Governor Wolf: 'We must each do our part'

BY NATE JASTRZEMSKI
njastrzemi@tnonline.com

"We have been largely successful in our fight against COVID-19 thanks to the hard work and sacrifices of every Pennsylvanian," said Governor Tom Wolf last week, "but with a recent and ongoing rise in cases, we must remain vigilant, continue to listen to healthcare professionals and each do our part to prevent this dangerous virus from spreading through our communities." The Wolf administration has stressed the importance of mask-wearing as paramount to helping stop the spread of COVID-19. Combined with social distancing, this simple act can protect people and businesses and help increase our freedoms.

In a separate release, Wolf explained, "The mitigation efforts we took on July 15 were a proactive step to get in front of the rise of cases that we continue to see. Our percent positivity decreased this week, which is a positive sign, but in order to continue to see numbers decrease, we must continue to wear masks and practice social distancing.

"Going out without a mask and congregating at a bar or in a crowded backyard party where social distancing isn't being practiced continues to lead to spikes in cases. We need to recommit to these simple measures to stop the spread and go back to more freedoms."

As of July 30, the state has seen a seven-day case increase of 6,228; the previous seven-day increase was 6,010, alerting that cases are continuing to rise throughout the state.

The statewide percent positivity went down to 4.6 percent from 4.7 percent last week. Counties with concerning per-

Mayor Bob Donchez at the July 21 city council meeting reported 82 COVID-19 related deaths in Bethlehem since the beginning of the pandemic. He said there have been 1,126 positive cases.

In other business, council approved the authorization and issue of a general obligation bond not to exceed $8.5 million for the purpose of re-funding a prior note.

It is easy to forget just how far science and medicine have come in the past 50 years. What many may not realize is that a pioneer of scientific advancement lives right within our own community.

Bethlehem resident Jerry Horn formerly worked as a microbiologist on a life-changing advancement: measles vaccine.

"I was there with test tubes and pipettes," Horn says of his days as a researcher who aided in the development of the vaccine.

According to the World Health Organization, before the measles vaccine's development, widespread epidemics occurred often and caused approximately 2.6 million deaths per year, mostly children. Measles, which notably cause respiratory issues and a rash that spreads

WARNING: Seeds in mail

Agriculture Secretary Russell Redding warns consumers to properly discard and report unordered and mislabeled seeds shipped from overseas. Consumers nationwide have received seeds in packages labeled as jewelry. These seeds may contain plant diseases, weeds or invasive plants that could harm Pennsylvania's agriculture industry and ecosystem.

"Seeds sold in Pennsylvania are rigorously tested to ensure that they are genetically pure and regulated to ensure that what's on the label is what's in the package," Redding said. "Planting seeds without knowing what they are can wreak havoc with our environment, destroy agricultural crops and incur costly control efforts for years to come."

Seeds labeled as jewelry are likely a scam known as "brushing." Companies boost online sales by purchasing their own products through fake buyer accounts created by the company. The products are shipped to a real address, to someone who didn't order the item.

The seller writes a positive review of their items from the fake buyer account.

In the past, scammers have sent empty packages. Recent packages have been filled with unlabeled seeds.

Consumers who receive unsolicited seeds are asked to retain the seeds and packaging. If opened, double bag and seal the seeds. Do not plant them or discard loose seeds.

Report the package to the US Department of Agriculture's (USDA) confidential Antismuggling Hotline, 800-877-3835 or email SITC.Mail@aphis.usda.gov. USDA will provide further instructions.

The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's seed program licenses seed distributors, and analyzes and certifies seeds to help ensure that seeds are free of pathogens, invasive plants and noxious weeds.

Handwerkplatz, presented by Martin Guitar, Musikfest's popular artisan village in Historic Bethlehem, is transitioning to an online shopping destination this year to highlight the region's artists. The site, located at www.musikfest.org/virtualhandwerkplatz, is live and will be available through the end of August. Handwerkplatz has an official shopping portal featuring links and photos of participating artisans. ArtsQuest encouraged the community and 'fest fans to support these independent businesses, many of whom have been hit hard as arts events and festivals across the nation have been canceled. The site links to the artists' websites and ArtsQuest's resident artists at the Banana Factory, including the glass studio, featured on the online shopping portal. In addition, videos demonstrating how the artisans' products are made are released each day. Crafters are invited to submit their own videos to ArtsQuest for the chance to be one of the top 10 selected to be featured.

Musikfest 2020 is taking place through Aug. 9 and includes 40 concerts shown via Musikfest.org as part of Virtual Musikfest, 40 performances by bands performing live from the Service Electric TV studios and an on-site food and beverage experience at SteelStacks that will include at least 10 Musikfest favorite food vendors. Additional details on the festival, including possible additional in-person events and concerts at SteelStacks, are being announced as they develop.

Wolf said people claiming an exception to masking who do not have a mask are potentially putting the lives of those they encounter at risk. "Wearing a mask is a nonpartisan, non-political statement that you care about the people you encounter and is a sign of kindness and respect."

Along with a focus on voluntary compliance, several state and local agencies are responsible for enforcing important health and safety mandates, and request residents assist in maintaining public safety. Pennsylvanians can play a role by appropriately reporting suspected violations of these orders put in place to keep people safe.

The Secretary of Health's orders were issued pursuant to the authority granted to her under the law, and have the force and effect of law.

As with all current orders, if citations were to be issued, they would be issued pursuant to Pennsylvania's Disease Control and Prevention Act of 1955, 35 P.S. § 521.20(a) and The Administrative Code of 1929, 71 P. S. § 1409, which are the same statutory sections that were used for business closure enforcement.

Defining the Statutes

Pennsylvania's Disease Control and Prevention Act of 1955, 35 P.S. § 521.20(a): Any person who violates any of the provisions of this act or any regulation shall, for each offense, upon conviction thereof in a summary proceeding before any magistrate, alderman or justice of the peace in the county wherein the offense was committed, be sentenced to pay a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars ($25) and not more than three hundred dollars ($300), together with costs, and in default of payment of the fine and costs, to be imprisoned in the county jail for a period not to exceed thirty (30) days.

Administrative Code of 1929, 71 P. S. § 1409: Every person who violates any order or regulation of the Department of Health, or who resists or interferes with any officer or agent thereof in the performance of his duties in accordance with the regulations and orders of the Department of Health, shall, upon conviction thereof in a summary proceeding before a justice of the peace, alderman, or magistrate of the county wherein such violation or offense is committed, be sentenced to pay a fine of not less than ten ($10.00) dollars and costs nor more than fifty ($50.00) dollars and costs, such fine to be paid to the county in which the violation or offense is committed. In default of payment of such fine and costs the offender shall be sentenced to be confined in the proper county jail for a period of 30 days.

Law Enforcement

All local law enforcement agencies in Pennsylvania can enforce the Worker Health and Safety Measures, Building Safety, mask-wearing and July 15 targeted mitigation orders. The Pennsylvania State Police (PSP) has issued 52 warnings related to orders to date.

The State Police Bureau of Liquor Control Enforcement conducts hundreds of compliance checks each day at licensed liquor establishments to ensure licensees are complying with masking, social distancing and other requirements, in particular the July 15 targeted mitigation orders. Regular updates are posted at psp.pa.gov.

Liquor Control Board

The Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board has provided guidance to bars and restaurants and is notified of Pennsylvania State Police citations. Depending on the level of infraction, PLCB could suspend a business's liquor license and further enforcement could put the license at risk.

Department of Health

The Department of Health plays a role in enforcement of all existing orders to protect the health and safety of all Pennsylvanians.

Complaints or notices of possible violation received from residents or the Department of Agriculture or other complainants are vetted and referred to the proper authority, typically the Pennsylvania State Police or local law enforcement.

Workers are encouraged to first communicate with their employer if they feel they are not being appropriately protected in their workplace. If that does not produce the desired result, a worker can reach out directly to local law enforcement via a non-emergency number, or to the Department of Health and fill out a COVID-19 complaint form, available there. That completed form is vetted and followed up on by the department and, if appropriate, referred to PSP for investigation. If the business location doesn't fall under PSP's jurisdiction, PSP

VACCINATION CLINICS: Mayor Bob Donchez announced that the Bethlehem Health Bureau is partnering with UBMe to help operate their mass vaccination clinics in a manner that will ensure that clients are safe and appropriately distanced. UBMe, a Bethlehem-based technology company, recently augmented an already existing app to provide a safer environment for employees and customers during the pandemic.

The Bethlehem Health Bureau is planning on holding several childhood immunization and flu vaccine clinics over the next few months. The health bureau collaborated with UBMe to incorporate the necessary social distancing component into the clinics. The UBMe app will allow clients to virtually "check in" when they arrive at the clinic. The clients will remain in their vehicle until they are ready to be seen by health bureau staff. The technology will also allow users to communicate with staff from inside their own vehicle.

The city's Community and Economic Development Department has provided over $45,000 of funding to UBMe through the Southside Bethlehem Keystone Innovation Zone. "This is a great example of our entrepreneurs pivoting to meet the demands of the community" says Donchez. "Sometimes the return on investment in these companies can come years down the road, but in this case, it has happened immediately."

HANOVER (NORCO) TOWNSHIP

COMMUNITY CENTER: The Board of Supervisors has made the difficult decision to temporarily close the Hanover Township Community Center effective Aug. 8. The township has made this decision after careful consideration of all alternatives.

As a result of the current economic impact of COVID-19 (coronavirus) and in light of future uncertainties regarding the sustainably safe operation of public activities hosted by and at the Community Center, Hanover Township is implementing measures to ensure the financial stability of the township. The current pandemic situation has impacted operations significantly, and as a result, they find that they must make some difficult decisions.

They found it impossible to balance the health and safety needs of all members of the Community Center and remain compliant with the requirements of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), Pennsylvania Department of Health (PA DoH) and the governor's orders.

They understand this decision will cause hardship to some, but must consider everyone's health, safety and welfare. Hanover Township will continue to monitor this fluid situation and will make decisions as events dictate.

NORTHAMPTON COUNTY

DRIVE-THRU TESTING SITE: A new COVID-19 drive-through testing site opened July 27 at Coordinated Health—3100 Emrick Blvd., Bethlehem Township. Hours of operation are Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. – 4 p.m.. Saturday hours will be available twice a month from 9 a.m. – noon. The drive-through testing center is located in the parking area to the rear of the Coordinated Health building and is separate from patient parking and routine patient care.

A physician's order is not required but, to be eligible for testing, individuals must report or display one or more CDC-recognized symptoms of COVID-19: fever, dry cough, shortness of breath, chills, muscle pain, headache, sore throat or loss of taste and/or smell. The drive-through site is open to everyone, but only residents of Northampton County will receive a free test if they do not have health coverage. All testing will be through HNL Lab Medicine unless insurance requires an alternate laboratory. Participants should bring a photo ID and their insurance card, if they have one, with them to the testing site.

PENNSYLVANIA

PLCB ENFORCEMENT: Pennsylvania State Police Liquor Control enforcement officers visited 973 licensed liquor establishments from Wednesday, July 29, through Thursday, July 30 to ensure businesses are abiding by COVID-19 mitigation requirements that include social distancing, masking, and other health and safety requirements of the liquor code.

Liquor Control Enforcement Officers issued two notices of violation and 32 warnings for failing to follow COVID-19 requirements. Compliance checks are unannounced and can occur anywhere in the commonwealth, although the focus is on areas experiencing higher coronavirus transmission rates. Among other requirements, all businesses and employees in the restaurant and retail food service industry authorized to conduct in-person activities are mandated to:

- Require all customers to wear masks while entering, exiting or otherwise traveling throughout the restaurant or retail food service business (face masks may be removed while seated). Further, employees are required to wear masks at all times.

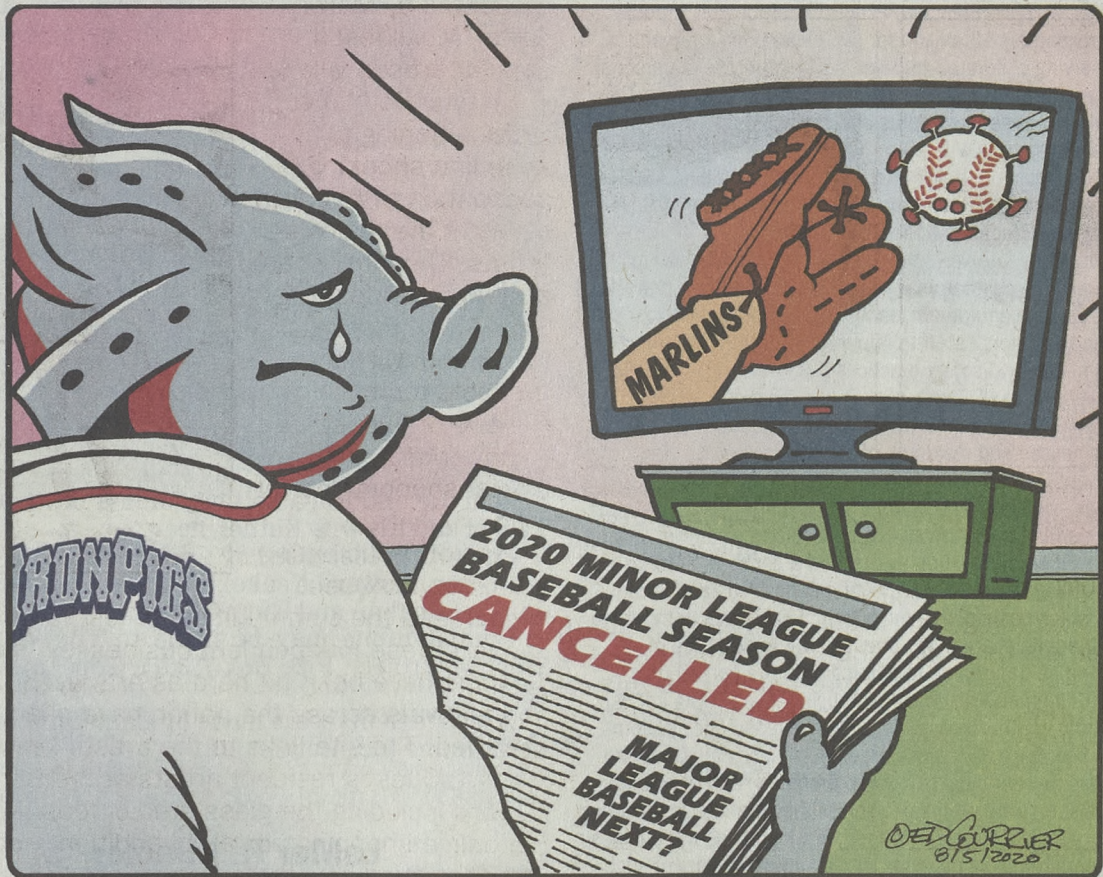

- Provide at least six feet between parties at tables or physical barriers between customers where booths are arranged back to back.

- Ensure maximum occupancy limits for indoor and outdoor areas are posted and enforced.

Community Center to close temporarily

BY ELI FRAERMAN

Special to the Bethlehem Press

HANOVER TOWNSHIP

The Hanover Township Board of Supervisors announced during their July 28 meeting held via Zoom they have decided to temporarily close the Hanover Township Community Center, effective Aug. 8.

The decision, which was made during an executive session for personnel matters, was due to uncertainties regarding the coronavirus pandemic and concern over properly meeting safety guidelines while executing programming, Township Manager Jay Finnigan said.

Due to those uncertainties, Finnigan said it is unknown when the community center will be able to reopen and host programming.

"It was hard to segment elderly folks to come in and use our programs – and daycare and childcare and meet the stringent guidelines of the CDC, the department of health and everything," Finnigan said. "It was, in the opinion of the board, impossible to make all the pegs fit into the round holes to make it successful at this time."

Finnigan and supervisor Jeff Warren both noted that discussions took place in an attempt to find any alternatives possible, but in the end it was in the best interest of residents to close the community center, especially due to the uncertainty of the coronavirus.

"This entire situation has put our municipality and a lot of other municipalities in a holding type of pattern," Warren said.

In regard to planning and zoning, the board unanimously approved the conditional use applications of both Advanced Health Care and Universal Adler, LLC. Hearings for the conditional use applications of both were held at the June 23 supervisors meeting.

Advanced Health Care, located at 3370 High Point Blvd., applied for conditional use for a transitional care and rehab facility. The conditional use was approved under conditions that the applicant obtains a skilled nursing license from the Pennsylvania Department of Health, the facility will not be used as a drug and alcohol rehabilitation facility, the facility will not have vehicular access to Old Stoke Park Road and that the applicant addresses comments made by the Hanover Township engineering review board.

Universal Adler, LLC received conditional use approval for an adult day care facility at 3864 Adler Place at an already existing building.

The conditional use was approved under the conditions that the applicant provides all required Pennsylvania licenses and permits to Hanover Township prior to occupancy, as well as comply with comments on the Hanover Township engineering review board.

Additionally, an advertisement was placed for a potential change to the maximum building height ordinance in Hanover Township, with a decision likely not coming before September, according to the board.

The board also unanimously approved a proposed ordinance to extend a nonexclusive franchise agreement with RCN Telecom Services Inc. for 10 years

Supervisor Jeff Warren agrees with Township Manager Jay Finnigan that there are too many unknowns to keep the community center operating in this climate.

In regard to operating cable services in all public areas of the township. The township had signed a previous agreement with RCN in 2010.

The ordinance requires that RCN pay a five percent franchise fee, which is the largest that Hanover Township can charge under the telecommunications act.

0602 or reported through the BLCE's online complaint form.

PRE-SCHOOL PANDEMIC SUPPLIES: Governor Wolf is dedicating approximately $3 million for preschool early intervention programs serving children 3 to 5-years-old to purchase personal protective equipment and other pandemic-related supplies. The funding will help to keep students and staff safe and meet the unique challenges of COVID-19.

The Coronavirus Aid, Relief and Economic Security (CARES) Act authorizes governors to determine the educational use of Governor's Emergency Education Relief (GEER) Funds.

Preschool Early Intervention Programs offering classroom services to eligible children may request GEER funds to provide personal protective equipment, sanitization and disinfecting supplies, and additional staff to support COVID-19 mitigation and training on health and safety practices. PEIPs will receive direct communication from PDE with eGrant application instructions.

REPORTING MITIGATION VIOLATIONS: Throughout the commonwealth, businesses and residents of Pennsylvania are doing their part to prevent the spread of COVID-19 and keep themselves, their families, their customers and their communities safe - most notably by wearing masks in all businesses and whenever leaving home. The Wolf administration has issued a series of orders since March with the single goal of protecting Pennsylvanians from COVID-19, which has claimed more than 7,000 lives in the state.

The Wolf administration has stressed the importance of mask-wearing as paramount to helping stop the spread of COVID-19. Combined with social distancing, this simple act can protect people and businesses and help increase our freedoms.

Per the Secretary of Health's order, businesses must require all customers to wear masks while on premises, and deny entry to individuals not wearing masks, unless the business is providing medication, medical supplies, or food, in which case the business must provide alternative methods of pick-up or delivery of such goods.

There are limited exceptions to the mask order, which include those who cannot wear a mask due to a medical condition, those for whom wearing a mask would create an unsafe condition, individuals who would be unable to remove a mask without assistance, individuals under the age of two, and individuals who are communicating or seeking to communicate with someone who is hearing-impaired or has another disability where the ability to see the mouth is essential for communication.

Pennsylvanians can play a role by appropriately reporting suspected violations of these orders put in place to keep people safe.

MASKS AND CHILDREN: Pediatricians with the American Academy of Pediatrics and a child advocacy organization are weighing in on the importance of wearing masks for all, including children older than 2. This guidance mirrors that of Governor Wolf and Secretary of Health Dr. Rachel Levine as a required mitigation effort to stop the spread of COVID-19 in the state.

"We saw cases rise recently in Allegheny County and due to all of us wearing masks, practicing physical distancing and hand hygiene, cases are coming back down," said William Keough, MD, MSc, FAA, Co-Chair, PA Chapter, American Academy of Pediatrics, Advocacy Committee, Medical Director, UPMC Health Plan. "For everyone over 2 years of age, wearing a face covering when outside your home along with hand and cough hygiene and physical distancing are decades old, scientifically proven ways to slow the spread of infection. Please, for the health of everyone, do your part to slow the spread of this deadly virus."

VEHICLE AUCTION: As Pennsylvania continues its efforts to prevent the spread of COVID-19 and protect its citizens, the commonwealth announced that the Vehicle Auction scheduled for Aug. 11 at Manheim Keystone Pennsylvania will not be held.

The August auction was the fourth of six vehicle auctions scheduled for 2020. The next auction is scheduled for Oct. 13.

Boscola secures loan to local manufacturer

Senator Lisa Boscola announced that CryoConcepts, LP, a Northampton County business, was approved for a $400,000 low-interest loan through the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority that will allow the company to purchase of new equipment and machinery, a project which will create eight new full-time jobs and retain 20 additional jobs.

"PIDA is one of Pennsylvania's most successful economic development programs," Boscola said. "I'm very pleased to see these state funds invested in helping a local company to expand and help its employees to keep their good-paying jobs."

With the goal of creating and retaining full-time jobs, PIDA offers low interest loans and lines of credit to Pennsylvania businesses. PIDA is currently offering interest rates between two and three percent for applications received by March 31.

Plans to develop the property into townhouses were approved in 2005.

Altonah Road - Named for a small village that was north of Bethlehem. It is said to come from the corruption of the German "all zu nah" meaning "all too near." A farm had been cut into building lots with the idea to start a small settlement, but when there was trouble selling the lots the failure was attributed to being too near to Bethlehem. Another explanation is that its church was too near to Bethlehem to be justified.

Macada Road - This name was chosen by William H. Best, who operated a general store along the Nazareth Pike. The area called Alto-nah was growing and needed a post office, but since the name was too close to Altoona it was suggested to pick something unique to avoid confusion. At this time the Nazareth Pike was being macadamized, so Best dropped the "m" from macadam and from then on the area was known as Macada.

Johnston Drive - Planned as a major East-West link for residential traffic in North Bethlehem, the name was selected in 1954 in honor of Archibald Johnston. Johnston was a mechanical engineer who rose through the ranks of the Bethlehem Steel Company and became first mayor of Bethlehem. Johnston had owned a large farm and estate on nearby Quaker Hill, which he renamed Camel's Hump.

Santee Mill Road - Named for an 18th-century grist mill operated by the Santee family that sat on the northeast corner of Santee Mill and Township Line roads. When Archibald Johnston acquired the property in 1919, he reactivated the mill. In 1978 it was gutted by fire and razed in 1980.

Christian Spring Road - Derives its name from a Moravian colony of Single Brothers, Christiansbrunn (Christian's Spring), located just off the Bethlehem-Nazareth road. It was named in 1749 in honor of Count Zinzendorf's son, Christian Renatus.

Pine Top Trail - Originally called Nuttlestown Road, which means needletown in Pennsylvania German, this road supposedly received its name because of all the needlework done by ladies at the grange building along St. Thomas UCC on Mac-ada Road. The spelling eventually changed to Knuttletown, and story goes that a local farmer lost his sheep after a bad storm, but found them after following their droppings - Knuttle being stool in Pa. German. In 1937, a group of residents petitioned for the road to be renamed Pine Top Trail, as the summit was covered with pine trees.

Brodhead Road - This name was derived from the village of Brodhead, sometimes called Brodhead Station because the train stopped there. The community was located between Bethlehem and Nazareth on the Nazareth Pike.

According to Miller-Keystone Blood Center, the regional blood supply is in urgent need of donations as hospitals have resumed elective surgeries. It is critical individuals in the community donate blood in order to meet the transfusion needs of regional hospitals. Blood is perishable and there is no substitute – the only source is the volunteer blood donor. Platelets have a five-day shelf life and are very difficult to keep available. Red blood cells have a 42-day shelf life but are quickly used up, especially if there is no one available to replenish the supply.

As organizations begin to resume operations, Miller-Keystone Blood Center has started to schedule on-site bloodmobile drives. Any organization wishing to make the arrangements for an on-site bloodmobile drive can contact the blood center at 800-223-6667 to speak with an account manager.

Gov. Wolf rips into Rep. Diamond

BY NATE JASTRZEMSKI
njastzowski@tntonline.com

Governor Tom Wolf had an emphatic response last week to a state representative’s press release mocking transgender and LGBTQ rights.

When Health Secretary Dr. Rachel Levine addressed recent transphobic attacks against her and others in the LGBTQ community, Representative Russ Diamond released a nearly identical statement word-for-word. However, it replaced the word “transgender” with “unmasked,” co-opting a message against hate in favor of behavior that is prolonging a devastating national health emergency even as other countries see significant recovery.

Wolf called Diamond’s statement, “Abhorrent, disrespectful, dangerous. There are no words that adequately describe my disdain for the antics Rep. Diamond displayed in his latest missive.

“Rep. Diamond’s press release is nothing more than a thinly veiled attack on the LGBTQ community and the commonwealth’s Secretary of Health, Dr. Rachel Levine, a transgender woman, and a nationally respected leader in public health, whose bravery and resolve in the face of constant attacks is laudable.

“Virtually no thinking person disputes mask-wearing as an effective means to stop the spread of COVID. Proud non-mask-wearers such as Rep. Diamond are not displaying their freedom, but rather their ignorance and lack of respect for themselves, their families, neighbors and communities when they don’t wear a mask, and are likely leading to more spread of this dangerous virus.

“To equate any disrespect for those not wearing masks to the decades of disrespect, threats and violence against our LGBTQ community goes far beyond the hallmarks of a decent society. For these actions to come from a legislator elected to fairly represent all his constituents is simply unforgivable.

“I am calling on Republican House leadership to introduce a resolution to censure the representative immediately. We need the Republicans to stop spreading misinformation to the general public, and we badly need them to be more responsible and more responsive to the health and well-being of all Pennsylvanians. This dangerous, reckless behavior is not welcome in Pennsylvania.”

Diamond’s office responded to press inquiries only to say his anti-mask statement wasn’t mocking Levine’s anti-discrimination plea.

refers the complaint to local law enforcement for investigation.

Anyone who feels a business is in violation of the Worker Safety order or Building Safety order may contact local law enforcement or file a complaint with the department.

To date, the department has issued warning letters with the knowledge that its full authority includes fines, and closures if orders are not followed. The department continues to receive complaints and send warning letters to businesses that are not complying with the mitigation orders.

Department of Agriculture

The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture enforces the Secretary of Health's order as it relates to restaurants and other retail food facilities, including prohibitions or limits on dine-in services and masking requirements through the issuance of warnings and fines.

Since dine-in services have resumed, the department has received complaints surrounding restaurant staff not wearing masks as required, ignoring social distancing and otherwise not adhering to public health restrictions to limit person-to-person spread of COVID-19.

When such complaints are received, the department sends notices to the complainant and the business. These complaints are also referred to the Pennsylvania Department of Health for enforcement. The Department of Agriculture sends inspectors to follow up and may issue warnings and fines to restaurant owners. Complaints regarding concerns at restaurants and retail food facilities can be submitted to the department online.

Local Officials

Local law enforcement received guidance on enforcement of the various COVID-19 orders in place from the Pennsylvania State Police through the PA Chiefs of Police Association. Local police departments have discretion whether to warn or cite a business for violations. Citations may be written under the Administrative Code of 1929 71 P. S. § 1409 and/or the Disease Prevention and Control Law of 1955 35 P.S. § 521.20(a). The decision whether to issue a warning or a citation is made on a case-by-case basis and determined by the unique circumstances of each encounter.

YOUTH RESULTS

The Press family of newspapers would love to print youth results from any teams and leagues in our coverage area.

This is especially true as youth sports look to return during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Unfortunately, when it comes to youth results we depend on parents and coaches to keep us informed.

If you're interested in getting your teams results printed in the Press, please contact Scott Pagel at spagel@tnonline.com.

When submitting results, you don't even have to be a writer, just the basics like score and game highlights need to be included. We'll be happy to turn the information into write-ups.

EPC votes to delay sports

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

The PIAA has given the green light for fall sports to move ahead on schedule this fall, but the East Penn Conference will be taking a cautious approach.

A meeting between principals and athletic directors of the 18-member conference met last Thursday and delayed a vote on how the fall sports schedule will look until Tuesday, past Press deadlines.

However, the conference acknowledged that the season would be pushed back by a month for contact sports - football, field hockey and soccer - with practices starting on Sept. 14.

That means competitions won't begin until the last week of September and the first football games would be held Oct. 2.

Noncontact sports such as cross country, golf and tennis may be able to start on time, based on Tuesday's vote.

East Penn Conference vice president and Liberty athletic director Fred Harris confirmed the move and to have a final plan and vote to be resolved this week.

"There was a vote on a delayed tier start for fall sports based on contact and noncontact sports," said Harris, as the rumored support to push back the season was by a 13-5 margin. "Our goal is to compete in county as much as possible to help mitigate risk."

Harris didn't go into specifics in regards to the plans the EPC has on the table, but it appears that the league will want to limit competition to schools by county, meaning Lehigh, Northampton and Monroe counties would stay within their territories to compete against each other.

The PIAA held a board of directors meeting last Wednesday and gave leeway to localized decisions across the state.

Fall practices were set to begin on Aug. 10 for football's heat acclimatization period.

The first date for football across the state was slated for Aug. 28 with all sports starting by Sept. 4.

The PIAA approved two alternate plans to push golf, girls tennis, cross country, girls volleyball, field hockey and soccer to Sept. 14 and football to Sept. 18. Another plan pushed sports back to the first week of October as an official start of competitions.

Girls volleyball still has question marks, due to playing indoors and the state's restrictions of 25 people in a venue.

"Our biggest concern is to get the schools open," said Harris. "I think the league as a whole is set on what we want to do moving forward and there's consensus. We'll release those specifics next week after Tuesday's vote."

Editor's note: We'll update any new information we get on the EPC voting and any decisions made about fall sports on our website following Tuesday's vote.

Day one of the Lehigh Valley High School Softball Showcase featured eight teams and eight games played by Liberty, Salisbury, Allentown Central Catholic, Nazareth, Bangor, Freedom, Northampton, and Wilson at the Moore Township Recreational Center. Freedom and Northampton were the only teams to win both their games. The Patriots defeated Bangor, 3-0, and Nazareth, 8-2, and the Konkrete Kids defeated Liberty, 5-1, and Wilson, 6-2. Liberty defeated

Salisbury, 6-5, and Wilson also defeated Salisbury, 7-1. Central defeated Nazareth, 4-2, but lost to Bangor, 12-0. In Freedom's game against Bangor, Kaitlin McDevitt and Julia Heineman had two hits apiece, and Gabby Glick had one. Natalie Stannard and Brenna Ortwein had the RBIs for the Patriots. Juliana Presto was the winning pitcher, giving up only three hits, two in the seventh inning, and the only senior to play for Freedom. "It was really exciting to be with my team again. Everyone was so happy to be there," said Presto. "We were determined to win." Presto had 11 strikeouts. "I think my curve was working pretty well and my rise ball," she said. McDevitt also had three hits in Freedom's win over Nazareth. Abby Husser was the winning pitcher. Two victories apiece for Freedom and Northampton meant a trip to the semifinals and final two days later at Coca-Cola Park. "I'm very excited and very nervous," said Presto. "Being on that field, it's a really rare opportunity."

"My bat was really hot that day." Easton defeated Stroudsburg, 4-3, but Stroudsburg lost to Parkland, 6-0. Notre Dame Green Pond defeated Pen Argyl, 3-1, and Pen Argyl tied Pocono Mountain East, 6-6.

VIA MARATHON GOES VIRTUAL

The 2020 St. Luke's Via Marathon powered by Runner's World, is going virtual. In its 14th year, the race was scheduled for Sept. 13. Because of the COVID-19 pandemic, even in the "Green Phase," Pennsylvania is limiting sporting events to no more than 250 people. Last year, more than 2,700 people participated in the event. The virtual event will begin on July 1 and end on Sept. 13. During this two-month period, runners will have the option to complete a Marathon, Half Marathon, Team Relay, 10K, 5K or walk at their own pace. Participants who have registered prior to this announcement will have the opportunity to transition their registration to the virtual event, convert their registration fee to a 100% tax deductible donation to Via of the Lehigh Valley, or defer their entry to 2021. For the past 13 years, the Via Marathon has promoted health and wellness in the Lehigh Valley, while raising funds and awareness for Via's mission to help people with disabilities reach their full potential. Via has always counted on community support to meet its mission and is looking forward to engaging the community in this virtual event. Registration for the virtual St. Luke's Via Marathon will open on July 1 at www.ViaMarathon.org. Runners who have already registered for the event will receive an email with further information.

SPEED FREAKS

A few questions we had to ask ourselves

Where do you rank Childress Racing's 1-2 Texas finish among this year's surprises?
GODSPEAK: It busted into my top-5 list. I didn't see that one coming. It's going to be difficult to unseat the Daytona 500 finish as my top pick.

KEN'S CALL: It's more surprising than Cole Custer's win at Kentucky, and maybe even more surprising than Kyle Busch's ongoing absence from a Cup Series Victory Lane. But let's surely call it a pleasant surprise.

Is Tyler Reddick next to break through?
GODSPEAK: If he had just a little more tread on his tires, we'd be talking about a second rookie win this season. He will win a race this season and I sure hope he makes the playoffs.

KEN'S CALL: He was eighth and 10th at Indy and Kentucky before Sunday's runner-up finish, so this was no complete shock and, yes, he's a definite candidate for some checkers.

GODWIN'S PICKS FOR KANSAS

WINNER: Denny Hamlin
REST OF TOP 5: Brad Keselowski, Chase Elliott, Kyle Busch, Kevin Harvick

Keselowski claws way to statement win

By Godwin Kelly
godwin.kelly@news-jrnl.com

After a relatively quiet week, the stock cars go full throttle from here to season's end.

This is a particularly crazy stretch with Cup Series doubleheaders scheduled at Michigan and Dover sandwiched around a hastily scheduled road-course race at Daytona.

It's going to be a bumpy ride, so here goes . . .

FIRST GEAR: NASCAR fans have watched Denny Hamlin and Kevin Harvick combine for nine wins and listened to constant chatter of a two-driver race to the Cup Series championship.

Then along comes Brad Keselowski.

The 36-year-old driver beat those two other guys for a statement win at New Hampshire.

This was no gas mileage or rain shortened situation, but a straight-up man-to-man (and machines) battle for the right to hold a giant lobster in Victory Lane.

"We've had a lot of great races this year with the No. 2 car, but we just haven't really went out and kind of dominated a race," Keselowski said. "Talking to (crew chief) Jeremy Bullins and like, 'Man, what do we need to get to that next level? We're right there. We need to go out and just dominate a race.' And that's what we did."

SECOND GEAR: The hottest driver in the Cup Series?

That would be Bubba Wallace, who is in a contract year and listening to several proposals, including part ownership of Richard Petty Motorsports.

The whisper numbers swirling around Wallace are the No. 42 and No. 48 Chevy rides. Both need a new wheelman in 2021.

On the other end of the spectrum is 2019 Cup champion Kyle Busch, who finished last at New Hampshire. He has yet to win a race in 2020 and fell to 13th in the playoff qualifiers chart.

Still, Busch is 94 points to the good in points with six regular-season races left to contest.

THIRD GEAR: With doubleheader races the next three weeks, we may be just getting a glimpse at what's to come in the near future of NASCAR Cup Series scheduling.

The back-to-back model worked at Pocono, which produced two entirely different results. Also, NASCAR has been able to test-drive the mid-week race concept.

NASCAR lost seven weeks of racing because the coronavirus outbreak and has been in a scramble to sync up to its original schedule come the Aug. 29 Coke Zero Sugar 400 at Daytona, which is the regular season finale.

FOURTH GEAR: NASCAR announced a Cup road course race at Daytona on Aug. 16. Last week the sanctioning body revealed some of the particulars.

Daytona International Speedway's sports-car road course will be modified and officially called the Daytona Road Course, which measures in at 3.57 miles.

QUESTIONS & ATTITUDE

Compelling questions ... and maybe a few actual answers

What's up with Kyle Busch?

Those prone to conjecture say he's been hurt more than others by the elimination of pre-race practice sessions — suggesting he uses those shakedown laps better than most. Maybe that's it. However, with the same rules, he's won four of his nine combined starts in the Xfinity and Trucks Series. Oh, wait, here's another however: That 4-for-9 stat is actually down from last year, when he won nine of his 12 combined starts. Whatever, he's off the pace, and maybe New Hampshire was his bottoming-out point.

Can the No. 43 team keep Bubba?

By offering him an ownership stake in Richard Petty Motorsports, the team is throwing everything at the situation. Bubba's unconventional star-turn has attracted corporate sponsorship interest, and that's a huge part of the game, of course. RPM co-owner Andrew Murstein knows his team's best chance at advancing in on-track stature is keeping Bubba with the accompanying sponsor increases.

Under a hot Fourth of July sun, young families strolled through the just reopened Lehigh Valley Zoo, Schnecksville, stopping to admire penguins, otters and even giraffes.

With safety protocols in place, visitors were once again welcomed as of July 1.

No screens or devices were on view as zoo animals enchanted visitors with their antics, encouraging family members to share a pleasant outdoor experience and make memories.

Masked zoo personnel were upbeat and helpful, in compliance with the state mandate to wear masks.

According to the zoo's website, "Safety is our first priority during this time and so we will be firmly following all protocols."

All visitors over the age of two were required to wear masks.

"This is not only for the safety of our guests but for the protection of our animals as they cannot wear a mask. Some of our animals (like our cats) may be more susceptible to the virus and we want to keep them as safe as possible," the zoo's website states.

Visitors complied, despite the heat.

A misting station provided a few moments of cool wetness.

Hand sanitizer stations were also available throughout the zoo.

Social distancing was the order of the day, assisted by pavement markings and signs directing visitors throughout the zoo.

According to the zoo's website, "The changes, protocols, and cleaning

While the zoo was closed, "All the animals at the Lehigh Valley Zoo continuously received the best care for their

LV CHARTER HS FOR THE ARTS - JULY 30, 2020

'A life of bold choices'

BY NATE JASTRZEMSKI
njastz@nnonline.com

"This was not the year you wanted," said Carise Comstock.

It is a widely held sentiment that permeated the 17th graduation ceremony of the Lehigh Valley Charter HS for the Arts, held virtually July 30. Though longtime friends weren't able to comfort one another in person, several speakers shared their thoughts and experiences via pre-recorded messages interspersed with musical performances highlighting photos from earlier in the year.

Comstock, Charter Arts' president and CEO, listed happy memories of their years at the school in a two-minute rhyme, as is her custom. "The thing we want to do now is celebrate you. The memories are too many, it's hard to keep track, but I know that they are fond if we just take a look back."

She also noted how things have so drastically changed in a few short months, while encouraging the graduates not to be stymied by today's unusual challenges. "Life is like improv, said Stephen Colbert, 'it will be what you make it so take on every dare.' Take nothing for granted, make the most of it all, when someone asks for your help, always answer the call."

Board President Mario Acerra said he admires the graduates' spirit and dedication to the arts in an era when such classes are vanishing from many schools, and said he'd used his forced downtime to watch a pair of films on the incomparable Fred Rogers. He ended with a quote from the respected children's entertainer. "Even though his audience was children, I think he had a lot of advice for all of us. 'From the time you were very little, you've had people who have smiled you into smiling, people who have talked you into talking, sung you into singing, loved you into loving. They've always cared about you and have encouraged you to be true to the best within you.'

"I'd like us to take a moment to think about who those people were in your life, especially those who helped you through this recent challenge."

Diane LaBelle said, "When I knew I would be retiring as the CEO and executive director this year, I never dreamed I would be saying goodbye to you via virtual graduation speech being recorded in the theater. But none of us could have foreseen the impact that this pandemic has had on all of you: The performances you've missed, your prom, a virtual graduation."

"Every class of graduating seniors has challenges. Members of every class meet those challenges and grow because of them. You have witnessed experiences that nobody could have predicted, but your resilience, your passion and your talent have and will continue to guide your paths."

"In my 10 years at Charter Arts, the thing that still astounds me is how much I have learned from all of you, and continue to learn as you prepare for your future. One of the biggest things is your courage," she said, explaining the very act of leaving their local schools after eighth grade was a brave choice to begin with, and courage in making difficult decisions will help determine the future.

"The choice to come here was a truly courageous act. It prepared you for a life of bold choices."

Class speaker Emma Scott expressed the same inspiration.

"The future is often talked about as something like a philosophical enigma. What no one seems to tell you, though, is that the future is something we largely control. Class of 2020, we are standing on the precipice of the unknown. The actions we partake in now will dictate what lies ahead. The future is much more malleable than we think, and we have the power to mold it."

Scott said all the little events and stumbles are the building blocks that allow us to build a better future, and that graduation is about applying what you've learned to better yourself.

"My teachers taught me the importance of change, if it's scary at times, and my classmates taught me that we must educate ourselves on issues that may not even directly affect us. For the good of humanity, now is not the time for 'ignorance is bliss.'"

"Art will act as our vehicle to move forward and to improve. We will fulfill the true definition of graduation."

State Theatre™

Goes boldly into 2021 season with 'Hairspray,' 'Fiddler,' Ringo, more

BY PAUL WILLISTEIN
pwillistein@tnonline.com

The State Theatre is the Starship Enterprise of the Lehigh Valley arts and entertainment scene, and perhaps beyond.

Shelley Brown, President and CEO of the State Theatre, has gone where few arts venue administrators have gone before in the time of the coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic, in announcing the 94th season of the Easton arts center, scheduled January 2021 through June 2021.

In some kind of way, it's symbolically reminiscent of William Shatner as Captain James T. Kirk who, at the beginning of each episode of the "Star Trek" science-fiction television series (1966-1969), announced the mission thusly: "To boldly go where no man has gone before."

Or, to quote the 1971 hit from Ringo Starr, who celebrated his 80th birthday July 7 and whose tour was to have stopped June 6 at the State Theatre, because of the coronavirus pandemic, "You know it don't come easy."

Says Brown in the July 21 press release announcing the 2021 season, "We look forward to presenting a season of shows beginning in January 2021.

"We will begin with general admission shows as we ease back into our beautiful building, and also decide closer to show times what the show lengths will be and whether there will be intermissions."

"We are preparing diligently to welcome audiences back to enjoy fabulous entertainment together again," Brown says.

National tours scheduled for the State Theatre in 2021 include "Fiddler on the Roof," the 25th anniversary of "Rent," as well as "Jersey Boys,"

"Hairspray" and "Riverdance."

Concerts include the Early Elton Trio, Big Eyed Fish: Dave Matthews Band Tribute, Red Hot Chili Pipers, The Fab Faux, "Trifecta of Folk Greats": Kingston Trio, Brothers Four and Limelighters, Englebert Humperdinck, Motones & Jerseys: In Concert, "One Night of Queen," and Ringo Starr and his All-Starr Band.

The 2021 Freddy Awards are also scheduled.

Tickets for the new season went on sale to State Theatre members Aug. 4 and will go on sale to the public, 10 a.m. Aug. 12.

Tickets and memberships are available at: www.statetheatre.org.

The State Theatre Box Office remains closed to in-person sales. Phone orders are temporarily suspended.

Valley Health

Good Shepherd to build hospital in Upper Saucon

Good Shepherd Rehabilitation Network (GSRN) is planning a state-of-the-art Rehabilitation Hospital along Center Valley Parkway in Upper Saucon Township.

The three-story, 75-bed, inpatient facility will be built on 12 acres of GSRN-owned land, across from The Promenade Shops in Center Valley.

Construction is anticipated to take two years. The cost of the new facility has not been finalized.

The 123,000-square-foot facility will feature private rooms and offer world-class physical rehabilitation care to patients who are recovering from complex and catastrophic conditions, such as stroke, spinal cord injury, brain injury, multiple traumatic injuries, amputation, neurodegenerative diseases and more.

"Good Shepherd's Center Valley campus will serve as a destination for recovery for patients, from our region and across the globe, who turn to Good Shepherd for our unique brand of hope, compassion, comfort and healing," said Gary Schmidt, Chair, Board of Trustees, in a July 23 press release.

Plans call for the Center Valley Rehabilitation Hospital to replace GSRN's South Allentown rehabilitation hospital, which opened in 1983.

GSRN is conducting a feasibility study to analyze re-use options for the hospital building, 850 S. Fifth St., Allentown.

"While our current Rehabilitation Hospital operations and staff will eventually shift to Center Valley, we fully intend to maintain a strong presence in South Allentown," Schmidt said.

GSRN's administrative offices and support services will remain in South Allentown, as will a number of patient and resident services, including long-term care, outpatient rehabilitation and physician services.

The Rehabilitation Hospital will be built on a 45-acre parcel of land that GSRN acquired in 2016. GSRN is in the process of evaluating uses for the remaining acreage that will benefit Good Shepherd's patients and families, as well as Upper Saucon Township and surrounding areas.

Anthology examines LGBT health-care issues

BY DAVE HOWELL

Adrian Shanker, Executive Director of The Bradbury-Sullivan LGBT Community Center, Allentown, has edited and contributed to a book that challenges the health-care system in the United States.

"Bodies and Barriers: Queer Activists on Health" looks at a health-care system that, says

Literary Scene

Shanker, is all too often problematic for LGBT (Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgender) persons.

The 23-chapter book, divided into sections "Youth," "Young Adults," "Middle-Age Adults" and "Older Adults," has stories of hope but also describes how LGBT people have been let down by institutions.

The anthology was listed by NBC News as one of the "10 LGBTQ books to watch out for in 2020."

The Library Journal states: "On-the-ground activists and health-care professionals will be well served by this recommended anthology."

Shanker says that, at least in the Lehigh Valley, most of the problems derive from a lack of understanding.

"We have excellent hospitals in the Lehigh Valley," says Shanker. "Nearly always efforts from health care providers are well-intentioned, but they do not have the proper cultural response. They don't understand the unique needs of LGBT individuals."

viduals.

"There are LGBT health-care needs that are not met in the region. There are barriers to care from insurance and health networks, and services that are not offered anywhere in the Lehigh Valley.

"There are gaps, and people are being left behind. There are not specialists for every health-care need, such as transgender and gender confirmation surgeries.

"And we need health-care professionals who can help answer questions patients can have. On average, in medical school, only four lecture hours are devoted to LGBT issues."

Negative reactions and situations like bullying make disclosure difficult for many. "They carry their experiences with them," says Shanker. "Over 50 percent of LGBT and 75 percent of T [Transgender] people fear going to health-care providers."

While he was studying for a certificate for health policy in graduate school, Shanker discovered, "There was nothing by us or about us."

Shanker writes in the book about a negative experience he had at a dermatologist's office getting a cancer screening, which helped move him to compile the book.

"Every step of the way, I saw that the experience was not for patients like me. I looked for stories from other

Adrian Shanker

LGBT people, as well. We want to fix our broken health-care system and make it work for all of us.

"Some of the authors I knew personally, and some I knew as activists. Others were referred by other activists. And in some cases, I was looking for specific topics and I asked around."

The book covers numerous topics, including navigation of social services and pediatric care, Internet communication, family planning, addiction and recovery, caregiving, housing for older adults, and bereavement support groups.

Contributing authors include Alisa Bowman, Liz Bradbury and Annemarie Shankweiler.

Tyler Titus's chapter, "Surviving Suicide," is a no-holds-barred description of how self-loathing and bullying led him to make a nearly fatal decision.

Says Shanker, "We are not addressing the needs of LGBT youth.

They don't know where to turn to. The suicide rate is very high with them, which does go way down if they have family support."

Pennsylvania Secretary of Health Rachel Levine, who wrote the book's forward, states that nearly 40 percent of transgender individuals have attempted suicide in their lifetime, nine times the national average.

The book can be seen as an extension of the work done by the Bradbury-Sullivan Center, which offers health programs, including screening, testing and collecting health data.

Of particular interest to Shanker is smoking prevention, which he writes about in a chapter in the book. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention report that more than 20 percent of LGBT people smoke, compared to about 15 percent of straight people.

"We have to be our own health advocates," says Shanker. "We need to provide continuing education for LGBT issues and provide clinical settings that are welcoming for LGBT individuals."

Jerusalem Western Salisbury Church finds alternative event to canceled picnic

PRESS PHOTOS BY REBECCA FOEHRKOLB

The festival committee at Jerusalem Western Salisbury Church, 3441 Devonshire Road, Allentown, found a twist to their canceled Old Fashioned Congregational Picnic. Members of the church helped feed 309 students from Salisbury Township School District. They provided a breakfast and lunch meal for each student in need July 28 as well as school supplies for the younger students. ABOVE: Barbara Martin and Sue Burnside ask each driver how many meals are needed for students July 28. For students under 12, school supplies were also provided.

Coronavirus etiquette in the elevator

Dear Jacquelyn,
I have an appointment with my doctor and in order to get to the office I'm going to have to use an elevator. In this tiny mobile box, I want to be safe without coming across as rude. Do I say "Hi"? Were should I stand? What are the new etiquette guidelines for using an elevator?

Dear Reader,
The coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic is rewriting the rules of elevator etiquette.

The elevator ride, a previously unremarkable 90 or so seconds, has become yet another obstacle we need to navigate.

We know we should avoid crowded places

RESPECTFULLY YOURS

By Jacquelyn Youst

with poor ventilation and, unfortunately, that describes an elevator quite well. The enclosed space can seem like a petri dish for the coronavirus.

But elevators are a necessity and it's important to know what to do when the doors open and it's time to step in.

Elevator etiquette is the same protocol we should be using in other public spaces. Wear a mask, use hand sanitizer, and be aware of how close you are to others.

If an elevator door opens and two or three people are already in it and you feel comfortable, get in. But if you don't feel comfortable, wait until the elevator arrives again or, if there is more than one elevator, until the next elevator door opens.

I recommend using your best judgment. Because of the tight quarters, stand as far away as you can diagonally in the elevator and stay silent as you ride up or down. Being aware of your surroundings and taking the necessary precautions shows consideration for your fellow passengers and, hopefully, they will be a little more comfortable during the ride.

Your other option is: If you can take the stairs, it's a good idea. In addition to getting exercise, stairwells usually provide better ventilation.

Given all the unknowns with the coronavirus and all the new awkward social situations, the elevator provides an opportunity to outwardly show consideration for others. In this situation, silence is golden.

Respectfully Yours,
Jacquelyn

What makes you happy?

When my friend Jeanne joined me for an afternoon swim in my pool she was sadly singing her own version of "the sky is falling, the sky is falling."

The sky, in this case, is the life we once knew and treasured.

Swamped by coronavirus here in Florida, there's a lot for us to cope with now, but Jeanne is borrowing even more trouble from the future she expects.

Because her grandson lives with her and will soon be going back to high school, she worries that he will bring the coronavirus home to her.

"I'm going to die," she lamented. "With my asthma and breathing problems there is no way I could survive if I got the virus."

I told her we have enough to worry about with what is. We can't afford to worry about what might be.

After we talked it out, she was calmer but still mired in misery, saying she can't remember the last time she was happy.

"When was the last time you were tranquil and happy?" she challenged.

"This morning," I truthfully answered.

She wasn't expecting that answer.

Actually, the last time I was happy was just moments before she asked that question.

Swimming in my pool with a favorite friend is happiness for me.

It's been more than a decade since I moved to Paradise, but I'm still as happy as a little kid when I can swim in my backyard.

I'm also happy when blazing hot days lead to rain or thunderstorms.

Our community doesn't get much rain. When it does rain, we all smile and say, "Rain, baby, rain."

I will say this. Before the pandemic, I was happy just about every day. I had a full calendar of favorite activities, and from the time I got up in the morning I was feeling blessed.

Back then, my happiness was a natural part of life, like a spring that constantly bubbled up on its own.

After coronavirus laid claim to our lives, my happiness no longer flowed that easily. It's still easy to feel immense gratitude, but I sometimes have to work for happiness.

I do that by trying not to focus on all the things I love that are no longer part of my life.

Instead, I concentrate on the joys I can still enjoy.

It takes frequent mental adjustments to do this, and sometimes it's harder than usual.

I have learned I can do the simple things that cheer me.

Playing my favorite music is one easy way to elevate my mood.

One day when I needed a pick-me-up I put on the Jim Beer CD "Dust of Our Forefathers Bones." As soon as I heard the mesmerizing drumming I was smiling.

Music soothes the soul and has the power to sweep us back in time as it prompts happy memories.

WARMEST REGARDS

By Pattie Mihalik
newsgirl@comcast.net

Some music is just so happy that you can't help but feel good listening to it.

Often, old songs from the '50s or '60s have me dancing along with it.

When I played a CD from one cruise I was smiling at the memory of how I danced with total abandonment because I thought no one could see me as I learned a funny new dance.

What I didn't know while I danced away was that overhead cameras were streaming live video to all the cabins.

My husband told me he didn't laugh that much in ages as he did when he watched my crazy dancing.

Would I have done it if I knew he was watching? Absolutely not. Back then I was far too inhibited to let loose on the dance floor.

It took living long enough to reach my second childhood before I could free myself from inhibition. Now, dancing is one of my favorite pleasures.

There are other simple things that make me happy.

The infectious joy of children is definitely one. I'm thankful I live in a neighborhood with children.

When I open my door in the morning, if the 5-year-old next door is outside, I'll hear his excited welcoming yell: Pattieeeeeeeeeee!

What could be happier than a child like Blake, who spreads his joy to all those around him?

Good-hearted people like my next door neighbors also make me feel good. At an age when their friends are retiring, they are raising two little ones they adopted to save the kids from being part of the child welfare system.

They also cook dinner each night for an elderly widow struggling to get by.

It is a wonderful life in spite of the pandemic. There is still so much to enjoy, if we look for it.

Sometimes, we just have to adapt to changing circumstances.

My husband and I thought we would be spending his July birthday at my daughter's place in Maine. We looked forward to it for months.

With the coronavirus raging out of control in Florida, we were forced to postpone our trip.

Instead, we celebrated David's birthday by finding joy in simple things.

Happiness was a birthday candle on our pizza and sharing an ice cream cone while walking around the beautiful waterfront.

Most of all, happiness was enjoying being together and knowing just how blessed we are.

Strangely, David said it was his best birthday.

Maybe when you lose a lot, what remains is more meaningful.

Pre-K COVID-19 options for parents

Q. I am curious if there are other parents who are considering delaying starting school because of the coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic? My daughter is four and one-half-years-old, and we were going to start her in a Pre-K program in August, and then place her in kindergarten in 2021. At this point, we're thinking we should keep her home another year and then start her in kindergarten as planned. That would mean that she would have had no previous exposure to a school setting. What are your thoughts on this?

One of the concerns of the panel was: What kind of year would the girl have if she stayed home?

"The question is what kind of environment should a child be in a year before kindergarten?" panelist Denise Continenza asked.

"In pre-school, children develop a curiosity to learn. They learn through play and develop motor skills," said Continenza.

"What is the parent going to do during the year at home?" panelist Wanda Mercado Arroyo asked.

"How do you provide important play if there is only one child? How well structured is that year going to be so that when the child goes to preschool she will be prepared for the next level?" asked Mercado Arroyo.

Panelist Pam Wallace suggested that the mother meet with teachers at the preschool where she would be sending her daughter. "What sanitizing and other steps will the school be taking to keep their students safe?" Wallace asked.

"Parents are ready for their kids to go back to school," panelist Chad Stefanyak said, citing a local borough survey that showed that well more than 50 percent of respondents approved opening the schools.

Stefanyak added that in terms of the need for students to return to the classroom, he didn't have as much concern about a child beginning preschool versus a third grader going into fourth grade. "That's a whole different ball game," said Stefanyak.

Most schools are combining in-person classroom learning with remote-learning, panelist Mike Daniels said.

"Summertime is important for parents to regroup. That might include looking into curriculum and resources the parent might use at home, as well as networking with other preschool parents on how to provide some safe socialization for their kids," said Daniels.

Stefanyak said school districts have given their teachers time to work together on the coming year's curriculum. "The schools get it. They will be focused on social and emotional elements, and won't be as concerned about reading comprehension. It won't be about spending time reviewing as it will be introducing new material," Stefanyak said.

This week's panel:

St. John's wort to treat depression debated

Q. I have friends in France who take St. John's wort for depression. Do you think it works?

St. John's wort (Hypericum perforatum or Klamathweed) is one of the most commonly-purchased herbal products in the United States. However, do not take this product unless you have consulted your family physician.

The St. John's wort plant has been used as a medicine for many centuries. It was popular in ancient Greece. In Europe, it is used widely to treat mild-to-moderate depression.

St. John's wort is a shrubby plant with clusters of yellow flowers. The flowers and leaves are used as medicine. St. John's wort can be obtained in capsules, tablets, tinctures, teas and oil-based skin lotions. Chopped or powdered forms of the dried herb are also available.

The plant grows in Europe, Asia, Africa and the western United States. The plant is often in full bloom around June 24, the day traditionally celebrated as the birthday of St. John the Baptist, hence its name.

St. John's wort has antibacterial and antiviral properties. It fights inflammation and has been used to treat wounds. St. John's wort may help relieve some types of depression but the evidence is not definitive.

There is some scientific data indicating that St. John's wort may be helpful in treating minor depression. However, two large studies showed that the herb was no more effective than a placebo in treating major depression of moderate severity. One of these studies was sponsored by the National Center for Complementary and Alternative Medicine (NCCAM), which is part of the National Institutes of Health.

St. John's wort contains several chemicals, including hypericin, hyperforin and flavonoids. Researchers aren't sure how St. John's wort works. Some have suggested that the herb acts like antidepressants by making more of the brain chemicals serotonin, dopamine and norepinephrine available. These chemicals, known as neurotransmitters, are mood-elevators.

It should be stressed that the herb can cause serious side effects. In general, herbal therapies are not recommended for the elderly, pregnant women, children, or those taking certain medicines.

It is also important to note that the U.S. Food and Drug Administration has not approved St John's wort for use as an over-the-counter or prescription medicine for depression.

Combining St. John's wort with certain antidepressants can lead to a potentially life-threatening increase of serotonin. St. John's wort can also limit the effectiveness of many prescription medicines such as antidepressants, some blood-pressure drugs, birth-control pills, the heart medication Digoxin, some HIV drugs, blood thinners, antihistamines, cough medicines, sedatives, some cancer medications, and statins that lower cholesterol.

Other less threatening side effects of St. John's wort include upset stomach, hives or other skin rashes, fatigue, restlessness, headache, dry mouth and feelings of dizziness or mental confusion. St. John's wort can also make the skin overly sensitive to sunlight.

St. Luke's receives Leapfrog 'A' status

The Leapfrog Group, a national nonprofit health-care ratings organization, has released new Leapfrog Hospital Safety Grades, awarding top marks to more St. Luke's hospitals than to those of any other health-care network in the region.

The Safety Grade assigns letter grades of A, B, C, D and F twice annually (in spring and fall) to hospitals nationwide based on their performance in preventing medical errors, infections and other harms.

A number of St. Luke's University Health Network campuses, Bethlehem, Allentown, Anderson, Miners, Monroe and Warren, were among a select group of hospitals across the nation awarded an "A" for their commitment to keeping patients safe and meeting the highest safety standards in the United States.

"This 'A' rating is an important validation of St. Luke's continued focus on and commitment to patient safety, which in light of COVID-19 is more important now than ever," St. Luke's Senior Vice President and Chief Quality Officer Donna Sabol said.

"St. Luke's superior safety ratings demonstrate that our facilities are safe and ready to treat patients even during this time of COVID-19," said Sabol.

Developed under the guidance of a Blue Ribbon National Expert Panel, the Leapfrog Hospital Safety Grade uses 28 measures of publicly-available hospital safety data to assign A, B, C, D and F grades to more than 2,600 U.S. hospitals twice per year. It is calculated by top patient safety experts, peer reviewed, fully transparent and free to the public.

"As the nation copes with a challenging pandemic, our gratitude extends to hospital leadership and health care workers everywhere for their tremendous dedication," said Leah Binder, President and CEO of The Leapfrog Group.

"We hope these A's help to thank the people who work and volunteer for St. Luke's University Health Network. They are role models in putting patients first, and their service has been extraordinary in our country's time of need."

St. Luke's community-supported agriculture revenue hits $1 million Revenue for St. Luke's University Health Network (SLUHN) Community Supported Agriculture (CSA), which has more than 500 members and runs from June to October, has surpassed $1 million.

The CSA Program is open to Network employees, spouses and family members whose memberships support participating local farms. Fees collected are paid to the farmers.

"As the Network has grown, so has the CSA program," says Amy E. Prevato, MPH, CHES, DipACLM Network Director, SLUHN Employee Wellness, Department of Community Health and Preventive Medicine.

"Over the program's seven years, it has gone from one farmer serving three locations to eight farmers serving 19 different sites each week. We are proud that in 2020, the program's all-time revenue has surpassed $1 million dollars," Prevato said.

Weekly CSA deliveries are made to the 19 sites in the 20-week program (it runs for 12 weeks at St. Luke's Miners Campus). Tables are set up at the sites. The members receive two weekly reminders to pick up their shares. The emails include farm newsletters and recipes.

"We look for farmers who utilize organic growing practices, who are located near the campus or distribution site, and who have the capacity for growth in their business," Prevato said.

"According to the CDC [Centers for Disease Control and Prevention], eating a diet rich in fruits and vegetables daily can help reduce the risk of many leading causes of illness and death, including heart disease, Type 2 diabetes, some cancers, and obesity."

The St. Luke's Employee Wellness Program includes an annual health assessment that asks employees about their lifestyles, including nutrition, physical activity, sleep and stress management.

"We use the data to design programs that help our employees and their families maintain and improve their health," Prevato said.

"All money generated from the purchase of produce shares is passed directly into the pockets of the local farmers," said Prevato.

"The St. Luke's Rodale Institute Organic Farm provides CSA shares for the program, in addition to distributing organic produce to all of the SLUHN cafeterias for use in the preparation of patient meals and cafeteria meals served to employees and the community."

The SLUHN CSA Program has partnerships with soup kitchens and food pantries in the communities near each distribution site so that unclaimed shares of fruits and vegetables are donated each week.

The SLUHN CSA program is led by a team of health educators, several of whom are Board-Certified in Lifestyle Medicine.

"We have seen positive trends in the health risks in our population. We now meet or exceed seven Healthy People 2020 goals, including high blood pressure, high cholesterol, poorly controlled diabetes, and tobacco use."

Land of de Havilland

Olivia de Havilland attributed her longevity to "the three Ls: Love, laughter and learning."

De Havilland, a Hollywood movie icon, died July 26 at age 104.

De Havilland was the last living cast member of "Gone with the Wind" (1939), in which she played the feisty Melanie.

Along with Kirk Douglas, who died Feb. 5 at age 103, De Havilland was one of the last living actors from Hollywood's Golden Age.

Olivia de Havilland was a two-time Oscar recipient, as actress, "The Heiress" (1949), and actress, "To Each His Own" (1946), and a five-time Oscar nominee, including, actress, "The Snake Pit" (1948); actress, "Hold Back the Dawn" (1941), and supporting actress, "Gone with the Wind" (1939).

De Havilland and her sister, Joan Fontaine, are the only siblings to have received Oscars for acting.

Fontaine, actress nomination, "Rebecca" (1940), and actress nomination, "The Constant Nymph" (1943), received an Oscar, actress, for "Suspicion" (1941).

De Havilland, with 61 credits as an actress, is noted for her eight roles acting opposite screen idol Errol Flynn: "Captain Blood" (1935), "The Charge of the Light Brigade" (1936), "The Adventures of Robin Hood" (1938), "Four's a Crowd" (1938), "The Private Lives of Elizabeth and Essex" (1939), "Dodge City" (1939), "Santa Fe Trail" (1940), "They Died with Their Boots On" (1941), and in separate scenes in a ninth film with Flynn, in "Thank Your Lucky Stars" (1943).

De Havilland is also remembered for the "de Havilland decision," a 1944 court ruling in which the 5 ft. 4 in. actress stood up to the powerful Hollywood studio system.

De Havilland made her movie debut at 18, as Hermia, in Shakespeare's "A Midsummer's Night's Dream" (1935), for Warner Bros., for which she signed a seven-year contract.

De Havilland wanted to appear in stronger female roles and turned down several projects. Jack Warner suspended her contract for six months and added that amount of time to her contract, set to expire in 1942.

De Havilland sued the studio. The court ruled in her favor. The "de Havilland decision" was a harbinger of the end of the studio system and provided more employment choices for actors.

Kirk Douglas also wasn't just another pretty face in Hollywood.

Douglas was a beneficiary of de Havilland's battle with the studio system. Born Issur Herscheltovich Danielovitch Demsky, with 95 actor credits, Douglas was nominated for three Oscars: actor, "Lust for Life" (1956), actor, "The Bad and the Beautiful" (1952), and actor, "Champion" (1949), and received

AT THE MOVIES

By Paul Willistein
pwilistein@tnonline.com

an Honorary Oscar (1996) for "50 years as a creative and moral force in the motion picture community."

Douglas founded Bryna Productions in 1955 to produce films, including "Paths of Glory" (1957) and "Spartacus" (1960), each directed by then-unknown director Stanley Kubrick and each starring Douglas.

Douglas is credited with helping to break the Hollywood blacklist by giving onscreen screenwriting credit for "Spartacus" to Dalton Trumbo, targeted by the House Un-American Activities Committee anti-Communist probe. The chant, "I am Spartacus," became a symbolic rallying cry for unity in Hollywood and America.

Douglas burst onto the movie screen in a dynamic role as the troubled husband in "The Strange Love of Martha Ivers" (1946), opposite Barbara Stanwyck.

Douglas had a long-time on-screen pairing with fellow screen legend Burt Lancaster, for seven films, including and starting with "I Walk Alone" (1947), "Gunfight at the O.K. Corral" (1957), "Seven Days in May" (1964) and "Tough Guys" (1986).

Olivia de Havilland and Kirk Douglas are from another era of Hollywood. Fortunately, the stars still shine in their films shown on Turner Classic Movies, other Cable TV movie channels and in other movie formats.

Coming soon: Re-opening dates for the multiplexes continue to be "coming soon."

Regal Cinemas announced July 28 that it plans to reopen its theaters in the United States Aug. 21. Regal previously announced it would reopen July 31.

AMC Theatres, which were to have opened July 30, now plans to open in mid-to-late August.

Cinemark, which was to reopen July 24, has postponed its theaters re-openings to a date to be announced.

Russell Crowe's "Unhinged," which was to open July 31, is now to open Aug. 21.

Disney's live-action "Mulan," which was to open Aug. 21, has now been postponed "indefinitely."

The U.S. release date of director Christopher Nolan's "Tenet" has been postponed until Sept. 3.

The fate of the indoor cinemas and multiplexes is not in the hands of Hollywood, nor movie reviewers.

For example, public health officials in major markets such as New York and California won't allow cinemas to reopen.

As for the reason for the shutdown, the coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic, the reviews are still out.
