Cpl. Helen M. Kadar
At Paris Airport
Aiding Army Travel

AUG 2 1945
Cpl. Helen M. Kadar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Kadar, 1618 East Second Street, is at the Priorities and Traffic Office of Air Transport Command's Paris airport, one of the busiest places in Europe today. Through her office go all sorts of personnel from battle-scarred privates to four-star generals enroute to America or to other locations serviced by ATC's European Division.

Cpl. Kadar's work includes entering reservations, checking travel orders, establishing passenger's priority checking space, baggage weights, schedules and numerous small details.
