Getting things done?

Little progress made advancing ethics proposal

BY MICHELLE MEEH
 Special to the Bethlehem Press

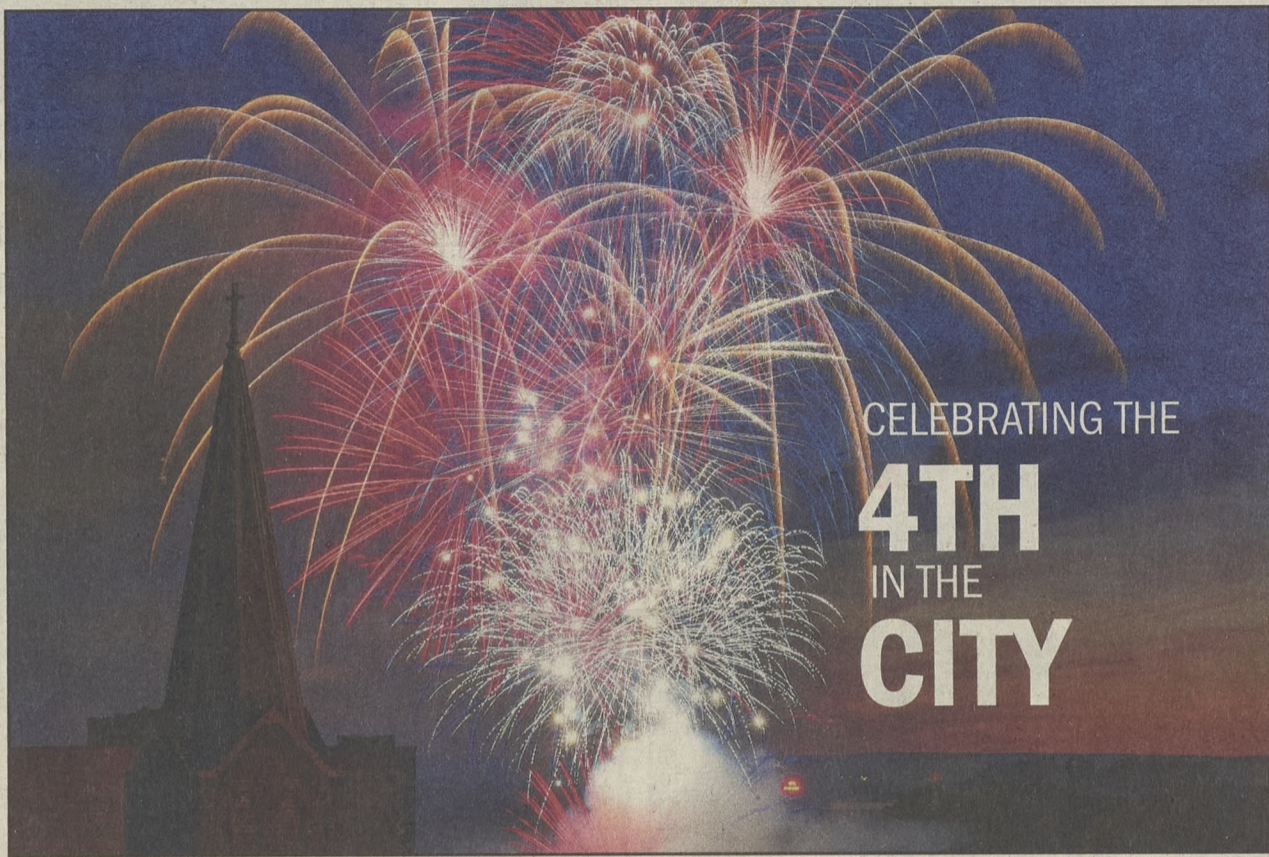

It took a little patience, but one member of the public got the update he requested on the proposed ethics ordinance under discussion by city council.

During the public portion of council's July 5 meeting, Allentown resident Robert Trotner asked for a status update on the ethics ordinance. The ordinance proposed by council members Olga Negrón and Michael Colon in January and has been discussed at two committee of the whole meetings; however, it has not yet come to an actual council meeting for a vote.

Council President J. William Reynolds informed Trotner that at this point there are "several legislative options" but then refused further questions, saying the public portion of the meeting was not meant for a give and take but rather for the public to speak. "You have the remainder of your time," he said. "These are the rules of city council."

Reynolds did state that no amendments to the proposed ethics ordinance were proposed

The Fourth of July in Bethlehem concluded with the city's traditional fireworks display. Launched from the centrally located Sand Island along the Lehigh River, the pyrotechnics give residents many vantage points from which to enjoy the sounds and colorful bursts as the nation celebrates its independence. This view is from St. Michael's Cemetery. More fireworks on page A3.

The sixth annual Fourth of July reading of the Declaration of Independence took place at Bethlehem's Payrow Plaza in the late morning of Independence Day with over one hundred area residents in attendance. Readers for 2017 were Northampton County Court of Common Pleas Judge Emil Giordano, Lehigh Valley dentist Tom Gyory, Bethlehem Councilman Eric Evans, Northampton County Councilmen Glenn Geissinger, Matthew Deitz, Hayden Phillips and Seth Vaughn, Bethlehem Mayor Bob Donchez, Bethlehem Police Chief Mark DiLuzio and former Lehigh County Commissioner Dean Browning. The Gilbert family provided vocal accompaniment on the singing of the national anthem and "God Bless America," and Bethlehem based Boy Scout Troop #59 led the Pledge of Allegiance.

Council passes on greater contract oversight

BY BERNIE O'HARE
 Special to the Bethlehem Press

"Brown vetoed the ordinance because it would restrict the ability of the current and future administrations of Northampton County [to enter contracts] in a timely and cost effective way."

In the wake of a federal investigation of political corruption in Allentown that has already resulted in nine guilty pleas, local governments are taking notice. Bethlehem, Allentown and Lehigh County have all taken at least some steps to improve transparency and impose greater oversight of government contracts.

But Northampton County Council passed on such an opportunity at its July 6 meeting. To be specific, council members rejected an ordinance giving them more authority over county contract approvals.

Under current law, the executive needs council's approval for contracts larger than $100,000. Hayden Phillips proposed lowering that threshold to $50,000. But only he and Matt Dietz voted yes to this measure.

Executive John Brown was absent, but solicitor Ryan Durkin read into the record a memo from purchasing manager Kathryn Anderson. She complained that requiring approval for contracts under $100,000 "will negatively impact the contracting process" and cause delays.

Ken Kraft called the ordinance a "ridiculous overreach" by county council.

"We're not here to micromanage everything that happens," he said, and then slammed sponsor Hayden Phillips with the comment that this "always seems to come up during an election year."

Ironically, Kraft voted to support an almost identical ordinance in 2015. That measure was proposed by Hayden Phillips, too. His first attempt to check on the executive's power with a different council was successful and passed by a 7-2 vote. The votes against came from Glenn Geissinger and Mat Benol, who usually can be counted on to support Brown.

Brown vetoed the ordinance because it would "restrict the ability of the current and future administrations of Northampton County [to enter contracts] in a timely and cost effective way." A subsequent attempt to over- See NORCO on Page A4

Over 100 people attended the sixth annual reading of the Declaration of Independence on Payrow Plaza.

Continued from page A1 during the June 26 committee of the whole meeting but added, "the authors of the bill still have options." When Troter asked about the council solicitor's view, Reynolds again cited the council rule not to engage in back and forth with the public, but rather to allow people to speak. "I'll just stand here," Trotter said, and used the remainder of his time to stand silently at the podium until the clock ran out.

But patience remains a virtue.

Directly after the public comment portion of the agenda is old business. Negron spoke up to say she had discussed the proposed ordinance with council solicitor Jack Spirk. "We were both in agreement we were not on the same page," she said. Negron wanted council to consider the proposal as presented.

Reynolds said the recent committee of the whole meeting was an opportunity for Negron to make any changes or amendments to move the draft forward. He said the majority of council appears more comfortable addressing various components of the proposal as stand-alone ordinances, rather than as one comprehensive bill.

"I didn't have any amendments to make. I like it the way it is," Negron said. She moved to schedule another committee of the whole meeting, but that idea was voted down 5-2, with Negron and Colon in favor.

Council member Bryan Callahan said,

"everybody is in favor of ethics" but said the proposed ethics committee would duplicate efforts by the state ethics board. Other areas covered by the proposal, for example, contracts, are already subject to scrutiny. City contracts over $50,000 must come before council, while contracts for lesser amounts still have to go through department heads and be See CITY on Page A4

How Faith Comes

If one does not have the faith to receive things from God, how does one get that faith? The Bible answers that question in Romans 10:17, "Faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the Word of God." Some years ago, Rev. Robert Abbott shared in The Pentecostal Evangel the testimony of a person who received faith by reading the Scriptures. He related, "While pastoring in a Minnesota city, I was called to visit a patient in the tuberculosis sanatorium. She was a believer but a member of a non-pentecostal church. For 9 years she had suffered with the disease. She was so ill, she could be out of bed only one brief period per day. On my arrival, she explained how she had been reading her Bible when certain words suddenly caught her attention: 'These signs shall follow them that believe; in my name...they shall lay hands on the sick, and they shall recover' (Mark 16:17-18). She had not believed in divine healing until that moment. Suddenly she had faith for recovery. She called the one pastor she knew who prayed for the sick. As I prayed with my hands on her head, God's power came upon her so mightily that the entire bed shook! She continued to shake for 3 days and the power of God was so upon her that she could not sit up at all! After many tests, conducted over a period of several months, she was dismissed from the sanatorium. There had not been a positive reaction from the moment of her healing! For over 20 years now she has enjoyed normal health with no recurrence of the disease! Where did she get faith to be healed? She got it from reading the Bible!"

How does one get faith to be saved? The context of the verse "Faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the Word of God" deals with receiving salvation through believing in Jesus by hearing about Him from God's Word. I urge you to read God's Word to get the faith to be saved by hearing about Jesus the Savior of the world. Start with the Gospel of John.

Breaking up larger topics into smaller ordinances is not new, said council member Eric Evans. He said similar procedures were used with comprehensive topics such as zoning and budgets. Ethics is "too big and too complex," he said.

Council member Shawn Martell said, "The point here is to get things done" and breaking up the proposal into individual topics may improve chances of passing ethics reform. Council member Adam Waldron agreed that breaking up the proposed ordinance would make the process "smoother and easier to do."

Becahi principal goes homeBY NATE JASTRZEMSKI
njastzrzmki@tnonline.com

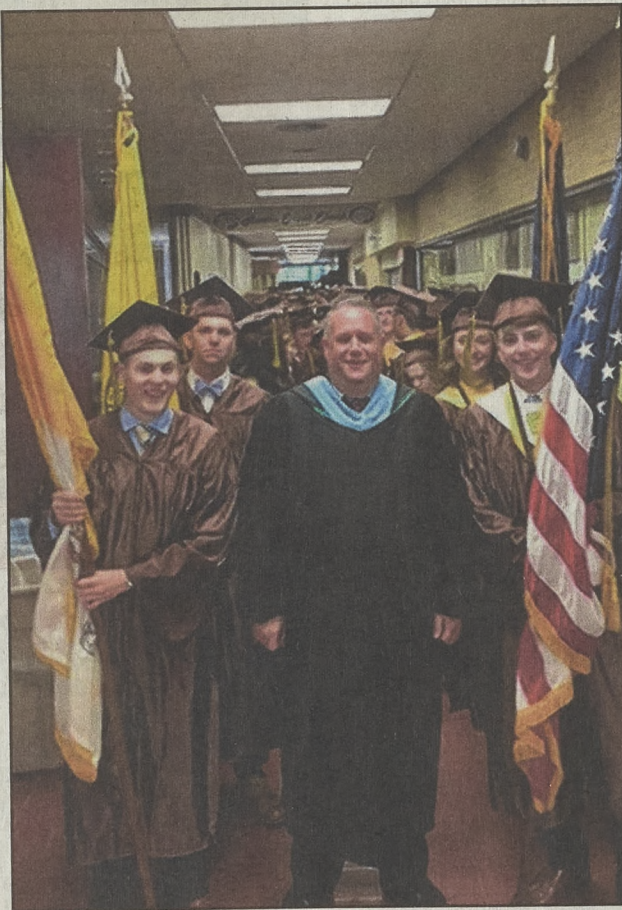

Bethlehem Catholic's principal for the past seven years, John Petruzzelli, has taken the next step of his career, returning to his hometown of Philadelphia as principal of St. Joseph's Preparatory School, where he once worked as dean of students.

Petruzzelli made an impression and was well liked by the students. From his quirky morning announcements to taking cameos in school plays to setting up opportunities for the student body to hoot out SpongeBob Squarepants references during assemblies, he helped change the culture and attitude at the school.

Despite the excitement about starting the new job, "I'm very sad about leaving," he said in an email from Philly. "It's tough to leave a place that you have loved and invested so much time and energy into. The kids have been amazing. I will really miss them."

Originally a middle school history teacher, Petruzzelli said he loved working with kids and that he could best help them as an administrator. He was familiar with Bethlehem and Beca's reputation as a sports school, and thought by working here he could broaden its appeal. During his tenure he has emphasized the academic program, AP scores, college scholarship dollars, number of service hours and academic team successes, and is proud of the student and faculty dedication to achieving them.

Petruzzelli said he has many wonderful memories from his years at Beca, from starting the Student of the Week program to summer service trips to twice marching down Main Street, USA in Disney World with the band.

But administering a Catholic high school is not without its challenges as well, and his constant foe was maintaining enrollment. Petruzzelli said bringing the student population up from around 700 to 775 was the result of hard work, hiring a full time director of admissions, community and partner outreach, and initiating a marketing plan. "As a Catholic school, enrollment drives the train. Without students, you can't be a successful school."

And it's a school the students love, Petruzzelli said, like a second home.

"The school always seems to be open - from drama, to band to sports practices to service, our kids are here and loving every minute of it. For some students, they are at school more hours in a day than their home on some days. And that's the way a school should be. It's energizing and exciting."

Petruzzelli has excitement of his own, though, as he returns to old staff friends at St. Joe's Prep, and he wishes the best for both schools.

"Change is a good thing. I hope my departure from Beca will be good on both ends. I'm excited to bring my energy and passion for education back to the Prep, and I'm confident that a new principal can come into Bethlehem Catholic and provide new leadership and a different vision for the school.

"I'd like to think that during my time at Bethlehem Catholic, we have made a very good school even better; one that the new principal can build on and bring about even better success than when I was there."

But even with happy new beginnings, there can be sadness. "There are few schools that would have gotten me to leave Beca, but the Prep is one of them.

"The students have energized me over the last seven years. They are kind, compassionate and genuine. I could never thank them or their families for the trust they placed in me.

"They have touched my heart in so many ways. I hope they know how much I love them and would do anything for them."

ride Brown's veto failed by a five to four vote, with Peg Ferraro, Seth Vaughn, Mat Benol and Glenn Geissinger voting no.

In 2015, Vaughn lauded the measure as one that would give council "more oversight. ... I just think it's better government," he explained. But a few days later, he voted against himself. So did Peg Ferraro.

Lamont McClure, who was then on council, chided Ferraro, "Two weeks ago, you and Mr. Vaughn showed courage and voted with Mr. Phillips, and tonight, you and Mr. Vaughn showed the opposite of that. A lack of courage."

In 2017, Vaughn now thinks the measure he endorsed in 2015 would "hamstring the executive" and result in more meetings. In 2017, Peg Ferraro said the bill she supported in 2015 "would almost bring the wheels of government to a halt. The wheels of government move slowly enough."

Bob Werner, who voted the measure down, was a civilian in 2015. But he was far from enthusiastic over executive contracts. "I'm tired of having things put in front of me with two days notice," he said. "The administration does not respect council's time frames."

This is Phillips' second effort to impose greater oversight on county contracts. "I've been on this almost since I've been here," he said. "You've got me offended that you think I'm doing this for political purposes. I'm not."

Phillips argued that his bill would have no impact on cooperative purchases or what the courts think are necessary. Matt Dietz added that Lehigh County requires legislative approval for contracts greater than $10,000.

In 2015, when council voted 7-2 to give themselves control over contracts greater than $25,000, they did so over the protests of Purchasing Manager Kathryn Anderson, who appeared at the meeting and complained it would slow things down. In 2017, a memo from her sufficed.

"You have the perspective of an employee," said resident Jeff Fox, who supplied the perspective of a citizen and said the bill would result in more transparency.

President John Cusick said he was swayed by Anderson's concerns, but cautioned everyone that something really needs to be done about the purchasing provisions in the administrative code.

Those concerns have been raised since 2015 too, and Controller Steve Barron even prepared an outline for council. It has been collecting dust for about a year.

Nurse stabbed at Lehigh Valley hospital; suspect charged

Police said a nurse was stabbed around 9:30 p.m. June 30 at Lehigh Valley Health Network-Muhlenberg.

A hospital spokesperson said the male nurse was listed in stable condition the following day.

Police Chief Mark DiLuzio said the suspect fled but was arrested nearby within 10 minutes. Nineteen-year-old Joshua Rafael Santos was charged in Lehigh County with attempted homicide, aggravated assault and simple assault.

Santos was taken to Lehigh County prison in lieu of $100,000 bail.

Steam engine tour set for July 16

Crew members of two stationary steam engines will host a tour of the restoration operations at 3:30 p.m. July 16 at the National Museum of History, 511 E Third St. and the N.J. Transportation Heritage Center, Phillipsburg, N.J. The NMIH tour begins with the former York Water Company 103-year-old horizontal steam powered water pumping engine. The equipment is 35 feet long, weighs 115 tons and pumped eight million gallons of water a day.

The tour will then carpool to the Phillipsburg, N.J. pump house to see Big Allis, a 1913 steam powered water pump. The three cylinder, two fly-wheel vertical engine, is rated for six million gallons of water a day and is 51 feet tall. It is surrounded by a complete steam plant with the original boilers, condenser and backup turbine.

Tickets may be purchased in person at NMIH. The proceeds will be split equally between the two restoration projects.

Borough performs summer cleaning

BY TRACY RICE
Special to the Bethlehem Press

The council meeting of July 3 reported cleanup days around Fountain Hill Borough are progressing. Each Saturday brings more people to pitch in and help clean up. The next cleanup Saturday is scheduled for Aug. 2 at 9 a.m. at the park at Stanley Avenue. Mayor Jose Rosado said the "playground and pool are looking quite good." They put one basketball hoop back up and the park has been quiet. The playground coordinator has things under control.

Fountain Hill has obtained a DEP grant in the amount of $100,000 for repairs at the Lechaweck Springs Park.

Carolee Gifford, recreation committee chair, thanked Executive Administrator Anthony Branco for all of his hard work in applying for the grant. The police and fire departments also received the Lehigh County Casino Grant in the amount of $106,084. Funds will be distributed at the discretion of the Fountain Hill council.

Council also approved the hiring of two new attendants for the pool for the summer. This was a change from the original hires. Ordinance 836, which approves the addition and deletion of handicapped parking spaces, was passed. There will be two additions, one on Kieffer Street at one on Cherokee Street. A handicapped parking space which is no longer needed on Stanley Ave. will be removed.

There has been an ongoing problem on Delaware Avenue, North Lynn Street and North Bergen Street. Several accidents have occurred recently, so Ordinance 837 was passed. This will allow for the "line of sight" to be better. The ordinance will prohibit parking at all times at the following locations:

Delaware Avenue, the south side 90 feet east and 90 feet west of the intersection with North Bergen Street. Delaware Avenue, north, 90 feet east and 90 feet west of the intersection with North Bergen Street. Delaware Avenue, South, 90 feet east and 90 feet west of the intersection with North Lynn Street, and Delaware Avenue, north, 90 feet east and 90 feet west of the intersection with North Lynn Street.

Public works needs to fill two full time positions. The committee has conducted interviews and at this time recommended hiring Ernest Liabile III. The vote was unanimous. His hiring is contingent on passing all the required testing and he will be on a six-month probation.

A concerned resident of the 1100 block of Moravia Street requested that the council consider an amendment to the Burning Prohibition 791 of backyard fire pits. She is asking council to ban all backyard fire pits. As the rule stands, the fire pit must be 20 feet from 31 added to area volunteer fire depts.

BY JIM MARSH
Special to the Press

Fourteen area volunteer fire departments added 31 new firefighters to their ranks when the new firefighters completed a rigorous five-month course and received their certificates of completion June 8 at a ceremony at the Lower Macungie Township Community Center.

This was the seventh annual Bucks County Fire Academy course, held twice a week from January to May at the Allentown Fire Academy, at the Allentown Fire Department Mack Station at 1902 Lehigh St., near the Queen City Airport.

The 192-hour course is held in Lehigh County annually for area volunteers so they do not have to travel to Bucks County Fire Academy in Doylestown, an hour to an hour-and-a-half each way, as was once the case. Lower Macungie Fire Department Chief Dave Nosal initiated the arrangement for the Bucks County unit to come to Allentown. Close to 200 Lehigh County area volunteers have received the local training since the program was initiated.

Two new volunteers were certified as Upper Saucon firefighters on June 8 after completing a rigorous five month Firefighter 1 training course. Shown, from left, are: Allentown Fire Department Lieutenant Chris Groller, lead course instructor; and course graduates Eric Bartosz and Brandon Weiss.

The Public Safety Training unit at the Bucks County Community College provides training for first responder units in 11 counties in southeastern Pennsylvania, with national and state level fire, rescue, emergency medical and hazardous materials training and professional certification. The certification is portable and recognized by fire departments across the country.

The institution provides public safety training modules in countries around the world. The firefighting skills training included building construction; basic interior firefighting skills; fire behavior; forcible entry; personal safety equipment; self-contained breathing apparatus; ropes and knots; search and rescue; vehicle fires; wildland fires; hazardous materials; and terrorist incidents.

In addition to the 112 hours in basic firefighting, volunteers learned life-saving and first-aid skills and learned how to recognize, evaluate and deal with hazardous material incidents. The hazardous materials training covered events as small as an anti-freeze spill at a motor vehicle accident scene, to incidents as intimidating as weapons of mass destruction.

Lead instructor for the training Lt. Christopher Groller of the Allentown Fire Department, was assisted by Troy Raab, of Coopersburg, and several other state-certified trainers.

Keynote speaker for the graduation Allentown Fire Department Captain Thomas Carl lauded the graduates.

"You are now officially warriors protecting the United States of America," he said.

Recognized by instructors as the most all-around outstanding student in the course was Jose Fernandez, a volunteer with the Woodlawn Fire Company.

Bethlehem Sports Camps approach

BY KATIE MCDONALD
kmcald@tntonline.com

Bethlehem Sports Camps is offering a softball camp and a baseball camp for players, ages 7-15, this July.

The softball camp will run July 17-21 from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. at the Freedom High School softball field.

The camp will be conducted by Freedom High School softball coach Nora Borger, Liberty High School softball coach Sam Carrodo, and Lehigh Carbon Community College softball coach Jenn Shellhammer.

Midweek, Freedom's softball team is hosting a fundraiser, in order to raise money for gear and equipment for the team, at P.J. Whelihan's, High Point Blvd. & Schoenersville Rd., Bethlehem. On July 19, patrons who mention Freedom softball will have 15 percent of their check donated to the Patriot softball booster club. This will include takeout.

The baseball camp will run July 24-28 from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. at the City Line Baseball Little League fields.

The camp will be conducted by Freedom High School baseball coach Nick D'Amico, Liberty High School baseball coach Andy Pitsilos, and Bethlehem Summer Camps director Joe Stelato.

Both the baseball and softball camps will provide instruction on fundamental skills and strategies, including hitting, pitching, catching, fielding, and base running.

The cost for each camp is $85, and each camper will receive a T-shirt, an individual evaluation sheet, and unlimited Gatorade.

Registration can be completed at bethlehem-sportscamps.com.

Later this summer, Freedom's softball team will host its annual golf outing on Aug. 26 at Morgan Hill Golf Course.

The cost is $95 per golfer or $380 per foursome, which includes golf, dinner, and a chance to win a 2017 Camaro and other prizes.

Freemansburg, Bankos eliminated

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tntonline.com

The hopes of a NORCO Legion baseball title run came to an end for Freemansburg and Bankos last week, as both fell in their best-of-three series.

Bankos, the seventh seed, couldn't overpower perennial contender Hellertown in three games, as all three games were decided by two runs or less.

Bankos lost the first game by a 1-0 result, but came back to take game two with a 3-2 victory before falling in the final contest 2-0.

Freemansburg got the jump on Nazareth in the opener of their four-five matchup, as they won the first game 6-4 before dropping two straight contests.

"I think overall the season was a success," said Freemansburg head coach Chris Medei. "I think halfway through the season we started playing well, but we just struggled offensively in the last two games."

Nazareth went on to win game two by an 8-2 margin and clinched the series with a 4-0 no-hit shutout.

After grabbing momentum with a win in game one, Freemansburg's bats were held in check to just three hits in game two, as well as the subsequent no-hit effort in the finale.

"I was surprised that we could only get three hits in the last two games against them," said Medei. "The pitching Nazareth threw at us was good, but I didn't think it would hold us down like that."

Freemansburg ends the season at 13-8 overall, while Bankos finishes at 10-11.

Hellertown went on to dispatch Roseto in three games and square off against Northampton, who swept Nazareth, in this week's championship series.

Summer basketball returns to area as A-Town Throwdown begins this week

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tntonline.com

It'll be another opportunity to play for a trophy this Thursday night when SportsFest's A-Town Throwdown takes place at Allentown's Cedar Beach through the weekend.

Liberty, Freedom and Bethlehem Catholic will be back in action this week, as they hope to improve upon their tournament performances from the Cedar Beach Basketball Showcase at the end of June.

Each team in this week's tournament is guaranteed three games and those will be opportunities that each head coach is looking forward to see how their respective teams have improved over the past few weeks.

"We're playing better ever since the [Cedar Beach Showcase]," said Freedom head coach Joe Stellato. "I'm looking to get into Sunday's action and play well. We are definitely playing better since June and the kids have more confidence and we're excited."

There are 12 pools of four teams slated for SportsFest with Stellato hoping to be one of 16 teams to make it to Sunday's single-elimination bracket.

The Pates pool features Leighton, Stroudsburg and Dobbin. Liberty is paired up with North Hunterdon, Central Dauphin East and Salisbury.

Bethlehem Catholic has Eastern Academy, Pocono Mountain West and Quakertown in their pool.

The Hawks won't have star center Ryan Young again this weekend, but that doesn't mean head coach Ray Barbosa is worried about his team's chances, following a 1-2 spurt at Cedar Beach in June.

Larimar new LHS boys soccer coach

BY KATIE MCDONALD
kmcald@tntonline.com

Former Liberty High School soccer player and Moravian College graduate Ian Larimar is the new head coach for the Hurricanes' boys' soccer team.

Shortly after he was hired earlier this year and shortly after the team's strength and conditioning work had been done, Larimar held a group meeting with Liberty soccer players to outline his philosophy, among other things.

"My philosophy is a high tempo, high-paced game where players need to think creatively and quickly through all facets of the game," Lar-imer said.

At this time, it appears that the Hurricanes will have four or five returning players with quality, varsity time. Currently, the Hurricanes are competing in the summer soccer league at Lehigh University.

"It's going really well. It's been a seamless transition," said Larimar. "I've inherited a group of thoughtful young men. I believe they respected me as a player and now, as a coach."

Most recently, Larimar was an assistant to former Liberty head coach Jason Horvath and is a coach for Lehigh Valley United.

Conrad takes over LHS tennis team

BY KATIE MCDONALD
kmcald@tntonline.com

Former Liberty High School tennis player and current Hurricane assistant tennis coach Chris Conrad will take over for Leo Schnalzer as head girls' tennis coach at Liberty, while Schnalzer will remain as head coach for the boys' team.

"I'm going to keep kind of the same structure, and Leo will help when he can," Conrad said.

"We have a good dynamic. I think I have more of a critical edge and a technical range, and he has more of a positive edge and an emotional range, and I think it's a good balance. Leo has offered as much assistance as I need through the transition, and it's nice to have his guidance as well."

Conrad plans to bring in former Moravian College tennis coach Dawn Ketterman-Benner to assist as well.

"She's a tremendous help, and she's like a mother to a lot of the girls," said Conrad.

Summer has been kind to Conrad; the incoming head coach is currently looking at the possibility of 38 girls on the Hurricane tennis roster.

"I'm hoping to get kids out there and involved," he said.

Conrad was a Lehigh Valley All-Conference tennis player at Liberty, where he played four years. He also played tennis at Gettysburg College for two years.

As a senior at Gettysburg, Conrad coached the girls' and boys' JV teams at Gettysburg High School. While teaching at Alleghany High School in Virginia, Conrad helped coach the boys' tennis team to the state quarterfinals.

Conrad is currently the assistant men's and women's tennis coach at Moravian College, and he is the director of tennis at Sand Island. Conrad is also a social studies teacher at Liberty.

"I'm looking forward to building the team. We'll be a young team, but I've been working with a lot of them. I'm fortunate to be at Sand Island. We'll have the youth, but we'll have the athleticism," Conrad said.

Connie Mack playoffs start

BY SCOTT PAGEL
spagel@tnonline.com

The Connie Mack playoffs started this week and two Bethlehem teams were a part of the action.

Bethlehem Catholic ended with the third seed and earned an automatic trip to the state playoffs as well as a chance to win the Lehigh Valley League title. The Hawks finished 13-5-1 to take the all-important top-four spot in the LV standings.

Also making it was Northeast Bethlehem, which finished with a mark of 10-9 good enough for the 10th seed. They traveled to seventh seed Northern Valley on Monday but lost 8-4.

For Becahi, they will host Emmaus on Wednesday evening. Head coach Jack Daddona thinks the sky is the limit for his team now that it's playoff time.

"If we continue pitching and playing great defense, I feel like we are the team to beat in the league playoffs," said Daddona. "Confidence is high and the kids have expressed an expectation of winning it."

"All year we have been missing key kids and it didn't matter as it's been a next man up mentality."

Daddona said three of the team's five losses have been by a total of four runs. Offensively, the team was led by Kris Morrow who batted .467. Jaden Weida hit .413 with 15 RBIs, Dalton Daddona hit .391, and Anthony Indelicato batted .378 with 21 runs scored.

On defense, Stefan Rollins at shortstop and Jaden Clements in the outfield led the way. Daddona said Caden Giordano and Joe Peacock played superbly as utility guys anywhere they were needed.

Catching was at a high level as the team threw out 13 runners out between Daddona and Matt Martinez. Pitching was led by Robert Church with 1.72 ERA, Indelicato a 2.07 ERA, Matt Caricari a 2.82 ERA, and Weida a 2.94 ERA.

While there is still business to take care of in the Lehigh Valley playoffs, it's hard not to get ahead of yourself and look toward states. The Bucks-Montgomery teams have traditionally been powerhouses.

"I'm really not sure what to expect," Daddona said of states. "We are looking forward to the opportunity to compete against Connie Mack's best and see how our kids hold up in the double elimination format."

NW girls earn 8 firsts

BY KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tnonline.com

Northwest's swim meet against Westwood Heights resulted in eight first place finishes for Northwest's girls last Thursday night.

In the age 9 & 10 25 backstroke, Lora Flynn took first place with a time of 21.27.

Alyvia Herman won the age 11 & 12 50 free with a time of 35.15.

"The last time I swam it, it was easier, but in the crescendo, it's a sprint, so I wanted to swim it [like that]," said Herman. "I like the crescendo because it's dark, and the lights are on, and it's fun because everyone is super fast and cheering."

The crescendo is a relay with five swimmers competing, one from each age group.

In the age 13 & 14 50 backstroke, Charlotte Samuelson placed first with a time of 38.92.

BY KATIE MCDONALD

Jackie Baker swimming the 50 breaststroke during Northwest's meet vs. Westwood.

"The backstroke has always been my favorite. I think I'm more comfortable because my face is out of the water, and I can breathe easier," Samuelson said.

This summer marks Samuelson's eighth year on Northwest's swim team.

"I just like how it's one big family," said Samuelson. "I'm a pretty competitive person, and I do like to win, but the most important is the family."

Although diving results were unavailable at press time, Samuelson also competed in the diving event, performing a front dive, a back flip, and an inward.

"I think I did well on the personal dives. I don't do the crazy twists like other people do, but I get good scores doing the basics," she said.

In the age 13 & 14 50 breaststroke, Sammy Jo Mikosky came in first with a time of 41.94.

Abby Mack won the age 15 & over 100 free with a time of 1:04.42, and the 100 IM with a time of 1:16.43.

Also in the age 15 & over, Jaclyn Baker took first place in the 50 breaststroke with a time of 42.60.

Baker, Mack, Samuelson, and Greta Stuckey combined to win the 13 & over 200 medley relay with a time of 2:23.99.

NW boys take 17 firsts

BY KATIE MCDONALD

Northwest's boys' swim team had 17 first place finishes in its meet against Westwood Heights last Thursday night at Northwest.

In the 8 & under 25 backstroke, Andrew Bays placed first with a time of 26.09.

In the 9 & 10 age division, Roman Herman won the 50 free with a time of 34.70, the 25 fly with a time of 18.56, and the 25 back in 21.03.

Also in the 9 & 10 group, Andre Negron took first place in the 25 breaststroke with a time of 23.66.

Corbin Eisenhardt came in first in the 50 free with a time of 35.13. Elijah Flickinger won the 50 backstroke with a time of 49.34, and Malcolm Collins placed first in the 50 breaststroke with a time of 48.59, all in the age 11 & 12 division.

Patrick Gilhool won two events, the 11 & 12 50 butterfly with a time of 34.18, and the 12 & under 100 IM with a time of 1:20.76.

good [this year]. I'm at the top of my age group now. The practices can be hard but it's fun," Gilhool said.

Addison Collins won the 13 & 14 50 free with a time of 29.29, and the 100 IM with a time of 1:16.48.

"[In the 50 free] when you're under water, that's the fastest part, so you have to have a good start. You try not to look at the lane next to you," said Collins. "I learned how to improve most of my strokes from Carolyn [Koch]."

this summer.

Also in the 13 & 14 age group, Seth Coleman won the 50 fly with a time of 35.88, Ben Service won the 50 backstroke with a time of 37.12, and Daniel Keats placed first in the 50 breaststroke with a time of 37.60.

Northwest's boys won three relay events against Westwood Heights.

Eisenhardt, Malcolm Collins, Gilhool, and Tim Wetmore took first place in the 12 & under 200 medley relay in 2:45.07, John Jones, Sam Capwell, Spencer Smith, and Ben Stuckey won the 13 & over 200 medley relay, and Bays, Gilhool, Stuckey, Addison Collins, and Herman won the crescendo relay in 2:07.17.

For Larimer, coaching soccer as a profession was always part of the plan, and he is running with it.

"Every loss I've ever endured, whether as a player or a coach, still stings, but it can be used as a building block," Larimer said. "I'm looking forward to the team improving each and every day with only steps forward."

Larimer will be assisted by Andrew Uhler, a guidance counselor at Liberty and former soccer player at Freedom High School. Another assistant is pending.

Having graduated 12 seniors from last year's team seems to be of no concern to Larimer because he knows what he has this year, and that's just fine with him.

"They're an incredibly young but mature team, and they play soccer year round, so I trust them to treat the season like they've been there before," said Larimer, who will undoubtedly do the same.

Event celebrates city's founding

Moravian Day, a festival for Moravians and the community, was held June 17 on the grounds of Central Moravian Church and the nearby Moravian community in historic downtown Bethlehem. The event featured entertainment, food, music and family-oriented activities. The admission-free celebration was sponsored by the Bethlehem Area Moravians (BAM) and other Moravian entities as part of a 2016-17 schedule of special events marking the 275th anniversary of the Moravian founding of Bethlehem in 1741. A 275th anniversary Moravian Lovefeast followed on June 25 in Johnston Hall, Moravian College.

Gray skies and drizzle forced the annual Slovenian flag-raising ceremony from Payrow Plaza into the Rotunda on June 23, but the spirit of those in attendance was not dampened. Bethlehem-Murska Sobota Sister Cities Association founder Stephen Antalics Jr. acted as master of ceremonies, and Robi Poredos of the Slovenian Press Agency gave the invocation and benediction.

The guest speaker was Deputy Chief of Mission at the Republic of Slovenia Embassy, Vladimir Kolmanic, who attended with his wife Vesna and son, Amir. Kolmanic noted the 26th anniversary of Slovenian independence and 21st anniversary of the Sister City relationship between Bethlehem and Murska Sobota. Alex Karras, represented Mayor Bob Donchez, offering welcoming remarks, and Rosemary Hensel, presented a proclamation recognizing Slovenian independence and the Sister Cities Association on behalf of State Representative Steve Samuelson. Alex Gergar provided musical accompaniment and Betty Sylva and Frank Podleiszek led the singing of both country's national anthems and

PCFLV dedicates 'Ray of Sunshine'

BY ED COURRIER
Special to the Bethlehem Press

The Pediatric Cancer Foundation of the Lehigh Valley (PCFLV) paid tribute to their late friend and former next door neighbor in the Banana Factory, Ray Smicker, with a ribbon cutting ceremony recently.

Smicker, owner of Silver Images in the adjoining space and steadfast supporter of PCFLV, passed away in 2016 from cancer. PCFLV then expanded its office suite into the vacant digital print shop and named it the "Ray of Sunshine Room" in his honor.

"Ray was a special friend to PCFLV, and we are so proud to be able to honor his generosity," said Michelle Zenie, PCFLV executive director. "We are excited to be able to host many different activities and functions in this room."

Along one wall is a large, white-painted section where children can draw with dry-erase markers whenever they and their families visit the office. Local artist Ellen Kalinosky, herself a bone marrow cancer survivor, "doodled" a mural of images and symbols over top of the area.

According to Kalinosky, she began drawing while recovering from a bone marrow transplant to treat her aplastic anemia, PNH and MDS.

"Don't ever count anybody out," Kalinosky said of her survival.

Several young cancer warriors and their families were on hand for the dedication, as well as Ray Smicker's son Andrew, a musician living in Virginia.

PCFLV is a local nonprofit, dedicated to providing services and programs to local pediatric cancer patients and their families, along with bereaved families.

For more information, visit pcflv.org.

Pierce Ebert doodles elephants with mural artist Ellen O. Kalinosky on the wall in the "Ray of Sunshine Room." Fortunately, the student at St. Michaels and his mom, Roey, have not had to battle cancer, but they are friends with Kalinosky, who has fought the disease on and off for much of her adult life. Kalinosky's husband Joe told her, "You eat an elephant one bite at a time," which she said has helped her deal with life. It also became the inspiration for her elephant doodles.

Touchstone packs a 'Punch' for 'Jakopa's Processional' along Bethlehem Greenway

BY LUKE MUENCH
 Special to The Press

Touchstone Artistic Director JP Jordan was in Peru when he first decided to create the Jakopa's Punch Band.

"I was in Peru when I got word that David Bowie had passed," Jordan explains, "and I was told that The Lesson Center planned to host a benefit for leukemia patients in honor of Bowie.

"Now, I didn't have a band at the time, but I asked if I could play a set if I could pull a band together in time, and they said sure. So we ended up getting together this group of musicians."

The name of the band stems from Jordan asking his niece what she thought "JP" stood for.

"It just fit. I like to think that the band itself, the music, is the punch."

It only took that one performance to make Jordan realize that he had something special on his hands, something he knew he wanted to do so much more with.

"[My wife] Lisa [Touchstone Theatre Managing Director] was encouraging me to find the most happiness I could in the work we were doing [at Touchstone], and, for me, music was the most fulfilling thing, intertwining music and theatrics, not just sound design or just a musical, but how can we be using music in different ways?"

Soon after, Jordan decided to pitch the idea to the Touchstone Theatre ensemble, presenting it as a band that focused less on being defined by a traditional genre, like rock or punk, but rather by the emotion it aimed to create in its listeners: joy.

"There's no doubt there's rock in it, but yeah, I dunno, I'd define us as orchestral rock, marching band rock ... joy rock."

"Community roots"
 "I'm heavily influenced by a number of artists ... like Gogol Bordello, a gypsy rock band. I love the energy they bring to what they're doing, and they're saying highly positive things about being strong and part of the community.

"The emotional response to community and eliciting a greater sense of ownership in that community was always a part of it."

Community has always been a strong theme in any theatrical work that the 36-year-old Touchstone has focused on, with many of their performances looking to accentuate a topic or issue relating to Bethlehem.

"For example, 'Journey to the East' was the idea that the Chinese population was increasing in Bethlehem, and we wanted to bring those communities together in positive dialogue.

"This is great work for people to do, but we don't need to have an issue driving every piece we do. We can find opportunities for community members to be experiencing joy or beautiful things as a collective, as a means of being closer together.

"So that, coupled with my desire to add music into my work at Touchstone, was what led to ['Jakopa's Punch Processional']."

The Butterfly Effect in your garden

GROWING GREEN
 L.C. Cooperative Extension
 LehighExt@psu.edu

Butterflies have long fascinated people with their beautiful wings and whimsical flight.

They are also extremely important ecologically. Butterflies pollinate flowering plants and serve as food for other organisms, thus forming an important link in the food chain.

Populations have declined in recent decades because of pesticide use, especially herbicides, loss of fence rows, urbanization, and other destruction of habitat, and loss of caterpillar host and nectar plants. Managing your garden for butterflies can help conserve butterfly populations as well as greatly enhance a traditional garden. The life of a butterfly is marked by four vastly different stages: egg, catterpillar, pupa, and adult. The egg hatches into a caterpillar, which immediately feeds on the leaf of the plant where it has hatched.

Rapid growth is the main objective of the caterpillar stage. The caterpillar grows and molts, shredding its exoskeleton when it becomes too small. After four to six molts, the caterpillar pupates, or transforms.

The new stage is termed the pupa, and the covering around the caterpillar is called a chrysalis (or cocoon for moths).

Adult butterflies of most species emerge from the chrysalis after 10 to 15 days. They unfold and dry their wings, which must harden before they can fly.

Butterflies feed on nectar, the sweet liquid in flowers. Adults mate during this stage. The female deposits her eggs on plants that will provide food for the emerging caterpillars.

Because butterflies are attracted to flowers, it is easy to plant a garden that both you and they can enjoy. A butterfly-friendly garden contains both adult nectar plants and caterpillar host plants. A few common vegetables also serve as caterpillar host plants. Many butterfly gardeners plant extra vegetables, enough for them and their caterpillars. As an added bonus, butterfly gardens often attract hummingbirds.

Since butterflies are cold-blooded and need to be warm to fly and feed, plant your garden in a sunny area sheltered from the wind. Storms and high winds can damage butterfly wings, so be sure to provide a wind-screen.

Choose the appropriate host and nectar plants to attract butterflies common to the Lehigh Valley. This includes hollyhock, dill, snapdragons, milkweeds, asters, dogwoods, butterfly weed, cosmos, Joe Pye weed, sunflowers, phlox, marigold, and zinnia.

Adult butterflies are more flexible in their need for nectar plants. In general, they prefer purple, red, yellow, orange, or pink blossoms; flat-topped or clustered Inspector "Hound": Three actors portray 16 roles in "Brit-Wits" Steven Canny and John Nicholson's comedic retelling of Sherlock Holmes' classic mystery thriller, "The Hound of the Baskervilles," through July 16, Pennsylvania Shakespeare Festival at the Labuda Center for the Performing Arts at DeSales University in Center Valley. Jim Helsing, artistic director at Orlando Shakespeare Theater, returns to PSF to direct "Hound," described as "a comedy atlas using slapstick, witty wordplay, disappearing pants, and physical comedy." Greg Wood, above, a Festival favorite, plays Sherlock Holmes, who attempts to solve the mystery of a curse linked to the Baskerville fortune, a curse that causes death at the fangs of a mysterious beast that lurks on the moor. His loyal counterpart, Dr. Watson (played by Carl N. Wallnau), and Baskerville heir Sir Henry (Jacob Dresch) embark on the moor to let the sleuthing commence. As the plot thickens and suspicions rise, these three veteran PSF actors become sinister servants, boisterous ladies, escaped convicts, and butterfly collectors as Holmes and Watson attempt to unlock the mysteries unfolding in and around Baskerville Hall. "Wild" at heart: "Wild," above, a world premiere all-ages circus production, continues through July 29 at Muhlenberg Summer Music Theatre at Muhlenberg College, Allentown. The hour-long show tells the story of a young boy who runs away on an adventure into the unknown, through acrobatics, clowning, juggling, dance, and magic. The cast of 10 (eight in any particular performance) are Muhlenberg students and alumni, veterans of a growing circus movement on campus. Muhlenberg's Theatre & Dance Department has offered aerial acrobatics classes since 2011. Noah Dach, writer and director of "Wild" and a 2016 Muhlenberg graduate, and two of his collaborators, Henry Evans and Tommy McCarthy, co-founded the Atlas Circus Company. Every performance of "Wild" is followed by a free 45-minute activity workshop. Daytime Adventure Workshops, for children ages 4 to 12, feature clowning, juggling, creative movement and storytelling. Evening workshops, for all ages, focus on developing circus skills. Relaxed (sensory-friendly) performance, 1 p.m. July 13. Audio Description, 1 p.m. July 20. hem Greenway, Webster and Taylor Streets, Bethlehem, with the band creating an atmosphere of positivity as viewers have a chance to explore not just the music, but puppets and performers.

"It's gonna be part three-ring circus, part rock concert, and part puppet spectacular," Jordan says.

"Jakopa's Punch Processional" is part of the "Cirque-It! Festival," July 14-16, a circus arts festival and a first-of-its-kind collaboration between Touchstone Theatre, Zoellner Arts Center and ArtsQuest. The festival brings to the Lehigh Valley a series of performances that redefine the ever-expanding world of circus.

"Cirque-It!" includes 8 p.m. July 14 and 15 performances of "Lucky" in Musikfest Cafe, ArtsQuest Center, SteelStacks' Musikfest Cafe. "Lucky" is created by Atlas Circus Company, which created and is performing "Wild," through July 29 as part of Muhlenberg Summer Music Theatre at Muhlenberg College, Allentown.

"Lucky" is an homage and modern take on the art of "The Gag." Through acrobatic slapstick, clowning and circus arts, the audience experiences a glimpse into the life of a man who can't stop falling on his face. The New York Post called the show "the new Ringling Brothers Circus."

AcroBuffos, an international touring duo, brings "Air Play" to Zoellner Arts Center at 4 p.m. July 15 and 16. Cheeky clowns journey through a surreal land of air, transforming the ordinary into objects of uncommon beauty. Fabrics dance in the wind, balloons have a mind of their own, confetti turns into the night sky, and an enormous canopy of hovering silk forever alters their future.

The National Endowment for the Arts (NEA) approved an Art Works award of $10,000 to ArtsQuest, Touchstone Theatre and Zoellner Arts Center, for the "Cirque It! Festival."

"The arts reflect the vision, energy, and talent of America's artists and arts organizations," stated NEA Chairman Jane Chu in a press release. "The National Endowment for the Arts is proud to support organizations such as ArtsQuest, Touchstone Theatre and Zoellner Arts Center, in serving their communities by providing excellent and accessible arts experiences."

"'Cirque It!' is a way to celebrate our community and to have fun through circus arts," says Deborah Sacarakis, artistic director of Zoellner Arts Center. "The festival gives three long-standing arts organizations the opportunity to join forces in exciting and innovative ways."

"'Cirque-It!' is designed to highlight the innovative ways the circus arts have evolved over time," says ArtsQuest Chief Programming Officer Patrick Brogan. "The Atlas Circus show has especially strong ties to our area, starting with founders Noah Dach and Henry Evans, who formed the company while they were attending Muhlenberg College."

"We are thrilled to partner with Touchstone Theatre and Zoellner Arts Center, two of the region's most creative arts presenters, to present a festival that's not only focused on the performing arts, but is also geared toward drawing people to SouthSide Bethlehem and our arts district as well," Brogan says.

"Jakopa's Punch Processional" is billed as Touchstone's "latest epic, outdoor, free theatrical."

The one-act musical journey finds audience members traveling alongside the action on the South Bethlehem Greenway as they meet puppets created by Yodi Vaden; an aerialist, Christine Gorigoitia, and a variety of other larger-than-life characters.

While having aspects of pop and rock bands, Jakopa's Punch Band will also feature some odd or different types of instruments.

"We didn't want to be identified as a rock band. Do I like music that rocks, and do I plan on rocking some socks off? Absolutely, but having the flute and bassoon in there allows for more orchestral flexibility, and then the freaky stuff like the theremin allows us to get a little spacey." The theremin is an electronic musical instrument played without physical contact.

Thanks to the "Jakopa's Punch Bowl," a fundraising event held in February at the Charles A. Brown Ice House, Bethlehem, audience members will have the chance to attend "Jakopa's Punch Processional" for free.

"When we had originally done the Bowie tribute, we only learned three cover songs, so I knew that when we needed to learn a lot of original music, we needed to teach ourselves more cover songs in order to be able to write that music. But being the eccentrics we are, we had to re-orchestrate everything. The fund-raiser allowed us to do that, as well as raise some funds for the event."

While knowing that he wanted to produce "Jakopa's Punch Processional" no matter what, Jordan stresses how important the "Jakopa's Punch Bowl" was to allow for the level of creativity and presentation.

"The fund-raiser determines what level we can perform at, whereas the budget states how much money we have for slick production design."

"I was so strongly committed to the idea that I knew I wanted something to happen, and we knew it was going to be part of this 'Cirque Festival,' which we would be taking part in."

"It's thanks to the people who did show up to that the event that it will be as slick as it will. Audio is hugely expensive, and with 25 channels of wireless audio, it adds up fast, not to mention that this is a mobile show, meaning it needs to run on batteries."

While some bands might see this as an opportunity to release an album, Jordan instead decided to focus on the live, theatrical aspects of the work.

"I don't see why we couldn't, but it's not my goal. I want to play for people in the streets, to bring them these ideas of joy. And if we do [record], we're negating the mission in a sense. It'd be totally not in line with people coming together in public to experience art."

With the event taking place on the South Bethlehem Greenway, there are those that might be hesitant to call the "Jakopa's Punch Processional" a play. Jordan, however, defends this definition by challenging people's perspective on what makes a stage.

"I think it's that you need to be aware that everywhere is a stage. If you say it's a stage, it is. 'Stage' is a problematic term in that the stage is a specific thing, but any space can be an area of performance. So the stage for a parade is the street. The stage for a band in a bar is the front of the shop. The artist defines where something can happen. The city has given us a great area to explore this idea in the Southside Greenway."

With so many different factors coming together for one evening, "Jakopa's Punch Processional" will undoubtedly be an unforgettable evening, with the only cost being the time spent attending it.

purple, red, yellow, orange, or pink blossoms; flat-topped or clustered flowers, and short flower tubes. A well-planned butterfly garden has blooming flowers throughout spring, summer, and early autumn. This provides a continuous food source to accommodate butterflies.

Butterflies are more attracted to groupings of flowers than to a single plant with a few blooms. Many cultivated flowers have been selected for their appearance, not their fragrance or the amount of nectar they contain. Therefore, it is better to choose common varieties for butterfly gardens instead of fancier hybrids. Common varieties may produce more nectar for the insects.

Limit your use of insecticides and herbicides, if you use them at all. Insecticides kill beneficial insects as well as those considered a nuisance. Herbicides are damaging to butterflies because they may eliminate sources of food for caterpillars and may poison them. A particular pest species is often associated with a specific type of plant. By having a variety of plants, you reduce the potential for pest problems and therefore the need for chemical controls.

Several other elements can be added to enhance a butterfly garden. Place a few rocks in sunny areas to give the butterflies a good basking surface. Also provide wet sand or mud. This phenomenon, called puddling, provides minerals and other nutrients that the males "gift" to females during mating.

St. Luke's launches Baby & Me mobile app

St. Luke's University Health Network has launched a St. Luke's Baby & Me mobile app to help pregnant and new moms stay informed and healthy throughout the stages of pregnancy, labor, birth and newborn care.

The mobile app, which can be downloaded for free, coincides with the announcement of the new St. Luke's Baby & Me Support Center, 1425 Eighth Avenue, Bethlehem, set to open later this summer.

"The Baby & Me app is another way for patients to really connect with St. Luke's and their doctors," explains Holly Warholc, DO, of St. Luke's Riverside Women's Healthcare.

Users can view photos of baby's development and a synopsis of what's happening at each phase, tips on what to ask the provider at the next visit and a rundown of prenatal testing and why each is important. After the baby arrives, the app provides a pediatrician finder, as well as videos about breastfeeding, taking care of a newborn. Baby & Me app users can keep track of doctor appointments and feeding and immunization schedules.

The app and the Support Center are part of St. Luke's philosophy of care that implements evidenced-based practices such as skin to skin contact, rooming in and strong encouragement of breastfeeding while listening to and respecting each patient's choice and personalizing care accordingly.

Said Jared King, St. Luke's Women's and Children's Service Line Administrator, "The Baby & Me app is specifically designed for today's on-the-go moms."

The St. Luke's Baby & Me app is available for download in the App Store for iPhone users and on Google Play for Android users.

Ben Franklin Tech receives $100,000 from BB&T Fund

The Ben Franklin Technology Partners of Northeastern Pennsylvania (BFTP/NEP) has received a $100,000 grant from the BB&T Economic Growth Fund, a donor-advised charitable fund of the Lehigh Valley Community Foundation.

The funding supports the fit-out costs of a new Lehigh University "Hatchery" business incubator within the new Ben Franklin TechVentures® (BFTV) West Wing on Lehigh's Mountaintop Campus.

Said Chad Paul, President and CEO of the Ben Franklin Technology Partners of Northeastern Pennsylvania: "We appreciate the support of BB&T and the Lehigh Valley Community Foundation in helping us extend our reach into the university so that Ben Franklin TechVentures can be leveraged to further support Lehigh's student entrepreneurs."

The 20,000-square-foot West Wing expansion, which is under construction, will allocate approximately 4,000-square-feet to the Lehigh Hatchery for a student, faculty, and alumni collaboration area in partnership with Lehigh's Baker Institute for Entrepreneurship, Creativity, and Innovation.

Ben Franklin TechVentures West Wing will be a four-floor addition that will include business incubation, office, and meeting space for early-stage technology-based companies.

Forty-one early-stage firms, employing more than 170 people, are in BFTV in more than 109,000-square-feet. Since 1983, the incubator has graduated 68 successful companies that together have created more than 6,400 jobs and grossed more than $1.2 billion in recurring annual revenue.

The building expansion is an extension of the success that BFTP/NEP has enjoyed with TechVentures serving as a "job creation factory" that leverages investments to create and retain highly paid, sustainable jobs in northeastern Pennsylvania.

Sacred Heart Lab gets accreditation

The College of American Pathologists (CAP) has awarded accreditation to Sacred Heart Hospital Laboratory based on results of an on-site inspection as part of the CAP's Accreditation Programs.

The facility's director, Diane Guerrero, MT, was advised of this national recognition and congratulated for the excellence of the services being provided. Sacred Heart Hospital Laboratory is one of more than 7,700 CAP-accredited facilities worldwide.

"The laboratory's success is due to the accomplished staff at Sacred Heart. I am very proud of my team and I am thrilled to once again receive the CAP accreditation," said Laboratory Medical Director James Chidias, MD.

John Nespoli, Sacred Heart President & CEO said, "The Sacred Heart Laboratory team does an excellent job of meeting the high standards and quality control procedures set by CAP as well as providing a very important service to our patients. We are very fortunate to have such a safe, reliable and qualified staff in our Lab."

The United States federal government recognizes the CAP Laboratory Accreditation Program, begun in the early 1960s, as being equal-to or more stringent than the government's own inspection program.

During the CAP accreditation process, designed to ensure the highest standard of care for all laboratory patients, inspectors examine the laboratory's records and quality control of procedures for the preceding two years.

CAP inspectors also examine laboratory staff qualifications, equipment, facilities, safety program and record, and overall management.

Oscar 'Beguiled'?

It's midway through the 2017 movie year and, though it's early in the Oscar race, "The Beguiled" is a contender.

Look for multiple Oscar nominations, including for Nicole Kidman, actress, as Miss Martha, headstrong headmistress at a young women's academy circa 1864 Virginia during the Civil War. A wounded Union soldier, Corporal McBurney (Colin Farrell, likely supporting actor nominee), is given refuge at the school.

Also look for a co-writing screenplay Oscar nomination for Sofia Coppola, Albert Maltz (who was on the "Hollywood 10" House Un-American Activities blacklist; screenplays, "The Beguiled," 1971; "Two Mules For Sister Sara," 1970; "The Robe," 1953; "Broken Arrow," 1950; "The Naked City," 1948; "The House I Live In" (an Oscar-winning short), 1945; "Mildred Pierce," 1945; "Pride Of The Marines," 1945; "Destination Tokyo," 1943) and Irene Kamp ("The Sandpiper," 1965) based on the 1966 novel (originally published as "A Painted Devil") by Thomas Cullinan (1919-1995).

And look for a director nomination for Coppola, who received the director award at the 2017 Cannes film festival, only the second female director to do so. "The Beguiled" was nominated for the Palme d'Or at Cannes.

There's strong supporting work and more possible Oscar nominations for Kirsten Dunst as Edwinna, a teacher at the school, and Elle Fanning, as Alicia, a student at the school.

The other actors playing students are memorable: Oona Laurence (Amy), Addison Riecke (Marie), Emma Howard (Emily) and Angourie Rice (Jane). One gets the sense of the film classic, "Little Women" (1933), because of "The Beguiled" ensemble performances.

There could be technical awards, too, especially for cinematography (Director of Photography Philippe Le Sourd) of the mist-shrouded mansion and surroundings so oppressive you can almost feel the humidity.

The 1971 version of "The Beguiled," starring Clint Eastwood as the wounded Union soldier, and directed by Don Siegel, also received critical acclaim.

To reveal too much about the plot in Coppola's "The Beguiled" would spoil the film for you.

Kidman is extraordinary. Emotions cross her face like a sudden summer thunderstorm. Her eyes flash lightning. The next second, her lips form into a steely smile.

Dunst is delicately tentative as a young woman not in control of her emotions.

Farrell plays a range of emotions, from charm to rage, his big eyes seeing all and asking nothing.

Coppola keeps everything carefully and evenly paced. Teaching of French, cursive writing, embroidery, food preparation and serving, and prayer create an authentic sense of time and place. Costume design by Stacey Battat adds to the sense of propriety.

In the production design by Anne Ross, everything is kept in close, in sepia tones and soft focus, heightening each character's sensual ambiguity. The film turns on a crime from lovely romantic drama to Southern Gothic hor-

LVH-Muhlenberg opens Family Birth, Rehab Center

Lehigh Valley Health Network (LVHN) leaders and invited guests cut the ribbon for the opening of the Family Birth and Newborn Center, at Lehigh Valley Hospital (LVH)-Muhlenberg, Bethlehem.

The four-story, 161,000-square-foot Pavilion features the Family Birth and Newborn Center on the second and third floors and the Inpatient Rehabilitation Center on the first floor. The fourth floor will be shell space for future growth.

The opening marks the first time babies will be born at LVH-Muhlenberg in the Bethlehem hospital's 55-year history.

The facility, completed ahead of schedule and under the budget of $93.6 million, is the first new building constructed on the LVH-Muhlenberg campus since a 188-all private-room patient tower opened in 2005. LVHN officials anticipate about 2,000 babies will be delivered each year at the new Pavilion, which is creating about 145 new patient care jobs.

"Our hope is this new facility will offer promise and joy for families who choose to deliver at our Family Birth and Newborn Center," said Mary Bianchi, Vice President, LVHN's Women's and Children's Service Line. "Our promise is that we will do all we can to create a personal birth experience so special that families can't imagine delivering anywhere else."

Bianchi said the Center offers what new and expectant moms have said they want and expect from a modern birthing experience. The facility includes a mother-baby unit with 20 private suites where mothers and babies can room-in together and families can stay; 10 labor, delivery and recovery rooms with spa-like bathrooms with options for hydrotherapy during labor; and a Level II neonatal intensive care unit (NICU) with 10 private rooms for babies born at 32 weeks or later.

Bethlehem Mayor Robert Donchez, center, joins Lehigh Valley Health Network officials and cuts the ribbon June 19 for the Family Health Pavilion at Lehigh Valley Hospital-Muhlenberg. The facility opened June 21.

Operating Officer, said patients in the 28-bed Inpatient Rehabilitation Center will receive a minimum of three hours of intensive, specialized rehab therapy at least five days a week for approximately two weeks, including physical, occupational, and/or speech therapy.

"We know that patients in our community will benefit from these quality services," Capuano said. "Having inpatient rehabilitation right here means adults won't have to leave the LVH-Muhlenberg campus to get the short-term rehab they need to thrive."

Capuano said patients using the Center will be recovering from stroke, neurological disorders, orthopedic injuries, amputations and post-surgical conditions.

The Pavilion offers an outdoor courtyard for peaceful respite and therapy patients as part of their treatment; a café; a supervised play space for children; the Grace Shop, a gift shop run by the LVH-Muhlenberg Auxiliary, and a parenting education room where families can learn about child care, breastfeeding, car seat safety, grand-parenting and more.

Concordia Lutheran builds a 'Mighty Fortress'

PRESS PHOTOS BY MARY PATRICIA FLETCHER

Concordia Lutheran Church on Brookside Road held their annual Vacation Bible School recently where children in pre-kindergarten through sixth grade joined in the castle adventure "Mighty Fortress." ABOVE: The students and staff visit the castle during the daily opening.

The students in the fourth through sixth grade class spent the week designing and creating their bottle figures based on biblical and castle themed characters. Showing their figures are, front row, left to right: Libby Zech, Emma Osher and Marleigh Llewlyyn; back row, left to right: Daniel Riggins, Eric Riggins, Ben Fletcher, Kara Zech, Sam Reese and Seoryung Park.

BY BATHSHEBA MONK

Special to The Press

Morgan's Restaurant on the corner of Cedar Crest and Willow Road in South Whitehall Township, is a familiar landmark to Lehigh Valley restaurant patrons. Set in an old brick country inn dating back to the 1700s, its warm interior is as inviting as the charming exterior. Morgan's is open for breakfast, lunch and dinner six days a week, offering traditional American fare as well as the exuberant foray into the exotic for more sophisticated palates. Breakfast gets universal accolades. Said one on-line reviewer: "I have always had a good experience at Morgan's! It's a hidden gem in the Allentown area, so worth a stop in Breakfast-brunch ... is always a pleasant experience with a serious spread of deliciousness!" On-line reviewers were surprised by specific dishes: "Love, love, loved the bacon, caramelized onion and smoked cheddar fritata and potatoes for breakfast," said one. "Their breakfast is by far, the best in the Valley! I had the country omelet served with potatoes. It was pure heaven and cooked to perfection. They even make healthy (multigrain) toast taste like a treat," said another.

A visitor from out of the area says, "Holy Cow!! I wish I had taken a photo of my breakfast from Saturday morning. They have quite the menu of breakfast items ... everything from egg plates, waffles, pancakes, crepes, French toast, to a crab hash. Holy Moly!! So after hearing the specials of the morning were a three-meat omelet or a raspberry white chocolate stuffed French toast, I felt I could indulge! Boy am I glad I did! It was absolutely incredible. The French toast was stuffed with a white chocolate cream cheese and drizzled with raspberry sauce. I was worried it would be overly sweet but it paired perfectly with my flowing cup of coffee and home fries. I definitely want to come back for dinner." Obviously, there's no need for lunch if you eat breakfast here, the portions are that big. Spaciousness and a cozy atmosphere make Morgan's a natural for hosting events. Said one visitor, "Had my daughter's wedding and baby shower at Morgan's. Can't say enough about the wonderful crew and especially Patty for assisting me with making arrangements for the showers. The food was fantastic. Our guests enjoyed the salmon-coconut rice, Dijon mustard chicken and the penne pasta. Highly recommend this!"

The restaurant layout of widely-spaced tables ensures privacy and the old-fashioned perk of being able to hear your dinner mates. One guest said, "We had a pre-Christmas family dinner here that included four adults and three children. The restaurant is very nicely decorated and the furnishings look new. The lighting was subdued and the tables are far enough away from each other to promote privacy and a quiet atmosphere." Besides the wonderful food and great atmosphere, guests love the service. "One of the finest restaurants in the Lehigh Valley," said one guest. "Great food, awesome martinis, and the staff is genuinely focused on the satisfaction of each guest. I've had countless enjoyable dinners here and the staff is always friendly and attentive. Beautiful fieldstone walls and a fireplace add romance. One of a kind." In addition to the regular menu, Morgan's offers rotating specials such as: Strawberry Shortcake Stuffed French Toast for breakfast; appetizer Tomato Basil Bruschetta; Watermelon Salad; an intriguing mix of cucumbers, cherry tomatoes, fresh Mozzarella, mint & basil pesto with balsamic dressing; Cheese Tortellini for lunch; and Crab Lobster Ravioli for dinner. And bartender Bill is always ready to make you a specialty martini.

The sneakiest addiction of all

When we were kids, there was a chant we sang as we ran away in a game of tag.

"You can't get me, you can't get me," we taunted.

Change that to "you won't get me," and you'll have my reaction to every kind of addiction.

Except for the fact that I'm a foodie who loves good food, addiction has never grabbed me. Or, so I thought.

A little incident with my computer and cell-phone told a different story.

Out of the blue, I started getting computer messages warning I had visited an infected site where my computer was hit with a virus.

Since my computer was still working, except for those annoying messages, I thought it was just part of that phony scam con artists are using to hijack money out of us.

So I tried to ignore it.

It didn't take long for my computer to try to prove to me it really was infected. Every Internet site kept disappearing.

Then a message appeared telling me I had to buy a virus protection program to make the glitch go away. I could click all I wanted. The message would not go away.

I had to give up and take the computer to a fix-it shop. He was pretty busy but said I could leave my computer there and he would get to it as soon as he could.

Then my cellphone went into collusion with the troubled computer. My smartphone stopped working. It joined my computer waiting at the technology fix-it shop.

Since my columns were in for the week, I thought I could do without the computer and cellphone for a while. But it felt like a vital part of me was missing.

I kept going to my empty desk to check my email, forgetting my computer and cellphone were in the shop.

It felt like being left on a deserted island with no one around.

When I tried to drive somewhere, I felt unsafe not having my cellphone with me. What if something happened and I needed help?

I had a lot of "what ifs" running through my mind as I tried to come to grips with being without technology.

I finally had to admit I'm addicted to the Internet and to my cellphone. Like millions of others, I don't know how we ever did without them.

If you think you're not addicted to the Internet and your cellphone, try doing without them for a week.

Coincidentally, just as I was pondering how addicted we have become to those gadgets, I listened to a radio show about that very topic.

"Of course we're addicted," said the Google expert on the show. "We're addicted to getting any information we want within seconds."

"While that isn't bad in and of itself, it does have the debilitating effect of turning us into a society that demands instant everything," he said.

We no longer can tolerate reading through reams of material to find what we want. We want the information at our fingertips within seconds. I do find since the invention of Google-type information sites, I constantly rely on them.

If I'm writing a story about something that needs clarification in my mind, I check it out on the Internet.

If my doctor prescribes a new medication or sends me for a test, I use Google to find pertinent details.

My husband and I have the nice habit of always eating dinner together. It's a time when we share information and just enjoy talking with each other.

But at least several times a week he jumps up from the table in the middle of our conversation to Google for more information.

When we are out to dinner with friends, they sometimes whip out their cellphones for information about something we were discussing.

Experts are right when they say carrying on conversation has become a lost art.

Plus, many of us have become seriously addicted to our smartphones without knowing it.

According to statistics I just read (after Googling the topic, of course,) the average person checks his cellphone 110 times a day. Many check it much more than that, even if they have no real reason.

Two statistics that surprised me have to do with the surging addiction to texting.

According to those statistics, adolescents and teens often don't get enough sleep because the most active time for teen texting is between 10 p.m. and 2 a.m. — and many are texting all that time.

I know some parents who have to collect their kids' cellphones when it's time for bed because of that.

Here's one statistic I can't fathom. The average teen spends 11 or more hours a day texting or on social media sites.

If you don't believe we're addicted to our cellphones, look around you.

On the street, in pretty parks and in restaurants, people are paying attention only to their cellphones.

In my neighborhood last week, several residents were standing in a driveway admiring a pair of sandhill cranes.

Suddenly, a car veered onto the grass, killing one of the beautiful birds and barely missing the neighbors.

The driver said she didn't see them because she was "checking her email."

I'd call that an addiction — an addiction that's bigger and sneakier than we think.

Food allergies symptoms explained

Q. What are the most common food allergies?

Foods that produce most allergic reactions in adults include fish, shrimp, lobster, crab, peanuts, eggs and tree nuts such as walnuts and pecans. Common children's allergic reactions are caused by eggs, milk, wheat and peanuts.

A true food allergy is an abnormal response by your immune system to certain foods. All reactions to foods are not allergies. When you have a reaction that doesn't involve the immune system, this reaction is called food intolerance.

For example, if you don't have enough of the enzyme lactase, it is difficult for you to digest lactose, the main sugar in milk products. Lactose intolerance can cause bloating, cramping, diarrhea and excess gas.

HEALTHY GEEZER

By Fred Cicetti
fred@healthygeez.com

If you have a food intolerance, you may be able to eat a little bit of problem foods safely. However, if you have a true food allergy, even a tiny amount of food may set off an allergic reaction.

Food allergy symptoms can strike within minutes of digestion. Some allergy reactions are troublesome but not threatening. However some allergies can be lethal.

Common symptoms for food allergies are: a tingling in the oral cavity, itching, hives, eczema, facial and oral swelling, difficulty breathing, wheezing, nasal congestion, abdominal pain, diarrhea, nausea, vomiting, dizziness, and fainting.

If you have a severe reaction known as anaphylaxis, the dangerous symptoms are: narrowing of your breathing airways, shock, dramatic drop in blood pressure, rapid pulse and becoming unconscious. If you have any of these symptoms, get immediate medical attention.

If you have anaphylaxis, you may need an adrenaline injection. If you have a severe allergy, your doctor may prescribe an injectable that you can carry around.

Exercise can trigger an allergic reaction to a food. In severe cases, it can cause anaphylaxis. This allergy can be prevented by avoiding food for two hours before exercise.

There is an oral allergy syndrome caused by some fresh fruits and vegetables. The reaction is usually mild and makes the mouth itch or tingle.

If allergies such as hay fever are common in your family background, you are more likely to have food allergies. A child who has one parent with an allergy has about a 50 percent chance of developing an allergy. If both parents suffer from allergies, the child has about a 70 percent chance of developing an allergy.

The only surefire way to avoid food allergies is to stay away from foods that bother you. For mild allergies, you can take antihistamines to control your reaction and help relieve discomfort.

If you have a food allergy, here is some advice:

Study all food labels. Watch everything you eat and drink carefully to ensure that the foods that trouble you are not hidden somewhere in your meals. This is especially important in restaurants.

If you have a severe allergy, you should wear a medical alert bracelet or necklace with information about your condition to help emergency medical technicians if you can't speak. Also, talk to your doctor about carry injectable adrenaline.

If you have asthma, be on guard against sulfites. In restaurants, ask if sulfites have been added to foods. In the supermarket, check labels for the terms sodium bisulfite, potassium bisulfite, sodium sulfite, sulfur dioxide and potassium metabisulfite.
