Dolan set to resign from city council

By NATE JASTRZEMSKI
 njastrzemi@tronline.com

Longtime Councilwoman Karen Dolan is resigning from government and may be leaving the city altogether. Following the release of the Northampton County district attorney's grand jury report on her conduct regarding Illick's Mill nonprofit Gertrude B. Fox Environmental Group, Dolan said in an email to the Press Friday she has been unable to find employment in the Lehigh Valley and is now searching for work outside the area. Dolan confirmed in the email that she told the mayor and city clerk to expect her formal resignation in the near future. The grand jury investigating Fox group's debts to the city and potential ethics violations released its report last week, with an overall condemnation and call for Dolan's resignation. From late April through September the grand jury examined 46 emails, letters, financial records and other documents, and heard testimony from 20 witnesses, including former Mayor John Callahan and other former city employees and those involved with the Illick's Mill organization. Central to the investigation was that Dolan, the nonprofit's CEO as well as council member and Parks and Recreation Committee chair, allegedly used those connections to have Fox debts to the city forgiven - to the tune of $127,959. There were also allegations Dolan ignored ordinances to benefit Fox by allowing Illick's Mill to host receptions serving alcohol stronger than 7 percent. When the public became aware of some of these allegations through the media, Dolan resigned her position at Fox and agreed to change her committee assignment. But District Attorney John Morganelli, as he had with similar allegations against the National Museum of Industrial History on Third Street, had already applied for the investigation into Dolan's activities. Dolan said, in an interview with the Press in August and at other times, that she had been promised by city officials that the mill was

TOWNSHIP Board considers 4-way stop signs

By BERNIE O'HARE
 Special to the Bethlehem Press

On Sept. 10, three East Hills MS cross-country runners were injured during practice when stuck by a car at the intersection of Santee and Chester roads, where there's a three-way stop sign. Two years ago, Bethlehem Township officials balked at a traffic study at that location because of its cost. But at their Oct. 6 meeting, they changed their mind. By a 4-0 vote, commissioners unanimously decided to seek a traffic study on the need for a four-way stop sign at the site, which is near Freedom HS, East Hills and the vo-tech school.

Although a stop sign could simply be added, solicitor Jim Broughal strongly recommended that a traffic study be performed first. He advised that installing a stop sign improperly could lead to liability. He added, "[T]raffic signs cannot be used to control speed, just traffic."

Barry Roth, a tow truck operator who attends nearly every commissioners' meeting, disputed the need for either a study or a stop sign. Saying the accident rate there is low, he called a traffic study a "knee-jerk reaction." See 3-WAY on Page A3

BASD Energy plan saves $1.5 M

By KRIS PORTER
 Special to the Bethlehem Press

Members of the Bethlehem Area School Board were updated Oct. 6 on the district's energy consumption and savings. At the committee meeting, Arir Fazil, principal engineer at D'Huy Engineering in Bethlehem, went over some of the successes of the school district's energy plan, which was implemented in the 2008-09 school year. He said the school district not only saved more energy in 2013-14 than in 2008-09, but saved almost $1.5 million.

To illustrate this, Fazil showed a baseline profile comparing the energy use and cost in the school years. According to the profile, BASD used more than 219 million kilowatt Btu's in 2008-09 at a cost of nearly $4.7 million. At that time, D'Huy theorized that the 2013-14 school year usage would increase to more than 226 million kilowatt Btu's, but with a slight increase in cost due to the energy savings measures. The reality proved better than the fiction. In 2013-14, the school district actually dropped usage to just under 180 million kilowatt Btu's and reduced costs to $3.1 million, result-

When 15 former waitresses at Bethlehem Steel recently reunited, there was much news on families and former co-workers to catch up on.

Some catching up to do

By DANA GRUBB
 Special to the Bethlehem Press

When 15 former Bethlehem Steel waitresses gathered recently, there was much reminiscing and recollecting of their experiences serving many of the captains of the steel industry.

They met at a luncheon at the Palace Restaurant, many having not seen their former co-workers for years. They are in their 70s and 80s now, but it is easy to imagine them as younger women toiling in Bethlehem Steel's Martin Tower restaurant as they took the orders of steel industry executives by memory and delivered their meals.

This time around the roles were reversed as the one-time Bethlehem Steel waitresses got to place their orders with Palace Restaurant employee Jennifer Williams.

Some were full-time and others part-time, as the hours allowed them to both work and raise their families. As corporate dining facilities closed, they often moved into other jobs in the corporation's offices.

Their stories were often hilarious. Rose Fertel remembered snacking on hors d'oeuvres as she rode the elevator to deliver trays of them to company functions, and then quickly rearranging them as the elevator reached its destination so the tray wouldn't look picked over.

Casey seeks support for pregnant employees

By NATE JASTRZEMSKI
 njastrzemi@tronline.com

Packed into a small conference room at the YWCA's industrial park office in Bethlehem Township, women supporting the organization's mission sat in self-conscious but polite silence.

Though the tiny chamber was tense with an uncomfortable airlessness, nobody had trouble hearing a sedate U.S. Sen. Bob Casey (D-Pa.) relate his hopes for the proposed Pregnant Workers Fairness Act, which he has been touting since May last year. Something of a modernization of the 1978 Pregnancy Discrimination Act, Casey explained during his Oct. 7 visit the law could only reinforce fairness and opportunities for a workforce that now exceeds 50 percent female.

Casey repeated over and over the word "reasonable" in terms identical with phraseology used in the Americans with Disabilities Act, stressing the PWFA will not force monumental changes from employers. "The ADA has those important words, 'reasonable accommodations.' What we're trying to do is to put in place the same standard for preg-

"We knew what they drank and what salad dressing they used," offered another.

Janet Miles remembered breaking into tears when she spilled an executive's order, and he told her, "Don't worry; I like it this way."

Lucille Brensinger remembered the experience fondly saying, "We had good jobs and we made good money!"

Waitresses received benefits and cost of living increases much like their counterparts in the offices and plant.

"We had a good time," added Jean Stoll, who along with Mary Ann Fulop organized the luncheon.

As Bethlehem Steel began to undergo the pains of its slide to eventual closure and bankruptcy, a number of the former waitresses said they could see it coming when the company didn't modernize.

How well do these former Bethlehem Steel waitresses tip when they are served? Several said they are very good tipppers, while others said they always tip 20 percent.

"We know how hard they have to work," came a voice from among the 15.

Attending were Lucille Brensinger, Janet Miles, Violet Kies, Rose Fertel, Barbara Lindenmuth, Rose Bedics, Florence Weaver, Fran Orban, Sandy Lucas, Barbara Raykos, Ann Lancsek, Rose Beach, Martha Kemmerer, Mary Ann Fulop and Jean Stoll.

nant workers as for workers who happen to have disabilities. It's as simple as that," he said.

Reasonable measures in these cases may be limited to providing a more comfortable chair for a pregnant employee (and one closer to a restroom) or as extensive as allowing her to work from home. Casey said employers and employees will have to work together and agree on personalized measures. Though simple in concept and based upon pre-existing and accepted law, Casey said the PWFPA is not going to immediately pass in the U.S. Senate, despite having 25 sponsors.

When asked, Casey said the bill will very likely have to be reintroduced next year. "Even a bill that makes perfect sense like this is a very ... a bill about reasonable accommodations, it does take a while for consideration and building support."

ing in the $1.5 million savings. This was also during one of the harshest winters in that period, he noted.

Fazil said, "Twenty-three of 25 of our facilities are below the national average in energy use."

He went on to explain that during times of peak usage, the school district used an average of 1,744 kW for an average annual savings of $81,986. In 2008, the district was using 3,074 kW during peak usage.

Just by replacing light bulbs with LED lights netted an annual savings of $14,941, he said.

Fazil said they have accomplished many of the goals set in the energy plan, but one big priority is lighting. The lighting projects implemented by the school district were accomplished through Act 129 rebate program. The district replaced exterior lighting fixtures worth $100,000 to accomplish the energy saving options. There were no upfront costs to the district, he explained. But more savings could be accomplished by replacing more lighting fixtures.

One goal D'Huy set for the district is to attain the Energy Star rating in all of the district's buildings. Fazil said in the entire state of Pennsylvania, there are only 52 school buildings with the rating and 16 of them are in the Bethlehem school district. It's an accomplishment, but he wants to see all 25 BASD buildings receive the rating. Although a goal, lighting isn't the only project for the school district.

Board member Sudantha Vidanage said he'd like to see the lighting projects completed and asked if this could be moved up in priority.

Mark Stein, director of facilities for BASD, said the lighting produces a savings over a seven-year period, whereas other projects yield a larger savings in one year.

Board member Michele Cann said, "We don't have the money to direct into lighting (at this time)."

He was backed up by police Sgt. Daryl LaPointe, who said there have been only 11 crashes at that intersection over the past 10 years. Roth added the children there need more education on safety.

Those claims were disputed heavily by Doreen Connelly and Nathan Stannard, parents of the two children who were recently hit.

"Do we need to have a child in intensive care?" Connelly asked.

Stannard, whose son was thrown eight feet in the air by a car that left 28 feet of skidmarks, said that perhaps it's the drivers who need an education. "It's a very dangerous intersection."

Parent Robyn Guadagnino told commissioners she sees a near miss at the intersection nearly every day. "It's the kids taking chances, left and right."

Resident Don Wright reminded commissioners that a 14-year-old high school girl, a pedestrian, moved for a traffic study. President Marty Zawarski wondered whether the school district would be willing to share in the cost, but Nolan cut him short.

"I don't put a dollar sign on safety," he argued. Township Engineer Brian Dillman advised the board that PennDOT will endorse a stop sign at the location if any one of several conditions is present. These include high traffic, frequent accidents and reduced visibility. He added that a four-way stop sign is a precursor to a traffic signal.

In other business, the commissioners appointed Frank Grillo, a Bulldogs' assistant coach, to the Recreation Board. They also awarded police Officer David Spearko a monthly disability pension of $2,921.75. He was injured on the job in January 2012.

Finally, Manager Melissa Shafer announced that the township's new web page, <http://www.bethlehemtownship.org/>, has gone live. Among its features is a live chat function, which Shafer believes is a first for a local government in this area. She said she took seven chats herself. "It's very easy to find what you're looking for," she said.

Commissioner Michael Hudak was absent.

Bagpiper Barry Newhart of the Liberty HS Grenadier Band plays "Amazing Grace" during the placement of a memorial wreath for past firefighters. Participating in the ceremony at the flagpole outside Schweder Fire Station are the firefighters union representative Adam Orth, Bethlehem Mayor Robert Donchez and retired Deputy Fire Commissioner Eugene Novak.

Firefighters honored

Assistant Chief Warren Achey stands with fellow firefighters during the annual memorial service honoring past and present members of the Bethlehem Fire Department.

Katherine Sebastianelli of Bethlehem with a restored photograph of her late husband and former Fire Chief Augustine Sebastianelli. The Schweder Fire Station, site of the Bethlehem Fire Department memorial service, has a museum of historical items and photographs in its basement.

Ring the bell in remembrance of deceased firefighters is Captain Tony Facchiano of Bethlehem. The bell is only used during the annual memorial service to symbolize the final call to duty for those firefighters who have passed away. Three firemen joined their brethren this past year - Wilbur Bogan, 30 years of service; Ricky Weaver, 24 years; and Andy Gohn, 33 years - according to Bethlehem Fire Chief Robert Novatnack.

Fire Chief Robert Novatnack welcomes the crowd at the annual Bethlehem Fire Department memorial service held during Fire Prevention Week.

Award recipients Capt. Christopher Danyluk and Lt. Michael Rampulla hold their framed certificates "for outstanding service to their department and the community they serve." Fire Chief Robert Novatnack added, "These firefighters are being recognized for going above and beyond the call of duty and sometimes saving people's lives."

For every family that we serve in the month of October, the Heintzelman Family will donate $100 to a Breast Cancer Charity of your choosing "in support of" or "in memory of," letting everyone know there is a need to continue the fight for a cure.

Families have a choice when selecting which funeral home can best serve them. We're proud and thankful to have been chosen by you...

 exempt from rent and utilities payments because of its nonprofit, educational mission. She blamed employees for nonpayment of taxes for three years, resulting in a temporary revocation of Fox's IRS nonprofit status. She also said she had only shared suggestions on the alcohol issue made by others, and that she's personally investigated state ethics laws and was in no way in violation.

Dolan said her advocacy of the mill was merely business as usual and that all council members advocate for their own interests in some manner.

Testimony refutes these assertions, notably in regard to the alcohol and city debt issues, which mill employees and board members said they were either explicitly told by Dolan were above board or not informed at all.

For instance, Fox board member Levi Arevalo testified Dolan was incensed when she learned of a proposal to begin charging the mill rent, and she sent emails to Mayor Bob Donchez threatening to close the building - all without consulting the board. Arevalo also said he was unaware of the large debt to the city or the ordinance against 7 percent or greater alcoholic beverages.

Additionally, accountants James P. Weiss and Linda Kunsman said nonprofit 990 forms were inaccurate for several years, not reflecting the $127,959 forgiven by the city, and that Dolan's claim it was their responsibility to file the forms for tax purposes is also wrong.

Robert P. Caruso, executive director of the Pa. State Ethics Commission, said an elected official cannot attempt any action that will benefit themselves, a family member or business with which they may be associated. This includes any attempt to facilitate a financial benefit.

According to the Ethics Act, said Caruso, compensation from a nonprofit organization is not necessary for the relationship to be considered a conflict of interest. Thus, paid or not - and Dolan's position was paid beginning in October 2013 - her advocacy alone is an ethics violation.

The investigation concluded that Dolan used her positions to the benefit of her own organization and violated the public trust as an elected city official. The report recommends the repayment of the outstanding debt in the most convenient increments given Fox's financial anemic standing. It also suggests city council and city department heads provide complete disclosures of their affiliation with any nonprofits, and that new policies and procedures are developed to forestall such ethics violations in the future.

On the advice of legal counsel, Dolan utilized her Fifth Amendment right to remain silent during her own testimony.

CENTER FOR ANIMAL HEALTH & WELFARE

Animals are available for adoption at the Center for Animal Health & Welfare no-kill shelter, 1165 Island Park Road, Easton. The shelter is working to end pet overpopulation by running a clinic so animals can be spayed or neutered before they go home. For more information, call 610-252-7722 or visit www.healthyanimalcenter.org.

Hailey is young and eager for a family to grow with. She loves a good game of ball and is eager to please. This gorgeous gal is ready to go.

Biff has been at the shelter since early 2010. He is friendly but likes his space. He enjoys the company of other cats.

HEALTH & FITNESS

Stay fit when temperatures drop

Exercise is beneficial any time of the year, but it can be especially so during the winter months when colder temperatures force many people inside, where they live more sedentary lifestyles than they do during the rest of the year. Adapting your exercise habits in the winter can help you make it through the colder months in great shape.

There is no reason to stop exercising when the temperature drops. The American Heart Association says working out in the cold weather has distinct advantages over working out in hot and humid conditions. When the weather is cold, you may be able to work out longer and harder because the heat won't zap your energy levels, and exercising outdoors in the winter is a great way to get small doses of sunlight that can improve mood and help your body produce more vitamin D.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention says exercise can help boost your immune system, which can help you fight colds and flu symptoms. Just a few minutes of exercise each day can help prevent simple viral and bacterial infections as well.

Working out in the winter may help you burn more calories than in warmer seasons. Research published in Medicine & Science in Sports & Exercise found that race times are faster in cold weather than in warmer temperatures. Quicker runs or walks can burn more calories.

If exercising outdoors is too uncomfortable, break up your routine into smaller, more manageable sessions. Aim for 10 minute sessions several times per day. This quickly can add up to the 30 minutes of daily recommended exercise. Dress in layers so you can feel comfortable, adjusting your clothing as necessary. You don't want to be freezing, but you don't want to wear so many clothes that you start sweating and risk hypothermia.

Consider less traditional exercises when winter sets in. These include shoveling snow, sledding, skating, skiing, and snowshoeing.

Get Your Car Ready for the Cold Weather with Help from these Local Businesses

DON'T GET STRANDED - AAA OFFERS FREE BATTERY CHECKS

How old is your automobile battery? If the battery is more than three years old, it is at greater risk of leaving you stranded. Each year, millions of motorists are stranded due to a dead battery. Batteries can fail at any time of year, but particularly during temperature extremes in the summer and winter.

AAA recommends that the battery be tested by a technician using professional equipment. The battery cables and connections should be inspected at every oil change. If there are signs of corrosion or indications of electrical problems, have a professional test the charging and starting system and clean and tighten the battery connections.

In celebration of October Car Care Month, AAA East Central will be hosting free Automotive Battery Testing Clinics for AAA members on Saturday, October 18, 2014 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at AAA, 1520 Stefko Boulevard, Bethlehem and again on Saturday, October 25, 2014 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at AAA, 2072 Downyflake Lane, Allentown.

AAA Battery Service provides convenient mobile battery testing using state-of-the-art diagnostic equipment. The diagnostic service confirms whether the vehicle battery will hold a charge or if the problem lies deeper in the electrical system. If a replacement is needed, a new battery can be purchased and installed on the spot.

Preparing your automobile for the winter driving season is important to protecting your safety and the investment in an automobile. To ensure your vehicle is properly maintained, AAA recommends that motorists:

- Read the maintenance requirements set by the auto manufacturer in the owner's manual. There is no longer a "standard" maintenance schedule for vehicle services. Each automaker has different requirements, making your owner's manual the most accurate resource.
- Follow the recommendations of in-vehicle maintenance reminder systems for oil change intervals and other services. However, most reminder systems do not cover maintenance operations that need to be performed on a time or mileage basis - such as brake fluid and coolant flushes, or timing-belt replacement.
- Enlist the help of a trusted repair provider to keep vehicle maintenance on track. Find a quality repair provider through AAA's Approved Auto Repair network by visiting AAA.com.

AAA East Central is a not-for-profit organization with 82 local offices in Kentucky, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia, servicing 2.7 million members.

NCC SAT prep course to begin Nov. 1

The City of Bethlehem Recreation Department and Northampton Community College will hold SAT Math and Verbal Prep classes from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Saturdays, Nov. 1 through Jan. 10. There will not be classes on Nov. 30, Dec. 27 and Jan. 3.

The course will be held at the Fowler Family

Southside campus, 511 E. Third St. Included will be strategies and techniques for taking the test, a review of verbal and math concepts, and a how to tackle the essay portion of the test. Bring the calculator you will be using for the test.

Space is limited; students who live in Bethlehem only will be accepted on a first come, first serve basis. Call 610-997-7971 for information.

SAFE HARBOR Garden harvest aids center

This past spring, Northampton County Prison Warden Todd Buskirk implemented a community garden at the West Easton Treatment Center, a rehabilitation facility for inmates struggling with substance abuse or domestic relations sentences. The Parks Department joined the effort.

The officers work with the residents, who are employed at the garden, to maintain the garden. The first of many harvest collections was given to the Northampton County Prison. The second was taken to the food bank at Safe Harbor Easton for the 22 men and 12 women that Safe Harbor can house overnight, as well as drop-ins who receive meals and social rehabilitation services at the shelter during the day.

ADOHY Firefighter, child share liver surgery

The little girl was diagnosed with AdoHcy (S-adenosylhomocysteine hydrolase deficiency), a rare liver disorder that inhibits protein processing. The surgery is scheduled for Oct. 28 at University of Pittsburgh Medical Center.

To donate to Thompson, visit www.gofundme.com/ecgkx8, and, for Kennedy, visit www.gofundme.com/savingkennedy.

Jesus Visited Hermann In Prison

In his inspiring autobiography, Living A Life of Fire, Reinhard Bonnke, the German evangelist whom God has used to win 75 million Africans to Jesus Christ in the past 25 years, tells how Jesus appeared to his father, Hermann, in a British prisoner-of-war camp near Kiel, Germany. Hermann had been an officer in the Reichswehr, but had never joined the Nazi Party. Hitler's extermination of Jews appalled him. As a Pentecostal believer, he had regarded the Jews as the chosen people through whom God had revealed the Messiah, the Savior of all mankind. Hermann had been in this prison camp for 279 days. He longed for and prayed for his wife, Meta, and his six children. He had repeatedly inquired of their safety from the Red Cross but learned nothing.

Recalling Isaiah 53:6, "the LORD hath laid on him the iniquity of us all" tears ebbed from Hermann's eyes as his heart reached out to God in prayer. "My heavenly Father, I am Yours for the remaining years of my life. It is my heart's desire to preach Your gospel and to serve You alone, until the day I see You face to face." He heard a door open and close. Someone began walking across the floor. Was it a British guard? He stood to face him, and to his utter shock it was a man in white, wearing a seamless robe and Middle Eastern sandals. He was smiling as He moved toward him, hands extended as if to embrace him. Hermann reached out and saw a wound in His hand.

"Hermann, I am so glad you are coming," the Master said, then vanished! Hermann fell to his knees and wept. His soul overflowed with "the peace of God, which passeth all understanding" (Philippians 4:7). Until this moment it had seemed inconceivable that an imprisoned soldier of the Third Reich could receive the smile of the Lamb of God and that the Savior would express His pleasure at his desire to serve Him as a minister of the gospel. This encounter burned in his heart until the day he died.

Pates register emotional win over Zephs

By PETER CAR
pcar@ttonline.com

It was a victory that will always stand out in the hearts and minds of Freedom following last Friday night's epic 29-28 win over Whitehall.

Joe Santos scored the game-winning two-point conversion in overtime to send Freedom's sideline into a frenzy, as the Patriots improved to 7-0 on the season, good enough to have them tied with Easton (7-0) for first place in the East Penn Conference South Division.

After quarterback Joe Young scored from six yards out to bring Freedom within 28-27 in overtime, the Pates always had their minds set for two.

Young's initial attempt on the conversion fell incomplete in the direction of Cordell Cotto, but a pass interference call gave Freedom one last chance at redemption. That's when Santos plunged forward into the end zone on the ensuing play to give the Freedom program an emotional and historic triumph.

"We've had some big wins in the past and program wins before, but when you go 2-8 and have to do this all over again, that's not always easy," said head coach Jason Roeder. "We've had big wins over Easton and Parkland before, but this is one of the best wins I've ever experienced."

Freedom trailed 7-0 at half-time following a 22-yard TD reception by Zephyr star Saquon Barkley, as he juggled a score in the back of the end zone with two seconds left in the first half to give Whitehall momentum heading into the second half.

Whitehall looked as if they were going to go up by two scores to start the second half, as Barkley rumbled inside the 10 yard line on a big run, but was stripped of the football to give Freedom possession at their own six.

That drive would mark the first of three 90-plus yard scoring drives the Pates would have in the second half, this one resulting in a three-yard TD run by Young to even the score.

Barkley, who ran for three touchdowns and 164 yards, got his first on the ground by breaking a 47-yard TD on the next drive to put Whitehall ahead 14-7 with 3:05 left in the third.

Freedom evened the score when Young threw a four-yard TD pass to Cordell Cotto with 10:59 left to play to make it 14-14.

Santos would give Freedom a 21-14 lead with 5:17 left in the fourth off a one-yard score, which was countered by a

KUNKLE GOLFER OF WEEK

Moravian College freshman Kevin Kunkle (Northampton) has been named the Empire 8 Conference Men's Golfer of the Week for his performance over the last seven days.

Kunkle was the low player in both of the Greyhounds' outings last week. He started the week with a five-over par round of 75 at the Lehigh Country Club as Moravian finished second in the John Makuvek Cup hosted by Muhlenberg College. Kunkle's round included the only eagle of the day, shooting a three on the par five 11th hole. He also had four more birdies in his round.

Last Tuesday, Kunkle earned medalist honors at the Alvernia University Invitational, leading the 56-competitor field with an even par round of 72 at the LedgeRock Golf Club. Kunkle's season-low round included five birdies and eight pars as he shot 36 on both the front and back nine.

"Kevin is really staying within himself and playing solid golf," commented Head Coach Kevin Edwards.

Liberty High School's Samantha Peterson and Madelyn Conrad won the silver medal in the District XI Class AAA Girls Doubles Tennis Tournament on Monday at Lehigh University.

"Getting this far is an accomplishment," said Conrad.

The Hurricane pair lost to East Stroudsburg South's Brittany Poje and Kaitlyn Poje, 0-6, 1-6.

"We played pretty well [in the tournament]. In finals, I think we could have changed up our game more," said Peterson.

In the second set, four of the seven games went to deuce.

Liberty coach Leo Schnalzer said, "I felt they had to try to take some risks, and attempt to control the net if they could. When they went to some deeper lobs, they did well."

Knowing the power of Poje and Poje, the Hurricanes worked on strategy the day before.

"We tried to change up the game, but we should have thrown in some slices, serve and volleys ...," said Peterson.

The Liberty pair won the fourth game of the second set.

"We just tried to pull out one, and after that, it boosted our confidence," said Conrad.

In the semifinal round last Thursday at Parkland High School, the Hurricanes defeated Freedom's Flannery Johnston and Elizabeth McCarthy, 7-5, 6-2.

Freedom High School's Flannery Johnston and Elizabeth McCarthy took third place at the District XI Class AAA Girls Doubles Tennis Tournament last Thursday at Parkland High School.

The pair's first match resulted in a victory over Pocono Mountain East's Emma Lindauer and Amanda Anglemeyer, 6-0, 6-0.

Perhaps Johnston and McCarthy's toughest match was against Southern Lehigh's Lucy Zhang and Keelin McLoughlin, won by the Patriots, 7-5, 7-6 (11-9).

McCarthy said, "We were both really tired, and they were really consistent. The wind was just as bad as it is today."

The Southern Lehigh match was their second in the same day.

"We were ready to be done with the match. We needed to close it out," said Johnston.

In the quarterfinals, Johnston and McCarthy defeated Whitehall's Eiman Nazif and Emily Yenzer, 6-2, 6-3, before falling in the semifinals to Liberty's Samantha Peterson and Madelyn Conrad, 5-7, 2-6.

"We thought we could do better than last time. [In the first set] we were both really focused. We probably played our best tennis," McCarthy said.

All things considered, Johnston felt that the Patriots did do better.

"We just weren't winning the big points," she said.

Hawks, Mounties meet for division clash

By PETER CAR
pcar@ttonline.com

Bethlehem Catholic and Stroudsburg both enter this week as undefeated 7-0 football teams. They also enter with a combined 102-0 combined scoreline from last week in wins over Pocono Mountain East and Allen.

And now both of them finally get to lock horns this week in the biggest battle for both teams this season when Stroudsburg makes the trip to Frank Banko Field Saturday night.

"There's certainly more to play for at this point of the season," said Henrich. "You have two undefeated teams playing in week eight and that should make things fun."

It should also make things competitive, as Stroudsburg hasn't really been tested since a week one 21-14 victory over Nazareth. Meanwhile, Becahi hasn't played a close game since a week two 40-38 win over Pleasant Valley.

The Mounties are led by junior running back Gerald Douglas, who ran for three touchdowns and 210 yards on 15 carries in last week's 50-0 victory over Allen.

Henrich knows that stopping Douglas is the first step to coming away victorious this weekend.

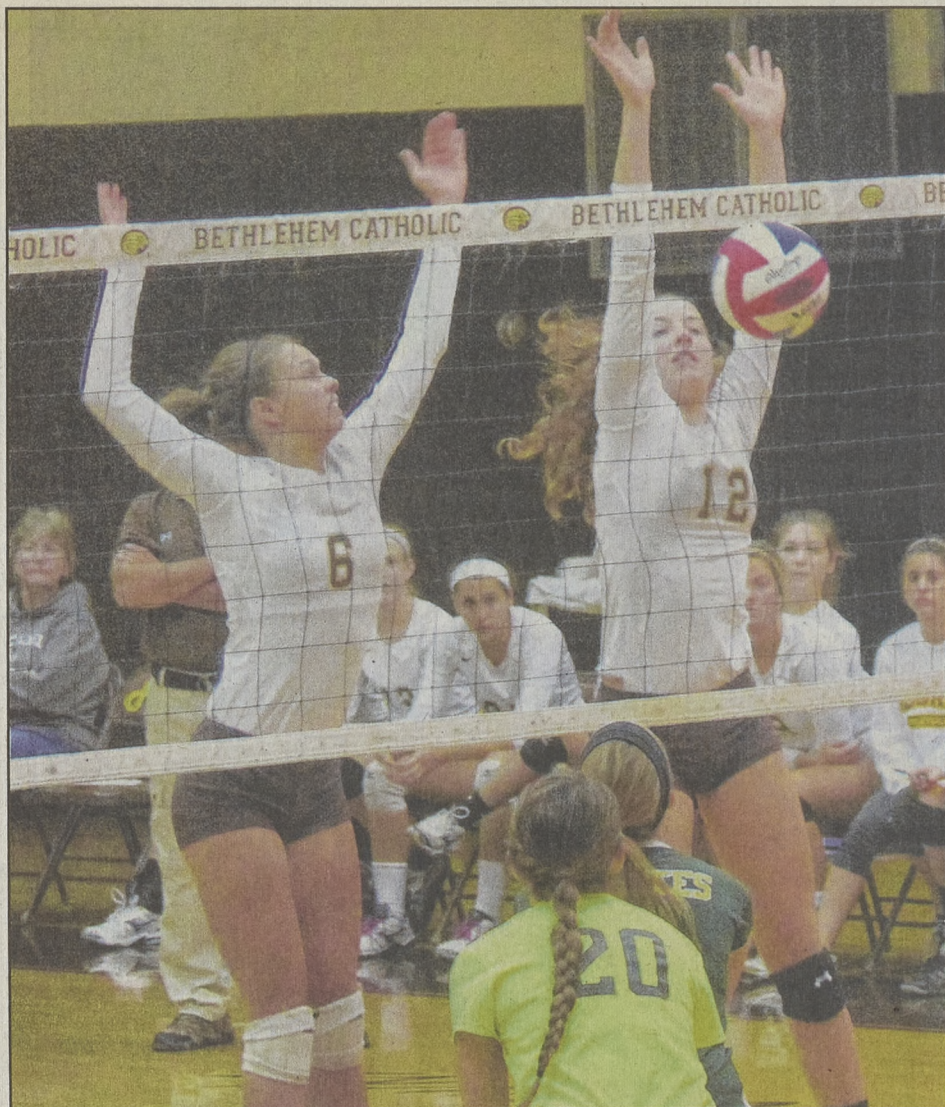

"He can beat you in a number of ways," Henrich said of Douglas. "He's probably the best running back we've seen so far this year, but they're a big physical team too. They do a nice job of holding people down on defense."

On the flip side, Stroudsburg hasn't seen a team like Becahi either this season. The weapons the Hawks have on offense with the likes of quarterback Julian Spigner, wide receiver Freddie Simmons and running back Michael McDaniel give any team fits, let alone the Mounties, who have not seen a dangerous offense this year. Stroudsburg has given up 42 points so far this season, but after a week where Spigner threw for five scores, it's fair to say that Stroudsburg's defense will certainly be tested.

"We're going to try and dictate the game on offense and play just we have all season," said Henrich. "We still have two very important guys on defense out for us. We played better last week on that side of the ball, but we still need to be better."

Hawks vying for EPC title berth

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Bethlehem Catholic's chance at playing for the first East Penn Conference volleyball championship was kept alive after a harrowing win in five games Saturday evening over Central Catholic.

The Hawks pulled out the win 27-25, 15-25, 23-25, 25-20, 15-12 in quarterfinal matchup.

The second-seeded Hawks (16-1) moved on to play third-seeded Emmaus (14-3) in Tuesday night's semifinals at Freedom High School, but those results are past Press deadlines.

Becahi hasn't played

Emmaus this season, but the Hawks were eliminated by the Green Hornets in last year's Lehigh Valley Conference semifinals.

"I know very little about them coming into the game since we haven't played them at all this year," said head coach Paul Abi-Daheer. "Obviously, they're a very good team to be second in their [Skyline] division, but we need to take lessons from how we played against Central and come out with a little more urgency."

Abi-Daheer felt his team was fortunate to come away with a victory in the first game after a slow start against the Vikings, only to see Becahi lose the next two games before climbing back for the win.

"We dominated the fifth game, but we can't put ourselves in these type of situations moving forward," he said. "It's a lesson we can learn from all this that we need to start better."

Liberty (12-5) lost to Nazareth in four games in their EPC quarterfinal opener by a 12-25, 17-25, 25-22, 18-25 affair. The Hurricanes entered as the fifth-seed, while the Blue Eagles were seeded fourth, as they moved on to play top-seeded Parkland in Tuesday's nightcap.

Liberty now awaits their fate for the district tournament.

Freedom surprises Liberty 'Canes win opening round of EPC

By KATIE MCDONALD
kmcdonald@tnonline.com

Perhaps no one was wishing time away more than the Freedom boys soccer team last Thursday night when the Patriots knocked off the Liberty Hurricanes 2-1.

"I was looking at the clock about every second," said D.J. Bast, who was credited with an assist in the first half for the Patriots. "It's always the best feeling to beat Liberty. It's always intense. It's such a physical game, you can get caught up in it."

The Hurricanes struck first when Colin McIntyre scored on an assist by Sammy Aviles in the first half. The Patriots responded when Chris Szymanski scored on an assist by Bast, also in the first half.

"We got a corner, and T.J. [Czerwinski] crossed it in. D.J. got a header, it hit the crossbar and came down. It bounced, and I was able to head it in. It felt great. I never scored against Liberty," said Szymanski.

With the score tied at halftime, Freedom coach Michael O'Connell stressed defense.

Szymanski said, "We talked about keeping up the defensive pressure. And instead of kicking the ball up, we were going to try to keep it down, but we still needed to play with a defensive focus."

A lot of Freedom's defensive pressure was aimed at Liberty's Colin Muller, who tends to slide behind the defense, creating opportunities for the Hurricanes. Freedom's mids, Judson Freidl, Adam Capuano, and Giancarlo Casas took turns staying on Muller.

O'Connell said, "Our goal was to disrupt him and play our game. We needed to play smart, aggressive, and hard. We wanted to get our defense organized, and then our goal was to open up and attack."

Patriot forward, Mezen Abdulla, put Freedom ahead in the second half.

"I got the ball at about the 25 or 30 and hit a curve around the goalkeeper. It was the best feeling in the world," said Abdulla, "but I was scared they were going to come back."

That certainly appeared to be the case, especially in the final minutes, when the Hurricanes methodically moved the ball to create scoring opportunities.

Freedom goalkeeper, John Eltringham, said, "That's what they do. They move the ball well. The second half was just as threatening as the first, if not more. Our defense had my back, and I had theirs."

The Patriots celebrated on the field, having beaten their archrival, and having boosted their conference record to 8-7.

EPC playoffs

Liberty won its opening round game of the Eastern Pennsylvania Conference playoffs Saturday, knocking off Pocono Mountain East 2-1 on the road in penalty kicks.

The Hurricanes got on the board first on a Michael Visperas goal before Pocono tied it in the second half on a score from Christian Barth. Both goals were unassisted.

Liberty's Anthony Silva made 16 saves as Pocono outshot the 'Canes 28-21.

The Hurricanes moved on to Tuesday's semifinals, which came after Press deadlines. The guys were scheduled to play Stoudsburg at 8 p.m. at Pleasant Valley High School.

LHS girls knock off Freedom

kmcdonald@tnonline.com

It wasn't the first time Liberty defender, Julia Mello, saved a goal from inside the net, but it may have been the difference between winning and losing for the Hurricanes girls soccer team last week when they defeated the Freedom Patriots, 2-1, in overtime.

"I just saw [the goalkeeper] coming out, and I saw another girl running for it. I tried to throw my body in front and knocked the ball with my knee," Mello said.

The save came with 1:22 left in regulation, and at that point, overtime seemed inevitable.

Liberty mid, Erika Peters, said, "They controlled the ball in the second half. They wanted it more. We knew we needed to score in the first ten minutes. I knew I had to get it to Cailey [Sanchez on the corner kick]."

Sanchez planned on heading the ball, but hit it off her chest instead, scoring the winning goal.

"It all happened really fast. I don't remember it going into the net. I didn't comprehend it. Then, they all came running out. To beat Freedom twice was such a good feeling,"

Sanchez said.

Liberty's first goal came in the first half when Olivia Askernese scored on an assist by Peters.

"We went out with a whole bunch of confidence. We were determined to win. It's been eight years since we made it to districts. We're all proud of each other," said Askernese.

In the second half, Freedom right mid, Kerry Callaghan, scored a goal for the Patriots after the ball was deflected off a defender.

Becahi's Reightler chooses IUP

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Maddie Reightler may not have had that much success on the field for Bethlehem Catholic's field hockey program, but Reightler will have a chance to make up for that in college.

Reightler recently committed to Division-II Indiana University of Pennsylvania, making her one of the few Becahi field hockey players in the school's history to move on to play at the collegiate level.

For Reightler, the decision came easy after visiting the campus.

"I just really liked the dorms they had, the campus and the turf field," said Reightler, who also considered Slippery Rock, Mercy College and Division-I St. Louis University. "It's only four and a half hours from home too, so I'm not far away in case I have to get home."

Reightler was spotted by college coaches at a showcase tournament last November and helped her cause by emailing coaches to watch her play.

IUP was the first school to get back to her and the rest, they say, is history. "To be able to play in college and represent represent Becahi is just awesome," Reightler said. "We've struggled the past couple years [at Becahi] and even though I didn't really have the type of supporting cast on the field like I'll have in college, we all learned from the struggle. It made me a better player and made me want to work harder."

Easton up next for LHS

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Liberty had little trouble dispatching Northampton during a 38-14 victory last week, but the Hurricanes (4-3) will have their hands full when they take on Easton (7-0) Friday night at Cottingham Stadium.

The Red Rovers are fresh off a 28-21 win over Parkland and have knocked off Whitehall this season as well, to put the Rovers at the top of the EPC South Division alongside undefeated Freedom (7-0).

But everyone knows that Easton appears to be the team to beat this season and 'Canes head coach John Truby will need a full effort and maybe some luck, to leave Cottingham with the biggest upset of the year.

"Easton is really good, and playing them at their place adds in another dimension of issues," said Truby. "My guys have to play the entire 48 minutes with great effort. Defensively, we have to try and keep their play makers in front of us and gang tackle. Offensively, we have to control the line scrimmage and keep our QB upright."

Saying and doing are two different animals in sports and Liberty will truly need a special effort this week to slow down the Rovers, who feature running back Shane Simpson.

Simpson tied the school record for touchdowns last week, giving him 65 for his career, as he was 'bottled' up for 131 yards last week on 20 carries. The Easton senior broke an 86-yard score in the fourth quarter to help the Rovers secure a 28-21 over Parkland.

Keeping Simpson in check is possible, but not having him break one play is the tough part.

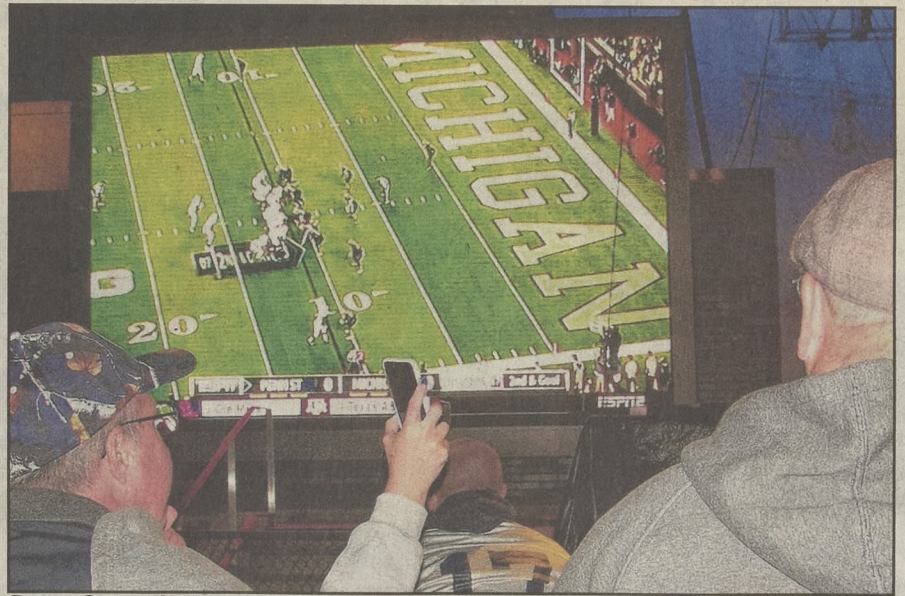

Liberty already has seen the likes of Whitehall's Saquon Barkley first hand, as he ran for 209 yards and four total touchdowns against the Hurricanes during a 56-20 romp on September 19.

Having that experience on hand could help Truby and company heading into this week. "Simpson and Barkley are both great football players," he said. "Both are home run hitters and are able to make plays. I think that Simpson is just as good on defense. On film he doesn't shy away from contact and gives effort every play. Their coaches do a nice job of moving him around offensively, I've seen him at RB, slot and WR."

But at the end of the day, facing Easton always comes down to toughness and physicality, as the Rovers have shown this season, they may be the toughest team in the league.

"Easton is physical," said Truby. "Their offensive line is big and does a nice job getting to the second and third level. The QB is able to beat you with his feet and arm. Defensively, their d-line is fast and physical. Number 55, looks great on tape with a high motor and play making ability. Their secondary might be the best in the league. They are going to hit you for 48 minutes."

Pete's Top-10: Tough week

By PETER CAR

Well, what a surprise week seven became! With the season coming down to crunch time, I failed miserably on my picks from last week. Part of it was ambition, part was bad luck, but you need a little bit of both in order to get quality wins at this point of the year.

With the division races in the East Penn Conference finding matchups that can determine league champions, week eight is full of intriguing play. Meanwhile, the Colonial League saw some shake-ups after last week, which means the poll has had more movement than any other week this season. Enjoy the picks.

Barkley one-yard TD less than three minutes later. Freedom won the toss in overtime and elected to defend, which allowed Barkley to score his fourth TD of the night, this time from three-yards out to give the Zephyrs a 28-21 lead.

That's when the magic and a little bit of luck happened for the Pates to leave Zephyr Stadium with a massive win.

"This is a big statement win and I'm just proud of all our guys," said Young. "I thought the game was over when we missed the two-point conversion, but I was so happy to see that flag come out to give us a second chance."

And that second chance helped pave the way for an emotional postgame celebration on the field, which became a remembrance for senior classmate Kiera Pheiffer, who was injured in a car accident last Saturday night.

"I said to the team we're not a school of 3,000 kids and I'm not sure if everyone [outside of Freedom] understands this 'Freedom family' thing," Roeder said. "We're a tight knit school and to see them to pull together and handle the tragedy they're going through, it's not easy."

Girls' soccer teams from Bethlehem Catholic, Easton, Whitehall, Parkland, and Nazareth also joined in on the support during their games.

Callaghan said, "The game was bittersweet because we know we played so good. This one, we played better than the first."

The Patriots will also compete in the District XI Girls Soccer Tournament.

were more motivated," Peterson said. "I tried to hit a lot down the middle because they would both call each other off, and no one would get to it."

In quarterfinals, the Hurricanes defeated Pleasant Valley, 6-1, 6-0.

Peterson and Conrad's match against Stroudsburg in the second round proved to be a little more of a challenge, even though the Hurricanes won 6-4, 6-0.

"In the first set, there were too many unforced errors on our part. In the second set, we got our heads on straight," said Conrad.

In the first round, the Hurricanes defeated Northampton, 6-1, 6-2.

2014 was the first time in at least 17 years that Liberty had a number one singles player in the district final and a number one doubles team in the district final.

"Sam and Madelyn are probably the best one-two punch around. They are very good players. Maybe I didn't expect to advance both singles and doubles to the final. I felt they had the opportunity, but it was a little unexpected. They deserved to be here," Schnalzer said.

Culinary contests take center stage

PRESS PHOTOS BY CAROLE GORNEY

It's a tough job, but someone has to do it. The nine judges had to taste all of the 20 chocolate cake entries – twice.

A 14-year-old ninth grader at Central Catholic HS in Allentown captured a total of six ribbons for baking at the 2014 Great Allentown Fair. Danica Kercimar Schofer beat out peers and adult bakers to take home three first-place and three second-place ribbons in nearly half of the 13 culinary contests held during the seven days of this year's event.

The Schnecksville teen, who credits her grandmother for inspiring her, won blue ribbons for her "Mocha Hot Fudge Brownies," "Raspberry White Espresso Pie." Her chocolate cake, Pampered Chef cookies and apple pie took second places.

Danica said she has been baking her whole life. Asked how she was able to bake when she was only one-year-old, she answered, "I helped."

Julia Intrepido-Kmetz has been culinary superintendent for the competitions for 15 years, and she says it is rare for a young girl such as Danica to win so many ribbons.

The winning PA Preferred chocolate cake, chosen from among 20 entries, was baked by Catherine Ache of Bethlehem. By winning this contest, she earned the right to compete at the Pennsylvania Farm Show in January.

PA Preferred is a statewide agricultural marketing program supported by the State Department of Agriculture to identify and promote food and agricultural products grown, produced or processed in Pennsylvania. Secretary of Agriculture George Greig was on hand for the PA Preferred cake competition, and offered a few remarks about the importance of farming and county fairs, which he called an "economic boon" to the state.

"One out of seven jobs in Pennsylvania is related to agriculture, which provides $68 billion in economic stimulus," Greig said in a short interview. "It is the number one industry in the state."

Other blue ribbon winners were: Mary Ellen Miller, Orwigsburg, "Leafy See FAIR on Page A13

Danica Kercimar Schofer's No-bake Espresso Pie

Yield: 8-10 servings

Pie Crust:

- 2 squares baking chocolate
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 1/2 cup butter
- 2 cups coconut
- 1/4 cup sweetened condensed milk
- 1 cup confectionary sugar

Filling:

- 1-1/2 cup milk
- 1/3 cup cornstarch
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1 tsp. instant espresso powder
- 3 large eggs
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 12 oz. chocolate

Whipped Cream:

- 1-1/2 cups + 2 tbs. heavy whipping cream
- 2 tsp. instant espresso powder
- 6 tbs. confectionary sugar

Rum Balls:

- 3 Vanilla wafers
- 1 cup pecans
- 2 tbs. cocoa powder
- 4 tbs. rum

Instructions:

1. To make pie crust, mix together all ingredients and melt. Press into pie pan. Chill.
2. To make filling, cook all ingredients over medium heat until thick. Chill.
3. To make whipped cream, beat cream at high speed until forming peaks. Add other ingredients.
4. To make rum balls [for top of pie], place all ingredients in blender and pulse. Roll [balls] in confectionary sugar. Chill.
5. Assemble and decorate as desired.

John Joseph Yanek's Smokin' Hot Chili

Ingredients:

- 1 tbs. extra virgin olive oil
- 3 pounds 90-10 ground beef
- 1 large onion, diced
- 3 garlic cloves, minced
- 1 large red pepper, diced
- 1 green pepper, diced
- 4 long hot peppers, seeded and diced
- 2 Italian sweet peppers
- 1 tbs. [black] pepper
- 1 tbs. sea salt
- 1/2 cup chili powder
- 1/2 tsp. celery salt
- 2 tbs. lime juice
- 1/2 cup brown sugar

• 3 tbs. hot sauce

• 3 (28 oz.) cans petite diced tomatoes

• 1 (12 oz.) can tomato paste

• 1 (29 oz.) can tomato sauce

• 1 (16 oz.) can light red kidney beans, drained

• 1 (16 oz.) can dark red kidney beans, drained

• 2 (16 oz.) cans black beans, drained

• 2 (16 oz.) cans Great Northern beans, drained

Place a large stockpot over medium-heat heat.

Add olive oil and ground beef to pot, cooking until browned. Drain fat from stockpot. Stir in onion, garlic, and peppers, cooking until tender.

Stir in the seasonings, lime juice, brown sugar, hot sauce, diced tomatoes, tomato paste, and tomato sauce. Bring to a boil.

Reduce heat to low and cover pot; simmer for an hour, stirring every 15 minutes.

Add the beans; simmer another 1/2 hour.

Brendan Weaver

Saucon Valley HS

Grade: 12

Family members: Kent Weaver (father); Julie Weaver (mother); brothers Davis Weaver, Timmy Weaver and Sammy Weaver, and Maisy (my dog!)

Favorite subject: My favorite subject is by far history/social studies. I love to learn about our nation's history and the history of the international community as well as the cultures which encompass the globe. Additionally, I really enjoy the study of music and French.

Activities: I am a four-year member of varsity cross country, and one of this season's captains, and track teams. I have participated annually in the school musical since fourth grade and have attained various leading roles throughout the years. I am an executive officer of the SVHS National Honor Society and head of the fundraising committee for SVHS MiniTHON. I am an officer of Model UN and a member of UNICEF Club. I also participate in chorus and select choir, for which I am the 2014-15 librarian. Last but not least, I will be performing, along with one of my brothers, as the SVHS Panther at all home sporting events.

Next steps: I will be attending a four-year college/university in hopes of majoring in musical theater and/or international relations or communications.

Career goals: I hope to perform as a full-time actor on Broadway or somewhere that will pay me. I also plan on becoming the new Matt Lauer. I'll go with whichever comes first.

Heroes: My grandparents, Mimi and Pop-pop and Grammy (in spirit) and Pop-pop are my heroes because they have all accepted every member of my very large family with love and support. Ellen DeGeneres and Harry Potter are top contenders in this category because both are just awesome.

Hobbies: I like singing in the shower loud enough so my neighbors can hear me. I like going on unexpected adventures with my friends and hanging out with my cousins. I love snuggling with my dog, Maisy. I study maps and like to look up any information I do not know. I like to exercise and play sports with family and friends, specifically volleyball.

Current job(s): I am a seasonal employee at Black River Farms, an eco-friendly vineyard where I weed, cultivate grapes and pick up rocks and put them down.

Volunteer/community work: I volunteer as a cantor at Assumption B.V.M. Church. I also volunteer as a Sunday school teacher. I am a two-time Northampton County Special Olympics volunteer and participate in many National Honor Society service projects. In an upcoming summer, I plan to go to China and volunteer at a camp for orphans.

Likes: Cold days at the beach, singing, dancing, autumn, acting, playing sports, working out, going to SV sporting events, the JUNGLE, leisurely reading, Bethany Beach, traveling, See PROFILE on Page A16

Marking the end of summer

The 162nd Great Allentown Fair, in late August was presented by the Lehigh County Agricultural Society at the 46-acre fairgrounds. The multifaceted educational and entertainment extravaganza highlights the achievements of farmers, gardeners and homemakers. Live musical concerts, thrill shows, a large midway with games and rides,

Members get hands-on CPR training

SOUTHSIDE TASK FORCE

By JOANNA IRELAND
Special to the Bethlehem Press

"Welcome to a new year," said Roger Hudak, chairman, to the 16 attendees at the Mayor's Southside Task Force September meeting.

The 90-minute meeting covered some important upcoming events and also provided an opportunity for several organizations to share information for attendees to bring to their respective organizations.

Representatives from Bethlehem's Health Bureau shared a video "Hands Only CPR," an updated method of performing CPR that anyone can do. The video included two steps: First, call 911 and second, start chest compressions and maintain them until help arrives.

After the video demonstrated the hands only method, attendees had the opportunity to practice on inflatable torsos and passed around a portable AED (automatic external defibrillator).

EMS provided information about the Vial of Life, a program available to anyone who lives within Bethlehem's city limits. All first responders are trained to look for the Vial of Life magnet, which they suggest be posted on a home's refrigerator. The vial, stored in the refrigerator, holds a paper on which residents can record contact and medical information. This program provides important information for first responders, especially if the patient is nonresponsive or confused.

Another program shared is the Yellow Dot program. Similar to the Vial of Life but used throughout the state, the pamphlet includes a yellow dot which drivers stick on their back windshield. The pamphlet itself has spaces for people to include personal, contact and medical information for first responders to use, in the event of an accident.

One final informational piece the Health Bureau shared was a reminder to visit ready.gov, a website designed to provide practical information about emergency preparedness.

Eugene Brown, representing the Eastern PA Health and Wellness Expo shared his new mission: to make people aware of diabetes and the importance of taking the time to save one's own life.

He made available copies of the Prescription Discount Card (www.rxdiscounctd.com) for attendees to share with their organizations.

He also announced the date the fourth Health and Wellness Expo will be held at the Banana Factory on April 18, 2015.

Marilyn Kelly, a former Army medic now working toward a master's degree in public health and for the Southside's Victory House, is asking for key stakeholders of the Southside - residents, businesses, churches - to take a needs assessment survey about the community's health needs.

Lorna Velázquez, executive director of the Fowler Hispanic Youth Center, announced three events the center will be hosting in the coming months:

- Bethlehem Superintendent's Night, Oct. 9, at 6 p.m. at 502 E. Fourth St., Bethlehem

- Appreciation Day, a luncheon from 11:30 a.m. - 1 p.m. at 520 E. Fourth St., Bethlehem

- The center's annual banquet, March 27 at 6 p.m. at DeSales University

A grant from Block by Block (out of Louisville, Ky.) has made possible the hiring of six Community Ambassadors. Set to begin training on Oct. 1, these ambassadors will work seven days a week, from 7:30 a.m. to midafternoon, to clean the Southside's neighborhoods and commercial district. They will also spend afternoons and evenings working as hospitality ambassadors.

Their work is supported in partnership with the city, parking and local businesses to bring more life to this part of Bethlehem. More information about the program will be available in the coming weeks.

Rosemary Hensel, legislative assistant to Rep. Steve Samuelson, made available grant resource guides and information about rent/property tax rebates.

She said the Bus 103 schedule may be modified, based on petitions to increase routes.

She announced that Dare to Care was to take place Oct. 8.

The Mid-Atlantic Rehabilitation Office representative discussed the office's partnership with local school districts' SAP (student assistance program) and announced the following events:

- A luncheon with leaders of faith-based communities on Oct. 28.

- Harvest Full of Hope, Oct. 8 at ArtsQuest.

Also discussed briefly was Bethlehem's decision to maintain its own separate 911 center, its partnership with Lehigh University's security force and the prevalence of many security cameras, whose data is shared by the Bethlehem police department, throughout the Southside.

trying different foods, Christmas, volunteering, helping those in need, and studying history cultures and languages.

Dislikes: A large amount of snow days, teacher strikes, doing poorly on assignments, mustard, soda, Styrofoam, spicy food, when everyone in a room crowds around one piano and sings an Adele or Journey song, unaccepting and ignorant people, and when I don't fully understand information given to me.

Greatest accomplishment (so far): My greatest accomplishments include when I was a leader of Saucon Valley's first MINITHON, which raised over $11,000 last year, and being part of the new wave of SV school spirit.

Advice for peers: Always work as hard as you can in every activity you participate in. Remember that academics come first, but also try a range of activities in the time you have. Be friends with everyone and never be exclusive or judgmental to anyone. Lastly, take your SATs earlier than I did and never walk in the middle of a Saucon hallway.

A life of art

Baum School of Art Gala to honor Dr. Rudy Ackerman for work with school, Moravian College art department

By PAUL WILLISTEIN
Focus Editor

Dr. Rudy S. Ackerman's career as an arts educator and artist has touched the lives of countless art students, artists, art educators and arts aficionados across the Lehigh Valley.

He has been a Pied Piper, a Johnny Appleseed, a cheerleader on the Valley arts scene for half a century.

Ackerman's career extends from teaching art to elementary school students, to establishing an art department at Moravian College, to building a new Baum School of Art, to having his own art studio in Florence, Italy, to hanging out with Harry Bertoia, one of his influences.

Ackerman is being honored Oct. 18 at the annual Baum School of Arts gala. Ackerman and others will speak at the dinner fundraiser held at Baum. (Information: baumschool.org, 610-433-0032).

His passion for the arts hasn't waned. Ackerman has maintained an improvisational approach, singular determination and performance outcome orientation to art education and his own art work emblematic of his jazz musician roots.

Like a jazz musician who plays between the notes, a youngster who colors outside the lines or an administrator who thinks outside the box, Ackerman pushed the boundaries in his art and the arts institutions he's served.

It all began in 1958 in the Southern Lehigh School District where Ackerman was hired right out of Kutztown University to teach Lower Milford, Center Valley, Lanark and Coopersburg elementary schools students.

"What I was hired to do was visit classrooms every week and teach a class. What I decided to do was have enrichment for kids who seemed to have ability.

"I never wanted an art room. My art room is the classroom."

Ackerman also offered summer art enrichment classes in the Solehi district. "I was there for five years. They were marvelous years."

In the Army

Music, not art, was the focus for Ackerman, William Allen High School, Class of 1951, where he was student director of the marching band directed by the legendary Albertus E. Meyers. Ackerman played E-flat clarinet. "It is almost like a flute. So, I could play my own little solos as we were marching along."

While an 11th grader at Allen, Ackerman played tenor sax in the Bud Rader Band, a 16-piece big band. One of the other popular area big bands at the time was the Matt Gillespie Band.

"I worked in nightclubs for two years after high school. Because my whole life was music."

Ackerman played six nights a week at Tallman's cafe, Ninth and Hamilton streets, across from Hess's department store. "Standing room only. It was mobbed." He also went on the road with the house band, The Tallmanaires.

In 1953, Ackerman was drafted. "I was shipped to Georgia, which I found frightening. You know, I'd rather go to New Jersey." Ackerman trained in the Army Signal Corps, "throwing hand grenades and all that."

After arriving on base, he was asked to report to headquarters. "They had a saxophone and a clarinet. And I could play them both. Sometimes, you can't depend on the reeds. It turned out that God must have prepared the reeds."

Ackerman was told, "You're in a show tonight."

They knew I could improvise. I didn't need music." It was Ackerman on sax and musicians on trumpet, guitar, piano and drums. "I didn't even have all my hair. I had just got it cut. My uniform wasn't fitting right. I was only in the Army a few days."

Soon, Ackerman was in Special Services, playing in a Dixieland Band, entertaining the troops, and winning an All-Army Show.

Ackerman and Rose Ercolani had been engaged. They got married. She moved to Georgia where he served 1953-'55.

After the Army, "I didn't want to play in nightclubs anymore. I wanted to find another life.

"As a kid, I went to the Baum School. I had been a shop boy in high school." Ackerman was encouraged to go to college. "How would a guy who took open-book spelling contests could go to college?"

"I made up my mind I would get through in three years. I just loved the art education department. Some semesters, I didn't even have time to eat. I dedicated myself to that."

He received a BS in Arts Education from Kutztown University and it was off to then rural Southern Lehigh as a circuit-riding art teacher 1958-'62.

At Moravian

A Ford Foundation grant facilitated Ackerman's receiving a Masters in Arts Education from Temple University. "That opened the door to teach at college."

He became a professor of art at Moravian College. "There weren't any others in the department, except me. I said this will be a large department in many years."

"I came in as chair. I taught every course: metal-smithing, painting, sculpture, ceramics, drawing. Each one of those became a course with a teacher."

"All of this took place in the same room [now Payne Gallery]. It became a marvelous studio."

Moravian's Priscilla Payne Hurt Campus, Main and Church streets, was expanded, with historic buildings restored and new facilities built for art and music education, as well as Foy Concert Hall.

Ackerman chaired Moravian's art department 1963-2002, continuing as a part-time art instructor until 2006. He estimates 700 on the Moravian College art department alumni list during his tenure there.

"When I went there, they asked me if I was going to go for a doctorate." His dissertation topic was art student education, motivation and evaluation. "I had never used a computer before. And in those days, you had to punch cards. There may have been thousands of them."

Ackerman received a doctorate in education from The Pennsylvania State University.

While at Moravian, Ackerman led the stage band, The Brethren.

He also developed the Moravian Jan Term (January Term) semester abroad, with he and his wife, Rose, annually leading student groups to Europe for research and instruction.

The Baum years

Ackerman was asked to become director of the Baum School of Art. He spoke with Dr. James J. Heller, then Moravian dean. "He saw the value ... in the benefits of being connected."

"What became the benefit [was] I was able to create a large faculty at both schools. It also attracted students both ways. It had tremendous benefits."

"It also had wonderful benefits for both, financially." Priscilla Payne Hurd, Lenny Fowler, plus the major corporations, like Air Products, provided funding for both institutions.

When Ackerman became executive director of Baum in 1965, the school was at the southwest corner of 12th and Walnut streets, Allentown. Space was limited.

"Bernie Berman [then Hess's owner and an arts benefactor] came up with the idea: 'The museum is building an addition. Why don't you join us and be in the lower level of the museum?'"

A fund drive raised $75,000 and the Baum School relocated to the Allentown Art Museum, Fifth and Court streets, Allentown, 1976-'87.

"That's when I started talking with Donald Miller [Morning Call publisher], who donated a parking lot on the southwest corner of Fifth and Linden streets, Allentown. Funding totaled $750,000. The Baum Art School facility, since added onto in 2001, was built."

Ackerman retired as Baum executive director in 2005, to become director of exhibitions and collections.

"Living The Dream"

The book, "Living The Dream," written by Ackerman and edited by Tim Higgins, is expected to be available for order at the Baum benefit. The 85-page publication will include 30 photographs relating to the Baum School. Book sales proceeds go to the school. "I derive nothing, but innumerable amounts of fame. It's a personal story."

The exhibition, "Full Circle: Rudy S. Ackerman, A Retrospective," with 50 prints and sculpture, continues through Oct. 18, The David E. Rodale and Rodale Family Galleries, The Baum School of Art, 510 Linden St., Allentown. Gallery hours are 9 a.m. - 9 p.m. Wednesday, Thursday; 9 a.m. - 3 p.m. Friday, and 9 a.m. - 3 p.m. Saturday.

"The art grew out of the music. I started out by doing landscapes. I needed something more. I just didn't feel it's where I wanted to go."

Ackerman was influenced by Pennsylvania Impressionist painters, including Walter Baum, fabled founder of the Baum School with whom he studied, and Jackson Pollock, the art world wild man of splattered paint canvases.

"I got caught between the two. I've been able to sell a lot of work. But I didn't have to do it for a living. I was able to do what I wanted to do. That's the marvelous part."

"I could be sitting in a village in Italy I was so intrigued that I started doing sketches. It's a matter of experimentation. If the experimentation isn't there, I don't enjoy it. That's why the metal has been so much fun. There is the influence of Harry Bertoia, who I knew and loved."

"The work that's in the Baum School now were mostly done in Italy. We traveled abroad. We took students [to] Greece, Italy, Egypt, France, German, Austria, England, Holland, Spain."

"We had a wonderful time, in Rome and Venice, with Rose's ideas of fashion. We had an apartment in Florence. I worked in a studio there and Rose worked in fashion."

"We've been very fortunate."

The Ackemans have a daughter, Sally King, a Philadelphia lawyer, who has two children, Matthew, a McGill University student, and Maria, an 11th grade student, and a daughter, Ann Lalik, Director, Ronald K. DeLong Gallery, Pennsylvania State University Lehigh Valley, who has two sons, Alex, and Nick, both Temple University graduates.

The list of Ackerman's accolades and accomplishments is too long to be encapsulated in any one tribute, but suffice it to say it spans the Lehigh Valley and beyond.

In 2004, the Allentown Arts Commission chose Ackerman as recipient of its Overall Arts Ovation Award.

Ackerman and his wife, Rose, Baum director of development 2004-'11 and previously director of special operations and events there, were honored for five decades of commitment to teaching art, especially to disadvantaged children; for transforming the Baum School of Art from an educational center into an arts incubator; and for improving academics, business and architecture in Allentown.

Even Ackerman's first name has roots in music roots. It's not a nickname for Rudolph.

"My father, Harvey, a sax player, liked the sax player, Rudy Wiedoff. My mother, Alma, loved Rudolph Valentino. My father said he would not live in a house with a Rudolph. It [the name Rudy] was a little strange for that time because in the 1930s, people didn't do that. Dad worked for the city in engineering. And he was a fine musician."

"There's generations [of Ackemans] who were in the Pioneer Band, including me."

A glowing musical: John Tartaglia's "ImaginOcean," billed as a glow-in-the-dark family musical, will be presented for two performances, 1, 4 p.m. Oct. 19, Miller Symphony Hall, 23 N. Sixth St., Allentown. Said to be a one-of-a-kind live black-light puppet show, "ImaginOcean," is a musical for families and children. In the play, Tank, Bubbles and Dorsel are three best friends who are fish. Their journey of discovery starts with a treasure map. As they swim off in search of clues, they sing, dance and make new friends, including those in the audience. The book is by Tartaglia. The music, ranging from swing to R&B, is by William Wade. The show uses black-light sets and lighting and puppets with fabric, giving the illusion that the puppets are floating. The musical, which began off-Broadway, is on a national tour. Ode to a juicy peach

I'm sitting here in ecstasy.

I'm eating a ripe peach. It's so deliciously ripe that juice dribbles down my chin. Every bite confirms my taste buds are being treated to an extraordinary experience.

You may be sitting there thinking, come on! It's just a peach.

No, it's not "just a peach." It's a perfectly ripe peach. There's a perfect stage somewhere between ripe and overly ripe when taste is at its zenith.

Believe it or not, it's been years since I had this experience.

I live here in Florida where I can go into my backyard and pick an orange off a tree. Before it died, the same was true of my grapefruit tree.

But beyond citrus, ripe fruit doesn't have the same meaning as it does in good old Pennsylvania.

Our supermarkets offer hard fruit. I'm told I need to bring it home and let it sit out for a few days. Then it will be ready to eat.

When I let peaches sit out, they go from their hard as stone stage to shriveled and dried. There never comes a time when they are delightfully juicy and flavorful.

OK, I ruled out supermarket fruit and traveled 35 minutes to our premiere fresh produce stand.

Once again, the peaches were as hard as tennis balls. I went up to the clerk and asked if she had any ripe fruit. She told me the same old story: Take the peaches home and let them ripen.

She explained the fruit they carry in their "fresh produce" specialty store is shipped in from other states. They have to pick it green, she said, or fruit will bruise in transport and no one will want it.

If ever I miss Pennsylvania, it's a time like that.

A trip to a farmers market was always a pleasure for me. Fruit was always tree-ripened and produce was so inexpensive I could afford to buy it by the bushel basket.

In late summer I always bought green peppers, tomatoes and peaches by the basket.

My absolutely favorite produce place was Thomas Merkle's little farm in Mahoning Valley. Every time I went there I filled the back of my SUV with his glorious offerings.

Thomas, please know I miss you. I miss your three kinds of fresh basil, miniature eggplant and ripe fruit fresh from your orchard.

Here in Florida, I keep stopping at several so-called farmers markets and roadside fruit stands. It's always the same story. The fruit is hard and when you get it home, it's tasteless.

In my quest to find juicy fresh fruit, I stopped at a fresh produce stand in another town. I told the clerk I would pay anything for fruit that was really ripe.

I think she took pity on me because she left the busy

WARMEST REGARDS

By Pattie Mihalik
newsgrl@comcast.net

cashier's line and took me to her private stash where spotty or bruised fruit was tucked away. It was there that I found ripe peaches and overly ripe cantaloupe. At home, I cut away the spotty parts and finally feasted on ripe fruit.

I know you don't have to go through that when you want perfect fruit. If you have a farmers market near you, think of me when you can buy any variety of truly fresh produce.

Just this morning, my daughter who is "into fresh, natural foods," forwarded an email to me called "seven effective food strategies."

This is one of the rules: "Buy fresh and local."

The fresher produce is, the more nutrients it has. By buying locally, you'll minimize the amount of time wasted between harvest and consumption and optimize the nutritional value for your body. The produce is fresher and usually has not been subjected to irradiation (getting zapped by radiation to kill germs), wax coatings or prolonged refrigeration.

I agree with that, but finding it isn't all that easy here in southwest Florida.

OK, as long as I'm saluting simple pleasures I miss, I have to add tomatoes loaded with flavor. We don't have tasty tomatoes here in my part of Florida, at least not in my estimation. A few people tell me it is possible to find great tomatoes here.

I've tried. I think what I miss is being able to have a ripe tomato fresh from the garden. Warmed by the sun, a garden tomato even has a special smell all its own. All you need for bliss, in my estimation, is a garden tomato and a sprinkle of salt.

In desperation, I've tried growing my own tomatoes. Our hot climate is fabulous for my favorite outdoor activities. But it's not very conducive to growing tomatoes.

I went to one of those free seminars where they told us how to grow our own tomatoes. I wrote down every recommendation for variety, soil composition and best growing techniques then I bought everything the expert suggested.

My husband and I planted the tomato plants with high hopes. The next day, there was nothing left to our plants. Some animal ate the plants right down to the ground. We don't have deer in this neck of the woods so I'm guessing a raccoon. Whatever it was, it ended my hopes of good garden tomatoes.

Every night before I fall asleep I say thank you for large and small blessings of the day.

Tonight, my thank you prayer will be for one perfect, juicy peach.

GERD may require long-term therapy

Q. Do you get more heartburn when you are older?

More than 60 million Americans experience heartburn at least once a month. More than 15 million Americans experience heartburn daily. Heartburn is more common among the elderly.

Heartburn two or more times weekly may be caused by gastroesophageal reflux disease (GERD). See a doctor if you have heartburn too often. The doctor can test for GERD.

In the upper GI series, you swallow a liquid barium mixture. Then a radiologist watches the barium as it travels down your esophagus and into the stomach. Another test is an endoscopy, in which a small lighted flexible tube is inserted into the esophagus and stomach. There are other tests.

GERD makes stomach acid flow up into your esophagus. There is a valve at the lower end of the esophagus

HEALTHY GEEZER

By Fred Cicetti
fred@healthygeez.com

that is designed to keep acid in the stomach. In GERD, the valve relaxes too frequently, which allows acid to reflux, or flow backward.

A hiatal hernia may contribute to GERD. A hiatal hernia occurs when the upper part of the stomach is above the diaphragm, which is the muscle wall separating the stomach from the chest. The diaphragm helps the valve keep acid from coming up into the esophagus.

When GERD is not treated, you can suffer from severe chest pain, narrowing or obstruction of the esophagus, bleeding, or a pre-malignant change in the lining of the esophagus. One study showed that patients with chronic, untreated heartburn were at substantially greater risk of developing esophageal cancer.

The following are some symptoms that may mean there has been damage to your esophagus: difficulty swallowing, a feeling that food is trapped behind the breast bone, bleeding, black bowel movements, choking, shortness of breath, coughing, hoarseness and weight loss.

You can control infrequent heartburn by changing your habits and using over-the-counter medicines.

Avoid heartburn-producers such as chocolate, coffee, peppermint, tomato products, alcoholic beverages and greasy or spicy dishes. Quit smoking because tobacco inhibits saliva that helps with digestion. Tobacco may also stimulate acid production and relax the esophageal valve. Lose weight. And, don't eat two hours before you go to sleep.

For infrequent episodes of heartburn, take over-the-counter antacids, such as Alka-Seltzer and Rolaids. Or, you can take an H2 blocker. H2 blockers are available in both over-the-counter and prescription forms. For example, Pepcid and Zantac are over-the-counter H2 blockers which are available by prescription at higher doses.

There are proton pump inhibitors (PPIs), a group of prescription medications that prevent the release of acid in the stomach and intestines. Doctors prescribe PPIs to treat people with heartburn, ulcers of the stomach or intestine, or excess stomach acid. PPIs include Prilosec and Prevacid.

GERD is a chronic disease that calls for continuous long-term therapy. To decrease the acid in your esophagus, raise the head of your bed or place a foam wedge under the mattress to elevate the head about 6-10 inches. Avoid lying down for two hours after eating. And don't wear tight clothing.

Prescription medications to treat GERD include the H2 blockers and the PPIs, which help to reduce the stomach acid and work to promote healing at prescription strength. In addition, there are agents that help clear acid from the esophagus.

Surgery is an option if other measures fail. A surgeon can improve the natural barrier between the stomach and the esophagus that prevents acid reflux.

Civic announces 'Carol' auditions

Auditions for Civic Theatre of Allentown's 25th anniversary production of "A Christmas Carol" will be held Oct. 18, 20 and 21 at Civic's 19th Street Theatre, 527 N. 19th St., Allentown.

"A Christmas Carol" will be presented Dec. 5-20, with student matinees Dec. 9, 10, 16 at Civic's Nineteenth Street Theatre.

"A Christmas Carol," based on the novella by Charles Dickens, will be directed by Civic Artistic Director William Sanders, who adapted the script with Sharon Lee Glassman.

Auditions are:

Noon Oct. 18: children in Grades 1 - 4; 2:30 p.m. Oct. 18: children grades 5 and up; 7 p.m. Oct. 20: young adults and teenagers 16 and up, and 7 p.m. Oct. 21: adults. Teenagers who want to audition for the role of an adult should attend the Oct. 21 adult audition.

Adults will be asked to do a cold reading from the script.

Children auditioning do not need to prepare anything specific although they may be asked to sing 8 - 16 bars, a cappella, of a Christmas song. If interested in a lead role, they will be asked to do a cold reading from the script.

Young actors and adults asked to bring the following to the open call: a recent picture, which does not have to be a professional headshot, but should clearly show the face, and a list of schedule conflicts from auditions to closing night, Dec. 20.

Rehearsals, beginning in October, are weekday evenings and Sundays. The dates and times that actors are called for rehearsal vary depending on the size of the role.

Children in ensemble roles (Urchins and Party Kids) will be double cast, and therefore called for fewer rehearsals. Most children will be called to 16 rehearsals or less.

The weeks leading up to the performances will require the most rehearsals. No rehearsals will be held around the Thanksgiving holiday, Nov. 26 - 29.

The thrill not 'Gone' with 'Girl'

"Gone Girl" is one of the best suspense thrillers in decades. It has thrills, chills, plot twists and turns. At times, it's terrifying.

It's a real nail-biter (Believe me, I know I did.). There are several reasons why you should see "Gone Girl."

First, of all, it's very entertaining. Second, the actors are excellent. Third, the direction is superb.

Finally, because there should be several Oscar nominations, "Gone Girl" should be on your must-see list.

"Gone Girl" is one of the smartest, slickest, popcorn films since "Basic Instinct" (1992, Michael Douglas, Sharon Stone), "Sleeping With The Enemy" (1991, Julia Roberts) and "Fatal Attraction" (1987, Michael Douglas, Glenn Close). "Gone Girl" is in the tradition of director Alfred Hitchcock's psychological thrillers.

Gillian Flynn, former television critic for Entertainment Weekly magazine, adapted her first-time novel, "Gone Girl," which sold some 6 million copies, and wrote the "Gone Girl" screenplay. Flynn succeeds where many first-time screenwriters might fail.

Flynn doesn't fall in love with her material, yet retains staccato-cadence dialogue that will make your ears spin, while keeping the story moving forward. She may be the only person who could keep the complex plot straight.

The brilliance of "Gone Girl" must, of course, also be credited to director David Fincher ("The Girl With The Dragon Tattoo," 2011; "The Social Network," 2010; "The Curious Case Of Benjamin Button," 2008; "Panic Room," 2002; "Fight Club," 1999; "Se7en," 1995).

Fincher's meticulous style leaves no clue

MOVIE REVIEW

By Paul Willistein

1998; "Argo," 2013) gives an unaffected, seamless performance. Look for an actor Oscar nomination for Affleck.

Pike ("The World's End," 2013; "Jack Reacher," 2012; "Surrogates," 2009; "Pride And Prejudice," 2005) is amazing, showing a range of characterizations as to be almost unrecognizable. Look for an actress Oscar nomination for Pike.

The solid supporting cast includes Neil Patrick Harris (Desi, Amy's former boyfriend), Tyler Perry (Tanner Bolt, a defense attorney), Carrie Coon (Margo, Nick's sister), Kim Dickens (Rhonda Boney, a detective), Patrick Fugit (Officer Jim Gilpin), David Clennon (Amy's father), Lisa Banes (Amy's mother), Emily Ratajkowski (Nick's student), Missi Pyle (television personality) and Sela Ward (television personality).

"Gone Girl" should garner an adapted screenplay nomination for Flynn and a director nomination for Fincher. Trent Reznor and Atticus Ross should score Oscar nominations for the movie's score.

You will find lots of sheer entertainment in "Gone Girl."

"Gone Girl," MPAARated R (Restricted. Children Under 17 Require Accompanying Parent or Adult Guardian.) for a scene of bloody violence, some strong sexual content-nudity, and language; Genre: Drama, Mystery, Thriller; Run time: 2 hrs., 29 min.; Distributed by Twentieth Century Fox Film Corp.

Credit Readers Anonymous: "Gone Girl" was filmed on location in Missouri, Illinois, Los Angeles (sound stages) and New York City.

turned. He's ruthless in his portrayal of the main characters, who are so unlikeable as to be off-putting. Yet Fincher manages to get us to at least give them the benefit of the doubt.

In "Gone Girl," Nick Dunne (Ben Affleck), a community college professor, becomes a murder suspect and center of a media circus when his wife Amy (Rosamund Pike), author of the popular "Amazing Amy" children's book series, disappears on their fifth wedding anniversary.

The police net is closing in on Nick as his and Amy's suburban picture-window perfect marriage begin to shatter.

Details of Amy's diary provides flashbacks juxtaposed with images of the Nick and Amy scandal splashed across cable news, creating a social media frenzy.

The dialogue is often raw, and bitterly funny. When they meet, Amy, the "cool girl," says to Nick, "I prefer men who are funny, not funny."

Years later, Nick says to his wife, "Yes, I loved you and then all we did was resent each other; try to control each other. We caused each other pain."

To which, Amy responds, "That's marriage."

While "Gone Girl" is on surface a "whodunnit," and there will be no spoilers here, at its core it's a brutal examination of personal politics centered on the marriage of Nick and Amy.

Affleck (Oscar recipient, "Good Will Hunting,"

Affleck and Rosamund Pike's twisted marital bliss continued to fascinate movie-goers, No. 1 two weeks in a row with $28.8 million, $78.2 million, two weeks, taking a bite out of "Dracula Untold," opening at No. 2, with $23.4 million, and keeping "Alexander And The Terrible, Horrible, No Good, Very Bad Day," starring Steve Carell, as well as Ben Affleck's wife, Jennifer Garner, opening at No. 3, with $19.1 million;

4. "Annabelle," $16.3 million, $62.1 million, two weeks; 5. "The Judge," $13.3 million, opening; 6. "The Equalizer," $9.7 million, $79.8 million, three weeks; 7. "Addicted," $7.6 million, opening; 8. "The Maze Runner," $7.5 million, $83.8 million, four weeks; 9. "The Boxtrolls," $6.6 million, $41 million, three weeks; 10. "Left Behind," $2.9 million, $10.9 million, two weeks; Unreel, Oct. 17:

"Fury," R: Brad Pitt stars in what should be an Oscar-nominated role as a World War II soldier commanding a Sherman tank behind enemy lines. Shia LaBeouf, Logan Lerman and Michael Pena co-star in the war drama.

"The Best Of Me," PG-13: Two high school sweethearts reunite after many years when they visit their hometown. James Marsden and Michelle Monaghan star in the romantic drama.

"The Book Of Life," PG: The animated film about a young man on an adventure features the voice talent of Zoe Saldana, Channing Tatum, Ice Cube, Christina Applegate and Ron Perlman.

"Birdman Or (The Unexpected Virtue Of Ignorance)," R: Michael Keaton stars in what may be an Oscar-nominated role as a washed-up actor who is in a Broadway play. The comedy-drama co-stars Zach Galifianakis, Edward Norton Emma Stone, Naomi Watts, Amy Ryan and Andrea Riseborough. Read Paul Willistein's movie reviews at the Lehigh Valley Press web site, thelehighvalleypress.com; the Times-News web site, tnonline.com; and hear them on "Lehigh

Blessing of the Pets

PRESS PHOTOS BY TINAMARIE MARTIN
The Rev. Martha S. Sipe, Pastor at St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Fullerton, gives a treat and a blessing to Cheyenne Mitchell's dog, Navaeh, during the Blessing of the Pets Sept. 27. Sipe read from Psalm 35 and offered personal prayers and blessings for all types of animals.

Steve and Terrie Landis of Catasaquua bring their dog Gabbie for a blessing and personal prayer. "Gabbie was found wondering the streets in Ohio, she was then rescued by Sun Rays Pitt Bull Rescue in Easton," said Terri Landis. "Gabbie is now part of our family."

PUBLIC NOTICE
Notice is hereby given that the Macungie Borough Council will hold a public hearing on November 3, 2014 at 7:30 p.m. and consider for possible adoption and may adopt an Ordinance, of which this notice is a summary, to be added to Chapter 313 of the Macungie Borough Code of Ordinances, establishing and adopting a Local Services Tax that will authorize the collection and manner of collection of a Local Services Tax in the amount of Fifty-Two Dollars ($52.00) annually for the purpose of providing revenue for emergency services, road maintenance and construction and reductions and relief to property taxes. The Local Services Tax Ordinance provides for exemptions to said tax and establishes penalties for violations in accordance with Pennsylvania Law. The Local Services Tax will be levied on each adult resident and nonresident employed and/or engaged in an occupation within the Borough. The total revenue from the tax is unknown at this time. The Local Services Tax will replace and the Ordinance will repeal the Occupational Privilege Tax within the Borough. The title of the Ordinance is as follows:
An Ordinance of the Macungie Borough Council, Lehigh County, Pennsylvania, adopting by Ordinance a Local Services Tax to be added to Chapter 313 of the Macungie Borough Code of Ordinances, replacing and repealing the Occupational Privilege Tax and authorizing the collection of the Local Services Tax and providing for exemptions to said tax in accordance with Pennsylvania State Law.
The Council will hold the public hearing to consider the Ordinance and thereafter may adopt the Ordinance at its meeting on November 3, 2014 at 7:30 p.m. at the Macungie Institute Auditorium, 510 E. Main Street, Macungie, Pennsylvania. Copies of the full text of the ordinance are available at the Borough office, the Lehigh County Solicitor's Office, and the office of this newspaper during normal business hours. All interested parties are invited to attend.
