BASD Safety district priority

By NATE JASTRZEMSKI
njastrzemi@ttonline.com

Bethlehem school directors quickly ran through their agenda items Jan. 28, eschewing discussion of upcoming major items for February, such as the final decision on the fate of Nitschmann MS.

For concerned parents, Superintendent Dr. Joseph Roy said safety and security issues continue to be of high importance. He said administrators have been talking to and met with all the local police chiefs to discuss and analyze options for swifter, more streamlined operations. Feedback has mostly revolved around improving coordination, he said.

Meanwhile the latest snow day, that very morning, has necessitated former holiday Feb. 18 becoming a regular school day. The Liberty and Freedom student spokespeople lauded Roy for his fast and consistent communication regarding school closings and other items of interest on popular social media sites. "Only Dr. Roy would spend his night talking to kids on Twitter," said Freedom representative Anna Thomas.

Disability does not mean inability

Café the Lodge offers more than a job to those with mental illness

By CAROL SMITH
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Abraham Lincoln. Robin Williams. These famous people's large-framed portraits on the Lodge's café walls send a powerful visual message: Many people with a mental illness make positive contributions to society.

News headlines paint an alarming picture of violent actions by individuals with a mental illness that stigmatize and isolate all the mentally ill. But recently the Mental Health Recovery Lodge was recognized for offering affordable housing, along with activities and work opportunities for individuals with mental illness that help them become self-sufficient taxpayers.

Aaik Van Munster, the Lodge's program director, said the idea is to help people with a mental disability find their way to a life filled with purpose. Like Lincoln and Williams, people with mental illness, and those around them, need to embrace it.

"It's part of who we are as people," Van Munster said.

It's a life of integration: If we live and work together, we form supportive bonds which keep us healthier, said Van Munster in describing the focus of the organization.

Responding to Northampton County's Human Services Department's Requests for Proposals for affordable housing programs for people with mental disabilities, Van Munster seized the opportunity to get the necessary funding for Café the Lodge to operate.

With the focus on finding housing and jobs for people with mental disabilities, Café the Lodge, at 427 E. Fourth St., Southside Bethlehem, has one- and two-bedroom apartments above the Café. The Lodge

What do you think should be done to better address immigration into the United States?

Pennsylvania Governor Tom Corbett toured the St. Luke's Hospital - Anderson Campus Feb. 1 as part of a visit reviewing economic and job growth in the northeast section of the Commonwealth. St. Luke's Anderson Campus President Ed Nawrocki, right, shows Gov. Corbett a current construction project that will complete another medical/surgical floor in the hospital. "St. Luke's is an important part of the community - vital to the health, safety and economic future of the region," Corbett said.

CAFE

Continued from page A1 serves as the landlord. Although Van Munster said Café the Lodge is not a good match for every person with a mental illness, he does say the Lodge's supportive community can offer a complete life that is exciting for people hoping to improve their mental health. Working alongside mental recovery coaches and peer counselors for eight hours a day in the Café, a person with a mental disability not only learns a skill but also learns how to connect with the community. In addition to catering events, the Café is open Monday through Thursday for breakfast and lunch served from 7:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Fridays it stays open until 8 p.m. for live music and poetry readings. Saturday hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Pastries, gourmet coffee, homemade soups, jambalaya and Cuban sandwiches are just a few of the menu items prepared under the direction of chef Allen Singer. "At the end of the day," Van Munster said, "we are a business and need to make money to stay open." The Lodge was recently recognized for its efforts to support community integration, create a sustainable model of affordability and provide barrier-free living. In December 2012, the Lodge, which is a division of Resources for Human Development Inc., received the state's annual Supportive Housing Award. "Supportive housing is about affordable, accessible and permanent housing with services that enable elders and those with disabilities to live independently in their communities," Secretary of Aging Brian Duke stated in a press release about the award. "The Lodge's holistic approach to supportive housing provides its residents with an improved quality of life." When people get involved in the many activities offered at the Lodge, they can let go of the stigma a label of mental illness often places on them. In addition to poetry readings and live music, there are drum circles, guided crafts and dual recovery anonymous (DRA) meetings, which are similar to AA meetings. Café the Lodge's motto says it all: Where friends celebrate greatness in self and others.

Jim Gillen, a certified peer support counselor who volunteers at the Lodge by conducting the writers' and poets' night, said the blending atmosphere at the Lodge gives people with mental illness coping mechanisms; they come to see that their disability does not mean inability. Opened in March 2012 with an official grand opening held Jan. 11, 2013, the Lodge is open to the public with easy access through a gate off the South Bethlehem Greenway. Located in the former Connell Funeral Home, Café the Lodge's backyard with its benches and goldfish pond welcomes anyone seeking relaxation in a peaceful setting. Volunteers or anyone wishing to become a Lodge member can call 610-849-2100 or visit www.TheLodge-rhd.org.

St. Luke's, NCC partner in new Southside clinic

By NATE JASTRZEMSKI
njastrzemi@tnonline.com

Northampton Community College's dentistry program, long acting as a learning tool and community service program, has partnered with St. Luke's University Health Network for improved opportunities for students, health care givers and local residents.

The Jan. 28 opening ceremony for the new community dental center in the Fowler Family Southside Center on East Fourth Street packed the building's third floor with staff, faculty, supporters, media and students.

NCC President Mark Erickson said partnering with St. Luke's and moving the clinic from the main campus provides a wider array of services and teaching potential while being centered amid possible clients. "This allows us to serve an underserved population here on the Southside of Bethlehem.

NCC President Dr. Mark Erickson welcomes many friends and partners to the new dental clinic.

"It's a wonderful vision, and hopefully the impact will be enormous."

Anne Baum, vice president of partner Capital BlueCross, agreed, saying the new clinic provides opportunity both for students to learn and to take what they learn directly into the community.

Mayor John Callahan said he is pleased with the college's acting as a catalyst for positive change, especially in formerly decrepit, hollow Bethlehem Steel buildings.

Various speakers described the history of the NCC dental clinic, from its beginning in 1969 to the purchase of the first dental van in 1998, which has been used to treat children at their schools.

As many as 10,000 Lehigh Valley residents annually receive basic dental screenings and care from the NCC clinic.

Broader instruction, more client options

By NATE JASTRZEMSKI
njastrzemi@tnonline.com

For more than 40 years, Northampton Community College dental hygiene students have learned their trade from knowledgeable staff and community members in need of care.

The expansion of the program and partnership with St. Luke's University Health Network is giving students a broader learning base and enhancing client care in a new clinic at the Fowler Family Southside Center.

The hospital's Denise Rader and college's Heidi Butler explained how the new system works and how community members can get services.

Rader said dental hygiene students attend classes for their degrees and must perform on the job as well. "As part of the curriculum and for professional licensing purposes, they are required to participate in a certain number of hours in a dental office setting," she said. "St. Luke's provides the clinical setting as well as the dentists and dental hygienists who train the students on-site in tandem with the requirements outlined in the NCC curriculum and as set by the licensing board(s)."

While the students work with St. Luke's staff members, they are overseen by NCC faculty.

Butler said, "The dental hygiene students benefit because they now get clinical experience in a setting that offers a wider range of services than were previously offered in the dental clinic on NCC's main campus. That clinic offered primarily preventive care - screening, cleaning and scaling. It still does, but the dentists from St. Luke's can provide restorative services as well."

Those services range from whitening to sleep apnea and teeth-grinding therapy to root canals.

Butler quoted Dean of Allied Health Carolyn Bortz regarding the intermingling of the two institutions. "As our teams grow together, our goal is to provide a virtually seamless dental health care experience for patients in need of both preventative and restorative services. Our students will now experience a dental learning environment that more realistically functions like a real life dental office where hygiene and prevention services are being provided alongside restorative and corrective work."

Rader said appointments are made through St. Luke's Dental Center at NCC Southside. The St. Luke's dentists, hygienists, dental residents and NCC students provide the services for the patients.

Patients are seen by appointment only and the phone number is 484-526-2460. To make an appointment with an NCC hygienist, call 610-861-5442 for a $25 cleaning and screening, Butler said.

Eligible patients include anyone - with insurance and without, particularly those who don't have access to a dentist.

Happy Birthday to the YWCA
85 years celebrated with gala event

By BRENDA LANGE
Special to the Bethlehem Press

The YWCA of Bethlehem showed it knows how to throw a birthday bash with nearly 200 people celebrating its 85th anniversary. "Breaking the Glass Ceiling Gala" was held at the event center at Blue and included dinner and dancing, along with awards to local businesses, and keynote speaker Terry Gross, of NPR's Fresh Air.

PRESS PHOTOS BY BRENDA LANGE

Terry Gross, producer and host of NPR's "Fresh Air" presents the night's keynote speech.

Planning the first-ever such event began last spring, when Stacey Zarembo was still board president. "We knew we wanted to do something big to celebrate such an enormous birthday," Zarembo said after the event. "Everyone [on the board] loved the idea of making the theme 'breaking the glass ceiling' and was behind it. It more than met our expectations."

In business, the glass ceiling refers to that unseen barrier that keeps women and minorities from rising to the top of their chosen profession, regardless of their qualifications. The board of directors of the YWCA set out to illustrate how this demographic can and does break that barrier throughout the Lehigh Valley.

Seven businesses were honored for their dedication in helping their employees break glass ceilings and achieve individual success. Awardees ranged from Elaine Pivinski of Franklin Hill Vineyards, who started her business 35 years ago as a single mom and now employs more than 20 women and offers them child care, full insurance benefits and other supports, to PPL Corporation, which was awarded Company of the Year award for its initiatives that encourage women and minority employees to fulfill their potential at every level.

"We put a lot of time and effort into developing programming for our employees that develops and empowers them and has a significant impact on women and minorities," said Anne Baum, vice president, Lehigh Valley Capital BlueCross, after accepting the award for Women's Leadership. "This is a great honor for us, and verifies that these

Tax Tips from IRS.gov
Check Your Eligibility for the Earned Income Tax Credit

The Earned Income Tax Credit has made the lives of working people a little easier since 1975. EITC can be a boost for workers who earned $50,270 or less in 2012. Yet the IRS estimates that one out of five eligible taxpayers fails to claim their EITC each year.

Here are four things the IRS wants you to know.

- EITC is valuable. The EITC reduces the federal tax you owe and could result in a refund. You base the amount of EITC on your earned income and the number of qualifying children in your household. The average credit was around $2,200 last year. If you qualify, the credit could be worth up to $5,891.
- Review your eligibility. Just because you didn't qualify last year doesn't mean you won't this year.
- File your return. If you are eligible for the EITC, you must file a federal income tax return to claim the credit - even if you are not otherwise required to file.
- Know the qualifications.
  - You do not qualify for EITC if your tax filing status is Married Filing Separately.
  - You must have a valid Social Security number for yourself, your spouse - if filing a joint tax return - and any qualifying child listed on Schedule EIC.
  - You must have earned income. You have earned income if you are paid wages, you are self-employed, you have income from farming or you receive disability income.
  - Married couples and single people without children may qualify. If you do not have qualifying children, you must also meet age and residency requirements as well as dependency rules.
  - Special rules apply to members of the U.S. Armed Forces in combat zones. Members of the military can elect to include their nontaxable combat pay as earned income for the purpose of computing the EITC. Your combat pay will remain nontaxable.

Homicide

Police are seeking public assistance in a homicide investigation. Around 1:30 a.m. Jan. 26 officers arrived in West Broad Street's 2200 block at Scoobies strip club in response to an alleged shooting. They found Tyree Wimberly, 21, of Allentown, who was pronounced dead at St. Luke's Hospital two hours later. Police have provided images of potential witnesses. Anyone with information about these individuals is asked to contact Bethlehem Detective Brad Jones at 610-865-7146, Bethlehem Detective Jason Fulmer at 610-997-7682 or Lehigh County District Attorney's Homicide Task Force Detective Richard Heffelfinger at 610-782-3654.

CITY POLICE
Drunk

Police arrested one allegedly drunk man twice within one hour for general nuisance behavior the early morning of Jan. 11. Police said Kyle McCauley, 23, of South Lynn Street in Fountain Hill, was drinking at Roosevelt's bar on East Elizabeth Avenue and for unspecified reasons punched a hole in a window. Officers arrived around 1:05 a.m. and charged him with disorderly conduct (fighting), criminal mischief and public drunkenness. Police responded to

Centralized Human Services building plans put on hold

By BERNIE O'HARE
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Plans for a new, centralized Human Services building in Bethlehem Township are on hold. At its Jan. 24 meeting, County Council tabled Executive John Stoffa's proposal for a "one stop" human services shopping center that would replace two aging county-owned buildings in Easton and Bethlehem.

Stoffa is proposing a 15-year lease for a 3-story, 66,375-square-foot building on 5.36 acres, with 256 parking spaces. Located on Emrick Boulevard, between Freemansburg Avenue and William Penn Highway, the facility will cost the county about a million dollars a year in rent. It is a triple net lease, meaning that the county will also pick up the tab for taxes, utilities and insurance. Every five years, the county will have an option to purchase.

Polaris Properties, which owns the tract, will build the facility by the end of this year if the lease is approved. Polaris has agreed to pay prevailing wages for the construction, which means this would be a union job.

Stoffa has called the proposal a "golden opportunity to do something terrific" for the 18,000 people who use the county's human services at two different buildings.

The Governor Wolf Building, located at 45 N. Second St. in Easton, is a 52,171-square-foot schoolhouse built in 1893. Purchased by the county in 1986 for $912,000, it is home to 173 human services workers. It needs $3.3 million in capital repairs and improvements over the next five to 10 years. The day before council met, the building had to be closed because the heat failed. Employees who work there complained about caving ceilings and lead paint exposure.

The Martin J. Bechtel Building, located at 520 E. Broad St. in Bethlehem, is a 28,000-square-foot facility built in 1962. Purchased by the county in 1993 for $763,000, it houses 70 human services workers. It needs $1 million in capital improvements and repairs over the next five to 10 years.

Under Stoffa's proposal, these buildings will be sold, and the $2.8 million in expected proceeds will be used for improvements at the new Bethlehem Township facility.

County administrators, along with council members Ken Kraft and Tom Dietrich, have been working on this proposal for a year. Twenty-six sites were considered, and four proposals were solicited. But the full council was unfamiliar with the lease proposal until mid-December, and needs more time to digest the details.

Council member Peg Ferraro complained that she felt as though she was being "rushed by a salesman." She questioned why the county did not give more consideration to building on the Gracedale campus in Upper Nazareth. Stoffa had earlier stated that building at Gracedale would take three to five years, and the county would also be forced to pay $4.3 million for improvements to the Wolf and Bechtel buildings. While that was going on, employees would have to be relocated.

Former council members Ron Heckman and Ron Angle spoke against the lease proposal. Heckman questioned building a new human services building at a time when the federal and state governments are reducing grants for human services. Angle complained about the prevailing wage clause in the lease, noting that it is great for the unions but anti-taxpayer. "This could be done for a lot less money," he argued. He also questioned whether the county will get any money for the sale of the Wolf and Bechtel buildings. "You've already brought out that you have a dump," he declared.

Scott Parsons, who defeated Angle in a recent council race, smiled at his former opponent and said, "You did nothing but raise questions for me, and that's probably a good thing. I've hedged on this back and forth." Parsons moved to table the lease to give council members more time. His motion passed 6-2, with Council member Ken Kraft and President John Cusick opposed.

Cusick was visibly annoyed with council members, some of whom had failed to attend a lengthy discussion about the lease the previous day. He noted that when he had questions, he asked the administration and got answers.

"Make a decision," said Cusick. "Ultimately, that is what you're here to do."

In his first year in office, a Stoffa proposal for a centralized human services building was shot down by council.

CITY POLICE

another call at 1:55 a.m. just down the street, where they found McCauley allegedly damaging a fence. He was charged with disorderly conduct (intentional damage).

DUI

Police arrested 30-year-old Dennis Gardner following a car accident on West Fairview Street around 2:20 a.m. Jan. 20.

According to police, Gardner drove his car into a parked car and it was determined he'd been drinking. Upon arrest officers found a marijuana pipe on him.

Gardner, of West Goepf Street, is charged with DUI, careless driving and possession of paraphernalia.

ed clips from memorable interviews from her career with the program, which began in 1975.

Gross talked about how she "stumbled" into a career in broadcasting, first working as a volunteer on a feminist news show. And she talked about learning on the job at NPR. She reminisced about learning how to ask difficult questions and talk about taboo subjects. She stressed the respect she shows every interview subject, giving guests a second chance to speak as clearly as possible and honestly, except for politicians, who, she said, are already good at controlling the agenda.

"I want to feel free to ask anything, and I don't presume to know where the line is for any one person between private and public," she said.

"I put the ball in their court. Famous people often come on the show with defenses up. I try to make a connection between their art and their life - what is it in your life that created the sensibility we love you for? What is it that has shaped the gift?"

No matter how personal

she manages to get with a guest - and some of her interviews have been quite personal - she realizes that there always is much she will never know, no matter how intimate the interview. "We all require and should have a space in our heart and mind that is off-limits to everyone."

She played an excerpt from one of her interviews that made news several years ago - an interview with Gene Simmons, of rock band KISS fame. He became suggestive, rude and made statements that were, as she put it, "obnoxious." NPR received a huge response from the audience; Harper's magazine excerpted it and Daily Variety did a story on it.

"What is the moral of that story?" she asked. In commercial radio, she explained, she may have been asked to create such a controversial situation at least once a week, just for ratings. That would not suit her, which is why she does what she does.

"At NPR, we don't shy away from controversy, but we are not doing it for the ratings. That's why I've spent my career in public broadcasting. When I do interviews, I like to do justice to my guests, to their life and their work."

LEHIGH COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

Fourth time's the charm for the Green Future Fund

By ANDREW CASS
Special to The Press

The Lehigh County Commissioners finally approved the Green Future Fund at their Jan. 23 meeting, after tabling it on three previous occasions.

The full $1.06 million will be funded and paid for by money received through impact drilling fees for natural gas. The bill will fund the Martin Luther King Trail in Allentown, the Saucon Rail Trail in Upper Saucon Township, Camp Olympic renovations in Lower Macungie Township, the Lindberg Park connection trail in Salisbury Township, community park improvements in Emmaus and restoration projects on Sand Island in Bethlehem.

"This motion and the subsequent releasing of the funds demonstrates that this board does have the capacity to, if it's willing to, work collaboratively and solve the problems of county government," Commissioner David Jones said.

Board Chairwoman Lisa Scheller thanked the citizens and community leaders for their patience in the process.

"We're spending your money," Scheller said. "I would hope you want us to be as careful with this money as you would want us to be with your own personal money because it is your money. I really feel that this is the way government should work, even if it is slower than any of us would like."

In the past few meetings, the more conservative members of the board said they did not question the merits of the bill, but were hesitant to approve the bill as they tried to find a way to fund the projects without putting a burden on taxpayers. Marcellus Shale drilling fees from 2012, 2013 and 2014 will pay for the Green Future Fund.

The motion to use gas impact fees also specified that this will be the last year of the Green Futures Fund. The motion was approved 7-2, with Commissioners Daniel McCarthy and Brad Osborne voting against the measure.

"What we have here is a motion to make the board feel good about funding this," McCarthy said. "It's really saying that we're taking money out of the left pocket instead of the right one."

Commissioner Vic Mazziotti disagreed with McCarthy and said while it was a "feel good motion," there is substance behind it and money left over from impact drilling fees could be used to fund other projects in the future.

Osborne said he voted against the motion because he felt the Green Future Fund should have been passed on its own merits.

The board also tabled a bill that would repeal the Lehigh County affordable housing ordinance.

"We had this extensive committee planning meeting and as a board, we want to be deliberate, thoughtful and we want to take into consideration the needs, the desires and the programs that are here in Lehigh County," Scheller said. "We felt the need to gather more information, allow more public input and understand what the program does for the residents and how it is being delivered to those residents."

Scheller said there will be a public hearing about the bill. A date has not been set, but she said plenty of notice will be given.

The next board of commissioners meeting is Feb. 13 in the public hearing room of the Lehigh County Government Center in Allentown.

Bethlehem's Ice Rink closed Jan. 30 after record high temperatures in the mid-60s, coupled with gusty winds, created puddles on the ice, but the facility's ice-making equipment and dropping temperatures re-froze the rink's surface overnight. City employee Mike McGraw inspects the ice after treating it with the Zamboni resurfacing machine to prepare for the re-opening. Recreation Administrator Jane Persa of the Bethlehem Parks and Public Property Dept. said she was not aware of the enclosed skating rink ever being shut down in the middle of the winter due to melting ice. Tax fraud scam and proposal

Congressmen Charlie Dent and Jim Gerlach held a press conference with Lehigh County DA Jim Martin and Berks County DA John Adams to discuss their efforts to combat a tax fraud scam that is costing taxpayers billions of dollars per year and fight identity theft.

The scammers buy lists of personal identification information for Puerto Rican citizens who are not required to pay federal income tax and prepare and file fraudulent tax returns using stolen Taxpayer Identification Numbers (TIN). In some cases, U.S. mail carriers have been solicited to intercept the fraudulent refund checks. The checks are then cashed at one-stop check cashing stores.

In 2011, the IRS reported 938,664 fraudulent returns related to identity theft, totaling $6.5 billion. Dent has introduced H.R.353 to stop the scam by requiring the Secretary of the Treasury to implement a program to prevent the fraudulent use of TINs of residents of United States territories and possessions to be used to obtain a credit or refund on tax returns filed with the United States.

The legislation also incorporated language from a bill requiring the U.S. Government Accountability Office to study utilizing smart card technology to eliminate an estimated $48 billion per year in improper or fraudulent Medicare payments.

"But God"
God gave Joseph dreams of His future plan for his life, but circumstances in his life seemed to oppose God's plan. Later, as the second ruler of Egypt, Joseph told his brothers, "it was not you that sent me hither, but God" and "ye thought evil against me; but God meant it unto good" (Genesis 45:8, 50:20). Acts 7:9 says, "the patriarchs, moved with envy, sold Joseph into Egypt; but God was with him."
The phrase "but God" is found 43 times in Scripture. This two-word phrase communicates the message that the circumstances of life are not fully understood without including God. Life's story is not complete until you factor God into it! "But God" is the bottom line! "But God" is the last word! "But God" stands diametrically opposed to the negative roar of the world. The world says "defeat," "but God" says "victory!" Someone declared, "But God climbs the highest mountain; traverses the darkest valley; and sings songs of victory in the midnight hour. But God is courageous, confident and conclusive!" "But God" is the inclusion of God's perspective. It is seeing things as God sees them! Things are not over until God has His say as Paul pointed out in his preaching about Jesus in Acts 13:29-30, "And when they had fulfilled all that was written of him, they took him down from the tree, and laid him in a sepulchre. But God raised him from the dead!"
The Bible is a "but God" book filled with "but God" turnaround miracles! Aaron threw down his rod and it turned into a serpent. The magicians of Egypt did the same, "but God" caused Aaron's to swallow up theirs! Pharaoh's army of chariots pursued the Israelites, "but God" opened up the Red Sea for an escape. Pharaoh followed "but God" took off their chariot wheels and drowned Pharaoh and his army! Daniel was cast into a lion's den, "but God" sent His angel and delivered him! The three Hebrew children were cast into the fire, "but God" sent His Son to walk in the fire with them and delivered them! Peter was put in jail, "but God" sent His angel and delivered him!
Whatever your life's circumstances may be, add a comma and include this "but God" concept!

Bechahi won the District 11 2A team title and now have their sights set on a state crown this weekend.

Darian Cruz and the Hawks are off to Hershey for a chance at a state team title.

pcar@tnonline.com

It wasn't a surprise to anyone that Bethlehem Catholic left Freedom Saturday night with their third straight District 11 2A championship.

The Hawks crushed the competition in all three bouts, capping off their dominant weekend with a 53-9 victory over Saucon Valley in the finals.

As head coach Jeff Karam enjoyed another championship, it was evident that no matter how easy it looked for Bechahi over the course of two days, the end result of claiming another piece of hardware was still memorable.

"This feeling never gets dull," said Karam. "When you get this deep into the season, it's a sign that you can see the light at the end of the tunnel."

"All the work we've done in the room, all the tournaments we go to and all the work these kids go through, they deserve it and it's a great feeling because every year is a different group of kids."

This group of Hawks are now hoping to make their own mark of winning their third straight PIAA championship this weekend when the team tournament kicks off at Hershey's Giant Center on Thursday.

Bechahi rolled through a 76-0 win over Panther Valley and a 57-7 romp over Pen Argyl in districts before taking care of Saucon Valley.

Now they'll enter the PIAA tournament as the heavy favorites to win for a third straight year.

Jody Karam admitted that his wrestling team probably competed above their heads during the course of the regular season.

That finally caught up with Liberty last weekend when they lost to Parkland 53-13 in the District 11 3A team wrestling championship semifinals at Freedom.

Parkland won 11 of 14 bouts against the Hurricanes Saturday afternoon, five of which came via fall and two from technical falls, in a bout that Liberty looked overmatched.

Karam wasn't naive to the circumstances his team faced, but hoped something good could come from the Trojans dismantling effort over the 'Canes.

"I think we ran into an experienced team with good balance and it's kind of hard to compete with that when you have a lot of inexperienced guys like we do," said Karam. "We got exposed today, but if you go back into the room and work on those mistakes, hopefully something good can come from it."

The Hurricanes (10-3) defeated Pleasant Valley 39-19 in the quarterfinals, as Liberty won nine of 14 bouts.

Grimaldi Gonzalez (126) led the way over the weekend by registering a 12-2 major decision over Parkland's Grady Millick and a fall over Pleasant Valley's James Felipa in 1:53.

Noah Klingborg (170) and Carlos Colon (120) were the only other Hurricanes to finish unblemished over the weekend.

Karam shared a favorable sentiment about how this past season turned

Pates Kauffman picks Lehigh for football

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

National Signing Day may be today, but Freedom senior Evan Kauffman got things started a week early when he made a verbal commitment to Lehigh to play football.

Kauffman, along with many high school seniors, will sign the dotted line officially today, but the news of picking Lehigh may have been too much to contain last week.

"It's definitely a big relief, especially with wrestling going on now," said Kauffman, who is one of the area's top 220-pounders, about getting the decision out of the way. "I just felt that Lehigh was perfect for me. It's the best combination of athletics and academics and I'm excited."

Kauffman was a three-year starter for Freedom, where he played tight end and linebacker.

He led the Patriots with 95 tackles last season and hopes to be in the mix for a significant role with the Mountain Hawks when camp kicks off this summer.

"Personally, I want to go into camp and compete for a starting spot right away," he said. "I want to get on the field as soon as possible."

Staying close to home was part of the reason Kauffman chose Lehigh, as New Hampshire was his other top option.

Ultimately, the ability to play college football for a program that finished 10-1 last season in his own backyard, combined with one of the best academic institutions in the country, made Lehigh his top choice.

The only downfall Kauffman will encounter is not being able to lace up his wrestling shoes to compete on the mat.

With the individual postseason kicking off in 10 days, Kauffman plans to relish his final opportunity to compete in wrestling.

"I'm sure the Lehigh coaches don't want me rolling around the wrestling room when I get there," he said. "That's why this next month is so big. I know this is my last chance and I want to make the most of it."

A physical rivalry

Hawks prevail over LHS

By KATIE MCDONALD
kmcDonald@tnonline.com

Sometimes a rivalry game can be just as meaningful as a championship one, which was the case in Bethlehem Catholic's 48-37 victory over Liberty last Friday night.

Even a 14-point Hurricane deficit at the end of three quarters could not diminish the intensity of what proved to be a physical game, if nothing else.

"[I'm not surprised] at all. We're both rivals, and we're the only undefeated team in the LVC, so all the other teams step it up even more," said Becahi guard, Nicole Lacherza.

Handling the intensity was a game within itself.

"Our coach always says when games start getting fast, you have to slow it down. I always thrive for the pressure of the game, but, being a sophomore, I feel like I have to step it up," Lacherza said.

Lacherza scored ten points, including a three-pointer, and teammates, Bridget Smith and Kalista Walters were also in double figures, scoring 11 points and 18 points, respectively. Smith had 16 rebounds and six steals, Walters had 14 rebounds, and Janelle Robinson had six steals.

Liberty's Kali Shumock led the Hurricanes in scoring with 18 points, followed by Maggie Zerbe, who had nine points.

The Hurricanes attempted a run in the final eight minutes of the game, started by Kay West's foul shot. Shumock then sank two free throws, and Zerbe scored soon after, holding the Hawks scoreless for four minutes.

Walters and Nia Mims sank back-to-back shots, and the Hawks held off the Hurricanes' threat.

"We're two rival teams, and I think they were trying to pound the ball in more with our bigs because they were in foul trouble," Lacherza said.

As the regular season comes to an end this week, the Hawks will have taken on Freedom on Tuesday. Liberty will face Freedom on Friday.

Sixty seconds could not tick off the clock fast enough for Freedom to hold on for a two-point victory over Emmaus, and there was only one word that could express the Patriots' 37-36 loss.

"Disappointed," said Freedom center/forward, Ashley Husser.

On a pass from Husser in the final minute, Freedom guard, Ashley Gordon, scored to put the Patriots ahead, 36-34, when the Hornets called a timeout.

Emmaus proceeded to lose the ball under pressure from Husser, and the Patriots called a timeout with 43 seconds left, as Freedom coach Ron Garza encouraged his team to "step to the ball."

Husser said, "We just needed to run our plays the right way and get our passes in."

Although Freedom turned the ball over, a jump ball between Gordon and an Emmaus player gave possession back to the Patriots. Gordon, however, came out of the # Girls earn emotional tie with Emmaus

Tears of joy flowed for Liberty's girls swim team as the Hurricanes tied Emmaus, 93-93, something Liberty had not achieved against the Hornets in 20 years.

Liberty captain, Emma Williams, said, "My mom was in the stands, and she was crying, and [Coach] Reik [Foust] was crying. All week, we kind of prepped ourselves, and our coaches really buckled down and got the best lineup. We knew it was going to be head-to-head."

Adding to the drama was the fact that the Hurricanes were two points behind at the time of the final event of the day, the 400 free relay.

"We needed to get first and third to win [the meet], but we got first and fourth," said Williams.

Madison Sauers, Jocelyn Baker, Kayla Drago, and Williams took first place in 3:43.17.

"It was pretty nerve-racking because I knew our team was banking on that relay," Williams said.

Swimming in the anchor position, Williams her Emmaus opponent entered the water at the same time.

"I knew it was going to be a battle. I knew it was going to be neck-and-neck," said Williams.

Williams finished the race approximately one-quarter of a body length ahead of the competition.

"It was pretty exhilarating," she said.

Two other significant victories were achieved by Liberty's Jocelyn Baker in the 500 free in 5:17.82, setting a new school record for the Hurricanes, and Liberty's Kayla Drago in the 100 free in 55.62, tying Emmaus senior, Maura Brennan's time.

Williams said, "Those were awesome events for our freshmen."

Other first-place winners for Liberty included Maggie Olock in the 50 free in 25.09, and Rachel Rider in the 100 butterfly in 1:03.22.

Just as important were second-place finishes by Drago in the 200 free, Victoria Carter in diving, Grace Walters in the 100 fly, and Rider in the 100 backstroke, and third-place finishes by Baker in the 200 IM, Williams in the 50 free, Emily Cecchini in the 100 fly and the 100 backstroke, Sauers in the 500 free, and Olock in the 100 breaststroke.

Emmaus won the first event of the day, the 200 medley relay, and Liberty won the 200 free relay when Drago, Baker, Sauers, and Olock swam to a first-place finish in 1:43.21.

"When you see who wins the first event, you kind of get nervous, but we were stacked, so even though they got first, we took second, third, and fourth," Williams said.

Liberty's boys swim team was defeated by Emmaus, 130-53.

In individual events, Evan Smith won the 50 free in 23.97, and Sam Kincaid won the diving event with 158.25 points. Smith also placed third in the 100 free.

Freedom's girls swim team had three one-two-three finishes in its 135-44 victory over Central Catholic last week.

Shannon Howell, Molly Magnan, and Rachael Giles finished the 200 free consecutively. Howell's time was 1:59.58.

"It feels really good, and it motivates me a lot to try hard and practice. I swim for a club team and this team, and [Coach] Reik [Foust] helps me out with technique and turns. My club coach, Ryan Woodruff, helps me too," said Howell.

Brooke Munion placed first in the 100 free in 56.60, followed by Magnan and Giles, and Howell, Caitlin McCadden, and Cristina Haller finished one-two-three in the 100 backstroke. Howell's time was 1:03.78.

The Patriot's opened the meet with a win in the 200 medley relay by McCadden, Helen Hsu, Munion, and Carly DelFranco in 2:00.12.

Hsu won the 200 IM in 2:17.85, and Carly Cussen was third. Munion won the 50 free in 26.13, followed by DelFranco.

DelFranco went on to take first place in the 100 butterfly in 1:04.64, and Kelly Kopko took second place. Rebecca Busby placed first in the 500 free in 5:49.12, and Haller was second.

Hsu also won the 100 breaststroke in 1:13.76, and Kopko placed second.

The Patriots also won the 200 free relay as Howell Magnan, DelFranco, and Giles finished in 1:46.92, and Howell, Munion, Magnan, and Hsu swam to a first-place finish in the 400 free relay in 3:48.55.

"Reik really works us around [in the relays] to see what we can go fastest in. I really like the 200 free relay, but Reik likes to put me on the 400. All the girls on the relay work really hard on our relay transitions, and we really want it," Howell said.

Freedom diver, Kaycee Stout took third place in the diving event behind two Central Catholic divers.

Connor Harrigan, Trevor Watlington, Cameron Bell, and Sam Magnan opened Freedom's swim meet against Central Catholic with a 1:51.86 victory in the 200 medley relay, leading to an overall 107.5-64.5 win over the Vikings last week.

Scott DelFranco took first place in the 200 free in 1:47.69, followed by Magnan and Harrigan.

"Even though it wasn't my best time of the year, I felt really smooth and refreshed. It felt really good," said DelFranco.

DelFranco also took first place in the 100 backstroke in 57.92.

Teammate, Peter Conzo-

la, holds the top time in the backstroke in District XI this season.

DelFranco said, "We practice together almost every day. We push each other non-stop, and it's going to come down to the last bit of the race. Right now, I'm working on my turns."

Eric Lawrence won the 200 IM in 2:09.31, followed by Bell. Conzola won the 50 free in 23.30, and Kyle Hanchick placed third.

John McGinty and Andrew Umstead took second and third place, respectively, in the diving event.

Bell placed first in the 100 butterfly in 1:02.44. Watlington placed third in the 100 free, and Harrigan won the 500 free in 4:53.09. Conzola came in second.

Lawrence, DelFranco, Conzola, and Magnan swam to a first-place finish in the 200 free relay in 1:36.03.

Watlington took first place in the 100 breaststroke in 1:09.29, followed by Bell who placed second.

In the 400 relay, Magnan, Harrigan, Lawrence, and DelFranco came in first in 3:30.80.

"[In all three relays] we're changing up the order a little bit. We're seeing what works best. Even though we don't have that many boys, we have kids who have more than basic skills. We have the starts, we have the turns, and we're able to go fast," DelFranco said.

Hawks a game away from districts

By PETER CAR
pcar@tntonline.com

It was the signature win that Bethlehem Catholic has been looking for over the past several years and now the Hawks have to see if it makes a difference down the stretch course of this season.

Becahi moved a game within clinching their first district playoff berth since the 2006-2007 season after knocking off Liberty 57-40 last Friday night.

The win pushed the Hawks to 10-9 on the season, but more importantly, may have given them the confidence boost needed in order to solidify a district berth with a victory in one of their next three contests.

"A lot of people have used the term 'signature win' about the Liberty game and I guess you can say that," said head coach Mike Frew. "We have three kids that have been with the program for all four years and this was their first time beating Liberty."

"It's a pretty big deal for our guys and I'm hopeful it can propel us into this season and the future."

Liberty (13-6) was without two of their big men, forward DeShawn Oyenyi and center Greg Noack. Oyenyi was serving academic suspension, while Noack was working through a concussion.

Hawks' center Matt Husek was able to tally 15 points in the win, along with guard Freddie Simmons totaling 14 points.

However, point guard Jamal Aziz led all scorers with 16 points and has been a driving force in helping the Hawks make this late season push.

"We've really gotten outstanding guard play from our guys this year and Jamal has been fantastic," Frew said. "He's so good on the ball that teams can't really press us that well."

Now Becahi can't press on their chances of winning one out of three. The Hawks hosted Freedom last night and travel to Easton on Friday night.

They close out the season against Hazleton at home Saturday night.

"Confidence is a dangerous thing for any team," said Frew. "Taking Liberty down was big for us. It was our first division win in two years and it showed our guys that we can play with the top teams."

"Now we just need to be consistent throughout the next three games to clinch a playoff berth."

Liberty (13-6, 8-3) have three games left on the schedule as well, with a makeup contest against Nazareth (7-10, 3-7), along with division games against Freedom (13-7, 8-4) and Easton (15-5, 8-4).

The 'Canes had a one-game lead on Freedom and Easton in the division standings heading into this week's action, but anything can happen with all four divisional opponents battling each other this week.

Freedom, who have been the hottest team in the division, put themselves right back into the LVC playoff mix last week with wins over Emmaus and Easton.

The Patriots, Rovers and Green Hornets each sat at 8-4 in LVC play heading into this week, with Freedom holding a tie-breaker over Emmaus.

Freedom split both of their contests with Easton this year, which means the race for the division title and possibly the wildcard spot in the LVC playoffs will be determined on how Liberty, Easton and Freedom fare against each other this week.

As of now, Central

Catholic (18-2, 10-2) and Parkland (14-5, 9-2) have clinched both of their respective divisions to clinch spots in next week's league playoffs.

FHS hockey team looks to stay over .500

By JEFF MOELLER
Special to the Press

Freedom head hockey coach Mike Mould recently was pealed that his team reached the goal of a .500 season. However, he also envisioned his senior-laden team could have done more.

With two weeks left in the regular season, Freedom had an overall 5-4-5 record in the Varsity Pure Division of the Lehigh Valley Scholastic Hockey League (LVSHL). The Patriots will begin their final stretch of the season with a game against Non-Pure divisional teams Easton and Phillipsburg next week.

With both of those clubs with losing records, it is a safe bet Freedom will maintain its above .500 mark for the 2012-13 campaign.

"We have been working to stay above .500 for the entire season," said Mould. "We knew we had a good shot and figured this would be the year. We have eight seniors moving on from the program, and we thought we would have a good chance to take another big step this season."

Last year, Freedom ended the season with a sub-.500 record, but they still managed a playoff spot in the division. They played well in the latter part of the season, and their momentum carried them to the Pure Division finals in which they lost to Parkland.

This season, the LVSHL reduced its number of playoff team to two in each division instead of three, and Freedom found itself in a season-long battle with Parkland and Emmaus in the abbreviated three-team Pure Division.

Unfortunately, the Patriots couldn't muster enough firepower to register enough wins over their division opponents and it placed them firmly in third place. Freedom has a 0-3-1 mark in its own division, managing only a

2-2 tie with Emmaus. They do have an impressive 5-1-5 slate against teams from the Non-Pure Division with two games to play.

Yet, Mould expects his team to be back in the running next season with a core of juniors and a handful of talented underclassmen in the mix. Leading scorer sophomore Brendan Driscoll and freshman goalie Jarrett Ballister will be back in the fold for next season.

"We'll finish with 12 forwards and five defensemen for the season," he said. "But we will have some people moving up including a good freshman goalie. With numbers, it is a year-to-year thing."

"We do have some positives that we can build on for next year. It will be a transition year in some ways for us, but we have gained more confidence seeing how we have played against teams outside our division."

"Now, we have to bounce back against teams in our own division next year."

Nick Cortopassi and the rest of the Hawks advanced to Hershey for state duals this weekend.

understands that the expectations heading into this weekend.

"It's always a great feeling to win a district title and we're aiming for that big championship this weekend," said Moisey in reference to winning states. "To win states for a third time would show how hard we're working and how we're doing things right."

Karam knows that with a roster full of underclassmen, including Moisey, the experience of winning another district title, as well as the prospects of claiming another state championship, is part of the breeding process that produces winners for the program.

"I think it's pretty easy to understand that when the young guys experience winning, it becomes contagious," said Karam. "Once you start winning, you don't want to lose."

And Becahi (13-0) is now only four wins away from not only winning states, but capping an undefeated season.

That journey starts tomorrow when they take on District One champion Lower Moreland in the opening round of the PIAA 2A team championships.

District 3 champion, Boiling Springs, figures to be the Hawks toughest opponent, which would be in the finals since they are in opposite brackets.

Bermudian Springs, another District 3 qualifier, as well as District 10's Reynolds and Fort LeBoeuf, should compete for top finishes as well.

"I look at districts and states as one tournament and you got seven matches to get the job done," Karam said. "It's countdown mode as of now. We got three down and four to go. We're just going to take things one match at a time."

out for the Hurricanes and understood the reality of taking on Parkland in the semifinals.

The next step for Liberty is preparing for the individual postseason, but advancing past the semifinals as a team is a long-term goal that Karam hopes has been fixed.

"We've made some pretty big changes in the feeder program that I think will help us as we move forward," he said. "I've been teaching single legs and not locking hands to 9th, 10th and 11th graders the past couple of years."

"We're starting to get kids that know how to wrestle when they come in and that's gigantic. We found the problem, we fixed it and I think it's just a matter of time now."

game with an injury to her wrist.

"She's one of our best players. She moves the ball very well, and it was tough with her out," Husser said.

EHS got the ball back, scoring with 8.5 seconds left, and a foul shot put Emmaus ahead 37-36.

"It was tough [under the boards]," said Husser, regarding Emmaus's defense. "Either way, it's hard."

Two days later, the girls suffered another tough loss to Easton, 35-30.

The Red Rovers held Freedom to two points in the third, and 16 points from the Patriots in the fourth were not enough.

Freedom guard, Brenna Dosedlo, said, "We were getting shots. They just weren't falling, and we weren't really prepared for their defense. I was giving my team pep talks. It just wasn't working."

Dosedlo led the Patriots in scoring with 17, followed by Kelly Rosete and Ashley Husser, who had four apiece. Ashley Gordon was held to two, as was Tori McCaslin, and Taylor Garza scored one.

The Pates close out with Becahi and Liberty.

"We're going to start preparing for Liberty early because we know we can beat them," Dosedlo said.

The Auxiliary of St. Luke's University Hospital held its 25th annual fashion show, "Fashion for a Cause: The Art of Healing," at the Sands Bethlehem Event Center, with more than 200 supporters in attendance. After enjoying a reception in the Vision Bar, attendees entered the arena and watched as about a dozen models paraded up and back on an elevated runway presenting some of the season's latest fashions. Proceeds from the fundraiser benefited the "artist in residence" program, which provides art therapy for cancer patients receiving a variety of services at St. Luke's Cancer Centers. St. Luke's has partnered with ArtsQuest and artist Karen Steen, who offers patients with cancer an opportunity to explore their creative talents while undergoing treatment and meeting the challenges of surviving a cancer diagnosis. Sponsors for the event were The Shoppes at Sands, LOOK Models and Actors Agency, American Hairlines and Sophistikate. ABOVE: The "Fashion for a Cause" show features models wearing ensembles provided by many of the stores in the Shoppes at Sands mall. Patrons enjoy viewing a variety of ladies', men's and young people's fashions up close to the runway during the show.

STUDENTPROFILE Josh Wolper Moravian Academy

Grade: 12
Family members: I have a mom, Sue, my mom's partner, Didi, and my sister Sarah Favorite subject: I am curious about every subject, but in particular I love math, science and art. I love math because it is so concrete: a math problem has an exact answer; it just has to be found. I enjoy science (mainly physics and chemistry) because I like learning how the world works. Finally, I love art because at the end of a long day of calculating, graphing and theorizing, I can let my emotions and thoughts manifest themselves on paper.

Activities: In high school I have developed some of my most passionate interests – photography and video games. In sophomore year I began taking dark room photography and struggled with it. My teacher, Mrs. Woodruff, and I both knew I had potential, but my perfectionist tendencies prevented me from thriving at first. Partway through the year I let go my obsession with perfection and fell in love with the medium. I now find solace in photography. I'm currently taking an advanced photography course and am doing a personal project. In the rest of my free time I am involved with video games. I grew up playing video games, with their fantastical world and rich stories. I began and run an activity at school I call Digital Innovations to discuss and analyze the artistic design and rich narratives of video games. Last summer I took a computer graphics class at the University of Pennsylvania and realized I want to pursue a career in the industry I've grown up with.

Next steps: I plan to go to college to double major in computer science/computer graphics and art. I anticipate pursuing a graduate program in either the same field or in business.

Career Goals: I am extremely independent, so I hope someday to open my own company that develops video games. However, I would be happy in any aspect of the industry, from 3D modeling to story design.

Heroes: Last fall I went to Philly to see the alternative band Circa Survive. I waited years to see them and they 100 percent delivered. The energy was high, the lyrics were more poignant than ever and lead singer Anthony Green was putting everything he had into it. I've looked up to him for years, marveling at the depth of his lyrics and the passion in his voice. But my respect for him was never higher than that night as he spoke to the audience: "Never let anyone tell you that you're not good enough. If you work hard to reach your dreams, no one can stop you." This inspirational advice simply reassured me that Anthony Green is perhaps the most admirable man in the music industry, and without a doubt my hero.

Hobbies: In my scarce free time I take photographs, listen to music, collect rocks and minerals, hang out with friends and play video games.

Volunteer/community work: I've volunteered at a variety of the Da Vinci Center as a floor coordinator, Country Meadow retirement home in Bethlehem and at the Jewish Community Center in Allentown.

Likes: I love a wide array of movies, books, music and video games. My favorite movies include "Fight Club" and "Spurred Away." I love Agatha Christie and Stephen King novels and I listen to music at all times. I listen to a mixture, from Radiohead and Nirvana to Circa Survive and Breathe Carolina. My favorite video games are those that use the medium in a creative way, such as the dark platformer, LIMBO, and the desolately beautiful Shadow of the Colossus.

Dislikes: I don't like what the movie industry has become: "Explosions: The Movie, coming this summer!" I don't like video games that are violent for the sake of violence. They cast a negative shadow on the entire medium and it seems the news media believes violent video games are the only video games and go on the offensive against video games as a whole.

Greatest accomplishment (so far): One of the things I'm most proud of is winning a special award at the Pa. Junior Academy of Science. I go a first place at the regional level and a first place and perfect score at states. I received the PJAS Director's Award in Physics for my in-depth look at the effects of permanent magnets on ferrofluids. I'm also proud I received the President's Education Award three years in a row for an A average in every class taken.

Advice for peers: Be yourself. It's cliché, but often platitudes are such because they hold a deeper truth. On top of being who you are, it's important to find something you like to do and pursue it. You never know; it might end up being what you want to do for the rest of your life.

St. Anne's inducts 11 in Junior Honor Society

During Catholic Schools Week St. Anne's held its inaugural National Junior Honor Society induction ceremony for seventh and eighth graders in the sanctuary of St. Anne's Church. Eleven students from the Bethlehem school were selected for the prestigious society based on exemplary scholarship, leadership, service, citizenship and character achievements. Four student mentors from Bethlehem Catholic HS, who are St. Anne's graduates, participated in the induction ceremony along with Helena Myers, advisor to the newly formed St. Anne's NJHS chapter. The inductees and mentors after the ceremony are: wearing green shirts and yellow blouses, Sean Huff, Colleen Healey, Julia Sledz, Gabriella Duffy, Abigail Garza, Jaime Wehr, Rebekah Recchio, Allison Hontz, Cole Gilotti and Herman Jarod; Bechahi students are Madeline Titus, Nick Karabin, Michael Duffy and Victoria Tesone. St. Anne's student Harison Stevens was selected for the NJHS, but was not present for the induction ceremony.

The Ebenezer Bible Fellowship Church in Bethlehem Twp. presented its third annual indoor Christmas Pageant with a fully costumed cast and animals in December. Portraying biblical characters, pageant participants gather outside the temple in Jerusalem – Dale Sine as Simeon, Pat Magil as Anna, Lisa Harrison as Mary, and Dave Lissy as Joseph. The original Christmas Story script was written by Rachel Marks of Freemansburg, who coordinates the event each year. The pageant is presented by Kids Crossing – the children's ministry program of the church.

Live animals, including a donkey, a goat and a sheep were a popular addition to the Christmas pageant this year. Families and children gather to pet the animals before and after the performance in Fellowship Hall.

Golden View Diner, located at the Hanoverville Road and Bath Pike intersection, is getting a makeover. Owner Peter Tsirigotis, represented by A E Drafting Solutions' Tarek Shehab, presented plans to Hanover supervisors at their Jan. 22 meeting. They took no action because no planning or zoning approvals were required.

In addition to the makeover, Tsirigotis will give his diner a new name – Hanover Eatery. Over the years, he's owned numerous local restaurants, from the Tic Toc to City View Diner.

In other business, Griffin Land Development pitched some minor changes to a proposal to build two "flex" buildings at a 49-acre site along the north side of Jandl Boulevard. Flex buildings are buildings that can be used as warehouses, office buildings or even for light manufacturing. Griffin President and Chief Operating Officer Michael Gamzon previously predicted that this project will create 200 jobs.

Engineer Kevin Horvath outlined the minor changes for supervisors. The building will be 2 feet taller than originally planned. Access to the site will be reduced to accommodate concerns raised by residential neighbors at nearby Traditions of America. Parking lot striping will occur as tenants are added, instead of all at once. Landscaping will be deferred at some border areas that are already heavily wooded. "Otherwise, they'd literally be cutting down trees to plant trees," explained Township Engineer Jim Milot.

Griffin would also like a deferral of a sidewalk requirement along the business tract.

Supervisor Steve Salvesen told Horvath that there are a large number of walkers at nearby Lehigh Valley Industrial Park, which is a similar business district. But Supervisor Glenn Walbert noted that they still have the authority to require a land owner to install sidewalks.

Hanover Supervisors are next scheduled to meet Feb. 12, 7 p.m., at 3630 Jacksonville Road.

The District X Choir Festival will be hosted by Berks Catholic HS from Feb. 7 through 9. The five vocal majors selected to participate are Kate Miksits, Kelsey Lewis, Sarah Meinhart, Albert Nethropp and Jacob Crisafulli. At the district festival, they will re-audition to potentially advance to the Region Choir Festival, which will be hosted by Hamburg Area HS from March 21 through 23.

From March 6 through 9, 14 selected dance majors will be attending the Regional High School Dance Festival in Norfolk, Virginia. The students chosen to participate in the festival are Nick Heffelfinger, Maddie McCadden, Madison Spigner, Gabby Disante, James du Chateau, Eden Weinstein, Lexi Mateo, Lauren Frye, Kristen Blundi, Shannon Carpenter, Savannah Keenan, Casey Field, Morgan McCammit and Emily Nicholas. Amid the preparations for the festival, the dance majors are in the process of choreographing their pieces for Young Choreographers in Concert.

From March 7 through 13, Second Stage will be presenting "A Wrinkle in Time," an original adaptation by senior theatre major, Haleigh Kling. This production will feature Brook Whitmire, Sam Ferguson, Andrew Przekraut, Kaitlyn Leidig, Franziska Steinheuer, Tilleen Meitzler, Onjolie Corado, Maxwell Ferguson and Brian Ehst.

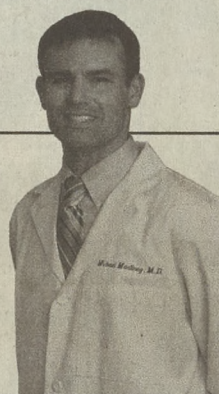

For the second year in a row, all theater majors will be given the opportunity to perform in a showcase. The performances will begin with the Freshmen Theatre Showcase on March 13, followed by the Sophomore Theatre Showcase on March 14 and the Junior Theatre Showcase on March 15. Each showcase will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Black Box Theatre. The Senior Theatre Showcase will be performed at a later date.

The figure skating department is currently engaged in preparing its upcoming show, "Passport on Ice." This is an all-student production which will include live musical performances by the music department and guest performances by figure skating alumni. "Passport on Ice" will take place at the Steel Ice Center on March 16 at 6 p.m.

On Saturday, March 16, the National Honor Society will be hosting a Middle School Arts Workshop at the Charter HS for the Arts from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Any middle school student interested in developing their artistic abilities is invited to attend and work with NHS members from the dance, theater, visual art, vocal music and instrumental music departments. The workshop will cost $10 upon arrival. To register, call the main office at 610-868-1446. Any unanswered questions can be directed to CharterArtsNHS@gmail.com.

From Russia, with love

State Ballet Theatre of Russia to present 'Romeo & Juliet' at State Theatre, Easton

By JENNIFER MCKEEVER
Special to The Press

The great city of Voronezh is 300 miles south-east of Moscow in the heart of Russia.

Voronezh, population 1.5 million, was founded in 1585 by Tsar Feodor I. It is not far from the Ukraine and has had settlements since the Stone Age.

Nestled in Voronezh is the Voronezh Choreographic Institute where dancers are chosen at the age of eight to begin their studies of dance, music and academics.

The children are chosen by their ability and potential to become professional performers. These special children leave their parents at such a young age to study from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. each day, including three hours of dance training.

Igor Levin, managing director of Voronezh State Ballet Theatre, says, "It's like jail."

The children do have spring and winter break to reunite with their parents after such grueling training. The Institute turns out wonderful dancers that move onto the Voronezh State Ballet Theatre of Russia, established in 1961, to perform all over the world.

The Voronezh State Ballet Theatre employs 600 and is funded by the Russian government. The touring company, known internationally as the State Ballet Theatre of Russia, of 65 dancers will grace the stage with undoubtedly first-rate performances. The tour travelling across the United States and Canada includes three productions.

The State Ballet Theatre of Russia presents an adaptation of William Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet," 7:30 p.m. Feb. 14, State Theatre for the Arts, 453 Northampton St., Easton.

State Ballet Theatre of Russia Artistic Director

Olga Nepomniashchaya, 57, and a former principal dancer of the company for 30 years, says, "The whole focus of the production is the tragedy of love, the love of Romeo and Juliet and how they kill themselves for love."

Nepomniashchaya gives the dancers notes and comments after intermission and following each performance. She says that she emphasizes to the dancers, "The most important thing to present is the emotion."

The capturing of the highly-emotional element of "Romeo and Juliet" is paramount to winning over an audience. Juliet, played by principal dancer Yulia Nepomnyashchaya, will dance with her Romeo, played by Alexander Lityagin. Their performance is sure to bring a tear to the audience's eye.

With music composed by Sergei Prokofiev, "Romeo and Juliet" will be performed in two acts choreographed by Michael Lavrosky, a former principal dancer with the Bolshoi Ballet.

The "Romeo and Juliet" ballet stays true to the original Shakespeare storyline: that of two star-crossed lovers from feuding families that ends in the ultimate tragedy, that of dying for love. How apropos that this tragic yet romantic and beloved ballet is being performed on St. Valentine's Day.

Time to Jump: The Time Jumpers, above, are in concert, 8 p.m. Feb. 16, State Theatre for the Arts, 453 Northampton St., Easton. The country and western-swing band's stellar lineup includes Country Music Hall of Famer Vince Gill and "Ranger Doug" Green of Riders in the Sky, as well as highly-regarded Nashville session and touring musicians Paul Franklin, Jeff Taylor, Kenny Sears, Andy Reiss, Dennis Crouch, Dawn Sears, Joe Spivey, Larry Franklin and Billy Thomas. The band began as a jam session for the musicians and to play their favorite songs, but quickly developed the reputation of "the show that stars go to see." In 2007, the group recorded a live album, "Jumpin' Time," that was nominated for two Grammy awards. Sustaining art: Constance Garrow Diamond's "Sustainability in Painting" continues through Feb. 17, Payne Gallery, Priscilla Payne Hurd Campus, Moravian College, Main and church streets, Bethlehem. The exhibition includes 35 works using collage of acrylic and mixed media on paper. The exhibition supports Moravian College's "Sustainability In Focus" themed programming for the 2012 - '13 academic year. "Sustainability is, by definition, a concern with the future," says Diamond, above, a Brooklyn native who grew up in Long Island where she lives. Diamond received a B.A. in art from New York University, a Master's degree from Queens College, and a Ph.D. in art from New York University. She has taught art in high schools for many years and more recently at the college level at SUNY. "The means of enhancing and protecting that future are various," Diamond says. "Creativity, innovation, making fresh and sometimes unusual connections between supposedly disparate ideas is basic. This definition of art and the definition of sustainability are the same. Protecting the future through providing the conditions for growth is the goal of both of sustainability and art."

A home run

Iron Pigs Charities distributes $85,000

By DEB BOYLAN
Special to The Press

In about two months, the first cries of "Play Ball" will fill the air at Coca Cola Park, the aroma of grilled hotdogs, burgers and fries will beckon the hungry and a chilled beverage will refresh the thirsty when the gates open April 10 for the 2013 Lehigh Valley Iron Pigs season.

Yes, it's the time of year when fans' thoughts begin to turn toward America's favorite pastime.

It was all about the Phillies, the Lehigh Valley Iron Pigs and, more specifically, Iron Pigs Charities on a recent sub-freezing night.

A sold-out crowd of 1,100, including fans, corporate partners and guests, soldiered through arctic-like temperatures Jan. 24 to celebrate the hometown team's charitable foundation at the fifth annual Phillies Winter Banquet at the Sands Bethlehem Events Center.

The gala event, now in its fifth year, is the unofficial prelude to baseball's spring training season for area baseball fans. It provides an opportunity to hear guest speakers from the Phillies organization discuss the upcoming season. It is also a celebration of the continued work Iron Pigs Charities does throughout the year to better lives in the local region.

After being held in previous years at the Holiday Inn Fogelsville and, more recently, DeSales University Billera Hall, the event was moved to the Sands Bethlehem Event Center to accommodate a larger crowd. The move proved successful as the maximum capacity was increased from 875 to 1,100. This year's event was presented by The Air Products Foundation, Coca-Cola and the Lehigh Valley Health Network.

"It's a fantastic venue we're very fortunate to come to the Sands Event Center. We've been growing each year and to come here now with 1,100 people, the energy in the room is absolutely tremendous," said Kurt Landes, Iron Pigs General Manager and Board President of Iron Pigs Charities.

"It's a great lineup with Charlie [Manuel] and Ruben [Amaro, Jr.], plus two former Iron Pigs players who had just amazing years last year with the Phillies. I think everyone's just excited and anxious for baseball."

"The best part about tonight, personally, will be later when we hand out checks, just over $85,000 to 20 different organizations that we raise money year-round for through Iron Pigs Charities. That's the fruits of our labor," Landes said.

Planning for the event begins each year in May, according to Sarah Marten, Director of Community Relations for the Lehigh Valley Iron Pigs. Marten's full-time position involves community outreach, planning events and fundraising activities and along with the board of directors of Iron Pigs Charities, determining grant recipients.

The track record of Iron Pigs Charities keep high profile guests like Charlie Manuel, the Philadelphia Phillies Manager, and Ruben Amaro, Jr., GM and Vice President of the Phillies, returning year after year.

"I think it's great that they do these things to help out people in need," said Steve Noworyta, Phillies Assistant Director of Player Involvement. "Whatever it takes for anybody, they [Iron Pigs Charities] always seem to be there for them."

"We [Phillies organization] enjoy our relationship with the Lehigh Valley. The money they raise and what they do for the charity, I think it's great. It's nice to see Charlie Manuel and some of the former [Iron Pigs] players come out and the young kids getting a chance to see the Phanatic and all that. It's a wonderful evening," Noworyta said.

Proceeds from the $80 a plate banquet went to Iron Pigs Charities as did money raised during the silent auctions at the benefit. This year, bidding for the silent auction of 120 items included online bidding for those not attending.

Since its inception in 2007, Iron Pigs Charities has raised more than $550,000 for Lehigh Valley nonprofits. In addition to the Winter Banquet, the Iron Pigs raise funds through memorabilia auctions and raffles during the regular season and other events, such as last year's first 5k run at Coca Cola Park.

The Iron Pigs front office staff and players also volunteer hours of their time year-round. This past summer, Iron Pigs Charities logged 547 volunteer hours and received the 2012 Spirit of Volunteerism award from the Volunteer Center of the Lehigh Valley.

Also, through a ticket donation program, season-ticket holders can designate their unused seats for distribution to non-profits. This program enables children who might otherwise be unable to attend an Iron Pigs

'Bone' gets under your skin

The French really know how to do depressing.

They also have a way of finding that silver lining in the most cloudy of lives and circumstances. Essentially, the French romanticize pain.

"Rust and Bone" ("De rouille et d'os"), directed by French film-maker Jacques Audiard, is inspiring, despite the tragedy that befalls its protagonist, Stephanie (Marion Cotillard).

Stephanie is an attractive, slender, athletic woman who is employed at a marine world tourist attraction where she works with performing orca whales. An accident with one of the huge whales sheers her legs off at the knees.

Now, this is not a spoiler. This is just where the story begins. Stephanie sinks into a deep depression.

She becomes friends with another young man, Ali (Matthias Schoenaerts), who is separated from the mother of his young son, for whom he has parental custody. Ali moves in with his sister and her husband in Antibes. They live on the wrong side of the French Riviera. He works as a security guard and moonlights as a mixed-martial arts fighter.

The contrast — and similarities — between Ali's brutal fights and Stephanie's challenging post-operation battle is one

MOVIE REVIEW

By Paul Willistein

of the chief aspects to recommend the film. The storyline also presents contemporary social issues crucial to some plot twists. We won't spoil those.

"Rust and Bone" director Jacques Audiard, who also directed "A Prophet" (2009), "The Beat That My Heart Skipped" (2005) and "Read My Lips" (2001), directs from a screenplay he co-wrote with Thomas Bidegain. The screenplay is based on the short stories, "Rust and Bone" and "Rocket Ride," from the book, "Rust and Bone," by Canadian author Craig Davidson.

The cinematography by director of photography Stéphane Fontaine, who has worked with Jacques Audiard before, is often hand-held, up-close and intimate, with lots of over-exposure, not only representing the South of France resort, but Stephanie and Ari's mental states.

The soundtrack composed by Alexandre Desplat ("Argo," "Zero Dark Thirty," "Moonrise Kingdom," "The King's Speech," "The Tree of Life") gives an ethereal sense, while also emphasizing certain plot points.

French directors, Jacques Audiard included, know how to get seamless, naturalistic, performances from their film actors.

Marion Cotillard projects a contemplative glow with her big eyes, high cheek bones and a high forehead. Because of the accident, her passive face rarely cracks a smile. Her sweet visage has been soured. She brings us along on her journey.

Cotillard, a 2007 Oscar actress recipient for "La Vie En Rose," the Edith Piaf biopic, received a Screen Actors Guild actress nomination for "Rust and Bone," with the award going to Jennifer Lawrence for "Silver Linings Playbook." "Rust and Bone" was acclaimed at the 2012 Cannes Film Festival.

Matthias Schoenaerts ("Bullhead," 2011, an Oscar foreign-language nominee) presents an odd, powerful and effective characterization of a brute whose brute strength seems to get in the way of his brain power.

Marion Cotillard and Matthias Schoenaerts remarkably achieve the physical challenges each role presents. They and "Rust and Bone" will get under your skin.

"Rust and Bone," MPAA Rated R for strong sexual content, brief graphic nudity, some violence and language; Genre: Drama, Romance; Run time: 2 hrs.; Distributed by Sony Pictures Classics.

game an opportunity to do so.

"I love getting involved in the community," said incoming Iron Pigs Manager Dave Brundage. "I think it's very important. I've been in this game [baseball] 27 years and certainly you want to make sure that you give something back. If we are able to affect a child's life and help out, it's everything in the world."

Said infielder Kevin Frandsen, who played for the Iron Pigs in 2011 and 2012 before being called up to the Phillies, "The people in Lehigh [Valley], the fans coming out, everyone supports the Iron Pig charity."

"I've been on many minor league teams and no minor league team does it like this as far as reaching out to the community and doing stuff where it's not forced upon, but where it's presented [in a way] where you want to do it and it's awesome."

Erik Kratz, above left, former Lehigh Valley Iron Pigs baseball player and now a Philadelphia Phillies catcher, and Kevin Frandsen, above right, former Iron Pigs third baseman now playing for the Phillies, were among honored guests and featured speakers at the Phillies Winter Banquet Iron Pigs Charities benefit.

"So many guys and so many players get involved; I think that speaks loud enough. Players want to do it here because there's so many good things that accompany it and that come about with it," Frandsen said.

"The Iron Pigs obviously have a huge following," added Phillies catcher and former Iron Pig Erik Kratz. "To build on top of that the support of the community to the charity, I think it just shows what the Iron Pigs have really done in this community in what I think is a short amount of time.

"The charities have been very well-funded through anything from jersey sales to autographed items, to this event. To have this many people come out [and] to have this event sold out, I think it shows what kind of community this is, how the community wants to support the team and to support the charity the team is involved in," said Kratz.

"Obviously, it's [Iron Pigs Charities] a very, very important part of what we [the Philadelphia Phillies organization] are trying to do," said Ruben Amaro, Jr. "We started a program last year to try to get these young men [the players] more involved in charities."

"At the big league level we have a great group of players who really take it [charitable work] to heart. It's very important for us to have not just good players, but good people and hopefully we can continue to contribute and to be a part of Lehigh Valley's Iron Pigs Charities," Amaro said.

Things don't make us happy

Ohhh, how I wanted that house.

That's all I can think about as David and I ride our bikes past "the house." "The house," as in, it's perfect for us.

"The house," as in, it was almost ours.

When David and I were planning to get married, we each owned a home. Our plan was to sell our homes and buy one together.

It would have made more sense if one of our homes was suitable for both of us. But he declared my home was too small and his very old home needed too much repair.

So, we went house hunting. Either he would like a house and I didn't, or, I would like a place and he didn't. We knew it would take a special house to appeal to both of us.

Finally, we found it—a house with the floor plan we wanted, a dream kitchen, and plenty of outside space. The waterfront property had everything we wanted, and then some.

I loved the way it had a second floor master bedroom that looked out over water, giving the feeling you were floating in water.

You already know the end of the story because I told you before. We put money down on the house and set a closing date.

The night before we were supposed to buy it, David decided it wasn't a smart move. We still owned two houses and he was afraid owning a third would sink us financially. "What if we can't sell our homes right away? It's crazy to do this," he said.

So he backed out of the deal.

I can remember the exact date and the sick-in-the-stomach feeling I had.

Emotionally, I was already living in that house. I had mentally placed our furniture. I even made it a point to meet the neighbors. We hit it off great and were making plans for the get-togethers we would have when we moved in.

You know how you make a decision then keep questioning whether it was right or wrong? We did that, at least I know I did.

The economy tanked right after we walked away from the house and property values in that community fell $100,000. Plus, we would have had to sell our homes for less than we paid for them.

I've had a few friends who got caught in that trap and they ended up losing their homes. So I know David made the right decision. But it took a while to get over my disappointment. OK, I admit it. It took a long while.

When David was trying to make me see the logic of not buying the house, he said: "Things don't make us happy. We wouldn't be any happier living in that house than we would be staying in mine."

He is so right. Things don't make us happy — at least not for long.

WARMEST REGARDS

Feeling cherished makes us happy. Living a life of meaning makes us happy.

I know plenty of people who live in big, gorgeous homes. But they are not happy.

I know all this in my heart.

I have never believed for one minute that any material possession can bring us more than a fleeting moment of happiness.

I've said a few prayers of thanksgiving that we didn't get caught in a financial mess by buying the house I wanted. Truth be told, I no longer want to live there.

But that doesn't stop me from thinking "what if" when we pass "the house."

Alert to how quiet I got after we rode past the house, my spouse said, "Come on, tell the truth. Would we have been any happier in that house than we are now?"

The answer is an astounding no.

It's not where we live. It's how we live and with whom we live that brings happiness.

I feel like I bathe in happiness every day of my life because we have so much pleasure built into every day. David and I both thrive on an outdoor lifestyle and we both love the same activities. We both love nature and savor every day of being outdoors in sunshine. Best yet, we share the belief that life should be more than just fun — that we are called to be there to help others. We share the same strong faith and the same resolution to live a life of meaning.

Would a new house change any of that?

Not one bit. After a brief bout of satisfaction, things don't make us happy.

I once had a friend who learned that the hard way. She is absolutely beautiful and her husband adored her. He worked double shifts to pay the mortgage on their huge home and to buy her whatever she wanted.

The problem was, there was no end to what Nancy wanted. After she filled every corner of their house with fine furniture, she wanted gemstones, the kind with lots of zeros in the price tag.

Some people have an emptiness inside them and they try to fill that emptiness with things. Of course that never works. I wasn't surprised when Nancy and Don got a divorce because she "wasn't happy."

Wise old Socrates had something to say about that: "He who is not contented with what he has would not be contented with what he would like to have."

Vince Gill jumps back in Time

By DEB BOYLAN
Special to The Press

Although Time Jumpers is not a band of science fiction time-travelers, the 11-piece group transcends time through its throw-back brand of country music.

Fans will be able to "jump" deep into country music's roots at the group's concert, 8 p.m. Feb. 16, State Theatre for the Arts, 453 Northampton St., Easton.

Outside of the music industry, the Time Jumpers highest-profile member is without a doubt 20-time Grammy Award winner, Nashville Songwriters and Country Music Hall of Fame inductee Vince Gill, who lends not only his guitar playing but vocals to several songs performed by the group.

Gill will not only be performing with the Time Jumpers at the State Theatre, he will also be the opening act with a 40-minute solo set of his material.

"The Time Jumpers is a Western Swing band at its core," says Gill. "We play old-time Bob Wills music. Western Swing music was invented kind of back in those days by Bob Wills, Spade Cooley — people like that."

"They took Big Band music like Count Basie, Tommy Dorsey, but used Western influences on how the instrumental type stuff was played. They used fiddles and steel guitars and things like that rather than the brass instruments. It's a great 'be-bop-y' kind of swing music. It feels great. And it's great to dance to."

Wills is universally credited as one of the granddaddies of Western Swing, which originated in the latter part of the 1920s in the American South and West. The popular dance hall music combined Dixieland, gypsy jazz, blues, folk, cowboy and the the Big Band sound.

The sound is characterized by the prominence of steel guitar and fiddle, but includes piano, upright bass, sax and drums, and features an up-tempo beat.

The genre was initially referred to by several names, including Hillbilly, Old-Time music, Hot String and Western, but became commonly known as Western Swing after the 1931 Duke Ellington hit "It Don't Mean a Thing (If It Ain't Got That Swing)" introduced the word "swing" into the lexicon.

"It's an 11-piece band," says Gill of the Time Jumpers. "It has three fiddlers Kenny [Sears], Joe [Spivey] and Larry [Franklin]. We have an accordion player, Jeff Taylor.

"'Ranger' Doug Green plays acoustic rhythm guitar. He's from the group Riders in the Sky. He did a lot of the music for 'Toy Story' ['Toy Story 2' film]."

"Billy Thomas is the drummer. Dennis Crouch is the bass player. Myself and Andy Reiss both play electric guitars. Paul Franklin plays steel guitar and Dawn Sears is a world-class singer.

"Seven singers [Dawn and Kenny Sears, Gill, Green, Spivey and Thomas], and just great instrumentalists, a lot of orchestrated things, where the fiddles play three-part harmony," Gill continues. "A lot of instrumental stuff is done with this band and it's a unique thing that I think a lot of people will really enjoy."

The Time Jumpers formed in Nashville in 1998 when a group of well-regarded master studio musicians decided to get together for regular jam sessions to play the music that they loved in a fun and relaxed environment. They began performing regularly Monday nights at Nashville's Station Inn Bluegrass Club.

Owing to its increasing popularity, the band recently moved its Monday night jams to the larger Third and Lindsley nightclub.

The band's latest album release on Rounder Records, last year's "Time Jumpers," is nominated for two Grammy Awards: Best Country Album and Best Vocal Performance by a Duo or Group - Country for "On the Outskirts of Town." The group was a two-time Grammy nominee in 2007.

"I'm in the band. I play guitar and I sing," says Gill when asked about his role in the group. "We rotate it around. Everybody sings a couple of songs."

"It was born out of everybody wanting to play this kind of music, play on a Monday night and have some fun. They [the members of the group] started a jam session back at the [Grand Ole] Opry.

"All these musicians play with different people full-time and do different things to really make their living. This band was born out of just the love of all the great old music."

"Little by little, they got more popular and the club started filling up every Monday night and people [other musicians] would drop by and sit in. It's kind of the hottest ticket in town on a Monday night."

"We've had Sheryl Crowe sit in — Jordin Sparks, Elvis Costello, Emmy Lou [Harris], Rodney [Crowell], Old Greats of the Opry will come by. It's a really great time. Everybody is crazy about hearing some of this real traditional country music from like the '50s and '60s like Ray Price's 'Shuffle' and some Buck Owens' songs, some Haggard tunes — things like that."

"But also I'd say 70 percent of the music is steeped in that real Western Swing flavor. It's a great experience. People will probably see something like they won't ever see. There are not many people out there playing Western Swing music."

"This band has their own voice. To see this group of musicians, that are just great musicians, get some notoriety and get some attention and things like that — it's so much fun for me to see because, to me, talent and great playing and great singing is the most important thing."

"They [the Time Jumpers] are really getting a chance to do some things that they probably wouldn't have done. I don't think anybody would have thought the band would tour the kind of places we're playing."

"Not a lot of people are going to know who the Time Jumpers are, and we know that. But because it's a group of [musicians] that have all had 30, 40 years of a career in the music business. It's not a bunch of young kids with stars in their eyes."

Crest to honor David Jaendl

David Jaendl, owner and president of Jaendl Farms, Jaendl Turkey Sales, Jaendl Land Company, and Schantz Orchards, all of Orefield, has been chosen to receive the 2013 Associates Award from the Associates of Cedar Crest College during the Associates Luncheon, noon March 6, Tompkins College Center.

David Jaendl

Jaendl served on the Cedar Crest College Board of Trustees 2005 - '10. During his tenure, he participated in the transition from president Dorothy Gulbenkian Blaney to president Carmen Twillie Ambar.

"It's a great honor. When you look at the past recipients, which include some of the most accomplished individuals in the Lehigh Valley, it's certainly humbling," said Jaendl, who has had several family members attend Cedar Crest including sisters, Alice Jaendl Brown '79 Nursing and Cathy Jaendl-Leuth '83 Management.

Jaendl is a trustee for the Jaendl Foundation. In 2006, he co-founded the Miracle League of the Lehigh Valley, which provides a baseball field where nearly 300 physically and mentally challenged children and adults play annually. In 2011, he and wife, Jackie, chaired Lehigh Valley Health Network's Children's ER fund-raising campaign.

Jaendl Farms was founded by David Jaendl's father, Fred, and grandfather, John L. Jaendl, in the early 1930s. John managed the farm until the 1980s, when David stepped in to manage the farm operations upon his grandfather's passing.

The company has expanded to an operation that provides nearly one million turkeys. Jaendl distributes turkeys from Maine to Florida, and for the first time in 2012, distributed fresh turkeys to Arizona, Colorado and California. Jaendl now exports to Japan and the Dominican Republic.

Jaendl Farms largely remains a family business. Jaendl's sister, Cathy, nephew, John Jr., and sons, Adam and Jake, work full-time for the company. His wife, Jackie, mother, Anne, and siblings Alice, Mary and John all help out part-time or on a seasonal basis. His three younger children, Luke, Josh and Joanna help out when not attending school.

In addition to the thriving turkey business, the family farms 11,000 acres of corn, soybeans, wheat and organic grains. Jaendl also has a 300-acre orchard where he annually produces apples, peaches, plums and cherries.

Jaendl has been responsible for land development in the Lehigh Valley, including residential, commercial and industrial projects. This includes Lehigh Valley West Industrial Parks in Upper Macungie Township, home of such established companies as Nestle, Perrier, Bridgestone-Firestone, Coca-Cola, and soon to be the home of Ocean Spray.

GREEN BUILDING Mayors to talk about initiatives

Easton Mayor Sal Panto, Bethlehem Mayor John Callahan, Allentown Mayor Edward Pawlowski and Whitehall Mayor

Edward D. Hozza, Jr. will discuss green initiatives and sustainability strategies, 11:30 a.m. March 28, Wood Dining Room, Iacocca Hall, Mountaintop Campus, Lehigh University, Bethlehem.

The session, organized by the Lehigh Valley

Branch of the Delaware Valley Green Building Council, will be moderated by Amy Burkett, manager of WLVT-TV and host of the Emmy-nominated series "Tempo in Depth."

PUBLIC NOTICE
NOTICE OF MEETING FOR CONSIDERATION OF PROPOSED RESOLUTION AUTHORIZING THE INCURRENCE OF NON ELECTORAL DEBT
Notice is hereby given that the Board of Directors of the Catasauqua Area School District (the "School District"), Lehigh and Northampton Counties, Pennsylvania, will hold a public meeting for the purpose of considering and acting upon a Resolution authorizing the incurrence of non electoral debt by the School District, and conducting such other business as may come before the Board of School Directors. The meeting will be held on Monday, February 11, 2013, at 7:00 p.m. in the District Administration Office Board Room, 201 North 14th Street, Catasauqua, PA.
The following is a summary of the contents of the Resolution which, among other things:
1. Authorizes the School District to incur non electoral debt pursuant to the Pennsylvania Local Government Unit Debt Act, as codified by the Act of December 19, 1996 (P.L. 1158, No. 177) (the "Act"), and to evidence such indebtedness by the issuance of its General Obligation Bonds, Series A of 2013 in the aggregate amount of $8,980,000 (the "Bonds"). The proceeds of the Bonds, as well as other available funds of the School District, will be used for and towards: (1) the advance refunding of a portion of the School District's outstanding General Obligation Bonds, Series of 2009; and (2) the payment the costs and expenses related to the issuance of the Bonds.
2. States that the debt to be evidenced by the Bonds is non electoral debt, and that the Bonds, when issued, will be General Obligation Bonds of the School District;
3. Directs its officers to prepare and file the debt statement required by Section 8110 of the Act, to execute and deliver the Bonds and take all other actions as may be required by the Act or the Resolution in connection with the issuance of the Bonds;
4. Contains a covenant that the School District shall include in its budget for each fiscal year, to the fullest extent allowed under applicable law, the required debt service on the Bonds; that it shall appropriate such amounts from its general revenues for the payment of such debt service; that it shall duly and punctually pay or cause to be paid the principal of and interest on the Bonds as and when due; and pledging the full faith, credit and taxing power of the School District for such budgeting, appropriation and payments;
5. Contains the substantial form of Bonds and the terms thereof, including the purchase price of the Bonds, the schedule of principal maturity amounts and dates, the rates of interest and interest payment dates and place of payment and redemption provisions of the Bonds, all of which will be inserted in the Resolution prior to action of the Board of School Directors thereon, based upon the accepted proposal for purchase of the Bonds;
6. Authorizes the proper officers of the School District to secure municipal bond insurance or other credit enhancement for the Bonds and to execute appropriate documents and agreements in connection therewith, and provides for payment of all costs of financing;
7. Determines, after due consideration and investigation, that a private sale by negotiation with RBC Capital Markets, LLC is in the best financial interest of the School District, and that a proposal in connection with the same shall be submitted to the School District for acceptance at the meeting;
8. Provides for the creation of a Sinking Fund for the Bonds and the appointment of Manufacturers and Traders Trust Company as the Sinking Fund Depository and Paying Agent, and authorizes the officers of the School District to enter into contracts accordingly;
9. Authorizes the disbursement and application of the proceeds of the Bonds and other funds; and
10. Contains various other provisions relating to the Bonds, the issuance and sale thereof.
A copy of the proposed text of the Resolution described above may be examined by any citizen in the Business Office of the School District located at 201 North 14th Street, Catasauqua, PA, on business days during the hours of 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.
The Resolution currently on file omits certain details, which have not yet been ascertained. These include the purchase price of the Bonds, its aggregate principal amount which is estimated to be $8,980,000 (and which may increase depending on the terms of the proposal received, but is not expected to be greater than $9,200,000), the maturities and interest rates and redemption prices, all of which will be ascertained from the proposal to be presented at the meeting. These details, when finally ascertained, will be inserted in the Resolution prior to adoption by the Board of School Directors. The Resolution may also be amended in such other respects as the Board may deem appropriate.
If the Resolution is adopted, a notice of adoption, including a summary of the omitted details, the amount of the debt incurred and principal amount of the Bonds to be issued, the price bid, the interest rate or range of interest rates of the Bonds and any other amendments made prior to final passage, will be advertised after adoption and made available for examination by any citizen in accordance with the Act.

Notice is hereby given that the Weisenberg Township Zoning Hearing Board will conduct a public hearing on Wednesday, February 13, 2013, starting at 7:30 P.M. in the Township Municipal Building at 2175 Seipstown Road, Fogelsville, PA. The Zoning Hearing Board will consider the following Appeal:
Case No. 2013-1, Appeal No. 283. A hearing in the Appeal of Christopher D. and Donna M. Wilson (a/k/a Donna M. Snyder) owners of the property being, for the property address of 4650 Winding Road, New Tripoli, PA 18066 seeking a variance under Zoning Ordinance Section 1215.03 and Section 1006 which requires a minimum of 30 foot side yard setback, and Applicants proposed addition provides for only a 14 foot side yard setback Applicant requesting a variance for 16 feet of a side yard setback pursuant to Section 1215.03 and Section 1006 in the Rural Conservation District.
The parcel identified for the owners of the property Christopher D. and Donna M. Wilson (a/k/a Donna M. Snyder) being for the property address of 4650 Winding Road, New Tripoli, PA 18066, particularly identified as Parcel, Pin Number 542759729354 1.
Applicants seek a variance from side yard setback in that Section 1215.03 and Section 1006 requires a 30 foot side yard setback and Applicants' addition proposes a 14 foot side yard setback therefore requesting a 16 foot variance from Section 1215.03 and Section 1006.
