

Frimenko, Leonard

Two Local Sailors With Tokyo Bay Fleet

Leonard Frimenko, Seaman 1/C, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Frimenko, 1637 East Second Street, and A. S. DiGiacinto, Seaman 1/C, of 1143 Mechanic Street, are serving with the Pacific fleet in Tokyo Bay.

S1/C Frimenko is serving on the USS Mount Olympus, communication headquarters ship, which was among the first U. S. Navy vessels to enter the Bay. The Mount Olympus, flagship of Vice Admiral T. S. Milkinson, arrived at dawn of the day the Japs surrendered.

S1/C DiGiacinto watched the final capitulation of the Japanese empire from the USS Blue, Third fleet destroyer. The Blue was anchored 1,000 yards from the Missouri, scene of the ceremonies, to climax 13 months of action.
