AN INSIDERS GUIDE FOR...

FOOD

MUSIC

LOVERS

KIDS

up front

BY GERALD SCHARF

What our nose tells us

This week, The Bethlehem Star begins its coverage of Musikfest with four highly opinionated guides to the festival.

Managing Editor Dave Ross reviewed the music; reporter Chris Judd lists the best food; reporter Janet Worsley explains how to make a romantic date out of Musikfest; and I expertly provide a recipe for successfully mixing kids and Musikfest that doesn't include gin.

After 10 years, there are probably a lot of city residents who could give great insider tours of Musikfest. So, we expect our stories to be hard judged.

Just remember, these are opinions, and the thing about opinions is that they're like noses. Everybody's got one.

Read through the stories you're interested in and pick and choose from the suggestions.

Decidedly Gumplike

In Winston Groom's book version of the Forrest Gump story, Mr. Gump's line from his mother, "Life is like a box of chocolates, you never know what you're going to get," is instead, "Bein' an idiot is no box of chocolates."

Gerald Scharf is editor of The Bethlehem Star

April Pilz

Misha

Well, I, for one, can vouch for the truth in that line.

Late last month, when entries to our Bethlehem's Coolest Dog Contest were pouring in, I got a rather touching entry from Suzanne Kowitz about her 3-year-old "lopsided Lhasa apso," Misha.

Misha, Ms. Kowitz wrote, was purchased from a pet store. Soon after she arrived, it became clear that Misha was not a typical Lhasa apso. As Ms. Kowitz put it "her nose is in one place and the rest of her face is somewhere else."

In addition, Misha was discovered to be pigeon-toed and bow-legged and had a depth-perception problem that prevented her from accurately jumping on to chairs (she misses the chairs and lands on her face.)

Ms. Kowitz reported that, at first, she was angry about her "defective dog," but that, over time, she discovered that Misha's charm far exceeded any fault she may have.

I was impressed by her letter and set it aside as a finalist for the contest. Then I sent our photographer out for a photo.

Then, like an idiot, I forgot all about the letter and photo until after the contest was over.

But it was a story worth sharing and a photo worth running, so here they are.

“The whole problem can be stated quite simply by asking, ‘Is there a meaning to music?’ My answer to that would be ‘Yes.’ And ‘Can you state in so many words what the meaning is?’ My answer to that would be ‘No.’”

Savage breasts soothed here

Several hundred members of a local church were at a New England camp retreat recently, where they gathered in a common hall after a day of swimming, hiking and beach games to express individually and as a community what they are thankful for.

The still, evening air was broken by brief comments of gratefulness for “the warm sun,” and “the trees and the animals,” and the group’s “good health.”

Among the blessings counted was one – the most poignant of all – delivered on the soft, high voice of a young boy.

He gave thanks for “grownups who act like kids.”

Smiles creased a hundred faces as the boy’s comment registered.

It was not, of course, directed at feckless adults.

His comment was directed at adults who went through a long day supervising children, attending to family obligations and responsibility and still kept a great capacity to have fun – to laugh, to sing, to celebrate life’s good things.

In the daily newspapers and coffee-shop chatter we read and hear the groans and grumbles of people readying themselves for the crush of visitors and horrendous shortages of parking spots.

And we think of that small boy’s observation.

Elsewhere on this page is a quote from American composer Aaron Copland, capsulizing Copland’s understanding of music’s great power to shatter the limits of language and communicate profound ideas and emotions.

What was beyond the ability of Copland is certainly beyond our ability as well; we can’t explain the force of music or what it does for our festival.

But we will take a stab at explaining the force of the festival itself.

As Bethlehem approaches its 11th Musikfest, we’d like to remind everyone this event is not about money or traffic or parking or inconvenience or interrupted routines.

Musikfest is about Bethlehem’s capacity to see what is good about life and about itself and to celebrate that.

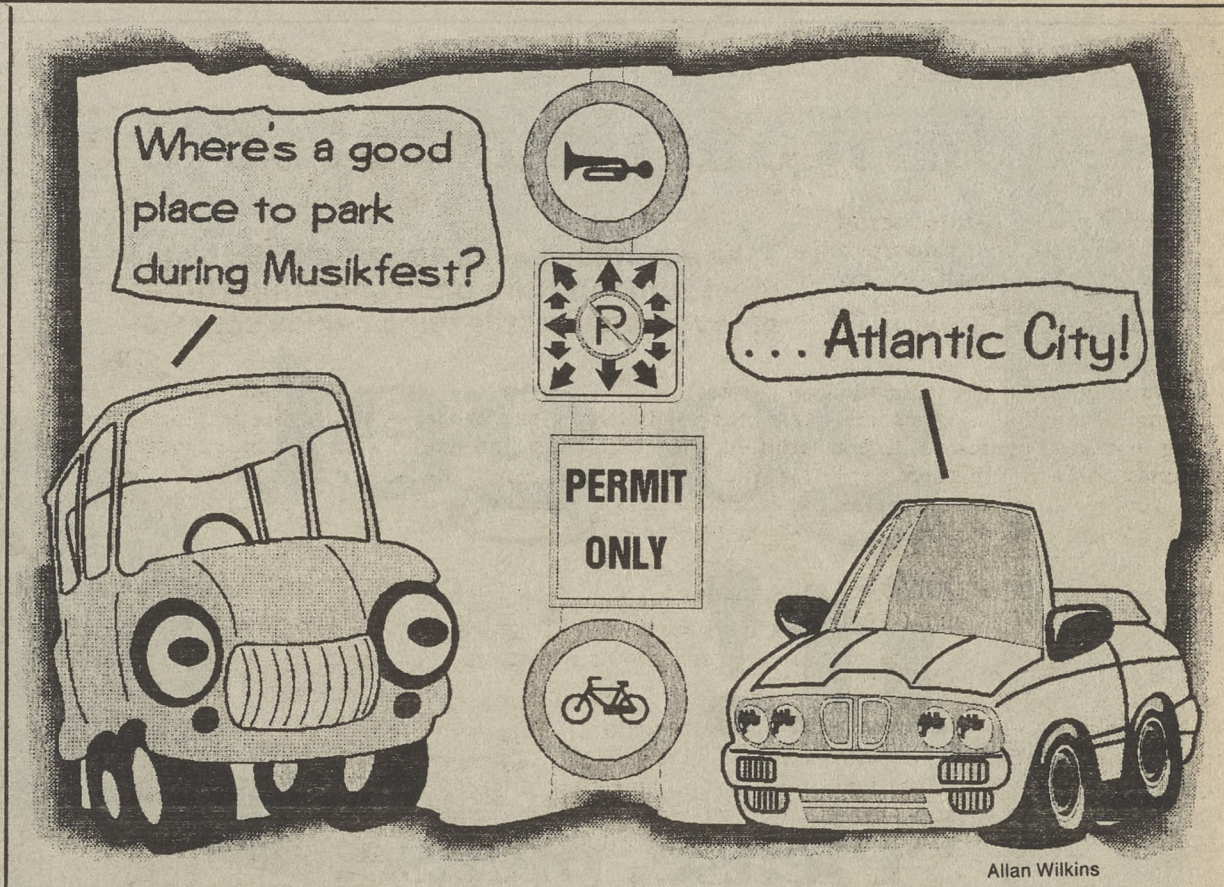

Musikfest is about opening ourselves to the soothing and uplifting qualities of music and song.

Musikfest is about sharing.

Musikfest is about taking time to put down our cares and responsibilities for a while, and demonstrating to our children and to each other that life and our community are worth celebrating.

So, blow out the spit-valve on the tuba and rev up the oompa band.

Tap the keg.
Give Dave Fry a guitar pick.
Suit up the Chicken Lady.
Let’s get to it.

Star cartoonist misses the boat

Dear Sir:

I am troubled by your issue of July 28, featuring a cartoon regarding the Bethlehem Union Station Project. The actual situation, as has been well documented in several recent editions of The Star, is quite different from that implied in your cartoon. First, the original application for the project would have spent all of the $320,000 grant (plus an $80,000 local match) on acquiring the site, and not for restoration. Any restoration to be undertaken would require additional funding beyond the original $400,000.

Second, Conrail, the owner of the railroad tracks that serve Union Station, has adamantly stated that no passenger service would be allowed to use the tracks, which are dedicated for freight service only.

Third, as documented in The Star, the current owner of the property is in default of the purchase agreement, which required that the building be renovated. Absent this renovation, ownership would legally revert back to the City of Bethlehem and the owner reimbursed the purchase price (which I believe was $4,000), plus the cost of any improvements made. As any visitor will quickly note, Union Station is essentially an empty shell with no windows and no visible improvements undertaken.

What all of this adds up to is the proposal to pay $400,000 for a property which the city sold for $4,000, with no funding for restoration and no possibility of passenger rail service. It is quite likely that even if it is renovated Union Station would become a commercial site that serves no transportation function. Should the city obtain the funds to complete the project, it might be of great benefit to South Side Bethlehem, but it would be unwise and fiscally irresponsible to spend $400,000 of taxpayer money to buy the Union Station property.

Sincerely,
Peter F. Kremer

Community must take action on its own

To the Editor:

I have been reading letters to the editor, news articles and columns concerning ethnic pride, diversity in the workplace and in the community, retention of cultural heritage, parades and group meetings.

As an active volunteer, I look around at the other volunteers who give their time and labor for the benefit of others and the general population of the Lehigh Valley.

If I am not out building homes with Habitat or going to Head Start classes, I can be found at one of the numerous meetings of the Children’s Coalition or at a Lehigh County Human Resources advisory meeting. These organizations are dedicated to improving the lives of those who receive their services, most of whom are members of so-called minorities or disadvantaged persons.

Where are these persons when there is work to be done! At Habitat construction sites, Fifth Street in Allentown, Sixth Street in Bethlehem, their absence is noticeable. At Children’s Coalition meetings a sea of white Caucasian faces are in attendance week in and week out. Hispanics, African-Americans and other so-called minorities are rarely in attendance even though they are the major recipients of the services provided by the agencies involved.

This week’s newspaper reported the inability of the mayor’s committee for Latino and Hispanic Affairs to come up with any recommendation due to poor attendance at meetings and resignation of members. Even when given a chance by city government, they fail to help themselves.

It is time those who complain put their actions first and complain less. If we really want to pull our community together and celebrate diversity it is time for action, not words, and an emphasis on sameness. Let’s talk about what we all have in common and shoulder the work equally.

Wisdom from unusual source

An exquisite, painted scroll of Chinese poetry adorns a gray stone wall in my office, a gift from an international student who attended the school where I work. Until recently, I had no idea what it meant, although I imagined it was something less than profound, like a fortune cookie. But this summer I was fortunate to meet a Taiwanese woman who was enchanted to find her native art displayed in an unfamiliar environment and who unveiled its definition to me.

The woman spoke English reasonably well, and she was more than happy to translate the painting at my request. I listened with interest as she searched for just the right words to describe the poetry, and I sensed the translation was not an easy task. As she studied the scroll, her intense facial expressions suggested the artwork beheld a strong and poignant message.

Take advantage of all opportunities; be glad to meet someone new or do something different; enjoy whatever little thing comes your way.

Respectively, it did.

Each detailed line and creative brush stroke blended together to simply say, "Cherish Chances."

I believe I grasped the concept. Take advantage of all opportunities; be glad to meet someone new or do something different; enjoy whatever little thing comes your way; take value in small, daily things, like reading, whispering, watching a bird fly, or savoring a piece of chocolate.

The woman was pleased with her translation, and I thanked her for sharing the wisdom of her homeland with me. I offered a sincere smile and a warm, American handshake, secretly grateful that she happened to stop by my office that day.

Since my chance meeting with the woman, the Oriental muse comes to mind now and again.

The other day, I watched my 7-year-old son as he played a friendly but competitive game of basketball in our driveway with four of his friends. As I cheered him on, I pondered my usual Mommy thoughts — you know, "Look how fast he's growing," "My, how time flies," and "I guess he doesn't need me to play with him anymore." Then, to my delight, my son begged me to join the game, insisting that I be on his team, and without any ulterior motives.

It was a proud moment. And one of those chances that I'll always cherish.

You needn't have kids to experience such special moments. Any chance will do.

The

water, water everywhere

BY ARLENE KOCH

Ocean, pond, drop of water

The mud stunk! It wasn't like the mud back home in the Lehigh Valley; this stuff reeked of the smell of sulfur from decaying salt water organisms.

I winced as I watched one of the younger girls, obviously trying to impress the good-looking, well-built and heavily tanned instructor, pick up a blood worm and then quickly dispose of it as he turned away.

I was on Hog Island, a 333-acre Audubon sanctuary off the coast of Maine, for a six-day study of coastal ecology. It was a subject I didn't know a lot about, but my interest in bodies of water had risen considerably since I put a pond in my yard this year.

Are there blood worms and periwinkles in my pond? Of course not, but all bodies of water have many things in common.

Years ago, while teaching a class of youngsters, I remember the amazement I felt when I first looked through a microscope at a slide containing a few drops of creek water that we had collected.

It was teeming with tiny, living creatures and made me wonder just how many of them went into my digestive system. Most people's drinking water is heavily treated to get rid of unwanted ingredients, but this creek water had enough organisms in it to make a limnologist's eyes glaze over.

As I stood in the cove at low tide, mud up to my knees and just about everywhere else, I thought about the similarities and differences between this water and my pond back home.

The differences were many. The scraping tools we had taken along were turning up worms of all different shapes and sizes, most of which bore little resemblance to what we call night-crawlers.

Arlene Koch is president of the Lehigh Valley Audubon Society.

A lot of them were flat, and one was over a foot long and whitish in color. Sam, the cute instructor, almost got hysterical when someone found this prize of the day and promised her a Cadbury bar at the closing program.

He bubbled over with enthusiasm as he explained how this particular worm could be broken up into pieces as small as a quarter of an inch and each one would still live — a fact which thrilled me to no end.

Farther out, where the cove met Muscongus Bay, we collected mussels and clams as the tide began to come in. And whenever I saw a snout, the breathing device these mollusks extend up through the mud in order to get air, I wondered why so many people thought of these things as delicacies.

Later on, when they were cooked and Sam pointed out the rubbery part that had been the snout, I knew for certain that one of them was never going to pass through my lips again.

My pond doesn't contain mussels or clams, but it is teeming with life. Water striders glide over the water's surface looking like miniature air boats. Creatures resembling tiny torpedoes rise to the surface and quickly drop back down into the depths over and over again. Snails have shown up, probably on the undersurface of the water lilies' leaves, but I've yet to find any sign of the bullfrog tadpole that I put in.

One day I lifted up one of the water hyacinth plants and was astounded at all the activity among its roots.

Curious to see what some of it was, I got a magnifying glass for a closer look.

What I found was a lot of little larvae squiggling around in the water. My guess is that most of them are from the damselflies and dragonflies that are constantly doing aerial acrobatics around the pond, but some of them, I'm sure, belong to that ever popular summer resident, the mosquito.

A few days after returning from Maine I stood looking down into my pond at what seemed to be a very tiny body of water compared to where I had just been. It didn't have schools of small fish, rock eels, hermit crabs, or lobsters in it, but it was, indeed, still very much alive.

Bird watch

Shorebirds are returning in large numbers right now. Great egrets, a Forster's tern, and a whimbrel have all been reported to be present locally.

Anyone seriously interested in birds should now study woodlands, backyards and parks to get good looks at the abundance of immature birds, whose appearance frequently varies greatly from that of the parents.

Coming events

On Friday evening, Aug. 12, from 7 to 8, the Wildlands Conservancy in Emmaus will lead a summer sunset stroll. Participants will stroll through the twilight of meadows and woodlands in search of sights, sounds, and smells. Children accompanying adults must be at least 5 years of age. Fees are $4 for members and $5 for nonmembers, with children half price. Call the conservancy at 965-4397 for more information.

Peace Valley Nature Center in Bucks County has two upcoming programs. On Tuesday, Aug. 16, from 8 to 10 p.m., Kerri Cornell will present an astronomy program for children ages 9 to 11. The fee is $2 and participants must register in advance. On Friday evening, Aug. 19, also from 8 to 10, there will be a full moon walk through the center's grounds. This walk is free. Contact the center, located north of Doylestown, at 215-345-7860 for further details.

As I stood in the cove at low tide, mud up to my knees and just about everywhere else, I thought about the similarities and differences between this water and my pond back home.

AROUND THE CITY

Recycling, mulch rules

City recycling coordinator Tom Marshall announced that residents who put nonrecyclable plastics at curbside for collection will find a full container and a ticket. The ticket will warn of a fine and list the reason why the container was not collected.

Residents are reminded that the only plastic items the city collects are milk jugs, soda jugs, water jugs and laundry product containers.

Mr. Marshall also announced that, beginning Sept. 1, the compost center at Eaton Avenue and Schoenersville Road will accept leaves, branches and garden plants from city residents only. Materials and proof of residency will be checked at the gate.

Ex-BHA official guilty

The former collections agent for the Bethlehem Housing Authority pleaded guilty to stealing $3,668 from the authority between June 192 and February 1993.

Jewel Blunt, 43, of North Seventh Street in Allentown, pocketed rent money from tenants instead of placing it into authority accounts. She was placed on a year probation by Northampton County Judge Richard D. Grifo. She faced similar charges in Lehigh County.

Among other offenses, the defendants were charged with delivery or intent to deliver cocaine and marijuana. The two Sullivan Street apartments where the first four defendants lived were raided by state and local police on Aug. 3.

Curb colors

The Bethlehem Historical and Architectural Review Board voted unanimously to dye a dozen handicapped curb cutouts the traditional soot color, instead of white, in the historic district.

James Hadden, an office engineer with the city, argued for a lighter shade to make the cutouts more noticeable at night. The city and the Bethlehem Housing Authority were sued by a woman who tripped over the curb last year. The review board's vote sends the matter to city council.

Pa. awards arts grants

Eleven Bethlehem schools and arts organizations were awarded grants from the Pennsylvania Council of the Arts.

Touchstone Theatre on Fourth Street received three grants, including $23,000 for general support, $10,000 for its 1994-95 theatre season and $1,821 for an Hispanic youth program.

Other schools and agencies receiving grants were: Lehigh University, $18,500; Bethlehem Musikfest Association, $17,000; Pennsylvania Youth Theatre, $10,161; Bach Choir of Bethlehem, $10,000; Lehigh Valley Dance Consortium, $9,000; Councils of Spanish Speaking Organizations of the Lehigh Valley, $3,187; Chamber Music Society of Bethlehem, $2,000; Liberty High School, $1,366; Holy Infancy School, $956; Rose Garden Children's Festival, $500.

Drug search not racial

District Justice Elizabeth Romig ordered James J. "Prince" Alford Jr., 33, to stand trial on drug charges, dismissing a defense argument that the motorist was stopped because he is black.

Bethlehem police said the man known as "The Prince of Crack" was stopped on Interstate 78 on July 14 because they received information he was entering the city to deliver cocaine. The defendant gave police permission to search his car and $19,420 worth of crack and powdered cocaine was found.

Tondabayashi tea

Students from Bethlehem's sister city of Tondabayashi, Japan, will be giving a demonstration of the traditional Tea Ceremony in the Garden of Serenity, Sunday, Aug. 14, at 4 p.m. as a gift to the citizens of Bethlehem.

Tetsuya Ikeda, 21; Yuko Okada, 20; Nami Shibano, 19; Ichie Takekawa, 20; and Sumino Tomaru, 19, arrived last week from Japan for a three-week stay. They brought gifts from their mayor to the citizens of Bethlehem, and will return home with gifts to celebrate the Thirty Years of Friendship between the cities. The gifts are on display in City Hall and in the Tondabayashi Room in the Bethlehem Public Library.

The students, visiting Washington D.C. last week, met Congressman Paul McHale as part of their cultural experience.

IN THE SCHOOLS

Farmersville go-ahead

Bethlehem Township commissioners granted approval last week for expansion plans at Farmersville Elementary School.

The construction includes two additions to the rear of the building, the expansion of a day-care center, and a small addition near the front entrance. Parking areas will also be relocated.

The plans were submitted a year ago, but scaled back when the bids came in over the original

$4.5 million estimate. No figure has been set for the revised plan.

Vo-tech's top teacher

William L. Henry, Cooperative Education Coordinator and Alternative Education Facilitator at Bethlehem Area Vocational-Technical School, has been named Educator of the Year by the Pennsylvania Vocational Association.

Mr. Henry has been on the staff at the school since 1965 and currently is involved with the ALPHA program, an alternative education program for at-risk high school students.

The award was presented recently at the annual Pennsylvania Vocational Education Conference held in Lancaster, Pa.

Clearview wins swimfest

By Tom Harper

Saucon Park pool was crammed with swimmers and spectators for the annual Citywide Swim Meet, won by Clearview pool. Above, competitors dive at the start of the 10-and-under freestyle; right, Alice Mora of West Side takes off at the start of the 15-and-under backstroke, in which she finished third; below, the start of the 10-and-under freestyle.

While all of you are busy preparing to indulge in the Musikfest spectacular this weekend, you missed out recently on what some would call Aquafest.

The city of Bethlehem's Recreation Department held its annual citywide swim meet Wednesday, Aug. 3, at Saucon Park. The meet showcased some of the area's best 15-and-under swimmers.

There were no pan flutes to listen to or gyros to munch on at this water festival. Only the delightful sounds of splashing and the friendly sights of youngsters propelling their limber bodies from one end of the pool to the other.

From the audience that came out for this event, you would have thought the turnout was for Woodstock '94 tickets, not a swim meet. The Saucon Park poolside was crammed with a couple hundred anticipatory parents who filled the bleachers and anxiously sat on their blankets or in fold-up beach chairs.

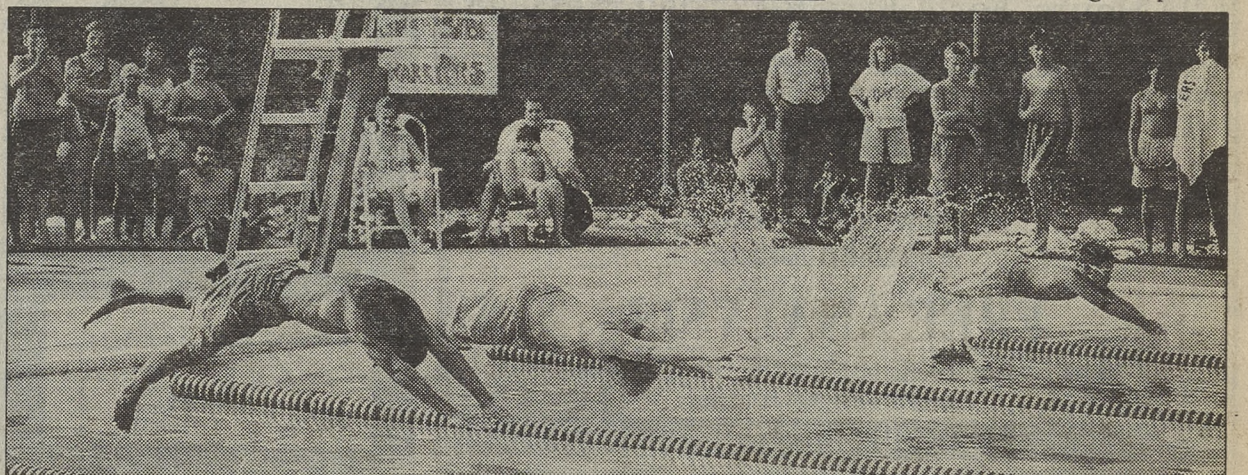

The seven teams that competed were from the city's local pools: Saucon, Clearview, West Side, Stark, Marvine, Yosko and Memorial.

Stark swimmers arrived as the two-time defending champions and let everyone know of their accomplishments by wearing white T-shirts that detailed the years of their victories. A few other pools wore T-shirts or self-promoting logos, such as the West Side swimmers, who sported a painted W on their cheeks.

Team pride and unity were the norm on this evening as each team screamed and hollered for a teammate when the swimmer's name was announced prior to a heat. Each squad formed a knot at a particular spot around the pool designating territory for their own cheering section.

Twenty-eight events were scheduled, broken into boys and girls divisions. The freestyle, backstroke and breaststroke were the styles for the three age groups: 15-and-under, 12-and-under and 10-and-under. And, of course, what youth swim meet would be complete without a kickboard category? Finally, the last two events featured relay squads for freestyle and kickboard.

Points were awarded on a 5-3-1 basis (five for first place, three for second and one for third) for the individual heats and 7-3-1 for the two relay events.

The Saucon pool was divided into six lanes exclusively for the meet. Pool officials, lifeguards from each of the seven pools, stood where the swimmers would finish and tracked their times while encouraging all the participants to push themselves to finish strong.

Medals were awarded to the top three finishers, and ribbons were given to the rest. The awards were contained in manila envelopes designating each team and were to be distributed among the athletes the following day. But that didn't stop the curious from peeking at the scorer's table.

The special feature of the event was saved for last. While the scores were still coming in from the final two heats, adults who volunteered prior to the meet competed in a friendly relay race. The giggles from the youngsters trickled through the night air, and even the adults who weren't brave enough to test their aquatic mettle found delight in watching their peers don swimsuits and swim laps.

When the final results were tabulated, Bethlehem had a new swimming champion. Clearview usurped Stark as the best team in the city by winning the overall points title with 89. Stark settled for second with 60, while Marvine took third with 42.

The Clearview team, after settling down, found the right way to celebrate. They sought out their three coaches - Wendy Williams, Jeff Gallagher and Krista Rimmoneau - and showed their appreciation by tossing them into the pool. Any Gatorade jug truly paled in comparison.

Kids warm up before the city meet begins.

Bethlehem Recreation Department officials Jane Persa and Kathy Ardoline led the onslaught of people who ran the event, doing everything from marking down the winners on the large posterboard scoreboard to instructing the swimmers as to which lane they were to swim in.

Meg Schwartz, the assistant swim coach at Lafayette, oversaw the success of the event as the city's aquatics coordinator, while her husband, Bob, who is Lafayette's diving coach, was the meet's starter.

"From an organizational standpoint, (the meet) was the best organized I've ever been associated with," said Ms. Ardoline, who has been a staff member of the city's recreation department for over 15 years. "The kids have a lot of support from their parents. We had a good turnout this year."

15 questions

Tom Kwiatek

BY CHRISTOPHER JUDD

Tom Kwiatek, 43, is executive vice president of the Bethlehem Musikfest Association. A Sycamore Street resident and father of two daughters, his fondest Musikfest memories include volunteers pulling together in a crisis and playing touch football with singer Lou Rawls.

So, where do you park during Musikfest?

In back. We have staff parking. But, normally, we car pool or I take a Musikfest car so I don't take up an extra parking space. My car really doesn't leave the garage for two weeks.

What's your best Musikfest recollection?

I guess it was my first year involved in it, in 1984. It was fresh and new. I was a volunteer with the Jaycees. The Jaycees were one of the first sponsors.

And the worst?

It's a toss-up. The seven straight days of rain in 1990. Or, last year, Monday, Aug. 14. I got a phone call. The Monocacy had overflowed its banks. They later found a 100 pound propane tank on the banks in Easton. It was a mess. I didn't think we'd open. But, we opened at 2 o'clock that afternoon. I guess you could say that was also one of the best memories.

Why do festival goers have to buy tickets for food instead of using cash?

We operate this event like a business. You need business information. Where people buy tickets; where they sell tickets; where they use the tickets. It's for security. There's no cash lying around. Without ticket sales we could not survive. We wouldn't know how much a vendor made or how much to charge them.

What does one do with leftover tickets?

Use them at Dominos Pizza. Or buy something that you can take home, like Uncle Ernie's cookies.

What's your favorite festival food and entertainer?

I have to say this as diplomatically as I can. I try to sample a little bit of everything at the festival. I probably eat Inn of the Falcon fajitas more than anything else. I tell people that if I were to program the music we'd have nothing but '60s because that's what I like. I guess my favorites have been America - I pushed for them - Johnny Rivers, Lou Rawls, The Fifth Dimension. People said Lou Rawls could be tough to work it for free." Well, you have to pay good salaries to attract good people. My counterpart with the Sun-fest in West Palm Beach makes $95,000 a year and doesn't do nearly the same amount of work. And, people don't understand what a commitment it is. You never put in an eight hour day. You don't get to spend the summer with your family.

Do you get the feeling that some groups or individuals are, for some reason, jealous of the success of Musikfest?

I think there's a little bit of that, yeah. They're tired of hearing about Musikfest. It bothers my wife more than me. I say, "People don't have to like everything."

When people complain about parking, litter, etc., do you ever get the urge to shout, "Look, it's crowded because it's a fun time and lots of people want to be here, stupid!"?

I had a sponsor once say to me, "There are with. He was extremely nice. I remember him playing touch football behind the stage.

What did you do before this?

Hospital administrator for HealthEast.

What have people said to you about Musikfest President Jeff Parks' recently reported $105,000 salary?

I haven't really heard too much. There are two ways to look at it. "It's a nonprofit, so you should do too many out-of-towners." And in the next breath he said his sister was from out of town and was going to come back next year. I said, "Did it ever occur to you that we don't advertise? It's people like you who bring people back."

Have you been glued to the TV set for the Whitewater hearings?

I'm tired of hearing about it. There are more important issues. Slap him on the wrist and let's move on.

Faces and places

Polls say most people agree with the facets of the Clinton health care reform plan, but not the plan itself. Do you agree, disagree or think it illustrates what a scam the use of polls has become?

I think polling has its purpose. But the repeated use of polls can shape people's positions on whether to vote for something. Having said that - yes, we need health care reform and I think the president's plan will be part of a compromise.

There's usually a group of young punks who hang out on Main Street during the festival. What can be done with them?

Main Street appeals to kids because it's the end of summer before school starts and they want a place to meet their friends. Most of them are not troublemakers. They're not bad kids, but, as kids do, they congregate. This year we're going to be encouraging movement.

Is there a way, logistically, to get the South Side involved in Musikfest?

I don't think there's a way to bring in the South Side based on our present structure. You have to remember, Musikfest is not the way festivals are usually run. The Kentucky Derby Festival holds events all over the city. The problem we would have is spreading our supply line too thin and our security, too. We've been talking about maybe having individuals do their own events that are sanctioned by Musikfest.

How about instead of singer Dan Hill as Wednesday's headline act you put on the world's largest karaoke contest?

Well, people don't understand what goes into booking the acts. People have been asking us to bring in The Grease Band. The problem is, people dance to that music. Where are you going to dance at Kunstplatz? The groups we bring in are based on certain requirements.

NEW THIS WEEK

IN THE ARMY NOW (PG) — Perpetually annoying Valley guy Pauly Shore takes off his Hawaiian shirts and Ray Bans to join the Army in a "Stripes" meets MTV scatological demonstration. AMC Tilghman 8, South Whitehall; General Cinema, Lehigh Valley Mall; United Artists, Easton

ANDRE (PG) — Set in Rockport, Maine, in 1962, "Andre" is a family film that tells the story of a seal whose life became a legend when he and the Goodridge family adopt one another. All is fine, until vengeful fisherman take out their wrath on Andre because they blame the seals for chewing through their nets. Starring Keith Carradine. General Cinema, Lehigh Valley Mall

THE SLINGSHOT (R) — A coming-of-age tale about an outcast 10-year-old who uses ingenuity and off-beat entrepreneurial skills to cope with life in the rigid, pre-Socialist conditions of 1920s Sweden. 19th Street Theater, Allentown

CONTINUING

THE LITTLE RASCALS (PG) — The black-and-white series starring Spanky, Alfalfa, Buckwheat, Darla and the rest of the "Our Gang" kids gets color film and a modern retelling in this movie starring Penelope Spheeris ("Wayne's World II"). AMC Four, Palmer; AMC Tilghman 8, South Whitehall; General Cinema, Lehigh Valley Mall

WHITE (R) — The second film in a trilogy by Polish director Krzysztof Kieslowski that make up the colors of the French flag. The colors also reflect, according to Kieslowski, the symbolism of that flag — blue for liberty, white for equality, red for fraternity. This installment features Zbigniew Zamachowski as a hairdresser trying to get back together with his wife (Julie Delpy). County Theater, Doylestown AIRHEADS (PG-13) — If you've got a truly hot band with a totally awesome song, but you can't get airtime on the radio, what do you do? Take over the station and force the DJ to play your song, right? That's the idea of the three hapless hard-core rockers in "Airheads" who enter the station with the best of intentions, but end up as the inadvertent masterminds of a hostage crisis. Stars Adam Sandler (from "Saturday Night Live"), Brendan Fraser ("School Ties," "Encino Man") and Steve Buscemi ("Reservoir Dogs," "Rising Sun"). AMC Four, Palmer; United Artists, Allentown

ANGELS IN THE OUTFIELD (PG) — Christopher Lloyd ("Back to the Future") is the answer to a young baseball fan's prayers when the winged apparition miraculously converts his favorite team, the Angels of course, into a winning club — and possibly bring his family back together. Danny Glover plays the crusty-but-soft-hearted manager. AMC Tilghman 8, South Whitehall; United Artists, Allentown

BLOWN AWAY (R) — An explosive thriller about IRA terrorist-turned-Boston bomb squad cop caught in a web of intrigue, mixed loyalties and mayhem. Jeff Bridges is the cop. The ubiquitous Tommy Lee Jones is his Belfast crony and mentor who returns to haunt him. United Artists, Allentown

CITY SLICKERS 2: THE LEGEND OF CURLY'S GOLD (PG-13) ★★★★★ — We rejoin Billy Crystal, now leading a happy and successful life with his wife, children and house-cow, Norman. Unfortunately, visions of his deceased friend Curly, Jack Palance, begin to haunt him. Unexpectedly Crystal finds Curly's secret treasure map, and before you can say "yaa-hoo," it's back to the wild west for Billy, Daniel Stern, and Jon Lovitz. Jack Palance returns as Curly's twin brother and eventually joins the bumbling threesome in their farcical western escapades. R.H. General Cinema, Lehigh Valley Mall

CLEAR AND PRESENT DANGER (R) — Harrison Ford stars in this political thriller about a shadow government that can order military strikes where and whenever it wants. AMC Tilghman 8, South Whitehall; General Cinema, Lehigh Valley Mall; United Artists, Easton

THE CLIENT (PG-13) ★★ — Susan Sarandon sparkles as a defense attorney and Tommy Lee

Jones is wonderfully menacing as the ambitious, narcissistic U.S. district attorney in this strangely flat tug-of-war over a young boy who witnessed a murder he shouldn't have. Perhaps it's the muddled plot, based on a John Grisham novel. Perhaps, Grisham's formula for suspense, which we've seen in way too many movies lately, is just getting old. Whatever it is, this movie's like a tumble in the drier: fast-paced, confusing and not all that much fun. D.R.

AMC Four, Palmer; AMC Tilghman 8, South Whitehall; General Cinema, Lehigh Valley Mall

FORREST GUMP (PG) ★★★★★ — This magical movie is destined to be a great American classic. Its only fault is that it is about 20 minutes too long. But the story is so compelling, so delicious, it's perfectly understandable why its creators were reluctant to end it. An absolute must see. G.S.

General Cinema, Lehigh Valley Mall; United Artists, Easton

IT COULD HAPPEN TO YOU (PG) — This could be renamed — and at one time was named — "Cop Gives Waitress $2 Million Tip," or something like that. Nicholas Cage ("Wild At Heart," "Honeymoon in Las Vegas") is the cop who doesn't have enough money for a tip, promises a waitress, played by Bridget Fonda, he'll split his lottery winnings should his number hit. It does — for $4 million. You do the addition.

AMC Tilghman 8, South Whitehall; United Artists, Allentown; United Artists, Easton

LASSIE (PG) — Admit it — the theme to the TV show "Lassie" made you snifle. It's OK, me too. Everybody's favorite collie is unleashed on the big screen and placed in a familiar story: the adorable stray is taken into the homes and hearts of a family who find themselves embroiled in some kind of trouble and require the help of their new-found canine friend. Sure it's old-fashioned, maybe a little cliched, but even in these cynical times, it's still OK to cry. United Artists, Allentown SPEED (R) ★★★ — "Speed" follows Jack Traven (Keanu Reeves), an LAPD SWAT team bomb guy, as he races against time and a mad bomber (Dennis Hopper), who rigs a city bus with a bomb which will go off if the bus travels under 50 mph. A series of amazing stunts, fabulous camerawork, and a lot of innovative action scenes make this film worth seeing. R.H.

AMC Four, Palmer; AMC Plaza Theatre, Whitehall Mall; AMC Tilghman 8, South Whitehall

TRUE LIES (R) ★★★★★ — Arnold Schwarzenegger ("Last Action Hero") and James Cameron ("Terminator") don't ask you to suspend belief to enjoy their latest explosion fest, they sort of put a gun to your head and demand it. So, of course you will, and once you get over the tack-on plot of a man hiding his spying ways from his wife, you become a willing victim of two-and-a-half hours of some of the best action ever captured on film. Jamie Lee Curtis is superb as is Tom Arnold. No doubt, the best film of the summer. (They made me say that!) D.R.

BABY'S DAY OUT (PG) — Written by John Hughes ("Ferris Beuller's Day Off," "Home Alone"), "Baby's Day" follows the misadventures of a troublesome toddler run amock named Baby Binka. There are also, of course, the hapless adults trying to capture the elusive infant. Starring Joe Mantegna ("Searching for Bobby Fischer," "Bugsy"), Lara Flynn Boyle ("The Temp," "Wayne's World") and Brian Haley, known for his stand-up comedy routines on "The Tonight Show" and "MTV's Half Hour Comedy Hour."
AMC Plaza Theatre, Whitehall Mall

THE FLINTSTONES (PG) ★★★ — The Flintstones movie does a nice job of capturing the spirit, tone and humor of the original cartoon, but its plot falls flat. However, "The Flintstones" is a lot of fun, and kids will definitely enjoy every wacky, highly marketable moment. R.H.
AMC Plaza Theatre, Whitehall Mall; The Roxy, Northampton

THE LION KING (G) ★★★ — Disney presents its 32nd full-length animated film, about a lion cub who learns how to take his place in the circle of the world's events. The richly animated tale follows Simba from his carefree days as a cub, to the tragic death of his father, the king, to his battle to win back his rightful place in the world. D.R.

AUGUST 11

"The new beds for the tramps' room have been received," said Chief of Police Fenstermacher, of South Bethlehem, this morning. The "beds" are boards twenty-two inches wide and six feet long. Any tramps more than six feet long will hang their feet over the foot boards.

AUGUST 13

The Nazareth and Bethlehem mail carrier, who pushes the mail cart between the Union Street depot and the post office, should exercise more care. The parents of 4 year old Annie Betge report that the carrier ran down the child on Main Street on Saturday morning, injuring her about the head.

AUGUST 14

There is a deadlock in the West

Bethlehem School Board in the matter of heating and ventilating the Fairview School House, and unless it is broken and the improvements which many citizens demand are made, the school children will continue to study alongside stoves in dingy rooms.

AUGUST 15

Councilman Reuben H. Fehr, of the third ward Bethlehem, departed this life shortly before 10 o'clock, at his late home, No. 121 North Main Street, aged 50 years. Mr. Fehr had not enjoyed good health for a number of years.

AUGUST 16

Eddie Connell, a boy employed at the rail department of the Bethlehem Iron Company's steel mill, struck his head against an overhead pulley while at work last night and sustained a severe scalp wound. The lad resides on Fifth Street, South Bethlehem, with his grandparents.

AUGUST 17

A farmer selling goods on Wyandotte Street this morning went into a house leaving his team, drawn by two horses, in charge of a little chap, apparently not more than 6 years old. The horses took fright and ran up Philadelphia Road. The little lad didn't yell or jump off, but grabbed the reins like a veteran and is considered a brave one.

AUGUST 11

To achieve sound progress in education, it is essential that the fundamentals of reading, mathematics and English be stressed in the first six grades in the firm belief of John W. Hedge, superintendent of schools. "Call these subjects the old three R's, if you will," he said in answer to a comment as he sat in his office in the Broughal building.

AUGUST 12

Listed seventh in priority, but nevertheless designated as urgent by city council among the post-war projects planned for city government, is the plan for city-wide creation of parks and playgrounds and improvement of existing ones, the whole project to cost nearly $500,000.

AUGUST 14

Bethlehem is sadly lacking in swimming pools and if there is no other means of getting them, the matter ought to be put to the voters at the next local election, Frank Broad, superintendent of recreation, said in his monthly report to the recreational board meeting in the American Hotel at noon today.

AUGUST 15

Bethlehem collected 24 cents per capita in revenue from business and mercantile licenses and fees in 1942, according to the August bulletin of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Department of Internal Affairs. Allentown with 57 cents and Easton with 78 cents were high on the list.

AUGUST 16

Mrs. Julia Mosko, 907 Evans Street, received information from the War Department telling her that her son, Pfc. John Mosko, is a prisoner of war in Germany. He had previously been interned in a prison camp in Italy, but when our invasion forces liberated the area in which he was held, he was taken to Germany.

AUGUST 17

Unless there is a break in the heat wave Bethlehem faces an ice shortage. This was revealed this morning as officials of the two concerns making artificial ice said that their total production is barely meeting the demands.

Musikfest '94 guide for ...

... kids

BY GERALD SCHARF

Taking young children to Musikfest is a lot like taking young children on a camping trip — a little good advice may make the difference between an adventure of discovery and fun and an exhausting, painful trip to hellplatz.

Festival organizers and volunteers have given a lot of attention to giving families opportunities for fun.

There are so many different things to do and see, families could go to the festival all nine days and find different things to do each day.

Follow these tips and you'll be guaranteed a good time.

First off, a serious reality check and a bit of child-rearing philosophy:

Call it the Miniature Golf Standard — In order to have fun with kids, you have to have fun through kids.

Now pay attention because this is important.

For example.

The Jones family goes miniature golfing. Everyone gets a club and ball. Before the second hole is completed, the Jones kids are arguing and hitting their balls out of turn. Mrs. Jones is embarrassed because her kids are out of control and annoying everyone on the course; Mr. Jones is engrossed in his own putting stroke and oblivious to the melee.

Now, the Smith family goes miniature golfing. But only the kids get balls and clubs. Mom and Dad know that their fun will come from teaching the kids how to play and compete. Ironically, Mr. and Mrs. Smith will have more fun not playing than Mr. and Mrs. Jones will have playing.

Unfortunately, because of the volume (more than 650 performers) and variety (from Bach to Bad Company) of music at Musikfest, a random sampling from this musical feast may leave you, well, a little queasy and dizzy. It's much like the symptoms that would follow a meal of Polish kielbasa, Mexican fajita, French fries, washed down with German beer and completed with a Cuban cigar.

For those hearty musical souls who think they could not only handle such a meal, but relish it, read no further. For the rest of us, a far-from-complete but discerning guide to Musikfest's music:

Rock, pop and blues

Musikfest definitely kicks off this year with a boom-chicka-boom for the rock and blues lover. At noon Saturday, be at Familienplatz with Fat Robbie and the Rocket 88's, covering Chuck Berry, the Beach Boys and Elvis. Hang around for a few sets from local blues harp hero Mad Dog and Blues Night Out, then head to Americaplatz at 2 p.m. for the decidedly out-there Willie Alexander and the Persistence of Memory Orchestra, with their pounding rock and nasty jazz licks. Local dance favorite Joyous will keep the blood pumping for the quick trot back to Liederplatz and the a cappella doo-wop of Backbeat. You'll have an hour or so to grab a bite and a beer before finishing the night at Americaplatz, where Brock and The Rockets and Captain Hawker and the All-Stars close the day with a '50s and '60s rock-a-rama. If that's too much for you, The Letterman will rekindle some mellower but no-less-loved tunes at Kunstplatz.

More traditional blues lovers will wait for Sunday when blues/jazz experts Jimmie Lawrence and Company, Mike Dugan and Blues Mission and the Dukes of Destiny

... food

BY CHRISTOPHER JUDD

A confluence of folk, bluegrass, soft rock and jazz, the world beat that is Musikfest plunges one into an ocean of soothing melodies and stirring harmonies.

But forget that, point me to the food! The music will encourage the digestion.

Keep it light at the beginning. E-ZEE Concessions at Familienplatz offers popcorn, pretzels and cotton candy. E-ZEE has also set up shop in Festplatz and Spielplatz. If you are closer to Kinderplatz, Auntie Anne's has cinnamon pretzels. Tiger Hall Treats in Kunstplatz has flavored popcorn and peanuts.

While you're chowing down, give a hand for the Water Gap Banjo Band.

Now for the second course. Dutch Treats in Handwerkplatz will be chilling the birch beer and sarsaparilla. On Main Street, Kiss Food Services is offering up fruit smoothies. Also on Main Street is

Snow-
cones Unlimited.

Beer, wine and coolers are sold at Americaplatz, Festplatz, Liederplatz, Musikfest Bandstand, and Volksplatz. Patrons are asked to drink alcoholic beverages on site and not carry them from platz to platz.

See what's going down with Chump the Clown.

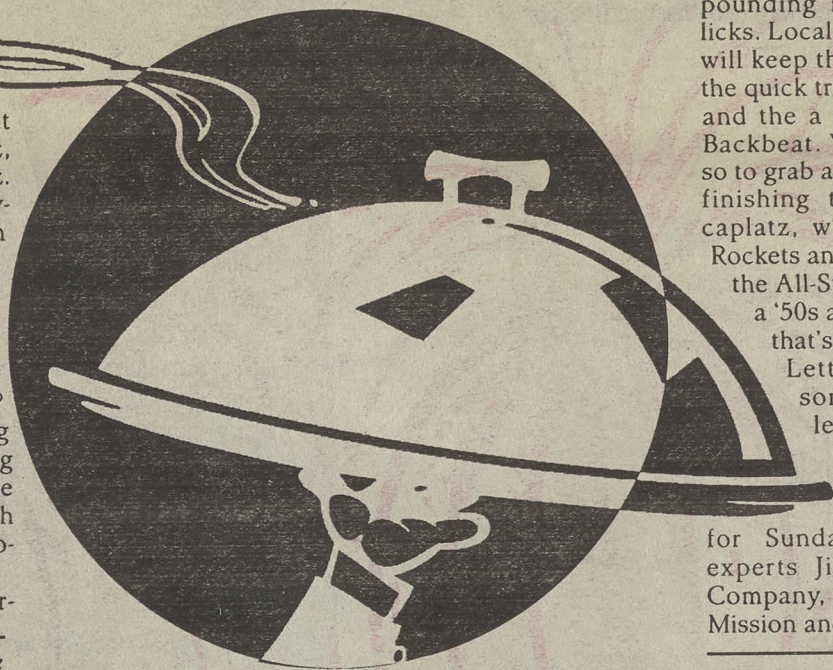

Before Dan Hill hits the stage, determine your Main Course Attitude.

Play It Safe or Dare to Be Different?

There's nothing wrong with staying with what you like. There is something simply enticing, for example, about the aroma of sizzling Hogar Crea shish kabobs at Familienplatz that keeps people coming back.

... lovers

BY JANET WORSLEY

Can a romance be found at a place called platz?

From the sound of the word, highly unlikely. But among — and perhaps in spite of — the crowds, the summer heat, the abundance of lederhosen and the scent of wurst, there's love in the air at Musikfest.

For starters, you should be able to find a single red rose at the White Swan, Main Street's florist, but only at Blumenplatz can you find a carpet of flowers laid out before your feet. And they'll never miss a few stolen buds, all in the name of love.

After flowers, traditionally, come candy and presents. In celebration of the Christmas City, there's something that fills the bill perfectly, a 350-pound chocolate sculpture of Santa's sleigh, filled with chocolate gifts. The creation by Premise Maid Candies is about 4 1/2 feet high, 4 feet wide, and 8 feet long. There is no nibbling allowed, but the whole lobby smells wonderful.

Main Street, with its gaslit evenings and historic air, is a great spot for couples wandering and window-shopping. Browse the windows of the gift shops and the bookstore, filled with eye-catching goodies, then take a minute to wistfully stare at the glittering jewelry in the window of Musselman's. For softer, furrier fare, stop to see the kittens in the windows at Claws, Paws and Jaws on the Broad Street Plaza.

Though wandering through Bethlehem's historic district has its charms, the more adventurous may want to stray away from the festival. God's Acre and Nisky Hill Cemetery, both one block from Americaplatz, are quiet, shade-filled refuges for those looking for a little peaceful time alone. Sand Island on the Lehigh River offers opportunities for some solitude, wandering paths and wildflowers.

There are also some great picnic spots along the Monocacy. Find one where you can hear the music minus the crowd and invite your date for a personal dance, cheek-to-cheek.

Though the Festplatz polka tent may not have the atmosphere lovers are looking for, Liederplatz, tucked into the Sun keep the beat alive in Americaplatz, while Blues Power at Familienplatz and Johnny Charles at Liederplatz lay it down. On most nights, just stay planted at Americaplatz for the best chance to hear rock and blues.

Classical

Early morning and night belong to classical music. At 10 a.m. opening day, the Moravian Trombone Choir plays from the belfry of Central Moravian Church and the Musikfest Chorus packs Asa Packer Church on Lehigh's campus at 8 p.m. The Bach Choir finishes up the Asa Packer concert series on Sunday and Monday, just as the Vesper Concert at the Central Moravian Church and Chamber Concert series begins at the Old Chapel at 5 and 7:30 p.m. respectively.

Also, don't miss a wonderful day of classical music Tuesday starting at 4 p.m. at Volksplatz with Cambiata, performing music of the 13th to 18th centuries, the Vesper Concert at 5 p.m. with harpsichordist and organist Kim Heindel, and a 7:30 p.m. Chamber Music performance by A Deux, a flute and harp duo. Also Musikfest's Artist-In-Residence The String Trio of New York, will perform and conduct workshops at various sites starting Tuesday.

American folk

There's no way to do this category justice, but here goes: Saturday night, living folk legend John Gorka will do a Candlelight Concert at 6 p.m. at Foy Concert Hall. As a prelude, head to Volksplatz at around 3:30 p.m. to hear the American Indian stories and songs of Kevin Locke, a Lakota Indian, followed by the classically tinged "New French Folk" of Ad Vielle Que Pourra ("what will be will be"). Finish up the night at Liederplatz at 9:30 with The Low Road, an acoustic guitar and harmonica duo who coined the phrase "eclectic psychofolk."

From about 1-9 p.m. Sunday, simply camp out at the three gazebos of Main Street Musikfest and hear bluegrass from Blue Highways, heartfelt folk from the heartland from Anne Hills, the French-Canadian inspired ballads of Lilianne Labbe and Don Hinkley, and the Colonial American tunes of The Virginia Company. Finish the night with George Benson at Kunstplatz and go to sleep happy.

Some of the more unusual folk acts that shouldn't be missed are the Kazka Ukrainian Folk Ensemble Sunday at Volksplatz, North Indian Classical music from John Protopapas and Jan Eyer on Tuesday at Main Street Musikfest, and Celtic music from Kips Bay Ceili Band doing a Candlelight Concert Wednesday. Just as blues and rock is king at Americaplatz, folk and ethnic music rules Volksplatz

Spicy

There's nothing like salsa, reggae or Cajun music to heat up the August air, and the dozen or so bands specializing in that saucy blend should have the crowds at near boil this year. Just about every night there'll be two or three bands at Volksplatz stirring the pot, from local Cajuns Gumbo Combo and zydeco nuts The VooDudes on Sunday, to the World Beat Ensemble and Hector Rosado and the Tri-City Band on Wednesday.

One of the best lineups is Saturday with the Latin pulse of Dan Dixon and the Hot Clave Bop at 5 p.m. at Familienplatz, followed by the world beat and reggae strains of the Wood Peace and Harmony Tour at 8 p.m. at the Bandstand, completed by African and Caribbean beat of Mama Jama at 9 p.m. back at Volksplatz. Whew!

If you've recovered by Tuesday, check out the Rippingtons with Russ Freeman at Kunstplatz.

Bluegrass and country

Far too many to even choose, but here are some not to miss: Country Current, the Daisy Jug Band and Southern Rail at various places on Sunday; Restless Heart at Kunstplatz and Red Apple Juice at Familienplatz on Monday; New Tradition and Country Current from the U.S. Navy Band at Volksplatz on Tuesday; and at Familienplatz the same day, the Sin City Band and John Stokes Second Generation.

Dance

If dancing is your style, then there's little reason to leave the big tent at Festplatz, which will be oom-pah-pahing night and day with dozens of bands and orchestras playing polka and German and Austrian music. Among the bands will be the Johnny Dee Orchestra, Jolly Joe Timmer Orchestra, and direct from Bavaria, the Pleiskirchner Musikanten.

And of course the Musikfest

Italiaplatz: Giovanni's (Familienplatz); Martellucci Pizza (Kinderplatz); Castle Hill Ballroom (Liederplatz); Angelo's Pizza (Kunstplatz); Iacocca's (Volksplatz).

Sausageplatz: Karl Ehmer Quality Meats (Festplatz); Ostrowski's Polish Sausage (Volksplatz).

Seafoodplatz: Bon Appetit (Americaplatz)

Mexiplatz: Take-A-Taco (Main Street); Lucey's Lantern Restaurant (Volksplatz).

Chinaplatz: Imperial Chinese Restaurant (Volksplatz).

Take in BC & The Blues Crew and then try something new.

When was the last time you had curried goat and conch fritters? The Caribbean Mermaid at Volksplatz will be serving the stewed goat meat with potato curry sauce over fluffy rice.

"At least I think so," said owner Virginia McLean. "It's contingent on Delaware having enough goats."

Regardless of whether the goat supplier comes through, the conch will be plenty. Mrs. McLean and husband/cook Lascelles bring the mollusk north from Florida. It's deep fried and served as fritters with green peppers. The slow-smoked jerk chicken will also be a new taste.

Shepherd's pie is simple, but

... kids

This is not a movie; you can't just sit the kids in front of Musikfest and let them passively enjoy it.

The fun of Musikfest is that it's engagingly different.

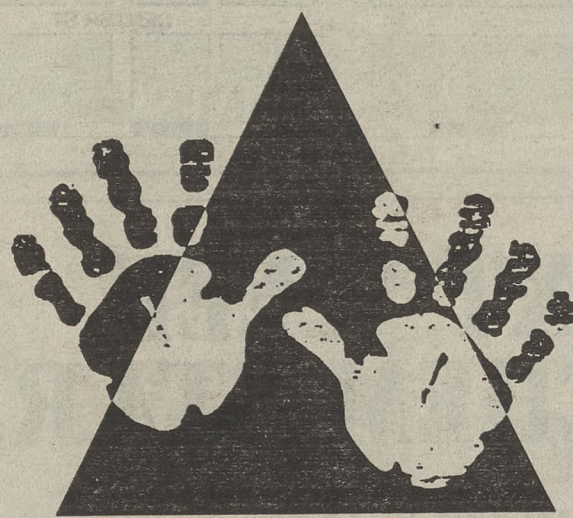

Now that you've got the right attitude, let's get to the rules:

1. Don't hurry. Just walking around Musikfest is a sensory feast for children — all the people, the sounds, the smells, the color.

Walk slow and when the kids take notice of something special, let them experience it without rushing.

2. Be prepared. It's not hard; keep a bottle of water and a bag of dry cereal in a small shoulder bag.

Use your supplies to keep those first, meek utterances of "I'm thirsty," from turning into grating whines.

3. Keep things on a kid's scale. Remember, kids are sprinters, not marathoners. They burn up fast, so don't expect to put in a long day with young children. If you have kids under 8 years old, it's better to make a few quick hits of be well worth the effort. Kids love sitting right up front.

If it's allowed, let your children walk up and sit in front of the stage; most of the shows at Kinderplatz permit this.

5. Have fun. Nothing puts a

Musikfest, a few hours each day, rather than one long epic visit.

Likewise, go for small, quick meals rather than a big dinner or lunch. Adults like to linger over meals; kids like to eat and get on with it.

4. Don't be late. If you're going to a popular act, getting there early will dampen on childrens' entertainment like a grim-faced parent.

C'mon! This is a festival, for pete's sake. Be festive!

The hot spots

Here are the not-to-be-missed events and venues.

1. Free candy. For kids at Musikfest it's de rigueur to stop at the Just Born booth for your free boxes of Hot Tamales and Mike and Ikes. The booth is usually at the top of the Broad Street pedestrian mall.

2. David Jack. For kids, he's Elvis and Sinatra rolled into one. Parents love him, too. Bethlehem's own Dave Fry is also a genius at entertaining both kids and adults, so don't miss him, either.

3. The Backyard Circus. Probably the best-loved event at Kinderplatz. Kids not only get to watch a circus, they get a chance to be the circus. From lions to lion tamers to strong men and acrobats, kids get to slip into costumes and play the roles.

4. Sidewalk Chalk drawing. Near the bottom of the Broad Street Mall, is a fenced-in area for your kids to create art for an admiring public.

5. The Chicken Lady. You know who she is and what she does. Kids love her. Don't worry about finding her. She's everywhere.

6. Technoplatz. In the past, this has been aimed almost exclusively at adults. This year, Binney & Smith, the Crayola crayon people, will present a display of interactive computer software for children ages 3 through 12.

The software helps kids learn and develop their creativity through fun games and drawing programs. Technoplatz is in the Hotel Bethlehem, on Main Street, different. It's a meat pie baked with a mashed potato crust, and you can find it Donegal Square on Main Street and Bray's Ethnic Foods on Volksplatz. You can also try barley water at Bray's.

Gorton's Buffalo Ranch on Main Street offers burgers, steak sandwiches and beef jerky, all made with buffalo meat.

If you never made it to Far Pavilions restaurant on the Broad Street Mall, its delicacies from India await.

Before you go rockin' to some tunes with Brock & The Rockets, try out these vendors, new to this year's Musikfest:

Minsi Trail Inn on Familienplatz (prime rib sandwich, seafood rainbow).

Viennese Pastries (pork, chicken and veal platters with potato pancakes); Schafer Bologna Company; and Haagen-Dazs ice cream on Festplatz.

Buckeye Tavern (beef fajitas, Cajun chicken); Nuts-N-Such, on Handwerkplatz.

Auntie Anne's pretzels on Kinderplatz.

The Chicken Lounge on Liederplatz.

Silver Star Saloon (Pork Barbecue, sweet potato French fries) on Main Street.

The Family Garden Restaurant (upside down cakes and turnovers) in the Japanese Serenity Garden.

Caribbean Mermaid; Outback Jack's Australian steakhouse on Volksplatz.

After dancing to the Bala Hounds, some sweets. Every platz has ice cream, funnel cakes and cookies. Viennese Pastries and Tea Room & Bake Shoppe on Volksplatz are among the specialists in desserts.

Things you can take home (with a decent shelf life):

Helmut's Strudel and roasted almonds at Festplatz; Nuts-N-Such (nuts, candy, dried fruit) at Handwerkplatz; Uncle Ernie's Gourmet Cookies at Kinderplatz; Tiger Hall Treats (caramel corn, popcorn, flavor popcorn, peanuts) at Kunstplatz; Hocken-smith Concessions (bag of gourmet coffee) in the Serenity Garden.

Inn courtyard, has a more intimate feel. There, the String Trio of New York, Musikfest's Artist-in-Residence, will offer acoustic performances on guitar, bass and violin throughout the week.

Also, singer/songwriter Deb Gaber's sultry voice will set the mood on Sunday, Aug. 21 at 7 p.m.

Leiderplatz is also where couples can watch couples perform. Guitarist Joseph Brenna and singer Kristen Kunhardt will perform as Between the Lines on Thursday at 2 p.m. That evening, husband and wife team Kim and Reggie Harris, with their blend of rock 'n' roll and spirituals, will perform at 7:45 p.m., and Watson and Company, a classical duo with a New Age sound, are set for 10:30 p.m.

The 6 p.m. Candlelight Concerts at Moravian's Foy Hall are also a great place for a date: a dimly lit theater, air conditioning (to keep things from getting too hot and heavy), and a great variety of music to make love to. Liz Story, a pianist who is performing with bassist Joel DiBartolo, will be appearing on Sunday, Aug. 14.

A Cole Porter Review is on for Monday, with appropriate hits like "So In Love" and "I've Got You Under My Skin." In addition, English Renaissance music, by soprano Julianne Baird and lutenist Ronn McFarlane, will be performed on Friday. Admission to the Candlelight Concerts is $7.50 per person; tickets are available in the Musikfest Office, or at the Foy Hall box office one hour before the concert.

As Oscar Wilde said, uncertainty is the essence of romance. So when walking the streets, keep an eye out for the unforeseen. Street performers, ranging from flute ensembles to barbershop quartets are likely to pop up where you least expect them, treating you to a special, impromptu performance with a personal touch.

When the feet get tired, settle down on a street corner or a park bench for some people-watching. A personal choice of locations: the blocked-off 378 ramp to Main Street in the evenings. It's uncrowded, and there, eye-level with the tops of the weeping willows, you'll have a great view of the crowd at Festplatz below.

Behind the Central Moravian Church, down the narrow Heckelwelder Place, chamber music will be heard in the quiet setting of the Old Chapel. A Deux, a flute and harp duo that plays classical music, will perform on Tuesday; Margaret van Dijk, a harpsichordist is scheduled for Tuesday; and Martha Marchena, a pianist and native of Cuba, will perform there Friday. All of the Chamber Music concerts are free of charge, and begin at 7:30.

At the end of the evening, there's a piece of decadent chocolate raspberry torte and two spoons waiting at the Viennese Pastries Cafe on Main Street. Split a mug of hazelnut coffee, or maybe a steaming cappuccino with a swirl of cinnamon-sprinkled whipped cream.

It should give you just enough energy for that walk, hand-in-hand, all the way back to where the car is parked.

AT LAST - RELIEF FROM THE MISERY OF

FAST AND EFFECTIVE TREATMENT FOR PSORIASIS, SEBORRHEIC DERMATITIS AND ECZEMA

NEW!

Contains Amino Acids, Vitamins B and E and Cod Liver Oil, a natural source of Vitamins A and D. This remarkable product treats the symptoms of psoriasis and seborrheic dermatitis and helps prevent the recurrence of itching, irritation, redness, flaking and scaling.

How Curafas® Provides Relief

Its formula is rich in both amino acids and specific vitamins. Amino acids are the building blocks of protein, which is contained in every living cell. Vitamins are essential for normal growth and contribute to the natural moisturizing factor. The skin is often the first indication of a vitamin deficiency that can cause dry skin.

The Summer Music Games

If you've ever stood near tracks as a freight train roared by or stood in a barn during a thunderstorm, you know something of the reverberating excitement that will shake the walls of J. Birney Crum Stadium during the Drum Corps International Eastern Regional Championship this weekend.

Gathering more than 3,000 young men and women from 17 states and provinces across North America, the competition pits some of the most talented drum and bugle corps on the planet against each other. A total of 38 corps will vie for the Open Class, Division II and Division III Eastern Regional Championship crowns in 55 performances over two days.

Part musicianship, part showmanship and part battlefield, the competition here, now in its 17th year, draws the largest crowds of any of the regional contests. Competitors include the six-time and current defending World Champion Cadets of Bergen County, N.J., the crowd-pleasing Madison Scouts from Wisconsin, and local favorite the Crossmen from Bensalem, Pa.

The winners here will go on to compete in the DCI World Championships Aug. 15-20 in Boston, Mass.

Don't miss the train.

Health Care in Harmony with Musikfest

For the last decade Muhlenberg Hospital Center and St. Luke's Hospital have provided free emergency health care to Musikfest. The tradition continues this year as all four Healthplatz sites offer fast first aid and a direct line to emergency facilities at both hospitals.

Festplatz, Volksplatz and Familienplatz are staffed by nurses and health care volunteers from St. Luke's, Muhlenberg and The Visiting Nurse Association of Bethlehem and will be open during the entire festival. The Healthplatz at Festplatz will also have an ambulance standing by. A health care site at Americaplatz will be opened during the last weekend of Musikfest.

Kinderplatz is sponsored by the Parent-Child Health Care Center of St. Luke's Hospital and will offer a private, quiet place for feeding and changing, with complimentary diapers and formula.
