

Howhle, William F.

Air School Grads

The largest navigation class in the history of military aviation was graduated at Selman Field, Monroe, La., Oct. 2. In the class were the following local men: William F. Howhle, Hanover Avenue, Allentown; Flight Officer John J. Tirpak, Orchard Street, Hellertown, and Flight Officer Franklin Goldsmith Young, Main Street, Northampton.

The graduates will go into concentrated combat training at other fields, and in a few months will be flying in every theater of the war.
