was sitting down and I was bored to death," Thompson said. "I realized I made a bad choice by retiring from teaching and coaching, so I came back and started substituting at Bangor and then this coaching opportunity came up."

Becahi athletic director Chris Domyan feels Thompson is the perfect fit to lead the program moving forward.

"Rick comes to Bethlehem Catholic with a lifetime of wrestling experience, but the thing that impresses me the most is his commitment to the development of the entire student-athlete," said Domyan. "Rick truly cares about the academic and character growth of each and every student, in addition to their success on the mat. He is a perfect fit for the high performing atmosphere in our school. We firmly believe that Rick will continue to build upon the success that has been established in the Becahi wrestling program."

Thompson plans on meeting with wrestlers this week and is likely to keep most of the members from the previous staff. Having that familiarity from his assistants will be a bonus following last year's a 16-1 state championship season.

The 41-year coaching veteran is no stranger to state champions, as he won eight state titles at P'burg, but he also understands the responsibility that comes with earning the Becahi job.

"It's a great opportunity with great tradition that I have to keep going," said Thompson. "It's not going to be easy. The goal every year is to be a state champion."

"There's only one way I can go as a coach with this team and it's down after they won the state championship last year, but it was the same thing that I went through when I was at Phillipsburg after we'd win states. We would just reload and that's what I expect to happen here. Our goals are always going to be the best team in the state."

Gold knocks off Red

BY JAMES BUNTING
Special to the Press

After four years of lining up against one another, a group of Bethlehem football players learned that playing together can be a lot of fun, too.

The Gold Team, consisting of athletes from Northampton County, Palisades and Phillipsburg, defeated the Red Team 35-7 in the McDonald's Lehigh Valley All-Star Football Classic on June 14.

Freedom was represented by offensive lineman Tijir Bleam. Liberty had six players named to the Gold roster: Jaden Vazquez, Jay McGill, Chrys Hunter, Will Kandianis, Jack Fin eaganofa, and Shane McLaughlin. Bethlehem Catholic was represented by Matt Bisko, Brandon Bartholomew, Javon Clements, and Christian Drayton III.

Becahi's Clements kicked off the Gold Team's scoring barrage with a 71-yard touchdown pass to Easton's Eddie Olsen less than five minutes into the first quarter.

The Red Team fumbled on its first offensive play and gave the ball back to Gold on the 12-yard line. Saucon Valley's Alston Wolfe converted a quarterback sneak to give Gold a 14-0 lead.

Liberty's McGill hauled in a 43-yard pass at the end of the first quarter to set up Gold's third score. Becahi's Drayton III caught a seven-yard touchdown pass from Easton's Scott Poulson to give the Gold Team a 21-0 lead.

Gold led 35-0 before Catasauqua's Miguel Hernandez broke the shutout with a 66-yard touchdown reception in the fourth quarter.

Clements, who will be attending The Hill School next year, enjoyed building a rapport with Liberty's top receiver.

"He (McGill) is a great receiver. I know he's going to Muhlenberg and we have a couple teammates that are going there. He's going to do great there," Clements said.

Drayton III will be continuing his career at Lock Haven next season. Both McGill and Drayton III were optimistic that their two-week camp with the McDonald's All-Stars would prepare them for their first college training camps.

"It was nice to play with the people that you were playing against all season and come together as one," Drayton III said.

Saucon Valley's Steven Rose and Stroudsberg's Warren Watson were honored before the game for their outstanding performance during the training period.

The Gold Team was coached by Kevin Ronalds from Palisades and the Red Team was led by Tom McCarroll from Lehigh.

NASCAR THIS WEEK

SPEED FREAKS

A few questions we had to ask ourselves

Which non-winner from 2018 is the best bet to win Sonoma?

GODSPEAK: Wow, lots of choices here. Obviously, Kurt Busch, but keep an eye on Denny Hamlin.

KEN'S CALL: This one is almost too easy. Kurt Busch. If he doesn't soon enter the Stewart-Haas Trophy Collection Club, he'll become quite tasty.

Summer has started. When it ends, who's "the man" in the Cup Series?

GODSPEAK: Kevin Harvick is up on that wheel. He is looking for a career-best season.

KEN'S CALL: I'll take a slight break from the current norm and say Martin Truex Jr. has once again taken over the top-dog role by Labor Day.

FEUD OF THE WEEK

CLINT BOWYER VS. JIMMIE JOHNSON: Since there was no Cup race, we go back to this heat-up at Talladega. Bowyer was swept out of the race when Johnson's No. 48 Chevy went sideways in Turn 3.

GODWIN KELLY'S TAKE: Bowyer called out Johnson for his derring-do move in heavy traffic. "I don't know if he got loose or was trying to get in a hole but the No. 48 wasn't clear and wrecked a bunch of us," he said.

GODWIN'S PICKS FOR SONOMA

WINNER: Kurt Busch
REST OF TOP 5: Kyle Busch, Clint Bowyer, Jimmie Johnson, Denny Hamlin
FIRST ONE OUT: Bubba Wallace
DARK HORSE: Kasey Kahne
DON'T BE SURPRISED IF: Busch rockets to a victory, if he stays out of the gravel and tire walls.

OFF WEEK

THREE THINGS WE LEARNED

Ryan Blaney, left, and Chase Elliott have traveled to Europe twice in the past two years on off-weekends. [AP/RALPH FRESO]

1. Young-gun travel

NASCAR's young guns like to get out and about on a rare off weekend. Chase Elliott and Ryan Blaney made a beeline for Ireland; their second trip to Europe in as many years. Erik Jones stayed in country, opting for a week in Las Vegas. Older drivers stay at home.

2. Matt's race dates

Matt Kenseth, who came off the inactive list to share the No. 6 Roush Fenway Ford with Trevor Bayne, will make 10 starts this season, it was announced during the off week. Conspicuously absent from Kenseth's list are the restrictor-plate races at Daytona and Talladega.

3. 11 to go

NASCAR's summer fun run begins in California with Sunday's race in Sonoma. The next 11 races will decide which 16 drivers make the playoffs and run for the Cup championship. Only six competitors have won races, meaning there is plenty of room for other drivers to make postseason play.

— Godwin Kelly, godwin.kelly@news-jrnl.com

THREE THINGS TO WATCH

1. Junior's podcast

Dale Earnhardt Jr. started a little podcast a few years ago with his personal manager Mike Davis. It has grown so fast that NBC Sports has decided to tape it and show it on NBCSN. The first "Dale Jr. Download" will air at 5:30 p.m. Thursday. "Our approach with the TV show will be no different than our approach with the podcast," Earnhardt said. "Buddies hanging out, talking racing, sharing life stories and telling jokes."

Dale Earnhardt Jr. has traded his steering wheel for a microphone and is quickly becoming a media sensation at NBC Sports. [NASCAR GETTY IMAGES/RAINIER EHRHARDT]

2. Heat's on

The heat is on inside General Motors' racing department. Chevrolet has just one win in 15 Cup Series races this season. Chevy's lead NASCAR engineer, Alba Colon, has moved on to Hendrick Motorsports after 23 years in the GM trenches. "This opportunity came to be, and it's one of those opportunities that's once-in-a-lifetime, working with a group that I had admired for many, many years," Colon said.

Daytona 500 and Coke Zero Sugar 400. "I don't think your approach is any different," the 22-year-old said. "You want to run the best you can and stay up towards the front the whole race and stay out of trouble." In six plate starts, Jones has wrecked out five times. "Making it to the end is big," he said.

3. Daytona 500 vs. 400

Erik Jones visited Daytona International Speedway last week and was asked if there was a big difference between the

QUESTIONS & ATTITUDE

Compelling questions ... and maybe a few actual answers

Too many rules?

You can make an argument — and many do — that one of NASCAR's big problems is the thick rulebook needed to combat modern technology within the garage stalls and engineering labs. This came to mind yet again last week. In better times, a Cup Series off week would inevitably be ignited with big news of some sort — as if by design, it seemed. All we got last week was more news about illegal splitters and the resulting fines and suspensions. This time it was three crew chiefs (fines) and three car chiefs (suspensions) from Joe Gibbs Racing.

Should they just let 'em go?

It's probably a can't-win proposition. If you let 'em go and throw out 90 percent of the rulebook, some organization finds a huge advantage and, in Bill France's words, "stinks up the show." But make this intense, ongoing, expensive effort to keep everyone on the straight-and-narrow, and you get constant press releases about suspensions and fines due to nonconforming splitters, etc. Pick your poison.

Becahi conducts a football combine

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Bethlehem Catholic recently held its football program's combine to culminate the hard work put forth during the winter weight lifting season.

It was also an opportunity to kick start their spring program and showcase players in front of several college coaches on hand.

This was the sixth year that the Hawks have held their combine and this year's affair had 12 college coaches on hand including the likes of Lafayette, New Hampshire, Bucknell and Buffalo.

For what started as a fundraiser for the program has now turned into the spring's right of passage and a chance to get the competitive juices flowing.

"It's become one of the offseason markers for kids to see where their numbers are at," said head coach Joe Henrich.

"It's also good exposure for our kids because it's so hard for them to get to all the college camps in the summer. This way you have college coaches here that are looking at specific guys and get the chance to look at some of the younger guys too."

The afternoon included events that many football fans are aware of if they watch the NFL combine every spring with 40-yard dash, three cone drills, vertical jump and bench press (185 pounds).

Becahi junior running back Tavion Banks was excited to get back outside and showcase his ability, while also competing with his teammates.

"After football season we get about a month off and then get right back into it," Banks said. "Everyone is competing out here and I want to be the best in everything we do."

Competing in front of college coaches is another perk of the day, where coaches can see players without pads mesh with their position groups and see how they finish drills.

"A lot of coaches want to see a kid move in person before they actually give offers," Henrich said. "That has become such a big part in what they do, that it helps solidify how they feel about kids."

Dalton Daddona was the winner of the linemen group, standing out with 28 reps at 185 pounds in the bench press.

Nicholas Lucien was the winner of the skills group, running a 4.54, 40-yard dash, while Paul Carreras broke the school's previous points record of 907 points with a 957 point performance.

Kicker Anthony DaSilva also showed off his impressive leg for college scouts by hitting a 50-yard field goal.

If this burly black bear was looking for food, it came to the wrong place.

Outdoors: Bear spotted in Upper Mac

BY NICK HROMIAK
Special to the Press

Mark Rabenold, a friend of mine from Allentown, took his mother for a ride last Tuesday afternoon to visit his grandparents' grave site at Jordan Lutheran Church's cemetery in Upper Macungie Township. When he pulled up into the cemetery he couldn't believe what his eyes saw.

No, it wasn't a ghost like something you'd see in a horror movie. But a more realistic figure.

There before him, and looking right at him and his mother, was a sizable black bear. Since my friend is an avid and accomplished photographer who usually carries his camera, he managed to snap off a photo as the bear ran between the tombstones and before it took off.

"I'm only sorry I didn't have my camera all ready to go when I first saw him crossing the cemetery road, as I could have gotten a great picture of him looking right at me," Rabenold recalls and regrets. "You can bet the next time I stop by the Jordan Lutheran Cemetery, I'll be constantly looking around before getting out of my car."

According to Bob Danenhower, of Bob's Taxidermy in Orefield who usually has a handle on bear and deer sightings in and around the Orefield area, he had reports of a bear in fall in the same area of Rabenold's bear. He thinks it may be the same bear.

Judging from the photo, and in his taxidermy experience with bears, Danenhower believes the bear is possibly a 250-300-pound female (sow) that's on the prowl for food. If it's the same bear in spotted in fall, it may have been denning over the winter in the woodlots along Haasadah Road in Upper Macungie.

It's at this time of year bears go on a feeding spree looking for berries, orchards, bird feeders and yes, trash cans and dumpsters.

So if you're in the area of Jordan Lutheran Cemetery, keep an eye peeled for this seemingly resident bruin.

Valley falls in Cup play

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

The Lehigh Valley's Carpenter Cup run ended Monday afternoon in Philadelphia at the hands of a Delaware North in the quarterfinal round.

Delaware North was in control from the beginning taking a three-run lead in the first inning and then never looked back en route to a 26-9 victory.

After taking care of Urban Youth Academy 10-7 in the opening round of the tournament, LV was no match for their Delaware counterparts at FDR Park.

The LV squad faced a 10-1 deficit after three innings on Monday, surrendering 11 hits through three frames, as the team fell behind early to an insurmountable hole they could never claw out from.

Bo Anderson led Delaware batting brigade with six RBI on the afternoon followed by Shawn Haut's four- RBI performance.

Evan Marushak and

Brittain Shander each chipped in a pair of RBIs for the Lehigh Valley.

Lehigh Valley went through seven pitchers on the day, with none lasting more than 1 2/3 innings, as Cole Welch took the loss for LV in a game that saw the team commit seven errors on the day.

Monday's loss keeps the Lehigh Valley franchise from reaching Citizens Bank Park for Friday's semifinals, where the Valley hasn't reached the final four since 2013.

Matt Leon signs with LA Angels

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Liberty graduate Matt Leon signed a professional contract with the Los Angeles Angels recently, culminating a fascinating chapter in his career at Seton Hall.

Leon joined Seton Hall as a walk-on his freshman year and ended his senior campaign as one of four unanimous Big East selections this past season.

The former walk-on had a stellar senior year breaking Seton Hall's single-season record for saves, and climbed to second on the Pirates' career saves and appearances list. He led the Big East in saves, appearances, games finished and games in relief.

Liberty head coach Andy Pitsilos was happy to see one of his former aces get an opportunity in the big leagues.

"Matt signing with the Angels is a testament to his heart and work ethic," Pitsilos said. "He has turned himself into a dominating pitcher."

Leon recorded 12 saves, 34 strikeouts in 30.2 innings, and a team-best 1.17 earned run average this year for Seton Hall, his senior year. He was slated to join one of the Angels affiliate minor league teams last week.

EPC, Colonial split recent soccer all-star contests

BY JAMES BUNTING
Special to the Press

The Colonial League and East Penn Conference split their double-header in the Lehigh Valley Soccer Scholar-Athlete Foundation All-Star Soccer Classic on Sunday, June 3, at Salisbury High School.

The EPC girls were victorious by a score of 4-1 in the opener, with the Colonial League boys winning the second leg 2-1.

Pleasant Valley's Morgan Covart got the EPC girls on the scoreboard less than three minutes into the contest with a long-range shot that curled into the right side of the net.

The Colonial League responded midway through the first half when Moravian Academy's Rachel Burcaw scored with a volley off a corner kick. Northwestern's Abby Chisdak got credit for the assist.

Northwestern goalkeeper McKenna Amey made several acrobatic saves in the first half to keep the Colonial League within range, but the EPC broke the game open with three unanswered goals.

Parkland's Jenna Leonzi and Helen Flynn each recorded a goal and Pocono Mountain East's Taylor Caridi capped the scoring for the East Penn Conference. Kayla Argen of Pocono Mountain East and Kayla Reed of Central Catholic got credit for assists.

Mikaela Miller of Pleasant Valley and Julia Buchman of Parkland saw action between the pipes for the EPC.

Despite having a lineup that was nearly half the size of their counterpart, the Colonial League boys put together an impressive performance in their 2-1 victory.

After a scoreless opening 30 minutes, Notre Dame-Green Pond's Luke Fleissner knocked home a header off a free kick to give the Colonial League a 1-0 lead.

The EPC responded five minutes later when East Stroudsburg-South's Darryl Longdon pounced on a rebound near the goal line as Dawson Berger of Parkland got credit for the assist.

Northwestern Lehigh's Noah Meyers broke the tie with ten minutes remaining in the contest. Meyers received a pass in stride from the Tigers Andrew Goodolf and slipped the ball past Parkland goalkeeper Jake Varrato for the game-winner.

Alex Ficarra of Notre Dame, Taylor Wana-maker of Northwestern, Daniel Elmi of Moravian and Ryan Yacone of Palmerton saw time in net for the Colonial League.

Scheduled to play from the Bethlehem area for the boys were: Adam Zielinski, Will Tichy and Andrew Youwakim of Freedom and Liberty's Matthew Collins for the boys.

Enthusiastic golfers head out onto the course at the start of play.

Remembering Dave DiGiacinto

Special to the Bethlehem Press

The third annual Dave DiGiacinto "DiGi" golf tournament was held in early May, gathering friends of the late city controller at the Bethlehem Golf Club in a fundraiser that benefits the Boys and Girls Club of Bethlehem. DiGiacinto served on the organization's board of directors. Eighty-five golfers participated, kicking the event off with a shotgun start under the threat of rain showers. On hand to greet golfers and sponsors were DiGiacinto's sister, Sally Horan, son Luke and former wife Kelly. After the round of play, participants enjoyed dinner and a party with live entertainment.

Giacinto, who passed away suddenly in January 2015 at age 61, was a former Bethlehem city councilman and city controller at the time he died. An astute and well-respected businessman as well, he was known for his involvement in the community, organizing trips to the annual Army-Navy game, and the many friendships he made in his lifetime.

To date, the tournament has raised over $9,000 for the Boys and Girls Club.

DiGiacinto's baseball cap collection is legendary and each tournament participant was encouraged to take one. Mitch Ohl mulls over his choices.

Wayne Fatabene practices on the putting green to sharpen his game. Fatabene is a childhood friend of Dave DiGiacinto.

Fred Snyder follows through on his first drive at the start of the tournament.

Golfers lined up to register and support the tournament, which benefits the Boys and Girls Club of Bethlehem.

Dave DiGiacinto's sister, Sally Horan, son, Luke, and former wife, Kelly, welcome 85 golfers to the tournament.

Liquid refreshments are enjoyed prior to the shotgun start, with dinner and a party afterward.

The foursome of Jay Hoffert, Joe Kempfer and Gloria and Vince Ortwein are ready to tee off on the first hole.

LV CHARTER HS FOR THE ARTS - JUNE 11

'A rose to be cherished'

BY KATYA HRICHAK
Special to the Bethlehem Press

With decorated caps and broad smiles, the 149 members of the Lehigh Valley Charter HS for the Arts class of 2018 marched down the aisles of Miller Symphony Hall in Allentown and up to their seats on the stage. The June 11 ceremony celebrated the largest graduating class in Charter Arts' history.

"You now have the joy of seeing your kids graduate from what U.S. News & World Report has proclaimed the best school in the Lehigh Valley," Board of Trustees President Mario Acerra told parents in the audience. "But you guys already know that, because you have experienced it firsthand."

Addressing the graduates, he said: "You are now alumni, or you will be in a couple of minutes, of one of the most special schools imaginable."

Celebrating the 15th graduating class and the first class with graduates of the literary arts program, all speakers took the opportunity to look back at where they had come from while looking to the promise of the future.

"You are the last class of seniors who began your career in the old, windowless building next to the Wawa," CEO Diane LaBelle reminded the graduates. "You made the transition to the new school and experienced the exciting and sometimes difficult changes that that move brought."

She reminded the class of a few of their accomplishments, including artistic awards and acknowledgements, the 92 performances and exhibitions they participated in, the charities they volunteered for and $2.5 million in scholarships and grants the 87 percent of students continuing their education collectively earned.

Class speaker Jillian Nichols, an instrumental music major, said, "You will always feel, think and create like the artists you are." She will attend Elizabethtown College.

"Wherever your path takes you next, whether it be school, the job force or serving our country in the military, we know that the discipline and work ethic you learned at Charter Arts will help you find success on the new path that you follow."

Principal Carise Comstock also chose to reflect on the past and present of the class of 2018, delivering her address in rhyme. She began by reminding students of the old school and concluded by looking toward the future, leaving graduates with a few pieces of advice:

"Ask for help when you need it, take chances, be strong. Know when to swallow your pride and admit that you're wrong. The world you are walking into is fractured and flawed, so share your passion and voice traveling near and abroad. Each of you is ready to take the world on by storm, be unique, be a light, always challenge the norm. Be safe, be professional, you know it by now. Frankly, just be you, we couldn't be any more proud."

In her speech, student speaker Kathleen Kunkel reflected on how she and fellow classmates broke in the new school's theater classrooms by bursting in the door singing "La Vie Boheme" from "Rent," and how that experience bonded them as a class and prepared her for the future.

"In 'La Vie Boheme,' there's a line where they say, 'To being an us for once, instead of a them.' That's my favorite line. It feels so good to say and it's even better to be. To be us. Charter Arts has given me the honor of being among us for the past four years, and no matter what was going on in the school, we've all stuck through it and learned how to be us even better," she said. "After experiencing beauty like that, I would be doing myself a disservice if I didn't go out into the world and try and find meaningful relationships like that for the rest of my life."

At this point in the ceremony, artistic directors took to the stage to announce the recipients of senior awards, who are as follows: Chloe Conahan, dance; Eva Greene, figure skating; Sydney Herzig-Derbin, literary arts; Jillian Nichols, instrumental music; Ciara Purcell, theater; Jasmine Kelly, visual art; Claudia Terry, vocal music; and Krystyna Pinel, academics.

The final speech prior to the presenting of diplomas was student Jillian Nichols. Like the speakers before her, she reflected on the class of 2018's collective story, beginning in the old building and ending on the stage in Miller Symphony Hall.

"I'd like to begin with a story. Our story begins on Aug. 25, 2014. ... We were handed a rose to remind us that no matter how scared we were, we would always be supported. That rose has since shown up time and time again, to cheer for us after performances, welcome us every first day of school, and now, to congratulate us as we embark on our next chapters. To me, this rose is the perfect symbol of what it means to be an artist," she said.

Nichols continued, musing this question of artistry, even after students have graduated and left Charter Arts to pursue other majors in college.

"With that being said, I leave you all today simply asking you to continue. Continue to create, continue to support others in their endeavors and continue to encourage yourself. When you become weary and your petals begin to wilt, I want you to go out and buy yourself a rose to cheer yourself on," Nichols said. "I wish you all the very best in this next chapter of your life, wherever it may take you. May you always remember that you are an artist, a rose to be cherished."

Lehigh Valley Charter Arts HS Principal Dr. Carise Comstock advised the graduating seniors to, "Share your passion and voice both here and abroad."

Class speaker and theater major Kathleen Kunkel said, "Art has given us a clear path to human interaction and connection." She will attend George Washington University.

Pa. journalists work to deliver fact-based news

BY MARK COHN
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Newspaper staffs across the commonwealth work tirelessly, day in and day out, to deliver fact-based news and information.

It is the pledge of dedicated journalists, who are also fellow members of the community, to report real, honest and credible news.

In an era of misinformation and fake news dissemination, it's even more important to know that newspapers are a reliable resource that deliver accurate, fair and unbiased reporting from which you may form your own opinions.

Although we are not perfect, we are quick to correct our mistakes, and do our best to avoid releasing incomplete information.

With 24/7 access to information, some media outlets rush to tell a story, and often make mistakes.

That's misinformation — inaccurate, but not necessarily malicious. Fake news, however, is deliberate. Fake news harms — it erodes our trust in public institutions and our fellow citizens.

The results of the 2018 Edelman Trust Barometer survey found that 63 percent of respondents believe the average person does not know how to tell good journalism from rumor or falsehoods.

Thankfully, newspaper journalists employ the fundamentals of good reporting that are essential to the delivery of real news, including thoroughness, good sourcing and strong evidence.

Readers, therefore, aren't tasked with having to differentiate solidly reported real news content from work that is more speculative, loosely sourced or backed by innuendo, hearsay or propaganda. These sources negatively impact and stain our industry.

To provide you with the truthful information you need and deserve, Pennsylvania newspapers are dedicated to being your real news source. You can rest assured that you are reading accurate information written by journalists who care about their readers. We take the time to assess statements and rhetoric for accuracy and truthfulness, and debunk viral stories and rumors.

We are also dedicated to providing news about your community. With more than 200 daily, Sunday and non-daily print and digital publications across the state, no matter where you are, we ensure that you are up-to-date on the information that matters the most to you.

Pennsylvania newspapers are dedicated to providing real news from real newsmen. In addition to being professional journalists, we are your friends, your family and your neighbors. We are honored and humbled by the trust that you have placed in us to deliver accurate news day in and day out.

The dedication of Pennsylvania newspapers to deliver real news is crucial. Watchdog journalism, through reliable sourcing and double-checking facts, gives us the credibility that you deserve. We are about ethics and balance.

Finally, we are dedicated to providing real news to real news readers. Thoughtful reporting and advertising should serve the best interests of readers, and provide an important public service.

As a newspaper reader, I implore you to do your part to help combat and prevent the spread of the inaccurate and fake news that you may be reading or hearing from other media sources. Here are some tips. Check sources and citations — where was the article accessed, does the information appear on other sources? Pay attention to quality and timeliness — is there an abundance of spelling and grammatical errors? Has the story been shared on other credible news outlets? Research the author — is the author a real person who has written other pieces for reliable sources? If you suspect that something is inaccurate or fake, don't share it.

Newspapers remain an important and powerful brand — the true source of real news. No other industry is as firmly rooted in the foundation of our nation as the free press.

We are passionate and will never stop communicating our message so that you can discern what is real and what is posing as real. Fake news threatens our democratic institutions, including that of a free press, and we all need to unite and take a stand to regain power over it.

Mark Cohen is president of the Pennsylvania News-Media Association.

The Lehigh Brigade of the Civil War Round Table and students from Saucon Valley HS formed part of the 66-member contingent from the Lehigh Valley volunteering their services April 21 at the annual Gettysburg Conservation Day.

They cut brush from around the fences on the Henry Spangler Farm site within the battlefield park. The volunteers also dismantled, then rebuilt fences in need of repair, as well as painted posts, pickets and rails.

"We've been working with the park for 25 years," said CWRT Brigade Commander Edwin Root, who organized the Lehigh Valley crew. He added, "We've been doing it before there was an official program."

Root mentioned that since their members are not as young as they were then, other area organizations have been assisting for the last five years.

Round Table member

Brigade Commander Edwin Root organized the Lehigh Valley crew.

Bob McHugh, an American history teacher at Saucon Valley HS, recruited a large number of his students to help out. He explained the young volunteers would be able to apply this to their community service requirement for National Honor Society and college resumes.

"A promise of ice cream helps too," said

McHugh with a grin.

CWRT member Gary Weaver, who also belongs to the Whitehall Historical Society, recruited fellow members from that group.

Boy Scout Troop 89 from New Tripoli also participated.

"My brother Jim Duffy, who belongs to the Civil War Round Table, volunteered our troop and the rest is history," said John Duffy, who describes himself as a "common member" of Troop 89.

While the tired volunteers relaxed after a hard morning's work, they learned the property had been the staging ground for Kemper's Brigade prior to Pickett's charge from NPS Volunteer Coordinator Caitlin Brown.

The NPS Adopt-A-Position program matches volunteer organizations with regimental positions, or in the case of the contingent from the Lehigh Valley, suggests areas of the park that require attention, according to Brown.

Information: cwrteasternpa.org.

National Park Service Volunteer Coordinator Caitlin Brown tells the history of the Spangler farm and its role during the three-day battle as the tired volunteers relax after a hard morning's work. On July 3, 1863, the property was the staging ground for Kemper's Brigade during the fateful charge led by General George Pickett.

Located along a dirt lane that now serves as a Gettysburg National Military Park hiking and horseback trail, the Henry Spangler Farm was occupied by Confederate troops during the epic three-day battle in July 1863. The historic farmhouse, like several others in the park, provides housing for park personnel.

Dancing in the seats

It's summertime and the time is right for 'Dirty Dancing' musical

BY DAWN OUELLETTE
 Special to The Press

Maybe you saw the movie "Dirty Dancing" with your friends when it opened in theaters in 1987, or maybe you became a fan when you saw it on television one night.

However you came to love "Dirty Dancing," and you know who you are, there's no denying the power of the iconic love story and the hold it has on fans' hearts.

"Dirty Dancing: The Classic Story On Stage," with all of the music, romance and dancing of the movie, plus more, stops during its 30th anniversary North American Tour, 7:30 p.m. June 21 and 22, State Theatre Center for the Arts, Easton.

"Dirty Dancing" just celebrated its 30th anniversary," said Aaron Patrick Craven, who plays Johnny Castle, made famous by Patrick Swayze (1979-2009) in the original film.

"That's three generations of people loving it. That's amazing.

"I think it still resonates so well with so many because of the universal themes. There's Baby's coming of age, first love, and taking control of your own destiny no matter what others think.

"And, of course, the ballroom dancing just ties it all together."

Craven is a trained dancer who graduated from Wichita State University with a degree in dance and choreography. While admiring the dancing and acting of Swayze, he tries to make the role his own.

"I like to think I've made it my own," Craven says. "Swayze laid the groundwork. I pay my respects to him while bringing myself into the role."

Craven breaks the fourth wall when Johnny dances past the audience onto the stage during one of the show's scenes. Audiences roar with applause when he appears in the aisles.

Craven leads a cast of 24 that includes Kaleigh Courts (Francis "Baby" Houseman), Anaïs Blake (Penny Johnson), Erica Lee Cianciulli (Marjorie Houseman), Nickolaus Colón (Billy Kostecki-Singer), Ryan Cupello (Robbie Gould), Buddy Daniels Friedman (Mr. Schumacher), Rick Grossman (Max Kellerman), Demitra Pace (Lisa Houseman), Owen Russell (Neil Kellerman), Christopher Robert Smith (Dr. Jake Houseman) and Ramond Thomas (Tito Suarez).

The ensemble is: Alex Caldwell, Ayla Ciccone-Burton, Amanda Clement, J'royce Jata, Hunter Mikles, Honza Pelichovksy, Erica Philpot, Joshua Clifton Powell, Hannah Straney, Jay Stuart, Kelsey Walsh and Aidan Ziegler-Hansen.

The musical features an eight-piece band that performs the timeless hits on stage, led by Conductor

Alan J. Plado, keyboards; Associate Conductor Jonathan Marro, keyboards; Ethan Hack-Chabot, guitar; Michael Bliss, reeds; Adam Hradisky, drums; Ryan McCausland, percussion; Jared Pasimio, bass, and Patrick Stouffer, trumpet.

The touring production has new direction by Sarna Lapine ("Sunday in the Park with George," Broadway, and "War Horse," North American tour).

"As I learned how many people watched the movie over and over and over," says Eleanor Bergstein, screenwriter of the film "Dirty Dancing" and book writer for the production, "I began to think that what they really wanted was to share more physically in the event, to step through the screen and be there while the story was happening."

"And if that was true, then its natural form was theater: live audiences watching live bodies dancing and singing here and now in the present, on the log, on the bridge, on the dance floor and in the staff quarters at Kellerman's."

"Writing it for the stage, I was also able to add more scenes with Baby and Johnny, more about the family, more about the period in which it was set, more songs I couldn't afford last time, and, best of all, more dancing.

"We have added 20 new original scenes and 36 numbers of live music played by an eight-piece band onstage, which invite the audience to come into Kellerman's and experience the story in a whole new way as a live event as it happens."

Agrees Craven regarding the stage version, "There is so much material that you have not seen on screen. There are all your favorite lines and dance numbers and so much more that's new and exciting."

The North American tour production is choreographed by Michele Lynch based on the original choreography by Kate Champion.

The creative team includes Mikiko Suzuki, Scenic Design; Ken Billington, Lighting Design; Jennifer Irwin, Costume Design; Leon Rothenberg, Sound Design; Bernie Ardia, Hair Design; Conrad Helfrich, Music Supervisor and Orchestrations, and Alan J. Plado, Music Director.

Display your garden bounty at The Fair

Growing your own fruit can be very rewarding, but a home orchard requires considerable care.

An orchard can be large or small. It can be an extensive planting of many fruit trees, a handful of small trees in the corner of your garden, or an espalier of fruit trees trained to a fence, trellis or wall.

Planting your own fruit trees give you the freedom to grow cultivars you like and produce fruit that is not available at the market.

GROWING GREEN
 L.C. Cooperative Extension
 LehighExt@psu.edu

When fruit trees are carefully selected, sited, and properly managed they can enhance a home landscape and provide an abundance of delicious fruit.

Botanically referred to as pomes, apples and pears are excellent candidates for the home garden, as long as the grower is committed to the attention to detail and pest management that the crop requires.

Keep in mind that the production of high-quality apple and pear fruit requires careful observation and knowing how to respond to various pest problems that can occur.

Because there are many insect and disease pests of apples and pears, growing quality fruit in Pennsylvania without some use of pesticides is very difficult.

Home gardeners are encouraged to purchase disease-resistant cultivars, when available. While these cultivars are not resistant to all diseases that occur in Pennsylvania, they are resistant to the major diseases.

Pesticides may be required, particularly in wet seasons, but the frequency of their application can be greatly reduced. Under normal conditions, a home gardener may be required to make six to ten pesticide applications to produce fruit of reasonable quality. If you are growing disease-resis-

The art of Ellen Grim Harter in the Baum tradition

BY ED COURRIER
Special to The Press

A reception for "It's All About Color," more than 30 colorful works by Ellen Grim Harter on exhibit through July 6 in the David E. Rodale and Rodale Family Galleries, will be held at 6-8 p.m. June 21, at The Baum School of Art, Allentown, as part of Allentown's Third Thursday series.

As one of nine grandchildren of Walter Emerson Baum, who founded The Baum School of Art and was a founder of the Allentown Art Museum, Harter often watched the artist at work on his sketches and paintings.

"We all posed for him," says Harter, who was born Dec. 1, 1935, a child of Baum's daughter Mar-ian.

Harter developed an interest in art history and painting in high school. Baum helped prepare her for college art classes during the summer of 1956. She still uses the easel her grandfather retrieved from a barn that year.

Having been inspired by her grandfather's impressionistic landscapes and later trained by Yale University's renowned color theorist, Josef Albers, Harter developed a sophisticated eye for color and space relationships. She received a BFA and MFA from the Yale University School of Art.

Harter found inspiration while traveling with her husband Michael to Florence, Rome, and France, including a trip to Monet's studio and the gardens at Giverny. Her painting of a red-roofed structure bridging a waterway, "Florence from the Arno River" (oil on canvas, 16 in. x 20 in.), is from a photo her husband took from the tour bus they were riding on. They have been married for 57 years.

From poppy fields in Europe to lilies in her brother's fish pond, and hydrangea blossoms in her own yard, Harter's landscapes glow with vivid colors, yet the underpainting hues push through the layers to the surface as well. This treatment also dominates her still-life subjects of Asian pears and vibrant flower arrangements that burst out of glass and ceramic vases.

Like her grandfather before her, Harter turned to family for subjects to paint. Her daughter stands in the snow while holding the family cat in "Holly and Suntan" (oil on canvas, 30 in. x 24 in.). "Peter and Suntan" (oil on canvas, 20 in. x 24 in.) is of her young son playing in the snow with their white and tan kitten.

"As I continue to paint today I try to make each painting a color study. Through the use of color value, I strive for living quality, weight, density, motion and space balance. I try to show the moment that form appears and is shaped by color," is part of Bethlehem-based artist's statement.

The exhibit is sponsored by Harter's brothers, J. Lawrence Grim, Jr. and John Grim and their families.

tant apples, then only two to three pesticide applications may be necessary to produce quality apples.

Growing vegetables is a lot of work. Vegetables require care and tending, and the vegetable gardener will face many challenges while managing water, fertility, and pests during the growing season. Growing your own vegetables also means you have choices. You can grow what you like to eat, and nothing tastes better than when it's fresh from the garden.

Keeping a garden journal during the growing season is helpful. Track what you plant and when, and sketch a map showing where specific vegetables were planted in your garden. Makes notes describing insect and disease problems, including the time of year and weather conditions when the problems occurred.

Keeping notes about your garden every year will help you plan crop rotations and determine when to start seeds and put out transplants.

Beautiful flower gardens start with good soil. In general, most flowers do best in garden soil that is loose and well-drained with a lot of organic material as part of the soil composition.

Avoid digging or handling soil when it is wet to prevent compaction. Thoroughly soak the soil around your newly-planted flowers. Garden flowers generally need 1 to 2 inches of moisture every week to perform well. Provide water if you don't receive enough rain.

It's better to water deeply and less frequently than shallowly and more often so the roots of the plants grow deeper. Avoid keeping soil waterlogged so the roots of the flowering plants don't rot.

As your flowering plants begin blooming, feel free to cut them for bouquets. Clip off the spent flower heads to encourage the plant to put more energy into its foliage and winter survival. Some flowers, including zinnias, dahlias, and others, bloom again when you remove the blooms.

Many home gardeners enjoy seeing the fruit, vegetable, and flower displays at The Great Allentown Fair. Why not enter your own bounty?

For a premium booklet, go to allentownfairpa.org and download a copy. The deadline for registration is Aug. 4.

'Ocean's 8' is slick fun

"Ocean's 8" is slick escapist fun, fueled by terrific performances by the leading females in its cast.

The movie is a remake of the successful "Ocean" caper movies, which began in 1960 with the release of "Ocean's 11," which starred the so-called "Rat Pack" of Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin, Sammy Davis, Jr., Peter Lawford and Joey Bishop.

A series of remakes, "Ocean's Eleven" (2001), "Ocean's Twelve" (2004) and "Ocean's Thirteen" (2007) starred an ensemble cast that included George Clooney, Matt Damon, and Brad Pitt.

"Ocean's 8" begins with Debbie Ocean (Sandra Bullock) visiting the mausoleum of her brother Danny Ocean (George Clooney). Debbie, recently sprung from a five-year incarceration in the New Jersey Correctional System, has no intention of going straight.

She has her eyes on the prize, a necklace in the Cartier collection worth $150 million, to be worn by an actress, Daphne Kluger (Anne Hathaway), at the annual Metropolitan Museum of Art "Met Gala," said to be the biggest party on the United States' social scene. The plan is to steal the necklace from the actress.

To accomplish this, Debbie gathers her girl crew. And what a crew it is: Cate Blanchett, Helena Bonham Carter, Mindy Kaling, Sarah Paulson, Rihanna, and Awkwafina (born Nora Lum Ying).

MOVIE REVIEW

By Paul Willistein
pwillistein@online.com

The introductions to each of these characters is handled in an appropriately silly and incisive manner, as befits a heist film where nothing is taken too seriously and much of the plot strains credulity.

That's OK. "Ocean's 8," as directed by Gary Ross (Oscar nominee: picture, adapted screenplay, "Seabiscuit," 2004; original screenplay, "Dave," 1993; screenplay, "Big," 1988), keeps the pace so brisk that you don't have much time to contemplate the plot holes. "Gee, how did they do that?" you might ask. Before you can figure it out, it's on to the next scene.

The screenplay by Ross, and Olivia Milch ("Dude," 2018), based on characters by George Clayton Johnson and Jack Golden Russell, gives enough time for the character development of each character; provides just enough details of the heist, and keeps the heist itself unfolding at a wicked pace.

The cinematography, editing and music choices gives "Ocean's 8" the feeling of a throwback to the caper films of Hollywood in days gone by.

The movie's third act, when James Corden plays an insurance firm investigator, trails off and isn't up to the set up and execution of the heist. It can't match it. What could? However, the movie wraps up rather nicely in the final frames.

Bullock has those wry facial expressions and an inner mischievousness that's just bubbling below the surface.

Blanchett is a sophisticated hoot.

Bonham Carter has a great time in her over-the-top role.

Each of the rest of the lead females in the cast has her moments. Getting to look in on the Met Gala, as well as the world of upscale New York City is delicious.

"Ocean's 8" is a good popcorn movie and a nifty getaway for the summer movie season. "Ocean's 8," MPAA rated PG-13 (Parents Strongly Cautioned Some material may be inappropriate for children under 13. Parents are urged to be cautious. Some material may be inappropriate for pre-teenagers.) for language, drug use, and some suggestive content; Genre: Action, Comedy, Crime; Run time: 1 hr., 50 mins. Distributed by Warner Bros.

Credit Readers Anonymous: "Ocean's 8" was filmed on location in New York City.

Box Office, June 15: The "Incredibles 2" had an incredible first weekend, opening at No. 1 with $180 million, the highest-ever opening weekend box office gross for an animated feature film (topping "Finding Dory," which opened with $135 million in 2016), moving "Ocean's 8" from its one-week No. 1 perch to No. 2 with $19.5 million, $79.1 million, two weeks, and keeping "Tag" opening at No. 3 with $14.6 million.

4. "Solo: A Star Wars Story" zoomed down two slots, with $9 million, $192.8 million, four weeks.

5. "Deadpool 2" dropped two slots, $8.8 million, $294.6 million, five weeks.

6. "Hereditary" moved down one slot, $7 million, $27.1 million, two weeks.

7. "Superfly," $6.3 million, since June 13, and $8.4 million, weekend, opening.

8. "Avengers: Infinity War" retreated three slots, $5.2 million, $664.1 million, eight weeks.

9. "Adrift" drifted down another three places, $2.1 million, $26.8 million, three weeks.

10. "Book Club" turned down three pages, $1.8 million, $62 million, five weeks.

Unreel, June 22: "Jurassic World: Fallen Kingdom," PG-13: J.A. Bayona directs Bryce Dallas Howard, Chris Pratt, Jeff Goldblum, and Daniella Pineda in the Science-Fiction Action film. The island's volcano erupts. The dinosaurs need to be rescued. Not a good idea. But a good premise for what promises to be a great summer movie.

"Damsel," R: Directors: David Zellner and Nathan Zellner direct Robert Pattinson, Mia Wasikowska, and themselves in the Comedy Western. In the 1870s, a wealthy pioneer heads the call: go west, young man.

'Ragtime' sings, dances to a timely tune at PSF

pwillistein@tnonline.com

"Ragtime" is a sprawling musical that defies description. By turns, it's three musicals in one, with interlocking storylines that mix historic figures with fictional characters.

It's big. It's brash. It's bold.

"Ragtime" is also profoundly relevant to contemporary societal problems in the United States.

And in the hands of Pennsylvania Shakespeare Festival Associate Artistic Director Dennis Razze, who has directed PSF's season-opening musicals, including "Evita," 2017; "West Side Story," 2016; "Les Miserables," 2015; "Fiddler On The Roof," 2014; "Oklahoma!," 2013, "Ragtime" is yet another PSF blockbuster.

Razze directs "Ragtime" with a superb sense of showmanship, astounding production values, and a cast of lead performers who seemingly stepped from the Broadway stage onto the Main Stage of Labuda Center for the Performing Arts, DeSales University, where "Ragtime," which opens PSF's 27th annual season, continues through July 1.

Based on the 1975 novel by E.L. Doctorow, with music by Stephen Flaherty, lyrics by Lynn Ahrens, and book by Terrence McNally, for which he received a Tony Award for best book of a musical in 1998 (the original Broadway production received 13 Tony nominations), "Ragtime" doesn't mince words. The N-Word is heard several times in the context of turn of the century (as in the 20th century) racism when the United States was more an ethnic alphabet soup than a melting pot.

In the PSF production, seen opening night June 15 for this review, "Ragtime" is a fantastical, jaw-dropping, engrossing three-hour tableau (including intermission) of the American scene: an upper middle class New Rochelle, N.Y., caucasian family whose fortune is based on a fireworks factory; an immigrant entrepreneur who turns silhouettes into silent films, and who would do anything to not be separated from his daughter, and a Harlem piano player of ragtime music who wants his life to matter, too.

In the Original Costume Design by Santo Loquasto, with Costume Coordinator Courtney Irizarry, the ice-cream hues of the white family contrast with the purple and blues of the Harlem residents, and the drab gray of the immigrants fresh off the boat.

The set, by Scenic Designer Steve TenEyck, is framed with "steel" that effectively works with Lighting Designer Eric T. Haugen, for the 11 scenes in Act One and seven scenes in Act Two, including a New York harbor, vaudeville theater, Ford assembly line, railroad station, New Rochelle house, and Morgan Library, with appropriate scenery drops, chairs, desks and assorted props, including a battery-powered Model T Ford replica driven on and off the stage.

The 15-piece orchestra, conducted by Nathan Diehl, is spirited and lively, sounding like a jazz repertoire ensemble that is having too much fun throughout the some 19 songs in Act One, and 15 songs in Act Two (including three reprises). Music Director J. Bennett Durham gets a clear and distinct sound from the cast's voices.

It's all brought to life by 40 extraordinary performers, right from the start of the Scott Joplin-esque opening number, "Ragtime," by the entire Company, which showcases Choreographer Stephen Casey's work, and throws it down ecstatically, putting the audience on notice this is one musical to be reckoned with.

Carly Hueston Amburn (Evelyn Nesbit), Mother's Younger Brother (James Stapp) and the Ensemble ratchet up the song and dance with "The Crime Of The Century," an over-the-top number in the best sense.

Nkrumah Gatling (Coalhouse Walker, Jr.), who has incredible charisma and a voice that reaches the back rows, and the Ensemble roll it out even further with "Gettin' Ready Rag." Gatling extends a mournful but hopeful plea with "Make Them Hear You."

Destinee Rea (Sarah), who has a wonderful stage presence, renders a tender "Your Daddy's Son" that will melt your heart.

Bryant Martin (Father), Brandi Burkhardt (Mother), Stapp, Gatling, Rea and the Ensemble combine for "New Music," the show's catchiest and most emblematic number.

Burkhardt, whose voice is extraordinarily beautiful, captivates with the ruminative "Back To Before."

You wonder when Gatling and Rea will get together and "Wheels Of A Dream" doesn't disappoint with their dynamic duet. They join in lovely harmony again for "Sarah Brown Eyes."

There are more songs and numbers that are delightfully entertaining.

Numerous actors impress: Rod Singleton (Booker T. Washington), Samuel Druhora (Tateh), Freddie Kimmel (Harry Houdini), Dave Scheffler (J.P. Morgan), Michele Ragusa (Emma Goldman), Jack Doyle (Henry Ford) and Richard White (Grandfather).

"Ragtime" spans an era in American history not unlike the hands of a pianist on the black and white keys. It's a stereoscopic view of a time then and now that bears repeated viewings.

A 'Beauty' of a 'Beast' at Muhlenberg Theatre

pwillistein@tnonline.com

"Disney Beauty And The Beast: The Broadway Musical" is the Disney version of the beloved fairytale about the bookish Belle who looks beyond the cover of the Beast to discover a Prince of a person inside.

The Muhlenberg Summer Music Theatre version is satisfying, fun and entertaining for the whole family. It's really the kind of musical you can, and should, take your child, grandchild or a young family relative to see.

That's not to say it's not enjoyable for older folks. On the contrary, adults will find MSMT's "Beauty And The Beast" to be a fable with some stable take-aways, not the least of which is to not judge a book by its cover.

The symbolism of Belle, who is ostracized by her fellow villagers for always having her nose in a book, reading "King Arthur" to the Beast, as she does in one song, is so delightfully obvious that it really works.

And that's what's best about much of Disney entertainment. The Disney version may often be simple but not typically simplistic. You may have experienced this at Disney World or Disneyland.

"Beauty And The Beast," which opens MSMT's 38th annual season, continues through July 1, Paul C. Empie Theatre, Dexter F. and Dorothy H. Baker Center for the Arts, Muhlenberg College, Allentown. The June 16 performance was seen for this review.

"Beauty And The Beast" is paced by a great score of memorable songs, with melodic music by Alan Menken, very funny as well as insightful lyrics by Howard Ashman and Tim Rice, with the Book by Linda Wolverton. The musical, which opened in 1994 on Broadway, has additional songs that aren't in the 1991 feature animation film.

Scenic Designer Edward T. Morris gives the MSMT production a delightful storybook feel, thanks in no small part to the charming facade of six village buildings on a set that rotates to reveal the Beast's castle interior, and, with some modifications, the tavern interior, and a backdrop that, with projections by Lighting Designer Gertjan Houben, gives the impression of a forest. Magic Consultant David Caserta adds to the stagecraft.

Costume Coordinator Barbara Erin Delo, Makeup Designer Joe Dulude II and Wig and Hair Stylist Kim Danish combine to create believable representations of the inanimate objects that the castle-keepers have turned into.

There's Cogsworth (Bob Fahringer), the clock; Lumiere (Zachary Spiegel), a candle-labra; Babette (Allison Bloechl), a feather duster; Mrs. Potts (Lauren Curnow), a teapot; Chip (Nathaniel Rock), a teacup; Madame de la Grande Bouche (Jenna Leigh Miller), a dresser with drawers, and the Beast (Alan Mendez).

The cast of 35, which includes the Ensemble of 20, is directed by Gary John La Rosa, with Choreographer Ann Cooley, and Music Director Ed Bara, with an 11-piece orchestra.

The musical opens with a prologue narration with images projected on a frame at stage center, front of curtain.

"Belle," the opening number sung by Belle (Ashley Hiester), Gaston (Jon McHatton), Lefou (Noah Sunday-Lefkowitz), the Three Silly Girls (Danielle Costanzo, Maura McColgan, Elissa Wells) and the Townspeople.

"No Matter What" is earnestly sung by Hiester and Neil Hever (Maurice).

Hiester and McHatton are hilarious in the song, "Me," which celebrates the egotistical Gaston.

The rollicking "Gaston," sung by McHatton, Sunday-Lefkowitz, Danielle Costanzo, Maura McColgan, Elissa Wells, and the Tavern Patrons turns the ego up another notch to even more hilarious effect.

The musical's big production number, "Be Our Guest," doesn't disappoint with Spiegel, Fahringer, Curnow, Miller, Rock, Bloechl and the Enchanted Objects getting into the act.

"Human Again" is wonderful as sung by Spiegel, Miller, Fahringer, Curnow, Bloechl, Rock and the Enchanted Objects.

Curnow sings a tender and memorable "Beauty And The Beast."

If you can't get to a Disney park in the next few weeks, "Beauty And The Beast" might be just the ticket for you at MSMT.

Lehigh Valley house sales decline in May for fourth month in a row

pwillistein@ntonline.com

Sales of houses in the Lehigh Valley continued their percentage of decline into the second quarter of 2018 compared to the same time in 2017, just as the prime summer residential real estate sales season gets underway.

According to the May monthly report of the Greater Lehigh Valley Realtors (GLVR), closed sales were down a bit less: 8.5 percent with 765 houses sold in May, compared to 836 houses sold in May 2017.

Despite the percentage of sales being down according to the GLVR report, the number of houses sold continues to increase when monthly figures for 2018 are compared to those of 2017.

For example, closed sales were down 10.6 percent with 591 houses sold in April, compared to 661 houses sold in April 2017.

Closed sales for March were down 7.9 percent to 595 houses sold, compared to 646 houses sold in March 2017.

Closed sales for February were down 6.7 percent to 421 houses sold, compared to 451 houses sold in February 2017.

Closed sales for January were up 2.6 percent to 442 houses sold, compared to 431 houses sold in January 2017.

For the year-to-date, closed sales for 2018 are down marginally, by 4 percent, with 2,904 houses sold, compared to 3,035 houses sold year-to-date in 2017.

Pending sales were up again in May by 6.9 percent to 967, compared to 905 in May 2017.

Pending sales for 2018 are up slightly, 0.7 percent to 3,760, compared to 3,733 year-to-date for 2017.

The Average Sales Price went up again, 6.6 percent in May to $223,513, compared to $209,714 in May 2017.

The Median Sales Price also increased 9.2 percent in May to $199,950, compared to $183,105 in May 2017.

Lehigh Valley's tight housing market continues to get tighter with new listings down even more by 8.6 percent to 1,203 in May, compared to 1,316 in May 2017.

Days on Market again dropped by double digits in May by 16.3 percent to 41 days, compared to 49 days in May 2017.

Inventory also continued its big decline in May, down 31.3 percent to 1,679, compared to 2,443 in May 2017.

Months Supply in May was also down, by 33.3 percent to 2.4 months, compared to 3.6 months in May 2017.

The Percentage of List Price Received was up by 1.2 percent to 98.9

percent in May, compared to 97.7 percent in May 2017.

The Housing Affordability Index took another double-digit dip in May, down 13.9 percent, compared to May 2017.

Market analysis
"Prospective home buyers should continue to expect a competitive housing market for the next several months," said GLVR CEO Justin Poremba.

"Given the fact that gradually rising mortgage rates often infuse urgency to get into a new home before it costs more later, buyers need to remain watchful of new listings and make their offers quickly," Poremba said.

Although home sales may actually drop in year-over-year comparisons over the next few months, that has more to do with low inventory than a lack of buyer interest, according to Sean LaSalle, 2018 President of GLVR.

"As lower days on market and higher prices persist year after year, one might rationally expect a change in the outlook for residential real estate, yet the current situation has proven to be remarkably sustainable, likely due to stronger fundamentals in home loan approvals than were in place a decade ago," LaSalle said.

Carbon County

Carbon County had another solid month and even saw a slight increase in inventory, according to the May report of the GLVR.

Inventory went up 1.8 percent to 332 units.

Months Supply of Inventory was down 17.1 percent to 5.8 months.

The Median Sales Price remained steady, seeing a decrease of 1.3 percent to $132,000.

Pending Sales climbed to 77, versus 61 the previous May.

There was an increase in New Listings, which hit 123.

Little black dress OK for wedding

Dear Jacquelyn,
I am going to a wedding and I would like to wear a black cocktail dress. My friends are telling me I should avoid wearing black to a wedding. The wedding is semi-formal and I feel a black dress is an appropriate choice. What's your opinion about wearing black as a wedding guest?

RESPECTFULLY YOURS
By Jacquelyn Youst

ning event, reach for light colors and fabrics. If the event is later in the evening, wear darker colors and more muted patterns.

In the past, if a guest wore black to nuptials, it was considered a protest to the marriage about to take place. While wearing black to a wedding was long considered a bad move, it's no longer looked upon with disdain.

Obviously, times have changed. Today, it is absolutely acceptable to wear a tasteful, classic black dress.

Keep in mind some simple guidelines when choosing your black dress. As with colors, appropriateness has more to do with the cut, fit, and material of the dress, rather than the color.

Avoid short low-cut dresses meant for the club. Leave them in the fitting room.

Dresses and skirts should be a fingertip-length at the shortest.

If your black dress makes you feel good and flatters you, then by all means wear it. Be sure to accessorize with jewelry and fabulous shoes.

This isn't the first time you've heard this, but, it bears repeating: Never upstage or upset the bride by wearing whites, creams, or ivories.

Respectfully Yours,
Jacquelyn

Helping others uplifts us

I live in a really nice community that is deed restricted.

What that really means is homeowners have to follow a bunch of rules. To make sure no one breaks the rules, two compliance officers ride around the community and take time-stamped photos of any violation they see.

Some people who live here are not quite in agreement as to whether it's smart to live in our deed-restricted community.

On one hand, we are told, everything looks nice because "not looking nice" isn't tolerated. Most people think the rules keep our community looking great ... until the rules affect them, that is.

Many of the rules are about garbage. You decide if the rules are rigid or exactly right.

Homeowners are not allowed to have exposed garbage cans or visible yard trash containers.

All cans and containers kept outside must be enclosed in fencing. An entire page of "guidelines," better known as rules, defines what kind, what size and what color fencing is allowed.

To comply, I had the "right kind" of fencing installed. But I wasn't home free because I once got a letter in the mail saying one of my cans was sticking out too far and was visible from the street.

I was sure that only a drone, a bird or bumblebee could see the can from the street, but I made a better effort to "be compliant."

Being compliant also means garbage cans are allowed at the curb for pickup only on the assigned garbage day and must be put away by the end of the day.

Sometimes I'm not there on garbage days and am not available to take in the cans. Second violations, I was warned, mean a fine.

Thank God for good neighbors. The last time that happened, some kind soul saved me by putting my cans back where they belonged.

I figured it was my nice next-door neighbor, Bob. When I thanked him, he said I was thanking the wrong person. Someone had taken his cans in, also. It wasn't my neighbor Chris, either.

There were no other possibilities. After a week, I learned it was my neighbor Tom. No way I thought it would be him. Tom is 98 and weighs about 88 pounds. I couldn't picture him wrestling with the big cans to get them back into the tight space.

Tom grinned from ear to ear when I went over to thank him. I was grinning too because his unexpected act of kindness made me feel so good.

Actually, all around me I've been seeing acts of kindness that make me feel good about the human race.

Standing in line at the grocery store I saw the fellow at the cashier had his credit card rejected.

WARMEST REGARDS
By Pattie Mihalik
newsgirl@comcast.net

He handed the cashier two more credit cards that were also rejected. He stood there looking embarrassed that he didn't have $18.30 to pay for his groceries.

He had only bought milk, bread and a few staples. Before I could offer to help, the older woman in front of me told the cashier to just put his total on her bill. His face turned beet red but he thanked her and was able to leave with his groceries.

Don't you just love when you encounter people who care about others?

Sometimes we have so many troubles that it doesn't seem fair when we're hit with more. That was the case when my friend Jean, who normally has to use a wheelchair, was seriously injured when hit by a Mack Truck. It's been three months and her broken back still hasn't healed.

She's unable to walk or do the basic things to take care of herself. Worse yet, since her husband died, she lives alone with no family to help.

Our church ladies stepped in to bring her meals, wash her clothes and do some of the unmentionable things that have to be done for her.

Sometimes, when something bad happens to someone, people come to help at first then they walk away and get busy with their own lives. So far, it's been heartening to see how a few women are succeeding in helping Jean to live on her own.

My friend Bobbi Sue gathers a few friends to help her put on a potluck dinner every Tuesday night for the homeless and the needy. Most of the time it's just something on the grill, side dishes and deserts. But it sure is appreciated.

This week a woman came to eat and carried a platter to her husband who stayed in the car. She said he just got out of the hospital and they didn't know how they would pay for dinner. "It was a godsend when I heard about this free meal," said the old woman.

Bobbi Sue says it makes her feel good just to be of service to others.

One woman who teaches troubled teens said no matter what she tried she couldn't get through to the teens. Finally, when she took them to a nursing home for their court-ordered community service, she was stunned to see the positive change that came over the kids as they helped the elderly residents.

"They felt good being able to help," she said.

The kids learned a truism: When we help others, we gain as much as those we help.

Father's day depends on mother

Q. I am the father of nine- and 11-year-old daughters. Years ago, I made some very bad decisions, including leaving my wife and my children, and losing custody. I have grown up, straightened out and have established myself. I want to reconnect with my daughters, but don't know how to go about it.

THE FAMILY PROJECT
By Carole Gorney

"Everything depends on her."

"What the father says to the mother will be different depending on what she says and how she feels about the whole situation," Stefanyak said. "The father needs to be prepared to let his ex-wife express whatever resentment or other feelings she may have. That's the first step."

As part of the conversation, the father also needs to be able to say, "I deserve whatever feelings you have about me," said Stefanyak.

"The father has to be cautious, and not resentful," Daniels said. "He must accept what he has caused."

One way the panelists suggested the conversation could go would be for the father to start by saying that at some point it will be good for the girls to have their birth father in their lives.

Panelist Pam Wallace cautioned against appearing to try buy his daughters' love, or thinking it is going to be easy to walk back into their lives. "He's not going to make up for 10 years in one weekend. To reconnect he is going to have to win back the trust of a lot of people," said Wallace.

The question was asked if the daughters have connected with someone else as a step-father or father figure. "He's got to be OK with that," Daniels said.

As for the daughters themselves, Stefanyak noted that children are very forgiving of parents. "From my experience, kids are eternally optimistic. They will give parents chance after chance. The first thing to do is just say, 'Hi.' The daughters will believe the father's sincerity when they experience it," said Stefanyak.

This week's team of parenting experts are: Pam Wallace, Program Coordinator, Project Child, a program of Valley Youth House; Denise Continenza, Extension Educator, Food, Families and Health, Penn State Extension; Mike Daniels, LCSW, Psychotherapist, CTS, and Chad Stefanyak, School Counselor.

Q. What are the options for treating prostate cancer?

HEALTHY GEEZER
By Fred Cicetti
fred@healthygeezers.com

Prostate cancer is one of the most common types of cancer among men in the United States.

Treatment for prostate cancer works best when the disease is found early.

There are many options for treating prostate cancer:

Observation. If the cancer is growing slowly, you may decide to wait and watch.

Hormone therapy. This stops cancer cells from growing.

Surgery. There are several surgical options. These include radical prostatectomy or removal of the entire prostate, cryosurgery that kills the cancer by freezing it, radiation therapy to shrink tumors, and implant radiation that places radioactive seeds into the prostate.

Surgery can lead to impotence and incontinence. Improvements in surgery now make possible for some men to keep their sexual function.

Q. What exactly is perimenopause?

The process of reproductive aging begins around age 40. Declining levels of the hormones estrogen and progesterone change a woman's periods. These hormones maintain the health of the vagina and uterus, and regulate the menstrual cycles.

Menopausal transition, called perimenopause, is the time when a woman's body is close to menopause. Periods may become irregular. A woman may start to feel hot flashes and night sweats.

Perimenopause usually begins about two to four years before the last menstrual period. It ends when menopause begins. A woman reaches menopause when a year has passed since her last period.

Postmenopause follows menopause and lasts the remainder of a woman's life. Pregnancy is no longer possible. There may be symptoms such as vaginal dryness long after menopause.

Q. I'm 67-years-old. Should I expect to get cataracts eventually?

A cataract is a clouding of the lens, the clear part of the eye that helps focus images like the lens in a camera.

Most cataracts are related to aging. By age 80, more than half of all Americans either have a cataract or have had cataract surgery. There are other causes of cataracts such as diabetes, eye injury, radiation and surgery for other eye problems.

Cataracts tend to worsen gradually. The clear lens slowly changes to a yellowish-brownish color, adding a brownish tint to vision. If you have advanced lens discoloration, you may not be able to identify blues and purples.

The most common symptoms of a cataract are: blurred images, faded colors, glare, poor night vision, double vision, and frequent prescription changes in your eyeglasses or contact lenses. If you have any of these symptoms, see your doctor, because they can be signs of other eye problems.

If you are 60 or older, you should have a comprehensive dilated eye exam at least once every two years.

In addition to cataract, your eyecare professional can check for signs of age-related macular degeneration, glaucoma, and other vision disorders. Early treatment for many eye diseases may save your sight.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Notice is hereby provided pursuant to Section 3301.2 of the Borough Code that Borough Council of the Borough of Catasauqua will accept public input and comment at its regularly scheduled public meeting on July 9, 2018, commencing at 7:00 P.M. at the Borough Hall located at 90 Bridge Street, Catasauqua, PA 18032, concerning the adoption of a proposed ordinance establishing rules and regulations for the permitting and operation of grease traps by certain users of the municipal, sanitary sewer system. Following receipt of public input and comment as aforesaid, and at the same public meeting, Borough Council intends to consider passage of this Ordinance.

The Ordinance is titled "AN ORDINANCE OF THE BOROUGH OF CATASAUQUA LEHIGH COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA, ESTABLISHING STANDARDS AND GUIDELINES FOR THE DESIGN, INSTALLATION, OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE OF GREASE INTERCEPTORS FOR COOKING ESTABLISHMENTS IN ORDER TO CONTROL THE DISCHARGE OF FATS, OILS AND GREASE INTO THE SANITARY SEWER SYSTEM IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE NPDES PERMIT FOR THE CATASAUQUA WASTE WATER TREATMENT PLANT." The following constitutes a summary of the contents of the proposed Ordinance prepared pursuant to Section 3301.2(a) (1) of the Borough Code.

The Ordinance contains Legislative Findings which discuss the legal and factual background of the Ordinance. Section II contains the Ordinance text. The purpose of the Ordinance is set forth in Section A and is to establish regulations for the capture and disposal of fats, oils and grease ("FOG") so as to enable the Borough to comply with all applicable state and federal laws, as well as the NPDES permit for the waste water treatment plant ("WWTP"). These regulations will serve to prevent overflows, help comply with permit requirements and promote efficiency and conservation practices.

Section B contains a series of definitions applicable to the Ordinance, including a definition of "FOG," to include organic, polar compounds derived from animal and/or plant sources that contain multiple carbon chain triglyceride molecules and "Grease Trap," to include a plumbing appurtenance or appliance that is installed in a sanitary drainage system in order to intercept and remove FOG from wastewater and which is installed inside of a facility. Any person who owns or operates a cooking establishment. The term "User" includes the owner of any premises on which a cooking establishment is located. A permitting program is established in Section C, which includes application requirements, grease interceptor requirements and specifications and cleaning and maintenance requirements. Section D provides for the approval of alternatives, and Section E provides for enforcement in accordance with the Sewer Use Ordinance. Section F is a repealer which repeals all other ordinances in conflict, but only to the extent of such conflict. Section G is a savings clause, and Section H establishes the effective date in accordance with Section 3301.3(b) which provides for mayoral approval, Council over-ride in the case of a mayoral veto or such other date in accordance with the law.

A complete copy of the Proposed Ordinance may be obtained, or is available for inspection, at Borough Hall, 90 Bridge St., Catasauqua, PA 18032, during regular business hours from 8:00 a.m. to 3:50 p.m. In addition, and in accordance with Section 3301.2(b) (1) and (2), complete copies of the Proposed Ordinance have been provided to The Catasauqua Press, 1633 N. 26th St., Allentown, PA 18104, and the Lehigh County Department of Law, Government Center, Rm 440, 17 S. 7th St., Allentown, PA 18101.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Notice is hereby provided pursuant to Section 3301.2 of the Borough Code that Borough Council of the Borough of Catasauqua will accept public input and comment at its regularly scheduled public meeting on July 9, 2018, commencing at 7:00 P.M. at the Borough Hall located at 90 Bridge Street, Catasauqua, PA 18032, concerning the adoption of a proposed ordinance establishing a ticketing program for minor violations of certain Borough Ordinances. Following receipt of public input and comment as aforesaid, and at the same public meeting, Borough Council intends to consider passage of this Ordinance.

The Ordinance is titled "AN ORDINANCE OF THE BOROUGH OF CATASAUQUA, LEHIGH COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA, ESTABLISHING A PROGRAM FOR THE ISSUANCE OF TICKETS FOR VIOLATIONS OF CERTAIN BOROUGH ORDINANCES RATHER THAN THE ISSUANCE OF CITATIONS AS AN INITIAL FORM OF DUE PROCESS AND TO CREATE A PROPERTY MAINTENANCE APPEALS BOARD TO HEAR APPEALS HEREUNDER." The following constitutes a summary of the contents of the proposed Ordinance prepared pursuant to Section 3301.2(a)(1) of the Borough Code.

The Ordinance contains Legislative Findings which discuss the legal and factual background of the Ordinance and a repealer which repeals all other ordinances in conflict, but only to the extent of such conflict. The effective date is in accordance with Section 3301.3(b) which provides for mayoral approval, Council over-ride in the case of a mayoral veto or such other date in accordance with the law. Also included is a savings clause.

Section II contains the Ordinance text. The purpose and scope of the Ordinance is set forth in Section A. The purpose is to establish a ticketing program to address minor violations of certain ordinances which relate generally to the "quality of life" in the Borough. By issuing a ticket for a minor violation, the Borough and its residents avoid the time consuming and expensive citation process. Included in the process are a list of Ordinances identified in Section C. Excluded from the ticketing process is enforcement of the Zoning Ordinance.

Section B provides for a series of definitions used in the Ordinance and rules for interpretation. Definitions include, "Enforcement Officer," "Person," "Property Maintenance Appeal Board" and "Ticket."

The ticketing program is established at Section C and includes the power and authority of the Enforcement Officer to issue a ticket, circumstances addressing the propriety of a ticket rather than a citation, the form of a ticket and information to be included thereon, a list of the "quality of life" type Ordinances to be enforced through the ticketing program, the method of service of a ticket, the availability of other legal remedies and provisions for a mandatory first warning.

Section D establishes fines and penalties and the ability to pay the ticket or request a hearing, and Section E addresses hearings, appeals and certain procedures relating thereto. In order to hear appeals, the Ordinance creates the Property Maintenance Appeal Board. Further appeals may be taken pursuant to the Pennsylvania Local Agency Act.

A complete copy of the Proposed Ordinance may be obtained, or is available for inspection, at Borough Hall, 90 Bridge St., Catasauqua, PA 18032, during regular business hours from 8:00 a.m. to 3:50 p.m. In addition, and in accordance with Section 3301.2(b)(1) and (2), complete copies of the Proposed Ordinance have been provided to The Catasauqua Press, 1633 N. 26th St., Allentown, PA 18104, and the Lehigh County Department of Law, Government Center, Rm 440, 17 S. 7th St., Allentown, PA 18101.
