Creative reopening plans for BASD

BY THERESA O'BRIEN
Special to the Bethlehem Press

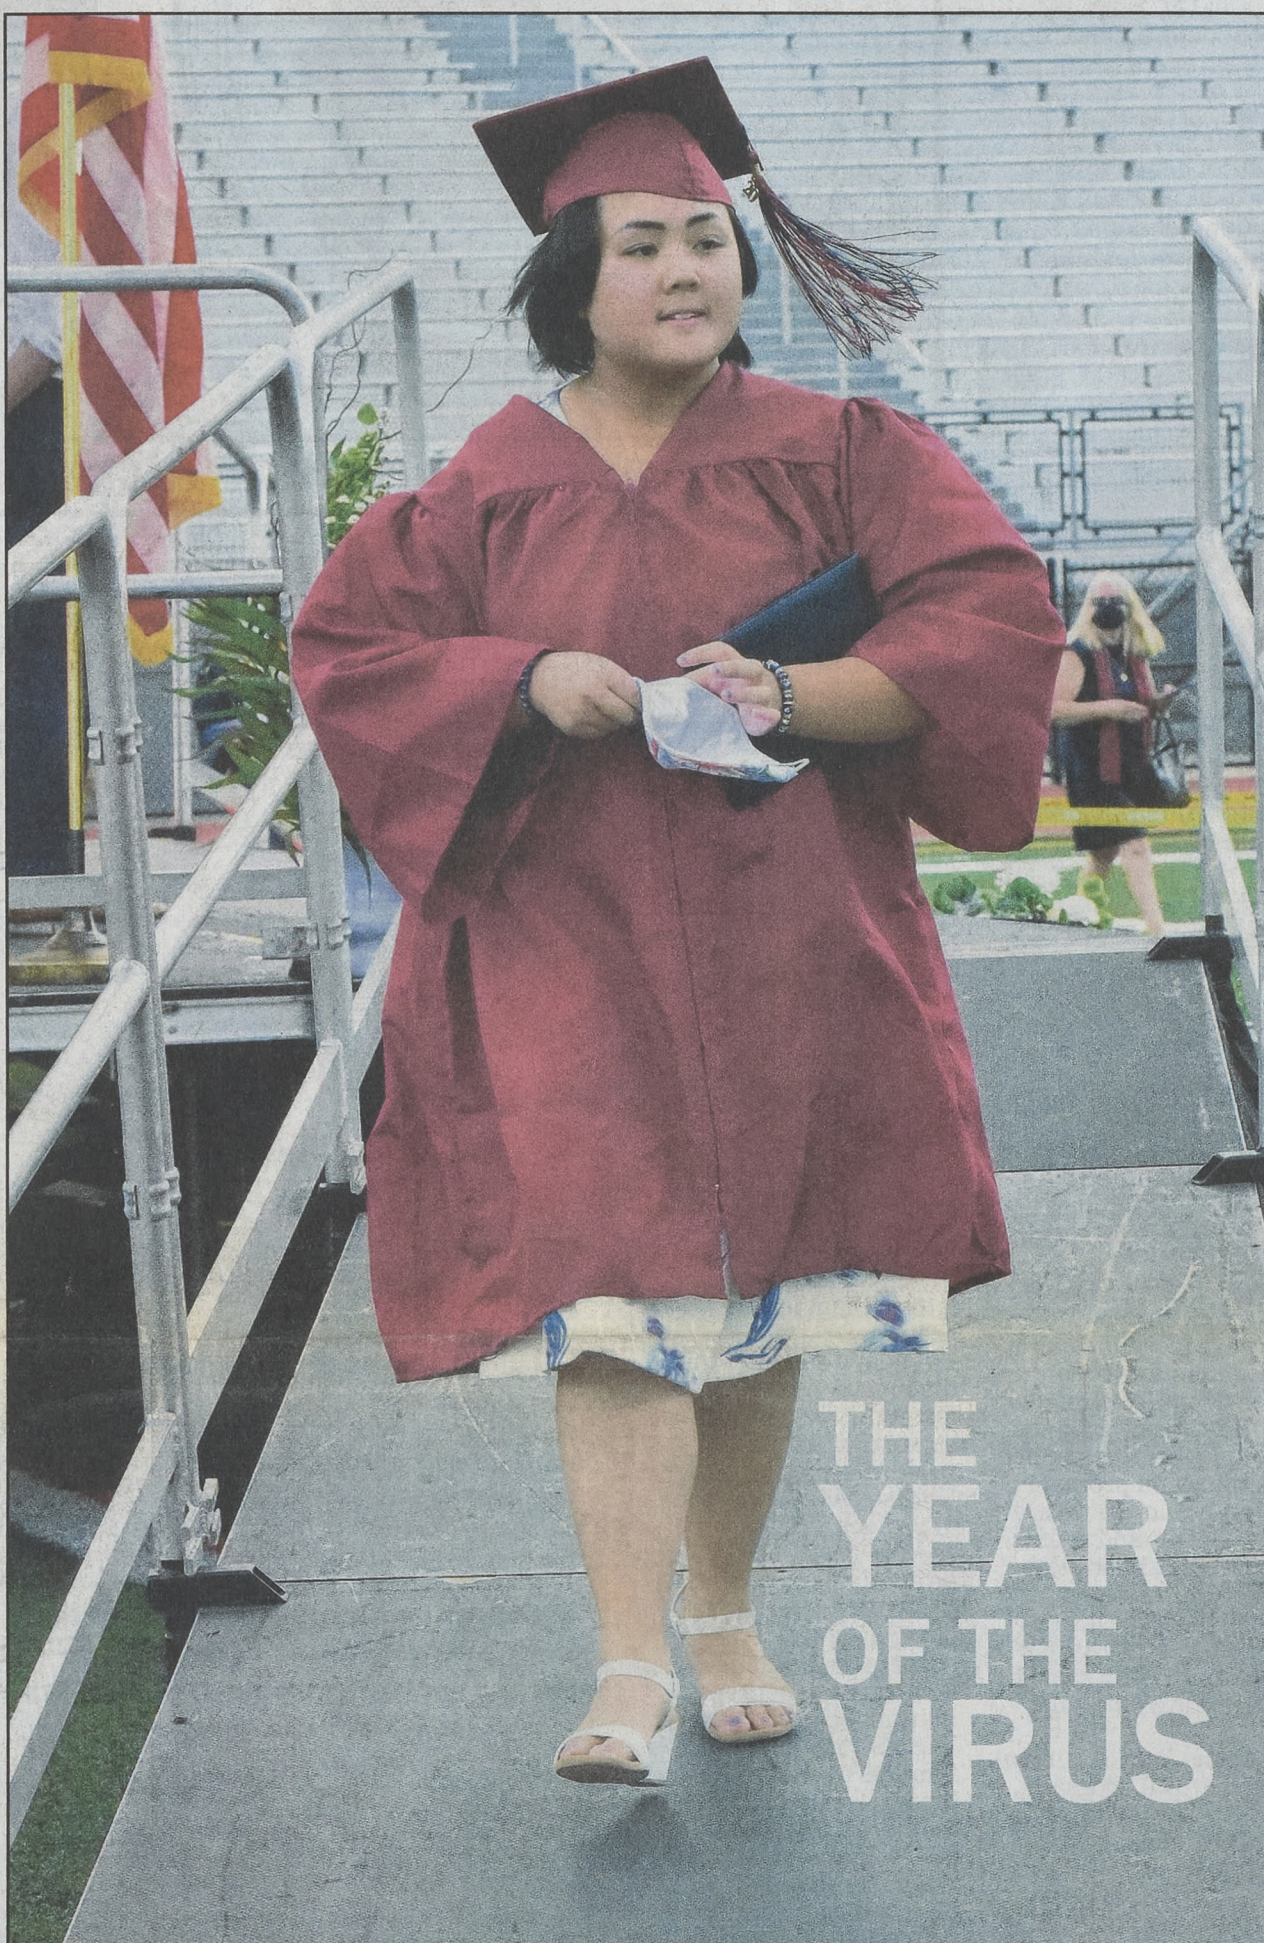

After weeks of internecine wrangling between Pa. Dept. of Health Secretary Rachel Levine and Dept. of Ed. Secretary Pedro Rivera – which ended with Rivera's Aug. 4 resignation, to take effect Oct. 1 – schools statewide were finally told to keep kids six feet apart from each other when seated and mask students and staff when six-foot distancing is not observed.

Catholic schools in the Diocese of Allentown have released school reopening plans on individual schools' websites that observe these regulations. BASD, which created its policy during the period when Secretary Levine's universal mask policy had not been adjusted, will require its students to wear masks from the bus stop at the beginning of the day to the moment they disembark at the end of the day, with limited breaks.

"Our intent was not to have masks in elementary—that was the state mandate that switched that," school board president Mike Faccinetti tells the Press. "It was going to be middle and high, entering and transition—hallways [and similar situations]. Secretary [Levine] kind of threw a wrinkle in that when they came out with the mandate for schools."

School board member Emily Schenkel adds that she is a member of the parent-teacher organization (PTO) at Thomas Jefferson ES, and fellow parents have been discussing using money they would have devoted to field trips—which will not See PLANS on Page A2

COVID-19 doesn't stop 2nd South Side Stride

BY THERESA O'BRIEN
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Donegan ES, Fountain Hill ES, and Broughal MS administrators, teachers, and community partners welcomed incoming students Aug. 7 with the second annual South Side Stride. BASD high schools Freedom and Liberty have traditionally visited incoming freshmen, and last year, Southside elementary schools adopted the idea. This year, Broughal Principal Rick Amato and district teachers visited incoming sixth-graders as well.

Although the visits to new kindergarteners and sixth-graders took place outside the students' homes, and there was no literacy or fitness event due to coronavirus fears, event organizers worked to keep the South Side spirit strong.

PBS39 donated "smart sack" lightweight backpacks to all three schools; the local public TV broadcaster, along with Lehigh Valley Reads and the Junior League of the Lehigh Valley, also donated larger backpacks filled with supplies, including water bottles.

After the visits, Fountain Hill families were invited to stop by a drive-through to pick up back-to-school necessities donated by Lehigh Valley Reads and the Communities in Schools program. After the drive-through, staff were treated to an outdoor pizza lunch.

Donegan families will be able to pick up back-to-school supplies, donated by semiconductor manufacturer IQE and gaming resort Wind Creek, at a future event.

Celtic Classic canceled

The 2020 Celtic Classic Highland Games and Festival that had been scheduled for September will not occur, due to the coronavirus pandemic, said Executive Director of Celtic Cultural Alliance Jayne Ann Recker.

"Although we have been cautiously preparing for the 2020 Celtic Classic, keeping our volunteers, the thousands of patrons who are local and out of state, our performers, and our community safe and healthy was the first priority in our decision-making during these unprecedented times," explains Recker, "Meanwhile, we strongly feel it is important to keep our Celtic connections and promote the Celtic culture throughout the year, so we are continuing to plan cultural programs and events on a smaller scale that follow the local and state guidelines and health and safety regulations."

The Celtic Classic, known as the largest free Celtic festival in North America, hosts the U.S. National Highland Games Championship, world class performers, grade 3 and grade 4 pipe band competitions and more.

In addition to Celtic Classic, the Celtic Cultural Alliance supports year-round cultural programming and outreach events to support the mission of promoting and preserving the Celtic culture through arts, music, literature, dance, and history programs. In keeping with the spirit of the next generation, the CCA annually offers scholarships to promising young students of the Celtic Arts. The winners of the 2020 scholarships will be presented in September.

"Our staff, volunteers, performers and athletes are working diligently for our Celtic Comeback 2021 Sept. 24, 25 and 26, and we encourage our patrons to follow us on social media and our website, www.celticfest.org, to keep themselves updated on our events throughout the year," adds Recker.

take place this year—for mask purchases instead.

"It's definitely going to be a community effort," she says.

The Press also spoke exclusively with Dr. Joseph Ladapo, associate professor-in-residence at the David Geffen School of Medicine at UCLA.

"There's no free lunch," he cautions, "Particularly with younger children, you wonder how much time teachers are going to have to spend enforcing face covers and social distancing, versus letting them learn and grow."

Ladapo suggests that districts consider the feasibility of alternative strategies, including rapid testing at schools. He also believes personal protective equipment such as N95s should be available to at-risk individuals, rather than depending on cloth face covering compliance among the general population for protection.

BASD is allowing families to choose hybrid (two days in school and three days online) education, BASD Cyber Academy (BASDCA), or eClassroom (online education delivered by BASD teachers). The district plans to allow students to access the three days per week of virtual education in district-run childcare centers. This option "has to be somewhat limited," Schenkel notes, "because of capacity limitations [on childcare centers] by the state." This choice will appeal to families who can't rely on a relative for childcare. "You don't want your sixth-grader supervising your third-grader," Faccinnetto says. Asked whether he could foresee a point — any new restriction — at which any board member would advise against following school-related guidance from the Pa. Secretary of Health, believing that the secretary is putting too great a burden on children, Faccinnetto responded with typical candor. "There have been several occasions, where they [state administrators in Harrisburg] have done something really dumb, especially under [former governor] Corbett, where I just said, 'We should say No,' but [it's not that simple]. Dr. Roy and Dr. Silva are commissioned officers, and they could lose their commission from PDE [the Pa. Dept. of Ed.]. They [state officials] could also penalize us financially. I would love to say, 'No, we don't want our K-2 kids to wear masks; it's going to do more harm than good,' but they could probably do something negative to us."

EDU-CHILD CARE PROGRAM: To protect students and staff during the COVID-19 pandemic, several local school districts have decided to pursue fully virtual or hybrid scheduling. For many working parents and families, these decisions create a problem: how to support and supervise children's learning while also maintaining essential job income. This dilemma is shared by families throughout the Lehigh Valley, creating the need for a new virtual schooling childcare option. Accordingly, the Greater Valley YMCA (GVY) and Lehigh Valley Children's Centers (LVCC) are partnering to provide a Valley-wide Edu-Childcare Program framework this fall.

The Edu-Childcare Program will provide an affordable, safe and accessible option for working families. Edu-Childcare will be offered at several locations throughout the Valley, at GVY branches, LVCC Centers, other provider sites, as well as in local schools. In this program, children in Kindergarten through age 13 will complete their remote lessons in a safe, well-equipped classroom with supervision and support. In addition, Edu-Childcare will provide

Travel recommendations updated

BY NATE JASTRZEMSKI
njastrzemi@tnonline.com

The numbers are still high, but are beginning to fall again. At least for now.

Governor Tom Wolf said in a press conference Friday, "The decreased case counts across the state, and in many counties this week, indicate that the tough decisions we have had to make are protecting Pennsylvanians. Our percent positivity decreased for the second week in a row, which continues to reflect the willingness of Pennsylvanians to take steps to protect themselves and their neighbors. We must continue to wear masks, practice social distancing and avoid large gatherings to keep our numbers low, which will stop the spread and allow more freedom."

As of Aug. 6, the state had seen a seven-day case increase of 5,016. The previous seven-day increase was 6,228, showing that new cases decreased in the last seven days by 1,252 cases throughout the state.

Lehigh and Northampton counties are not among those with ongoing numbers high enough to be of serious concern.

The Department of Health has also updated its travel recommendations, indicating a lengthy list of states recommended for domestic travelers returning from to quarantine for 14 days upon return to Pennsylvania. These are: Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah and Wisconsin.

As of Monday, the state has 116,098 confirmed COVID-19 cases and 7,317 deaths. Lehigh County has 4,975 and 337 deaths; Northampton County has 3,812 confirmed and 292 deaths.

ROSEMONT LUTHERAN Church again welcomes parishioners

BY TAMI QUIGLEY
Special to the Bethlehem Press

We are all familiar with the well-known adage, "Absence makes the heart grow fonder." Many times it is said in reference to a romantic relationship, but in this case it applies to pastor and parishioners being able to worship the Lord together again at Rosemont Lutheran Church, Bethlehem after four long months.

The last time the congregation of Rosemont - a cornerstone of faith in West Bethlehem since 1920 - gathered for worship before suspending services due to the novel coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic was March 8.

It would be four months until the Rev. Jack Steltzer, pastor, and members could join together as a faith community to worship July 12 in the current church building constructed in 1954, albeit with COVID-19 safety precautions in place.

The warm summer sun shone brightly as the congregation assembled again July 19 for a Sunday morning service with precautions still in place and joy in members' hearts to be able to worship together.

"Jesus shows us there is hope for all in what God has done and in what God is doing," Steltzer told the congregation in his reflection during the service. "May that hope be seen in our response to the world as we discover and share God's love, which continues to bring light into the darkness of our mixed up, imperfect world."

The church has to adhere to a 25 percent seating capacity. "We'll adjust as the situation warrants and continue to follow the governor's mandates," said Steltzer.

The COVID-19 precautions are first seen as you enter the church and parishioner Larry Kirk greets you with a smile and a temperature check. As the Sunday service begins at 9:30 a.m., the doors to the church are locked at 9:35 a.m. This is necessary to enforce mask wearing and to maintain safe distancing.

Instead of everyone processing to the altar to receive communion, Steltzer consecrates the bread and wine at the altar and members receive a fellowship cup - juice and wafer for communion - in a plastic worship bag and partake of the communion elements in their pew. The bag also includes a worship bulletin, prayer request card, extra of fering envelope, communion card, pencil and napkins. Parishioners dispose of the bags in a trash receptacle on the way out of church.

A number of pews are roped off for social distancing, and members must sit six feet apart unless they are sitting with family. Everyone is required to wear a mask throughout the service and unfortunately there is no singing of hymns or responsive prayer, as they are a hazard in regard to spreading the virus. Therefore Bibles and hymnals have been removed from the pews in use. The service is an adapted version of the Morning Prayer Service.

The passing of the peace has been suspended, and the church is routinely and vigorously sanitized. Parishioners must enter through the side ramp door, and individuals are provided with hand sanitizer as they enter and exit the building.

Following the closing hymn and Benediction, the greeter dismisses parishioners row by row to exit through the side doorway at the rear of the church. Water fountains in the hallways are not available for use, and small water bottles are available.

The COVID-19 precautions apply to Sunday morning worship and all services, including weddings and funerals.

Unique and timely musical selections are played at the service during these times of COVID-19. The July 19 service featured "Be A Light," performed by Keith Urban, Chris Tomlin, Hillary Scott and Reba McEntire. The Sunday service on July 26 featured Dolly Parton's "When Life Is Good Again," which reflects the pandemic and how blessed everyone will be when it is over - when life is good again.

Parishioners happily embraced being able to gather together again in God's house and for the ensuing coffee hour in Laros Hall, including Kenny and Linda Schaefer, members since 2017.

"We're very happy to finally be back open. We love our community at Rosemont very much," said Linda, adding members usually look out for each other but haven't been able to do that.

Kenny said they appreciate the feeling of normalcy attending the Sunday service and coffee hour provides. "It's been six months since we've seen some people. We're eager to be back but we have to be careful."

Originally from New York, the retired couple recently made their first visit to a restaurant just the other week. Kenny said since they are retired, the pandemic has been a bit easier on them in that they don't have to worry about going into work or their income being affected, "but it's still difficult."

Linda's immune system is compromised so they have to be especially careful. "It is really good to come back here and see everyone and talk with Pastor Jack and other members," Linda said, noting being there was "a small, little piece of normalcy" that helps ease the anxiety they are feeling during the pandemic.

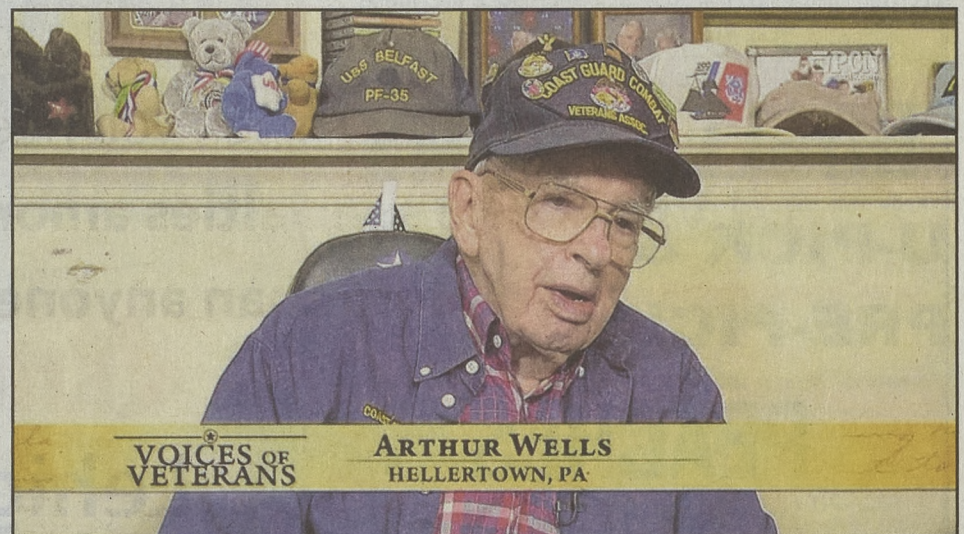

The couple was visiting their daughter in Florida when the pandemic restrictions hit full force, and they flew home in late March. They live with their other daughter and her two children, ages six and nine. The COVID restrictions clash with children's natural energy, and they've been trying to keep them occupied playing games, including Parcheesi, and running through the sprinkler during this heat wave. Kenny noted they've been trying to purchase a swimming pool but merchants have been sold out.

Linda said she hasn't really been out much at all during the pandemic due to her compromised immune system; her husband and daughter have been taking care of necessities such as grocery shopping.

The couple is used to being active at Rosemont, such as helping with the parish's yard

PENNSYLVANIA

TESTING SITES: Efforts to expand testing across Pennsylvania are being made to ensure that every Pennsylvanian who wants a test can get one.

Pennsylvania has conducted the ninth highest total number of tests for COVID-19 in the country, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. Since the beginning of the pandemic, more than 1.6 million tests have been completed, which equates to 13 percent of the Pennsylvania population.

At the height of the first wave in April, statewide testing capacity was limited to under 8,000 tests per day. Pennsylvania is now averaging more than 22,000 test results per day, as of Aug. 1, and is testing about 4 percent of the population each month.

The most updated testing sites and information is available at the Department of Health. Testing sites continue to be added.

For the updated commonwealth map of testing sites, visit Pennsylvania COVID-19 Viral Testing Sites.

RECREATIONAL SPORTS: The Pennsylvania Department of Health and Department of Education have jointly recommended that Pre-K-12 school and recreational youth sports be postponed until at least Jan. 1, 2021, to protect children and teens from COVID-19.

The administration is providing this strong recommendation and not an order or mandate. As with deciding whether students should return to in-person classes, remote learning or a blend of the two this fall, school administrators and locally elected school boards should make decisions on sports.

Highlights of the recommendation to pause youth sports until Jan. 1, 2021:

- Applies to team and individual, school and non-school recreational youth sports;
- Includes competitions, intramural play and scrimmages;
- Continue conditioning, drills and other training activities on an individual basis;
- Does not apply to collegiate and professional sports;
- Gathering limits remain unchanged - no more than 25 persons may gather indoors and 250 outdoors.

The administration is updating existing sports guidance to reflect this recommendation.

The administration recognizes the importance of getting children back to school, while also protecting the safety and well-being of students and educators. Guidance for schools is available. The guidance represents endorsed best public health practices related to social distancing, face coverings, hand hygiene, and cleaning and disinfecting in school settings. It also outlines how to accommodate individuals with disabilities or chronic conditions, procedures for monitoring symptoms, and responding to confirmed cases.

Ordinance interpretation challenged

BETHLEHEM ZONING

BY LANI GOINS
Special to the Bethlehem Press

The July 22 meeting of the Bethlehem City Zoning board was a hybrid meeting. The board, most appellants and their attorneys, as well as some neighbors who were testifying, met in the Rotunda. One appellant and many more neighbors joined the meeting online. This brought some technical and procedural issues, including the order in which neighbor would be able to speak.

The first case was 60 West Broad St. Attorney Jim Preston represented Posh Properties, which was seeking to put an office space in the ground floor front of the building. Joseph Posh appeared for the company. Preston withdrew a request for a variance, in favor of challenging the interpretation of the portion of the zoning ordinance that was applied when the owner's application was denied. His position was the language in the ordinance was ambiguous, and in the case of ambiguous language, relief should be granted to the landowner. Specifically, more than one section of the ordinance refers to a note. The note states that a ground floor front unit of a multi unit residence must be either personal service or restaurant use.

Bruce Haines, who manages Hotel Bethlehem, spoke in favor of following the note in the ordinance for all buildings in the CB district. He spoke of "deserts" created by first floor non retail/restaurant uses on Main Street and on Broad Street. Haines said, "We want to maintain integrity as a tourist destination, and increase (that) integrity."

Darlene Heller, Director of Planning and Zoning for the city, concurred with Haines' opinion, and stated she was part of the team that wrote the ordinance, and that this part of it had never been challenged before. She also mentioned that the potential tenant was Lanta, and she had discussed the potential of their office being located in the rear of the building.

Lanta's planned office will be for processing applicants for their paratransit buses. Applicants need to come to the office to apply, then if approved, they must go through training on how to board, ride, and sale, which has been on hold since April, and attending weeknight dinner gatherings. They miss that involvement, but recently helped with some weeding on the church property.

Larry Kirk has been a Rosemont parishioner for 10 years; his wife Sandy, who serves as the church council secretary, has been a member for two decades.

"I'm so happy to be back and see people," said Larry, who helps out with the church website and does the taping and editing for services that have been posted and will be posted in the future on the church's website <https://rosemontlutheranchurch.org/> for people who are not yet able to attend services in person.

Church bulletins are mailed to parishioners in advance of Sunday so they may follow along with the service while watching online.

"I really missed Easter," Sandy said. "I enjoy it here, there are good people who come here."

In addition to the parish website, Rosemont also has a Facebook page <https://www.facebook.com/RosemontLutheranChurch> to help the church community stay linked in faith.

In the midst of the pandemic, the church is still looking forward to celebrating its centennial this year, though the planning continues to be on hold. A celebratory anniversary dinner will be planned for later this year.

When parishioners are able to rejoice together to commemorate 100 years of faith, it seems likely the festivities will take on an even deeper meaning in the age of COVID-19.

"The Church Council and I will continue to create protocols and practices that keep us as safe as possible and keep us focused on new and adaptive ways in which we must continue to pursue our mission of making Christ known in our city, our synod and around the world," Steltzer said.

PLCB COMPLIANCE CHECKS: Pennsylvania State Police Liquor Control Enforcement Officers visited 1,168 licensed liquor establishments from Aug. 5 to 6 to ensure businesses are abiding by COVID-19 mitigation requirements that include social distancing, masking, and other health and safety requirements of the liquor code.

Liquor Control Enforcement Officers issued seven notices of violation and 38 warnings for failing to follow COVID-19 requirements. Violators may face administrative citation by the Pennsylvania State Police Bureau of Liquor Control Enforcement. Continued violations put an establishment's liquor license at risk, either through the citation process or upon application for renewal. More information is available on the enforcement page of the state police COVID-19 portal.

Complaints regarding licensees not complying with COVID-19 mitigation mandates may be directed to the BLCE at 1-800-932-0602 or reported through the BLCE's online complaint form.

HIGHER ED OPERATIONS: Governor Tom Wolf is dedicating approximately $28 million to postsecondary institutions and adult basic education providers to assist them in implementing public health and safety plans and help them to resume operations in the fall. The funding will be used to help keep students, faculty, and staff safe and assist institutions in meeting the unique challenges of providing instruction during COVID-19.

BREASTFEEDING: As the COVID-19 pandemic continues to impact the state, the Pennsylvania Department of Health encouraged people who are breastfeeding to take proper steps to protect themselves so their babies can get the essential nutrients needed to develop and stay healthy.

Parents confirmed to have COVID-19 should take all possible precautions to avoid spreading the virus to their baby. Breastfeeding mothers who have tested positive for COVID-19 and choose to breastfeed and/or express breast milk should:

- Wear a cloth face covering while feeding and during expression of milk;
- Wash your hands with soap and water for at least 20 seconds before each feeding, before touching any pump or bottle parts, and before expressing breast milk;
- Use a dedicated breast pump (not shared);
- Follow recommendations for proper pump cleaning after each use; and

If possible, expressed breast milk should be fed to the infant by a healthy caregiver who does not have COVID-19, is not at high-risk for severe illness from COVID-19, and is living in the same home.

disembark the specialized vehicles.

Zoning officer Craig Pfeiffer was called as a witness. He reaffirmed his position, that all first floor buildings in the CB district were subject to the note in the ordinance.

Preston said he felt the language in the Dimensional section of the ordinance supported his client's placement of an office on the first floor of the building.

The board voted to interpret the amendment to approve the planned use.

The next case was 1738 Madison St. Dominic Villani Jr. was seeking a dimensional variance for a subdivision of the lot. He was represented by attorney James J. Holzinger. Villani wants to renovate the existing house on the lot, and use the subdivided area to build a new single family home. An existing outbuilding on the property would be razed to allow parking pads. The variances for lot size would be a reduction of 550 feet on lengths, and 10 feet of width. Villani had rejected the idea of making the existing house into a twin home, based partly on the existing house's windows being on the side where another home could be attached.

Villani describes his work as, "We are not a cookie cutter builder." He showed a photo of a home he constructed at 1400 Main St. He described neighbors who had raised objections to the construction coming to the building site to thank him.

For the 1738 Madison site, he described the new construction as a two and a half story home with aesthetic dormers. For the existing home, he would replace the roof and windows, improve the front facade with concrete work and new railings. Inside the home, hardwood floors would be installed, and the kitchen and bathrooms would be replaced.

The estimated selling price of the renovated home would be between $219,000 and $229,000. The estimated price of the new home would be between $279,000 and $299,000.

The two homes would be similar in height.

Villani explained he would work on the renovation of the existing home first, then start on the new construction when all permits and approvals were in order. He said the outbuilding would be demolished first, allowing most construction vehicles to park at the rear of the lot.

Neighbor Megan Malavolta asked about how much space was on the lot to accommodate parking.

Villani estimated there is room for parking for four to six cars, with room for a backyard between the homes and the parking area.

Matthew Linsenbigler, who lives next door at 1730 Madison Ave., asked how close the new home would be to his property. Villani said the new building would be four feet from the property line, and he would agree to meet with Linsenbigler about not having windows on the side of the new house that is next to Linsenbigler's home.

The board agreed to approve the subdivision, with conditions: the property would follow the plans Villani had described; the work on the renovation would occur first; the outbuilding would be demolished; and there would be no windows on the south side of the new home.

Greg Lauray, CPA, represented himself, in order to request the conversion of his 611 Center St. office to a single family home. Lauray explained that since the COVID-19 pandemic, he has been working from home, and that arrangement has been successful, so he no longer needs separate office space. Lauray, testifying online, displayed photos of the building and its interior, showing his use of the living room and bedrooms as office space had not fundamentally altered the rooms. He explained his intent is to rent the home, as a single family residence. The board approved his request, and asked him to keep in touch with the zoning officer as the conversion takes place.

The final case was 10-16 West Geopp St. Plamen Ayvazov, on behalf of Monocacy General Contracting, LLC was seeking to convert the building into six or seven apartments, a mix of efficiency, one-bedroom and two-bedroom units. Ayvazov was also represented by attorney James J. Holzinger. At the very start of the case, the petition was amended to 12 units. Christine Ussler is the project architect. The proposed design would include an office on the first floor as well as storage and parking for the owner's construction business, plus a storage area, laundry facility and fitness area for use of the building tenants. Also on the first floor would be two apartments. The second floor would be divided between a parking area with a ramp to the rear of the property, and apartment units. More apartments would occupy the third floor. A sprinkler system would be installed throughout the structure.

Neighbors raised questions about the safety of the parking area, whether it could hold the weight of several vehicles. Others questioned the occupancy of the units, and what would happen if residents had more vehicles than the parking area provided for. Some of the answers to these questions cannot be addressed until a structural engineer examines the property. Board attorney Erich Schock explained that the process is usually to seek zoning approval first, then an engineering study, since the cost to achieve zoning approval is considerably less than the cost of an engineering study.

Due to the lateness of the hour, the case was carried over to the board's August meeting.

Lehigh U contemplates fall options

BY LANI GOINS
Special to the Bethlehem Press

SOUTH BETHLEHEM

Lehigh University hosted a virtual meeting July 23 to discuss its reopening plans. The meeting proved to be highly popular, exceeding the capacity of the Zoom meeting.

Associate Vice President of Human Resources Chris Halladay gave an opening statement. He introduced Nathan Urban, the university's new provost, who just started working for Lehigh July 1.

The most important announcement, of exact reopening plans, was to Aug. 3. Still, the meeting covered what students need to know for the fall semester, and how the university is preparing its facilities, faculty and scheduling in light of capacity restrictions and safety concerns related to COVID-19.

"Whatever we do in the fall has to be a uniquely Lehigh experience," said Urban. He continued, explaining the University is committed to the health and safety of its students and community.

Some of the ways Lehigh will help provide a safe environment will be limiting the density of students in classrooms, requiring masks, and tracking symptoms.

Beth Dolan, Deputy Provost for Graduate Education, explained the university's goal for graduate students is that "they continue progress on their degrees." Some of the challenges the graduate studies program faces are: All master's and doctorate students conduct research, and that what research can be conducted is dependent on state mandates. Some research will be delayed, and funding will need to be extended, and programs may need to be modified. Another challenge is changing federal policy on international students, and the challenge of acquiring visas for those students, who comprise about 30 percent of all graduate students at the University.

Jennifer Jenson, deputy Provost for academic affairs, said their focus was "on undergraduate retention and student success." While the university will try to offer "as much of a live experience as possible," she emphasized that all students need to check their fall schedules. Times of classes may have been changed, and students need to check their schedules for conflicts. Students should communicate with their advisors to make any adjustments. Some classes may have also been moved to the spring semester.

Vice Provost for Library Services Greg Ryman described how training of faculty will provide a stronger learning experience over the past spring semester. Workshops including use of technology and engaging students have been provided to at least 70 percent of the faculty.

Assistant Provost for Academic Affairs Steven Wilson is the university's registrar. Part of his work now is to ensure that students are aware of whether a class is on campus, hybrid in nature, or totally online.

Questions were submitted by meeting attendees. A question arose regarding expanded class sizes online. The response was class sizes will not be expanded, to ensure the online classes provide high quality education.

It was emphasized that students are able to take a gap year, but if they enroll in a full schedule of classes at another college or university, they will have officially transferred to that school. Also, students who drop from full time schedules to part time may lose financial aid.

Another question was if online classes would negatively affect a student's transcript. The answer was no, online courses are regarded as the same as in-person courses.

Ryman spoke of the need for the university to ensure the academic integrity of online courses. "We know we need an ethical world beyond the pandemic." He added that more tools for testing have been made available.

For students who reside on campus, more plans are being made, including quarantine areas for isolation of possible COVID-19 cases.

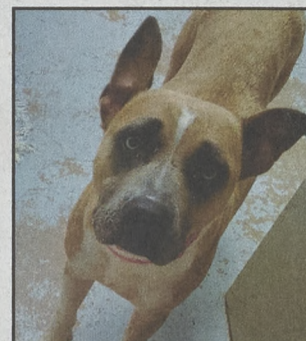

The university will continue to update its guidance throughout the summer. More information will be available on the university website.

The shelter is working to end pet overpopulation by running a clinic so animals can be spayed or neutered before they go home. Bonnie, a 3-year-old female, found her way to CAHW in March from another rescue. She is rather shy, but enjoys attention once getting comfortable around new people. Bonnie is hoping to be your one and only.

Maci is a 2-year-old pit bull mix that came to CAHW as a transfer from Arizona. She is a super sweet girl who just loves being around someone. Maci is currently searching for a home where she can finish her treatment for heartworm.

FHS falls in quarters

Teams gets a shot at normalcy again

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

If there was one thing that Freedom's baseball team was looking forward to this past spring, it would be showing everyone what they were made of this season.

The Pates were hopeful for a successful 2020 season that never happened, but came away from the St. Luke's Lehigh Valley Baseball Tournament with an experience that everyone will remember.

Freedom lost to Emmaus 7-0 in Saturday night's quarterfinal round of the tournament to end its run.

Emmaus and Parkland squared off against each other in Monday's championship, as the Hornets came away with the title.

However, wins, losses and championships aside, this tournament has meant a lot more to the 32-teams involved following the cancellation of the spring sports schedule due to the coronavirus pandemic.

For head coach Nick D'Amico, it was an opportunity to be back together with eight seniors that never got a chance to play.

"These kids put a lot of work in the weight room and our team was looking forward to the spring to show everyone what we could do," D'Amico said. "This was good for them to get out there and play and be together as a team."

After going 2-1 in pool play with their lone loss coming at the hands of Liberty, Freedom got its revenge on the Hurricanes in Saturday morning's quarters, courtesy of an 8-4 victory.

Despite falling 9-2 to Liberty in the final pool play contest, playing under the lights at Freemansburg against their city rival was an experience of itself.

"Our guys were talking about how great the atmosphere was for that Liberty game," D'Amico said of the pool play finale. "I think coming back and beating them on Saturday was a great feeling for our guys, but we might have had a little hangover from that heading into the Emmaus game."

Despite not being able to advance further, just getting out and playing again made things feel normal, even if it was for a short amount of time.

"I'm glad that we got the opportunity to play and compete," said D'Amico. "You can't take these moments away from the kids and it's a big thanks to Dan Villanti and the rest of the organizers, who put this event together."

Pates fall to eventual tourney champ, Emmaus

BY CHUCK HIXSON
Special to the Press

The Freedom Patriots' run through the Lehigh Valley High School Baseball Tournament brought some ups and downs. Saturday alone was a bit of a roller coaster as Freedom downed crosstown rival Liberty 8-4 to advance to the quarterfinals, only to run into another one of the tougher teams in the tournament in Emmaus.

Emmaus came into the game with two shutouts in a row and having allowed just five runs through their first four games. Unfortunately for the Patriots, Emmaus came up with more dominating pitching and downed Freedom 7-0.

In the win over Liberty, Conor Howland allowed three runs over six innings of work and the Freedom offense put together a balanced hitting attack. Against Emmaus, Andres Ledee got the start for Freedom.

Ledee set down the first five batters he faced before allowing a home run to Braden Waller, the opposing pitcher. Ledee got right back on track and got the next batter. An inning later, Ledee got the first out of the inning, but a defensive miscue put a runner on first for the Hornets. One out later, the Emmaus bats came

Fall sports season still in jeopardy

BY PETER CAR

Will there or won't there be high school sports this fall?

That's the question everyone is asking following the recommendation made by Gov. Tom Wolf during a Thursday press conference to not have any interscholastic or recreational sports until January 1, 2021.

"The guidance is that we ought to avoid any congregate settings and that means that anything that brings people together is going to help that virus get us," Wolf said. "We ought to do everything we can to defeat that virus. Any time we get together, for any reason, that's a problem, because it makes it easier for that virus to spread. The guidance from us, the recommendation is, we don't do any sports until January 1 [2021]."

Wolf was asked a question about spectators at PIAA events this fall and astoundingly threw a wrench in everyone's collective minds with his answer.

Following that statement, Wolf walked off-stage and hasn't clarified his comments since, leaving the PIAA, administrators, athletes and fans in limbo.

The statement was stunning for everyone and also befuddling.

And a lot of people are mad.

How could the state and the PIAA have gotten a few days from the start of official practices [August 10 for football], only to have Wolf issue a recommendation in passing at a press conference? If that question was never asked, would Wolf have come out with a statement on his own pushing back against fall sports?

The PIAA had an emergency meeting on Friday and pushed back the official heat acclimatization date for football across the state to August 24th. Voluntary workouts will continue to be permitted over the next two weeks.

The PIAA will reconvene on Aug. 21, where they will hopefully come to a conclusion on how to proceed with the fall season.

District 11 chairman and Whitehall athletic director, Bob Hartman, was certainly caught off guard by Wolf's statement. He understands that the public might view the PIAA's Aug. 21 date as "kicking the can" down the road, but wants people to realize that such a massive decision needs more than 24 hours of dialogue before a proper resolution comes to fruition.

"We're trying to give kids the best opportunity to play," Hartman said. "The reality of the situation is that we have schools that want more information now and some schools that want to push forward with fall sports. This recommendation was spur of the moment and caught everyone off guard. I think it's fair that we get more time on this."

With two more weeks to work with the gov-

Crazy end to week for fall sports

Gov. Wolf says no sports until at least Jan. 21

BY SCOTT PAGEL

Gov. Tom Wolf dropped a bit of a bombshell on the high school and youth sports worlds last Thursday morning when he ended his press conference.

Wolf was asked about fans attending high school sports games this fall.

"The guidance is that we ought to avoid any congregate settings," said Wolf while concluding his press conference. "And that means anything that brings people together is going to help that virus get us and we ought to do everything we can to defeat that virus. So any time we get together for any reason, that's a problem because it makes it easier for that virus to spread."

Wolf would go on to say he recommends there is no sports played at the K-12 level, including youth leagues, until Jan. 1, 2021.

Social media exploded with opinions on the matter and tweets said the PIAA was "totally blindsided" by the news. As a result, the PIAA Board of Directors met later Thursday afternoon to discuss their reaction and released the following statement:

"Today, Gov. Wolf issued a statement of strongly recommending no interscholastic and recreational sports until Jan. 1. We are tremendously disappointed in this decision. Our member schools have worked diligently to develop health and safety to allow students the safe return to interscholastic athletics."

The statement went on to say the PIAA Board of Directors would meet the next afternoon on Friday, Aug. 7, to review this action, and the PIAA will have an official statement at that time (see story below).

During that time, the Wolf Administration provided a little more clarity.

"The Pennsylvania Department of Health and Department of Education today jointly recommend that Pre-K-12 school and recreational youth sports be postponed until at least Jan. 1, 2021, to protect children and teens from COVID-19," a release said.

"The administration is providing this strong recommendation and not an order or mandate. As with deciding whether students should return to in-person classes, remote learning or a blend of the two this fall, school administrators and locally elected school boards should make decisions on sports."

The recommendations apply to team and individual sports and nonschool recreational youth sports. It includes competitions, intramural play and scrimmages. It recommends kids continue conditioning, drills and other training on an individual basis.

Gatherings limits remain unchanged, no more than 25 persons may gather indoors and 250 outdoors.

PIAA looks to move forward with fall sports

BY SCOTT PAGEL
spagel@tonline.com

Last Friday, the PIAA responded to Gov. Tom Wolf's strong recommendation there should be no fall sports for K-12 as well as youth clubs.

Wolf made the statement on Thursday morning, putting the PIAA and youth organizations in scramble mode throughout the state.

"Based on currently known information, the Committee believes that strict adherence schools and teams to their school-adopted plans and the Governor's School Sports Guidance should provide a reasonably safe environment for student athletes to participate in interscholastic athletics as currently scheduled.

"Consistent with the advice of the PIAA Sports Medicine Advisory Committee, PIAA continues to believe it can safely sponsor fall sports," part of the statement read.

The statement also said it would like to work together with the Wolf Administration.

"PIAA is asking the Governor, along with the Departments of Health and Education, to partner with us and work collaboratively to further discuss fall sports," the PIAA said in the statement. "We are also seeking insight and discussion from the Pennsylvania General Assembly. It is clear to PIAA, the unintended consequences of canceling fall sports need to be further reviewed."

The PIAA said in their statement they have worked diligently to develop health and safety plans in accordance with the Department of Health and Department of Education recommendations to allow students to safely return to sports.

The PIAA also said they heard the "thousands of voices of student-athletes, parents, coaches and community leaders" that connected with them after Wolf made his recommendations last Thursday.

"The Board believes that the Governor's strong recommendation to delay sports to January 1, 2021 has a potential negative impact on the students' physical, social, emotional, and mental health," the statement went on to say. "These issues along with the financial inability of many students to participate in any other form of nonschool based athletic programs affect all students directly or indirectly."

On Aug. 21, the PIAA Board will reconvene, but between now and then, voluntary workouts, per the Governor's Guidance for all sports, and with local approval, may continue, the PIAA added in their statement. Mandatory fall sports activities are paused for the two-week period.

"PIAA remains committed to providing a season for each of the sports during the 2020-2021 school year."

The EPC has voted to delay the start of fall sports while the Colonial League will allow schools to decide. Some are planning to start as scheduled while others will delay.

YOUTH RESULTS

The Press family of newspapers would love to print youth results from any teams and leagues in our coverage area.

This is especially true as youth sports look to return during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Unfortunately, when it comes to youth results we depend on parents and coaches to keep us informed.

If you're interested in getting your teams results printed in the Press, please contact Scott Pagel at spagel@ tonline.com.

When submitting results, you don't even have to be a writer, just the basics like score and game highlights need to be included. We'll be happy to turn the information into write-ups.

Morgan Orloski honored

BY KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tonline.com

Former Bethlehem Catholic High School and current Chestnut Hill College guard Morgan Orloski was the recipient of the Women's Basketball Coach's Award back on April 27 during a virtual Athletic Awards Reception.

First year head coach Jim Connolly presented the award to Orloski, saying, "All season long, Morgan was a great example of what it means to be a student-athlete. She was one of the hardest working players on and off the court, and she was a big part of our team's success this season."

Orloski scored 21 points in Chestnut Hill's 88-77 victory over Concordia College on Feb. 1 and scored 18 points on six threes in Chestnut Hill's 76-72 victory over Jefferson on Jan. 21.

The Griffins finished the season 10-9 in the Central Atlantic Collegiate Conference and 11-18 overall. They qualified for the CACC Tournament but lost in the quarterfinals to top-seeded Post University.

Emerson's Jack Lewis honored

The New England Women's and Men's Athletic Conference (NEWMAC) announced their 2020 NEWMAC Men's Lacrosse Academic All-Conference teams.

The NEWMAC men's lacrosse student-athletes totaled 49 honorees this year, with six of those being Emerson students.

Honorees must have earned a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.5 (4.0 scale) or 4.35 (5.0 scale) after the 2019 fall semester, achieved second year academic status at their institution, and been a member of the varsity team for the entire season.

Jack Lewis of Bethlehem, Pennsylvania is among six Emerson College Men's Lacrosse team honorees. Lewis is pursuing a degree in Communication Studies and is a member of the Emerson College Class of 2022.

then settled in to get the final two outs of the game.

"We had good pitching, but you have to tip your hat to them [Emmaus] because they were able to put up some runs against us. They also ran some good pitching out there," said coach Nick D'Amico. "This was a good tournament for us though and the atmosphere was great. We had a nice run and it was good for the guys to get out on the field."

Freedom went 2-1 in pool play, with their only blemish being a 9-2 loss to Liberty. With their 1-1 record in the playoffs, they finished 3-2, outscoring their opponents 30-23. As for Emmaus, they went on to win the tournament with a 7-3 win over Northampton in the semifinals and a 7-5 win over Parkland in the finals to finish a perfect 7-0.

ernor's office, there is hope for fall sports proponents that the PIAA can figure out a way to work through this process.

There is also hope that political pressure in both parties can come into play here, as it's rumored that this specific issue-PIAA sports in the fall-has been a hot topic in Harrisburg on both sides of the aisle.

Earlier this week the East Penn Conference announced their plans for a modified schedule with contests starting on Sept. 25 for soccer, field hockey and girls volleyball. Football would start on October 2nd.

The Colonial League

also voted to push forward with their fall sports this week, but everyone across the state is playing the waiting game now.

If it comes to a final conclusion that the fall season won't be played under normal circumstances, there already have been discussions on different types of season models starting in January and running past Memorial Day, which would get fall, winter and spring sports completed. That could give fall sports like soccer, football, field hockey and girls volleyball more contests than the current schedules.

Hartman was just curious on why the Governor made January 1 an arbitrary date for a restart.

"What makes that date significant," he said. "We want to make a data driven decision, so if we can start on December 17 or January 5, for example, then we need to take that into consideration."

The weight of Wolf's recommendation might also be too heavy to battle ultimately.

"I don't see many school districts going out on their own against this recommendation," said Hartman, when asked if the PIAA or schools would move forward despite Wolf's statement "We're hoping that we can use these next two weeks to find a solution, because we ultimately have to make a final decision."

Lil-Le-Hi still unsure of losses from flooding

BY NICK HROMIAK
Special to the Press

After cleaning and painting the trout holding ponds and getting delivery of 14,600 trout fingerlings at Allentown's Lil-Le-Hi Trout Nursery, Mother Nature dealt the site a nasty blow during the recent storm with its flooding conditions.

According to Herb Gottschall, President of Little Lehigh Fish & Game Association, the adjacent Little Lehigh Creek flooded all but one of the holding ponds at the nursery. Because of this, Gottschall thinks they probably lost fish but they won't know until the site can be cleaned, the water clears and the remaining fish recounted.

This storm also made local streams and the Lehigh River high and muddy with floating debris. Last Friday, the Little Lehigh was supposed to get 60 trophy palomino trout from Cabala's to stock in the Little Lehigh section of Lehigh Parkway. But it too experienced damaging conditions with roads washed out and debris all over the place. So it's unclear when those trout will be stocked although Gottschall said it may be this Friday if the City of Allentown can get the parkway repaired and cleaned up. Gottschall added that this flooding problem was worse than what the nursery experienced during the Sandy storm.

Until local streams and lake conditions improve, anglers may want to head to the Jersey shore to try their saltwater luck. The following reports come compliments from our On the Water Magazine fishing reporters. The shore areas also experienced power outages and losses, but seem to have recovered quickly.

Rick Hebert, at Tackle World in Rochelle Park, said fluking was holding up nicely before the blow and now we have to wait and see. He fished the Axel Carlson Reef last weekend and got his limit with fish up to 6 pounds. He's also received reports of school lie stripers along the beaches hitting shads and small plugs.

Capt. Phil Sciortino, of The Tackle Box in Hazlet, reported the fluke fishing had been very good in Raritan Bay and out front prior to the blow. The shop weighed in a 10-pounder last Thursday from an angler fishing from a kayak.

Sciortino said the crabbing is excellent at all the usual spots around the bay. Snappers are all over the place as well. He also reported good porgy fishing on the local rock piles.

Joe Julian Jr., at Julian's Bait and Tackle in Atlantic Highlands, reported losing a lot of killies due to the power outage caused by Tuesday's storm, but that was the extent of the damage. He reports big fluke have been caught in the Shrewsbury River close to the ferry dock and the porgy fishing has been good in the bay. He's had reports of cobia in the bay as well. And the crabbing, he added, has been awesome, especially in the Navesink River.

Mike Pinto, at Gligio's Bait and Tackle in Sea Bright, said the best thing going on locally is the crabbing in the Shrewsbury and Navesink rivers. The fluking in the surf is OK, but added, it's still mostly shorts. There were small blues and bass in the surf before the storm, so we'll have to wait and see if they're still around once the water clears.

Mike Gleason, at Tak Waterman in Long Branch, reported a lot of schoolie bass caught in the surf on shads and small plugs prior to the blow. It was a dawn-and-dusk bite. Spanish mackerel too were found off the beach, and there were tons of adult bunker in the area as well. Peanut bunker are back in the rivers along with snapper blues. Last weekend saw a lot of yellowfin tuna caught on jigs, Gleason said, but there haven't been any reports since the storm.

The Ocean Grove surf has plenty of short fluke but I've yet to get a keeper. Short bass are hitting shads and small plugs and one took his Gulp lure at the beginning of the week. Sand bugs will probably still work for them.

"Watch out for the big rays," Gleason cautioned. "One spooled me over the weekend and I was lucky to get most of the line back."

Bob Matthews, at Fisherman's Den in Belmar, said the Shark River continues to give up some nice fluke with Steve Adamo weighing in a 4.5 pounder and A.J. Earley with a 5.5-pound fluke. Matthews added that there are loads of snappers in the river right now along with peanut bunker. Folks are picking up some stripers in there as well on shads.

Q & A ... with Becahi's Nathaniel Estock

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Nathaniel Estock had high hopes for this year's volleyball team at Bethlehem Catholic, but like many athletes, had their hopes deflated with the spring season being canceled.

Estock talks about his thoughts on the spring and a lost senior season.

Estock will be attending DeSales University and has been accepted into their accelerated Physician Assistant Program. He hopes to play soccer for DeSales.

1. Now that the news of the spring season has sunk in, what are your thoughts or emotions about not being able to play your senior year?

"Not being able to play senior year, is a major let down still. We collectively as a team have worked so hard and gotten so close. Volleyball season was going to give us a chance to say "good-bye" and to give it all one last time."

2. What were you looking forward to the most this season?

"I was looking forward to the pregame bus rides and winning states. We know every year is a fresh start but we had the mentality and ability to win. The players and the coaches built up the program from basically nothing and to see us execute our plan would've been a dream."

3. What activity did you find yourself doing the most during quarantine?

"It is challenging at times from having a schedule of school, training, homework, to missing the physical break in between. The practice was an opportunity to mentally decompress. I find myself talking to my friends and finding any excuse to leave the house and be active."

4. What do you miss most about normal life?

"Technology is great to stay 'in touch' but it is can be very impersonal. I miss going to school and just being in an environment where you know everyone and the ability to interact with one another."

5. If you had the choice to be stuck at home with any teammate(s) during the quarantine, who would they be and why?

"That is a tough one, I consider my team as part of my extended family, some going back to kindergarten. If I had to choose one I would probably pick Dylan Zambo are first introduction to volleyball was our freshman year and it was just something to try that spring. We share a lot of similar interests and were friends before volleyball started so it's easier."

6. Can you name your favorite movie, show or series you've watched over the past months?

"Netflix has always been available but this past month, I have watched "Barca Dreams" and "Top Gun" a few times. If anything to joke about the over exaggerated beach volleyball in Top Gun."

7. What was the worst part about being stuck at home?

"The worst part about being stuck at home is the lack of freedom and variety. I have had the same exact schedule since quarantine started. You can only do so much school work."

8. What was the first thing you wanted to do when the quarantine was over?

"A group of the guys used to go to Applebee's on a regular basis - it will be nice to get together again. It would be great to be able to a planned summer trip that keeps on getting bumped because of the quarantine."

9. Can you tell your favorite sports story about yourself, your team or your teammates over the years?

"It's a team story, freshman year there were not many kids going out and we went out just for fun, or because of a parent prodding as another extracurricular - and it turned out to be cool. It's a smaller school so we all either knew of each other from the first year or played against each other prior. I am a soccer player and a lot of the senior soccer players said it will be fun to play. So we went out to a few open gyms and had some fun. Once we signed up and the season started, we knew it wasn't the best for some of us, as it was our first attempt at organized volleyball, so we just learned as we went and had fun. By the end of the season, we got the hang of it and won a few games. As the season continued, we progressively got better, some at exponential rates, and we all grew together. At the end of our junior year, we were eighth in the state with no seniors on the team, we would all be returning for our senior year. We saw our schedule and knew what we were up against, so senior year state championship was the goal and it was attainable. The story is that we grew from a team that no one expected to be good, put lots of work into it even on the weekends, and were a powerhouse to not be taken lightly."

10. What lesson(s) have you learned throughout this whole process?

"I learned that if you keep the team light-hearted and relaxed but focused, you can have a lot of fun playing volleyball. As for the process of being quarantined - it is not a habit I want to get used to."

Q & A ... with Liberty's Alli Harris

BY KATIE MCDONALD

Alli Harris is a senior Liberty softball designated hitter who will attend Northampton Community College.

Q: How would your teammates describe you?

A: "My teammates would describe me as encouraging and energetic."

Q: What is a favorite memory from Liberty softball?

A: "My favorite memory would be pregame dancing before the EPC championship under the pavilion at Patriots Park and all the sing-along bus rides."

Q: What is something you like, admire, or learned from Coach Sam?

A: "Something I learned from Coach Sam is to always have heart and to push yourself to your absolute best. He taught me that in every game, practice, run around the field you give it everything you got."

Q: How are you keeping softball alive while you're not playing on the team?

A: "I am keeping softball alive by continuing to play catch here and there with my mom and going in my backyard and just hitting away to get some stress off from everything going on."

Q: Who or what is helping you get through this unusual period of time?

A: "I have found out during this time that I have an artistic side, and with that coming out, all that is around my house are little paintings I have made."

Q: What have you been able to do during this time that you probably wouldn't have otherwise?

A: "I have spent a lot of time with my family, which is something that we don't all get to do a lot, since I play sports and work, and my little sister is always having practice or tournaments for soccer."

Q: What was the first thing you wanted to do when the quarantine was over?

A: "One of the first things I would love to do once quarantine is over is get all my friends together and spend the day hiking and just all enjoying each other's company."

Q: How are you keeping softball alive while you're not playing on the team?

A: "Practicing with my younger siblings and keeping in touch with girls on the team."

Q: Who or what is helping you get through this unusual period of time?

A: "My friends and family, and the entire team have helped through this time, as well as the hopes for a summer tournament season."

Q: What have you been able to do during this time that you probably wouldn't have otherwise?

A: "I have been able to focus on spending more time with my family and bettering myself overall."

Q: What was the first thing you wanted to do when the quarantine was over?

A: "Spend time with my friends, and hopefully getting together to practice with my tournament team."

A few questions we had to ask ourselves

How will the first lap look at Daytona's road-race debut?

GODSPEAK: Wheel-hop. Chaos. Madness. Spills. Wrecks. Confusion. Bedlam. Disorder. Turmoil.

KEN'S CALL: Ever tip-toe through a dark house without wanting to step on the cat and wake everyone? There you go.

Just a one-year Penske extension for Brad Keselowski?

GODSPEAK: That is a rather short leash. At least he has a contract, unlike Erik Jones, who will get the boot by Joe Gibbs at season's end.

KEN'S CALL: It was mildly surprising and I wonder who wanted it to be short. But with what happened this year, a year sounds long-term and smart.

Cup teams enter regular season grinder

By Godwin Kelly
godwin.kelly@news-jrnl.com

When you look at the NASCAR Cup Series from Aug. 8 to Aug. 29, it will make your head spin. This is the regular-season finale grind — six races at three tracks — that will determine the 16-driver playoff field.

The Cuppers are coming off a back-to-back race weekend at Michigan and now head south to Daytona International Speedway.

Fasten your seat belts, and, oh, grab your face mask and hand sanitizer. It's go time ...

FIRST GEAR: Kevin Harvick didn't leave much left on the table for his counterparts when the competition was done at Michigan. The 44-year-old driver won five of six stages and scored consecutive victories on consecutive days at the same track.

Nobody has done that ever in NASCAR history. Richard Petty won back-to-back Cup Series races on back-to-back days on different race tracks in 1971.

Harvick has a series-leading six wins, has piled up 35 championship points and leads the regular-season standings by 137 points over Brad Keselowski.

Harvick heaped all the praise on his No. 4 Stewart-Haas Racing Ford team led by crew chief Rodney Childers.

"I think when you look at my team, we've been together for going on seven years now, and you look at the confidence everybody has in each other," Harvick said of his success. "The details of the race cars and the thought of everything that goes into everything that we do is untouchable."

SECOND GEAR: After spending a beautiful weekend in Michigan's Irish Hills, the Cup Series heads to Daytona for its most improbable race of the season.

These bulky stock cars, which weigh more than 1½ tons, will be competing on a modified Daytona road course. NASCAR added a second chicane exiting the East Banking or NASCAR Turn 4.

"It's a unique challenge," said Jimmie Johnson, a two-time Daytona 500 winner. Also, the Speedway will open the grandstands and there will be spectators watching the race.

THIRD GEAR: Tough week for those in the NASCAR Silly Season swirl. Leavine Family Racing owner Bob Leavine said he must sell his race team.

Leavine will compete through the 2020 Cup season. After that, it will be up to the new owners to reorganize the team, which may mean rookie driver Christopher Bell will likely be looking for a new job.

Meanwhile, Joe Gibbs Racing announced this will be Erik Jones last season in the No. 20 Toyota (are you listening, Christopher?).

FOURTH GEAR: And you never want to see this as a car owner, two of your three cars crash each other out. That's what happened to Roger Penske at Michigan on Sunday when Brad Keselowski wrecked Ryan Blaney.

"I just lost it," Keselowski said. "It's my fault. I feel really bad for my teammate. He didn't deserve that."

Earlier in the week, Keselowski signed a contract extension. Talk about good timing.

QUESTIONS & ATTITUDE

Compelling questions ... and maybe a few actual answers

You're not expecting mayhem?

I've wandered back and forth on expectations for the first-ever lap, without practice, at the Daytona Road Course this week. Common sense — or maybe just hopeful optimism — tells me everyone will veer off the tri-oval and into the infield road course, picking their way around the horseshoe turns like nervous tourists navigating the roads of Boston. It would be nice if all of the best cars were still around once the best drivers have a feel for the place.

Any chance you're wrong?

You new around here? Of course there is. You see, many (or most, or maybe all) of the drivers have practiced the new Daytona layout on simulators, where the realism is so strong they'll have a pretty good feel for the track before getting to town. A few of them, human nature tells you, might feel a little too comfortable and therefore are ready to attack at the drop of the green. It might make for a weird mix and, yes, mayhem.

Zachary Johnson

Zachary holds a placard gifted to him by family friend, Dr. Susan Perry. Like his Liberty HS classmates and Class of 2020 graduates everywhere, senior Zachary would not enjoy the pomp and circumstance of the traditional commencement exercise to signify a major accomplishment in his young life. The coronavirus changed all of that for this year's graduates. Zach made honor roll every marking period, is the recipient of the 'silver cord' for his 339 volunteer hours, played the sousaphone in the Liberty HS Grenadier Band, tuba in both the concert band and philharmonic youth brass ensemble, and string bass in the orchestra. He is an avid bowler and received a scholarship from the Pennsylvania State United States Bowling Congress. He will attend Penn State University to major in mechanical engineering and is the son of Jodie Johnson.

This sign in front of the Johnson residence lets passersby know that a proud Class of 2020 Liberty HS Grenadier resides there.

Zach says about this unique situation, "The Class of 2020 was brought into the world during the uncertain time following 9-11 and will be graduating with a type of uncertainty that yet has to be faced. I see this as a way of moving forward redefining a new purpose, a time to be resourceful and a time to remake a better tomorrow. I will be a proud graduate of the Class of 2020 and am ready to conquer the world!"

'Without struggle, there is no progress' BASD grads remain optimistic

BY CHRIS HARING

Special to the Bethlehem Press

The Bethlehem Area School District premiered its high schools' respective graduation videos via YouTube Aug. 4 and 5. The videos featured highlights from the in-person ceremonies held nearly two weeks prior, the recognition of student accomplishments and commencement speakers such as administrators and faculty, graduating class officers, academic honorees and more.

Of particular note were the speeches, which were recorded separately with no in-person audience July 23 at BASD Stadium. Topics ranged from nostalgia to future ambition and optimism, with the Class of 2020's unprecedented circumstances not lost on many of the presenters. When Liberty HS Principal Harrison Bailey III quoted abolitionist Frederick Douglass in saying "without struggle, there is no progress," the sentiment felt especially relevant this year.

Liberty's Class of 2020 Secretary Autumn Marrero kicked off their ceremony by introducing guests, school board members and administration. Bailey then thanked faculty and staff for dedicating themselves to district students and schools and presented a virtual performance of the song "Rise Up" from the school's choir. He also honored the 11 students who are entering a branch of the U.S. military after graduation.

Bailey honored salutatorian Julia Swart and valedictorian Magda Yurchishin by sharing their accomplishments, and Assistant Principal Amanda Hinkel congratulated National Merit Commended Student Casey Frank, as well as a number of Lamp of Knowledge student honorees who have achieved all 'A'-equivalent grades in all courses over all four years at the high school.

Assistant Principal Nikolas Tsamoutalidis then recognized High Honors and Honors students whose cumulative GPAs finished at 3.5 and higher. Assistant Principal Antonio Traca celebrated the 91 members of the National Honor Society, as well as the 12 members of the National Technical Honor Society from the Bethlehem Vocational-Technical School.

Traca also honored Zoey Reifinger for completing 1,231 hours of community service, as well as 130 more students who completed more than 135 hours each.

"In total, Liberty (seniors) have completed a total of 48,450 hours of community service," he said, happily adding, "this is 12,030 more hours than are required by BASD policy."

Assistant Principal Wayne Whitaker honored several students who achieved the rank of Eagle Scout or obtained the Girl Scout Gold Award and recognized a handful of students who had perfect attendance for all four years.

Bailey then presented the Principal's Award to Reifinger, whom he said "has proudly represented her school in academics, athletics, community service, school spirit and Hurricane loyalty." He also expressed his appreciation for all the staff members who helped put the ceremony together, as well as the students themselves.

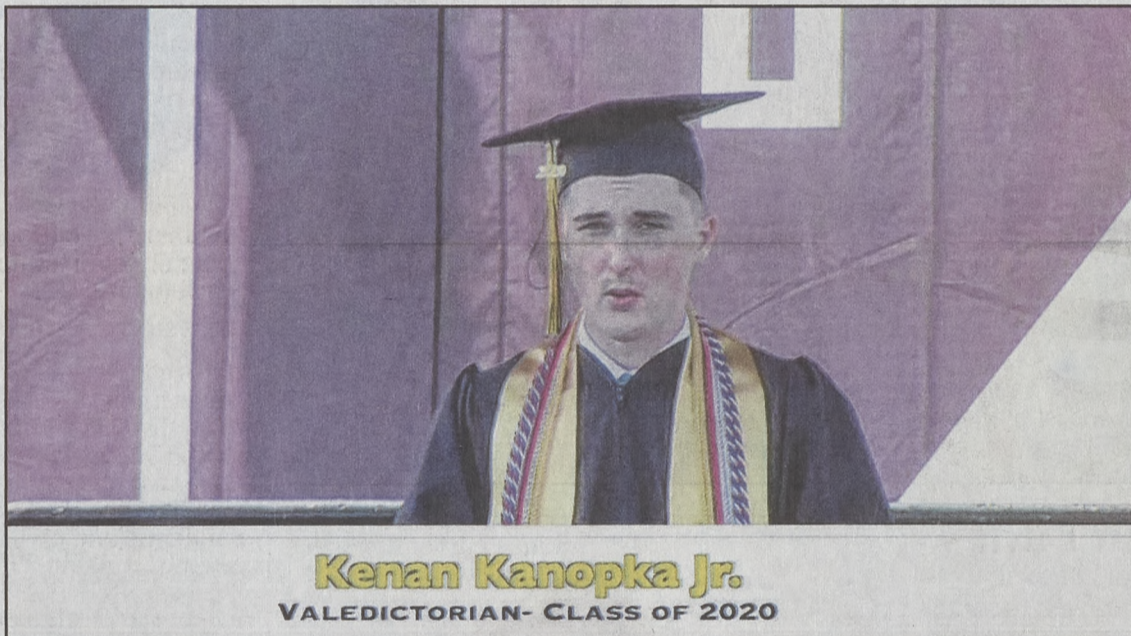

Class Treasurer Michael Capuano then presented the class gift. He described how he had noticed the historic architecture and design of the Commons Building, and how it inspired the gift in which the concrete letters that display 'Liberty High School' on its front will be freshly repainted. He said the gift "symbolizes the importance and need for historical restoration no matter how modern today's world may get."

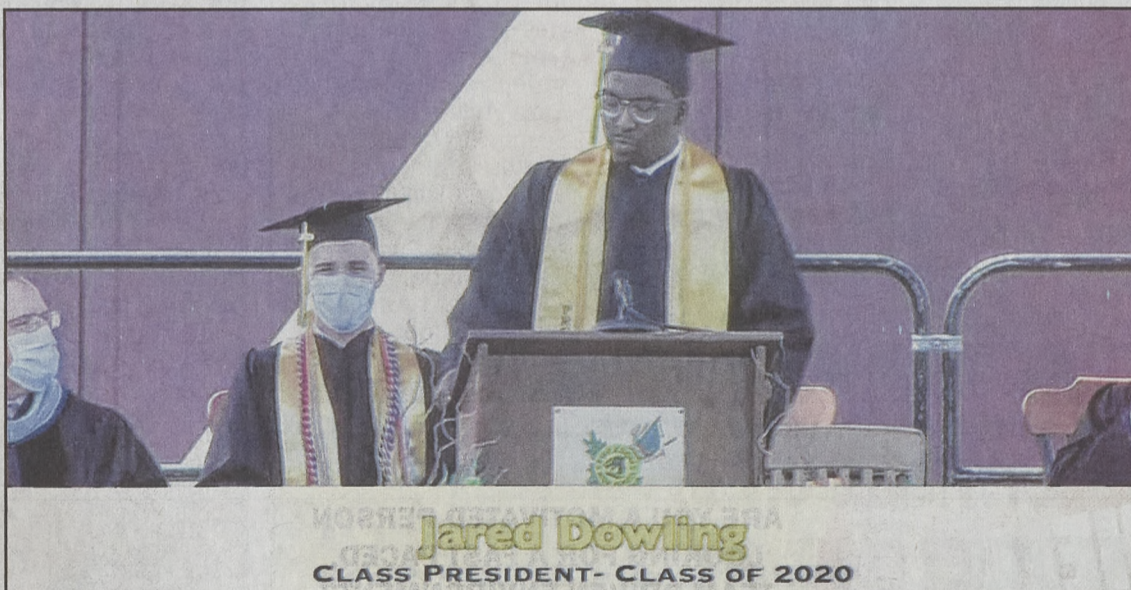

Liberty HS Principal Harrison Bailey III introduces Liberty valedictorian Magda Yurchishin

Liberty Class President Danil Kurtz encouraged his fellow graduates to rise to the unique and somewhat disappointing circumstances under which the Class of 2020's high school journey has ended.

Freedom valedictorian Kenan Kanopka Jr. recognized and honored teachers and other educators who helped members of the Class of 2020 through their respective journeys.

Freedom Class President Jared Dowling spoke of the challenges faced by the entire Class of 2020.

Assistant Liberty Principal Antonio Traca honors Principal's Award honoree Zoey Reifinger for completing 1,231 hours of community service.

Superintendent Dr. Joseph Roy congratulated the graduates for "being able to find the positive" in unprecedented times as he encouraged them to "treat others with compassion and grace." He then introduced School Board President Michael Faccinnetto, who offered remarks on the civil unrest of the last few months.

Faccinnetto quoted recently deceased civil rights leader and Congressman John Lewis, saying, "it's okay to get into some 'good trouble' to make the world a better, more equitable, peaceful and just place." He then presented the first diploma to class Vice President Estafania Velazquez, who led students in the ceremonial "turning of the tassel."

Class President Danil Kurtz closed this portion of the video with a pre-recorded speech which encouraged his fellow graduates to rise to the unique and somewhat disappointing circumstances under which the class of 2020's high school journey has ended.

"Our futures will never be perfect," he said. "Our lives, more than ever, will be faced with adversity and challenges that we must learn to overcome."

The Freedom HS ceremony was similar in composition and structure, with Principal Michael LaPorta welcoming online viewers, and introducing Student Council President Nasia Palaios, who spoke of both "reflection" and "wonder," as she provided a list of athletic accomplishments by Freedom teams over the last four years. She also highlighted the art, music and theater departments and praised all of her classmates.

"I do not know everyone's story, but I do know that each of us have powered on and gotten this far," she said.

The Freedom Senior Choir then presented a virtual performance of "Rainbow" by Kacey Musgraves, with valedictorian Kenan Kanopka Jr. speaking next. The topic was 'academics' as he described the evolution of the educational model and the challenges overcome over the last 12 years, especially the last few months. He also recognized and honored teachers and other educators who helped members of the Class of 2020 through their respective journeys.

LaPorta retook the stage, also commending teachers for their contributions and recognizing those who are retiring at the end of this year. He recognized school board members and other administrative staff in the district. He closed by describing meeting with several students before the ceremony to identify a theme for the ceremony. Ultimately, it was decided that "We are strong. We are resilient. We are one." fit the bill. He reminded students that these qualities will be expected and necessary for success in life going forward.

After LaPorta certified the graduates, Superintendent Roy addressed the graduates and viewers. Similar to the speech he gave in the Liberty video, he acknowledged students' frustration and, at times, anger over their circumstances but encouraged them to continue persevering. Faccinnetto also provided a speech similar to what he gave Liberty and presented Class President Jared Dowling with the first diploma.

Dowling spoke of his personal battle with leukemia as a child and broader challenges faced by the entire Class of 2020. He described himself and his fellow classmates as "born into a post-9/11 world" and "growing up in an era where school shootings are common," as well as challenged by a rapidly-evolving technological landscape.

He also referenced COVID-19, saying it "might not be the end of the world, but is most definitely the end of the world as we know it." He retained an optimistic point of view, however, saying, "I strongly believe that the best is yet to come in our lives ... we are only scratching the surface of our true potential."

Assistant Principal Maureen Leeson then honored Freedom's Lamp of Knowledge honorees, including Lleyton Herb, who was accepted to the U.S. Coast Guard Academy and is currently completing basic training and unable to attend the ceremony. Roy then announced the full-tuition Moravian College Scholarship recipient, Damian Almonte.

Next to speak was National Honor Society President Joshua Konchnick to present the NHS gift, a $1,000 donation to the Miller-Keystone Blood Center.

"Now, with our healthcare system struggling to cope with the demands placed on it by the COVID-19 outbreak, we feel that the organization's commitment to saving lives should be celebrated and supported. We hope that our donation is helpful in fighting the pandemic and preserving life," he said. "If just one person is helped by our donation, it will have all been worth it."

Dowling then presented the class gifts: a new bottle-filling water fountain and electric blinds for their new faculty and student workout space. Lastly, Roy presented the Freedom Senior Class video, produced by the Class of 2020's Xenia Vazquez Collazo.

Both videos included highlights from each school's graduating class' high school tenures as well as messages pre-recorded at home from students and faculty and they remain streamable on the BAS-DPA YouTube page for those who may wish to watch.

VALLEY: Bradbury-Sullivan sues fed gov't

Lambda Legal, a broad coalition of LGBTQ groups, and Steptoe & Johnson LLP recently filed a lawsuit challenging the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services' recently published health care discrimination rule that purports to carve out LGBTQ people and other vulnerable populations from the protections of Section 1557 of the Affordable Care Act, which prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex, among other bases. The lawsuit, Whitman-Walker Clinic v. HHS, is filed on behalf of Whitman-Walker Health, the TransLatin@ Coalition, Bradbury-Sullivan LGBT Community Center, the Los Angeles LGBT Center, GLMA: Health Professionals Advancing LGBTQ Equality, AGLP: The Association of LGBTQ Psychiatrists, and four individual doctors.

This is not Bradbury-Sullivan LGBT Community Center's first time suing the Trump administration. In 2019, Bradbury-Sullivan LGBT Community Center, represented by Lambda Legal, was a plaintiff in Santa Clara v. Azar to block the Trump Administration's Denial-of-Care Rule. In response to the lawsuit, a District Court vacated the rule in its entirety in November 2019.

In 2016, the Obama administration finalized a rule implementing the nondiscrimination provisions of the Affordable Care Act, also known as Section 1557, that prohibits discrimination based on gender identity, transgender status, or sex stereotypes as forms of sex discrimination. In May 2019, the Trump administration announced a proposed rule change designed to roll back these protections. The proposed rule would carve-out LGBTQ people from the Affordable Care Act's nondiscrimination protections, and invite health care workers, doctors, hospitals and health insurance companies that receive federal funding to refuse to provide or cover health care services critical to the health and well-being of LGBTQ people, such as gender-affirming and reproductive care.

The proposed rule would also limit the remedies available to people who face health disparities, limit the access to health care for people with limited English proficiency, and dramatically reduce the number of health care entities and insurance subject to the rule.

On June 19, HHS published the health care discrimination rule, which is scheduled to go into effect Aug. 18, 2020.

LVHN tops it off for new campus in Lower Nazareth

More health-care news: B5, B6

Lehigh Valley Health Network (LVHN) has topped off its new health campus off Route 33 along Hecktown Road in Lower Nazareth Township. The three-building facility is expected to open in Summer 2021.

The last steel beam was placed for Lehigh Valley Hospital - Hecktown Oaks, which will include a 106,000-square-foot, two-story hospital; 35,000-square-foot Lehigh Valley Cancer Institute and 61,000-square-foot medical office building.

Bob Begliomini, Senior Vice President of Operations and President of Lehigh Valley Hospital - Muhlenberg, told LVHN's first virtual steel beam topping-off ceremony June 12 that construction of the campus is a response to demand for LVHN care in Northampton County:

"As we reach the topping-off milestone, we are well on our way to bringing exceptional Lehigh Valley Health Network services to Northampton County, services requested and sought out by residents of the county."

Before it was hoisted, carrying the traditional American flag and small evergreen tree for good luck, the beam was signed virtually as LVHN colleagues provided digital signatures that were included on a large vinyl sticker affixed to the beam.

According to Begliomini, nearly one-third of Northampton County residents receive health-care services from an LVHN provider.

During the last seven years, the number of visits from Northampton County residents to Lehigh Valley Physician Group (LVPG) providers increased 91 percent.

ANOTHER DAY DAWNS

Carrying on despite concert tours shutdown

BY DAVE HOWELL
 Special to The Press

Another Day Dawns is looking to a bright new horizon, even as the Lehigh-based hard-rock band hit the pause button because of the coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic shutdown.

This year, the group released an EP, "Stranger," with songs that received 400,000 streams on Spotify at the time of the deadline for this article. The band's last three videos received more than 100,000 views.

At Musikfest's Sands Steel Stage, the rock quartet opened for Godsmack in 2017 and Daughtry in 2018.

Another Day Dawns lead vocalist Dakota Sean says the group has stayed active despite the cancellation of its most recent tour, which was to be with Adelitas Way.

"We've been working on a lot of songs and trying not to kill each other," Shawn jokes in a phone interview. The four band members live with each other in Lehighton.

The group merges heavy riffs with a melodic base as Sean's powerful, growling voice ranges from playful to dark. The music has an infectious energy, whether it's the ballad-like "All of Me" or the powerful "Rage."

Another Day Dawns evolved from a cover band, which was founded in 2011 with guitarist Tyler Ritter and drummer Nick McGeehan.

The two met because they had the same music teacher. The two contacted Sean via social media after the original vocalist left the group.

"They were 11 or 11 and I was 13 or 14. As we jammed, our dads looked at each other and saw that this would work," says Sean.

The three have been together for about 10 years with different bassists. "The bass player position has, unfortunately, been a revolving door for us," says Sean. They recently added Jerome Betz for that position.

"A few years ago, we started to write originals. We wanted to make our own music. I want to sing my own lyrics and have people blasting our own music in the car," says Sean.

Composing songs is a team effort. "We get into a room and see what happens. Tyler comes in with a riff or I come in with a melody that has been sitting in my head for a month and we go from there."

Another Day Dawns draws from a variety of inspirations. "Nick is into Led Zeppelin and Rush, Tyler

 Special to The Press

Lit Coffee Roastery and Bakeshop, 26 E. Third St., Bethlehem, had to take a, you might say, coffee break temporarily from providing gourmet coffee, baked goods and Wi-Fi to an expanding clientele when all "non-essential" businesses were closed March 19 by Gov. Tom Wolf in response to the coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic. Lit, which opened in 2017, is a collaboration between Bethlehem's Monocacy Coffee Co., co-owned by roasters Matthew Hengeveld and Dan Taylor, and Melanie Lino's Made By Lino bakery.

Although the lounge and tables have been closed to the public since late March, curbside service began during Pennsylvania's Yellow Phase and has continued through the Green Phase.

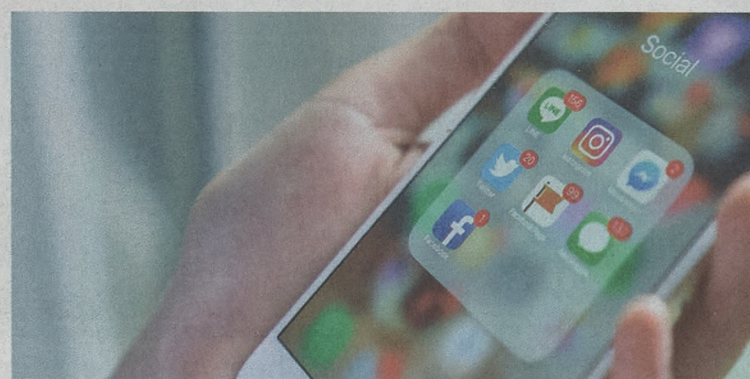

"We'll be open from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Wednesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays." See LIT on Page B2

In fiscal year 2018, LVPG had more than 430,000 visits from Northampton County residents.

The health campus will expand services that LVHN and Lehigh Valley Reilly Children's Hospital already provide in the county.

LVH - Hecktown Oaks' two-story hospital will look and feel different than a typical high-rise institution and will offer easier navigation.

A healing garden will provide patients and visitors a peaceful place to connect with nature and pause and reflect. The goal is to create a calming, comforting environment that will help people feel at ease and heal better.

The campus will contain leading-edge equipment for innovative treatments and telemedicine technology to make care more convenient.

The hospital will include an emergency room for adults and children, with an area dedicated for children.

Private patient rooms will have natural light and feature views of the healing garden.

State-of-the-art operating suites and services provided by Lehigh Valley Institute for Surgical Excellence, along with advanced imaging services, will be in the new hospital.

The medical office building will provide primary and specialty care, including a Joint and Spine Center, comprehensive care from Lehigh Valley Heart Institute, rehabilitation services, and care provided by Breast Health Services.

Lehigh Valley Cancer Institute will offer infusion services and access to clinical trials through its membership in the Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Alliance, as well as multidisciplinary clinic care for oncology patients.

CONTRIBUTED PHOTO

Attaching the LVH - Hecktown Oaks banner to the final steel beam to be placed for the project are Bob Begliomini, Senior Vice President of Operations and President of Lehigh Valley Hospital - Muhlenberg, and Pat Toselli, DO, Chief Medical Officer at LVH - Muhlenberg, who will serve as Chief Medical Officer at LVH - Hecktown Oaks.

days and Fridays," says Hengeveld.

"Customers can order takeout by entering through the front door and following guidelines [wear a face mask, credit card sales only, maintain safe distance and floor markings]," Hengeveld says.

Curbside service can be ordered on the coffeehouse's website and picked up at Lit's back door, which is along Mechanic Street.

With no outdoor seating at the time of the deadline for this article, the partners recommend bringing a blanket to the Greenway public space behind the shop.

"While we were closed, we still fulfilled online coffee and baked good sales through our respective websites," says Hengeveld.

"At times, our sales saw quite a boost, because many people were afraid to go to grocery stores. Now, with more stores reopened, Lit has experienced "a leveling-out of sales."

"With closures at Lit, as well as our sister shop Cosmic Cup in College Hill, [Easton], we've seen a steep decline in gross revenue," says Hengeveld.

Lit obtained a small loan through the state to help handle the pandemic economic impact.

"It's enough to get us by in the short term, but we're still left unsure about our long term prospects," Hengeveld says.

"Without adequate funding, our area's small businesses will be irreversibly damaged, and we can lose many of the people and places that makes our area special."

cial."

Limited dine-in service is allowed in the Green Phase, but Lit isn't ready to offer it yet.

"The customer experience at coffee shops isn't as linear as the 'sit down, eat, leave' experience you see at a normal restaurant," says Hengeveld.

"Our customers like being able to sit down and hang out for a while, and this poses a challenge."

He's looking for a way to offer the full coffee shop experience safely, before going that next step.

How the colleges in Bethlehem and Easton reopen in the fall, whether through online, in-person or a hybrid of classes, is expected to greatly impact both coffeehouses.

is into rock and hip-hop, and I like grunge of the '90s [including Nirvana and Pearl Jam]."

Sean's first musical inspiration came from his father, a vocalist for area bands. "I saw the love and support for my Dad and it has passed on to me."

"Stranger," the band's second EP, was recorded at Dark Horse Studios, Nashville. Since the group didn't have a bass player at the time, Aaron Bruch of Breaking Benjamin played bass for the sessions.

The first EP, "A Different Life," was recorded at King Studios, Allentown.

Sean says releasing an EP is more effective than a full-length CD because singles get more notice than albums. "If we do 12 or 13 songs, people won't get past the first three or four. Instead, we released our best ones."

The latest release, "Forget Me Not," debuted in late June on YouTube. More recently, the group debuted an acoustic version of "Forget Me Not."

The group's merchandising includes face masks with the group's logo.

The band's years of playing local gigs has attracted fans of modern and classic rock.

"It's popularity fluctuates, but rock never dies. Other music comes along, but it is a flash in the pan. Rock is always there. You can feel the heart and soul and the realness of the music," says Sean.

Management increased the profile of Another Day Dawns. "The last two or three years have been crazy. A lot of good things," says Sean.

The next step would seem to be a headlining tour of their own. "It would be incredible, just a dream," Sean says.

But it might not be a dream for too long for Another Day Dawns.

When routine decisions can have consequences

It was just another beautiful, balmy Florida day until the storm that threatened all day roared in.

It was actually nice to see and hear the rain. My parched plants need relief.

I like to listen to the sound of the wind and rain when I'm safe inside. I thought the storm would blow over as quickly as it finally came.

I was wrong. The wind greatly intensified when it got dark, but I couldn't see what it was doing to my screened-in pool cage until it got light. Morning light revealed empty spaces where screening used to be and the remains of the screening thrown up on the roof.

The wind had blown water past my patio glass door, creating a duck pond over the carpeting.

We were told a microblast with heavy wind and rain did a number on some homes, twisting aluminum into pretzels.

Since a lot of homes were affected, I called my screening contractor right away because I knew he would be in demand. With 50 calls for rescreening, I was fourth on his list.

While I waited for him to come, I knew the panels without screens would bring in birds and perhaps other creatures.

I'm passionate about birds and especially like mockingbirds. I love the way they imitate the song of many birds.

I didn't mind when at least a dozen mockingbirds flew into my pool area. But I was worried when some couldn't find the way back out.

I watched one little bird frantically flying around the cage looking for the opening. Hours later, it was still trying to get out. It kept checking the lower screens, not realizing the missing screens were on top.

Hey, little birdie, the big opening in the screen is to your right.

Poor birdie kept turning left, looking for the opening.

It made me think about everyday life when we have to make decisions about how to solve a problem.

Sometimes we're like that little bird, not seeing the right, obvious choice and getting caught up in bad choices.

Well, the small mockingbird eventually found its way out, but the next time I looked, three other birds were trapped inside the pool cage. They found the way out a lot quicker than the little bird.

That's what happens when we have to make decisions in real life, isn't it? Some people quickly find the right solution, picking the right path.

Every day since the pandemic hit heavily in Florida I have to make what seem like routine decisions.

Should I risk going to dinner with a few friends? My answer was no because our local infection rate continues to soar and too many people aren't wearing masks.

In fact, the decision to wear or not wear a mask has led to brawls when some don't like the choice others made.

WARMEST REGARDS
By Pattie Mihalik
newsgrl@comcast.net

One couple chose not to wear a mask when they went for dinner in a local restaurant. But they weren't content to let others make their own decision.

On their way out of the restaurant, the mask-less couple saw another couple at a table wearing masks.

They started screaming insults at the pair because they had masks on.

For some reason, someone else's decision enraged them. They started spitting on the couple while they rubbed their hands all over the masked diners.

It's now a police matter.

As the saying goes, you can't make this stuff up.

Everyday I make what should be routine choices. If I select the wrong option, I could become another COVID-19 statistic.

Some of my younger friends are getting on with their lives the same way they always did. They are socializing in groups, attending concerts and having big parties.

Because I'm older and my husband has what they call "underlying health concerns," I have to skip all those get-togethers.

My 92-year-old neighbor is doing as much partying and socializing as youngsters. "At my age, I have nothing to lose," she reasons.

Every time I'm tempted to go somewhere my daughters view as risky, they ask me, "Is it worth your life?"

Experts tell us it's safer to socialize outdoors if you maintain social distancing.

With that in mind, I opted to go boating with two friends. I figure it's safe.

While I was on their boat the skipper told me his boss just returned from visiting family in Ohio. They saw no one except their children and grandchildren.

Sounds safe, right? They had a call from their son saying they needed to be tested because the family was diagnosed with COVID-19.

If the boss has it, does that mean my friend who works with him needs to be tested?

See what I mean? Every little thing we once didn't think about now involves discernment.

While we're told it's safe to shop for groceries if we wear a mask and stay 6 feet apart, I've had to switch supermarkets to one that has better safety precautions.

My best friend lingered for two weeks between life and death after she was infected with the virus. She learned how tough it is for older people to survive.

I've been told to lighten up and stop worrying. But I don't want to be like that little mockingbird that was having a hard time because of making wrong choices.

Sending thank-you cards for sympathy cards a must

Dear Jacquelyn, I recently lost a close family member and received a number of sympathy cards. What is the proper etiquette for sending thank-you cards for sympathy cards, and is there a time window that is considered acceptable?

Dear Reader, During such a difficult time, sending a thank-you card or note is not a must.

Although most people don't expect it during your time of grief, it's still a nice gesture to offer a show of gratitude for people who have been there for you during the difficult time

RESPECTFULLY YOURS
By Jacquelyn Youst

of mourning.

If you decide to send a personal thank-you to those whose kindness impacted you most during your difficult time, a short personal message on a note card is all that is necessary to convey your appreciation.

A simple thank-you or acknowledgment can go a long way especially when written with sincerity. It can be something simple like: "Thank you for the card. Your kind words have been a comfort." Two to three sentences are enough, and it doesn't need to be formal.

Do not feel pressured to send a thank-you card to every single person who expressed their condolences or to complete the cards all at once. If you aren't feeling up to the task, a family member or close friend can write the notes on your behalf.

There is no official time-frame for sending out your thank-you notes.

Take as much time as you need. The recipients will be grateful to know you appreciate their sympathy card.

The etiquette of acknowledgment is truly a very personal matter.

While it may be difficult to find the energy to write a thank-you note after the loss of a loved one, doing so is an important way of acknowledging the kindness that friends and family have shown you during this challenging period in your life.

Respectfully Yours, Jacquelyn

How to nicely tell neighbors you don't want a hug

Q. Yesterday, my neighbors came over to my backyard, and caught us completely off-guard when they hugged me and my husband to congratulate us on our anniversary. We felt very uncomfortable, but didn't know what to do. What can we say to them without our sounding rude? They say they are sheltering in place, but when they came over, they did not follow social distancing nor did they wear masks. Please advise.

The panel acknowledged that the coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic has placed a lot of strain on relationships, and made it difficult for people to greet family and friends.

"We're all social beings and we want to hug," panelist Denise Continenza said, suggesting to treat the situation lightly.

Agreed panelist Mike Daniels, "They've already hugged you, so lighten up."

"The neighbors have an understanding of the seriousness of the pandemic because they are sheltering in place," Daniels continued, "but their definition of sheltering may be different than our readers."

The reader may just have to "bite the bullet," and ask the neighbors to wear a mask the next time they come over, panelist Pam Wallace said.

"You need to have ground rules for the next time," panelist Erin Stalsitz said. "You can set them ahead of time."

A simple phone call may be in order, said panelist Wanda Mercado-Arroyo, adding, "Tell them how glad you were to see them, and how relieved you were that they are well and sheltering in place."

"The readers can add that they also are trying to stay well by wearing masks and keeping social distancing," Mercado Arroyo suggested, adding, "Make it a shared responsibility by saying, 'Let's always be as cautious as possible.'"

Another approach discussed by the panel was that in talking to the neighbors, the rationale could be reversed in asking that there be no hugging and that masks to be worn. The following is a suggested part of that conversation:

"Thank you so much for coming to congratulate us on our anniversary. We've missed your company, and it was very thoughtful.

"You must really care about us to give up social distancing to hug us. We really value your friendship, and we don't want you to put yourself at risk just for us, so the next time we meet let's do the elbow 'hug.'"

"And don't forget to wear your masks."

This week's panel: Pam Wallace, program coordinator, Project Child, a program of Valley Youth House; Mike Daniels, LCSW, Psychotherapist, Denise Continenza, extension educator; Wanda Mercado-Arroyo, educator and former school administrator; and Erin Stalsitz, Lehigh Children & Youth.

Fiber in your diet can have beneficial outcomes

Q. My wife insists on buying nothing but crunchy brown bread because she says it is good for us. I'm a bit skeptical about this and suspect we are victims of hype to sell this kind of bread. What do you think?

HEALTHY GEEZER
By Fred Cicetti
fred@healthygeezer.com

I'm presuming that your wife wants to get whole grain bread to put more fiber into your diet.

Whole grains are cereal grains that include the bran, the germ and the core of the kernel known as the endosperm. Bran is a tough, fibrous outer layer, which is a source of fiber.

Before the Industrial Revolution, we did not process grains, which gave us fiber (aka roughage), healthy fats, vitamins, minerals, plant enzymes, hormones and hundreds of other beneficial plant compounds.

The invention of industrialized roller mills in the late 19th Century changed what we got from grains. Milling strips away the bran and germ of the grain, making it easier to chew and digest.

Consumers have to be cautious about what they buy to get fiber. The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) warns that foods labeled with the words multi-grain, stone-ground, 100 percent wheat, cracked wheat, seven-grain, or bran are usually not whole-grain products. Look for whole grain on the package.

Also, color is not an indication of a whole grain. Bread can be brown because of molasses or other added ingredients. You have to read the ingredient list to see if a product is made from whole grains.

The USDA recommends reading the Nutrition Facts label on packages and choosing whole grain products with a higher percentage of fiber.

How much fiber is enough?

The American Dietetic Association recommends a healthy diet include 25 to 35 grams of fiber a day. If you want a precise, personal estimate for fiber intake, you can use a fiber calculator provided by the University of Maryland Medical System. Go to:

<http://www.healthcalculators.org/calculators/fiber.asp>

There are many health benefits to eating whole grains:

- * Bowel health. By keeping the stool soft and bulky, the fiber in whole grains helps prevent constipation and diverticular disease, which is characterized by tiny pouches inside the colon that are easily irritated and inflamed. Softer stool also reduces pain from hemorrhoids.
- * Longevity. A report from the Iowa Women's Health Study linked whole-grain consumption with fewer deaths from non-cardiac, non-cancer causes.

- * Cardiovascular disease. Eating whole grains substantially lowers cholesterol, triglycerides, and insulin levels. Any of these changes would be expected to reduce the risk for cardiovascular disease.

- * Diabetes. In people with diabetes, fiber can slow the absorption of sugar and help improve blood sugar levels. A healthy diet that includes fiber may also reduce the risk of developing Type 2 Diabetes.

- * Cancer. The data on cancer are mixed, with some studies showing a protective effect and others showing none.

- * Weight control. High-fiber foods generally require more chewing, which gives your body time to register when you're no longer hungry, so you're less likely to overeat. Also, a high-fiber diet tends to make a meal feel larger and linger longer, so you stay full for a greater amount of time.

To get more fiber in your diet, you should include whole grain products, fruits, vegetables, beans, peas, nuts and seeds.

Fiber supplements such as Metamucil, Citrucel and FiberCon help, but getting your fiber from foods is better because supplements don't provide the variety of fibers, vitamins, minerals and other beneficial nutrients that foods do.

Warning: Fiber supplements can influence the processing of some drugs, such as aspirin, warfarin (Coumadin) and certain anti-seizure and antidepressant medications.

Fiber supplements can also reduce blood-sugar levels, which may require an adjustment in your medications or insulin if you have diabetes. Don't take fiber supplements before consulting your health-care provider.

Pediatric specialist joins St. Luke's

Shaheen Timmapuri, MD, has joined the team of pediatric specialists at St. Luke's University Health Network.

St. Luke's recently opened a Pediatric Intensive Care Unit (PICU) at St. Luke's University Hospital - Bethlehem. The new eight-bed unit is part of an $11-million expansion St. Luke's has dedicated to improving pediatric health care in the region, and providing advanced care to critically-ill children close to home.

Dr. Timmapuri works closely with pediatricians, primary-care physicians and teams from St. Luke's 12 other pediatric specialties, providing comprehensive care for children with complex health issues from infancy through adolescence.

She also collaborates with obstetricians and radiologists when abnormalities are detected during pregnancy, planning corrective surgery and educating parents before delivery.

Dr. Timmapuri treats a variety of disorders in children, including congenital anomalies (birth defects), hernias, appendicitis, skin lesions, cysts, lung masses and

Dr. Shaheen Timmapuri pyloric stenosis (thickening of the stomach muscle which blocks food from reaching the small intestine in newborns).

After receiving an undergraduate degree at The Pennsylvania State University, Dr. Timmapuri completed medical school at New Jersey Medical School, followed by a six-year residency at Thomas Jefferson University Hospital and a two-year pediatric surgery fellowship at St. Christopher's Children Hospital. Dr. Timmapuri recently received an MBA from The Wharton School at The University of Pennsylvania.

Following in her mother's footsteps, Dr. Timmapuri wanted to be a physician for as long as she can remember. "I truly love science and helping people and medicine is the perfect marriage of those concepts," said Dr. Timmapuri. "I especially love helping children. They have so much potential. They are our future."

Dr. Timmapuri is part of a growing specialized pediatric surgical team at St. Luke's which includes pediatric anesthesiologists, nurses and technicians.

Pediatricians, who provide full-service care to children, make evaluations on elective and non-emergent conditions, referring those families to Dr. Timmapuri. She is also available 24/7 for emergency cases.

"We are so pleased to have such a well-respected, highly-trained pediatric surgeon join our Network," says Jennifer Janco, MD, Chair of Pediatrics at St. Luke's. "In addition to the availability of high-quality pediatric surgical care, having a general pediatric surgeon at St. Luke's provides our patients and families the convenience of having evaluations and procedures completed close to home."

Dorney Park raises $15,000 for LVHN Covid-19 fund

Dorney Park & Wildwater Kingdom presented a check for $15,000 to Lehigh Valley Health Network (LVHN) to benefit LVHN's COVID-19 Emergency Fund.

The money was raised during Dorney Park's Fourth of July Drive-in Fireworks event.

"It's not about making a donation. It's about making a difference, especially during these unprecedented times," said Michael Fehnel, Vice President and General Manager of Dorney Park at the Aug. 5 check presentation.

"Through our partnership with LVHN, the health and safety of our associates and guests are elevated, and now we had the opportunity to give back in a great way and help fight this global pandemic crisis, together. We are proud of the way the community came together to enjoy a July 4th tradition in support of the LVHN COVID-19 Emergency Fund," Fehnel said.

LVHN's COVID-19 Emergency Fund supports the needs of patients and staff during the global pandemic. Funds may be used to offset accumulated expenses during the pandemic crisis and recovery periods.

"The outreach from our corporate partners and community members has been astonishing and shows great compassion during COVID-19," said Jane Wrisley, Vice President, LVHN Office of Philanthropy.

"Despite being impacted by the pandemic, Dorney Park like so many of our business partners, continued to show their generosity and commitment. This support for our COVID-19 Emergency Fund is a clear demonstration of that commitment to keep our community safe," Wrisley said.

LVHN and Dorney Park & Wildwater Kingdom have partnered in many ways to assist the community over the years, the most notable being the park's hosting of LVHN's annual drive-thru flu campaign each November.

Free, drive-thru flu shots will be given at Dorney Park, South Whitehall Township, Nov. 7, and at Coca-Cola Park, Allentown, Nov. 8. More details about receiving the vaccine will be provided in the fall.

Coordinated Health receives award for patient safety fourth year in row Coordinated Health - Allentown, part of Lehigh Valley Health Network (LVHN), has received the Healthgrades 2020 Patient Safety Excellence Award™ for the fourth year.

The distinction places Coordinated Health - Allentown among the Top 5 percent of short-term acute care hospitals reporting patient safety data as evaluated by Healthgrades, which connects consumers, physicians and health systems.

"This distinguished designation by Healthgrades could only be possible thanks to the outstanding contributions of our highly-skilled physician teams, nurses, physical therapists and hospital staff," said Christine Biege, Vice President of Patient Care Services, Coordinated Health.

"We are very proud to receive this recognition for the fourth time from Healthgrades. It's a clear indication that our hospitals are consistently among the best in the nation for surgical outcomes," said Amy Nyberg, President Coordinated Health, adding, "Our fully-integrated model results in safer surgery and repeated recognition for the highest quality joint replacement and spine surgery."

Healthgrades found that patients treated in hospitals receiving the Patient Safety Excellence Award were, on average*

48.3 percent less likely to experience a collapsed lung because of a procedure or surgery in or around the chest, than patients treated at non-recipient hospitals

54.4 percent less likely to experience a hip fracture following surgery, than patients treated at non-recipient hospitals

66.8 percent less likely to experience pressure sores or bedsores acquired in the hospital, than patients treated at non-recipient hospitals

63 percent less likely to experience catheter-related bloodstream infections acquired at the hospital, than patients treated at non-recipient hospitals

For its analysis, Healthgrades evaluated approximately 45 million Medicare inpatient records for nearly 4,500 short-term acute care hospitals nationwide to assess hospital performance in 32 common conditions and procedures.

Healthgrades recognizes a hospital's quality achievements for cohort-specific performance specialty area performance, and overall clinical quality. Individual procedure or condition cohorts are designated as 5-star (statistically significantly better than expected), 3-star (not statistically different from expected) and 1-star (statistically significantly worse than expected) categories.

"Consumers might not know that information around patient safety is readily available and should be considered when researching health care options," said Brad Bowman, MD, Chief Medical Officer, Healthgrades. "We commend the recipients of the 2020 Patient Safety Excellence Award for their dedication to providing excellent care for their patients."

Coordinated Health - Allentown is one of three "Covid-Free" hospitals at Lehigh Valley Health Network, which means it's a stand-alone building that has never seen a Covid-19 case. It is physically separated from those that care for Covid-19 patients.

In order to continue to ensure patient safety within the "Covid-Free" hospitals, clinicians are tested for Covid-19 weekly, and patients are tested prior to surgery. Other safeguards are also in place, including temperature screenings, limited seating in waiting areas, and wearing face masks by patients and colleagues.

A Banko Cinemas movie display poster for "Tenet," left, ironically states "Time Runs Out." The July 17 opening date was Sharpied out.

The Force is with Banko

The Force is with Banko Cinemas.

The Frank Banko Alehouse Cinemas, ArtsQuest Center, SteelStacks, Bethlehem, had six screenings each of "Star Wars: Episode V - The Empire Strikes Back 40th Anniversary" (1980) and "Black Panther" (2018), Aug. 7, 8 and 9.

Banko became the first indoor movie theater in the Lehigh Valley to reopen in the nearly five months since Pennsylvania Gov. Tom Wolf ordered non-essential businesses in Pennsylvania to close their physical locations March 19 in an attempt to mitigate the coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic.

Ryan Hill, ArtsQuest Programming Director, said in a phone interview that the decision to reopen Banko was "a confluence of Disney making their repertoire available and the final weekend of 2020 Musikfest."

Disney re-released "Star Wars: Episode V - The Empire Strikes Back 40th Anniversary" and "Black Panther," Aug. 7 - 13.

Banko opted to show the movies Aug. 7, 8 and 9 only.

"We felt once Musikfest is over, the staff deserves a break," said Hill.

2020 Musikfest, a hybrid of live, streamed and broadcast concerts, as well as in-person food vendors at SteelStacks, ran July 31 - Aug. 9.

"It's not an experiment," said Hill of ArtsQuest reopening Banko.

"We feel confident in what we've put in place regarding safety measures.

"It's the work of our operations team, led by Steve Ott [ArtsQuest Director of Facilities and Festivals]."

Hill said that Banko Cinemas will reopen once movie studios resume rolling out new releases on a regular basis to movie theaters.

The ArtsQuest website had listed "Mulan" and "Tenet," two highly-anticipated releases, as "coming soon."

Disney's live-action "Mulan," which was to be released Aug. 21 as summer 2020's first blockbuster, will be available Sept. 4 on Disney + at a cost of $29.99 for "premium access," in addition to the Disney + subscription service cost.

Director Christopher Nolan's "Tenet," set to open Aug. 12, is now to open Sept. 3 in movie theaters.

"If that [opening date for 'Tenet'] holds, then we will reopen. We'd like to play that movie," said Hill.

"After that, it's going to depend on what's out there," Hill said of Banko Cinemas.

AT THE MOVIES

By Paul Willistein
pwillistein@online.com

"We have a Hitchcock festival ready to go," Hill said.

Banko annually has had a Hitchcock film series after Musikfest.

The movie-going experience at Banko Cinemas was quite different for "Star Wars: Episode V - The Empire Strikes Back 40th Anniversary."

Since it was my first time seeing a film in an indoor movie theater in nearly five months, the film's opening storyline crawl held special irony: "A long time ago in a galaxy far, far away ..."

The "Star Wars: Episode V" shown at Banko Cinemas was the 1997 restored and re-released version, with some brief scenes added and other minor changes to the original 1980 release. The film is the second in the series, but the fifth chronologically. The sequel to "Star Wars" (1977) takes place three years after events in the first film.

Seeing "Star Wars: Episode V" on the big screen at Banko Cinemas was certainly a nostalgic cinematic experience. It was startling to see how young Harrison Ford (Han Solo), Mark Hamill (Luke Skywalker) and Carrie Fisher (Princess Leia) are in the film.

Han and Leia provide more romantic sparks than I remembered. C-3PO and R2-D2 are a delightful nattering comedic duo. Chewbacca is roarily endearing. Yoda instructing Han is particularly memorable.

Alec Guinness floating as the spirit of Obi-Wan Kenobi is touching. And there's the great voice of James Earl Jones as Darth Vader and the thrilling John Williams' score.

The AT-AT walkers' battle, the malfunctioning Millennium Falcon lumbering along, the X-wing fighter zooming across the stars and the lightsaber battle between Luke and Darth Vader provide thrilling action scenes.

The film is regarded by many as the best in the "Star Wars" saga, and as a rare example of a sequel that transcends the original. The climax, in which Darth Vader tells Luke that he's his father, is said to be one of the greatest plot twists in cinema history.

"The Empire Strikes Back" was followed by "Return of the Jedi" in 1983, completing the original "Star Wars" trilogy. The film has grossed more than $577 million worldwide from its original release and re-releases.

"It was the best movie theater experience of the summer," said Michael "Movie Maven" Gontkosky after he and I saw "Star Wars: Episode V" at the 4 p.m. Aug. 8 screening at Banko Cinemas.

"The only one," I replied to Mike.

The last film that Mike and I saw in an indoor movie theater was "The Way Back," March 16, at New Vision Tilghman Square 8.

Mike saw "The Empire Strikes Back" when it was first released. He saw the movie at the former Eric Theater, Allentown. He was eight-years-old.

The personnel at Banko Cinemas made the movie-going experience flawless.

Each screening was limited to 25 persons. The Banko Red Cinema holds 200. The Banko Blue Cinema holds 100.

"We were going to open in early July," said Hill. "Our capacity was going to be 48.

Pennsylvania Gov. Wolf on July 15 ordered in-door capacity limited to a maximum of 25.

"That's probably why you don't see a lot of theaters opening right now from a financial standpoint," Hill said.

"The backdrop of Musikfest and people already being there allowed us to have a little more flexibility."

Face masks were required to be worn by staff and movie-goers.

Social distancing was in force, and not only for the lightsaber battles in "Star Wars: Episode V - The Empire Strikes Back 40th Anniversary"

Seating was every other row. At least two seats were empty between movie-goers. Aisle seats were empty.

Banko Cinemas were cleaned between each screening. Bathrooms were cleaned hourly.

ArtsQuest followed the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and state and local guidelines.

Said Hill, looking to the possibility of a coronavirus vaccine or a time when the COVID-19 pandemic is brought under control, "When we get on the other side of this, there's going to be a glut of cinema."

Now I'll give that five popcorn boxes out of five popcorn boxes.

And if the trailer for "Tenet," shown before "Star Wars: Episode V," is any indication, "Tenet" looks amazing.

ALL ATTENDEES OF ANY EVENT HELD BY ELITE REVENUE SOLUTIONS, LLC, WILL BE REQUIRED TO WEAR A MASK COVERING THEIR MOUTH AND NOSE AT ALL TIMES, AND WILL ALSO BE REQUIRED TO SOCIALLY DISTANCE THEMSELVES (6 FEET APART) FROM ANY PERSONS NOT IN THEIR HOUSEHOLD. DUE TO THESE RESTRICTIONS LIMITING OUR RESOURCES AND SPACE, ONLY REGISTERED BIDDERS WILL BE PERMITTED TO ATTEND THIS TAX SALE. ANYONE NOT ADHERING TO THESE POLICIES WILL BE ASKED TO LEAVE.**

NOTICE is hereby given by ELITE REVENUE SOLUTIONS, LLC, as agent for the Lehigh County Tax Claim Bureau, in and for the COUNTY OF LEHIGH under Sections 601-609 inclusive of the Real Estate Tax Law of 1947, as amended, that the Bureau will expose at public sale in the Lehigh County Government Center, at 10:00 A.M., on September 16, 2020 or any date to which the sale may be adjourned, readjusted or continued, for the purpose of collecting unpaid 2018 and any PRIOR REAL ESTATE TAXES, PRIOR LIENS, MUNICIPAL CLAIMS, and all costs hereto, the following described set forth. Please make reference to the Tax Parcel Number and Property Identification Number with all correspondence.

The sale of this property may, AT THE OPTION OF THE BUREAU, be stayed if the owner thereof or any lien creditor of the OWNER, before the date of the sale, enters into an agreement with the BUREAU to pay the TAXES, Claims and Costs in installments in the manner provided by said Act, and the agreement to be entered into. The Bureau is prohibited from entering into a new installment agreement to stay sale within three (3) years of any default on an agreement to stay sale. (Section 603).

These Taxes and Costs can be paid up to the time of the sale.

THERE WILL BE NO REDEMPTION PERIOD AFTER THE DATE OF THE SALE.

IT IS STRONGLY URGED that prospective purchasers have an examination made of the title to any property in which they may be interested. Every effort has been made to keep the proceedings free from error. However, in every case the TAX CLAIM BUREAU is selling the TAXABLE INTEREST and the property is offered for sale by the TAX CLAIM BUREAU without any guarantee or warranty whatever, either as to structure or lack of structure upon the land, the liens, title or any other matter or thing whatsoever. Elite Revenue, in accordance with the statute, made diligent and reasonable efforts to provide notice to the record owner. Lien holders were not notified and all properties are being sold subject to any existing liens.

It is repeated that there is no redemption after the property is sold and all sales will be final. No adjustments will be made after the property is struck down.

THE PROPERTY MAY BE REDEEMED from the Tax Sale by paying the delinquent taxes, fees, interest penalties and costs prior to the day of the public auction. The payments must be cash, cashiers check, money order or certified check. The right to redeem the property expires on September 16, 2020.

THERE IS NO RIGHT OF REDEMPTION ON THE DAY OF OR AFTER THE PUBLIC AUCTION. If no payment has been received prior to the time of the sale, the property will be sold on September 16, 2020.

Prospective purchasers at all tax sales are required to certify as follows:

- In accordance with Section 619a of the Real Estate Tax Sale Law, 72 P.S. § 5860.619a, a successful bidder shall be required to provide certification to the Bureau that such person is not delinquent in paying real estate taxes owed to taxing bodies within Lehigh County, nor is such person bidding on behalf of another individual or entity who is delinquent in paying real estate taxes owed to taxing bodies within Lehigh County; and
- In accordance with Section 619a of the Real Estate Tax Sale Law, 72 P.S. § 5860.619a, a successful bidder shall be required to provide certification to the Bureau that such person is not delinquent in paying municipal utility bills owed to municipalities within Lehigh County, nor is such person bidding on behalf of an individual or entity who is delinquent in paying municipal utility bills owed to municipalities within Lehigh County.
- Prospective bidders must register prior to sale. NO REGISTRATION WILL BE TAKEN THE DAY OF THE SALE.
- A successful bidder shall not tender a bad check to the Tax Claim Bureau when purchasing property in the sale. If this should occur that bidder shall not be permitted to bid on any properties in future sales and will be referred to the Lehigh County District Attorneys Office for prosecution under Pennsylvania Crimes Code, 18 Pa. C.S.A §4105 which may lead to a CONVICTION OF A FELONY OF THE THIRD DEGREE.

5. Pursuant to Section 601 (d) of the Real Estate Tax Sale Law, 72 P.S. § 5860.601 (d), prospective bidders must certify that they have not had a landlord license revoked in any municipality in Lehigh County and that they are not acting as an agent for a person whose landlord license has been revoked.

Certification forms are available in the Tax Claim Bureau or on-line at www.lehighcountytaxclaim.com. Click on Upset Sale and bidder's certification.

Prospective bidders must register prior to the sale. NO REGISTRATION WILL BE TAKEN ON THE DAY OF THE SALE. Registration and certification forms are available in the Tax Claim Bureau and online at www.lehighcountytaxclaim.com. All prospective bidders must present one (1) form of photo identification at the time of registration and on the date of the sale. Failure to present photo identification at the time of registration will prevent a prospective bidder from being registered to bid. Failure to present photo identification on the date of the sale will prevent the bidder from receiving his bidder number and thus barring the registered bidder from having the opportunity to bid on property. Only the registered bidder may bid at the sale using the bidder number provided by the Bureau. Use of the bidder number by individuals other than the registered bidder is prohibited and may nullify a successful bid.

*Immediately upon conclusion of the sale, a deposit of $1,000.00 or the bid amount, whichever is higher, must be made via certified funds, money order or cash to Elite Revenue Solutions, LLC by each successful bidder immediately upon the closing of bidding for each parcel. Failure to make said deposit will result in nullification of the bid and the property will be re-auctioned to a new bidder. In the event that the deposit is made but the bidder does not return to pay the balance by 4:00 p.m. the day of the sale, the bid will be nullified, the deposit will be forfeited, the bidder will be barred from future sales, and the property will be offered to the second-highest bidder or relisted at the next upset sale. The remainder of the successful bid must be paid by the close of business (4pm) on September 16, 2020 via certified funds, cash or credit card****

The second-highest bidder will be contacted by telephone the morning of September 17, 2020 and will be offered the parcel at the HIGHEST bid in the event the winning bidder failed to make full payment on the date of sale. The second-highest bidder may decline without any penalty whatsoever, or may accept and make payment by 4:00 p.m. on Friday, September 18, 2020.

IMPORTANT Right to surplus sale proceeds. If the property is not redeemed from public sale and you are the record owner, then you are entitled to sale proceeds which exceed taxes, interest, penalties, costs, Commonwealth Liens, Municipal Liens, Government Liens and Judgment Liens.

RIGHT: From left, graduating seniors Gina Gaglione, Selena Saliby and Madison McLaughlin under the cloudy skies that had the Bethlehem Catholic HS administration scrambling to reconfigure the July 22 evening's commencement. Gaglione is bound for Moravian College as an education major. Saliby, enrolled at Penn State Lehigh Valley, and McLaughlin, at West Chester University, are both finance majors.

Carson Braxmeier is photographed by his parents Philip and Tracey. The newly-minted graduate scored two scholarships to study accounting at the University of Scranton.
