DONATIONS

An original project created by Touchstone/Moravian MFA student Adam Ercolani. LGBTQIA+ youth coming into their own identities often feel trapped and restrained by their surroundings and circumstance. How can artistic creation and performance allow us to process and understand our identities in a new way? An exploration of queer identity, self-discovery, and finding a way out of the bonds that hold us back. Audiences will get a glimpse of the 5-day queer-centric workshop and the multimedia performance pieces that came out during the process.

Special thank yous to HITOPS, a Princeton, NJ organization for inclusive and youth-informed sex education and LGBTQ+ support, who've been partnering with Adam on the project; and Bethlehem favorite MADE BY LINO for providing baked goods as a light, yummy, complimentary treat for each guest.

Not yet ready to join in person? No problem! Click here to join the livestream, or search YouTube for "unbound" "aloud" and "queer".
