Live from the IceHouse Tonight presents George Hrab

Multi-instrumentalist, singer, songwriter, story teller, science advocate, producer, composer, and heliocentrist George Hrab has written and produced six independent CDs and a concert DVD; published two books; recorded over six-hundred and fifty episodes of an award-winning podcast; emceed countless science conferences; was a TEDx speaker; has been the drummer and musical director with The Philadelphia Funk Authority for over twenty years; and has even performed for President Clinton. He's traveled to four continents promoting critical thinking, science, and skepticism through story and song. Join him on Tuesday as he performs virtually from his favorite venue in the world, Bethlehem's famous IceHouse.

Performance will stream on the IceHouse Tonight facebook page and our new IceHouse Tonight YouTube channel.

Live from IceHouse Tonight delivers local arts to your living room. Presenting a diverse selection of virtual performances, the series is part of the larger IceHouse Tonight series, which features over 100 events each year.

The series is proudly sponsored by Fig Bethlehem magazine.
